CITY AND VICINITY.

Born, Dec. 28, to Mr. and Mrs. A. Bowman, a son.

A. Brouwer, an old resident of Drenthe, died last week, aged 84 years.

Hose Comp. No. 2 enjoyed their annual oyster supper in their parlors New Years eve.

Muskegon suffered from a want of water by a break in the main pipe leading from Lake Michigan to the city.

The holiday edition of the Fennville Herald was richly illustrated and sparkled with a write-up of the enterprising businessmen of that prosperous village.

Until the dawn of the cold spell several logging camps in the lumber woods of the northern part of the state were forced to close down, for want of snow to do good hauling.

There was just about enough of the "beautiful" on the ground, New Years day, to make poor sleighing. In town it was fair slipping, but the country roads were too rough for the light snowfall.

Twenty-five architects presented plans for the new county court house at St. Joseph. Five sets of plans have been retained by the building committee for further consideration, and among them are those of Architect W. K. Johnston.

The roads are in the pink of condition for a good fall of snow and the farmers are anxiously waiting for mother Goose to begin picking her feathers. They want their winter grain protected and an opportunity to haul bolts, etc., to the market.

David Van Houten and family, corner Thirteenth street and Van Raalte avenue, spend the holidays with friends, away from home. When they returned Wednesday they found their home had been burglarized and clothing and silverware abstracted to the value of about $50. The larder also had been in part emptied.

Some time last summer Stena Streur lodged a complaint against Gerrit Noordhof for bastardy. The young man got wind of it and skipped out, and managed to elude the officers until last week, when he was apprehended at Muskegon. For want of bail he is now in the county jail awaiting trial in the circuit court.

The Maccabees held their annual election of officers Monday evening with the following result:

"A Happy New Year to Gwendolyn Mayham Lewis—from the Holland City State Bank, Holland, Mich.," was the inscription on the card accompanying a New Years remembrance presented to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur R. Lewis for their infant daughter, by Cashier C. Verschure, of the Holland City State Bank, representing the board of directors of that institution. In his presentation Mr. Verschure said: "She is the first baby of the bank, and the directors wished to make her a present as a reminder of her birth-place." The present was a beautifully shaped solid silver cup, lined with gold, having a beaded ring about the base, and a heavy carved handle of peculiar design. The cup was artistically engraved across the front in large old English letters: "Gwendolyn Mayham Lewis, from H. C. S. B." To say that Mr. and Mrs. Lewis and the latter's mother, Mrs. H. M. Mayham of Kalamazoo, who was present, were surprised and pleased beyond measure and appreciate their unexpected "Happy New Year," goes without saying.

The Public Schools resumed Wednesday morning.

The winter term of Hope College opens on Monday.

The board of supervisors meets on Monday and the circuit court opens a week later.

The Ladies' Home Missionary Society will meet with Mrs. Purdy, Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 9.

Judge Adsit of the Grand Rapids circuit court has disbarred Benj. De Vries, the Holland attorney of unsavory record.

The members of the finance committee of the board of supervisors met in Grand Haven this week, to make the annual settlement with county treasurer Pelgrim.

Parties from this city recently visiting Kalamazoo, called upon their former townsman Capt. P. Pfanstiehl at the asylum, and report little or no improvement in his mental condition.

The Elks watch-meeting at Grand Rapids on New Years eve was attended by Messrs. Jas. Huntley and John Bosman of Holland, and John A. Pieters of Fennville. They were royally entertained.

Wm. Van der Veere has occupied his new and elegant meat market in the First ward. He now has the most attractive shop in the city, with plate glass front, a cheerful interior, plenty of room and everything neat and clean.

The grounds of the old First church, at the corner of Ninth street and College avenue, are being graded, the trees trimmed and various other improvements made that will very materially improve the appearance of the property.

The rivalry for the best essay on the "Majestic" range, invited by Kanters Brothers, brought out 93 competitors last week. A committee of three, selected from among our professional and business men, after a thorough review, awarded the prize which consists of a "Junior" range to Miss Avis Yates.

R. E. Werkman's familiar face and form were seen upon our streets this week. He is now engaged in organizing a Holland Colony in Washington, and will shortly exhibit here a collection of agricultural products, fruits, cereals, minerals and lumber from that far away Pacific coast state.

After giving parties in Michigan a chance to view his collection he will take it to New York and thence to the Netherlands, where he will remain some time.

A very pleasant party gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Visscher, corner State and Twenty-sixth streets, Friday evening. The guests were all delivered at the residence of the hostess by carriages, where a fine supper awaited the company. At its conclusion, Prof. J. H. Kleinheksel as toastmaster called upon a number of the gentlemen present to tell what they didn't know about the subject which the professor had chosen. The evening was enjoyed by all.

This is the opening of the furniture season at Grand Rapids, so-called by reason of the many buyers who congregate there this month from all parts of the country, to make selections and leave orders for their spring trade. Of the furniture factories in this city the West Michigan has a display of twenty-five different suits, in the Pythian Temple, Monroe street. Manager Hummer expects to personally attend to the exhibit this year. This factory has also a line of samples in New York.

The last day of December was a very busy one at the office of city treasurer Brusse, over $16,000 being taken in for taxes. Of the total amount called for by the assessment rolls of the two supervisor districts, $49,740, only about $3,000 remains uncollected. This is looked upon as an exceptionally good showing, considering the depression in business that has existed during the past year, and the difficulties people have experienced in raising money. Few if any cities in the state can come to the front with a better record.

The New Years reception by the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A., in Bergen Hall, was a popular affair and largely attended, the number that exchanged congratulations aggregating 400. Refreshments were served and Dr. Lambert's orchestra enlivened the occasion by its excellent music. This orchestra, as now constituted, includes Dr. A. Lambert, Mr. S. Arieth and daughter, Robt. Kremers, Fred. Noble, Will Lamoreaux and W. D. Hopkins. Another feature of the event was the inspection of the first installment of new books of the library.

