CITY AND VICINITY.

Lathers are still at work on the new hotel at Macatawa Park.

C. Blom has disposed of his bottling works to the Finley Brewing Co., of Toledo, O.

There are quite a number who want to put in electric lights and are only waiting for the capacity of the city plant to be increased.

Preliminary arrangements are being made in Grand Rapids for the annual convention of the American College League, which will be held in that city next April.

Ice eight inches thick and clear as a crystal is now being harvested on Macatawa Bay. Those who are gathering it say they do not know when they have found ice of so superior a quality so early in the season.

Monday evening the air was crisp and frosty and Dame Mercury went out on a frolic for the first time this year. She hugged the zero cypher closely until midnight when there was a downward tendency and the lowest point reached was four below. The weather moderated considerably on Tuesday morning.

W. C. Horner of Grand Rapids last week purchased from Mrs. M. R. Scott a lot on the corner of Blue Belle court and Lakeside walk, Macatawa Park, and presented it to his wife Emily M. Horner as a New Year's present. As soon as the weather permits he will erect an eight-room cottage costing in the neighborhood of $1,000 on the property and have it ready for occupancy early in June.

At a meeting of the teachers and officers of Hope church Sunday school, held on Friday evening at the home of G. J. Diekema, the latter was chosen superintendent. The other officers selected were: secretary and treasurer, E. P. Stephan; chorister, Prof. J. B. Nykerk; organist, Mrs. C. C. Gilmore; librarian, Miss Nellie Pfantlehl. Refreshments were served and the evening spent in social intercourse.

At eleven o'clock on Monday an alarm was rung in from Box 21, on account of a fire in the undertaking rooms of John Alberti. Both hose companies responded promptly and before the flames had gained much headway streams had been turned on through both the main and rear entrances to the basement, where the fire was located. The dense smoke emanating from the doors and windows made the fire a nasty one to fight, but the firemen soon had it under control. The smoke permeated the entire building and it was with considerable difficulty that F. C. Hall, his wife and mother, who occupied the upper floor, made their escape without being suffocated. Mr. Alberti's tools, caskets, shrouds, etc., were badly damaged and the loss, estimated at $500, will be complete, as he carried no insurance on his stock. The loss sustained on the building has been adjusted at $119.30, by the Commercial Union of which J. O. Doesburg is the local agent. As to C. L. Streng & Son their loss is harder to ascertain, the stock having suffered largely on account of water and smoke, more particularly the latter. They carry policies to the amount of $3,800 in six companies: the Hamburg & Bremen, Palatine, London & Lancashire, Guardian Fire & Life, Grand Rapids and Commercial Union Insurance Companies. Adjusters are on the ground and consider the loss a hard one to estimate. The fire originated on the floor of the basement and Mr. Alberti is at loss to know how it started as there was no stove in that part of the building. LATER.—The damage on the stock of C. L. Streng & Son is much less than was first supposed, and has been adjusted Friday noon.

After a holiday vacation of two weeks the students of Hope College and the Theological Seminary resumed their studies on Monday morning. There were a number in attendance who were not present last year.

The annual meeting of the Y.M.C.A. will be held in Bergen Hall, Wednesday evening, Jan. 16, at 7:30 o'clock, for the election of officers and the hearing of annual reports. All members, active and associate, are requested to attend.

Hugh Bradshaw has not fully made up his mind to abandon his Holland and Chicago steamboat line next season. It was reported that he would take the Mable Bradshaw to Pentwater, but there is some talk of organizing a transportation company with a capital stock of $25,000. A number of our citizens have been solicited to take stock in the enterprise but so far nothing has been done.

The farmers in western and southern Michigan are coming to the conclusion that there is no money in trying to compete with the Dakota, Argentine, Russian, and India wheat growers, and are going into fruit growing on a larger scale than ever. The success that has attended the efforts of the Michigan fruit growers the past four or five years, the last season especially, is a great factor in the change from grain to fruit.

Rumors are flying about to the effect that there will be somewhat of a boom on the North Side during the coming spring and summer. In addition to the foundry and pump plant talked of for the Van Dyk mill site, the News is reliably informed that parties are negotiating for a portion of the land owned by the Howard estate, with a view of platting it into lots, of different sizes, some of them large enough for vegetable raisers.

On Wednesday afternoon Captain Crawford and Hermanus Boone were testing the merits of their respective roadsters on Eighth street, when the former collided with James Brouwer's delivery sleigh. The captain's horse, which by the way is a spirited one from the blue grass region, very dexterously jumped a hitching post in front of Walsh's drug store and left the cutter and occupants on top of it. No one was hurt and the only damage was a broken dash board.

There was quite a commotion Tuesday afternoon at the depot when the report gained circulation that the flagman at the Eighth street crossing had fallen and broken his leg. A number of railroad men gathered around, offered assistance and extended sympathies, and one was so kind as to ring up the office of the railway surgeon. However, when the flagman explained that his wooden leg had become detached at the knee, the sympathy was all with the other fellows.

The greatest musical event, not only of the season, but in the history of Holland, will take place on Wednesday evening, the 30th inst., when "King Rene's Daughter" will be sung by thirty of the best female voices in the city. This cantata is a musical composition of high rank, and at the same time melodious enough to be appreciated by all classes. Those who have attended the rehearsals admit they have never heard such singing in Holland. Another pleasant feature of the evening will be a preliminary program of songs and duets, by Mr. Francis Campbell and Mrs. F. M. Davies of Grand Rapids, two of the finest singers in the state. The latter will also sing some of the solos in the cantata. The citizens of Holland are to be specially congratulated in securing her, for it is claimed we have never had a better female singer in the city.

In the arson case of Slagh, Smith and Steffens, on trial in the circuit court next week, we learn that G. J. Diekema will not appear as counsel on the part of the defense. With Geo. E. Kollen will be associated M. H. Dunham, an attorney of Grand Rapids. On the part of the People it is intimated that owing to the relations between Pros. Atty Visscher and two of the respondents, he will be assisted by J. C. Post.

Pope, vice president; J. C. Post, treasurer; W. J. Garrod, secretary, and F. C. Hall, manager. Considering that there was not the usual demand for building stone during the past year the annual report was fairly encouraging. The officials anticipate a prosperous and profitable business for 1895.

The Russian Thistle—A Scourge to Agriculture.

