Township Water Plan Outlined

Would Use Wyoming
Line; Cost Estimated
At $1.3 Million

Plans for establishing a public water supply system in Holland township were outlined Friday by the township water committee consisting of Supervisor James Brower, Treasurer Glenn Van Rhee, Clerk Charles Kreun and Trustee Gerald Michmerhuizen.

The proposed system would connect to the city of Wyoming trunk main at New Holland St. and 136th Ave. The Wyoming system was selected for two reasons, (1) the township through a contract with the Ottawa County Road Commission owns a share of the system, and (2) it is a good location to provide service to the developing industrial and commercial areas of the township.

Plans call for a meeting station at New Holland St. and 136th Ave., an elevated tank near River Ave. and Lakewood, and trunk water distribution mains to be located on 136th Ave., Butternut Dr., River Ave., East and West Lakewood Blvd., Aniline Ave. and Douglas Ave.

Plans for a trunk main on Douglas are being coordinated with Road Commission plans for widening Douglas from River to Division Ave.

Preliminary cost estimate is $1.3 million. Financing plans and water rate schedules are not complete. Preliminary discussion indicates that the water system will be financed by general township-wide millage.

Water service would be available to customers adjoining the trunk main after petitioning the township board for service. Extensions to serve other customers would be made after receipt of petitions from interested property owners.

The township committee has been working with Ronald Russett, director of the Ottawa county Water and Sewer Utilities, and with Prein and Newhof, consulting engineers, in developing preliminary designs and cost estimates. The committee also has met with many business and community leaders, and is optimistic over favorable response.

Plans also call for public meetings, citizens groups and letters to township residents. Construction hopefully would commence next fall, according to Supervisor Brower.

Continue Use Of Salt For Ice Control

The use of salt for ice control on streets and highways in the winter has come under fire by environmentalists worried about damage to streetside vegetation.

In Ann Arbor, the city council has agreed to a three-year gradual cutback in use of salt on the streets. Major intersections, thoroughfares and hilly surfaces will get the usual salt coatings though possibly somewhat lightened.

Use of salt on other roads and streets will be reduced. And a public, education and information program, research and a monitoring of results are planned.

In Holland, city engineer Harold Derks said use of salt and calcium chloride for ice control is used mainly on primary streets and intersections. Derks said a "minimum amount" of salt is put down on the streets and that traffic usually helps spread the salt on the pavement.

The city has budgeted 900 tons of rock salt and 150 tons of calcium chloride for ice control this winter. So far, about 790 tons of salt and 51 tons of calcium chloride have been used along with an undetermined amount of sand.

Derks said rock salt is ineffective in extremely cold temperatures and calcium chloride is used when the readings dip below zero degrees. Sand is used as an abrasive.

Derks said there has been some talk about cutting back the use of salt for streets but added that no particular substitutes are yet readily available.

Two Injured As Car Veers Off Road, Hits Tree

Two persons were injured when their car ran off James St. 300 feet west of U.S.-31 in Holland township at 12:40 a.m. Monday allegedly while trying to avoid an oncoming car which had crossed the centerline, Ottawa county sheriff's deputies said.

Taken to Holland Hospital were David Allen De Kraker, 23, of 385 Fifth Ave., driver of the car, and a passenger, Susan Taylor, 23, 656 Butternut Dr.

De Kraker was treated for facial abrasions and bruises of the chest and released. Miss Taylor was admitted with a dislocated left hip and scalp lacerations. Her condition today was listed as good.

Deputies said De Kraker told them he was westbound and swerved to the right to avoid an oncoming auto. De Kraker's car went out of control and struck a tree 15 feet off the road.

NSF Grant Awarded To Hope College

Hope College has been awarded a $12,250 National Science Foundation grant to support undergraduate research participation in chemistry.

The purpose of the research participation program is to provide the gifted undergraduate student an opportunity to apply himself to the solution of significant and challenging research problems in chemistry, according to Professor Irwin J. Brink who will direct the program.

