Seek Barnard's Help for Youth

A former West Ottawa Junior High School student is in Cape Town, South Africa, awaiting word on possible heart transplant arrangements by famed Dr. Christiaan Barnard.

He is 14-year-old Mark Kenyon who has a congenital heart condition and five years ago underwent open heart surgery to correct a defective valve.

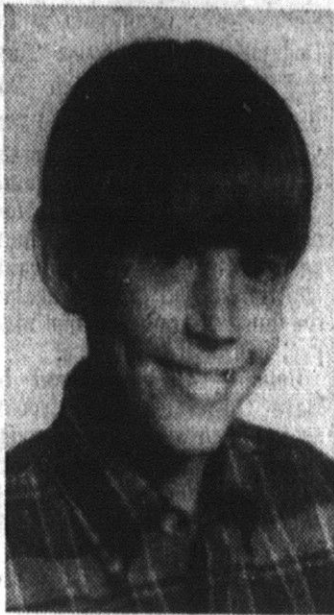

Relatives in Grand Rapids say Dr. Barnard, the famous pioneer South African heart transplant surgeon who was in Holland last November, will attempt to save the life of the undersized, partially paralyzed youth who has been slowly deteriorating.

Members of the family arranged for the attention of Dr. Barnard to the case two weeks ago through a brother of Dr. Barnard, according to Mrs. Burt Kenyon of Grand Rapids, a sister-in-law of the boy's father.

According to the report, Dr. Barnard will explore the possibility of giving the boy a new heart.

The mother and father are divorced. He most recently has lived in Kentucky. The mother and the boy had lived in Holland, but shuttled back and forth to Grand Rapids hospitals. The family formerly resided in Grand Rapids.

Mark's sister, Mary, who is continuing as a student at West Ottawa High School, verified

Mark Kenyon, the boy and his mother and father left Friday for South Africa; however, she has not received further word from her mother as to how arrangements are progressing.

Mark attended West Ottawa Junior High School until last fall when he suffered a stroke which left him partially paralyzed. Since then he has been hospitalized in Grand Rapids hospitals.

The sister-in-law, Mrs. Kenyon, said the three are in Cape Town awaiting outcome of Dr. Barnard's decision on the feasibility of an operation and transplant.

Supervisors Set Salary At $2,500

GRAND HAVEN — Ottawa county's new Board of Supervisors Monday set salaries at $2,500 a year for the next two years, plus a combination per diem and committee meeting pay of $30 maximum. Members will be paid $20 per meeting for board sessions and committee meetings, and Chairman William Kennedy of Allendale will be paid an additional $1,000. Total cost for supervisors' salaries for 1969 will be about $65,000. Supervisors will continue to be paid the 10 cents per mile for travel. Average pay for former members was $500 per year, but most supervisors received compensations from their townships.

Ferryburg Village Manager William Robinson was appointed to replace Clare Broman of Spring Lake district 3 who resigned for health reasons. Robinson appeared in person and presented an attorney general's ruling that there would be no conflict of interest between his administrative job at Spring Lake and his duties on the new board.

The board is meeting again today and Wednesday. Committee appointments will be made and the state auditor will appear before the board.

On motion of Robert Visscher of Holland, the board voted to meet on the second Monday of each month in addition to the state meetings required by law with sessions scheduled in January, April, June and October. The next regular meeting will be Feb. 10.

The old board's 26 committees will be streamlined to 11. The recommendation had called for 10 but the board decided that planning and zoning should be under its own committee, not under the legislative committee. The 11th committee will have seven members.

Christian Band Departs Friday

The campaign for funds to send the Holland Christian High School band to Washington D.C. for the Presidential Inaugural parade has gone over the top of its $15,000 goal.

Gerald Van Noord, chairman of the finance committee of the campaign, told a final briefing session of the steering committee Thursday night that a total of $15,600 had already been received with all final contributions not yet totaled.