In 1891 the Russian thistle was first reported to the Department of Agriculture at Washington. The weed, which has become the worst scourge that has ever afflicted agriculture in the Prairie States, was introduced from Russia and sown in Bonhomme county, South Dakota. In 1892 it had caused damage amounting to several millions of dollars.

Reports to the department in November, 1893, showed all the counties of South Dakota, east of the Missouri river, and twenty counties in North Dakota infested by the thistle. Its presence was also reported in four places west of the Missouri, two counties in Minnesota, three in Iowa and four in Nebraska. The seed was scattered from Denver to Madison, Wis., and from the Red River of the North into Kansas on the south. The dry season of 1894 leaves a territory of 200,000 square miles thoroughly infested by this scourge and an area of 100,000 has felt its presence as a destructive blight upon all grain crops.

Owing to the drought over this grain-growing region, no correct estimate of actual damage by Russian thistle can be formed. In the Dakotas thousands of fields of grain and flax that would have yielded a partial crop were abandoned. No harvester or thrasher has been found to handle a crop infested by this pest. It clogs the machinery, fouls the grain, and renders fall plowing impossible. The land must first be cleared of thistles before it can be plowed. If thistles are plowed under, even when partially matured, they will spring up more quickly than ever through six inches of soil.

The treeless, wind-swept prairie States are the home of the thistle. It is distributed by the wind, which rolls the full grown ball-shaped plants, from one to six feet in diameter and each holding from 20,000 to 200,000 seeds. Like the tumbleweed, it bounds over the prairie with a movement resembling that of a jack rabbit traveling hundreds of miles, leaping over or breaking down fences, carrying fire before the wind, or endangering property by accumulating in heaps of inflammable material. Horses or cattle cannot be driven across a field rankly grown up to thistles. No animal will eat it after its myriad of sharp spikes appear.

Grain elevators closed, railroads without traffic, farmers without crops, settlers leaving large acres of otherwise rich farming lands, vast regions without a furrow turned where in other seasons all the grain lands were plowed for next year's crop—these are the signs on every hand of the vast devastation wrought by the Russian thistle in the Dakotas. At present it is impossible to predict the future ravages of a scourge that has caused damage this year running into the scores of millions and that may drive the grain farmer out of all the prairie States.

The first effects of the thistle will be to drive farmers in the infested region to tilling more cultivated crops. The grain acreage in this region will be reduced from fifty to seventy-five per cent. The granger railroads will show enormous falling off in grain freight receipts for the last quarter of 1895, as about three elevators out of four are closed for want of crops. An immense emigration is taking place of the region mentioned.—Scientific American.

Convict Labor.

Last week we made brief mention of the organization of the "Michigan State Manufacturers' Association," of which Mayor Hummer of this city was elected president. The problem this association is to wrestle with is that of convict labor, in our state reformatory institutions. The manner in which they intend to proceed is best given in the following resolutions, adopted at the first meeting:

WHEREAS, The present very unsatisfactory condition with respect to the employment of convict labor in the penal institutions of our state, being neither in line with economy, nor with good public policy respecting competition with free labor; and

WHEREAS, The late constitutional convention of the state of New York, after an exhaustive discussion on the subject of convict labor, and in the light of years of experiment and experience with the question, adopted the following as the best solution of the question, the same being submitted to the people of the state of New York at their last general election and approved by an overwhelming majority:

"Sec. 29. The legislature shall, by law, provide for the occupation and employment of prisoners sentenced to the several state prisons, penitentiaries, jails and reformatories in the state, and on and after the first day of January in the year 1897 no person in any such prison, penitentiary, jail or reformatory shall be required or allowed to work, while under sentence thereon, at any trade industry or occupation, wherein or whereby his work or the product of his work shall be farmed out, contracted or sold to any person, firm, association or corporation. This section shall not be construed to prevent the legislature from providing that convicts may work for, and that the products of their labor may be disposed of to the state or any political division thereof, or for any public institution owned or managed and controlled by the state or any political division thereof;" therefore,

Resolved, That we, the Michigan State Furniture Manufacturers' Association, do most heartily approve of this solution of the problem of convict labor, and would earnestly recommend to our legislature that they immediately submit a constitutional amendment on the same lines as the law governing the matter in New York, to be submitted to the electors of the state at the next general election for their approval; and we would recommend the insertion after the word "reformatory" of the following clause: "whether under state, county or municipal control."

The association, by this resolution, declares its intention of fighting not only convict made furniture, but any and all lines of manufacture which enter into free competition with regularly manufactured goods. It is thus hoped to enlist in the movement the labor unions and manufacturers of other lines in the state.

For the HOLLAND CITY NEWS
Michigan Missions.

The following letter of thanks was received by the W. C. T. U. of the city from the missionary who is devoting her life to the poor miners of the Northern Peninsula. It shows such want and suffering that we are asked to print extracts from it, in the hope that the hearts of our people may be opened in their behalf.

All contributions of clothing, or money, will be thankfully received in behalf of the W. C. T. U. by Mrs. R. N. DeMerrell, Eighth street, and forwarded to Saint St. Marie.

SAINT ST. MARIE, Mich., Dec. 1894.
My Dear Friend—Many thanks to your people for the box of excellent and varied mission supplies, clothing, etc. The dear Master will reward, who said "Ye did it unto me." God bless you also for the seven dollars, so greatly needed.

We cannot tell you how the receipt of that box answered prayer. Oh! how we need help; but we are trusting, and your help has strengthened our faith. We can give you no possible estimate of the good being done.

We have never had a month like the last so full of work of matters of most thrilling interest. After the absence on important business I came home to find the work complicated and overwhelming. During all the rush of getting off supplies to the fire sufferers and to the camps, we have had constant sickness in our Rescue Home. The hard times and dreadful fires have greatly added to our Mission Work, while we have been unable through lack of means, to add to our workers. Workers are only partly paid, and other bills are to be met. The distress is great among the miners. We write amid sickness and great anxiety. * * *

Every known brothel has been closed during the last month, through the influence and work of this mission. We are praying that God may bring great good out of the deep trials we are passing through. One poor creature, that we feared would not live, is still in a very weak condition, and most of the time deranged. It is one of the saddest cases and, could all the story be known, it would thrill the whole country.

