Students at Martha Berry college in Georgia may dance only waltzes and quadrilles; have dates of only an hour and a half duration on Sunday, may not have radios in their rooms nor enter into competitive athletics with other colleges. Now that's what we'd call decidedly out-Hopeing Hope.

All of which makes us believe that there still are some colleges old-fashioned enough to think students come to study.

The absent-minded professor we should like to meet is the fellow who would lecture to his steak and cut his classes.

It is generally understood that the Supreme court AAA decision didn't have any bearing on the NYA students who put in their time counting sheep.

"Conversation Party Is Talk of Campus"—Headline. Which is almost as bad as the wheeze, "Have you read 'Finis'? It's the last work in books."

The Conversation Party seems, however, to have pinned back the campus ear—all the Dutch, particularly, will testify that it was a powerhouse. And, as you've heard before, "Talk is cheap."

Visscher, Van Lente, Piet, Vander Meulen, and Vander Werf have been delegated to the collegiate, "Who's who". Imagine, a man named Piet chosen as a who's who on Hope's campus! John, you'll have to change to Van Piet or Piet Van, or get a "V" in somehow. Why, a man without a "V" in his name chosen among the Hope elite! Impossible, an outrage, atrocious! Johnny must feel like a Jew in Hitler's bathtub among all those "V's".

Another use for a current expression (courtesy Dimmy):

New Dealism
Upton Sinclairism
Townsendism
Share-the-Wealthism

For the sake of argument we offer:

Conservatism
Republicanism
Alf Landonism
Constitutionalism
Knoxism
Protestism
Old Dealism
Talmadgeism
Smithism

And Dr. Dimment is able to turn the present weather into good account. There's no doubt about it, thinks Dr. Dimment, this is Democratic weather. Just another New Deal project.

"Pa. Democrats for Roosevelt!"—Headline in Chitrib—That may be, but if the prices of bread, butter, and eggs keep up their ascent into the stratosphere there won't be many ma Democrats for Roosevelt.

This column has finally submitted to popular dictum and purchased a pair of ear-muffs. It's not so much that we're afraid of freezing the pinnae, but watch us slap on the muffs when the professors begin telling us our examination marks—or some poor undergrad about his recent engagement.

Toast heard at a Hope sorority banquet: "Here's to the land we love, and vice versa".

Your columnist offers Olivet as a college which puts the "liberal" into "liberal arts".

FIVE SELECTED FOR INCLUSION IN "WHO'S WHO"

Visscher, Vander Werf, Piet, Van Lente, Vander Meulen Represent Hope

FACULTY CHOOSES

Miss Angelyn Van Lente, Miss Helena Visscher, John Vander Meulen, Jr., Calvin Vander Werf, and John Piet have been selected by Dr. Wichers, Mrs. W. Durfee, and Dr. J. B. Nykerk to represent Hope college in the "College Who's Who" of this year.

These young men and women were chosen from a group of ten students who were recommended by the Hope college student council. The entire list of candidates included Ekdal Buys, Calvin Vander Werf, Miss Angelyn Van Lente, John Vander Meulen, Jr., Miss Vera Damstra, John Piet, Miss Helena Visscher, Miss Kathleen Donahue, William Poppink and William Welmers.

Recognition was awarded to these juniors and seniors because of outstanding character, leadership and scholarship. The final decision which brought laurels to five of these people was made by the president of the college, the dean of women and the dean of men.

The "Who's Who" is published by the University of Alabama, and the first issue of this novel book was placed on sale last May. The second issue has been scheduled to appear in May, 1936.

Three hundred colleges have been given the opportunity to have names listed in it. Each college has been granted permission to place one per cent of their total enrollment in the guide.

All names which are to be entered have to be in by the first of February. Under each name a short biography is to be given of the student. The purpose of the "Who's Who" is to serve as an inspiration to young men and women of college, and to assist employers in the selection of employees.

HINKAMP PRESENTS BOOKS

"Messages and Papers of the Presidents" is the title of a set of books comprising eleven volumes recently presented to the college library by Prof. Paul E. Hinkamp. The set is illustrated with portraits of the presidents. History and government students are pleased with the acquisition of this useful gift.