He said that the Band Parents Association was discussing the possibility of using surplus funds beyond the needs of the tour for a possible scholarship fund for summer music camps in memory of Beverly Geerlings a former band member who was fatally injured last weekend. He also reported on a possible contribution to the Kidney transplant fund of Mrs. Carolyn Dekker, a former Holland Christian band member.

Dave De Witt Bright Spot For Dutch

Any coach is happy to escape from a ball game with a victory. But then there's always the next game to look forward to and improvements to be made from the previous game.

Holland High School's basketball team registered a 62-51 victory over Grandville in the Holland High fieldhouse Tuesday night but as coach Don Piersma said following the win, "let's hope there are many changes" before the next game.

Holland, looking sluggish and not being aggressive, still managed to trail only 15-13 going into the second quarter against the hustling but for the most part ineffective Bulldogs.

Holland was hindered by Dave Gosselar's foul trouble as the high scoring and rough rebounding senior forward committed his third foul with 2:46 left in the first quarter and was relegated to the bench.

Gosselar was inserted at the outset of the second quarter and for his protection against further foul trouble the Dutch went into a zone defense.

Not only did the zone help Gosselar, but it also kept Grandville's Bill Warner outside and after scoring 11 points in the first quarter he garnered only two against the zone.

Holland managed to convert but one of six bonus free shot situations in the half, but still held a 31-29 margin when the teams went to the dressing room.

First half shooting saw Holland make 12 of 32 shots from the floor for 38 per cent while Grandville took only 24 shots but hit 11 of them for 46 per cent.

The taller Dutch were able to hold only a slim 22-19 rebounding margin over the Bulldogs in the half.

Leading 38-37 and facing the possibility of suffering their first VCC loss of the year the Dutch finally clicked and played some fine basketball, both offensively and defensively.

Holland scored 16 of the next 20 points to take a commanding 54-39 lead. Dave De Witt's eight points during the drive paced the Dutch.

De Witt, besides leading the game's scorers with 25 points on eight field goals and nine of ten free throws, did a fine job on Warner in the second half holding him to eight points, four of those after the game was decided.

For the game Holland out-rebounded the Bulldogs, 54-38 with Rick Zweering pulling down 15 rebounds, Max Glupker, 12 and Gosselar, 11.

Along with De Witt, whose 25 point effort was his sixth straight 20 point or plus game, Glupker and Gosselar each bagged 11 points.

Grandville was paced by their guards, Warner with 21 and Steve Van Volkinburg with 12. For the entire game Holland hit 23 of 59 shots for 38 per cent while Grandville made 19 of 52 shots for 37 per cent including a frigid seven of 28 in the second half.

Holland, now 6-1 on the season and 5-0 in the VCC, travels to Muskegon for a conference battle with Mona Shores Friday.

Holland's Junior Miss, Linda Hein, and her Zeeland contemporary, Laura Pluister, have been named finalists in separate contests held in conjunction with the Michigan Junior Miss Pageant.

Miss Hein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hein of 171 East 37th St., has been named one of the five finalists in state competition in the hairstyling award competition.

Miss Pluister, Zeeland's Junior Miss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Pluister of 134 South Church St., Zeeland, has been named one of five finalists in the hostess award competition portion of the state pageant.

Both titlists were informed late Thursday by long-distance telephone calls.

Winners of each contest will be announced Saturday, Jan. 18, at the time of the final performance of the Michigan Junior Miss Pageant at Pontiac Northern High School.

In entering their separate categories, each compiled a workbook describing and illustrating their efforts.

Linda's workbook showed her hairstyle which she entitled "The Michigan Curl." She styled, set and combed out the hairdo which featured a bang draping to the right side and falling into soft swirling curls at the side. The same loose curls were featured in the front, crown and back.

Laura's workbook showed how she planned and would execute a party following a Spanish theme. She made a Spanish Pinata out of tissue and crepe paper to center the table setting. Judging was based on originality, attractiveness, etiquette and menu.