Part of the grant money will be used to provide research fellowships for five Hope students and three students chosen from other privately supported four year colleges in Michigan. The students will be selected by the Hope chemistry faculty on the basis of their academic records and their potential for developing foresight, analytical competence, creative imagination and perseverance, qualities that are vital to research success.

The remainder of the grant will be used to provide the supporting facilities and supplies needed to operate a successful research program. This is the seventh consecutive year that a National Science Foundation Undergraduate Research Participation grant in chemistry has been awarded to Hope College. During this time 31 Hope chemistry majors have participated in the program, all of whom have gone on to do graduate work in science.

Hospital Sets Smoking Ban For Visitors

Visitors to Holland Hospital no longer will be permitted to smoke in patient rooms, according to action taken by the Hospital board Tuesday.

Smoking will be permitted, however, in such public areas as the lobby and patient lounges. The smoking ban was approved by the medical staff a week earlier.

In action taken Feb. 17, 1970, no smoke is allowed by patients after 10:30 p.m. or after they have received sleeping medication, whichever is earlier. Exceptions may be made only by the supervisor in charge. If an exception is granted, the patient must be attended while he is smoking.

Club Members Analyze Their Own Handwriting

Members of the Woman's Literary Club analyzed samples of their own handwriting Tuesday afternoon when Mrs. Edwin Tellman of Holland explained graphoanalysis under the title "Getting to Know Yourself."

Mrs. Tellman, who has pursued handwriting analysis for several years, said every individual is a unique individual with personal characteristics revealed in his handwriting. First books date back to 1612 and since then hundreds have been written and none really agree.

It was a shorthand expert some decades ago who did more for uniformity in analysis than any other person, theorizing that impulses from the brain direct strokes, and the variance in strokes reflect the personality of the writer.

Mrs. Tellman said the term graphology covers all forms of handwriting and graphoanalysis is a specific system of delineating personality traits through strokes.

Believing that 75 per cent of all failures are due to personality conflicts, Mrs. Tellman said handwriting analysis is used widely by personnel directors, credit bureaus, insurance companies, marriage counselors, document forgeries (here Mrs. Tellman said Dan Vander Werf of Holland is an expert and often is called for testimony in court), police departments, guidance counselors and many others. "We've only scratched the surface," she said.

The slant of one's writing is the first thing noted by any analyst. A far right slant indicates impulsiveness and a near vertical slant indicates a stop-and-think attitude, and a back slant generally indicates the opposite of emotional expression. Pressure on the paper many indicate deep thought, looped t's may indicate sensitivity and imagination. Well rounded m's and n's indicate logical thinking and reverse m's may indicate deep penetration.

The letter t is the best clue in a quick analysis, the tall stem indicating self confidence and enthusiasm, the short stem independence, the midway crossing practically, the low crossing underestimating abilities. Barely touching the top indicates vision.

Peoples Bank Assets Reach $44 Million

Nine men were reelected to the board of directors and two new members were added at the annual shareholders' meeting of the Peoples State Bank Tuesday. Reelected were George B. Tinholt, C. L. Jalving, J. W. De Vries, Clarence Klassen, George Heeringa, Russel Klassen, L. C. Dalman, J. H. Petter and William De Long.

The new directors are Charles Cooper and Ronald L. Dalman. A 100 per cent stock dividend recommended by the directors was approved by the stockholders.

In a report to shareholders, bank officers announced the most successful and progressive year in the bank's history. Total assets reached $44,503,558.77, an 11 per cent increase. Earnings attained an all-time high of $8.01 per share, up 22 per cent from 1969. Dividends were increased from $1.20 to $1.40 per share. After taxes, the net income to undivided profits amounted to $406,973.23. Of particular interest to shareholders was a report that the bank had paid $991,868.74 in interest to depositors during 1970.

