Highly Esteemed.

The youthful color and a rich lustre are restored to faded or gray hair by the use of Parker's Hair Balsam, a harmless dressing highly esteemed for its perfume and purity.

JUSTICE Jim Smith, sent Margaret Gregory to jail for drunkenness, at Washington, Ind., as a matter of official duty. Then he went to the prison with a clergyman and wedded the woman in her cell as a matter of personal choice.

An Old and Good Medicine.

But few persons outside of physicians and druggists know what suffering is endured from that troublesome and painful disease—the Piles—many of whom would give and do most anything to get relief. There are a great many remedies—called remedies—for curing this trouble, but only about one out of ten afford any relief. We have personally known individuals who have tried almost everything they heard tell of, and their experience is that Swayne's Ointment, put up by Dr. Swayne & Son, of Philadelphia, is the best medicine they ever used.—From Chester County Village Record, December 19th, 1881. This paper is one of the most influential country weeklies in the U. S., and was recently appraised at $100,000.

Entirely Satisfactory.

Ladies wishing a perfume that combines novelty delicacy and richness, and Floreston Cologne entirely satisfactory.

EDMUND Yates wished that the English officers from Egypt, who are lionized in London society, would take a lesson from the Duke of Wellington, who, after his victory at Waterloo, was asked by Lady Jersey, in the midst of a crowded drawing room, to "give an account of the battle," to which he replied: "That is easily done, ma'am; they pummeled us and we pummeled them, and I suppose we pummeled the harder, as we gained the day."

A Chance For Fun.

The "latest thing out" in the way something to afford home amusement for winter evenings, or a side-show for church fairs, consists of a sort of Magic Lantern that doesn't require pictures on glass. The Polyopticon, as it is called because it will show up so many different things, makes use of ordinary newspaper pictures, family photographs, chromo cards, home-made sketches, etc., and thus affords a new use for the collections of pretty cards which so many have been industriously making. Though patented, it can be made and sold at one-fourth the price of a good Magic Lantern. Descriptive circulars can be obtained of the Murray Hill Publishing Co., 129 East Twenty-eighth St., N. Y. City.

SONNET.

"Tell me ye angels host,
Ye messengers of love,
Shall cheated printers here below
Get any redress above?"
The angelic host made answer thus:
"To us the word is given,
Delinquents on subscription books
Shall never enter heaven."

The Committee on Poor reported presenting the semi-monthly report of the Director of the Poor and said committee, recommending $55.35 for the support of the poor, for the three weeks ending Feb. 7, 1883, and also recommending temporary aid to the amount of $9.50. Approved and warrants ordered issued on the City Treasurer for the several amounts.

REPORTS OF SELECT COMMITTEES.

The select committee on amending the city charter reported the following: Your Committee to whom was referred the matter of amendments to the charter of the city, respectfully report that they have had the same under consideration. Your committee find upon examination of the charter of the city, that a sum equal to 34 per cent of the whole assessed valuation of the property of the city, may be raised during any one year, by the Common Council, and the concurrent vote of the electors of the city, this would be a sum, that in our judgment, would be all that should be raised in any one year, and would therefore recommend that no amendment to the charter be made or recommended that would authorize the raising of a larger sum in any one year.

E. J. HARRINGTON,
J. A. TER VREE.

—Adopted.

Ald. Ter Vree, according to a notice given at a previous meeting, introduced an ordinance entitled "An Ordinance, Relative to skating on the sidewalks of Eighth and River streets, to flying kites on Eighth, River, and Fish streets, to the use of Velocipedes, and Bicycles on the sidewalks of Eighth and River streets, to the jumping and climbing on to cars, at the depots, and moving from the depots, and on to sleighs, wagons, or other vehicles in the streets and alleys of the city of Holland, and the throwing at teams or teams in sleighs and other vehicles, or on to a standstill, or moving on the streets, in the city of Holland."—Said ordinance was read a first and second time by its title, and placed on the general order.

Council Adjourned.

GEO. H. SIPP, City Clerk.

A TOUCHING story is told of a little boy only ten years old, whose legs were recently cut off by a train of cars at Dubuque, Iowa, and who was too plucky to make any fuss over the accident. When the little fellow was taken home his legs hung limp, but he did not complain. Not a tear stood in his eyes, but the tender look he gave those who stood by his side told plainly that he was suffering great agony. After the doctor had dressed his wounds he called his parents, sisters and brothers to his bedside, kissed one and all farewell, and left a tear upon their cheeks.

A second time he called his mother to his side placed his little arms about her neck, and said: "Mother, I am going to die in a few minutes; please forgive me for not minding you." With this the little fellow fell back, and as the mother said, "Yes, my angel," and took another look at his face, she found him dead and beyond all pain and suffering.

The Echo.

Is the weekly edition of the Detroit Evening News. It has just entered upon its fifth year, and both in popularity and circulation has been a decided success. It is of the same size as The News, contains little or no advertising, and is filled from the first column to the last with the very choicest matter that can be procured. All the best items, paragraphs and articles are culled from the daily; a synopsis of each week's news is carefully prepared for it; its market reports, while brief, are very complete and reliable, and nearly a whole page of each issue is devoted to choice original or selected stories—something superior, on the average, to the ordinary newspaper tales. Altogether it is a little gem of a paper, and at the price is without question the cheapest of the kind in the country. Single copies, 75 cents; 3 copies for $2, 5 for $3.

An Impending Crisis.

A colored man having applied for a situation in a family on Cass avenue, and given the name of a colored man on the market as reference, the gentleman drove down there to see what he could learn.

"Yes, sah, I know de party you men-shum," replied old Zeke, as the subject was broached.

"Is he honest?"

"Under certain circumstances he would be, sah."

"Is he reliable?"

"Well, sah, I specka he am."

"Is he truthful?"

"Y-es I think so."

"But, Uncle Zeke, you don't seem to speak up very promptly. Is there anything wrong with him?"

"Lemme ax you a few qeshuns," replied the old man. "Do you keep ebery thing aroun' de ba'n picked up an' locked up?"

"Yes."

"Den take him."

"But about his being reliable?"

"Oh, he'll be there at meal time, an' don't you forget it!"

"And his truthfulness?"

"See hyar!" exclaimed Uncle Zeke, as he whirled around, "you am gwine too fur. When a man specks he am gwine to git a cull'd man who can work fur $8 a month an' stan' wid one fur inside the gates ob Heaben all the time, it's too thick! You go to phinla' dat man right down to bed-rock an' nine chance outer ten he'll elope wid your wife befo' he has bin dar six weeks!"

Give the young and struggling a word of encouragement when you can. You would not leave those plants in your window-boxes without water, nor refuse to open the shutters that the sun-light might fall upon them; but you would leave some human flower to suffer from want of appreciation or the sun-light of encouragement. There are a few hardy souls that can struggle along on stony soil—shrubs that can wait for the dews and sunbeams—vines that climb without kindly training; but only a few. Utter the kind word when you can see that it is deserved. The thought that "no one cares and no one knows,"

WEEKLY NEWS REVIEW.

THE EAST.

Four men and a woman were killed and many persons were terribly wounded by the explosion of two boilers in a blast furnace at Bethlehem, Pa. Patrick O'Reilly is in jail at Albion, N.Y., for confessing his participation in the murder of Cavendish and Burke in Dublin.

The death is announced of Lot M. Morrill, of Maine, three years Governor of his native State, and for nearly sixteen years one of her representatives in the United States Senate. He was 68 years old.

The City Bank and the Fifth Ward Savings Bank, of Jersey City, closed their doors, creating much excitement. The City Bank had a capital of $50,000, and the President, cashier and book-keeper over-drew their accounts $48,000, thus leaving $1,000 of the capital stock. Amid deafening applause a New York jury awarded Miss Livingston $75,000. A wealthy merchant named Fleming will have to pay her that amount for refusing to marry her, after having promised to do so.

At New Haven, Ct., Wm. Robanus presented a supposedly-empty pistol at the head of his friend, Gottlieb Beck, and demanded his money or his life. Upon the latter replying that he had but a few cents, Robanus pulled the trigger and Beck fell, mortally wounded.

A TELEGRAM from New York hints that Wall street brokers are not making their salt. Scarcely anything is doing in the Stock Exchange. The great holders of stock would be heavy losers if they were compelled to sell at present prices. Gould, for instance, owns 350,000 shares of Western Union, and as that stock has declined $10 a share in the last three months, this item alone represents a depreciation of his property $3,500,000. Some of the big men of the street are talking about going away for a while.

THE WEST.

Near Ulisses, Neb., Mrs. Thompson, while insane, put poison in the tea, and herself, husband and an adopted son died in a short time. Near Mill Creek, Indian Territory, Alexander Hamilton murdered his wife and a man named Smith and then committed suicide.

At a meeting on 'Change in St. Louis, $2,000 was raised for the sufferers by the floods in Germany. A gathering in Cincinnati subscribed $1,250. John Cody, of Manistee, Mich., 60 years of age, expired after a fast of 103 days, forced by ulceration of the stomach.

The police of Cleveland have completed a census which shows the population of that city to be 193,900. The Columbus, Chicago and Indiana Central railroad was sold at Indianapolis by United States Commissioner Fishback to the Pennsylvania Railway Company for $13,500,000. Southern Illinois and portions of Missouri and Kentucky were seriously shaken by an earthquake on the 11th inst.

Two THOUSAND cases of small-pox are reported in Baltimore. Health inspectors have been placed in the depots, and each turnpike is watched by policemen. Hon. E. B. Washburne was thrown from his horse and slightly injured at San Antonio, Texas.