Both Miss Holland and Miss Zeeland will be among local Junior Miss winners parading at the final contest. Finalists for the Michigan Junior Miss Title were selected at various regional pageants held earlier.

The two area winners were eliminated from state winner competition at the regional held in Portage.

New Study Program Set By Presbyterian Women

United Presbyterian Women are inaugurating a new program of study-involvement for the next three months. The Association meeting, circles, and the sewing group will meet on the same day.

With the Lay Education Committee, United Presbyterian Women will provide study-discussion opportunities which are open to all women of the church and the community. The objective will be to provide experiences that encourage a Christian woman to understand and value herself in the multiple role of homemaker, citizen, and volunteer or paid worker, and to face realistically the factors involved in choosing her life pattern within these roles.

On Jan. 15, at 9:30, at the First Presbyterian Church, Mrs. William Rucker will address the group on the role of women in American life. Following this the women may choose to discuss one of these three topics: "The Christian Woman; Her Multiple Role," led by Mrs. John Stewart; "A Study of the Gospel of Matthew," led by the Rev. William Burd; "Issues and Answers — Studies; from Concern Magazine," led by Mrs. Charles Kupsky. All of these meetings are open to the public.

From 11:30 to 2:30 p.m. the program is of specific interest to members of United Presbyterian Women. This will be a time for sewing, mission projects, and committee meetings. An afternoon Bible Study will begin at 1:30 p.m. Infant care and pre-school church education will be provided during all of the sessions.

The day is designed so women may come an go according to their interests. For women who can attend only in the evenings, an evening circle will meet at the home of Mrs. Leon Kraai, 579 West 29th St.

In February women who are involved in social and political leadership in the community will tell how and why they are involved. The March meeting will consider the relationship of one's Christian commitment and involvement in the world.

"AT NO COST."

The problem of what to do with the hard-core jobless has been a tough one and under the Office of Economic Opportunity a good deal of money has been spent to solve the problem. There is little doubt that some good has been accomplished through the various training programs. But the best job of all hasn't cost the government anything. In fact it has poured some money into the treasury. Through the National Alliance of Businessmen, thousands of hard-core unemployed have been put to work.

Let's take a look at General Motors. Corporate records show that in a period starting April 1, 1968, 105,952 people were hired. Of these, 20 per cent, or 21,700 were hard-core unemployed. What is very encouraging is the report that the retention rate was about 67.6 per cent. Based on this percentage, some 15,000 hard-core unemployed have stayed on the job and have become self-sustaining. A bit of mental arithmetic says that these 15,000 paid a sizable amount in income tax.

While we are on the subject of income tax no not forget to make your last payment on your estimated tax. January 15 is the date.

We are quite sure that there are times when government must help with those who need training. But we are also quite sure that the best way to get men to work is through the channels of private industry. The presence of a solid labor force is a real stimulant to people who have become a part of the hard-core of the unemployed. Sociologists have indicated that there must be this kind of example to encourage these people.

If we now add to a job, the further incentives of good housing, education and training, we can do an even better job. And this is not the kind of program that costs a lot of money. We may need some reorganization of our thinking that money solves all problems. Private industry has helped us to solve some problems in unemployment, and that without cost, with a profit to the corporation, and a good tax return to the government. We had better investigate this approach a little more.

Early Reactions to Jesus
Mark 2:1-12, 15-17
By C. P. Dame

When Jesus lived and worked in Palestine people reacted variously to Him. Today people react differently to Jesus and to the gospel which He gave to His apostles and commanded them to preach.

I. Teamwork counts. After making a tour in Galilee, Jesus returned to His home in Capernaum. In a short time people knew He was back and came to His house, which was soon crowded with people. Suddenly four men carrying a sick man on a mat came to the door but they could not get in, no one moved for them. The names of these four men we do not know. We do know that they had compassion and were sympathetic and wanted to get healing for their friend. We also know that these men were determined. They showed it by their deed.