M. I. A. A. EDITORS MEET

M. I. A. A. editors met at Olivet college Friday, January 17, for the first meeting of the Michigan Intercollegiate Association of College Editors, recently organized by William O. Uranek, Olivet Echo editor. Publisher Frank Sparks of the Grand Rapids Herald was the principal speaker at the opening session following which the editors held a private discussion relative to making the college newspaper a more effective agency in the moulding of the intellectual attitudes of the campus.

Notier, Vander Werf Address Bio-Clubbers

Pre-medic Victor Notier took a wide look at a broad subject and then plunged into an extensive discussion of "The History of Man and the Microbe" for the benefit of less clear sighted members of the Biology club (in regular meeting assembled). Jenner, Pasteur, anthrox, diphtheria—all passed in their classical significance and in distinguished contrast to the arm-chair and fire-side scientists who have inevitably followed.

Medic Vic was followed on the program by his colleague of the distilling tubes, Calvin Vander Werf, who refluxed carefully for the remainder of the meeting over the "Organ of Ray Therapy". Cal pointed out that the Nobel prize has gone to each of the original investigators of the ultra-violet, X, and radium rays, and that this year a fourth worker in this interesting field has been so honored. The therapeutic value of each type of ray was stressed. Discussions followed each paper.

Blue Key Book Store Opens with New Term

Blue Key book store opened the first day of the new semester, February 3, in the basement of Graves hall.

Books will be bought by the store if they are accompanied by duplicate cards stating the name of the seller, the name and author of the book, and how much the book is worth.

All second-hand books available will be secured for the students.

Business hours are the second and third hours in the morning and from 1 o'clock until 2:30 in the afternoon.

New York Times Makes Case Study Of The Typical 1936 Undergraduate

Now that exams are over, with all the cramming that accompanies them, it might be profitable to find out why this last minute activity is necessary. In other words, why we don't study when we should, and just what we do when we should be studying?

The answer probably can be best determined by each student for himself. But to get a more general survey, let us look at the investigation of undergraduate activities as given in a recent issue of the New York Times Magazine. The startling fact is that the average student spends six hours a day in leisure pursuits, or forty-two hours a week! The play activities that take the most time were found to be loafing, "bull sessions", radio-listening, drinking, and car driving. Of course, since this investigation was made at a large university, all the results may not tally with the leisure hours spent by Hope students.

Are You Guilty?

But let us look farther. If you go over all the activities that a student engaged in during the week before, the chances are that he would be as much surprised as you to see what he did or didn't do with his leisure time. Almost one hour every day is spent with no physical or mental enterprise. He may wander around the house, catch up on sleep, or get into one of those old-fashioned "bull-sessions" in which everything is discussed from instructors to "life". In this way are spent more than five hours a week by the average student. Three and a half hours a week go into listening to particular radio (Continued on page 4, column 4)

Conversation Party Is Talk of Campus

Mrs. Durfee, Voorhees Girls Give 55 Fellows "Good Evening Well Spent"

"Mrs. Durfee and the girls of Voorhees Hall invite you to attend a Conversation Party in Voorhees Hall on Friday, January thirty-first, at eight o'clock."

Fifty-five baffled lads received this announcement in the mail last week, accompanied by no name whatsoever. At eight Friday night they poured into the dormitory, each looking about expectantly for a handsome maiden to leap over and snatch him. This, however, did not happen immediately; chairs were set for the "Conversation" game, during which everyone talked with everyone else, and then other games were played.

"Who's the Reason?"

By the time the hour had arrived to stream into the dining room for food, many of the fellows had met their dates (or fates); but some, even after the last game had been played and the final song had been sung, were still querying, "Who's responsible for my being here?"

Upon entering the dormitory, each guest was accosted by the friendly dean of women, together with an eager group of coeds whose sole aim in life seemed to be telling him that he should put his coat in the guest room, which is on the first floor of the building.

Chemistry Club Hears Vander Werf, De Witt

The monthly meeting of the Chemistry club was held on January 15. Papers were delivered by Calvin Vander Werf and Bernard De Witt.

The title of Mr. Vander Werf's paper was "Chemistry and Metabolism of the Brain." It was an interesting discussion of the chemical reactions which take place in the human brain, and of the compounds which make up the various parts of the brain. De Witt wrote on "Chemistry of Ammonia." This thesis was a survey of the organic and inorganic chemistry of ammonia and its commercial and practical applications.

Fraters, Knicks, Tied For Lead

As a result of last Monday's play the Knicks and Fraters are tied for the lead with three victories and one defeat apiece.

