Snowstorm slows but doesn’t close campus

Angie Dykhuis
Editor-in-Chief

After last week’s “mild” snow in Holland, yesterday’s storm produced several inches of lake-effect precipitation, causing Hope College to be temporarily snowed in. As winds of up to 35 mph assaulted the campus, students, faculty and staff stayed indoors as much as possible. While classes were not cancelled, unplowed and unshoveled pathways served as a deterrent for unnecessary trips outside for pedestrians on campus.

Single-digit temperatures, subzero windchills and multiple inches of snow struck West Michigan communities yesterday. The on-campus shuttle-van service usually provided by Campus Safety was not available yesterday due to poor road conditions. However, all classes and events, including the GPS Cantus performance at the Knickerbocker Theatre, proceeded.

The on-campus shuttle-van service usually provided by Campus Safety was not available yesterday due to poor road conditions. However, all classes and events, including the GPS Cantus performance at the Knickerbocker Theatre, proceeded.

According to www.weather.com, Holland’s forecast for today and Thursday includes even more snow, but in lesser amounts than seen yesterday. Temperatures are expected to peak in the high 20s and low 30s.

Weather updates can be found on the Know Hope website. The site also includes postings of current weather advisories at the top of the page.

Winter groundskeeping duties at Hope fall to the Hope community interested in helping may contact Professor Villarreal at villarreal@hope.edu.

Rush comes to an end at Hope

Sororities and fraternities on campus invite new members to join

Maureen Yonovitz
Arts Editor

Almost an entire month of the 2004 spring semester has already passed, and winter break is just around the corner. For many, the first round of exams is beginning and the weather on campus feels a lot more like winter than it did before the holidays.

What have Hope’s students been up to on these cold, snowy January days? At least a few are likely to say, “Rush.” With a week left in the first stage of this year’s introduction to the Greek system on campus, time is winding down and rushers will soon begin pledging to become new members.

The sororities on campus are Sigma Sigma Sorosis, Delta Phi, Sigma Iota Beta Shylline, Kappa Beta Phi (Dorian), Alpha Gamma Phi, Kappa Delta Chi and national sorority Sigma Lambda Gamma.

“We’ve had three events so far and we’ve had a lot of girls come out, so we’ve been having a lot of fun with it,” said Ashley Williams (‘05), assistant rush chair for Kappa Delta Chi.

Although not all the Greek organizations on campus have had quite as large a turnout as they hoped, most agree that this year’s rush has been successful. According to Jillian Pettijohn (‘05), a rush chair for the SIBs, the number of girls rushing the sorority was number of girls who came out this winter.

"I think people should rush just because it's a good way to meet people, even if you decide not to be in a sorority," Pettijohn said.

Hope's fraternities include Omicron Kappa Epsilon (Fraternity Society), Phi Kappa Alpha (Cosmopolitan), Chi Phi (Arcadian), Alpha Theta Chi (Centurian), Alpha Chi Pi (Promethean) and national fraternity Phi Sigma Kappa.

"The reason I rushed was because I liked the guys that I met," said Juan Seidel ('06), a Fraternity Society member. "It's not like you're tied down or obligated to anything. You can have other friends."

Individual rush events were widespread and vary from one organization to another. On Friday, for example, the Friars had their annual Lit meeting, complete with a visit from President Bultman.

"It turned out really well and the guys really liked it," Seidel said. "It was a different aspect of what the Friars are all about."

Some other activities for the rest of this final week of rush include Star Treatment on Thursday in the Kappa Delta Chi cottage, Girl's Night In on Saturday in the SJB cottage, and Final Tea, the last rush event, on Tuesday.

Check the Greek Life web site at KnowHope for more information and a complete schedule of events.

"Rush in general and the fraternity system at HopeCollege proves something about who you are," said Pete TeVelev ('05), a member of the Arcadian fraternity. "It's a special experience and I wouldn't trade anything for it in the world."

Library adapts to safety changes

Jenny Cencer
Senior Staff Reporter

The Van Wyls Library has recently been experiencing several security concerns. Suspicious persons incidents, although relatively minor, have caused the library staff to conduct a meeting concerning the safety of its employees as well as visitors.

Employees were directed to call 911 from their cell phones, rather than a campus line, during any emergency, as campus calls go directly to Campus Safety officers standing by. The dispatching process at Hope was thought to have taken longer than a standard 911 call.

In reality, phoning Campus Safety first will allow them to arrive earlier. "We have direct contact with officer units at all times and can transfer the information quicker," Walters said.

Dialing 911 from a non-campus line will transfer the caller to a central dispatcher, who will then call HPD, which will contact the nearest unit. No matter how close the police units are to campus, the Campus Safety staff will almost always be the first to arrive on the scene.

"We've never had a problem," said Elise Edwards, dispatcher for Campus Safety. A lack of constant adult supervision during certain library hours has led to an increased presence of the Campus Safety staff in the library. They were requested by library staff to check in periodically during short-staffed hours. No further issues have occurred after these current safety precautions were installed.