Compared with December last year the C. & W. M. reports a large increase in the volume of freight handled at Holland station. The same also holds true of the passenger traffic, the increase of which during the same month, is over $700.

Mayor Geo. P. Hummer has been elected president of the "Michigan State Manufacturer's Association," newly organized for the purpose of antagonizing not only convict-made furnitures, but any and all lines of manufacture which enter into free competition with regularly manufactured goods.

The discussion of the silver question will be continued Monday evening at the Y. M. C. A. rooms. Much interest is being manifested in the subject, witness for instance the very able paper on this topic in another column of this week's issue of the News. Several parties who have not as yet been heard have expressed a desire to take a hand in Monday evening's debate. The admission is open to all.

YOUNG SPIRITS.
A vigorous body and robust strength follow good health. But all fall when the vital powers are weakened. Nervous debility and loss of many power result from bad habits, contracted by the young through ignorance of the dangerous consequences. Low spirits, melancholia, impaired memory, morose or irritable temper, fear of impending calamity and a thousand and one derangements of body and mind, result from such pernicious practices. All these are permanently cured by improved methods of treatment without the patient leaving home.
A medical treatise written in plain but choice language, treating of the nature, symptoms and curability of such diseases, sent securely sealed in a plain envelope, on receipt of this notice, with ten cents in stamps, for postage. Address, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

Anneke Jans Bogardus.

Revival of a Litigation Involving Three Hundred Million Dollars—How Trinity Church obtained possession of the land of this Historical Dutch Jufvrouw—Review of the Litigation.

It seems that we are about to witness one more effort on the part of the heirs of Anneke Jans to wrest from Trinity Church—an Episcopal church corporation of New York city—the valuable landed estate it now holds in the heart of that metropolis, and which at one time was the farm (boundary) of Roeloff Jans and his wife, Anneke.

The legal contest for the recovery of this vast estate has been carried on for nearly two centuries. It is one of the most noted litigations on earth. Every once in a while, during the lifetime of each succeeding generation, the numerous heirs would meet in family conclave, retain eminent counsel, and institute legal proceedings—but never with success. During the month of December of the year just closed two more heirs of this historic Dutch woman have turned up in New York to wrest the great Trinity property away from that powerful corporation. They are Louis Decker, of Deckerstown, N. J., and his cousin, Theodore, from Indiana. The latter brought with him a valise crammed with letters, documents, transcripts, genealogical trees, and all manner of flotsam and jetsam of the Anneke Jans Bogardus heirs' claims, and told of the proposed last grand attempt of the heirs to recover the property. He claims that the new assault upon Trinity's millions is based upon a decision of the United States Courts, that if the heirs of Anneke Jans Bogardus could prove their descent and would claim the property when Trinity's ninety-nine-year leases had expired, they could get it under the old English enactment law. This line of attack is entirely new, and Cousin Theodore says when the courts have passed judgment Trinity will certainly have to disgorge, and over $300,000,000 will be divided among 160 or 170 heirs, who are able individually to prove their descent from Anneke Jans.

A brief history of the antecedents of this case, the original parties thereto, and the way this enormously wealthy Episcopal corporation came into possession of the estate, may be of interest to the readers of the News.

Widow Jans was a blithesome and captivating nature, and as soon as the prescribed period of mourning had elapsed she became the belle of New Amsterdam. Portraits of her show that the New Amsterdam gallants who courted her had excellent taste and judgment. Besides, there were her sixty-two acres of fat farm land, all her own, and even at that early day that farm had begun to appreciate greatly in value.

As soon as her widow tears were dried, and she had laid aside her mourning weeds, Domine Everardus Bogardus, the leading clergyman in New Amsterdam, attacked the citadel of her affections with the vigor of his profession and she was forced to capitulate. Her captive of the domine, the leading beau of the settlement naturally excited the jealousy of other ladies of New Amsterdam, who, in their mind's eye, had figured on bearing the name of Mrs. Bogardus. One of the neighbors, Mrs. Van Salee, accused her of exposing her ankles more than was absolutely required when picking her way through some mud in front of a blacksmith shop. Domine Bogardus thereupon brought an action before the consistory against Mrs. Van Salee and her husband for slander, and witnesses swore that the buxom Mrs. Bogardus did not lift her petticoats an inch higher than was necessary to keep them out of the mud.

Meanwhile the Domine and his wife were content to allow their farm which had become known as the Domine's Bouwery, to lie in an uncultivated state. In 1647 Domine Bogardus was drowned off the coast of Wales, while on his way to visit his native land. Mrs. Bogardus died in 1663, leaving eight children: Jan, Sarah, Catharina, and Eytje Jansen were the issue of the first, and Jonas, Wilhelm, Cornelius, and Pieter Bogardus that of the second marriage.

In 1654, Director Stuyvesant who subsequently was the last Dutch governor of New Amsterdam, confirmed the grant to Mrs. Anneke Jans, as widow of Everardus Bogardus. In 1667, three years after the English gained possession of New Amsterdam, Gov. Nichols confirmed the grant to the heirs of Mrs. Bogardus, giving in detail the provision of the original grant from Van Twiller. According to those provisions the Jans grant comprised a space extending from the north side of Warren street on the south, Canal street on the north, the Hudson river on the west, while the eastern boundary appears never to have been definitely settled, but it extended as far as Broadway.

At the southern boundary was the king's farm, or the queen's farm, as it was often called. This farm extended from Fulton street north to Warren and as far west as the Hudson river, and its eastern boundary was Broadway. In later patents and deeds this king's or queen's farm, in all the law suits brought later, seems to have been recognized for some reason never ascertained by succeeding generations as part of the Bogardus property, although in reality the queen's farm was never a part of the Jans property. The eastern boundary was formed by a pond and swamp, and on its northern side was the swamp land known as "Old Jan's Land."

The entire northern boundary of the territory claimed by the Anneke Jans family is vague to a degree. It has been claimed that it extended, beyond the limits of the canal or Debosses street boundary, as far even as Christopher street, a tract of land known as Domine's Hook. The records however are very indefinite on this point.