MISS ZERLEDA GARRISON, 17 years old, one of the belles of St. Louis, while returning to the Convent of the Sacred Heart, in the suburbs of that city, was captured by two men, who chloroformed her and kept her hidden for six days, when she was returned to her family. Miss Garrison's father says she suffered no violence at the hands of her abductors, but the young lady is still in a dazed condition. The affair caused the most intense excitement in that city. Illinois had a judicial execution on Friday, Jan. 12, Philip Matthews, a young fellow hardly arrived at manhood, being hanged at Belleville for the murder of Annie Geyer. The crime was committed last May, and was the outgrowth of unreasoning jealousy. John B. Hoffman, a Cincinnati tailor, quarreled with his son Robert, aged 22, and the following morning the father sheltered himself behind a door and shot his son mortally as he departed to go to work. A passenger train from Cairo, Ill., containing a number of Freemasons, was derailed near Olmstead, Pulaski county, Ill. Two cars were set on fire, and four or five of the passengers were fatally injured. The only lady occupant escaped unhurt and rendered great service to the wounded.

At 4 o'clock on Sunday morning, the 14th inst., the night watchman of the Planters' House, in St. Louis, discovered smoke issuing from the cook-house. He instantly gave the alarm at the main entrance, and another watchman rang for the firemen. In five minutes Pine street was blockaded, and guests and employees came pouring out of the hotel by every doorway. Two male servants leaped from a window to the roof of the cook-house and thence into the alley, while fifteen chambermaids rushed shrieking down the stairway into the rotunda. One guest and his wife were actually forced from their room into the corridor by an employee of the hotel. The shivering crowd was directed across the street to the office of the Globe-Democrat for temporary shelter. The flames were confined to the kitchen and adjoining rooms. Investigation shows that three of the cook's force were suffocated. The damage by fire is placed at $30,000. All guests were sent to other hotels until the cook-house could be replaced. A horrible catastrophe occurred near Elk Point, Dakota. The house of Henry Pierce caught fire while Pierce was at a barn some distance away, feeding cattle. Mrs. Pierce tipped over a lamp, and the whole room was instantly enveloped in flames. She endeavored to save her two children, who were in bed, but fainted, and Pierce arrived in time to drag her out, badly burned. The heroic father then made a rush into the burning building, and fought madly toward the sleeping-room, but was forced to plunge into the snow very badly burned about the head and face. Both the children, Cyrus, aged 5, and Bertha, aged 2, were burned to death. The bodies were afterward recovered, charred beyond recognition. A fire which started in Gaffney's store, at Neenah, Wis., quickly spread to the Pettibone Block, and later attacked the Russell House and postoffice, all of which, together with the national bank and several stores, were soon reduced to ashes, creating a loss which is estimated at $100,000. Hon. Greenbury L. Fort died at his home in Lacon, Ill. He had held several offices, including that of Congressman. He was Chief Quartermaster of Gen. Logan's corps, and participated in Sherman's march to the sea. The Mandt wagon and carriage works at Stoughton, Wis., were destroyed by fire, and the loss is estimated at $100,000.

THE SOUTH.

TREASURER POLK, for whose delivery on Tennessee soil the Legislature offered a reward of $5,000, was arrested at San Antonio, Texas, and released on a writ of habeas corpus. He then started for Mexico, and was again arrested by a Deputy United States Marshal, just before reaching the Rio Grande. Polk offered the officer $8,000 to let him go, but the latter was incorruptible.

DETECTIVES PRICE and Cameron, who accepted bribes from Marshall T. Polk, to run their prisoner into Mexico, were arrested at San Antonio, and will be prosecuted as accessories.

DR. SAMUEL A. MUDD died last week in Maryland. The deceased dressed the fractured leg of John Wilkes Booth after the assassination of Lincoln, for which he was sent for life to the Dry Tortugas, but was pardoned by Andrew Johnson. Near Bayou Goula, La., the boats City of Greenville and Laura Lee came in collision, the former immediately sinking. No lives were lost. The value of the Greenville and its cargo is placed at $100,000. Three men were slain in a shooting affray in Faulkner county, Ark.

WITHIN the past three weeks three Americans have been murdered and robbed at Neuva Laredo, Mexico. Col. M. T. Polk, the defaulting Treasurer of Tennessee, arrived in Nashville in company with United States Marshal Hal I. Gosling, Deputy United States Marshal Morrill, Detectives Price and Porter and Officer Fields. The Grand Jury indicted him for the embezzlement of $480,000.

WASHINGTON.

THE announcement comes from Washington that Gen. Grant and Sen. Romero have quietly agreed upon the terms of the proposed commercial treaty between the United States and Mexico. It permits the introduction free of duty of Mexican sugar, leaf tobacco, hemp and some other products, while Mexico admits without tariff American agricultural and mining machinery and some other manufactures. The amounts allowed to President Garfield's doctors have in each case been accepted. Dr. Bliss sent a creditor with a power of attorney to collect the $5,500 at which his services were audited.

THE House Judiciary Committee by a bare majority, decided to table Proctor Knott's resolution, which provided for the forfeiture of the Northern Pacific land grants. It is thought this action kills the measure for the present session. Clark Mills, the distinguished American sculptor, died at the national capital last week. He was born in Onondaga county, New York, in 1815.

GENERAL.

GEN. LONGSTREET contributes the latest literature to the Fitz John Porter case. While acknowledging that from a strictly military point of view the finding of the court-martial ought to be held as conclusive, he claims that Porter was entitled by his rank to a certain amount of discretion as to obedience of orders. This claim Gen. Longstreet supports by a reference to his own experience at Manassas Junction, where, as he says, he disregarded Lee's order to support Jackson because he found he could not reach Jackson in time to be of any service to him, while he could and did check the Federal advance by his own batteries. According to a statement issued by the united pipe lines of Pennsylvania, there were 32,859,088 barrels of oil stored in their tanks on Jan. 1, 1883.

THIRTEEN artists competed for an opportunity to create a military statue of Garfield for the Hall of the House at Washington, for which the Ohio Legislature appropriated $10,000. Carl H. Neihaus, of Cincinnati, was awarded the work, which will require six months.

A FEATURE of the business situation equally unsatisfactory and threatening is the constant increase in the number of failures reported. During the week ending Jan. 11, 232 were recorded, which is thirty-eight more than during the preceding week, and more than have been noted for any like period since 1879, when there was a great rush to take advantage of the expiring Bankrupt law. The West and South contributed more than half of the list.

THE Secretary of the Interior has requested the military authorities to remove the barb-wire fences constructed in the Indian Territory by the Standard Oil Company. Fire swept away four locomotives and a round-house at Uxbridge, Ontario, and Crossley's paper-mill at Bangor, Me.

POLITICAL.

THE special election in the Ninth Congressional district of Indiana, to fill the vacancy occasioned by Congressman Orth's death, resulted in the success of D. J. Re. Republican, by from 1,000 to 1,500 majority. John B. Manning, Democrat, was elected Mayor of Buffalo, to succeed Gov. Cleveland, by 3,715 majority. He received 11,036 votes.

GOV. ORDWAY, in his message to the Territorial Legislature of Dakota, states that the population of the Territory has doubled in two years, and now reaches 300,000, while the amount of taxable property is $50,000,000. The financial condition of Dakota is good, and its bonded indebtedness is very small. In his annual message, Gov. Glick, of Kansas, pronounces the policy of prohibition a failure, diverting emigration, promoting litigation, inducing the clandestine use of liquor in club-rooms, and giving an opportunity to busybodies to magnify their own importance. Gov. Stoneman, of California, urges that railroad corporations be compelled to bear their share of taxation and submit to the regulation of fares and freight. After a lively contest for the Illinois Senatorship, Gov. Shelby M. Cullom carried off the prize, receiving the Republican caucus nomination on the fifth ballot.

AN indignation meeting has been held by the citizens of Camden, Me., over the removal of Postmaster Alden Miller, Jr., a wounded soldier, for refusing to pay the assessment on his salary.

FOREIGN.

IN the anarchist trials at Lyons, Prince Krapotkin stated that when he had to choose between extinction and dynamite he would employ the latter. He was reproached by the President of the court for having violated French hospitality.

THE British ship British Empire, from Shields for Bombay, burned at sea. Ten persons were saved, but two boats, containing the Captain, mate and fourteen hands, are missing. Twenty-five persons have been arrested at Rome who were engaged in unweaving busts of Overland in private rooms. The busts were also seized by the police. Gen. Devaldan, who led a leading part in the siege of Paris, died from apoplexy on learning of the demise of Gen. Chanzy.

MANY persons perished at Raab, Hungary, and adjacent villages, by falling through the ice in attempting to escape from the floods. The inhabitants abandoned the place and took refuge in distant, but higher locations. About 400 houses have been destroyed, and 10,000 people are homeless. Lady Florence Dixie received and expended $5,000 for the relief of the small farmers in the West of Ireland, keeping a roof over 20,000 persons. She throws all further work of this kind upon the Government and the Land League. Edwin Booth had a crowded house in Berlin and was repeatedly called before the curtain. Prince Frederick William was delighted with the impersonation of Hamlet.

A DEEP sensation was created in Europe by the Milwaukee calamity. The Daily News, of London, finds it difficult to understand how people can sleep night after night in a place known to be dangerous.

KNIVES supposed to have been used by the Phoenix Park assassins have been found. They fit the cuts in the clothes of Lord Frederick Cavendish and Burke. The authorities are confident they are the identical weapons with which the murders were committed. Efforts have been made to procure descriptions of the purchaser of the knives in the Strand, London. Michael Davitt attempted to address a meeting at Oldham, Lancashire, when an organized gang of roughs hooded and yelled themselves hoarse and finally made an attack upon the platform. This was repelled by force, and after much trouble the disturbers were ejected.

DURING a performance at a circus in Berdicheff, Russian Poland, fire broke out, and before the spectators could escape the whole structure was ablaze. Three hundred persons perished in the flames.

XLVTH CONGRESS.