In the first game the Frosh "B" team had little difficulty in tripping the Emersonians 35-8. Rusticus for the Frosh and Faber for the Emersonians were high men with 7 and 4 points respectively.

The Fraters and Independents engaged in a rough and tumble affair with the Fraters on the long end of a 26-17 count. Papegaay and Douma were outstanding for their teams.

In the final game the Knicks trampled the Addisons 38-10 with Van Ark leading the way with 14 counters. "Iron Man" Rusticus led the Addisons with six points.

POSTPONE CONCERT

Because of the inclement weather, the Snow Memorial concert, scheduled for tomorrow evening, has been postponed. No new date has been announced.

ANENT THE SIZE

Beginning with the next issue, the Anchor will appear in an enlarged sheet size. The increase in length will not be attributable to a perverted sense of proportions on the part of the editor. We appreciate that the old size may have been more attractive and less unwieldy, but we believe that the advantage of increased space preponderates these objections, especially inasmuch as the increase in cost incurred by the change is negligible.

Women Debaters Prepare for Contests at Calvin

The women's debate squad is busily engaged in preparation for the round robin tournament to be held at Calvin college February 7. The colleges participating are Western State, Grand Rapids Junior, Calvin and Hope. This meet is to be similar to the men's tournament recently held at Hope college.

Two rounds of debates are scheduled for the afternoon, and, after a dinner at the girls' dorm, another round is planned for the evening. The Hope teams who will debate are the affirmative teams of Vera Damstra and Alma Nyland, Renetta Shackson and Irene Williams; and the negative teams of Ruth Fisher and Lois Vander Meulen, Anne Dethmers, Mildred Kirkwood. Coach De Graff will accompany the team.

On Thursday night, January 30, the affirmative team from Michigan State debated Hope's negative duo of Ruth Fisher and Lois Vander Meulen. It was a non-decision debate and was held in the Delphi room.

Pres., Dean to Attend Alumni Group Meetings

President Wynand Wichers and Dean of Men John B. Nykerk will leave this week-end for New York state where they will be honored guests at three meetings of alumni chapters of that state.

Their itinerary includes attending the annual session of the New York City alumni chapter Feb. 11, the Albany chapter, which meets at Schenectady, Feb. 13, and the Rochester chapter, Feb. 14. Alfred Scholten, the Reverend William A. Heydorn and M. Leenhouts are presidents of the New York City, Albany, and Rochester chapters, respectively.

Frosh-Soph Contest Postponed for Month

Because of exams the Nykerk Contest which is to be presented by the freshman and sophomore "feminines" has been postponed from February 10 to a date which has been tentatively scheduled for the latter part of February or the first part of March. On the evening of the contest each class will participate in a program consisting of a one-act play, one musical selection and an oratorical number. Katherine Boon has been chosen to act as chairman of the sophomore class, and Mary Jane Vaupell, of the freshmen. This contest is to be an annual affair.

The winning class is to be given a cup, which will be donated by Dr. J. B. Nykerk. This cup is to be handed down from year to year for the freshmen.

SCHOOLS LABEL DEBATEROUNDS GREAT SUCCESS

Tournament is Planned As Annual Event By Colleges

SOCIETIES HOSTS

Hope college's first round robin debate tournament has been declared a success by the colleges who participated in it. Due to the success of this first venture, it is planned to have this an annual event. On January 24, eight teams from Calvin, Battle Creek, Kalamazoo, and Olivet colleges debated eight teams chosen from the men's squad of Hope.

In the afternoon twelve practice debates were held in Van Raalte hall and in the Memorial chapel. In the evening seven debates were held as a part of the programs for the different literary societies. In this way the entire student body was able to hear the debates. Members of the advance speech classes acted as chairmen.

Because the various teams of the Hope squad had to debate the two best teams of the visiting colleges, it is not surprising that Hope won only three of the seven contests. On account of the icy conditions of the roads and the long distance to travel, Olivet's squad was not able to participate in the evening debates. The question for debate was "Resolved that Congress should be empowered to override by a two-thirds vote decisions of the Supreme Court declaring acts of Congress unconstitutional."