Gospelfest at Dimnent

Hope College's Gospel Choir, directed by CJ Grier, performed Saturday at Gospelfest at Dimnent Chapel, along with choirs from Grand Valley State University and Ferris State University. The Hope Gospel Choir CD will be released on Saturday and will be available at the Hope-Geneva bookstore.

Papa John's teams with Dance Marathon

Buy a pizza Tuesday night
Tell 'em "It's for the kids!"
20% of profits will go to Dance Marathon
Around midnight, Hunt said.

Several students responded to the efforts made in maintaining clear sidewalks by the physical plant.

If the snow is really bad the paid staff will do another round around midnight," Hunt said.

More staff would be a good idea. (Physical Plant) just needs to put out a little more effort.

—Mark Driesenga ('05)

Features

INFOCUS

Erin L'Hotta
 wenica Editor

Jenny Cencer
Snow Storm Recap

The grounds department under Physical Plant on campus is responsible for the snow and ice removal from all walks and parking lots on campus. A mechanic and full-time groundskeeper maintain equipment year round, and they are assisted by approximately a dozen students who help throughout the year, especially when winter approaches and the snow crew deals off their shovels. The department snow crew incorporates two to eight hand shovelanders, two sidewalk plows, three parking lot plows and six construction plows.

"Whenever it snows at night the crew goes out at 6 a.m. and starts a specific snow route, starting with the most crucial areas, such as the two stairs by Lubbers and Phelps then they proceed to different living quarters," said Bob Hunt, manager of the grounds department.

"If the snow is really bad the paid student staff will do another round around midnight," Hunt said.

"If students desire their driveway to be plowed they must call physical plant before noon, remove all the cars from the driveway and then the cars from the driveway and then the snow piled on Cook's curbs is really bad," said Kia Wheelreyer ('04).

"It's a big fear of mine that I'm going to fall on the ice and land on my butt," said student Lisa Wissenski ('06).

"The problem with the shoveling is that you don't dig the blade all the way down into the cement, so there is still a light layer of snow which you can't get your footing into. The worst spot is the tile (at the entry of) Cook's hall, and then in the fall."

"The shuttle van should run all day long in the winter," said Kellie Kuperus ('07).

"Physical Plant needs to salt more before the ice actually freezes," said Alex Reed ('05).

"I can understand they can only employ so many people, but more staff would be a good idea. They just need to put out a little more effort," Driesenga said.

A mechanic and full-time groundskeeper maintain equipment year round, and they are assisted by approximately a dozen students who help throughout the year, especially when winter approaches and the snow crew deals off their shovels. The department snow crew incorporates two to eight hand shovelanders, two sidewalk plows, three parking lot plows and six construction plows.

"Whenever it snows at night the crew goes out at 6 a.m. and starts a specific snow route, starting with the most crucial areas, such as the two stairs by Lubbers and Phelps then they proceed to different living quarters," said Bob Hunt, manager of the grounds department.

"If the snow is really bad the paid student staff will do another round around midnight," Hunt said.

More staff would be a good idea. (Physical Plant) just needs to put out a little more effort.

—Mark Driesenga ('05)
WHO'S THE BOSS?

Meet some of Hope's administrators: the people to know

SPOTLIGHT

Erin L'Hotta

Many students at Hope College truly have taken the time to get to know their Hope College administrators. President Bultman, Dean Frost, Provost Boelkins, Dr. Bekkering and Rev. Boersma are some of Hope College's administrative staff that have contributed to Hope's campus in one way or another. These individuals are too often not recognized for their work and their contributions to their students and campus. After talking with the administrative staff for a short while, their passion for aiding students through their administrative position appeared evident.

All of the mentioned administrators had some former relation to Hope College before joining staff. Four of the five administrators are Hope graduates themselves. President Bultman graduated from Hope in 1983. Shortly after commencement, Bultman wed his wife Martie, also a Hope '63 graduate. He has had over 40 years of direct experience with Hope College. Provost Boelkins graduated from Hope in '66. Boelkins was the first member of his family to bypass being a Calvin Knight for a Flying Dutchman. Dr. Bekkering graduated from Hope in '65. After commencement, he received a job on Hope's campus, but left a few years later only to return in 1980. Rev. Boersma is the youngest of the group graduating from Hope in '82. Boersma graduated with no intent of being a youth minister. He later realized that his calling was working with college students. He said he is so grateful for this realization.

Dean Frost was the lone administrator that did not attend Hope. Frost worked at several universities before coming to Hope College. Frost looked for a college that performed well academically and focused on the individual. After thoroughly searching, Frost believed Hope College fit this criteria.

Although the administrative staff all admitted that Hope College does have room for growth and acceptance, they appeared to have great admiration for Hope. It is this love for Hope, their rich history on campus and their passion for students, which drew them to this very place.