Trinity church appears on the scene in connection with this Jans property, in 1697, when Gov. Fletcher leased the king's farm to that corporation for seven years, at a rental of sixty bushels of wheat per year. Lord Cornbury in 1700, leased this farm to Trinity for the term of his office. In 1705 Trinity church was in actual possession, by virtue of this lease from Lord Cornbury, of not only this farm, but also of the Domine's boundary, north of Canal street.

In this same year, 1705, was made the grant which practically gave Trinity possession of the territory which it, thereafter held, and at present holds against all other interests and claims. This was by a patent, which Gov. Cornbury, in behalf of Queen Anne, granted to Trinity. This patent included all of what was known as the queen's or king's farm. It specified the eastern and western boundaries as Broadway and the Hudson river, but failed to define the northern and southern boundaries with any degree of clearness. The patent has been the right bower of Trinity church in all subsequent litigations with the Jans heirs, and its validity has been repeatedly tested in court. For 150 years Trinity church has been attacked by not only the heirs of the Jans family, but by the State and the City of New York in reference to this disputed property, but so far has succeeded in retaining possession of it.

Cornelius Brouwer, a descendant of Mrs. Bogardus, in 1760, made a vigorous fight to establish his title to a share of the Jans property.

The New York Mercury, of October 27, 1790, contains the following reference to this suit:

"Last week a remarkable trial, which has been in the Law near 20 years, came on in the Supreme Court here, between the Rector of the Church of England as the law established and the family of the Brouwers, who sued for 83 acres of the King's farm, when the Jury, after being out for 20 minutes, gave their verdict in favor of the Defendants."

The Supreme Court, however, finally decided against the heirs.

In 1788 Trinity advertised several lots for sale near the southern boundary of the Jans property, stating that the titles thereto were valid and tenable. The heirs, when they read the advertisement, published the following:

To the Public: Whereas, The corporation of Trinity church have advertised for the sale at the Merchant's Coffee House, on the 1st of April next, a number of lots of land, situated in Chambers street, Reade street and other places within the bounds of Domine's Hook Patent, in the west ward of this city, and heirs of the Anneke Bogardus and those holding rights under them in the said patent, do hereby give notice that they are determined to support their claim to said lands within the grant formerly made to the said Anneke Bogardus. And this notice is given to prevent any person from pretending ignorance of the said claim, which the heirs and those deriving title from them are determined to support.

New York, March 31, 1788.
The fences which the Bogardus heirs built around their property in the quarrels that followed the announcement were torn down and burned by Trinity adherents, and the family of Lewis Bogardus were driven out of their house by Trinity partisans.

The heirs have never given up hope of ultimately routing Trinity from the Jans property and the expiration of the ninety-nine year leases above referred to, may suggest to them a new method of attack by which to secure what they have always claimed as their birthright.

"But evil is wrought by want or thought, As well as want of heart." By want of thought mothers allow daughters to become frail and puny. Overstudy in girls induces uterine disorders and weaknesses, and blights their future happiness as wives and mothers. Joined to proper hygienic care, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a priceless remedy in such ailments, its value becoming even more apparent every year.

Using it the wan, debilitated school girl gains color, flesh and spirits, losing those deadly headaches, tormenting backaches, languor, dejection, and other symptoms of functional irregularities, and nervous debility. It never harms the most delicate girl. ROBERTSDALE, HUNTINGDON CO., PA. WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION.

I cannot sufficiently express to you my gratitude for the benefit your medicine has conferred upon my daughter. Of late she has suffered no pain whatever. It is simply marvelous. You have just reason to call it your "Favorite Prescription," and to stake your reputation as a physician on it. A favorite prescription it is, indeed, to you and to thousands in this land, and I believe will be to suffering women the world over. Yours gratefully, THOMAS THIRLWELL.

Are You Getting Bald?
If you are becoming bald or should your hair be falling out, you should at once consult a first class specialist, one who has had years experience in treating the hair.

Prof. G. Birkholz, of Chicago, the eminent German specialist, who for years has devoted his time and talent to the study of the hair follicles and who has evolved the most successful treatment for baldness the world has ever known.

He will carefully examine, each case and candidly inform the inquirer whether his baldness can be cured and the hair restored. These examinations are made without any extra charge.

In all cases where there are any hair follicles remaining, undestroyed by age or disease, the professor will undertake a cure, and if he does not effect a restoration of the hair, he will ask no pay.

The remedy is an imported one, and the treatment given by the professor is his own, and cures where all others fail.

If your case has been pronounced incurable do not take it as a final answer until you have seen Professor Birkholz and received his opinion. The success that has attended Professor Birkholz everywhere enables him to give a positive opinion in each case presented him.

Those who are bald or threatened with baldness should not delay treatment, but consult the professor at once.

Call or address: Prof. Birkholz, 1011. Masonic Temple, Chicago, Ill.

Hand this notice to any first-class druggist and he will get the remedy for you at once if he has not got it in stock.

Merry Shared.
The Parisian beggar is generally a person of wit. One of the fraternity met one evening, at eight o'clock, a gentleman who was on his way to a dinner party.

"Have pity, monsieur, and give me a son," said the beggar, "for I have had no dinner to-day!"

"Get out!" exclaimed the gentleman. "I've had no dinner, either!"

"Too bad!" answered the beggar. "Make it two sons, then, and we'll dine together!"

The Dyspeptic's Dream.

By the dreamer.

He was a tall, cadaverous, dyspeptic-looking man, and he was before the magistrate upon the suit of the landlady for a week's board. The fact having been proven conclusively, that he had occupied the quarters for the time named, the judge, a very severe looking old gentleman, asked, as I supposed merely for form sake, what the defense was, if any.