Shareholders were informed that progress was being made on the new Eastside branch recently approved by the banking commission and which is to be located on 16th St. east of 120th Ave. This new branch is to be part of the Meijer's Thrifty Acres complex in the process of development.

It was reported that the new Westside branch which was opened in May of 1970 is in full operation and is rendering full service to the residents of the western area of the city. Stockholders were also informed that considerable remodeling had been done at the main office of the bank, and that a new front had been erected and new offices constructed in the building occupied by the Personal Loan and Real Estate Mortgage departments.

A fitting tribute was made to the memory of Chester Van Tongeren who died Jan. 11, 1971. Van Tongeren served as director of the bank for 31 years, having been elected Jan. 9, 1940.

FLOATING CRAP GAME—One of many hilarious scenes in "Guys and Dolls" which opened Friday night in Holland High School was the crap game in a New York sewer. The realistic, if large, set gave the proper underground effect for one of the floating crap games which figure largely in the plot of this musical fable. In foreground is leading man Robert Baupies who gambled for each man's soul leading to their appearance at a mission revival meeting.

Enthusiastic Crowd Hails 'Guys and Dolls' Opening

"Guys and Dolls," the Damon Runyon musical fable of Broadway selected by Holland Community Theater for its musical this year, got off to a fine start before an enthusiastic audience Friday night in Holland High School auditorium.

The Broadway scene of a couple of decades ago as described by Damon Runyon in his delightful stories is far away indeed from Holland, Mich., but local thespians threw themselves into this production with gusto under the competent direction of Robert L. Fritch of Muskegon with Ruth Burkholder as musical director.

If Holland men looked a little too wholesome and well dressed for the con men and crap shooters of Broadway, they nevertheless were convincing in their scenes. Characterizations ran more to blustery personalities in loud colors than the shady characters of many another production of the Runyon fantasy.

The local cast featured a number of new faces, mainly the principals, Robert Baupies, local businessman as Sky Masterson, and Phyllis Acocella, a Hope College student from New Jersey majoring in voice. These principals, both fine singers, received strong support from such local veterans as Rosie Krumm who made a wonderful Miss Adelaide; E. Dale Conklin as grandfather of the mission lassie; Gordon Cunningham in red sox as the blustery Big Jule, the Chicago gangster, and a number of Old Faithfuls ever ready to work hard for the theatre cause.

Among the newcomers were Neil Bangs as Nathan Detroit, leader of the floating crap games, and Chris Liggett as Nicely - Nicely, the hero of "Sit Down, You're Rockin' the Boat," in one of the final scenes in the Save - A - Soul Mission. Both are Hope College students and had appeared in "Guys and Dolls" productions elsewhere.

A highlight was the Hot Box Girls of Miss Adelaide's Club, mostly local matrons in a chorus line. Their final appearance in a modified strip act brought down the house.

It was evident that long, long hours had gone into rehearsals, music, set design, costumes and technical production. The Frank Loesser score is not an easy one and the choral numbers directed by Amy Wilson showed a certain mastery not easily achieved.

The action of "Guys and Dolls" is akin to a patchwork quilt, with many opportunities for separate little bits that shine. Bringing special laughs were the antics of Dick Rasmussen as the drunk and Barbara Greenwood as an elderly lassie in the Mission Band which marched through many scenes with its "Follow the Fold" theme. The first appearance was from the rear of the auditorium down the aisle to the stage, drums booming, trombones sliding and triangles tinkling.

Holland Sinks Sailors For 7th Straight

MUSKEGON — The Big Red and White Dutch machine of Holland High broke open a close contest with Mona Shores in the second half here Friday night to take an 85-71 decision.

After leading by only two points at the half, 38-36, the Dutch reeled off 21 points in the decisive third quarter to only nine for the Sailors.

This turned out to be the turning point in the game, as the Sailors were never able to recover from their shock.