Hope College is one of the last colleges with hope —Richard Frost, dean of students

JAMES BULTMAN

Title: President of Hope College

Arrived at Hope: 1999

Graduated from Hope: 1983 with his wife Martie.

Experienced two decades with Hope.

Used to be: Hope's baseball and football coach. Hope's Chair of Education Department and President of Northwestern University for 14 years.

Majored at Hope in: Chemistry

Returned to Hope because: "It was an opportunity to come back to a place so special to me.

Frost differs from other schools by: "The sheer number of activities happens at Hope. What's great about Hope is that there aren't any downsides. Sometimes my wife Marty and I have three or four commitments every night. We try to make every Hope College event, but sometimes there are too many and Marty and I split up so at least one of us makes every one.

His goal for Hope College: "My personal passion is for Hope to be exceptional academically, co-curricular wise and at the same time vibrantly Christian. I strongly believe that Hope can very well be the best at this in the world."

JAMES BEKKERING

Title: Senior Chaplain

Arrived at Hope: 1989

Graduated from Hope: 1966

Majored at Hope in: Education

His goal for Hope College: "My hope is that students will fully appreciate the gift of faculty that they have and take advantage of the opportunity to learn.

JAMES BOELKINS

Title: Provost

Arrived at Hope: 2002

Graduated from Hope: 1986

His goal for Hope College: "Hope students fully appreciate the gift of faculty that they have and take advantage of the opportunity to learn.

PAUL BOERSMA

Major at Hope: Education

His goal for Hope College: "My goal is to be a leader in such a way that will bring out the best in people and make them be all that God wants them to be.

2003-2004 administrative staff
Running the Show

Student directed play, "The Trestle at Pope Lick Creek," takes stage this weekend

Neil Simonson
Staff Writer

Early on a Sunday afternoon, bursting forth from an abyss of darkness on the DeWitt Main Stage, "The Trestle at Pope Lick Creek" was nearing its final stages of rehearsal. The completely student run show will be presented at 8 p.m. on Friday and Saturday in the DeWitt Main Theater.

"The Trestle at Pope Lick Creek," chosen, produced and directed by Amanda Weener ('04), and Jessica Trakimas ('04 and Matthew Farmer ('04). With only about two and a half weeks of rehearsal thus far, teamwork is an extremely important element for both cast and crew.

"The idea is to teach students the production scale of theater and how to work as a team," said Farmer, who has taken on the role of producer, actor and scenic designer for this show.

The production captures the depression era ethos, spilling several themes out to the audience. The characters convey a sense of being neither evil, nor innocent, nor small for life.

"That's another theme that comes out of the play," Farmer said. "The loss of self-value trying to escape monotony— it is a sense of immortality or a loss of hope about getting out!"

At the heart of the performance are disillusionment, death, sexuality and friendship. These themes interweave and develop between the characters in a manner that grows with tense uneasiness as the plot unfolds in the small, depression-ravaged 1930s town. Even these light-hearted banter exchange which the themes introduced in this piece are themes that can somehow be related to in everyone's lives.

When looking this deeply into the lives of these characters, some of the themes that are explored may not be suitable for younger audiences. Mature content is present in this production, so parents are encouraged to use discretion when deciding to bring younger children.

"The questions raised aren't new... but are still pertinent, very real, and still challenge the audience," Farmer said. Farmer, Trakimas, and Weener— along with their cast—have created an event that serves as the epitome of their careers as students in Hope's theater department.

Everyone involved has put a lot of effort into making the production come together, and audiences will be able to share in this effort this weekend.

"For me personally, it challenges me because it speaks the truth— it holds a lot of validity," Farmer said. "It's also intriguing, and from the beginning you gotta know how it ends.

The rest of the production crew agrees with this statement.

"It's just a great story, and I can't wait to bring it to life for the audience," Trakimas said.

As the director, Weener commends all who were involved with the play's production.

"The entire experience has been great," Weener said. "The whole collaboration with the crew for the production has been amazing."

"The Trestle at Pope Lick Creek" was written by Naomi Wallace. Doors open at 7:30 and admission is $2.

Jazz groups unite

Jordan Wolfson
Staff Writer

The Hope College Jazz Ensembles are gearing up to entertain the students and faculty of Hope once again, this time complete with songs by some famous stars. The concert will be held at 8 p.m. on February 5 in Dimnent Chapel. The public is invited and admission is free.

The Jazz Chamber Ensemble will debut some of the songs on a CD compilation of Jazz Music. That is being put together by the Jazz Faculty, while the Jazz Ensemble will perform pieces by Maria Schneider and Ed Palermo.

Upon completion of her studies at the University of Minnesota, Miami University and the Eastman School of Music, Schneider studied composition in New York City. Soon after, she started to conduct and compose music for movies. She created her own orchestra in Minnesota, Miami University and composed music for movies. Soon after, she started to conduct and compose music for movies.