Audience, Coaches Judge

In the Delphi room Hope's negative team of Homer Lokker and Mayo Hadden won an audience decision of 18 to 6 from the Calvin team of Blocksma and Viemstra. Herman Luben and Wendell Miles, the negative team of Hope, lost a judge's decision to the Battle Creek pair of Lee Mallison and Bob Satterlee. The debate was held at the Emersonian House, with the combined group of Emersonians and Addisons as audience, and was judged by Peter Eldersveld of Calvin. Mr. Satterlee recently won the Michigan Extemporaneous Speech contest.

Debating before the Knickerbocker society the Calvin negative team of Lester De Koster and Cotter Herschberg was awarded the judge's decision over the Hope duo of John Vander Meulen and John Van Wyk. Judge Hoben of Kalamazoo declared that this was one of the finest debates he has heard. Hope's negative team of Wilbur Jacobs and James Prins won a unanimous audience decision from the Battle Creek team of James Dawson and John Baker. The combined Alethian and Dorian societies judged this debate.

Kazoo Splits

A Need Is Satisfied

ENTHUSIASM over the success of the "Conversation Party" held at Voorhees hall last week proves that the event has effectively helped to solve the social needs of the student body. The response that was made to the entertainment proved two things: First, that a good part of the students are more than eager to find their entertainment on the campus if possible, and second, that elaborate entertainment is not essential to a genuinely good time. The party at the dormitory was planned on a simple scale, yet the fun was just as keen as could be had at any fraternity or sorority party.

Sincere and heartfelt thanks should be expressed to those responsible for the event, people who had the perspicacity to realize that the studentry of Hope College have

ONLY a legitimate need for social entertainment of a wholesome nature and a genuine right to satisfy that need. It is felt that insofar as wants BEGINNING like this can be supplied by some college activity the college spirit (almost extinct), the accretions of college life (about which there is no little scepticism), and the general mental and moral condition of the students (somewhat faded in spots), would be energized far beyond the expectations of our college pessimists. If further attempts are made in this direction the reaction of the waiting academics will be not at all unlike that of a drop of water falling on a red hot poker.

Anchor Sleuth Unearths Figures

On Costs Of Campus Fraternities

In the previous issue of the Anchor, financial statistics of the various girls' societies were given. Whereupon the Anchor sleuth commenced to busy himself in an attempt to straighten out the financial side of the various men's organizations on the campus. Herewith we announce the results for public perusal.

The Emersonian Literary Society charges $10 per year in dues from its members. The spring party cost each member $2.50; the midyear party, $1.00; Pins, purchase of which is voluntary, are priced from $4.75 to $8.00.

Cosmopolitan dues are $13 per year. Spring party assessments amount to $2.50; Society pins are priced at $14; Purchase is absolutely voluntary; Winter party expenses run to $1.00 per member.

Addison levies dues of $3 per year on its members; Spring party fees amount to $2; Members are taxed $1.00 apiece for fall party expenses; $12 is extracted from members who desire pins to show their allegiance to the organization. Special assessments are levied as the need for them arises.

House dues for members of the Fraternal Society amount to $11 per year. Pins for those who desire them may be had for $8 and up. Winter party assessments amount to $2, and those for the spring banquet $2.50.

The Knickerbocker Society extracts $9.50 per semester from its members. Parties relieve their victims' pockets of from $1.50 to $3. Jewelled pins range up to $18 in price, and are secured by members who desire to invest in them. Outside of the customary institution fee, no special assessments are made.

Dr. Nykerk discoursed on "Sweetness and Light, at Y. W. C. A. on Tuesday, January 21. Among several other worthwhile thoughts, he stated that a true Christian life should radiate sweetness and light. Special music consisted of two vocal selections by George Douma, accompanied by Jeanette Douma. Marian Kuyper was in charge of devotions.

Last evening Y. W. C. A. enjoyed an interesting presentation of hymnology. The sophomores were in charge of the meeting, under the chairmanship of Eunice Sluyter.

Last week's YM meeting was led by Joseph Esther of Western Theological seminary who spoke on "Man's Universal Quest for God". George Ziegler led the song service which preceded the meeting, and Lester Van Tatenhove read Scripture.

Robert Tubbs, Grand Rapids attorney, led this week's meeting. His topic was "The Trial of Jesus from the Legal Point of View".

A large group of Hope students will be sent as a gospel team to Grandville, February 7, 8, and 9.

Mrs. Grace D. Fenton and Miss Sarah Lacey announce a conservatory recital to take place next week in Winants chapel.