The victory was the seventh

Mike Riksen ... fantastic move straight for Coach Don Piersma's eighth rated Class A team in one poll while the Sailors fell to a 4-4 overall record. Mona Shores is 3-2 in the rugged LMCA while Holland is now 7-1 for all games.

Neither team could get untracked in the first half, as both teams were trading the ball back and forth on turnovers. Holland was charged with 12 of its 19 miscues during this span while the Sailors were called for 10 of their 16 in the first 16 minutes of action.

The first half was nip-and-tuck all the way, as the lead was tied on seven occasions and changed hands additional four times.

Holland took a 21-16 lead at the outset of the second period on guard Dave Brownson's first and only basket of the evening. Even though Brownson only canned one field goal, he was red-hot from the free throw lane, as he connected on nine of nine attempts. Against St. Joseph last week, he was good on 14 of 16 tries for a blistering 86 per cent clip.

The Dutch took a 28-20 advantage on a backboard shot by Jim Helmink before the Sailors cut the gap to two points at the half on a desperation pass and shot for a basket by center Brian Gibson. Gibson's two-pointer cut the deficit to 32-36 at the intermission.

The flashy Tom De Vries canned a basket and center Greg Senk and Helmink followed shortly later with buckets, as the Dutch pulled away to a 44-36 margin.

With De Vries and Senk dominating the backboards and the scoring column along with Helmink, Holland raced out to a 59-45 lead at the end of the third period.

Reserve forward Mike Riksen faked two Sailors out of their shoes on as fine a move you would ever want to see to give the Dutch their 59th point.

Both teams added 26 points in the final stanza but Holland's 19, 19 and 21 totals for each quarter stop proved too much for the Sailors to overcome.

Helmink led the scoring parade for both teams with 24 points while the Sailors quick guard Frank Howell showed he could play in anyone's league by scoring 23 markers. Many came on fine moves.

De Vries followed Helmink with 16 points while Senk and Brownson scored 12 and 11 in that order.

The hustling Riksen poured in four field goals for eight points and Coach Don Piersma stated, "Mike sure gave us a tremendous lift tonight. I thought we played a lousy first half but we came back in the second half to do a job and we did just that."

Holland hit 49 per cent of its shots from the court, 32 of 66 while the Sailors were good on 27 of 61 tries for 44 per cent.

The Dutch also won the reserve game, 65-49, as Jed De Boer led Holland to its sixth victory of the season in eight games with 25 points.

Mike Windisch chipped in with 18 counters.

Holland Industries Use Technology for Protection

The technology that has made Holland's industry successful has been utilized to protect our environment, was the message that came through at the first meeting of the year of the Holland Area Affiliate of the West Michigan Environmental Action Council, Monday evening at Herrick Public Library.

With Roscoe Giles of the Chamber of Commerce moderating the four man panel, Henry Weyenberg began by explaining that the problems at the H. E. Morse Co. had been multiple and involved ground disposal of exotic materials which was unacceptable to the state.

However, with some state assistance the Morse Co.'s disposal technique now meets all state standards, is still being improved and in some instances has saved money for the company through recycling.

Unfortunately this was not true at Donnelly Mirror Co. according to James Dykema, Project Engineer, they have not been able to save money while saving the lake. He explained that after much investigation the process finally decided on had been used in food companies but never before in waste disposal, that they are constantly improving the process, that it has served as a model for other industrial plants, that it meets state standards and that they monitor their effluent daily.

William Clay, representing the pioneer in conserving environment through recycling wastes—the Louis Padnos Iron and Metal Co.—gave a brief history and summary of operations including their attempt to make it easy for local businesses to recycle corrugated cartons and also the conditions under which they can accept other recyclable materials.

He said that their new Fragmentizer will chew up cars and other appliances into fist sized chunks of metal that are more easily used in recycling and that as soon as they aren't as busy with this new process they may be able to set up a plan for glass collection.