Are there not those in happy homes, who will remember us in this work so full of sorrow?
Gratefully yours,
EMMA C. NASOM.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

During the past year meetings have been held on Monday evening of each week with an average attendance of 60. The gospel services have been conducted by the active members and also by some of the sustaining members, to whom we are very grateful for their interest taken in our behalf.

Thirty-four new names have been added to our list, making the total number enrolled 102, of which 65 are active and 34 associate; also a large number of sustaining members, which we hope to see doubled the coming year.

The meetings were continued during the summer, the good attendance giving evidence of the interest taken. We received a visit from our state secretary, Miss Cary, who gave us some suggestions and considerable encouragement.

In April a musical was given under the auspices of Prof. Campbell, which was a pleasant as well as a profitable affair.

New bibles and hymn books have been procured for the use of the association.

A number of our friends generously donated books for our reading room, which have been read and enjoyed by the girls. Our reading rooms have been opened several afternoons and readings given by Mrs. Post, Mrs. Browning, and several of the members. We hope to do more in that line in the future.

The social committee, by giving an entertainment, were able to have the picture of Miss Lizzie Cappon, our former president, now missionary in China, enlarged and placed on an easel in the parlor, making an ornament of which we are all proud.

A reception was given to the Normal students and instructors, who in turn contributed six dollars for the use of the society.

Several surprise societies have been enjoyed by the girls, enabling them to become better acquainted.

The Y. W., with assistance of the Y. M. C. A., sent out Thanksgiving baskets to the poor and needy.

The bazaar was both a social and a financial success, at which we realized about twenty-eight dollars.

Some of our members have married and entered on other fields of labor, but still remain in touch with the association.

THE ONWARD MARCH

of Consumption is stopped short by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. If you haven't waited beyond reason, there's complete recovery and cure.

Although by many believed to be incurable, there is the evidence of hundreds of living witnesses to the fact that, in all its earlier stages, consumption is a curable disease. Not every case, but a large percentage of cases, and we believe, fully 98 per cent. are cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, even after the disease has progressed so far as to induce repeated bleedings from the lungs, severe lingering cough with copious expectoration (including tubercular matter) and great loss of flesh and extreme emaciation and weakness.

Do you doubt that hundreds of such cases reported to us as cured by "Golden Medical Discovery" were genuine cases of that dread and fatal disease? You need not take our word for it. They have, in nearly every instance, been so pronounced by the best and most experienced home physicians, who have no interest whatever in misrepresenting them, and who were often strongly prejudiced and advised against a trial of "Golden Medical Discovery," but who have been forced to confess that it surpasses in curative power over this fatal malady, all other medicines with which they are acquainted. Nasty cod-liver oil and its filthy "emulsions" and mixtures, had been tried in nearly all these cases and had either utterly failed to benefit, or had only seemed to benefit a little for a short time. Extract of malt, whiskey, and various preparations of the hypophosphites had also been faithfully tried in vain.

The photographs of a large number of those cured of consumption, bronchitis, lingering coughs, asthma, chronic nasal catarrh and kindred maladies, have been skillfully reproduced in a book of 160 pages which will be mailed to you, on receipt of address and six cents in stamps. You can then write those cures and learn their experience. Address: World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N.Y.

Interest shown by the citizens has encouraged and strengthened us.

ENDING A FAMILY ROW.

A Wife's Strategem for Getting Even with Her Stubborn Husband.

The other evening, says the New York Recorder, as a muscular person was passing a house, a lady who stood at the gate called out to him: "Sir, I appeal to you for protection!"

"What's the matter?" he asked, as he stopped short.

"There's a man in the house and he wouldn't go out of doors when I ordered him to."

"He wouldn't, eh? We'll see about that." Thereupon the man gave the woman his coat to hold and sailed into the house. He found a man at the supper table and took him by the neck and remarked: "Nice style of brute you are, eh? Come out of this or I'll break every bone in your body!"

The man fought, and it was not until a chair had been broken and the table upset that he was hauled out of doors by the legs and given a fling through the gates.

"Now, then, you brass faced old tramp, you move on or I'll finish you!"

"Tramp! Tramp!" shouted the victim as he got up. "I'm no tramp! I own this property and live in this house!"

"You do?"

"Yes, and that's my wife holding your coat."

"Thunder!" whispered the muscular man, and he gazed from one to the other and realized that it was the wife's method of finishing a row she had been having with her husband. And then he made a grab for his coat and disappeared into the darkness.

"If all the gold in mint or bank, All earthly things that man can wealth Were mine, with every titled rank, I'd give them all for precious health."

Thus in anguish wrote a lady teacher to a near friend, telling of pitiless headaches, of smarting pain, of pain in back and loins, of dejection, weakness and nervous feverish unrest. The friend knew both causes and cure and flashed back the answer: "Take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription." The distressed teacher obeyed, was restored to perfect health, and her daily duties once more became a daily pleasure. For lady teachers, sale ladies and others kept long standing, or broken down by extorting work, the Prescription is a most potent restorative tonic, and a certain cure for all female weaknesses.

Holland City News.

G. VAN SCHELVEN, Editor.

SATURDAY, JAN. 12.

Keep the Ball Rolling.

The News has from time to time during the past year kept its readers informed as to the number of buildings constructed and in course of construction, and the year has witnessed many substantial additions to the city's modern residences, hand some blocks, and public buildings. The city, regardless of the financial depression, has kept step with the march of progress. To use the expression of the race track, "it has been trotting out of its class," not only in population but in every other respect, and to-day there is not a city in Michigan of the same proportion that has maintained an equally healthy and steady growth.

It is not our purpose at this time to give a review of what has been done, but some information of what is in prospect for 1905. "Forward, still forward," will be the motto, and the year will witness the same unyielding tread as did the one just closed. Many new structures have already been determined upon that will be required either for homes of families or to furnish facilities for the transaction of public or private business, while the character, cost and architecture will be kept up to the standard.

Reference has previously been made to C. Blom Jr.'s proposed candy factory. We are now authorized to say that the plans drawn by James Huntley have been accepted, and material for the structure will be placed upon the grounds at once. The plans adopted provide for a two-story brick block, with a frontage of 60 feet and a depth of 80 feet. On the ground floor there will be three roomy stores, with plateglass front while the entire second floor will be devoted to candy manufacturing for the wholesale trade. The front on River street will be of pressed brick, with Waverly stone trimmings and of ornamental design. Everything will be of the most modern and substantial character. This plant when completed will be operated by steam and will keep about 25 men and boys employed. Mr. C. Blom Jr. goes to Chicago early next week, where he is to meet representatives of a New York firm and contract for his machinery, which will be of the latest and most improved pattern. This machinery will be adapted to turning out all grades, from the finest creams and mixed candies to the cheap sticks found at the corner grocery. Mr. Blom has already fully demonstrated that he understands the business and that he will make a success of this new enterprise.