CAMPUS COMMENT

we've ever edited.

The raging snow-storm seems to have invoked some dorm brain storms in the form of ski suits to classes. We prefer to let you decide which was worse, the snow-storm or the sartorial aberrations it evoked.

And we sincerely wish Mrs. Durfee would ring the gong after every ten minute conversation on the much abused dorm telephone.

Question—Do fishes perspire?
Miss Ross—What do you think makes water wet?

Professor Winter's a bit belated theory concerning the Baer-Louis fight: Baer was scared because there was too much darkness around.

And the next thing the New Dealers will have to do is to think up something for us to do from the time we graduate from the N.Y.A. until we are old enough for our old age pensions.

"GENIUS BURNS"

The Inquisition—A Sketch

After we had flogged him thoroughly, he still pretended not to know the answer to our question, so we hanged him up by the thumbs and applied a tray of hot coals to his bare feet. This caused him to scream horribly—probably he was trying to make us pity him. Even when the stench from his roasted flash had become quite unbearable, so that we were forced to go away and leave him hanging there, he still insisted that he knew nothing. He even pretended to be in such great pain that he made semblance of fainting occasionally; but we always showed him how little he fooled us by throwing cold water over him. As he still declined to answer the question, which we put to him during the intervals when he stopped screaming or pretending to lose consciousness, we cut him down and hanged him, head downward, by the knees. We would have hanged him by his feet, but unfortunately they seemed to be burned to such an extent that the noose simply slipped off the ends of his legs. He still pretended not to know, and although we tried burning splinters under his fingernails and tied the clamps about his waist, we could bring out no answer and we decided it was of no use to further inconvenience him. Accordingly we left him hanging by the knees that night, with a keen dagger and a lighted candle next his head, so that when he knew that we had gone he might take his own life, for his arms were free, and his hands were unencumbered (save by the burns from the splinters beneath the nails). But, to our surprise, in the morning he was still alive and conscious. We asked him the question once more, and, as no satisfactory answer was forthcoming, I thrust the dagger into his neck and withdrew it quickly, so as not to redden my lace wrist-bands. The rush of blood was remarkably swift, but he had time to babble his thanks for dispatching him. Why he should be grateful to us when he could have done it hours before, himself, I do not understand. No more do I understand why he should pretend not to know the answer to our question.

Charles D. Bertsch, '38.

The enclosed poem was written and composed as a tribute to a dear friend, W. Curtis Snow. Its theme is based on that old Norse belief that beautiful maidens of Odin, the supreme deity in the Norse pantheon, hovered over the field of battle, choosing to be slain and those who were to go to Valhalla, a hall where only heroes of battle and war are received. From its gates, five hundred and forty in number, each morning the warriors go to fight, and at night they return to feast with the gods. The maidens were called Valkyries. Mimir was a giant who dwelt near a spring. Drinking its water, he knows all the past and future.

Tribute to a Friend*

Unloose the chains,
Thrust wide the gates
To Asgard's eery hall.
Now over Bifrost's colored bow
Comes he at some Valkyrie's call.

From battle plucked,
No Mimir's sip
Can him from Odin stay.
Valhalla, send him forth at dawn,
But keep him far from deathly fray.

LETTERS

Appreciation

Dear Ed.

It was at Holland's 1933 "Messiah" performance that President Wichers aptly remarked that just as the snows of winter were regarded as a natural complement to the season, so the Curtis Snows had come to be regarded as an integral part of the artistic life of Holland and Hope college. Then turning to Mr. Snow he said, "No more could we do without the Snows in the artistic than we could do without the snows in the natural sense." And he hoped that the Snows had come to stay.

It was a great moment for Mr. Snow, but in his gracious way he only smiled. I remember that incident very vividly. How little we knew at the time that we should have to miss him so very soon.

Just as the snows of winter beautify and glorify our drab landscapes, so it was Mr. Snow's task to bring beauty into our lives. He came quietly and gently, but, nevertheless, surely. I admired him for his tireless devotion to a noble task; for his quiet sincerity and high-minded aspirations. I admired him for his generous spirit of co-operation and unselfishness, a quality not too common among musicians. I had looked forward to future opportunities of sharing joys with him.

I say these things both as director of music at Calvin and as member of the board of directors of the Grand Rapids Symphony Orchestra. We shall miss his eagerness to contribute to cooperate.