The house had a flat roof and there was a stairway on the side. The four climbed to the roof, which was made of tile, made a hole in it and let the sick man down in the house right in front of Jesus. Everyone saw it. The ingenuity and persistence of these four won. These four set a fine example to Christians on how to plan and work together to win people to Jesus Christ.

II. Jesus commends people for their faith. "When Jesus saw their faith, He said unto the sick of the palsy, Son, thy sins be forgiven thee." This man needed physical healing and the forgiveness of his sins and Jesus spoke of the most important need of all, forgiveness of sin. Jesus did not suggest that this man was suffering because of a special sin. He pointed out his big need—forgiveness of sin.

The critics of Jesus, the scribes, objected inwardly to the words of Jesus, saying that only God can forgive sin. In this they were right. Jesus asked them which was the easier to say to the handicapped man, "Thy sins are forgiven" or, "Arise, and take up thy bed and walk?" Both are difficult but the first is easier for no one would know whether it actually took place but with the command to walk it would be different. Jesus told the man to take up his mat and walk which he did. Thus Jesus showed He had power to forgive sin—He claimed deity. No wonder the people were amazed and glorified God.

III. Jesus calls sinners. One day He saw Levi, also called Matthew, a tax collector, busy at work, and said to him, "Follow me." and he left all, and followed Jesus. He left a well-paying job, standing with Rome, and a certain way of life and won self-respect, a greater work, a place in God's kingdom and a Master and Lord.

Matthew invited his friends to his house for a banquet to meet Jesus and they came. Jesus was criticized for associating with sinners but He felt that they needed Him. All kinds of sinners need Jesus—those who are down-and-out and those who are up-and-out. It is the work of the church to seek sinners and lead them to Jesus Christ.

District Court Work Is Slated

Transition from the municipal court to the new district court system effective Jan. 1 has presented some complications, but court functions are "shaking down" and Holland district court has been processing many cases.

The three Ottawa county district judges have adopted a tentative schedule of fines for routine traffic offenses, and some adjustments may be made in the future.

One change in the new court system is that $3 costs on every conviction goes to the state. In the Holland court, a speeding case which previously called for $10 fine and $2 costs now calls for a $10 fine and $5 costs.

Judge John Gallen Jr. is continuing the Holland court which occupies municipal court quarters on the second floor of City Hall. Judge Jacob Ponstein of Grand Haven continues the work at Grand Haven in City Hall but plans call for moving the court in a few months to the new addition under construction in the county building. Presiding Judge Gerald J. Van Wyke of Holland is setting up a court in Hudsonville City Hall but some remodeling is required before a full program gets started.

Boundaries for the three courts have not been fully established, but M-45 serves generally for the line between Grand Haven and Holland.

Area Relaxes With No New Snowfalls

Little or no snow over the weekend provided a welcome respite for Holland residents who had become conditioned to snow and more snow almost every day since Dec. 7.

Ground deposits leveled off at 22 inches Monday, and street crews concentrated on removing snow from overburdened areas instead of plowing the streets. Snow depth Saturday had been 26 inches.

Parking restrictions remained in effect, limiting parking to one side of the street in residential neighborhoods, generally eliminating parking on the north and east sides except where otherwise posted.

Temperature at 11 a.m. Monday was 21, and intermittent sunshine helped thaw streets.

Holland has had snow on the ground almost continuously since a snowy weekend Dec. 7. Most of this snow disappeared in four or five days, but snow returned a few days before Christmas, developing into blizzards on New Year's eve and on several occasions since. The December snowfall totaled 35 inches.

Hardy Donors Come Through For Red Cross

Red Cross officials today expressed heartfelt gratitude to the public-spirited persons who braved snowy blizzards Thursday to report to a donor clinic at Civic Center.

A total of 233 units of blood were taken. Many scheduled donors called in to say they were snowbound. Others had contracted flu and there were even some long distance calls from people who were stranded in the storm.