Ground has already been broken for a new two-story business block, to be built by Fred Hall, which will have a frontage of 30 feet on Eighth street, and a depth of 75 feet. Joining this with a partnership wall R. N. DeMerrell will erect a building of the same height and depth and a frontage of 26 feet. Both of these structures will have Waverly stone fronts, of different design, with projecting bay windows in accordance with plans drawn by Architect Price. Negotiations have been pending for some days for the purchase of the property adjoining Mr. Hall to the eastward, owned by J. W. Bosman, but they have not yet been brought to a satisfactory termination. This purchase was with a view to building and opera house in the rear, with main entrance from Eighth street and outlet on Seventh street. If this project is carried into effect it will necessitate changing the plans of the other buildings from two to three stories, so that the auditorium of the theatre could be of that height.

Charles H. Ely, a former resident of Allegan, but who recently moved to this city, has secured the necessary site for a planing mill and wood working manufactory on the lake front near Central wharf and will begin operations at once. Three carloads of machinery for the plant have already been received and will be set in position as soon as the building is completed.

The 250 employees of C. L. King & Co. will be pleased to know that the wheels of industry will again revolve in this mammoth establishment on Monday, after having been idle for nearly two months. During that period the entire plant has been thoroughly overhauled and new machinery added, which will materially increase the capacity over last year. A new veneer machine has been put in, which will make four in operation. An office has been built on the Eleventh street front, which is provided with plenty of desk room and burglar proof vaults. This building was designed by James Price and erected by James Huntley.

There is now a new conception of the enormous amount of business transacted by this firm. During last year between 6,000,000 and 7,000,000 feet of logs were sawed and a large proportion of this lumber was utilized in the manufacture of fruit packages, butter plates and veneers.

During 1894 over 75,000,000 butter dishes were sold, to say nothing of the millions upon millions of baskets, etc. The plant is the largest of its kind in existence, and the goods turned out find a ready market not only in all portions of the United States, but also in Europe, South America, and Australia. The management aims in every way to keep abreast of the times and to meet all competitors in price, quality, and design.

The most recent talk of industry for Holland is a piano manufactory, although several other enterprises of equal importance are being considered on the quiet. A gentleman who visited the city this week from Chicago says that Mr. Bush, formerly of the firm of Bush & Girt, piano manufacturers of that city, is thinking seriously of locating a plant in Holland. He but recently withdrew from the firm and has since been looking about for a location, as he proposes again investing his capital in the same line of business. Holland impressed him as being one of the most favorable points visited, as much of the material used comes from Michigan, and portions of the work can be contracted out to the furniture factories already located here. A manufacturing establishment of this kind will give employment to a good many men, numbers of whom will be skilled and experienced workmen. The Chicago plant turns out on an average 150 instruments a week.

Architect Price has been instructed by Andrew Sketee to prepare plans and estimates for a new front to his double store building on Eighth street. Mr. Sketee thinks it his duty to keep up with the procession and proposes having attractive plate glass windows. All those little improvements add materially to appearances and have a stimulating effect on others.

Many more are figuring on erecting buildings during the coming season; among them are W. C. Walsh, Boot & Kramer, William Swift, and H. Kiekintvelt, but their plans are not as yet completed.

January Session of the Board of Supervisors.

The board met in adjourned session Monday, and finished its labors Wednesday.

Frank Allen of Tallmadge asked for a renewal of his charter to run a ferry across Grand River at Lamont, which was granted.

County treasurer Pelgrim made his annual report, which was referred to the committee on finance.

The bonds of the several county officers were presented, referred to the committee on finance and subsequently approved.

The problem of how to treat and dispose of tramps was brought up, eliciting quite a discussion, and lead to the adoption of a resolution favoring an amendment to existing laws whereby parties sentenced to imprisonment in default of payment of fine and costs may be required to perform manual labor.

The contract with the Detroit House of Correction, for the detention of prisoners committed from Ottawa county, being about to expire, the same was ordered renewed for the term of five years.

The usual amount of claims were presented and allowed.

The clerk and judge of probate were authorized exclusively to purchase the necessary blanks and stationery for the county during the ensuing year.

The clerk, treasurer and janitor were directed to take an inventory of the furniture and fixtures in the court house and file the same with the county treasurer.

The register of deeds was directed to cause Libers "C" and "D" of indexes to deeds to be copied into new books, those now in use being worn out.

In the matter of the mandamus suit of Dr. Wetmore vs. The Board of Supervisors, involving a balance ($180.00) claimed to be due the complainant for medical services rendered in the Olive diphtheria cases, the clerk reported that Judge Padgham had filed his decision dismissing the bill with costs against the complainant, on the grounds that no contract had been entered into between the parties, that the Olive board of health had allowed the claim without due investigation, and that the account was not sufficiently itemized.

Permission was given to Geo. D. Turner to re-let to Cha's E. Soule the two basement rooms in the court house leased to the former for abstract office.

The list of appointees made by the board in 1895, under the act of 1885 providing for the burial of honorably discharged soldiers and sailors, in certain cases, was revised and upon a recall of the several towns and wards the following were appointed: Allendale—Henry C. "You goose," laughed fat old Mrs. Wise,

The New York Sun has revived a significant declaration of Samuel J. Tilden, made some time after the close of the civil war, to the effect that the Democratic party, though broken down at that time, would once more gain control of the government. Mr. Tilden, however, was of the opinion that the party would have to rely upon the support of the South in order to secure that control. He was further of the opinion that the South would insist upon ruling the Democratic party and would foist its old-time ideas and measures upon it. In which case, said Mr. Tilden: "The whole country will protest. The United States will never consent to be again governed by the South or by Southern ideas. The Democracy will be voted down, and then its last situation will be worse than the first." Mr. Tilden's memorable prophecy has come true to the very letter. It will furnish significant reading for Mr. Cleveland and for those Democratic leaders who thought to achieve success by a combination with Populism and a surrender to Southern ideas.