The lean man replied that he had what in his opinion, he considered a good defence:

"That when he went to the lady's house to board, his first question was, he being a confirmed dyspeptic, if the bread was good. He had been assured that it was, but upon taking up his quarters he found that it was not only not good but was sour and heavy, and that by reason of this he had suffered tortures, and had declined for this reason and no other, to pay his board, and here he rested his case.

The judge had listened with much interest, and upon the gentleman taking his seat, delivered himself of the following:

"I have listened with interest and feeling (having once been a dyspeptic myself) to the statements and defence of the gentleman. In these days when Horsford's Baking Powder is so easily obtained, there is no excuse in the world for landladies giving their boarders sour or heavy bread. It is as much their duty to keep up with the improvements of the age, to protect the health, if not the lives of their customers, as it is for the railroads to adopt patent air-brakes and other appliances for the protection of their passengers, and taking this view of the case I find for the defendant, and give notice that I will so find in every case of this kind brought before me."

Here I woke up, and as a consequence, lost the remainder of the proceedings.

GIFTS OF THE ADVENTISTS.

Jewelry Worth $35,000 Filed on the Platform at Battle Creek.

BATTLE CREEK, Jan. 2.—The Seventh Day Adventists, who last year gained notoriety through presenting to their church various articles of value, the whole aggregating about $35,000, Monday night made another New Year's offering in the presence of several thousand people. A close estimate of the value of the articles presented has not yet been made, but it is believed to be not far from $35,000. One of the elders before the gift-giving began preached a short sermon in which he expressed his belief that the end of the world was near at hand, and the violent occurrences of the time indicated it. Among the articles heaped on the platform when the gifts were called for were watches and chains, bracelets, silverware, clocks, rings, earrings, and in fact nearly everything in the jewelry line that could be converted into cash. Nearly forty bicycles were also given. The whole collection is to be sold and the proceeds devoted to extending the theories of the order.

MUSKEGON, Jan. 2.—Willie Peterson and Wicks Carlson, aged 13 and 10 years, Monday afternoon found $600 in gold under a pine stump on the slope leading to Ryerson creek. Some one had set the stump on fire, and the boys were poking it with sticks when the money rolled out. The coin was in $20 pieces except one five-dollar and one one-dollar piece. The latest date on the coins is 1861 and they are supposed to have been secreted by Ted Boyce, a brother of Millionaire Jonathan Boyce, of Grand Rapids, during the war. Ted died four years ago. While he was not a miser, he had a penchant for hiding money, and was supposed to have secreted quite large sums. Thousands of dollars of hidden gold were recovered soon after the war by his father.

Prospects for the New Year.

Not until last week when Jack Frost's whiskers became well knotted with ice and the chilly north-western blasts began whistling in earnest through the pine tops on Lookout Mountain, did the echo of the hammer and the sound of the saw cease on the Hotel Macatawa at Macatawa Park, on which work has been diligently pushed since early in the fall. Messrs. Ward and Russell, the contractors, have kept a force of from 25 to 30 men constantly employed, and the work has so far progressed that the structure is entirely enclosed and under roof, preparatory for completion in the spring. Mr. W. H. Perry, president of the association, remained at the Park until two weeks ago, giving personal directions as to details and specifications, and will return the first of April and superintend the work on the interior.

The exterior of the building is sufficiently far advanced to convince those who have seen it, that it will not only be a cozy and commodious summer hostelry, but also architecturally in keeping with the picturesque surroundings. In design it is a combination of the Gothic with the so-called Queen Anne style, admirably suited for internal comfort and convenience, with external effect. The arrangement of the roof and dormers makes a remarkably pretty grouping and gives the whole structure a singularly dignified and imposing appearance. The dimensions are 126 x 82½ feet, four stories in height with attic, the whole surmounted by a cupola or lookout. The location is on the slight elevation just north of the present hotel and can be said to front on both Macatawa Bay and Lake Michigan, as there is not an iota of difference between the eastern or western exposures from an architectural point of view.

Both the lower floors will have verandas from 12 to 20 feet in width, extending around the entire building, from which an excellent view can be commanded of the two bodies of water, as well as all other points of interest, including the bathing beach and the steam-boat landing. There will be few if any obstructions, as the pavilion will be removed from its present site to the dock, and three or four of the cottages, located in the opening to the westward, will also be removed or demolished.

Above the piazzas the structure will be surfaced with terra cotta or concrete, in imitation of stone, which will add materially to its novel and substantial external appearance. The ground floor will be devoted to a main reception room and office, 40 x 80; dancing hall, 40 x 56; ladies parlor, 40 x 40; ice cream and reception room, 40 x 56; with baggage room, telegraph office, etc.

An ingeniously designed stair case leads to the upper floors, which will be divided up into sleeping apartments, single and in suite. All of those rooms will be well lighted, well ventilated, and so arranged as to promote the comfort and convenience of the guests.

Only the second and third stories will be completed for the present, thus giving 66 rooms for use next season. If needed, the capacity can be increased to 85 or 90 rooms.

The entire building will be lathed and plastered, finished in natural wood, and lighted with electricity. Among the attractive features will be broad old-fashioned stone fire places in the main reception room and ladies parlor, expressly for burning pine logs, a feature that will help much toward cheering up the patrons and adding to their comfort during the chilly June evenings and rainy days in August.

The dining room and kitchen will be in the old building, which will be connected with the new structure by a covered corridor. By this arrangement the odor from the kitchen, often so offensive, will be eradicated from the parlors and sleeping apartments. It is also proposed to change the position of the north wing of the old hotel, so that there will be more open space between the two structures.

During the winter and spring months a new dock will be extended 150 feet into the bay, thus giving a sufficient depth of water for the Soo City and Holland City, and ample room for the local steamers Musie and Lizzie Walsh.

The grounds surrounding the building will be graded and surfaced with clay, the walks repaired, electric lights introduced, and various other improvements are contemplated. In all some $18,000 or $20,000 will be expended in enhancing the value and adding to the many attractions of this known summer retreat, securing it the most commodious hotel on east shore of Lake Michigan, a need of which has been felt for several seasons past.