HOPE DEFEATS KAZOO QUINTET IN LEAGUE TILT

Three Overtimes Required Before Hope Attack Functions

SQUAD CRIPPLED

In one of the most thrilling games the M. I. A. A. race has ever witnessed, Hope took Kalamazoo's measure in three hotly contested overtime periods to the tune of 52-43. Hope rang up 11 points in the third overtime to snow under Coach Barnard's charges.

Last year Kazoo held Hope to one overtime period. This year the Hornets seemed more determined than ever to win. At one time during the second half, trailing by 14 points they gradually drew up to knot the score at 37-37 all. Hope escaped defeat at this point when Survilla missed a basket on a sleeper play which would have meant the game.

Van Zanden, Survilla Scrap

The game was featured by the individual battle staged between Teed Van Zanden and Wally Survilla. Time and again both men showed sparkling performances. Teed should have left the game when he drew up with a bad case of charley-horse at the close of the regulation game. He played along until the third overtime with only nerve keeping him going.

Poppink and Thomas were the scoring aces for Hope. Poppink collected 18 points while Thomas got 12.

Hope was very noticeably weak in the foul-shooting department while Kazoo excelled in this and stepped out in front several times because of their superior foul-shooting ability.

At the end of the first half it looked as if Hope would have an easy time of it. As a whole the first half was a duel affair and Hope left the floor leading 25-11.

The second half was a different story. Kazoo led by Wally Survilla and Koestner tied the score and whittled down Hope's 14-point lead to 0.

Good Ball Features Overtimes

The overtime periods, especially the first and second, were marked by the very finest brand of basketball. Time and again both teams drew out in front only to lose the lead. In the final overtime it was all Hope. Poppink, Vande Velde, and Thomas all scored in the first minute of play. Survilla still trying desperately to lead his team to victory threw in a foul and later Barnes scored a foul shot but that ended any further Kazoo threat. Barber, Vande Velde and Thomas again scored in short order leaving a very bewildered Kazoo team at the short end of a 52-43 score when the final whistle sounded.

Albion Comes Back Strong to Squeeze out One-Point Win

Albion's Methodists climaxed ten minutes of spectacular shooting by nipping the Hingamen 38-37 in a conference game played at the Armory, January 21.

Both teams were neck and neck during the first half with a 16-14 lead showing for Hope at the whistle. It was a mild first half leaving no one prepared for the hair-raising twenty minutes of the last half.

Hope started the second half auspiciously enough by bouncing out to a ten-point lead with the count at 33-23. Personal fouls began to take toll in the Hope ranks when Poppink and VandeVelde were forced to leave with four personal apiece.

With these two men out of the way Albion suddenly "went to town." Seven minutes remained when Krouze, visiting center, dropped in two free throws to start the rally. Krouze, Daimitz, Vail, and Prettymen then tossed in 15 points while the best Hope could do was to get four. Rouman, visiting guard, made the deciding point when he tossed in a free throw with the score tied at 37 all and 75 seconds to play.

Krouze and Prettymen led the Albion attack with 15 and 10 points apiece. Ken VandeVelde, although not the high scoring man, proved to be the outstanding man on the court for Hope, counting 8 points. Don Thomas led the Hope scoring with 13 points.

debate. The Kalamazoo affirmative team of Glen Allen and Robert Goosetree gained revenge, however, by out-talking the Hope team of Ernest Tirrel and Lester Van Tatenhove. The Sybilline and Sorosis combined their votes to give a 15 to 13 decision to Kalamazoo.

At the Fraternal House Julius Mollema and William Brink representing Calvin, won the decision of Judge O'Connell of Battle Creek at the expense of Hope's negative team of Jay Bush and Ekdal Buys.

Following the afternoon debates the visiting teams were entertained with a dinner at Voorhees hall by the Hope squad. Prof. J. B. Nykerk welcomed the guests and Mr. O'Connell, chairman of the National Phi Kappa Delta convention to be held at Houston, Texas, told about the arrangements made for the convention. Musical numbers were offered by Don Droppers and Robert Arendshorst.

YPSI TEACHERS UPSET STRONG DUTCH QUINTET

Normal Wins First Tilt Over Hingamen in 4 Years

THOMAS IS STAR

It took them four years to do it, but they finally did, much to Hope's displeasure. Michigan Normal's highly-touted quintet finally gained revenge for their past defeats at the hands of the Hingamen, by edging out Hope 26-25 at Ypsilanti Saturday night.