The meeting at Bergen Hall on Monday evening for the discussion of topics of the day was an interesting one. The attendance was good, and the subject of silver coinage was discussed by G. P. RANDOM JOTTINGS AND OBSERVATIONS AT HOME AND ABROAD.

"This talk about hens going on a strike and refusing to lay eggs, is all bosh," said a woman, engaged in the poultry business the other day. "I have about three hundred chickens and get close to 150 eggs every day; and I'll tell you how it is done. Every night at ten o'clock I get up and feed my hens by lamp light. You may laugh at the idea, but wait until I reason it out to you. This time of the year chickens go to roost at half past three or four o'clock in the afternoon and there they stay until about six the next morning. It is too long for them to go without eating, consequently they do not properly propagate their eggs. At first I had very hard work to get them off the perches at night and virtually had to drive and beat them. Now I have them educated, and the moment I enter the pens with my feed and lantern they are after me and as ready for the food as if it were broad day light." We give this novel information as coming from a woman residing not many miles from Holland, who has had remarkable success with poultry and is an indefatigable worker. She built her own houses and brooders, cares for her own flocks, and markets her own products, besides looking after a forty-acre farm.

Concerning the hard times and the fact that people have not had the money to travel with that they did formerly, the business of the Chicago & West Michigan Railway has kept up exceedingly well during 1894. The traffic, both freight and passenger, has been from exceptionally large this point, and Holland still retains the reputation of being one of the best paying stations on the entire system of the road. Even now the freight carrying capacity of the road is fully taxed. Another very noticeable and praiseworthy feature is the harmonious relations that seem to exist as between the management and the employees. The men have had but few grievances and these have been satisfactorily adjusted without delay to travel or causing any bad feeling. The train service has been kept up to the usual good standard.

Holland merchants who can, in season, go to and from Chicago on staunch and commodious steamers at a moderate price and have their freight promptly and speedily handled in the same way, can hardly realize what our local tradesmen had to contend with in the days "before the big fire." Then the bulk of the carrying trade was done by schooners, and goods shipped from Chicago and New York were frequently on the road from fifteen days to five weeks. Steps were at one time taken to establish a boat line and a steamer was secured, but owing to lack of support on the part of the merchants and citizens, the project had to be abandoned. About this time some wags of the town organized a "stock company," having for the object the establishment of a "Lightning Express." The advantages to be gained were: First, a thorough line, summer and winter. Second, no detention on account of wind or weather. Third, a deduction from the exorbitant rates paid sailing vessels. Fourth, all bills payable in store dicker. Negotiations were opened with Mr. Heringa, with a view of putting his horse "old Pete" on the route; but the enterprise fell through when the postmaster, Hon. John Roost, informed the committee having the matter in charge that Uncle Sam declined to award the mail carrying contract to be paid for in store dicker.

I have heard Dr. Christian Ogel relate some very amusing anecdotes about the natives of the West Indies, but the following, told me a few days ago by another Reformed minister who for years was a resident of the Dutch possessions in the South Atlantic, is worth repeating: I was walking along the streets of St. Thomas, he said, when my attention was attracted by the cries of an old gentleman who looked as if he might be close to one hundred years of age. I asked him the reason of his weeping, when the wrinkled and grey-headed old man replied that his father had just whipped him. My curiosity was aroused and I asked the old man to take me to see his father. He led me to a hut a short distance away and pointed out his father, whom I took to task for chastizing a son so advanced in years. His only apology was: "Yes, I whipped him; the rascal has been throwing stones at his grandfather."

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS.

1. The two great creative minds of the 17th century were Milton and Bunyan.
2. Milton was nick-named the lady, from his beautiful and delicate taste and morality.
3. Recuyell of the Historyes of Troye, put through the press at Bruges in 1414, was the first book published in the English tongue.
4. Shakespeare was the greatest dramatist; his greatest tragedy was Hamlet.
5. The Canterbury Tales were written independently, and then fitted into the framework of the Prologue. In 1388; others were added until Chaucer's death. The holiday excursions of the time were three or four days' journeys, to see the shrine of St. Thomas at Canterbury, the seat of the metropolitan see of all England. Persons of all ranks in London life met and travelled together, starting from an inn. Chaucer seized on this as the frame in which to set his pictures of life. He grouped around the jovial host of the Tabard Inn, men and women of every class of society, set them on horseback to ride to Canterbury and made each tell a tale. These pure tales take in the whole range of poetry of the middle ages, the legends of the saint, the romance of the knight, wonderful fables of the traveller, the coarse tale of common life, the love story, the allegory, the satirical lay, and the apologue.
6. More's Utopia represents an imaginary island discovered by a companion of Vespucci, as enjoying the greatest perfection in law, politics and religion, in contradistinction to the defects of those then existing elsewhere. The name has passed into all languages of Europe to signify a state of ideal perfection.
7. For convenience, otherwise the dividend and divisor must be reduced to similar fractions, as in addition or subtraction, and the numerator of the former divided by the latter.
8. The Arabic notation was introduced into Europe by the Arabs, who borrowed it from the Hindoes, about 773 A. D., among whom it had been in use more than 2,000 years. For this reason it is sometimes called Indian notation.

A Chance to Make Money.

In the past week I have made $125 and attended to my household duties. I think I will do better next week. It seems the more Dish Washers I sell the more demand I have for them. I think any lady or gentleman can make money in this business anywhere. It is something every family wants, and when they can be bought so cheap, they buy them, and the person who has enterprise enough to take an agency is bound to make money.

I wish any of your readers that wish to make from $5 to $12 a day would try this business and report their success.

AN OLD COLD.

IS CHRONIC CATARRH THE WORST DISEASE KNOWN.

The first stage of catarrh is commonly called catching cold. It may begin in the head, nose, throat or lungs. In the majority of cases no attention is paid to a cold, therefore nearly half the people have chronic catarrh in some form. To neglect a cold is to invite catarrh.

The second stage of catarrh is sometimes called an old cold. If in the head, there is roaring, cracking in the ears, periodical headache, and confusion of the senses. If in the nose, discharge, noisy breathing, sneezing, and bad breath. If in the throat it produces enlarged tonsils, hoarseness, sore throat, hoarseness, or weak voice. When catarrh reaches the bronchial tubes and lungs it produces cough, pain in the chest, expectoration, night sweats, loss of flesh and shortness of breath.