Richard D. Hansen of Holland, new chairman for the Ottawa County chapter of the American Red Cross, pointed to the increasing need for blood supplies and hoped persons who couldn't report to Thursday's clinic would remember the next clinic in Holland March. It also will be held in Civic Center.

Board Control Keys Calvin Win

Willink, De Horn Lead 94-88 Victory

GRAND RAPIDS — "The boards is where a team has to beat us." And although Hope College came within six points of Calvin, 94-88 here Saturday, the Knights maintained a control throughout the game, winning the battle of the boards, 79-40.

Hope, led by Randy Adolphs' eight points, jumped off to an early 22-16 lead, the biggest margin the Flying Dutchmen enjoyed.

Calvin then inserted Bill De Horn into its lineup to team with center Ed Wiers and substitute guard Del Willink which gave the Knights the board control and enabled them to utilize the fast break to run to a 38-37 lead with 4:30 remaining in the half.

Calvin wasted little time in combining the board advantage with the absence of Hope's Bruce Van Huis, who was on the bench with three fouls in his effort to stop De Horn and Wiers, to rattle off the next 11 points and up their margin to 49-38, a lead they never relinquished.

Of those 11 points De Horn scored two, Ed Wiers, three and Willink, six.

Hope came back to score the final six points of the half to trail 49-43 at the half.

Hope was led in the half by substitute guard Dan Shinabarger's nine points while Adolphs and Van Huis each tallied seven.

Calvin got off to a fast start in the second half and at the 10 minute mark held a 79-64 lead, their largest of the game.

Hope was forced to play catch up basketball from that point but De Horn, who grabbed 19 rebounds in the second half and 27 in the game, along with the rest of the Calvin front line didn't give the Dutchmen much of an opportunity.

Vroon lifted De Horn with Calvin leading 88-73 and Hope quickly cut the lead to seven points, 88-81.

De Horn was reinserted and although Hope cut the lead to 90-85 they could get no closer as Phelps canned four of his 10 free throws to account for the final Calvin points and keep Hope from getting any closer.

Hope was able to stay within striking distance due to fine play by its guards along with streaks of board control by its front line.

But Calvin just had too much muscle for the Dutchmen in the final analysis. This, coupled with some fine free throw shooting (30-43), caused by Hope's need to play catch up ball earned the Knights the victory which retained their unblemished MIAA record, 3-0.

The shooting percentages were similar, Hope hitting 37 of 84 shots for 44 per cent while Calvin attempted 89 shots and made 32 for 36 per cent, many of these buckets coming on short rebound shots or off fast breaks while Hope scored from outside with the shooting of its guards.

Shinabarger, who had a game high 21 points, led the Hope shooting making 10 of 19 shots. Calvin's Willink hit a perfect six of six from the floor and five of six from the free throw line. Phelps converted 10 of 11 free shots and Wiers eight of 10.

Trailing De Horn's game high 27 rebounds was Wiers with 17. Ken Hendrix led Hope on the boards with 15 while Marty Snoop added 10 and Van Huis seven.