As panel end man, Hillis Timmer of Jacobus's Refuse Co. commented that after everybody does everything he can with it, then it's his bread and

Day Care Center One Of 20 Models for Study

By Brenda Lashbrook
Anyone who walks into the classrooms of the Holland Day Care Center located at Hope Reformed Church can expect to find an impressive variety of activities.

Opening one door on a class of three-year-olds may release an avalanche of discordant sounds as the crying of a couple of disgruntled youngsters drowns out the uneven strains of a rhythm band.

In another classroom a quiet group seated at child-size tables studies picture books.

A Spanish lesson may be going on next door in a racially mixed class of 5-year-olds. One-by-one the children enter the television box and answer questions in Spanish.

It is an exercise which is part of the center's bi-lingual program of teaching Spanish to English-speaking children while teaching English to Spanish-speaking children.

These activities are planned learning experiences and not just busy-work. The effectiveness of such exercises in the Holland program is one of its features which recently earned the center national recognition as one of 20 high-quality day care centers in the United States.

The designation was made as a result of a study conducted by the Office of Economic Opportunity. The study is one of a series of interrelated efforts aimed at defining the range and quality of care being given infant, pre-school and school-age children.

About 200 centers recommended by experts in the child care field were first considered. By mid-summer the list had been narrowed to 46.

These centers were visited in late August and early September and each was evaluated in terms of:

1. Overall center quality.
2. Presence and variety of quality program elements such as compensatory nutrition, parent participation, developmental programs and services for special needs.
3. Quality of staff-child interaction.
4. Success of center-established goal achievement.

The Holland Day Care Center is the only Michigan Center among the 20 chosen as exemplary programs after evaluation.

The only other Mid-Western centers selected as model programs are the Amalgamated Day Care Center and the Fifth City Project, both of Chicago.

In-depth studies of the 20 centers are being conducted by Abt Associates, a Cambridge, Mass. consulting firm. The final report is scheduled for completion early in the winter of 1971.

Besides analysis of the centers there will be a special effort directed to developing a model of quality day care based on the 20 case studies. It is intended for use by those planning to begin day care centers and those seeking to improve programs already in operation.

The Holland center has been in operation since Feb., 1966 at Hope Reformed Church. A second center was opened at Third Reformed Church last March.

The present director of the centers, Mrs. Robert Cecil, has been with the program since October of the first year.

The program accommodates 76 children ranging in age from 2½ to 5 years. Those eligible to enter must demonstrate financial need and day care need.

Financial need is determined on a scale of $295 monthly net income for a family of four.

Day care need is determined by the three criteria set by the Michigan Department of Social Services. Those cases requiring day care services are a situation where the person in charge of the child must work or is ill, where the person in charge is in school or where there are pressing social or psychological reasons.

Children are brought to the attention of the center by parents, the Department of Social Services, the Department of Health, Mental Health Services and schools.

For every child who meets the requirements the local center must turn two applicants away, Mrs. Cecil estimates.

With the addition of facilities for 30 children at Third Reformed Church, however, the center has been able to reduce its waiting list to a few.

Mrs. Cecil feels that the present size is good but admits some difficulty in operating one program through two different locations.

"Our goal," Mrs. Cecil explains, "is to help the child develop a positive self image. We are concerned with how he feels about himself, his parents and others, and we want him to have a feeling of confidence, trust and security."

She describes the day care center as a home-like kind of thing that is also educational. To help achieve its ends, classes are kept small with approximately 15 to a room.

Children are placed in classes of their own age group supervised by a teacher, a teacher's aid and a volunteer aid.

The Holland center is fortunate in having well-trained and educated teachers in a field where they are traditionally underpaid and under-trained, Mrs. Cecil said.

According to Michigan law only the director of a day care center is required to have any training and the minimum is just two years of college education.

The Holland center's minimum requirement for a director, however, is a bachelor's degree. Mrs. Cecil obtained her degree in Child Development at Vassar College.

The local center looks for teachers with at least two years of college or the equivalent in experience. But, Mrs. Cecil adds, the most important qualification sought for all personnel of the Holland center is the ability to relate to and work with children and to be sensitive to their needs.