A cold in the head, which a single bottle of Pe-ru-na will cure, soon becomes a case of chronic catarrh, which will require many bottles to entirely cure. A sore throat which one bottle of Pe-ru-na will cure, soon becomes chronic pharyngitis or enlarged tonsils, which will require many bottles; a slight cough, which, without a vestige of doubt, would soon disappear with the use of Pe-ru-na, becomes chronic bronchitis, which requires a persistent use of Pe-ru-na for some time.

There are a great many cases of consumption each year due directly to a neglect of coughs, colds, etc., which, if Pe-ru-na has been kept in the house and used according to directions, would have been prevented.

For a free treatise on catarrh, colds, coughs, consumption, and all diseases of winter address

WHY HE QUIT GAMBLING.

A Virginian Who Was Ashamed of Himself for Winning.

That a man should look after money lost in gambling with penitent eyes and vow never again to be tempted to like sinful foolishness seems not so strange. But Gen. Maury, in his "Recollections of a Virginian," tells how he was led to a similar decision by an opposite experience. The occurrence took place while he was an instructor at West Point.

We had a very jovial and humorous set of young officers at the academy for several years after the Mexican war, and great kindness of feeling prevailed. We played whist, dice points, faro and brag at the same moderate rate. It was noted that at faro we almost invariably broke the bank.

One winter I was laid up for many weeks by an injury to my leg, received while riding, and my room, during all that time, was the gathering place after dinner. The card table was drawn up to my bed, and I played my hand until tired and sleepy.

One night we were playing brag, and as I became drowsy, little Frank Clarke said he would play my hand for me while I slept. When I awoke, the next morning, I found under my pillow the greatest amount I had ever won at cards.

I reflected that it was a demoralizing amusement; that avarice, the basest of human passions, was its moving impulse; that often, at the card table, I observed some show of feeling that left an unpleasant remembrance against a comrade, and that none of us could afford to win or lose even a few dollars; so I ceased all play for money, and have been glad of it ever since.

SUPERSTITIONS ABOUT GARLIC.

In Bologna the Plant Is Regarded as the Symbol of Abundance.

Garlic was the cause of the loss of toes and fingers in one of the Arabian Nights' tales ("The Purveyor's Story"). In Cuba "thirteen cloves of garlic at the end of a cord, worn around the neck for thirteen days, are considered a safeguard against jaundice." On the thirteenth night the wearer must go to a street corner, throw the charm behind him and run home without looking to see what becomes of it. In Bologna, whence comes the redolent passage, garlic is regarded as the symbol of abundance, and is bought as a charm at the midsummer festival.

To dream of it foretells the finding of a hidden treasure and a domestic quarrel, says the Pittsburgh Dispatch. Pliny, Ptolemy and Plutarch say garlic destroys the magnetism of the compass needle. Bunches of these plants are hung about the cabins of Greek and Turkish vessels to prevent the effects of the evil eye. In Poland the look is represented in Christ's hands in paintings.

The onion was still more important from its use in divination and love charm and its importance in dreams. "Crommyonancy" was the name given to divination by onions.

Maidens who desired to know who were to be their husbands wrote the names of their lovers on the outside of several onions and placed them on the altar on Christmas evening. The first to sprout designated the future spouse. To judge of future wealth, the onion was cut into and twelve cups made from it. These were filled with salt and put in a row on Christmas eve. If they were wet the next morning riches awaited the person performing the feat.

SNAKE POISON.

Dr. Calmette's Interesting Experiments in Inoculating Rabbits with Pure Venom.

"I have taken a lot of rabbits," said the doctor, "and inoculated them with one milligramme each of pure snake venom, the amount being several times more than a mortal dose. These I have treated with serum of varying strength, the lowest being from a rabbit inoculated with four milligrammes and the highest from a rabbit inoculated with twenty-six milligrammes of pure venom," quotes McClure's Magazine.

"Four milligrammes of venom is a mortal dose for ten pounds of rabbits and twenty-six milligrammes would suffice to cause death among sixty. It gave me, consequently, a very powerful serum. The longer the time after the inoculation the stronger was the grade of serum used upon the poisoned subjects. Thus, after twenty minutes, I successfully arrested the action of the poison with the weakest serum, while the strongest saved the rabbit after the lapse of an hour and a half. Those not treated therapeutically died in two hours.

"I find, generally speaking, about five cubic centimeters of the serum from one milligramme are necessary to make the animal proof against one milligramme of pure venom. I also find that I can use three distinct specifics in inoculating a rabbit, and, by all analogy, a man, against the bite of the most poisonous snake or as an antidote after they have been bitten. These are, first, the serum from an envenomed animal by itself; secondly, this serum mixed with chloride of gold or the hypochlorite of sodium or of lime; and, thirdly, either of these chemicals, or, preferably, chloride of lime, used by themselves without serum.

"I have not inoculated any man against snake-bites as yet. That is a matter for the future. I must, of course, determine how long the immunity obtained by inoculation endures in the system before venturing to make any predictions in that direction. My sole aim thus far has been to devise some means of saving persons already bitten or in danger of being bitten and I have no reason to doubt the value of my results; and I hope and believe that the terrible death-roll of twenty-two thousand persons per annum in India killed by the cobra may be appreciably diminished when we get to work there."

"What about scorpions, tarantulas and centipedes?"
"I have not undertaken them as yet but I see no reason why their venom, which is less important than that of the snakes, should not yield to the same treatment."

SOLDIERS ON BRIDGES.

They Are Ordered to Break Step to Prevent a Break-Down.

The majority of readers have doubtless heard that it is possible to "rattle a bridge down," or in other words, that music will materially injure such structures, says the St. Louis Republic. Persons who really believe that music will cause such vibrations in a bridge as to throw it from its foundation piers, if kept up for a sufficient length of time, cite the fact that when armies are marching, orders are given to stop the music before the troops reach the bridge, especially if the structure be one built on the suspension plan. But this is not done because there is any danger to the bridge on account of the vibrations caused by the music, but because the measured tread of a vast number of men keeping step would subject the structure to a greater strain than an irregular agitation. The reason of this is obvious: The bridge suffers least strain when at rest. When in uniform motion throughout all its parts it acquires a momentum equal to the entire suspended weight multiplied by the velocity of such motion. This being the case it is clear that a uniform downward vibration will soon reach the breaking strain, while the same disturbing forces, acting irregularly, would counteract each other to a certain degree, and thus be far less trying.