"It's just a great story, and I can't wait to bring it to life for the audience," Trakimas said.

As the director, Weener commends all who were involved with the play's production.

"The entire experience has been great," Weener said. "The whole collaboration with the crew for the production has been amazing."

"The Trestle at Pope Lick Creek" was written by Naomi Wallace. Doors open at 7:30 and admission is $2.

Concerto/Aria returns

Student musicians make winning performances on Friday

Becky Lathrop
Staff Writer

With orchestra behind, audience in front, and butterflies inside, seven talented Hope students will be given the opportunity to perform at this year's Concerto/Aria Concert which is to take place at 8 p.m. on Friday in Dimnent Memorial Chapel. Admission is free and all are invited.

In order to be chosen as one of the highlighted performers, students had to successfully pass an audition process. In late November, each student must put in front of a panel of judges, which then selects the winners to perform in the spring semester concert. The number of performers varies from year to year, and everything is pretty uncertain until after the audition process.

This year's judging panel was made up of three members, including former Hope faculty members Mark DeCruy and Robert Rietema, and the Holland Choral director Gary Bogie.

Auditioning for the first time this year, Jennifer Rigotti ('05) was chosen to perform on the violin. Rigotti spent many hours both in and out of the classroom preparing for her audition.

"Since it was my first time auditioning, I thought it was best to prepare in front of an audience as much as possible," Rigotti said. "But for some reason, the three-panel judging system made me more nervous than playing for an audience. I've been anticipating the moment that I get to play with a full orchestra to back me up. I'm very excited and honored to participate as a soloist in this year's Concerto/Aria Concert."

Performing in her second Concerto/Aria Concert here at Hope, this year Sara Iolkkena ('04) will be playing "Concerto for Organ and Orchestra" by Alexandre Guilmant. Having auditioned three times, on the violin, piano and organ, respectively, Bolkema received honorable mention as a sophomore, and performed the first two movements of Shostakovich's "Second Piano Concerto" in last year's concert.

Even though she knows what to expect this weekend, Bolkema is no less nervous than any of the other performers about the upcoming concert.

"I'm really looking forward to it," Bolkema said. "Of course, I'm quite nervous. However, the opportunity to perform with the orchestra is well worth any pre-performance stress."

Displaying a wide range of musical talent, this year's Concerto/Aria concert will also include Laura Ellis ('05) and Joe Tubbs ('05) performing on the piano, Laura McLaughlin ('06) on clarinet, and Sarah Blankenship ('06), singing soprano. Derek Brown was also chosen to play saxophone; however, his performance will be postponed until the fall due to the complexity of the orchestra arrangement.

The performers have worked countless hours perfecting their pieces, and are looking forward to showing everyone what they can do.

"You prepare so much for something like this and then have only a few minutes to show them what you've got," Ellis said. "That's what makes performing a scary thing; Friday night we go on stage, and then it's done. But that's also what makes it exciting. I just hope everyone, the performers and the audience, have fun with the music."
College is not a reason not to ignore national politics

To the editor:

My favorite parts of The Anchor are always the editorials. They come from passionate people who care enough to speak out on relevant issues. Last week I was particularly impressed with the editorials, but with the State of the Union address so close behind us, and the 2004 Presidential elections so near, I was surprised that politics are not becoming frequent topics of discussion. Then I remembered that we are not simply at Hope College, we are at the Hope College Bubble. I wrote to the Anchor, not because I am a political know-it-all, but because I am presently undergoing a significant change in my life. I recently gave up Spider Solitaire for newsweek.com. Let me tell you; it is entirely as addicting. After my daily fix of NYTimes, however, I am much more in tune with the recent factual updates on political campaigns, international disputes, and other hot topics such as gay marriages, and educational funding. Simply attending college is NO excuse for not keeping up, and getting involved with politics. The word “politics” has taken on such a limited and negative connotation, but ignoring it runs hand in hand with every other trend we follow. The truth is that family security, job outlooks, housing and driving laws are all influenced and determined by national politics. If you aren’t dead, you probably would be surprised to find how many of our nation’s stories have been left out of CNN or FOX news nightly, let alone the newest season of the Bachelor!! I am continually surprised that while people devote themselves to the Bible and religion with such passion, they can ignore the what’s going on today. I was pleased that Karina Baker mentioned this exact advice last week in her letter. So, go ahead and watch “While You Were Out”, but escape from AIM for an hour today and check out the real news too. Reading a full article from a newspaper is astonishingly interesting, if you do it once a day! Things start to connect and suddenly you have an opinion with facts to prove yourself. You’ll sound smart, and still be able to go out and have a good time on the weekend (to say the least)! Hope College is not a literal bubble, but unless we get our act together, we will handicap ourselves to that effect. There’s no need to join Euchre Anonymous. Just read the newspaper, you’ll kick the addiction on your own.