A resolution was adopted by the Senate, on the 9th inst., requesting the suspension of daily mail service between Fort Niobrara and Deadwood and between Chamberlain and Rapid City. A joint resolution was adopted authorizing Ensign Reynolds to accept a decoration from the Emperor of Austria. Memorials were presented from the Georgia Legislature in favor of the Educational bill, and from the Kentucky University for an appropriation for the support of schools in the States. A favorable report was made on the bill to grant to a railroad and telegraph line the right of way through the Fort Smith military reservation. The bill to provide for the Presidential succession passed the Senate by a vote of 40 yeas to 15 nays. The bill was amended in several particulars before being put upon its passage, and, as it now stands, the Cabinet officer who may succeed to the Presidency will hold office but a very brief period. It is made his duty, if Congress is not at the time in session, to convene that body within twenty days to provide for permanently filling the vacant position by an election under the present law. The House devoted the entire day to the consideration of the Shipping bill. The burden of several of the speeches was opposition to any provision looking to the repeal of State laws imposing taxes upon merchant vessels. Mr. Springer enlightened the House on the legal questions involved. As Mr. Springer rose to speak on the bill, a colored man stood up in the gallery and commenced an oration, which was interrupted by the doorkeeper.

Mr. Lapham presented a petition in the Senate on the 10th inst. from members of the New York Board of Trade for the passage of the Lowell Bankruptcy bill. Mr. Kyle introduced a joint resolution for the termination of the fisheries treaty between the United States and Great Britain. The tariff bill was considered in committee of the whole. In the House, Mr. Crapo offered a resolution directing the Judiciary Committee to report what legislation is necessary to establish low and equitable telegraphic rates between the States of the Union and foreign countries. Mr. Aldrich introduced a bill providing for the exportation of distilled spirits on giving one bond. Mr. Mills offered a resolution inquiring of the Attorney General the amount paid to special counsel in the star-route cases. A special committee was appointed to investigate the charges against the Chief Clerk of the House, John Bailey.

Mr. Cameron presented a memorial in the Senate, on the 11th inst., from the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, against a reduction of the tariff on bituminous coal. The bill for the relief of Fitz John Porter was passed, with an amendment providing that no pay or allowance should be reinstated until the bill was passed. The vote stood: Yeas, 33; nays, 26. Messrs. Cameron of Pennsylvania, Sewell of New Jersey, and Hear of Massachusetts voted with the Democrats in the affirmative. With these exceptions, the Republicans voted solidly against the bill, the Democrats all supporting it. Mahone and Riddleberger dodged the vote. The House of Representatives resumed discussion of the Shipping bill. Candler's free-ship amendment was agreed to by 125 to 104. Holman's amendment, providing that 50 per cent. of the drawback shall be paid to the laborers employed in the construction of any vessel, was rejected.

Mr. Ingalls introduced a bill in the Senate, on the 11th inst., to provide for determining the existence of inability in the President. Bills were passed to extend the jurisdiction of Justices of the Peace in Idaho, Washington and Montana, and to grant to the St. Louis and San Francisco road the right of way through the Fort Smith military reservation. Nearly four hours were spent in executive session on the Mexican claims treaty, recently signed by Secretary Frelinghuysen. In the House, Mr. Butterworth reported a bill authorizing the Southern Pacific, Chesapeake and Ohio, and connecting roads to form a trans-continental route. A resolution was adopted calling for information as to whether the land grant roads had complied with the laws in regard to the maintenance of telegraph lines for the use of the Government and the public. The Shipping bill was taken up, and a committee substitute was adopted limiting the amount of drawback tonnage tax collected in any one year. The section exempting from State taxation vessels engaged in the foreign carrying trade was stricken out, as were also the drawback free-ship and free-material provisions, and the bill was passed.

Mr. Ingalls introduced a bill in the Senate on the 13th inst. for the appointment of seven Commissioners from civil life to investigate and report on the subject of railroad transportation, at a compensation of $10 per day and traveling expenses. The House passed the Pension Appropriation bill, which sets aside $8,575,000, besides an unexpended balance of $15,800,000, and the Fortification Appropriation bill, which covers $325,000. The Speaker laid before the House a letter from the Clerk, calling attention to the necessity of making some provision for the increased representation in the next Congress.

Remonstrances were presented in the Senate on the 15th against a reduction of the duty on tin plate, against an increase of the duty on china and against the interference with the duty on cotton-seed oil. Mr. Voorhees offered a petition from Indiana favoring legislation to end the monopoly of the regular school in medical service under the Government. Some work was done on the Tariff bill. In the House, a petition was presented from shareholders in the Centennial Exposition, asking for an appropriation to pay the deficit. A bill was introduced to convene the next Congress on the first Monday of March. Mr. Belmont offered a resolution asking the Ways and Means Committee to report forthwith whether any class of industry requires support from the Federal Government, in the form of bounty, subsidy or charity. Mr. Geddes introduced a bill allowing newspapers to be sent free to actual subscribers. The Speaker presented the report of a naval advisory board in favor of completing four ironclads.

THRILLING EXPERIENCE.

A Guest's Story of His Remarkable Escape from the Newhall House.

Perhaps the man who had the most exciting experience in the Newhall House fire, at Milwaukee, is Mr. T. J. Anderson, a salesman in the employ of George H. Taylor & Co., wholesale paper dealers, Chicago. "I sat on the window-sill of my room," said he, "and I saw the flames take my bed, my clothes, the floor sink in the mass of flame before I escaped by sliding down the rain-spout which ran along my window. I had a room on the corner of Michigan street and Broadway, on the fourth floor. I had played pool with Mr. L. A. Brown, of Philadelphia, until nearly 1 o'clock in the morning, when I went to bed. And, poor fellow, I saw him afterwards go down to his death in the mass of flame, without being able to help him. It was awful! I walked up stairs to my room, as the elevator stopped running at 12:30. On my way up I met the only watchman the house employed, and I asked him how I could escape in case of fire. He said easy enough. There were two ways—one by the back stairway, and the other by going through a labyrinth of hall to the front. Brown's room was opposite to mine. I went to bed after that, and I was awakened by the horrible shrieks of burning women and the groans of burning men. It was hell itself, so terrible seemed the sounds. The flames were crackling all around, and I opened the door. A great mass of smoke and flame rushed in, and I became stifled. I was unable to again shut it and the smoke almost killed me. I had nothing on but a gauze undershirt. I felt my strength leaving me—I was choking. I sank to the floor. I thought I was gone. But my senses had not altogether left me. I gathered myself up as best I could and made toward the window. By a desperate effort I succeeded in getting there. I sank again to the floor. But I rallied and attempted to raise the window. It was so well balanced that it yielded at once to my puny effort and went up. I leaned out and the fresh air revived me. I was strengthened and consciousness returned. I looked down below and saw the firemen and police holding the canvas. They shouted for me to jump on the telegraph wires, but I refused. I saw the ladders up against the building. I sat down on the window-sill and I saw everything go down, my clothes, valise, everything, unable to save a thing. I shouted, I begged, I implored for those below to save me. They saw me, but gave me no help. I saw my friend come from his room and attempt to come to me through the mass of flame, but I saw him go down in the vortex of flame to his death. Oh, such a sight! It was too horrible to imagine. I saw the tin snout. It was in part covered with ice. Three women and one man had tried to descend it, and they landed in the Valley of Death. They lost their hold and fell to the street below. It was the only means of escape left. I seized it with the frantic effort of despair. Everything inside of my room was gone. I caught it in a vise-like grasp and I commenced to slide. Sometimes I slid six to twelve feet and at others a few inches. But I kept going down, using the ice made by the hose as a foothold and catch for my hands, which are terribly blistered. I went clean down to the cellar, fifteen feet below the street, but I was alive and clad in only my gauze undershirt. On my way down I saw two little girls standing in the window of the third story, and they asked me to save them, but I was powerless to give them aid, and I had to see those innocents not over 6 years old swallowed up by the heartless flames. I saw Kelsey, Tom Thumb's colored servant, go down with the walls. He was clinging to a window-sill in the fifth story. I walked out to the front and went up stairs to the office, where I found a woman who was tearing her hair. I could not see her face and did not know who she was. I spoke to her, but she took no notice of me. I seized her by the ankles and dragged her down bodily, thus saving her life. I went across to the express office where I saw Antislid, who was leaning over Mrs. Johnson. He said: 'I am crazy. You rub this woman. I want to go and save my children.' I was in a position to berubb myself, being naked and chilly. I said to a fireman standing by: 'I have lost everything.' He said 'You're alive.' Pointing to a man who was clinging from a fifth-story window, he said: 'How would you like to change places with him?' Somebody gave me a coat, and I walked in my bare feet four blocks to the Plankinton House. I was beside myself. On the way I met a woman who threw a shawl over me, and said, 'Here, poor boy, take that.' I got clothing such as it was, from strangers at the Plankinton. I never want to go through such an experience again."

DEATH IN A COAL PIT.

Terrific Explosion of Fire-Damp in a Mine at Coulterville, Ill.—Ten Men Instantly Killed.

An explosion of fire-damp in Jones & Nesbit's coal mine, near Coulterville, Ill., caused the death of ten persons. A correspondent at the scene of the explosion furnishes the following particulars of the sad disaster:

The excitement in view of the terrible explosion in the Jones & Nesbit mine has subsided. Ten strangled and burned bodies lie in the public hall dressed and arranged for burial. Their names are: Nicholas Kohl, Frank Brown, Henry Furry, Thomas Hanson, Henry Starr, Sr., Robert Dunlap, James W. King, A. H. Combs, Frank Shanford, Henry Starr, Jr.

Eight of them were married. Among them they leave twenty-five orphans. The explosion was heard at the top, and when the hoisting cage was pulled up a few minutes later a man and boy staggered from it, blackened with smoke, and so exhausted that they had to be supported. The man was Sylvester Mason, the foreman of the mine. The other men were known to be in the pit.