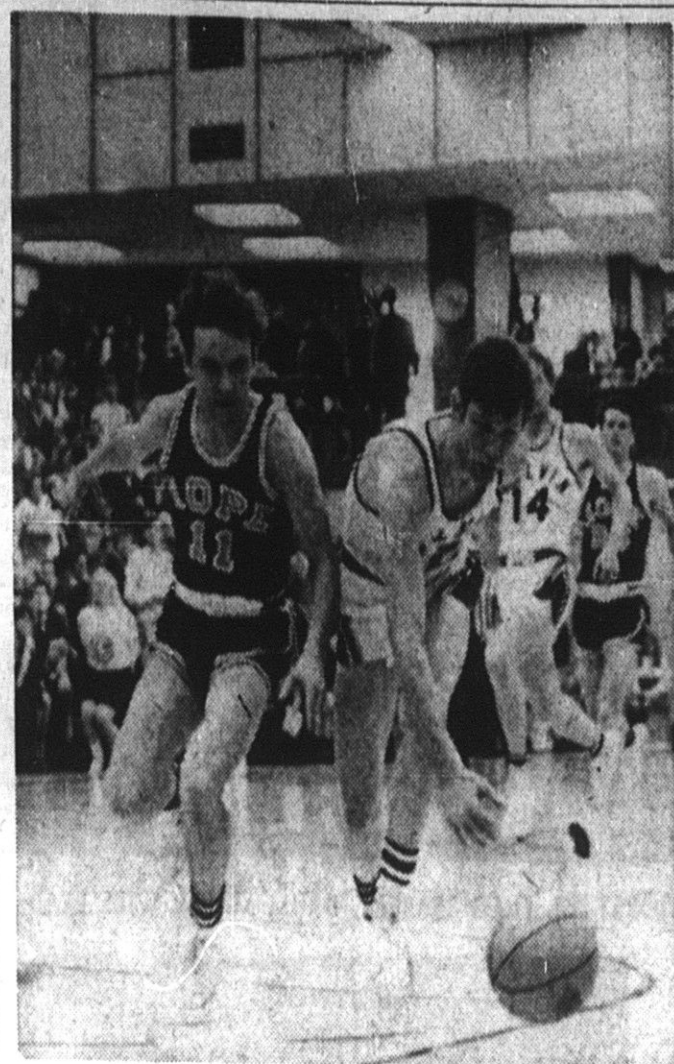

Behind Shinabarger's 21 points was Hendrix with 17, Van Huis, 14, Tom Dykstra, 13 and Snoop 10.

CAN YOU FIND THE HYDRANT? — That little speck just to the right of the street sign, West 27th St. and Harrison Ave., is the fire hydrant, however, if firemen would have been called there in response to a fire alarm, it is no doubt that they would have been delayed due to the immense bank of snow covering it. Maybe this girl is going after a shovel to dig out the hydrant. Citizens were reminded again today to lend a hand in clearing around the hydrants to avoid a possible serious fire. (Sentinel photo)

Snow 26 Inches Deep in Holland

More of the same — snow and blizzards — continued in the local area today and snow deposits on the ground mounted to 26 inches, causing still more problems on where to dump plowed snow.

The outlook was not encouraging, calling for colder tonight with readings from 2 above to 7 below, and a chance of more snow flurries.

A slight moderation boosted the temperature to 19 degrees at 11 a.m. today, up from 15 degrees at 6 a.m. The 11 a.m. reading Thursday was 13.

Schools not in session Friday were Holland Christian, West Ottawa, Grand Haven, Zeeland, Hamilton, Seventh Day Adventist, Borculo Christian, South Olive Christian, Hudsonville, Grand Valley State College, Saugatuck and St. Peters in Douglas.

GRANDSTANDING . . . The Clause is the Cause

By Vern Plagenhoef

The reserve clause is an ingenious baseball contract device which gives a club and its owners a continuing option on the services of a player and protects its property rights in him.

What was the reason for the adoption of such a clause?

Baseball owners, both sportsmen and businessmen, are interested in financial success. To achieve this owners realized that contests have to be sufficiently interesting and uncertain of outcome in order to attract fans and hence make money. For this reason no single owner can sell the product by himself; he must market it in conjunction with his fellow owners.

While other entrepreneurs can give their support to the law of supply and demand, at least in regard to the mass of industrial workers, baseball owners are in no position to support this laissez-faire doctrine.

The owners soon realized, as businessmen would sooner or later, the cause of high major league salaries.

It was competition among themselves for players. Not only were the wealthier clubs threatened but so was the whole professional format of baseball.

In 1879, to meet the problem, league owners began restricting competition for the services of players. They did this by introducing the reserve clause.

The clause was used not only to stop clubs from bidding up salaries but to reduce the advantage which wealthy clubs held over less prosperous ones in securing baseball talent.