-Katy Eagen (’07)

Want to keep your money? Vote against Bush in 2004

To the editor:

The case against Bush in 2004 has been argued many times in the past. Most of these arguments have been based on the implications of the war in Iraq. The war debate has been, like Bible verses about homosexuality, thrown around to the point that nobody listens anymore. So today I would like to take a more self-centered approach that even the greediest right-winger should be able to understand.

Bush is costing you money and ruining the economy of the nation. Worse than that, he is lying about it. For example, in his State of the Union Address of 2002, Bush claimed that the only logical way to stimulate the economy, and the one that he was going to pursue was the creation of more jobs. He claimed that making it possible for all men and women who sought jobs having the opportunity to get one to be his top goal.

In reality, Bush has presided over the first economy since Hoover that has lost jobs instead of creating them, totaling over 2.9 million since 2001. Instead of promoting job security and a living wage for white-collar workers, Bush has given tax money and tax breaks to his CEO friends, whose pay is already 400 times more than entry level at their companies. The Bush tax cut was supposed to greatly benefit those at the bottom. Over its tenure, however, it has served the rich more than those who actually need it. The tax cut has also been responsible for much of the hard economic times that have hit the nation. Many of the states are quickly running out of money, and being forced to make numerous cuts to make ends meet. Here are just a few cuts that have happened in Michigan since the beginning of the Bush-induced budget crisis:

-Property taxes increased 7.6%, amounting to an additional $782 million paid by all Michigan taxpayers.
-Tuition at state sponsored higher-learning institutions such as U of M and MSU have risen up to 12%.

The public school systems are facing a cut of funding from the money that they get per student, which is already insufficient.

-Fees on driver’s licenses have almost doubled.

Nationwide, the case is the same. Every state has had to make severe cuts to programs just to counteract the damage that has been done by Bush and his economic policies. Not only are states behind, but taxpayers are also losing their money unless at the top of the economic food chain.

When the next election comes up, it will be OK to think of your self when voting for the next President. Bush is costing you money, plain and simple. If you want to get what you deserve from your checks, then vote for anyone but Bush. Alternately, a vote for Bush will only secure another four years of job loss and growing national debt. The Bush-induced budget crisis has already perched at an all time high.

-Nick Denis (’04)

Letters to the Editor Guidelines

Open to anyone within the college and related communities

The Anchor reserves the right to edit due to space constraints

No personal attacks, poor taste or anything potentially libelous

No anonymous letters, unless discussed with Editor-in-Chief

Editor-in-Chief may verify identity of writer

Letters chosen on a first come first serve basis, or a representative sample is taken

No anonymous letters, unless discussed with Editor-in-Chief

Editor-in-Chief may verify identity of writer

The Anchor reserves the right to refuse publication of any letter submitted

Letters over 500 words in length will not be considered for publication

Mail letters to the Anchor c/o Hope College, drop them off at the Anchor office (located in the center of Dewitt, behind WTHS), or e-mail Anchor@hope.edu

READ THE ANCHOR AND THEN RECYCLE IT.

Flash Fiction

College is not a reason not to ignore national politics

To the editor:

My favorite parts of The Anchor are always the editorials. They come from passionate people who care enough to speak out on relevant issues. Last week I was particularly impressed with the editorials, but with the State of the Union address so close behind us, and the 2004 Presidential elections so near, I was surprised that politics are not becoming frequent topics of discussion. Then I remembered that we are not simply at Hope College, we are at the Hope College Bubble. I wrote to the Anchor, not because I am a political know-it-all, but because I am presently undergoing a significant change in my life. I recently gave up Spider Solitaire for newsweek.com. Let me tell you; it is entirely as addicting. After my daily fix of NYTimes, however, I am much more in tune with the recent factual updates on political campaigns, international disputes, and other hot topics such as gay marriages, and educational funding. Simply attending college is NO excuse for not keeping up, and getting involved with politics. The word “politics” has taken on such a limited and negative connotation, but ignoring it runs hand in hand with every other trend we follow. The truth is that family security, job outlooks, housing and driving laws are all influenced and determined by national politics. If you aren’t dead, you probably would be surprised to find how many of our nation’s stories have been left out of CNN or FOX news nightly, let alone the newest season of the Bachelor!! I am continually surprised that while people devote themselves to the Bible and religion with such passion, they can ignore the what’s going on today. I was pleased that Karina Baker mentioned this exact advice last week in her letter. So, go ahead and watch “While You Were Out”, but escape from AIM for an hour today and check out the real news too. Reading a full article from a newspaper is astonishingly interesting, if you do it once a day! Things start to connect and suddenly you have an opinion with facts to prove yourself. You’ll sound smart, and still be able to go out and have a good time on the weekend (to say the least)! Hope College is not a literal bubble, but unless we get our act together, we will handicap ourselves to that effect. There’s no need to join Euchre Anonymous. Just read the newspaper, you’ll kick the addiction on your own.