The details are meager, the clearest account of the catastrophe being that given by Sylvester Mason, one of the survivors. Mr. Mason said that the shaft was 330 feet deep, and at the bottom a corridor seven feet wide leads eastward for over 300 yards. On each side of this corridor are the mining rooms where the men work during the day, drilling into the seven-foot vein of coal. It is customary to fire the blasts all together late in the afternoon. Each man lights his fuse, and then all hands run for safety to some niche, the blasts all being fired at a time. Foreman Mason said that he went down the shaft shortly after 4 o'clock and found that thirteen charges were ready to be fired. He told the men to light the fuses. After giving the order he started for the foot of the main shaft, 300 yards away, accompanied by William Starr, a boy whose father and brother were at work in the pit. "I stood at the foot of the shaft," said Mr. Mason, "waiting for the men to come out, so that I could check them off and see that none would be left. I heard three shots a few moments apart, and then a fourth, followed in an instant by a terrible explosion in the gallery, where the ten men were. Next came a rush of air, followed by a great volume of fire that filled the whole corridor. I was blown against the side of the shaft, and my leg badly hurt. The boy Starr was stunned. First I thought I would wait and endeavor to save some of the men, but the flames were coming up to me very fast. The fumes became almost stifling, even in the shaft, and I felt that it would be suicide to remain any longer. I stepped on the cage, dragged the boy, who was insensible, after me, and rang the hoisting bell. When we reached the surface I was almost strangled, and the boy was apparently dead.

Three of the men were badly burned; the other seven were dead from suffocation. One of them, Frank Brown, was found crouched upon his knees, his head close against the floor, to get away from the smoke and his clothes and his flesh were burned from his back. The corpses were hoisted up two at a time. At the top of the shaft the bodies were washed, the legs were tied together, and the victims were carried in spring wagons to the town, where they were laid out in the assembly-room of the Coulterville Band. It was midnight before the work was over. The town to-day is in mourning. The explosion was evidently caused by fire-damp. The mine was extremely badly ventilated, there being but one opening and no air-shaft at all. Nesbit & Jones opened the mine about ten years ago.

Knew What He Wanted.

An old colored man with patched coat and faded overalls stepped into one of the lah-de-dah-est book stores on Woodward avenue and asked:

"Hez yer enny antelope?"

"This is not the market," said the exquisite youth who presided at the stationery counter. "If you wish to purchase game you will find it there."

"Look-a-heah, young man," retorted the sable customer, "yew is just a leetle tew fresh; and yer needn't tri ter make game ob me! I knows wat I wants an"—here he pulled out a folded sheet of letter paper, soiled and crumpled—"yew jist tote out a antelope to fit that ar note."

He got it immediately.—Detroit Post.

On the bill of fare in a restaurant of Rio Janeiro is a dish called "Aristu." It is intended for Irish stew.

DREADFUL CALAMITY.

Burning of the Newhall House at Milwaukee.

The Number of Lives Lost Estimated at One Hundred.

Thrilling Scenes in and About the Blazing Building—Heroic Work of the Firemen.

A few minutes before 6 o'clock on the morning of Wednesday, Jan. 30, the Newhall House, in Milwaukee, which sheltered at the time 200 souls, was discovered to be on fire. In an incredibly short space of time the large hostelry was a mass of flames, and it is probable that 100 persons lost their lives. Many leaped from the windows, only to be mangled by the sidewalks below, or to be shockingly incinerated by the inter-twined telegraph wires, while others sank back into the flames, appalled at the dreadful distance to the street. There were sixty young girl servants in the house, and but eleven were rescued; some of whom were fatally injured. Many escapes from a dreadful death are recorded, and the heroic deeds of some of the firemen in saving the helpless make a bright spot in the dark tragedy. The total loss, including injuries to adjoining buildings, will foot up $500,000, and the insurance is $102,500. A detailed account of the dreadful holocaust, gleaned from the reports telegraphed to the daily press, is printed below.

The fire was said to have caught in the basement, shot with lightning rapidity up the elevator shaft, and burst forth in terrific volume from the roof. The flames spread out in the different stories as they were reached, and in a few minutes after the first alarm, the floors on the south end of the building were a sea of fire, all burning at once. Guests, awakened from their sleep by the heat or the bursting of the flames into their rooms, were forced to the windows, where their heartrending cries rang in the ears of the vast concourse of people gathered in the street, powerless to render aid. Men who in the daily walks of life have been accounted heartless and unfeeling wrung their hands in despair, running about utterly bewildered, exclaiming: "My God! my God, this is horrible!" Then a black object would appear on the outside of the window, driven out by the smoke and flame, a piercing scream rend the morning air, and a heavy thud would announce that a human being had dropped from the dizzy height to meet death on the pavement below.

At one time there were six persons hanging from six window-sills at the fifth story at the same time, crying in agonizing tones for the help that could not be rendered them, and one after another loosened their grip and met their fate.

One man, by letting himself down at arms' length from a fifth-story window, put his feet through the window below and reached the fourth floor in safety. The operation was repeated until the third floor was reached, each point in his perilous descent being greeted with encouraging cheers from the bystanders. As he was putting his feet through the top of the second-story window his hand slipped from the sill above, and with a wild shriek of despair he fell backward, turning over several times and striking the pavement on his head, and was mangled beyond recognition.

Another man jumped from the fifth-story window, struck the telegraph wires on Michigan street, bounded up, and came down a mangled mass of flesh and bones.

A number of people dropped out of the different stories on to the jumping-canvas, but in a majority of cases, they were killed outright or sustained injuries from which there is little hope of recovery.

During the progress of the fire two men appeared at a window in an upper story, and, as they looked down upon the scene below, the floor of the room gave way, and, with an agonizing shriek, they fell backward into the vortex of flames.

Mr. Allen Johnson and his wife sprang from a fifth-story window. He was caught in the jumping canvas, but sustained injuries from which he died. His wife struck on the telegraph wires, bounded over, and was also caught, but was so badly injured that she only survived her husband about an hour.

In three-quarters of an hour after the discovery of the fire the building was a total loss. At 5:30 o'clock the Broadway front of the building, unsupported by rafters from within, gave out, and came thundering to the pavement. Shortly after that the tottering walls of the southeast corner of the building followed, tearing a heavy telegraph pole to the ground, which felled Ben Van Haag, a truckman of Hook and Ladder Company No. 2, beneath its weight. Poor Ben, a favorite in the department, received fatal injuries. He died in a few hours later, faithful to his post unto death.

While these scenes are being enacted on the Broadway and Michigan sides of the ill-fated building, one of still greater horror was being enacted in the alley in the rear. The servants' quarters were in the northwest quarter of the building, remote from the place in which the fire was raging, but all means of escape by the stairways was cut off by the flames. As the terrible roaring and crackling of the flames struck upon their ears they became panic-stricken, and eight of them followed each other in leaping from the dizzy height to the ground in the alley. The jumping-canvas was on hand, but it was powerless in the conflict with death, and was clovered over with the victims' blood.

At this juncture the cool-headed hero of the day appeared upon the top of the building, opposite the servants' quarters, with a ladder in his hand. For a moment the long, unwieldy thing poised in mid air and then descended, with a crash, through the window of the hotel. It framed a bridge across the alley, however, and before it became steady in its position the man had crossed over into the hotel. Then, amid the cheers of the multitude below, the man dragged the helpless creatures across the slender bridge until fully a dozen were rescued. They were all of them in their night-clothes, and many were badly frozen before they could be taken to shelter. A woman in a dead faint, and unable to help herself in any particular, was dragged across in safety, but at one time the whole of her body was hanging over clear of the ladder, while the brave man held her by one of her ankles. The crowd below held their breath in suspense, expecting every moment to see the ladder turn over or break beneath the terrible strain. The man, however, was equal to the emergency, and, by a herculean effort, pulled her upon the slender bridge and finally placed her out of danger, while the crowd, which had endured the most painful suspense for fully ten minutes, burst forth with round after round of applause.

As early as 6 o'clock the bodies of seven unfortunate waiter-girls, once blooming in youth, were stretched upon the snow and ice, with broken limbs, writhing in agony until death ended their sufferings. After almost unhuman efforts, ladders were stretched from the roof of the bank building across the alley to the sixth story of the hotel, and the brave fire-ladders carried ten girls across the frail bridge, four of them dead. The mass of telegraph wires encircling the building on the south and east sides played sad havoc with the unfortunate who made the frightful leap. Several of the bodies were fairly cut deep into by the wires, and then the torn and bleeding forms would drop to the ground. Others would hit the wires crossways, rebound, and be hurled to the ground with a dreadful crash. To the poor unfortunate waiter-girls (all lodged in the sixth story and the attic) the saddest lot had fallen. Of the sixty young girls only eleven were heard from as alive as late as evening.

The dead and a portion of the wounded were conveyed to the American Express office. The wounded were cared for at the Kirby House and the stores on East Water street.

John E. Antisdel, the principal proprietor, was driven crazy over the terrible affair. He ran up and down Michigan street, moaning and crying: "Oh! Oh! My God, who set that afire?" Over his head was a black cloth. He held his hands heavenward as if invoking divine aid. When he came to the mangled body of one of his guests his ravings were pitiful in the extreme. All efforts to soothe him failed. His son and partner, James Antisdel, stood on the street, silent and undemonstrative, as if paralyzed by the horror. All of the landlord's family escaped.

Mr. Nash too, is almost wild with grief, and can only say repeatedly: "Oh, my God! If these lives were not lost! I don't care anything about the loss of the building, if these people had only been saved." He was a one-third owner of the building and contents.