Of the center's staff of 17, more than half are bi-lingual. Special emphasis is placed on the development of language since many of the center's children have not received the attention necessary to develop communication skills.

Children from Spanish-speaking homes learn English skills and some Spanish is taught to English-speaking students.

The educational goal of the Holland Day Care Center, explains Mrs. Cecil, is "to help the child build up conceptual knowledge through concrete experience, and to become deeply involved and self-directed in the learning process."

Concrete items are used to teach by involving children. For example, Mrs. Cecil illustrates how a common object such as food can be used for teaching colors, shapes, sizes, textures, tastes, smells and categorizing.

Even the lunchroom becomes a classroom as children learn to identify in various ways the food on their plates by applying different concepts.

Equipment and teaching materials are also employed. Colored beads and blocks may be used to teach color discrimination and coordination. Games are tools for teaching many concepts while having fun.

Books, puzzles, records, rhythm instruments and craft materials such as clay, crayons, paste and scissors are materials found in every room.

The daily schedule includes a nap and breakfast, lunch and an afternoon snack. The Day Care Center takes the same approach as the Head Start program (from which the Holland center receives funds) in working with "the whole child."

Realizing that good health is essential for educational and attitudinal development the local center works to overcome nutritional deficiencies with the hot meal program and daily vitamins.

All children have a medical examination soon after entering and a dental examination twice a year. The examinations are followed through with medication and treatments.

With the help of the Crippled children's Society children who need orthopedic care are treated. The Junior Welfare League has assisted the center by providing eyeglasses for children with visual problems.

Records teach and entertain Alfred Hernandez, Derek Beck and Mary Jane Woudwyk. (All Day Care photographs by Dan Sau)

The center's dental advisor, Dr. Landis P. Zylman, has expressed the opinion that attention to dental hygiene pays off. Dental checkups and training in brushing teeth, for example, have resulted in improved dental health and fewer visits to the dentist.

As part of the effort to work with the whole child, various attempts are made to involve the parents of children attending the center in the activities of their children.

Both the boards and the policy committee are composed of community and church representatives and parents with parents making up 51 per cent of the policy committee, Mrs. James Brooks is president of the board and Mrs. Willard Wichers chairs the policy committee.

When an opening in the staff is made available the director and the policy committee conduct interviews, but it is the committee which makes the choice.

Mrs. Cecil reports that the system has worked well. Parents know the kind of people they want to take care of their children and the system helps make parents a part of the program.

A few parents of children in the day care program are employed at the center or give volunteer service.

In conjunction with the center's program in nutrition cooking and nutrition classes for parents have been offered, but are hampered by problems with facilities and hours.

Parents have been referred to the homemaking classes at the Good Samaritan House and many have participated with some earning certificates.

Recently a workshop for Christmas decorations was conducted for parents.

The local center depends on support from the community, especially in the form of volunteer work. By June of next year approximately 15,000 hours of volunteer work for the center will have been put in since Sept., 1967.

Volunteers assist mostly in the classroom but some of their work is in other capacities. Volunteers do the center's laundry, accompany the children on field trips and assist at parties.

Besides donating eyeglasses, the Junior Welfare League has made other contributions including providing birthday cakes for each child and locating and donating used clothing.

The center is funded through Head Start funds from the Department of Health Education and Welfare, the State Division of Day Care and funds donated from the Holland community. All services are free of charge.

A GOOD TOOL: USE IT WELL

The heartening fact that a broad-gauge federal occupational health and safety law is now on the books prompts a statement of the obvious: the effectiveness of the protection the law affords will be in ratio to how vigorously it is enforced. Obvious or not, it should be noted that the law in itself does not guarantee any big reduction in job-oriented injury, illness and death. It is a good tool, a better tool than our present dependence on inadequate state activity in this field, but much depends on the zeal of those who wield it.