-Katy Eagen (’07)

Want to keep your money? Vote against Bush in 2004

To the editor:

The case against Bush in 2004 has been argued many times in the past. Most of these arguments have been based on the implications of the war in Iraq. The war debate has been, like Bible verses about homosexuality, thrown around to the point that nobody listens anymore. So today I would like to take a more self-centered approach that even the greediest right-winger should be able to understand.

Bush is costing you money and ruining the economy of the nation. Worse than that, he is lying about it. For example, in his State of the Union Address of 2002, Bush claimed that the only logical way to stimulate the economy, and the one that he was going to pursue was the creation of more jobs. He claimed that making it possible for all men and women who sought jobs having the opportunity to get one to be his top goal.

In reality, Bush has presided over the first economy since Hoover that has lost jobs instead of creating them, totaling over 2.9 million since 2001. Instead of promoting job security and a living wage for white-collar workers, Bush has given tax money and tax breaks to his CEO friends, whose pay is already 400 times more than entry level at their companies. The Bush tax cut was supposed to greatly benefit those at the bottom. Over its tenure, however, it has served the rich more than those who actually need it. The tax cut has also been responsible for much of the hard economic times that have hit the nation. Many of the states are quickly running out of money, and being forced to make numerous cuts to make ends meet. Here are just a few cuts that have happened in Michigan since the beginning of the Bush-induced budget crisis:

-Property taxes increased 7.6%, amounting to an additional $782 million paid by all Michigan taxpayers.
-Tuition at state sponsored higher-learning institutions such as U of M and MSU have risen up to 12%.

The public school systems are facing a cut of funding from the money that they get per student, which is already insufficient.

-Fees on driver’s licenses have almost doubled.

Nationwide, the case is the same. Every state has had to make severe cuts to programs just to counteract the damage that has been done by Bush and his economic policies. Not only are states behind, but taxpayers are also losing their money unless at the top of the economic food chain.

When the next election comes up, it will be OK to think of your self when voting for the next President. Bush is costing you money, plain and simple. If you want to get what you deserve from your checks, then vote for anyone but Bush. Alternately, a vote for Bush will only secure another four years of job loss and growing national debt. The Bush-induced budget crisis has already perched at an all time high.

-Nick Denis (’04)

Letters to the Editor Guidelines

Open to anyone within the college and related communities

The Anchor reserves the right to edit due to space constraints

No personal attacks, poor taste or anything potentially libelous

No anonymous letters, unless discussed with Editor-in-Chief

Editor-in-Chief may verify identity of writer

The Anchor reserves the right to refuse publication of any letter submitted

Letters over 500 words in length will not be considered for publication

Mail letters to the Anchor c/o Hope College, drop them off at the Anchor office (located in the center of Dewitt, behind WTHS), or e-mail Anchor@hope.edu
Watch this space!

In 2001, Student Congress used $500 of the student activity fee to buy this scrolling marquee sign in the lobby of the DeWitt Center. Although active in 2001, the sign has yet to display anything since. As a service to you, the Anchor will keep track of how many weeks it has been blank since installed.

This week's count: 121

Planning to study off-campus NEXT YEAR on an international or domestic study program?

Apply now by seeing:

International Programs

All International Off-Campus Programs

Domestic Programs

The Borders Program
The Chicago Semester
The Newberry Library Program
The New York Arts Program
The Oregon Extension
The Philadelphia Center
The Washington Honors Program

Fried International Center

Sander DeHaan, Modern Languages Department
Bill Pannapacker, English Department
John Tammi, Theatre Department
Jim Allis, Philosophy Department
Tom Smith, Economics Department or
Pat Roehling, Psychology Department
Political Science Department

ALL APPLICATIONS ARE DUE NOW!
Dutch clipped by Calvin

Strong shooting by Knights proves fatal for Flying Dutch

Andy Borozan

The Dutch couldn’t quite make it two-for-two in the day on the court against the Knights. While their male counterparts ran away with a lopsided victory, the Dutch suffered a different fate, dropping a rare home loss to rival Calvin 74-62. The loss sets the Dutch back to 7-4 in the MIAA and moves them into a first-place tie with the Knights.

A packed Dow saw Calvin shoot out to an early lead and maintain it throughout the game. Turnovers by the Dutch and a sparking shooting percentage by the Knights led to a 13-point deficit at the half. Hope mounted a decent comeback after the break, pulling within five, but the Knights, led by Calvin McDonald’s game high 25 points, managed to withstand the run and seal the deal.

The Knights’ smothering defense caused a season high 20 turnovers for the Dutch. The Dutch shot well from beyond the arc (63%) but slightly below average from the rest of the field (42%). Calvin’s 50% shooting and Hope’s few scoring opportunities caused the Dutch’s first home court loss in 23 games and only their second loss this season.