While too much credit cannot be given to the members and officials of the association, through whose energy and enterprise these results have been accomplished, the fact must not be overlooked that credit is equally due to the few public spirited citizens of Holland who, although not now identified with the corporation, were instrumental years ago in retaining this beautiful tract of land from the woodman's axe and preserving it for the purpose. Among these can be mentioned Heber Walsh, H. D. Post, H. Boone, and the late Dr. Scott.

For the ensuing year the affairs of the association will be in the hands of the following officers, elected at the recent annual meeting of the association: President, W. H. Perry, Brazil, Ind.; vice president, H. G. Earle, Indianapolis, Ind.; treasurer, E. C. Westerveld, South Bend, Ind.; secretary, J. C. Post, Holland, Mich.; superintendent, McE. Hamilton, Louisville, Ky.

The Macatawa Park cottage and lot owners association, organized in August last with a membership of over fifty, and of which L. D. Harris is president, Henry Idema secretary, and E. J. Raymond treasurer, has notified president Perry that they will co-operate with the park association in promoting the best interests of the resort. This organization has for its object the care of the property of its members, seeing that the walks and drives are kept in repair, and the regulation so far as practicable of the sanitary condition of the park. The members of this association are:

L. D. Harris, Mrs. P. P. Steketee, L. C. Stow, S. W. Pollard, A. H. Sherwood, J. C. Cromer for Geo. Roelofs, Mary Alling, O. F. Powell, M. F. Powers, H. S. Earl, E. C. Westerveld, C. S. Bostwick, E. Never in the history of the park has the outlook been so bright for a prosperous season as the coming year. Now, with the assurance of a roomy hotel, a direct daily communication with Chicago by a staunch and speedy line of steamers, visitors will not hesitate to come from such cities in the South and South-west as Louisville, St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha, St. Joseph, Peoria, Bloomington, Springfield, and various other points in Illinois, Missouri, Iowa, and the Mississippi and Missouri valleys. Special efforts will be made by all the parties interested, to bring to the attention of the residents of this section of the country, the health giving qualities and innumerable attractive features of MACATAWA PARK as a summer resort.

There are now in the course of construction at the park a cottage for Rev. Dr. Garrison of St. Louis, one for Thomas H. Allen of Chicago, and two for John C. Post of this city. Frequent inquiries are made for lots and the indications are that many others will be erected in the spring.

These are also some whispers of an electric line on the south side of the bay in connection with city street car franchises, but so far as the News can learn there is no immediate prospect of such a project for 1895, although quite a number of Grand Rapids men have declared their willingness to take stock in such an enterprise.

We learn that Mrs. Ryder, who for so many years has conducted the Park Hotel and given universal satisfaction, will have the refusal of the new house when completed. Should she determine to furnish it, she will be given a lease for a term of years.

"Is the Free Coinage of Silver Desirable?"

EDITOR OF THE NEWS: This important question is being discussed all over the country, and the talks about it in the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. in our city are calling the attention of our people to it.

May I ask the use of your columns to reach a larger audience than assemblies in the rooms, with a short paper on the subject?

The great importance of the question is conceded by all, and many admit the truth of the statements of the advocates of a bi-metallic coinage.

But the line of argument for free coinage of silver does not seem sufficiently definite and practical. We want something more than a rattle dangle of statistics and scolding.

And it is no wonder that the opponents of silver coinage tauntingly ask, in the words of Bill Tweed, "Now, what are you going to do about it?"

Let us look over the ground, and try to see if a practical plan for silver coinage can be proposed.

When the government coins money, establishing the weight, fineness, and ratio of coins of different metals to each other, it exercises the right of eminent domain, which should only be used for the general good of the nation, and not for the special profit of individuals or classes, at the expense, or to the injury of the people at large.

The values of the coins made by the government are arbitrarily made, in some cases without reference to their intrinsic worth, and the difference between the value as bullion and as coin, is a flat value, given by the endorsement and guarantee of the nation, and justly belonging to the people.

The practice of the U. S. mint authorities is to purchase in open market the metal needed for the coinage of cents and nickels, which are paid out at their coined value, thus covering the profit into the U. S. treasury.

Why may not the owners of copper mines demand the free coinage of copper, with as much reason as the silver men claim free coinage?

Why may we not apply the same methods to the coinage of silver? Under present laws and practices silver money is like coppers and nickels, merely a subsidiary coinage, redeemable in gold.

Let the government charge a seigniorage for coinage, to pay the expense of refining the metal and manufacturing the coins, and in case the bullion is worth less in open market than the value as coin, retain the difference as the flat value added by the national indorsement and guarantee, and put the profit in the U. S. treasury, paying for the bullion its value in coin or certificates, good for the coin on demand or for the payment of all debts public and private, except duties on imports.

And all the bullion so received should be coined. One of the bad features of the last silver purchase bill, was the requirement that the silver should be kept as bullion in ingots, an expensive commodity to be taken care of, and without value, as it could neither be lawfully coined nor sold.

An objection may be made to the issue of silver certificates as an expense to the government, without remuneration.

The issue of certificates to represent the coins deposited with the government, is a device to save the money of the people, which more than pays its cost.

The loss to circulating coin by abrasion is estimated to be from one to three per cent a year, depending upon the size of the coin; at one per cent even, this is an enormous, absolute waste, which is saved by circulating the paper certificates, and depositing the coin.

Our gold friends have made a great outcry against the coinage of silver to be deposited in this way, claiming that enormously large and expensive vaults would be needed to keep it safely. "Coin" demonstrates the fact that all the silver money in the world can be stored in a single room sixty-six feet square and high; this proves that the claim of the great expense of vault room needed to store the silver is a fraud. The unavoidable loss and destruction of the silver certificates, particularly those of small denominations, will pay all the expense of their issue, the safe keeping of the coin they represent, and leave a large profit to the government.

But why not make the silver and its certificates, receivable for duties on imports?