PRINCE, NOT WAITER.

Oliver Wendell Holmes Makes the Acquaintance of Royalty.

Another anecdote of Oliver Wendell Holmes. When he was in England in 1890 he found himself on one occasion at a "crush" in London among a great mass of people, including several royal personages. He sat quietly in a corner, but presently, feeling a little faint, and observing refreshments in the distance, he turned to an elderly personage standing near, whom he supposed to be a butler or something of that kind, and asked for a harmless beverage. The supposed servant brought this with great alacrity, and remarked: "I am very glad to meet you, Dr. Holmes." The autocrat of the breakfast table was a little taken aback, and the stranger added: "I am Prince Christian." "Dear me," said Holmes, alive at once to the joke. "I have not had much acquaintance with princes, and do you know, I took you for the waiter!" At this Prince Christian went off into a burst of merriment. "Where is my wife?" he said; "I must tell her this. She admires you immensely." Off went Prince Christian to fetch the princess, and the genial American philosopher was soon the center of a circle of royalty, greatly delighted by the incident.

His Owl Fault.

A Chicago gentleman, with a troublesome memory, had lately been taking a twenty-five-dollar course of mnemonics from a professor who has a new and, according to his own account of the matter, a thoroughly effective system. Shortly afterward, says the Chicago Tribune, a neighbor entrusted a package to this gentleman's care, which package the gentleman forgot to deliver. He made a handsome apology. His neighbor accepted it in good part, but could not forbear to ask, in a bantering tone: "But how about that twenty-five-dollar system of mnemonics?" "Oh, that's all right," was the reply. "The system isn't to blame. I only forgot to apply it, that's all."

MIXED RELATIONS.

A Prince Who Is Cousin to Himself, His Father and His Mother.

Among the hardest things which the infant Prince Edward, of the royal house of England, the little son of the Duke of York and heir expectant to the throne, will have to straighten out when he is older is his relationship to his own father and mother. It constitutes a problem such as is seldom found outside of princely houses.

It is certain, however, says the Youth's Companion, that he is the third cousin of his father, and also the second cousin of his mother. This makes his relation to himself somewhere between that of a third and fourth cousin.

He is, as it were, his own double third cousin—a relationship which it will doubtless take him some time to comprehend.
Both his father and mother are descended from George III. of England. George III.'s son Adolphus, duke of Cambridge, had a daughter Mary who married the duke of Teck, and became the mother of Princess May, who married the duke of York; and the duke of York's father, the prince of Wales, is the great-grandson of the same King George III.

The young prince will have the right to address either his mother, his father or himself as "my royal cousin," and he may, perhaps, excuse any partiality for his mother over his father by declaring that she is a nearer relation to him than his father.

The princely families of Europe supply many similar cases of tangled relationship growing out of the successive intermarriage of cousins in nearer or remoter degrees.

BEGGARY AND SUPERSTITION.

Mendicants Profit by the Belief That Giving Brings Good Luck.

Begging is a regular trade in many parts of the world. Some who practice it may almost be said to make it an art, or a profession. A good mendicant, like a good salesman, studies his customers, discovers their weak points, if he can, and trades upon them. A French writer, who has given much attention to the subject, describes at length the methods by which such people—who get their living by pauper-culture—play upon the superstitions of their victims.

There is a common notion that giving alms brings good fortune.

"Go to the sorbonne," says our French author, "on the days of examination for the bachelor's degree. See the collegians, each with his dictionary under his arm, on his way to make the famous Latin version, on the success of which all his future depends. A cloud of beggars settles down upon them.

"A son, monsieur, a morsel of bread. It will bring you happiness."

"The candidate hurries on."

"You will be blackballed, monsieur," the beggar continues.

"The sinister prediction always takes effect; the collegian pulls out his purse, and the beggar turns away chuckling." The same thing is seen at the Hotel de Ville on the days of examination for a certificate of ability for teaching; and when there are no examinations going on, there may be races; and thither go the beggars; for gamblers and sporting men are famous for their superstitions.

PHYSICAL EFFECTS OF FEAR.

Singular Influence of the Mind Over the Physical Parts.

A man, connected with a traveling menagerie was sleeping on some blankets on the floor of a tent, when something crawling over his breast roused him. Springing up, he threw off the creature, which proved to be a huge rattlesnake. As he struck it, says the New York Ledger, he felt the prick of its fangs in his arm, and, with a howl of pain and terror, bounded from the tent and shouted for help, whistling a doctor or some medicine. There chanced to be nothing available within reach, and his fellows stood around with scared faces, waiting for him to die, which he appeared likely to do in a very short time. The arm began to swell, and the poor victim was soon gasping for breath and groaning, with almost intolerable pain. At last, just as the breath seemed about to leave his body, some one among the wagons shouted out that one of the pet snakes had escaped. It was an enormous rattler, but harmless, as the fangs had been removed. The reptile was found dead under one side of the tent, where the man had lunged it. The bite proved to be the prick from a sharp tack in the canvas of the tent. In an hour the man was as well as ever, save for weakness caused by the nervous excitement. It was the opinion of all who witnessed the incident that, but for the timely discharge of the man's mind, he would have been dead within a few minutes, the victim of nervous dread and terror.

THE FLIM-FLAM TRICK.

The Uninitiated Business Man Likely to Fall an Easy Victim.

Keep your wits about you when making change, says the Shoe and Leather Gazette. It is a simple matter to be flim-flamed out of a good sum, and any merchant is liable to be a victim either of the unconscious or intentional flim-flammer. A few days ago a trade journal mentioned a case of how a bright young merchant was almost flim-flamed out of twenty dollars through this means. A customer owed a bill of one dollar and ninety-five cents and tendered a twenty-dollar gold piece in payment. The merchant pulled a couple of ten-dollar bills out of his pocket, laid them on the counter and then opened the cash drawer to get some small change. "Hold on," said the customer, "I don't want to rob you of all your change. Come to think of it, I've got a couple of silver dollars here; just give me a nickel and we will be square." And, handing the merchant two dollars, the customer picked up the twenty-dollar gold piece and dropped it into his pocket. Then he picked up the two ten-dollar bills and the nickel and laid them away with the gold piece and walked out. The merchant studied the situation a few moments and then realized that he was out twenty dollars. The customer who secured the money was an eminently respectable person, however, and the act of flim-flaming was undoubtedly a piece of absent mindedness. All flim-flammers are not of this class, unfortunately, and a close eye should be kept on the change.