Some bright spots for the Dutch however was the play of both the Ebelts. Brita (06) netted 22 on the night, a season high and career best while Linda (06) tallied 10 points and grabbed seven boards. Megan Noll (06) also had a well-rounded game, with two steals, four points and four rebounds. Brian Morehouse’s Dutch will look to right the wrong in the MIAA when they travel to Olivet on Wednesday and host Kalamazoo on Saturday.

“We’re just looking to rebound...start the second half, the horrors began. Junior guard Ricky Shilt stepped over the line drawing a back-court call by the official. The next four minutes of period got worse. The Dutchmen capitalized on a flurry of Calvin turnovers and the Knights were cooled. The Dutch used its three-point weaponry to help put the Knights away as Diane Griffith (06) went three for five from three-point land, contributing to his total of 13 points. Both teams won 13 games during Calvin’s 12-point victory Saturday. Taylor scored 21 points for the Flying Dutch, after the loss,” Linda Ebelts said.

“We just need to stick together and play as best we can to come back this week.”

Sweet revenge

Total shock and awe — mixed with tears and memories to last a lifetime — filled the locker room on a cold, March night in 2003 in downtown Muskegon. A whole season of practice and competition seemed to amount to nothing after Hope’s heartbreaking defeat in the national championship game.

What’s even worse is that the winning team that night had already been defeated twice during the regular season, including a 6-0 drubbing by Hope in the same arena three months earlier.

That final, fateful championship game against the Muskegon Community College Hawkins — in front of thousands of fans at L.C. Walker Arena — still haunts my memory. Saturday night, that team came to The Edge to take on the Flying Dutchmen. Having defeated Muskegon 4-1 this season at L.C. Walker back in November, the Dutchmen looked to continue their vengeance for that dark, cold night in March of ’03.

I walked into the arena Saturday for the first time since my playing days, and I saw the scoreboard reading 4-1 Hope. When the third period started I could see a drastic change in the Muskegon Hawks. This was not the same team that defeated Hope a year ago in the national finals. However, their playing style hadn’t changed. Slashing, high elbows and cheap shots all remained in their arsenal. Hope persevered, though, and went on to defeat the Hawkins 6-2 in front of a small, but resolute crowd.

The win keeps the Dutchmen (16-3-2-1) closer to the undefeated Calvin Knights (22-0). The Knights look to take the top seed in the central region, but as long as Hope clings close behind, it will still receive its third straight appearance in the national spotlight. With the top three clubs in the nation last year’s tournament (Hope, Calvin and Muskegon), one could already predict the possible finals matchup in March. With a look around the nation in Division III hockey, there are five separate regions, which means the top three ranked teams from each region qualify for the national tournament. Hope, Calvin and Muskegon will look forward to their trips to Arizona, where the tournament will be hosted by Arizona State University.

Three beautiful locations have hosted this event the past three years. In 2002 it was Atlanta, this year Scottsdale, Ariz., and who can forget last year — in Muskegon.

In the other four regions, Indiana University-Purdue leads the Northeast, while Penn State-Berks is in front in the Atlantic. The Dutch defeated the Dutchmen capitalized on a flurry of Calvin turnovers and the Knights were cooled. The Dutch used its three-point weaponry to help put the Knights away as Diane Griffith (06) went three for five from three-point land, contributing to his total of 13 points. Both teams won 13 games during Calvin’s 12-point victory Saturday. Taylor scored 21 points for the Flying Dutch, after the loss,” Linda Ebelts said.

“We just need to stick together and play as best we can to come back this week.”

Ice Hockey

Hope 9, Lansing CC 1; Hope 6, Muskegon 2

The Dutchmen remain close behind MHCJ leading Calvin.

Men’s Swimming

Hope 137, Albion 99

The Dutch are 8-1 overall and 5-0 in MIAA meets.

Women’s Swimming

Hope 138, Albion 99

The Flying Dutch are 9-0 overall and 6-0 in MIAA meets.

Hope Basketball

Upcoming games:

Flying Dutchmen @ Tri-State, Ind. Saturday 3 p.m.
Flying Dutch host Kalamazoo, Saturday 3 p.m.

The win keeps the Dutchmen (16-3-2-1) closer to the undefeated Calvin Knights (22-0). The Knights look to take the top seed in the central region, but as long as Hope clings close behind, it will still receive its third straight appearance in the national spotlight. With the top three clubs in the nation last year’s tournament (Hope, Calvin and Muskegon), one could already predict the possible finals matchup in March. With a look around the nation in Division III hockey, there are five separate regions, which means the top three ranked teams from each region qualify for the national tournament. Hope, Calvin and Muskegon will look forward to their trips to Arizona, where the tournament will be hosted by Arizona State University.

Three beautiful locations have hosted this event the past three years. In 2002 it was Atlanta, this year Scottsdale, Ariz., and who can forget last year — in Muskegon.