Fine you say. But, this was all done at the expense of the man who makes the game what it is — the player, who was deprived the right to bargain freely in his marketplace.

Player Strike
The adoption of the reserve clause led to the first, and up to this time, the only player strike in baseball history.

In 1885 a Brotherhood of Professional Baseball Players was formed which, because of the clause, led to the strike in 1890.

During that season, in addition to the National League and the American Association, a Players League was formed.

The result was disastrous as all three leagues were huge financial flops during the season.

After negotiations, the Players League was dropped the following year and baseball was back to normal, to the point that the reserve clause, which was the chief reason for the strike, was still in effect.

After 78 years baseball players are again revolting, to a point at least.

Still obligated to play out long options, unlike the professional football leagues, where options run for only one season, the baseball player is still under the wings of the owner.

This has led to recent hassling between the players and the business oriented owners.

To discover what the players' grievances are we called Jim Kaat, Zeeland native and Minnesota Twin pitcher, at his off season job in Minneapolis.

Crux of Problem

"I think the public is wrong when they think there is a big dispute. It boils down to television rights. We always had a share in these rights," which work on a percentage basis, "and now they took them away from us."

They've (owners) made an

Jim Kaat . . . ballplayer's viewpoint

attractive offer to the public by offering us $1,000,000. However, revenues jumped from $30 million to $50 million in the last few years. With four new clubs costing $850,000 we're then getting $150,000 which hardly covers 600 players."

Player Intent
"We don't want to delay the start of the season. We're making every effort on our (players) part."

Jim, player representative for the Twins, feels the delay is on the owners' part, who just made their first offer to the players about ten days ago. "If they wouldn't have put negotiations off till now we may have had the problem solved. We wanted to negotiate in September or October."

"We can understand their tactics," Jim noted, feeling that they'll hold out as long as possible so that the players will "crack" as the season draws nearer.

Near Unanimous Support
"We have just about unanimous support on this thing, there are a few stragglers."

We're just going to have to sit down more often. We've made ourselves available. It all boils down to a matter of public personal opinion, whether one favors the owner or the player.

Kaat feels the "ballplayer is most important to the game" and is anxious to see a commissioner elected who will be more objective.

"We would be in favor of a man with a baseball background, but one tough enough to look at something from the players view and be more objective between owners and players. Since Judge Landis (Kenesaw Mountain) commissioners have been puppets of the owners."

Effects of Clause

What began historically with the reserve clause 78 years ago is still having its effect on baseball today as men jockey for more money and more secure positions, as do people in every walk of life, within the conditions that exist.

Baseball will suffer the consequences of the clause but, hopefully, will survive them.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat in 1889 said, "The reserve rule is, on paper, the most unfair and degrading measure ever passed in a free country. Still, it is necessary for the safety and preservation of the national game."

This it does by disallowing monopolies which would ruin the one ingredient which explains baseball's success . . . competition.

Meanwhile, the players, who realize the fans come out to see them and not the owners, must search for other means of bargaining and a fair share of the television rights adding to the player's pension is a classic example.

Who to side with is your own choice. Are the players receiving a justified share of baseball's income?

Jim summed up the players' feelings when he said, "I wouldn't care to predict what's going to happen in the spring."

Injunction Sought Against City Marina

GRAND HAVEN — The City of Grand Haven, William Creason, mayor, was named defendant in a civil action in Ottawa Circuit Court Friday. William and Hardy Bedford, owner of the Wharf Marina, and Tom Alberda, owner of Bauman's North Shore Marina, both on Grand River, seek a temporary injunction against the city.

They claim that City Council is constructing a large marina on Grand River, near the Wharf Marina, in downtown Grand Haven, and plans to sell at retail prices gasoline and petroleum products, in competition with several private marinas in the city.

They claim that selling of such products constitutes unfair competition with local businesses and is contrary to the concept of a free enterprise society. They also claim that the area is now adequately served by private business.