A CLEVER CANINE.

He Knew a Good Doctor When He Met One.

A good dog story is all the better for being true, as the following must be supposed to be, since it is related by Gen. D. H. Maury, in his "Recollections of a Virginian." The dog in question was a black setter named Toots.

For more than ten years he was one of my family. He had his mouth on every kind of game that ever wore fur or feathers. He fought with my greyhounds in many a wolf hunt, whipped every bulldog that ever attacked him, was bitten by a rattlesnake, and sprinkled by a polecat, and had as much sense as many men and more principle.

It was while he was hunting with me that he was bitten by a rattler. I turned the place with gunpowder and carried him as quickly as I could to a doctor. Toots had never seen him before, but he allowed him to cut away the flesh and burn him with caustic, only whining softly from the extreme pain.

Some months after this, he got into a fight, and was bitten on the same foot. I was away when it happened, and he went by himself to that same doctor, and, sitting upon his haunches, as he had been taught to do, held up the injured foot for the doctor's inspection and treatment.

PERFECT CONSTITUTIONAL POWERS.

Its extraordinary curative power, manifesting itself almost immediately it is taken. On this point the evidence of those who have taken it is uniform and positive. They say they can feel the effect of every dose doing them good. It is a powerful nerve invigorating tonic, imparting its restorative influence through the medium of the nervous system to every organ and tissue of the body. It makes but little difference whether the constitutional vigor has been undermined by acute disease, overwork, or certain mischievous indiscretions; or whether the broken down condition is called by one name or other, so long as there is nervous exhaustion, general or local weakness—no loss of energy and restoration of the type of the illness, this is the remedy.

MODIFIES ITS DECISION.

Michigan Supreme Court on Distinguishing Marks on a Ballot.

LANSING, Jan. 9.—In an opinion filed Tuesday the supreme court takes all the sting out of its opinion relative to distinguishing marks on ballots, which received attention in all parts of the country two months ago. In its former opinion the court declared illegal ballots marked in any of the following ways: Where each of two tickets of different names, such as democrat and independent, on which the candidates were identical, bore a cross under the party name;
where the elector had placed a mark before the name of each candidate on his own ticket and erased the names on all the other tickets; where a candidate's name appeared for the same office on two or more tickets and the voter had placed a mark before the name on each ticket.

In the opinion the court holds that tickets marked as described should be counted. At the time the first opinion was written the justices did not know that the attorney general and secretary of state had for several years issued instructions to voters and election inspectors holding that the ballots marked thus were valid. In view of the fact that the former opinion would have disqualified thousands of voters who implicitly followed the instructions of the legal department of the state and as the law on this subject is not very clear, the court concluded that its former rulings were too rigid.

As the result of the decision Charles Yenser will have to vacate the office of comptroller of West Bay City in favor of James H. Scott, the democrat, who,
the court says, had a majority of 1.
The claim of Reuben Tasker, republican candidate for city treasurer, is sustained, the court finding that he had a majority of 8.

LAID TO REST.

Services Over the Remains of the Late

Mary T. Lathrop.

JACKSON, Jan. 8.—The funeral of Mrs.
Mary T. Lathrop, state president of the W. C. T. U., and one of the leading temperance advocates of the world, was held Monday afternoon. It was one of the largest gatherings of the kind ever held in this city. Private services were held at the residence at 2 o'clock, after which the remains were escorted to the First Methodist church by a guard of honor representing the probi-tion state committees and the Jackson W. C. T. U. The church was profusely decorated with flowers and white ribbons, and the services were deeply impressive. In addition to the funeral services there were eulogistic addresses by Rev. Samuel Dickie and local W. C. T. U. members. Letters from Frances Willard and Lady Henry Somerset were read.

WANT AN ACCOUNTING.

Receiver Is Asked for United States Savings and Loan Association.

DETROIT, Jan. 6.—C. Delos Sharpe and six other persons of Laingsburg Saturday afternoon in the Wayne county circuit court asked for the appointment of a receiver for the United States Savings and Loan association of this city.
The complainants say that Joseph H.
Moore has $20,000 of the association's money on hand and want an accounting through a receiver. The association was capitalized at $25,000,000 in 1890, and did a big business for several years.

GRANTED A NEW TRIAL.

Mrs. Ketchum, Convicted of Sitting for Nude Pictures, Has Another Chance.

LANSING, Mich., Jan. 7.—The supreme court has granted a new trial for Mrs. Catherine J. Ketchum, a local W. C. T. U. worker, who was convicted some months ago of sitting for nude pictures. The court says that the statute makes it an offense only when such pictures are procured for exhibition and circulation, and as there was no direct evidence showing this the circuit judge should have ordered a verdict of not guilty.

Portrait of Ex-Gov. Felch Presented.

JACKSON, Jan. 9.—In the supreme court Tuesday a portrait of ex-Gov.
Alpheus Felch, who was a member of the court in 1848, governor in 1846 and United States senator in 1848, was presented to the court by the bar of Calhoun county. Addresses were made by Judge Clement Smith, of Hastings, John Patterson, H. E. Winsor, and Judge Ingersoll, of Marshall, and on behalf of the court by Chief Justice McGrath. The portrait, which was executed in 1846, will be hung on the walls of the courtroom.

Gagged by Two Women.

DETROIT, Jan. 9.—Mrs. Charles Watson was found Monday night gagged and unconscious in a barn adjoining the residence where she is employed as housekeeper. Later she recovered sufficiently to say that she was assaulted by two women, who thrust a vial of liquid into her mouth, bound her and left her apparently dead. Her clothes were saturated with kerosene oil. Who were her assailants is a mystery.

Permits a Judgment of $24,000.

CHEBOYGAN, Jan. 9.—In the circuit court the attorney for the Delta Transportation company, of Chicago, let the Cheboygan Lumber company take judgment for $24,000 in a case between them growing out of the burning of the lumber company's lumber in 1890, caused, it is alleged, by sparks from the steamer Minnie M. In the first trial a verdict of $14,000 was given.

Claims World's Championship.

MEMORINE, Jan. 8.—James W. Troyer, of Sault Ste. Marie, skated an exhibition, one-half mile backward at the Ogden avenue rink.