Miss Libbie Chellis, for ten years in charge of the dressmaking department in T. A. Chapman's store, occupied a room in one of the upper stories, fronting on Michigan street. Surrounded by flames, she appeared at one of the windows, and for an instant looked imploringly down at the throng below, and then fell back into the vortex of fire and perished. There was a fire escape within her reach, but the poor woman was so completely overcome by the horror of her situation that she was powerless to act. Judson J. Hough, of Peoria, Ill., who had both legs broken and received other internal injuries by jumping from a fifth-story window into the canvas held by the firemen, died at the Central Police Station. Mr. Hough was visiting the family of Allen Johnson. He was a special agent of the Northwestern National Fire Insurance Company of the city, and leaves a wife and four children. He was about 40 years of age. There was a touching scene when he tried to tell the bystanders where he lived. He spelled out the words "P-e-o-r-i-a, w-i-l-e, b-a-b-y."

One of the saddest facts in connection with this awful catastrophe is the fate of Mr. and Mrs. John Gilbert. Mr. Gilbert is connected with the Minnie Palmer Company, playing the part of the gambler in "My Sweetheart." Monday, in Chicago, just before leaving for Milwaukee, Mr. Gilbert married a young lady to whom he was devotedly attached, and who reciprocated the love bestowed upon her. Wednesday morning the fair young wife lay in the morgue dead, and at the Plankinton House, writhing in agony, lay the husband, but a step from death's door.

There was a strange incident when Mrs. Gilbert's body reached the morgue. An Irishman identified the corpse as that of his daughter. He at once proceeded to strip from the fingers of the dead woman her sparkling rings and to wrench the ornaments from her ears. At that moment old Mrs. Donahue reached the morgue, and, with a passionate burst of grief, recognized the body as that of her daughter-in-law. "It's my child," cried the alleged father, stripping the jewelry from the dead woman's person. The grief-stricken old lady and the robber confronted each other, and the painful scene amid the ghastly surroundings created the greatest confusion.

The multitude by this time had swelled to thousands who stood in perfect awe, but few having self-possession and resolution enough to lend a helping hand on the canvas stretched out to receive those of the despairing inmates of the burning pyre who risked the leap down to the stone sidewalk 100 feet below. At first there were only Lieut. Rockwood, Detectives Riegan and McManus, Officers O'Brien and Campbell, and a few Sentinel men stretching the heavy canvas, which required fully thirty strong men to handle successfully. A poor fellow stood on the cornice of the fifth-story corner window for twenty long minutes, not daring the fearful leap. Finally he became bewildered, to judge by his actions, or dumfounded by smoke, and slid off his perch to the canvas below. The few who held it could not give it the necessary resistance. The body fell, unhindered by the canvas, with a crash which sent a shudder through every witness. The shattered body was carried into the American Express office. All the while hundreds of people had been looking on, nobody responding to the demands of the officers for aid. Everybody seemed to be spellbound. The terrible spectacle seemed to have paralyzed every bit of will-power. In the sixth-story window, right over this unfortunate, sat the figure of a man, crouched upon the window-sill, gazing like one absent-minded into the fiery abyss below, motionless, but from time to time sending up a heartrending shriek. Steadily the flames encroached upon him. He did not seem to mind it. Then the flames seized his hair, licked his night-clothes. One despairing look he gave to the crowd below, and then tumbled back into the sea of fire.

A man and woman appeared at a window of the third story. They were recognized as Allen Johnson and his wife. A canvas was stretched below the windows of their apartments, formerly occupied by Prof. Haskins and lady, and a thousand voices called, beseeching them to jump. Mr. Johnson kissed his wife, then leaped into the air and shot downward into the canvas, but his weight was such that the canvas was pulled out of the hands of the few who held it, and he landed on the ground with deadly force. His wife followed. Her body struck the veranda and fell to the ground lifeless. Mr. Allen died shortly afterward in the express office, and his dead body was laid beside that of his wife until they were borne away.

About a dozen jumped from the Michigan street front. Each leap meant death or shattered limbs, and not less than four unfortunate at one time lay upon the icy sidewalk in front of the Chamber of Commerce, clad only in night-shirts, blood and brains oozing from the wounds through which the bones protruded. Some were carried to the express office and others to the ground floor of the Mitchell Building, where cots had been hastily arranged, and from there they were carried off to the houses of kind-hearted people.

Gen. Tom Thumb and wife, who were stopping at the hotel, had a narrow escape. They were awakened by a policeman, and hurriedly made their exit through a window and down a long ladder, Mrs. Thumb making the descent in the arms of the officer. They lost all their baggage.

Hon. William E. Cramer, editor of the Evening Wisconsin, and wife, who had rooms on the second floor, received serious but not fatal injuries, and he is now under medical care at the Plankinton. Mr. Cramer was badly burned about the hands and head. Mrs. Cramer's hair was badly burned, as were also her hands and feet.

Sixteen of the victims have been positively identified, as follows: Allen Johnson, commission man, Milwaukee; Mrs. Allen Johnson, Milwaukee; D. G. Powers, inventor, Milwaukee; J. H. Hough, traveling man, Peoria, Ill.; Mrs. John Gilbert, wife of the actor; Miss Libbie Chellis, dressmaker, Milwaukee; Mr. Huff, insurance agent, Iowa; Mrs. Kelly, servant; Miss O'Neil, servant; Bessie Brown, chambermaid; Thomas E. Van Loon, chamberlain, formerly of Albany, N. Y., later of Milwaukee; Maggie Owens, servant, Milwaukee; Kate Linehan, servant, Milwaukee; Maggie Sullivan, servant, Milwaukee; Augusta Gessa, servant, Milwaukee; Mary McDade, servant, Milwaukee; Mitchell Hallan, servant, Milwaukee; C. Hewey, conductor Wisconsin Central, Milwaukee; Mary McMahon, Milwaukee; Charles Kealey, Tom Thumb's servant; Mary Conroy, laundress, Milwaukee; Ottillie Waltersdorf, kitchen girl, aged 18; Catharine Monahan, pantry-waiter, Bridget O'Donnell, hall-girl, Sun Prairie, Wis.

The Newhall House was built by Daniel Newhall and his associates in 1837. The original cost of the structure, including the lot and furniture, was $270,000. It was situated on the southeast corner of Broadway and Michigan street; was built of Milwaukee brick; the dimensions were 120x180 feet. It was six stories high and had 300 rooms. The hotel was a tinder-box, a fire-trap.

Instead of brick partition walls, trestle-work of twelve-inch pine timber formed the main support and constituted the principal divisions of the entire building above the ground floor.

A Milwaukee dispatch of the 12th inst. says: There were 110 guests and sixty-seven employees in the building. Of these twenty have been so far identified among the dead, forty-eight are missing and sixty-seven are known to be saved, leaving forty-two unaccounted for and supposed to be in the ruins. The tottering walls were torn down yesterday by a force of 100 men employed by the Board of Public Works. The Common Council indulged in a squabble as to the expense of rescuing the bodies, three Aldermen opposing the prosecution of the search. A week will be required to remove the debris.

Nineteen bodies, or rather parts of the bodies of nineteen persons, had been dug out of the ruins of the burned hotel up to the morning of the 15th inst. One or two of the bodies was taken out almost entire, yet so badly blackened and crisped as to preclude the possibility of identification. Of the others only fragments were found. A horrible feature of the calamity is revealed in the number of fragments of human flesh and bones found in the ruins—here a foot, there an arm, and elsewhere a portion of a skull or some other portion of a body—which goes to show that as the victims fell back in the vortex of flame and descended with the floor-timbers, they struck upon the network of gas and water-pipes and were torn to pieces. It has been ascertained that Mr. Brown, of Hamilton, Ont., his wife and four children met death in the ill-fated hostelry. Jay Gould sent $500 for the relief fund, and the Western Union Telegraph Company $100.

A Milwaukee dispatch of the 16th inst. says: Fifty-one bodies have so far been recovered, twenty-eight of which are burned beyond recognition, leaving thirty still missing. The excavation reached the west wall yesterday, where five bodies were found in a heap, under the location of the servants' quarters. A correct estimate as to the loss of life it is impossible to form until the books of the hotel can be got. The above estimate, giving fifty-one dead and thirty missing, making the probable total loss of life eighty-one, is thought to be as nearly correct as possible by all parties. The afternoon papers made the following statement: Taken to the morgue, sixteen; received from ruins, twenty-one; since died, eight; dead not taken to morgue, five; total, fifty-five. This does not include the fragments of bodies found. About forty people reported missing are yet unaccounted for, which swells the list to ninety. It is almost a sure thing that over 100 people lost their lives by the calamity. John Gilbert, the actor, is reported better. He imagines he has been on a big spree, and remarked to his physicians this morning that "this drinking whisky is a terrible thing." It is thought that he may not survive the shock of the news of the death of his wife. It will be kept from him as long as possible. Christina Hagen, one of the servants reported missing, is safe. This makes ninety-six known to be saved out of 177.

Pointed Sermons.

Rev. Dr. Hall said that every rock was a sermon. When a boy was stealing apples from Mr. Hall's orchard, the latter pelted him out of the orchard. When the boy's father subsequently asked him why he limped, he replied that he was very much struck with one of Dr. Hall's sermons.

THE RUSSIAN CIRCUS FIRE.

Nearly Four Hundred Human Beings Roasted—Frightful Scenes.

A St. Petersburg dispatch gives the following particulars of the recent burning of a circus structure at Berdicheff, in Russian Poland, by which several hundred human beings were incinerated. The fire broke out toward the end of the performance, and was caused by the careless handling of fireworks on the stage. The curtain ignited and the flames quickly spread to the walls and roof. The members of the orchestra were the first victims. The audience, numbering 800 persons, rushed to the front door, but it opened inward, and as the crowd pressed forward it could not be opened. A rush was then made to the two side doors, both of which were nailed up, thus compelling the people to take to the windows, from which many sprang into the streets with their clothes a sheet of flames. The fire brigade arrived within half an hour, but it was impossible to extinguish the flames, as the water in the tanks was frozen. The fire lasted two hours. Eye-witnesses state that when the doors were finally opened a mass of burning persons was visible within. The horses and properties of the circus were all destroyed. The ice broke while the fire brigade was crossing the river, thus preventing them reaching the fire more promptly. The victims include a Colonel of Police and the Vice President of the Berdicheff Bourse. The audience consisted mainly of Jews.