In the other four regions, Indiana University-Purdue leads the Northeast, while Penn State-Berks is in front in the Atlantic. The Dutch defeated the Dutchmen capitalized on a flurry of Calvin turnovers and the Knights were cooled. The Dutch used its three-point weaponry to help put the Knights away as Diane Griffith (06) went three for five from three-point land, contributing to his total of 13 points. Both teams won 13 games during Calvin’s 12-point victory Saturday. Taylor scored 21 points for the Flying Dutch, after the loss,” Linda Ebelts said.

“We just need to stick together and play as best we can to come back this week.”

Ice Hockey

Hope 9, Lansing CC 1; Hope 6, Muskegon 2

The Dutchmen remain close behind MHCJ leading Calvin.

Men’s Swimming

Hope 137, Albion 99

The Dutch are 8-1 overall and 5-0 in MIAA meets.

Women’s Swimming

Hope 138, Albion 99

The Flying Dutch are 9-0 overall and 6-0 in MIAA meets.

Hope Basketball

Upcoming games:

Flying Dutchmen @ Tri-State, Ind. Saturday 3 p.m.
Flying Dutch host Kalamazoo, Saturday 3 p.m.

The win keeps the Dutchmen (16-3-2-1) closer to the undefeated Calvin Knights (22-0). The Knights look to take the top seed in the central region, but as long as Hope clings close behind, it will still receive its third straight appearance in the national spotlight. With the top three clubs in the nation last year’s tournament (Hope, Calvin and Muskegon), one could already predict the possible finals matchup in March. With a look around the nation in Division III hockey, there are five separate regions, which means the top three ranked teams from each region qualify for the national tournament. Hope, Calvin and Muskegon will look forward to their trips to Arizona, where the tournament will be hosted by Arizona State University.

Three beautiful locations have hosted this event the past three years. In 2002 it was Atlanta, this year Scottsdale, Ariz., and who can forget last year — in Muskegon.

In the other four regions, Indiana University-Purdue leads the Northeast, while Penn State-Berks is in front in the Atlantic. The Dutch defeated the Dutchmen capitalized on a flurry of Calvin turnovers and the Knights were cooled. The Dutch used its three-point weaponry to help put the Knights away as Diane Griffith (06) went three for five from three-point land, contributing to his total of 13 points. Both teams won 13 games during Calvin’s 12-point victory Saturday. Taylor scored 21 points for the Flying Dutch, after the loss,” Linda Ebelts said.

“We just need to stick together and play as best we can to come back this week.”

Ice Hockey

Hope 9, Lansing CC 1; Hope 6, Muskegon 2

The Dutchmen remain close behind MHCJ leading Calvin.

Men’s Swimming

Hope 137, Albion 99

The Dutch are 8-1 overall and 5-0 in MIAA meets.

Women’s Swimming

Hope 138, Albion 99

The Flying Dutch are 9-0 overall and 6-0 in MIAA meets.

Hope Basketball

Upcoming games:

Flying Dutchmen @ Tri-State, Ind. Saturday 3 p.m.
Flying Dutch host Kalamazoo, Saturday 3 p.m.

The win keeps the Dutchmen (16-3-2-1) closer to the undefeated Calvin Knights (22-0). The Knights look to take the top seed in the central region, but as long as Hope clings close behind, it will still receive its third straight appearance in the national spotlight. With the top three clubs in the nation last year’s tournament (Hope, Calvin and Muskegon), one could already predict the possible finals matchup in March. With a look around the nation in Division III hockey, there are five separate regions, which means the top three ranked teams from each region qualify for the national tournament. Hope, Calvin and Muskegon will look forward to their trips to Arizona, where the tournament will be hosted by Arizona State University.

Three beautiful locations have hosted this event the past three years. In 2002 it was Atlanta, this year Scottsdale, Ariz., and who can forget last year — in Muskegon.

In the other four regions, Indiana University-Purdue leads the Northeast, while Penn State-Berks is in front in the Atlantic. The Dutch defeated the Dutchmen capitalized on a flurry of Calvin turnovers and the Knights were cooled. The Dutch used its three-point weaponry to help put the Knights away as Diane Griffith (06) went three for five from three-point land, contributing to his total of 13 points. Both teams won 13 games during Calvin’s 12-point victory Saturday. Taylor scored 21 points for the Flying Dutch, after the loss,” Linda Ebelts said.

“We just need to stick together and play as best we can to come back this week.”

Ice Hockey

Hope 9, Lansing CC 1; Hope 6, Muskegon 2

The Dutchmen remain close behind MHCJ leading Calvin.

Men’s Swimming

Hope 137, Albion 99

The Dutch are 8-1 overall and 5-0 in MIAA meets.

Women’s Swimming

Hope 138, Albion 99

The Flying Dutch are 9-0 overall and 6-0 in MIAA meets.

Hope Basketball

Upcoming games:

Flying Dutchmen @ Tri-State, Ind. Saturday 3 p.m.
Flying Dutch host Kalamazoo, Saturday 3 p.m.