The Hope brigade found itself on the short end of a 16-10 count at the half-way mark, mainly through the work of Capt. Rukamp, the Huron's center. Rukamp threw in four buckets the first half and proved to be a tower of strength on the offense.

The second half proved to be a horse of another color, or collar. Realizing they were in the act of losing to a club they hadn't lost to in years, the Orange and Blue squad, with Thomas and Poppink leading the attack, gradually closed the gap. The final whistle stopped their rally just one point short, and the Hingamen were forced to take their fourth defeat of the season. The final count being 26-25.

Don Thomas, Hope's sophomore flash, led both teams in scoring by accounting for 14 points. Rukamp led the Huron attack with 12 points.

The Hingamen played this game without the services of (Teed) Van Zanden, regular guard. He is nursing a serious charley-horse. It is hoped that he will be in shape for the Calvin game.

Cosmo, Frat, Knick Tied for 2nd Place in Loop

As a result of last week's play, the Interfraternity league was tied up tighter than a drum with three teams tied for second place, a half game behind the then loop-leading Independents.

The Knickerbockers, who have shown potential strength in the early stages of the race, pulled out what they had up their sleeves by soundly trouncing a favored Cosmopolitan five, 21-14, in the feature tilt of the week. Led by 6-point Russ Van Tatenhove and 5-point Fred Jappinga, the Central avenue quintet swept into a commanding lead in the second half which they never relinquished. Mante and Martin led the losers with three points apiece.

The Fraternals escaped a defeat by the hair of their chinny chin-chin when they eked out an 18-15 win from a determined Emersonian outfit. For the first half of the game, the winners played like a ball club, piling up a 15-4 lead at the intermission. The next half they looked like a bad case of the morning after, while the Emersonian piled up 11 points to 3 for the Fraters.

Spence Huise paced the winners with 9 points, and Earl Faber, the losers with 7.

Wednesday afternoon the Fresh "A" team treated the Addison to a 68-7 field meet. Porst dropped in 18 points for the winners, while Rusticus was the entire team for the losers, getting all seven points.

The Tip-Off

— BY VAN —

"Chink" Robbert appears to be the "iron man" of the Hope basketball squad. In the last several games he has gone the entire route without being substituted. In the Alma game everyone else was given a rest but Chink. The new football schedule of round robin games has been accepted by the MIAA conference. Next year Hope will play Olivet, Alma, and Albion twice and the remaining schools once. Hope's defeat by Albion was exceptionally bitter to Coach Hinga for two reasons. It knocked Hope from the top bracket but also Mrs. Hinga is a graduate from Albion College. The rivalry between the coach and Albion dates back to his college days when he was courting Mrs. Hinga, and it was his ambition to take Albion whenever Kalamazoo played them. Some more facts about the coach; Not so long ago Coach Hinga was an outstanding basketball player, starring with the Holland Furnace team, one of the strongest teams in the state. Bitter rivalry of high school days does not seem to affect the smooth working of the freshmen team. The first string lineup consists of four Holland high and one Grand Haven player. These two schools are strong rivals and no season is considered a success unless a victory is registered against each other. By comparative scores the Hope frosh are one of the outstanding frosh teams in the middle west. Western State, who claim victories over Butler and Valparaiso, two strong basketball schools, was able only to eke out a three point victory over the greens of Hope.

With the season at the mid-way mark and Olivet still undefeated, it begins to look that Coach Hinga's prediction that the champion will lose three games to be a bad one. It seems a remote possibility that the flashy Comet five drop three of their five remaining games.

SUPERIOR HOPE TEAM WALLOPS HAPLESS SCOTS

Speed, Height Advantage Too Much for Cellar Quint, 46-17

ROBBERT IN FORM

Running roughshod over the hapless Alma team, the Hope college quintet annexed its second conference victory in three starts, 46-17. The superior speed and height of the Hinga-coached men was too much for the Scots who have lost four straight conference frays.

With Poppink, ace center, controlling the tip-off, the Orange and Blue lost little time in starting. Holding Alma to one point during the first ten minutes of play the Dutch rang up seven points, which was the closest the Scots came during the whole game. With Poppink and Thomas leading the offense, Hope swept into high gear and at the intermission were leading 23-8.