Another account says the fire was caused by a groom having thrown a lighted cigar on the straw in the stables, setting it on fire. Another groom tried to stamp out the fire, but a strong draught fanned the flames and caused them to spread. The author of the fire perished, also two clowns, believed to be Englishmen.

A man, whose wife and three children were among the victims, stabbed the senior member of the Merchants' Guild in the street, and then tried to cut his own throat. The supposed murderer man abandoned the assailant's wife and children in order to effect his own escape from the burning building. The circus was a wooden structure. Horses running about wildly increased the confusion. It is stated now that 400 persons were suffocated, crushed or burned to death.

Cattle on the Plains.

From 1866 until 1871 the winters were mild and the cattle increased on the hills until they number quite nearly half a million. Prior to 1871 there was scarcely any sale for beef in the country. The railroads had not reached Colorado, and 600 miles was too far to drive, when beef was worth but 24 cents in the market at Kansas City. In 1871 there came a change. The railroads came, and the price of beef went up in the East and in Europe. In the West it went from two cents to three, then to four and a half, and the end is not yet. From 1871 to 1880 the increase had been so rapid that the country then contained 1,500,000 of neat cattle. Then came the third bad winter, the most disastrous of them all; probably, because there were more cattle than there were in 1862. When the spring of 1881 came, the 1,500,000 cattle that had entered the winter were reduced to less than 900,000, and our people became importers instead of exporters of beef. With all these losses, stock-growing in the past twenty-two years has been prosperous in the extreme. The losses during that time will not exceed three per cent. per annum. The men who own the cattle of Colorado to-day—unless it be the Prairie Cattle Company—were poor men fifteen years ago, and yet they represent now $35,000,000 of wealth in their own right. There are at the present time, in the State, about 2,250,000 cattle; 1,000,000 of these are in the South, along the Arkansas and Purgatoire rivers, and the other 1,250,000 are north of the divide, and along the waters of the Republican, the Platte and in the North, South, and Middle Parks.—L. W. Cutler.

Sand-Hillers.

A sand-hiller is a raw-boned, gaunt, cadaverous man. He is put together loosely. He shambles in his gait. He is humble in spirit, and looks downward as though searching for lost coins. There is a peculiar side glance from the corners of his eyes, a furtive, timid, abashed glance, that thoroughly expresses the craven spirit of the creature. His wife is generally a depressed looking female, much given to pipe-smoking, tobacco-chewing and occasionally to the pleasure of clay-eating. His children are simply young sand-hillers. Some of them, of tender years, are slaves to the clay habit. These people live in squalid hovels, hidden from the sight of passing travelers by trees. Many of these wretched dwellings stand in ravines where there is level land fit for agriculture. A few chickens stalk sadly around the yards. A pig, lean, active, straight-tailed, walks with hungry briskeness about the house. The sand-hiller who does not own a dog does not live in South Carolina. They generally have more than one—mean, sneaking curs, mangy, flea-bitten, and always tired.—South Carolina Correspondent.

HOLLAND CITY NEWS.

WILLIAM H. ROGERS, Editor.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 20, 1883.

It is reported that President Arthur is smitten with the charms of a young girl, the daughter of a member of the diplomatic corps.

Gen. Grant says that his Mexican treaty will prove an entering wedge to the commerce of that republic. He is afraid the people of this country do not appreciate the difficulties encountered in getting the Mexicans to consent to a treaty.

Mr. F. W. Cook, Independent Representative from Muskegon county, introduced a bill into the House of Representatives entitled a "bill for the protection of the right of laborers." The bill was referred to the committee on Labor Interests.

The effect of the death of Gambetta and Chanzy in France is seen in the fact that the monarchial sentiment is beginning to exert itself. Prince Napoleon issued a manifesto declaring virtual war against the republic, and promptly found himself in jail, and is quite likely to be tried for treason. The prince has nothing neopoleonic about him except his name and unbridled ambition.

The proprietor of the grog dispensary of the Newhall house is under arrest for having fired the building. The circumstances rather strongly confirm the suspicion of his guilt. A bar is considered as essential to the success of a fashionable hotel as a cook, or a diamond on the clerk's shirt-front, but it is doubtful whether it is the most valuable in debauching the guests, or as a fire-bug to destroy the property and lives of those who are committed to their tender mercies.

The Hon. Mr. Perham, Representative of this district, has introduced a bill into the House of Representatives, entitled a bill supplementary to an act entitled "An act concerning churches and religions, establishing uniform rules for the acquisition, tenure, control, and disposition of property conveyed or dedicated for religious purposes, and to repeal chapter 52 of the compiled laws of 1857, approved February 13, 1855, and to repeal all acts and parts of acts inconsistent therewith." The bill was referred to the Committee on Religious and Benevolent Societies.

By far the heaviest snow-storm that has visited Grand Rapids, during the present winter occurred last Tuesday night. The snowfall is estimated at twelve to sixteen inches. Railway business is much retarded. The accumulation of snow on the roof of the Michigan Iron works caused that part of the roof over the blacksmith shop to fall in on Wednesday morning, burying six men in the ruins. The men were speedily extricated, when it was found that only one man, named Samuel Smith, was dangerously hurt. He will probably die as his injuries are internal. The others escaped with broken ribs and bruises about the head.

Last Tuesday the first ballot was taken for United States Senator in the place of Hon. T. W. Ferry. The first ballot was cast by the two houses separately and resulted as follows: Vote in the Senate—Ferry, 14; Byron G. Stout, 13; scattering, 5. In the house the vote stood, Ferry, 45; Stout, 37; scattering 20. Both houses met in joint convention at noon with the same result—Ferry, 59; Stout, 50; scattering, 23. On Thursday the two houses met in joint convention and a ballot was taken with the following result: Ferry, 56; Stout, 50; Benton Hanchett, 7; scattering, 18. The last ballot shows that Senator Ferry lost three votes on this ballot. It is generally conceded that Ferry is beaten, but we hope not.

The Lansing house, Lansing, Mich., came near going the way of the Newhall and Planters last Monday morning but another hotel horror was narrowly avoided. Judge S. L. Tate, of Grand Haven, who was in Senator Ferry's room, was awakened by a sense of suffocation, and found the apartment full of smoke. He soon found the source of the smudge, which proved to be a hole burned through the carpet and floor from a spark thrown out from the stove. He squelched it with a pitcher of water. Fortunately it was so soon discovered, as it would not have taken many minutes to have had a full fledged conflagration at the foot of the main stairway, and no telling what the consequences might have been.

Our readers, we know, will be interested in the following article which we take from the Christian Intelligencer, the official organ of the Reformed Church in America. It commends to the people of our city the minister who has just assumed the pastorate of Hope Reformed Church.

"Fonds, N. Y., has seldom been so moved as by the resignation of Rev. Thomas Walker Jones. In the twelve years of his pastorate over the Reformed church, 399 persons have been received into the communion of the church on confession, and 45 by certificate, a total of 444, and an average of 37 yearly. There has also been raised the sum of $50,110.75, of which $3,508.80 have been for the Boards and Charities of the Reformed Church. On the morning of the last Sabbath spent by Mr. Jones with the church, the Lord's Supper was administered, and about 400 communicants, of whom 17 were members just received, participated in the service.

On the following Monday evening a reception was given to Mr. Jones, attended by a throng of people, when the congregation presented to him one thousand dollars as a proof of their affection.

The following action was taken by the consistory on Dec. 23d:

Whereas, Rev. Thomas Walker Jones, the beloved pastor of this church, has received a call from Hope Reformed Church, Holland, Michigan, and for the purpose of accepting the same has tendered his resignation at a meeting of the consistory and trustees of the church, held Dec. 5th, and whereas, we realize that none but a selfish interest can prompt us to retain him, when he feels called of God to accept this new field of labor, coming to him unsought and opening to him a new field of usefulness; therefore be it

Resolved, That we accept his resignation which severs our relation of pastor and people, with feelings of great reluctance, deepest sadness, and only at his most earnest solicitation.

Resolved, That in the past twelve years of his faithful ministry in our church we have been greatly blessed, increasing in membership nearly four-fold, doubling in value our church property, vastly increasing our benevolent operations, and creating feelings of Christian fellowship in the hearts of all.

Resolved, That for his affectionate regard for the poor and his ministering care to the spiritual needs of all, for his tender and earnest sympathy and encouraging counsel to the young men of the church, for his oversight and care of the Sabbath-schools, for his attention to the sick and suffering, for his generous liberality in the temporal affairs of the church, for his upright deportment and bright cheerfulness under all circumstances, for his untiring devotion to all the duties of a minister of the gospel in the church, the prayer-meetings, and all the walks of life, the members of this church and the community owe him a debt of gratitude they can never repay.

Resolved, That in parting our best wishes will ever attend him, and our hearts will ever hold him in the warmest affection. That we recommend him to Hope Church as a man worthy of their full confidence and esteem, one to whom they can go at all times for sympathy and help, one who it is our firm belief will, under God, lead them in paths of usefulness and happiness.

Resolved, That these resolutions be published in the Holland Valley Democrat and the Christian Intelligencer.

LAKETOWN ITEMS.