Here we have to meet a condition, which blocks the way to practical bi-metallicism, and one which will take a long time to remove. The coinage law of 1873 demonetized silver, and established gold as the standard. Some thousands of millions of dollars of United States bonds, and many thousands of millions of dollars in State, municipal, and railroad bonds now outstanding, must all be paid in gold, interest and principal.

By the Gresham law, the less valuable money in circulation drives out of circulation the more valuable, and under its operation, with free coinage of silver in the United States and no coinage of silver in other countries, gold would soon become a scarce article. How could we get the gold to pay our debts? The Cleveland way is to keep borrowing it back again, thus compounding the interest burthen upon the nation, and continually increasing the amount of gold bonds to pay.

But by requiring the duties on imports to be strictly paid in gold coin, we can compel the fellows who are carrying the gold out of the country to bring it back again.

Let the importers of English, French, and German goods pay the duties in gold and they would supply all we need, and would be very careful about adding to the duties on imports, by allowing gold to command a premium.

Let the government retain the option to pay certificates in either gold or silver coin, instead of allowing the gold speculators to demand which they please, and it would be the other fellows who would have to dance around to maintain the parity of our different kinds of money, instead of Uncle Sam.

And when the gold debts are all paid or converted into bi-metallic coin bonds and obligations, it will be time enough to place the coinage and use of silver and gold on the same basis.

It might be wise to restrict the coinage of silver in the manner proposed, to the product of our own mines, while the condition that the bullion presented must all be coined, would prevent a rapid change in the volume of our coinage; the outsiders are not entitled to the same consideration with our own people, and should look at home for help to get their silver made into money.

Few changes would be necessary in our paper currency, to meet the demands of the business interests of the country. All the National banks need is to be let alone. The greenbacks and outstanding coin certificates might be cancelled as fast as taken in for government dues, and new ones substituted, payable in coin at the option of the United States, and receivable for all debts, public and private, except duties on imports, but the amount in circulation should not be diminished, if changed.

With the prospect of a radical change in the financial policy of the government in the near future, if the expenses continue to exceed the income, go to the people for the money, and issue greenbacks, instead of borrowing gold from Wall street and London, and increasing our gold bond indebtedness. Let the ten per cent tax on state bank issues of paper money stand and keep out the wild cats, by all means.

King Rene's Daughter

Will be rendered in this city on Wednesday, Jan. 30. On the evening of that date this beautiful work will be sung by thirty of the best ladies' voices of Holland. Its production will be in the nature of a novelty to the citizens of Holland, as such a work has never been attempted here before. It is a musical composition which tells the story of a beautiful legend by the German poet, Heinrich Herz.

The cantata is divided into solos, duets, trios, and choruses. It is said that some of the soloists will be secured from out of town, so as to add greater interest to its production. Miss Squire of Grand Haven will be the accompanist, and Mr. Campbell, the director. A miscellaneous program will be added in which the latter gentleman and Mrs. Davis of Grand Rapids will take part. The entertainment is given for the worthy cause of the Y. W. C. A., and this will go a great way to secure its financial success.

Marine Items.

The few steamers that perform winter service on Lake Michigan are besieged with applications for positions. As deck hands are employed men who carry master's and mate's papers.

One hundred vessels are laid up at Cleveland and 95 at Detroit.

Specifications are being prepared at the Treasury Department for a new revenue cutter to replace the Andrew Johnson. Proposals will be invited some time next month for building the new craft, but probably a year may elapse before the vessel will be in readiness for service. At the last session of Congress $175,000 was appropriated for the construction of the new cutter, which will be about 180 feet in length and 32 feet beam. Particular attention will be paid to developing her speed, so that she can overtake any suspicious looking craft. The business men of Milwaukee desire to name her after the Cream City.

Hon. J. C. Burrows will succeed to the short term senatorship. He was nominated by the Republicans in caucus Thursday evening on the second ballot, the vote standing: Burrows, 70; Olds, 32; Patton, 25; Hubbell, 4.

Prof. Morse, who is also author of a medical work entitled "New Therapeutic Agents," writes: Per-na, manufactured by The Per-na Drug Manufacturing Company of Columbus, Ohio, has commended itself to medical men and its patients as a specific for la grippe and its sequels. It fully approves itself for this purpose, and is remedial for all bronchial troubles. Its action is both local and constitutional, and is entirely harmless. The distinction accorded to it belongs to no other remedy of which we know.

PROF. W. H. MORSE, WESTFIELD, N. J., Dec. 29, 1892.

No matter at what part of the mucous membrane the irritation of acute catarrh is located, Per-na is the only remedy that will, under all circumstances, effect a cure. In acute catarrh the dose of Per-na is a teaspoonful every two hours during the day, which will invariably effect a cure in from seven to ten days. In chronic catarrh Per-na should be taken, a teaspoonful before each meal and at bedtime. This dose should be gradually increased to two tablespoonfuls at each dose. If not cured by the end of one month write Dr. Hartman. Answer free.

Every one should have a free copy of the latest book on catarrh. Sent free to any address by The Per-na Drug Manufacturing Company of Columbus, Ohio.

OTHERS COME AND GO, but we are always in the field.

During the 12 years that we have been offering you our flour, many brands have been pushed to your notice under the claims that they were "just as good as Daisy" or "almost equal to Sunlight and cheaper" etc., etc. We ask your attention to the striking fact that none of the older brands for which such claims were made are now on the market. Why? Because the housekeeper's practical tests proved their claims false.

New brands are now offered with a repetition of these old claims, and their fate will be the same as their predecessors. Why? Because we have the largest and best equipped mill in Western Michigan, use only the best wheat, and employ the most skillful millers, and therefore produce the very best flour that it is possible to make. Prices were never so low and will go higher soon.