The second half was but a repetition of the first with both teams doubling their own score. Coach Hinga used his entire squad in the game as did the Alma mentor. The game was rough and at times sloppy. Each team collected 15 penalties of which Hope cashed in on 10 and Alma 7.

Thomas and Poppink paced the winners with 15 and 16 points respectively, while Robbert turned in an outstanding floor game. Keglovitz and Block featured the Alma attack, the former collecting five points.

Busy Season Faces Hope Debate Teams

Locals to Oppose G. R. Junior Today, Detroit Technology Institute Friday

With exam week successfully passed, the men's debate squad is entering into its busiest period of debating. The Hope teams will meet the Grand Rapids Junior College team in four non-decision debates at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Friday Detroit Institute of Technology is sending two teams to debate the Hope squad. The entire student body and faculty are invited to attend these contests. Western State has invited the Hope squad of ten teams to engage in a round of practice debates with its squad on February 11.

Thirty-one high schools have been invited to send teams to a debate tournament to be held on Hope's campus Saturday, February 8. One round of debates is scheduled for 9:30 in the morning and after a dinner at Voorhees hall, two rounds are to be held in the afternoon. The visiting coaches and the members of the men's debate team will act as judges. More than 125 high school debaters are expected to attend. Prof. Shackson and Prof. De Graff are in charge of the arrangements.

This year Albion college is host to the Michigan Intercollegiate Speech league. On February 14 more than 200 debaters will meet there and engage in the state debate tournament. Hope college is planning to send its entire squad of ten teams to this meet. Members of the league sending teams are Adrian, Albion, Alma Battle Creek, Calvin, Central State teachers, University of Detroit, Hillsdale, Hope, Kalamazoo, Michigan State, Michigan State Normal, Olivet, Wayne, and Western teachers.

PARTY IS TALK OF CAMPUS

had arrived, cards containing six topics of conversation were distributed throughout the group by Mrs. Durfee, who explained that the various topics were to be "signed, each by one member of your opposite sex, just like a dance only there's no setting out." Those taking part in the game, however, were of the opinion that "setting out" was all there was to the game.

Bell — New Belle

At the sound of Mrs. Durfee's bell, places were taken and ten-minute conversations began by the group of couples; then, with the bell, they changed to their next partners and to new topics. At the end of the game ballots were distributed and the two most interesting conversationalists, male and female, were voted. Bill De Groot and Miss Kay Boon, respectively, were found to be these and were presented a fine type of prizes by the genial dean.

As the party broke up into smaller groups, a large variety of lesser games were introduced by Miss Irene Williams, program chairman, and everyone was soon busy doing something.

Refreshments consisted of sandwiches, cocoa and popcorn balls.

The party broke up shortly after eleven with much music and laughter and the general atmosphere of a "good evening well spent."

ALUMNISMS

John C. Hoekje, '06, registrar at Western State Teachers' college, Kalamazoo, Mich., was recently initiated into the Omega Chapter (University of Michigan) of Phi Delta Kappa, "Professional Fraternity in Education."

While Phi Delta Kappa is primarily a graduate student fraternity, the constitution provides for the election to membership, upon approval by vote of the biennial district conference (with not more than one dissenting vote), together with final approval by the executive committee, of "men engaged in the field of public education who, in the judgment of a local chapter, because of distinguished service rendered in the field of public education, merit membership in the organization." It so happens that he is the first, and thus far, the only man so chosen to membership.

Membership includes educators both in the United States and in Canada. At present Jacob Kelder, also an alumnus of Hope, is president of the Omega chapter at the University.

programs, and an equal amount of time is spent in dancing.

Despite the athletics-for-all movement, only a small percentage of the student body enter athletics strenuously. The average student spends six hours a week in light reading, such as newspapers and popular magazines. On the average, the student attends five movies every four weeks. This last statement, however, may vary considerably at Hope.

Leisure Time Wasted

Worthwhile extra-curricular activities do not threaten the average student's academic record. These aimless amusements affect it more seriously. But most regrettable and significant is the fact that the college itself provides no scheme of its own to encourage or train students in the productive use of leisure time. Certainly this important function for the benefit of the student body should be a duty of the college. With the cooperation of the students and the college authorities, this aimless waste of leisure time might be changed to constructive recreation.