Sorghum.—Sorghum Seed was first introduced into the United States in 1856. It was then supposed that the problem of cheap sugar was solved and large quantities of the Sorghum was raised. But the quality of the syrup was poor, and it stubbornly refused to granulate into sugar, and for a time its cultivation was abandoned, or nearly so. A few years ago a new variety was discovered, which is called the Amber Sugar Cane, and seems to possess all the qualities of success. It is as hardy as corn, as rich in sugar as any other sugar cane, and of as good quality. This has been demonstrated by recent experiments made by the Agricultural department at Washington. Any good corn ground is good ground for the production of sugar cane of this variety, and it succeeds from Texas to Northern Minnesota. The richer the ground the greater the production, but the best quality is raised on light soil. Medium soil will produce about one gallon of syrup to the square rod, and more or less according to quality of soil. Its cultivation is about the same as corn. No one need wait for a cane mill as the Messrs. Bird, of Sanguetuck, will put one in the coming season in time for the fall crop. They will also furnish seed to all who wish to use any. It will cost about 20 cents per gallon to manufacture the syrup, though a portion of the syrup will be taken in lieu of cash if desired.

A Knabe in the White House.

There was seen yesterday at Messrs. Knabe & Co.'s factory a magnificent concert grand, just finished by them for the presidential mansion. President Arthur, who is a thorough connoisseur of music, in selecting a piano for the White House decided in favor of the Knabe piano as his preference, and ordered accordingly the instrument referred to. It is a concert grand of beautiful finish in a richly-carved rosewood case, and of superb tone and action—an instrument worthy in every respect of the place it is to occupy. It was shipped to its destination yesterday.—Washington Paper.

Prof. C. Doesburg, of this city purchased one of the Knabe pianos about one year and a half ago and the instrument gives perfect satisfaction. His piano is pronounced by competent judges to be first-class every particular.

The Knabe piano can be purchased of Mr. G. Rankins, at his place of business on Eighth street, this city.

JOTTINGS.

PAY your subscription.

ABOUT six inches of snow fell last Monday and Tuesday. Excellent sleighing.

Mr. Walter C. Walsh, who has been sick with bilious fever for some time past, is convalescing.

Mr. C. L. Waring started for the eastern part of this State last Wednesday to make his "old home" a visit. "Charlie" will be absent about two weeks.

Mr. W. Mulder, of the firm of W. Mulder & Son, of Graafschap, died Thursday morning last, at the age of 77 years. Mr. Mulder was one of the earliest settlers of this colony.

The prayer meetings held this week in Hope Church have been largely attended and full of interest. The chapel was crowded each night. The last one for the week will occur to-night.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Monteith, of Otsego, celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage on last week Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Monteith are the parents of Mr. E. P. Monteith, of this city.

LAST Tuesday a meeting of the stockholders of the Cappel & Bertsch Leather Co., was held in Grand Rapids, and as near as we can ascertain, a dividend of twenty per cent was declared.

It is expected that the Rev. E. Bos will arrive in this city next week, in which event he will occupy the pulpit of the First Reformed Church (church edifice) on Sunday, Jan. 28, one week from tomorrow.

Mr. A. De Pree, the farmer of Graafschap who was injured by the boiler explosion at Fillmore a short time ago, is in a very precarious condition, and fear are entertained, by the attending physicians, that he will die.

We acknowledge the receipt of a sack of "Sunlight," patent flour, manufactured by Walsh, De Roo & Co., of the Standard Roller Mills. This brand is the best flour manufactured at this mill and is of the finest quality. It can be purchased from our local dealers.

LAST Monday, Mr. G. Van Schelven of this city, having completed his labors as Deputy County Treasurer, left for Lansing, where he goes to take the position of clerk of the House Committee on State Affairs. Mr. Van Schelven was duly "sworn in" at a meeting of the House of Representatives held last Monday evening.

ALMANACS for 1888 can now be had at all the drug stores "free gratis for nix." We mention this fact for the benefit of that numerous class of people who are too "close" to take a newspaper, and get their supply of reading for the year from the medical almanacs, and from the old papers in our barber-shops.

We have been informed, by the owners of the building in which the News office is located, that they have not leased the stairway and hall leading to this office, to anyone but those who at present occupy the building. We would be very thankful to certain individuals if they would "move out" and stop using the stairs and hall for all kinds of purposes.

Mr. G. H. Cutler, the gentleman who had charge of the mill-wright work done in the Standard Roller Mills, was in the city last Saturday. Mr. Cutler is at present engaged at work in Petoskey, and was here looking after the machinery of the Star Mills, of Fillmore, whose boiler exploded some two or three weeks ago. Mr. Cutler intended to purchase this machinery for parties in the Northern part of the State, and to transfer it there for use in a mill that he is building. We were unable to learn with what success he met.

CANVASSING is being done this week, for our course of musical and literary entertainments for this winter, and there is no reason why the work should not receive the support necessary to make the course a success. We are glad to notice any effort that may be made to bring us something in the way of entertainments, of a higher grade than Minstrels or Uncle Tom's Cabin companies. The feature of making the entertainments of this course consist entirely of poetry and music, is something new in this city. We also understand that Laura Dainty, the elocutionist, can positively be secured in the latter part of the course. Her reputation is that she excels Miss Ella June Meade, but we doubt her ability to leave here, having any greater number of admirers than Miss Meade had. The proposed opening entertainment of the course is one of considerable note, bringing us Miss Arabella Root, the noted Soprano; L. Ross, the Cornetist; Clara Murray, the Harp Soloist; Miss Barrett, the champion lady Cornetist of Michigan, and other vocal and instrumental performers. Among the prominent features of this troupe's programme, are the Harp Solos of Miss Murray, and the Cornet Duets by Prof. Ross and Miss Barrett. This concert course comprises more points of real interest than any musical combination that has ever been here. We hope to see the canvassing for this course receive a support that will make it a certainty at once.

GOOD resolutions—pay the printer.

Mr. J. M. Doesburg is visiting in Detroit.

TWELVE hundred dollars has been raised for the erection of a Reform Church at Cooperaville, Mich.

The Fruit Growers' Association next Saturday, 27 inst., at 1 o'clock, at Vischer's office. Sec'y Garfield will be present and address the meeting.

BRICK corner loafers are dreary looking objects at this time of the year. Better give it up boys you'll never make a success of it in this weather.

THE schooner R. Kanters is undergoing repairs at her moorings at Harrington's Dock. A new deck is being put on, and new masts will be added to her in the Spring.

PERSONS desiring pews in Hope Reformed Church can make their selection at the close of any service, and state their choice and what they are willing to pay each quarter, to any member of the consistory.

At a meeting of the congregation of the Reformed Church, of Vriesland, held last Monday evening the following "trio" was made: Rev. N. H. Doosker, D. Broek, and J. F. Zwemer. A call will be extended as soon as possible.

REVIVAL meetings have been held nightly at the Methodist Church during this week. We are informed that the meetings will be continued during the whole of next week. Rev. A. J. Van Wyck assists Rev. George in conducting these meetings.

LAST Saturday as Mr. L. Meeuwse was driving down the Groningen hill near Scholten Rridge with a load of logs, the logs rolled off his sleigh, knocking him down and dislocating his right hip. Drs. Baert and Huizinga were called and reduced the dislocation.

SOME people have no music in their "soles." But this is no reason why those that have should be so invariably late to church and squeak their way into their pew, unless they have a new hat or bonnet, or a new suit in the very latest style, which, of course, demands immediate attention.

THE ladies of Grace Episcopal Church will hold a social at the residence of Dr. D. M. Gee on the evening of January 27th next. The evening's entertainment will consist of the reading of a paper on Burns, the poet, by Rev. J. Rice Taylor, who has visited Burns' home twice within the last 5 years; of recitation, music, etc. A general invitation is extended to all.

THE case of Messrs. Howard and Van Dyke against the Public Schools of the City of Holland was argued and submitted to the Supreme Court on Tuesday last. The case was decided on Thursday by the Court in favor of the plaintiffs, Howard and Van Dyke, thereby affirming the judgment of Judge Arnold. This result will require the payment of about $3,400 by the city, in addition to several hundred dollars already expended in the matter. Judge Williams, of Allegan, and J. C. Post, of this city, have been the attorneys for Howard and Van Dyke in the case; while Messrs. Norris and Uhl, of Grand Rapids, have had charge of the case for the School Board.

LAST Sunday Marshal E. Vaupell arrested Isaac Van Domelen, a young man of 23 years of age, a resident of this city, on suspicion of having burglarized the house of Mr. C. Bouman who lives in the eastern part of this city. In the afternoon while the family were at church, the thief went into the woodshed and with the aid of a shovel broke in the door leading into the kitchen, and after ransacking through the house, succeeded in securing $60 in money. When arrested Van Domelen protested his innocence, but as soon as the money was found on his person and identified as that which belonged to Mr. Bouman, he "caved" and acknowledged his guilt. Isaac has served a term of imprisonment in the Iowa House of Correction, for horse stealing, and did not bear a very enviable reputation in this community.

LAST Monday evening a large and enthusiastic meeting was witnessed at the seat-tening in Hope Reformed Church. The best spirit prevailed. The prices paid ranged from $60.00 to $8.00 for the year, or $15.00 to $2.00 per quarter. This system adapts itself to the feelings of every one, as each one can pay as much or as little as he pleases per quarter, and select any seat he desires for the year. We present a list of the quarterly pledges as given at the meeting: 1 quarterly pledge, $15.00; 2 quarterly pledges, each, $13.00; 3 quarterly pledges, each, $13.50; 1 quarterly pledge, $10.50; 1 quarterly pledge, $10.25; 1 quarterly pledge, $10.00; 2 quarterly pledges, each, $9.80; 1 quarterly pledge, $9.50; 4 quarterly pledges, each, $8.00; 3 quarterly pledges, each, $7.50; 1 quarterly pledge, $7.00; 3 quarterly pledges, each, $5.00; 3 quarterly pledges, each, $4.00; 1 quarterly pledge, $3.75; 1 quarterly pledge, $3.50; 1 quarterly pledge, $3.00; 7 quarterly pledges, each $2.50; 1 quarterly pledge, $2.25; 1 quarterly pledge, $2.00.