To the Honorable the Mayor and the Common Council of the City of Holland.
Gentlemen:—I, the undersigned, herewith submit the following proposition, for one acre of gravel as per notice in the HOLLAND CITY NEWS: I will sell to said City: 1. Holland one (1) acre of gravel for five hundred and twenty-five dollars, nine (9) feet deep, containing 14,530 cubic yards, situated and being on the n. e. 1/4 of the s. e. 1/4 of R. 15 w., being the gravel examined by your committee. Said gravel to be taken at an average depth of nine (9) feet. Surface to be left not lower than two and one-half (2 1/2) feet above low water mark. I have taken levels on said gravel and find that the average is more than eleven and one-half (11 1/2) feet above low water mark, should it not average 11 1/2 feet above low water mark, then I will describe it as much larger, so that the city will receive 14,530 cubic yards, for above named price. If sale is effected as above said city is to take said gravel the full depth of nine (9) feet and to go over said land but once, that is, not to go over it two or three times and take two or three feet at a time as was done in the old gravel pit.
Respectfully submitted,
ALBERT J. DE VRIES.
I will give the city twenty (20) years time to remove gravel from said land, but in case said gravel should be removed from said land before the twenty years expired then said city must quit claim said land to me.
Respectfully,
ALBERT J. DE VRIES.
Referred to the committee on streets and bridges with the mayor and city surveyor.
Adjourned.

WHEN DEAFNESS IS USEFUL.
Under Certain Circumstances, However, the Affliction is Expensive.
"There is an advantage in being deaf, if you only know the exact time not to hear," said L. T. Salignac, of Philadelphia, to a Pittsburgh Dispatch man; "but the difficulty is to discriminate just when that time is. I have a friend who made, or rather, tried to make, capital out of the misfortune nature had sent upon him, but he was continually making mistakes. Being a politician, as any of that kin knows, he met with plenty of instances where it was advisable not to hear. My friend ran for governor of Maryland once, and while he was defeated, he was extremely popular and well known all over the state, from the urchin in the gutter to the millionaire in his palace."
"I went fishing down in the Delaware bay one summer with him, and the boat made a landing at one of the towns on our way down. He was no sooner seen than a chorus greeted him from the wharf with a 'Hallo, guvner!' He acknowledged the compliment with a graceful tip of the hat. As we walked down the gang plank one fellow, a little more obtrusive than the rest, pushed his way up to the side of my friend and bellowed out, knowing the falling in his hearing: 'Say, guvner, old man, can't you loan me a quarter?'"
"Of course, this was one of the occasions upon which my friend's auricular organs failed to perform their duty. He walked on as if he had not heard a word, while to my invitation to take a drink, given in a moderate tone of voice, he gave a ready assent. As we walked on a little farther, the man persisted. This time he came up to my friend and shouted at the top of his voice in his ear: 'Say, guvner, can't you loan me fifty cents? My friend turned and, in a quiet, dignified manner, said, without a smile, as he tossed him the half-dollar: 'Confound your impertinence! I should have heard you the first time.'"

Planting the Standard

All hail Columbus! Behold the great navigator as he lands. The perils of the deep are past. The clouds of fear have vanished. The night of gloom has ended. In the heavens the sun of success shines resplendent. Morning has dawned.

Imperiously the banner of haughty Spain greets the daylight. Upon its fluttering folds are inscribed the destinies of a new world. Its gleaming surface marks a long advance in the evolution of the human race. It tells a story of prophecy unparalleled, of development unapproached in the fullness of recorded time. It crowns with triumph the efforts of genius.

The World's Fair contained no finer statue of the great discoverer than this colossal figure. It commanded from its pedestal the eastern entrance to the Administration building. The majesty of its dimensions, the vigor and aggressiveness of its expression and the artistic finish of its composition made it admired as a genuine sculptural triumph.

Another Standard Proudly Displayed

at the Fair was that of

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder

A Standard of Excellence for Forty Years.

It was the standard of unequalled strength, perfect purity and wholesome results. The award to Dr. Price's of highest honors at the Fair furnishes conclusive evidence of its superiority over all other baking powders.

SHORTHAND IN OLD TIMES.

The Greeks, the Romans and the English of Queen Bess' Time Had It.

The art of "brachygraphie," or shorthand, as we call it now, is by no means a modern invention, says the New York Post. Even the Greeks and Romans had their system of abbreviating language, using it to take down public speeches. By the time of the renaissance the art had grown to considerable proportions. England has always cast a more favorable eye on the system than any other country, and in the days of Queen Bess stenographers were plentiful.

They were not, however, contented with reporting merely speeches and sermons, but copied down the dramas of the time and always got credit for their theft, owing to the miserable copyright laws. It is not surprising then that John Webster should make Sanitella in the court-room scene of the "Devil's Law Case," exclaim:

"Do you hear, officers, You must take special care that you let in No brachygraphic men."

Surely the circumstances must have been exasperating to those sturdy old dramatists if such lines as the following of Thomas Heywood in the prologue of "Queen Elizabeth" are true. He says the play

"Did throng the seats, the boxes and the stage, So much that some by stenography drew A plot, put it in print, scarce one word true."

The mangled condition of many of our finest Elizabethan dramas can largely be attributed to these "brachygraphic" men. Of the systems of this time we have knowledge of but two, those of Timothy Bright and Peter Bales, but considerable is known of the life of these men.

Norway's Big Lumber Mill.

It has been generally supposed that the largest lumber mills in the world were located on Puget sound in this country, but such is not the fact. The largest mill, so far as known, is in Christiania, Norway, where a million feet is produced daily. There are about thirty gang saws and six planing and matching machines, the latter of the massive Norwegian design, which feed at the rate of eighty to one hundred feet per minute.

In Baking Powders

"Royal" Leads.

As the result of my tests, I find the ROYAL BAKING POWDER superior to all the others in every respect. It is entirely free from all adulteration and unwholesome impurity, and in baking it gives off a greater volume of leavening gas than any other powder. It is therefore not only the purest, but also the strongest powder with which I am acquainted.

PERFECT CONSTITUTIONAL POWERS.