BPW Employees Okay Bargaining Rights

Harrington Bus Plight Appealed

A copy of a petition signed by Harrington school residents seeking state intervention in transportation policies of the Holland School District was presented to the Board of Education at its monthly meeting Monday night by Lee Boothby, Niles attorney representing the Harrington group.

The petition, in effect, asks the State Board of Education to order the Holland board to provide transportation for students of the Harrington district which was annexed to the Holland district last spring. Also involved is the Federal district included in the same election for county school reorganization.

The local board's policy is that it should not provide services for one group without providing the same services for other areas with the same problems. A transportation election calling for 1½ mills was taken off the Aug. 6 ballot after court litigation challenged Holland's right to take over the Harrington and Federal districts.

Boothby's petition reviewed the current problems, particularly with respect to the Holland district's taking over existing buses from the Harrington district.

Boothby made it clear the new action is not associated with the reorganization challenge brought by Federal and Harrington residents, who also retain his legal counsel.

Before Boothby presented the petition, several Harrington parents headed by Herb Wiersma protested lack of transportation in view of hazards, particularly the current icy roads, narrow streets and increased traffic on 32nd St. because of repairs to South Shore Dr. and the interests in winter sports at Carousell Mountain.

Present from the transportation division of the State Department of Education were Harold Wagner, supervisor, and Dick Hendra, also with the transportation staff. Wagner said the school district itself determines eligibility and rules and regulations of its transportation program. He said state reimbursement is available the following year based on approximately 75 per cent of allowable costs, although appropriations have not always been sufficient.

Earlier in the meeting, Board Member Charles Bradford reviewed Holland's plan for a special millage election for transportation following district reorganization, and the board's decision to withdraw the issue when reorganization was challenged in the Michigan Court of Appeals. A request for emergency hearing was denied and the case was scheduled in normal sequence.

He described the present transportation program that provides bus service for kindergartners a mile from school and children in first through sixth grades living 1½ miles or more from school, not only for Harrington and Federal districts but also for such outlying districts as Holland Heights and Maplewood. Funds were not available for transportation to secondary schools, and the board felt it could not take budgeted funds for education.

He reiterated that the board felt it would be irresponsible to purchase the needed equipment and embark on a full transportation program if the status of Harrington and Federal were not resolved since this would pose further questions on taxing areas.

Bradford expressed the hope that channels of conversation would continue, that both sides would avoid controversy and antagonistic behavior and that all groups eventually would work together to assure passage of the transportation millage, once court litigation is cleared.

James E. Townsend, legal counsel for the Board of Education, reviewed current litigation and the board's decision to wait until reorganization validity is resolved. He said the board's decisions were a matter of judgment, plus complicating legal problems.

Frances Johnson of Harrington district expressed concern over reimbursement for Harrington's transportation program last year now going to the Holland district. John Flieman was concerned over hazardous icy roads, but Board President James O. Lamb pointed out that transportation programs alone cannot solve all safety factors, since any transportation program can serve only those students certain distances from speed highways.

The school board voted unanimously to refer the copy of the Boothby petition to its legal counsel, James E. Townsend, for study and recommendation.

The transportation issue took up most of the time of the meeting which lasted two hours and 10 minutes. The board approved hiring Miss Sally Northrup who received a B.S. degree from Western Michigan University in December to teach in the special education department of Junior High School.

There was a brief discussion on the possibility of working toward fixed millage for schools in Ottawa county, but no action

"How To Succeed" with book by Abe Burrows, Jack Weinstock and Willie Gilbert and music and lyrics by Frank Loesser, has one of the most famous titles in the annals of American musical comedy production. This is the musical that won both the Pulitzer Prize, and the New York Drama Critics Circle Award in 1962, and ran 3½ years on Broadway.

Rehearsals are in full swing. Mrs. Burkholder is working with leads and chorus assisted by Mike Lucas as chorus master. Mrs. Marilyn Perry is serving as choreographer, and Sandy Decker is assistant director for the production with Mrs. Nienhuis as stage manager.