G. F. GRETZINGER, of East Saugatuck, killed on the 11th of January, a hog one year and eight months old, which weighed 675 pounds dressed.

THE daily mail route between this city and Saugatuck, via. Graafschap and Gihson is an established fact. Bids will be made in March and service will commence July 10th.

EVERY day this week from ten to fourteen loads of brick have passed through this city en route for Graafschap. We are told that the brick will be used in the erection of a new residence for Mr. G. W. Mokma, of that place.

IN consequence of the good sleighing our streets have presented a lively appearance this week. Farmers have been bringing in stave bolts, grain, wood, and pork to an extent that is unprecedented in the history of this city at this season of the year.

A SURVEYING party is now engaged in running a line for an extension of the Hart branch of the Chicago and West Michigan R'y, which is thought by many to be pointing for Manistee or Traverse City. This road will undoubtedly reach clear up to the Traverse bay region within a year or two.

CAPT. F. R. Brower purchased a Behr Bro., upright cabinet grand piano of Paul W. Friedrich, of Grand Rapids, this week. This is the legitimate outgrowth of the advertisements that have been published in the News by Mr. Friedrich, and clearly shows that this paper is the best advertising medium for this city.

Mr. H. Keppel, one of the proprietors of the flour mill at Hamilton, was in this city last week looking over the machinery and the workings of the Standard Roller Mills, of Messrs. Walsh, De Roo & Co. Mr. Keppel expressed himself as highly pleased with the mill and declared his intention of rebuilding his mill, and putting in the roller system.

THE quarterly pledges given at the seat-tening last Monday evening in Hope Reformed Church amounted to $259.75. This would make $1,039 for the year. Thirty-nine pews were taken: We think no church of its kind could present a better showing for a similar number of seats. We congratulate the church on its success. It must be encouraging to the new pastor, Rev. T. W. Jones.

WE have received the following letter from one of our patrons. It is intended as a Zeeland item. "We observe that the young men and the young maidens of Zeeland, afford themselves considerable pleasure by taking 'moonlight excursions' usually lasting from 7½ o'clock in the evening until the next day at three o'clock. The attentive reader may well enquire with me, what are the many comforts of such a trip?"

ACCORDING to announcement made in our last issue, the hunters of this city indulged in a "hunting match" on last Thursday. Sides were chosen by the captains, Messrs. C. Odell and James Huntley. Mr. Odell's side consisted of Mr. E. M. Williams, C. Miller, B. Odell, S. Smith, and W. Tubbergen. Mr. Huntley's side, consisted of C. Blom, D. Bowen, B. Keppel, W. Porter, E. De Koeyer. The score stood 186 to 158 in favor of Capt. Odell. Mr. E. M. Williams made the biggest score made by any of the hunters. His score was 100 points. Capt. Odell shot a woodpecker which scored 3 points, and Capt. Huntley scored 50 points. An oyster supper was indulged in at the City Hotel in the evening, the defeated side paying the expenses.

WE gather the following facts from the report of W. Z. Bangs, Sec'y and Treas. of Hope Church—Sunday school, which was read last Sunday before the school: "The number of officers of the school enrolled was 8; there were 21 teachers; the total number of scholars upon the roll was 208, of which 105 were male and 103 were female. The average attendance of scholars and teachers was 90. The total receipts for the year amounted to $85.92, this, with a balance on hand Jan. 1, 1882, of $26.95, made a total of $112.87. The amount disbursed was $103, leaving a balance in the treasury of $11.17, which amount will be sent to the Board of Foreign Missions. The receipts were larger the past year than they have been for a number of years. The expenses of the school also greatly exceeded those of the previous years, as there was several 'gifts,' a black-board and new singing books purchased, and a more liberal supply of Sunday School requisites were taken than heretofore. No deaths of either teachers or scholars was recorded. The report concluded as follows: 'About the middle of September, our pastor, Rev. D. Van Pelt, left for East New York, Long Island, where he had accepted a call to the Reformed Church, since which time we have had no pastoral leader. We are about to commence another year, under the most favorable prospects, if a similar interest is manifested, both by teacher and scholar, as during the past, 1883 will be a most prosperous year.'

Why Ugly Sam Reformed.

"I never mentioned it to any of ye, for I was neglecting her," he went on. "She was a poor old woman, living up here in the alley, and if the neighbors hadn't helped her to fuel and food, she'd have been found dead long ago. I never helped her to a cent—didn't see her for weeks and weeks, and I used to feel mean about it. When a fellow goes back on his old mother, he's a gittin' party low, and I know it. Well, she's dead—buried yesterday. I was up there afore she died. She sent for me by Pete, and when I got there I seen it was all day with her."

"Did she say anything?" asked one of the boys, as Sam hesitated.

"That's what ails me now," he went on. "When I went in she reached out her hand to me, and says she: Samuel I'm going to die, and I know'd you'd want to see me afore I passed away. I sat down, feeling queer-like. She didn't go on and say how I was a loafer, and had neglected her, and all that, but says she, Samuel, you'll be all alone when I'm gone. I've tried to be a good mother to you, and have prayed for you hundreds of nights, and cried about you until my old heart was sore. Some of the neighbors had dropped in, and the women were crying, and I tell you I felt weak."

He paused for a moment, and then continued:

"And the old women said she'd like to kiss me afore death came, and that broke me right down. She kept hold of my hand, and by and by she whispered: 'Samuel you are throwing your life away. You've got it in you to be a man, if you'll only make up your mind. I hate to die and feel that my only son and the last of our family may go to the gallows. If I had your promise that you'd turn over a new leaf, and try and be good, it seems as if I'd die easier. Won't you promise me, my son?' And I promised her, boys, and that's what ails me! She died holding my hand, and I promised to quit this low business and go to work. I came down to tell ye, and now you won't see me on the Potomac again. I've bought an ax, and am going up in Canada to winter."

There was a dead silence for a moment, and then he said:

"Well, boys I'll shake hands with ye all around afore I go. Good-by, Pete—good by Jack—Tom—Jim. I hope ye won't ding any bricks at me, and I shan't never ding any at ye. It's a dying promise, ye see, and I'll keep it if it takes a right arm!"

An Explanation.

No one medicine will cure everything, but it is an incontestable fact that Thomas' Electric Oil will cure a sprain, a bruise, a bite, or an ache, and is also an active and pronounced cure for neuralgia and rheumatism.

The Height of Folly.

To wait until you are in bed with disease you may not get over for months, is the height of folly, when you might be easily cured during the early symptoms by Parker's Ginger Tonic. We have known sickly families made the healthier, by a timely use of this pure medicine. —Overseer.

A Difficult Problem Solved.

The desire for stimulants is becoming a monstrous evil and how to overcome it is a serious question with reformers. Parker's Ginger Tonic fairly solves the difficult problem. It invigorates body and mind without intoxicating, and has brought health and happiness to many desolate homes. —Inquirer. See other column.

First Revived and then Cured.

"Was troubled for a year with torpid liver and indigestion, and after trying everything imaginable used Burdock Blood Bitters. The first bottle revived me and the second cured me entirely. J. S. Williamson, N. Y."

Its Equal Yet to Hear From.

The movements of a mule's hind legs are very variable and uncertain, but Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil takes but one course—it heels and cures. Its equal for asthma, diphtheria, catarrh, cold and sore throat has never yet been sold.

Let Truth Prevail.

Let the facts be known. Let us understand that a boil, or an ulcer, or a carbuncle, or any eruption or blemish of the skin is sure to wear away and disappear when Burdock Blood Bitters are employed. This wonderful medicine acts directly upon the circulation and the reasons for its use are therefore obvious.

Old Mother Shipton.

Considerable "streak" was taken in what Mother Shipton said would come to pass in the year 1881 by those who are ready to swallow down every whim that floats along; but these same persons will suffer from having all sorts of humors for years, before they will believe that fifty cents worth of Swayne's Ointment will effectually cure them. Ministers, judges, lawyers, and even physicians have testified to its merits. Try it.

Is Recommended by Physicians!

$100 REWARD FOR A CASE IT FAILS TO CURE!

We manufacture and sell it with a positive guarantee that it will cure any case, and we will forfeit the above amount if it fails in a single instance.

Marvellous Cure of Stone in the Bladder—Largest Stones Removed by Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.

From the Pittsfield (Mass.) Eagle.

Stone in the Bladder is a very dangerous ailment; but many most remarkable cures have of late been wrought by "Kennedy's Favorite Remedy"—the invention of Dr. Kennedy of Rondout, N. Y. Another striking case is now added to the list. Mr. Peter Lawler, of Dalton, Mass., states in a letter to Dr. Kennedy that he had been troubled with bladder complaint for 14 years, and had consulted at different times seven physicians, but nothing beyond temporary alleviation of the pain had been worked. Towards the end of last January Mr. Lawler called on Dr. Kennedy. Sounding him the doctor "struck stone." He decided that Mr. Lawler should first try the "Favorite Remedy," so as, if possible, to avoid an operation. And here is the remarkable result: "Dear Doctor Kennedy—The day after I came home I passed two gravel stones, and am doing nicely now. If you would like to see the stones I will send them to you." This letter bears date "Dalton, Mass., Feb. 6th," and is signed "Peter Lawler." The stones, which are so large as to warrant for "Kennedy's Favorite Remedy" the claim that it is the most successful remedy for Stone yet discovered, are now in Dr. Kennedy's possession. Incidentally Mr. Lawler also states that the "Favorite Remedy" at the same time cured him of a stubborn case of Rheumatism; and it is a fact that in all affections arising out of disorder of the liver or urinary organs it is a searching remedy and works marvellous benefits. It is in itself almost a medicine chest. Order it of your druggist. Price $1.00 a bottle.