Its extraordinary curative power manifests itself almost immediately it is taken. On this point the evidence of those who have taken it is uniform and positive. They say they can feel the effect of every dose doing them good. It is a powerful nerve invigorating tonic, imparting its restorative influence through the medium of the nervous system to every organ and tissue of the body. It makes but little difference whether the constitutional vigor has been undermined by acute disease, overwork, or certain mischievous indiscretions; or whether the broken down condition is called by one name or other, so long as there is nervous exhaustion, general or local weakness—so long as enervation and debility are the type of the ailment, this is the remedy.

THOSE WHO SUFFER

from the results of over-mental or physical exhaustion, hardy exposure, hidden drains, capricious, or who have brought upon themselves a series of afflictions by ignorantly or wilfully violating nature's laws, will find in CATON'S VITALIZER and NERVE TONIC the remedy for their certain relief. It speedily removes all evidences of progressive physical deterioration, and restores the enfeebled energies to their natural vigor.

WHENEVER THERE IS

any weakness of the vital organs, nervousness, prostration of the physical or mental energies,
confusion of ideas, lack of self-confidence, irritability of temper, melancholy, cowardice, weakness of the knees and the back, palpitation of the heart, dragging pain in the loins, headache, irritation of the kidneys and bladder, milky urine, nervous and hidden wastes, resulting in a failure of the mental and physical power, constituting an impediment to success and unfortunately hampering the duties and responsibility of life, it is the remedy par excellence.
A single package will be sufficient to inaugurate the work of regeneration, and cure in many cases. But stubborn cases often require more.
It will be sent post-paid, secured from observa-

Nocturnal creatures assume night activity for some other reason than that they cannot see by day, or that they see better by night. The bat sees admirably in the brightest sunlight, as anyone knows who has ever teased one by poking a stick at it. It will open its mouth and make an angry grab at the stick, when it is not near it by several inches. Prof. Bolles says it is the same with owls. They see perfectly in bright sunlight and better at night than most creatures.

BAPTIZED IN BLOOD.

New Year Unhappened in a Horrible Tragic
in Bay City, Mich.

BAY CITY, Mich., Jan. 2.—This city was the scene, early on New Year's morning, of a double murder the victims being Mrs. Cora Trumbley and her 8-months-old baby. The murderer was Daniel J. Trumbley, the woman's husband. Shortly after 5 o'clock Tuesday morning an alarm of fire called the fire department to 911 Ketchum street, the residence of Daniel J. Trumbley. After a hard fight the fire was gotten under control.
On entering a bed-room downstairs Mrs. Trumbley was found lying on the bed with her feet partially burned.
Her throat was cut from ear to ear and the bed clothing was covered with blood. At the foot of the bed was found her baby. The child had evidently been smothered, as no marks of violence were found on the body.

Trumbley was nowhere to be seen and none of the neighbors had heard from him. Every officer in the city and county was put out to search for him.
Sheriff Southerland was the first to find the man. A rumor reached the city he had jumped into a well on the Hilliker farm near Oak Grove. Fully 5 miles from his home, Southerland found him.
He was at the Hilliker house shivering behind a stove. At 7 o'clock, after breakfast, Hilliker went out to do his chores and heard some one calling.
He could not understand where the calls came from, and looking into his well was surprised to see a man there.
The well is box
curbed, about 8 feet square, and 13 feet deep. The water came to the man's waist. Hilliker thought he was some mild lunatic who had escaped from the poor farm, and with the assistance of neighbors got him out and gave him dry clothing. They notified the poor farm superintendent, who, having heard of the murder, notified
the sheriff.

At the jail Trumbley declared he knew nothing of what had happened.
When told of his wife's death he declared he was innocent of all charges.
Some one said his wife was not burned to death, but had been found with her throat cut. This dazed him for a moment. But he again stated that he was innocent of any crime.

Trumbley is the son of an old settler here, his father being wealthy. He is 33 years old and has been married about ten years. His wife's home was in Duluth. He was a lumber inspector and for several years did a good business. Lately, however, he has been going to the dogs and was considered crazy by nearly everybody who met him, but was not thought to be dangerous. Last fall he ran for the office of county clerk on a stump ticket and got just fourteen votes in the county. He carried on a campaign of a peculiar nature, and several times made threats against the lives of other candidates.

WILL GIVE UP.

A Prison Contracting Firm Decides to Quit Jackson.

JACKSON, Jan. 2.—The Withington & Cooley Manufacturing company, the largest manufacturers of agricultural tools and implements in the world, located in the Jackson state prison, has served notice that it will terminate all its contracts for the employment of convict labor on June 1, 1895. The company is incorporated and does a business exceeding $800,- 000 a year, employing 300 convicts and from 75 to 100 free men, most of the latter being skilled mechanics.
The cause which led to this action is stated by Gen. W. H. Withington to be the constant and increasing hostility of labor elements in Jackson and throughout Michigan to convict labor.
The Withington & Cooley company is not decided upon a location but is quite likely to leave Jackson.

and banking business. He was president of the First national bank of Sturgis fifteen years and one of the

was a republican in politics.

cision is in favor of the Elliott comissued on complaint of Mayor Mer-ahon for the arrest of Rev. William tional church, who has been the most vigorous in bringing accusations of dishonesty and incompetency against the city officials. Damages to the extent of $5,000 are asked for.

Was Murdered.

DETROIT, Dec. 29.—The inquest on the body of Emil J. Nossek, who was brutally murdered Sunday night, was held Friday and the jury brought in a verdict that he came to his death at the hands of persons unknown. The five young men who were arrested for the crime are still under arrest.

Accidentally Killed Himself.

LANSING, Dec. 27.—E. E. Young, ally shot while cleaning a revolver

the weapon was discharged and the middle-aged man and leaves a widow and several children.

The Discovery Saved His Life.

Mr. G. Caillouette, druggist, Beaversville, Ill., says:
"To Dr. King's Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with La Grippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store better, and after using three bottles was up and round again. It is worth