This task falls to the Department of Labor, which must first develop and then enforce safety standards covering almost all American workers. Another key aspect of the law is its establishment of a National Institute for Occupational Health and Safety to conduct research and job safety. This institute will be administered by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

There is no reason to suppose that Hodgson and HEW Secretary Elliot L. Richardson will hang back in performing their respective duties under the new law. The urgent admonition addressed to them by I. W. Abel, president of the AFL-CIO's Industrial Union Department, nevertheless comes at an opportune time.

Abel, whose department represents some five and one-half million workers, said in a letter to Hodgson (a similar one went to Richardson) that the new law "will be meaningful only if it is administered with a zeal and a genuine concern to diminish death, injury and illness at the work place in every possible way and at the earliest possible moment." That could serve as a working guideline for the implementation of this enlightened piece of legislation.

Sunday School Lesson

Sunday, Jan. 24
God's Seeking Love
Luke 15:11-24
by C. P. Dame

Every Bible reader ought to know the contents of Luke 15. Do you? It contains three parables, the Parables of the Lost Sheep, of the Lost Coin and of the Lost Son. This lesson tells about the son who was lost and came home again.

I. The generation gap is old. Some seem to think it just came about. Jesus told the parables of the lost for the purpose of justifying his contacts with the publicans and sinners whom the religious leaders ignored and who criticized Jesus for doing what he did. The sheep got lost because it did not think and wandered, the coin was lost because of someone's carelessness and the son on account of his self-will, which expressed itself in rebellion.

The son lived in a well-to-do home. Evidently the two sons were unhappy, at least dissatisfied. The younger son went to the father one day and demanded the share of his property which according to Deuteronomy 21:17 was one third; the first born was given twice as much as the other sons. During the father's life the property could be passed on as a gift or at the father's death. By demanding a settlement the son went beyond the bounds of the law.

Why did the son want to leave home? He wanted to be independent and do as he pleased. And there was the lure of the far country with its attractions and pleasures. In the far country the lad spent his money quickly in sinful living. He forgot his old friends; his new ones helped him to get rid of the money. The behaviour of the lad suggests that the father and the son did not communicate much. Who was to blame? Who is to blame now?

II. The unexpected often upsets life. The son did not know the good things he had in his home but he learned when a famine hit the far country and he had to put up with a disgusting job of tending to a herd of pigs. His scant wages did not pay for food and so he wanted to eat the husks the swine ate but he could not even get them. His freedom was gone. He had to stint—gone were the days of fun, indulgences, pleasures, carelessness, and godless living.

III. Hardships often leads to understanding. "And when he came to himself, he said"—he came to himself and made a resolution to go home and confess his sin against God and his father. There is no sense or reason in sin.

The father had been waiting for the son to come home and when he saw him coming he went to meet him. The son talked about his sin but the father did not let him finish his confession and got busy to restore the lad to his sonship—gave him a robe, ring, shoes and had a party for him. Just as in the story of the lost sheep and the lost coin, finding was followed by a festive celebration. Through Jesus Christ, God is saying, "Come, no matter who you are or what you have done, come."

Brian Bailey To Open Solo Art Show Soon

Brian Bailey, 383½ Central Ave., will have a one-man show of his cast polyester paintings in Van Zoeren Library on the Hope College campus during the month of February.

Bailey, formerly of New York City, received his AB in history from Hope in 1967 and his AB in art in 1970, also from Hope. He is an Army veteran, and stands as the only student in the history of Hope College to be offered a private art show for his work.

Formerly confining his style to a technique involving acrylics used on a canvas, eight months ago Bailey made a drastic change, veering away from established motifs and developing his own, highly innovated method. He began to experiment with resins, developing his control and his dexterity while exploring the possibilities of various color combinations.

The result of his imaginative exercises, in the words of Fred A. Myers, director of the Grand Rapids Art Museum, "... the bounties of a new land... are exquisite in color, simultaneously bold and subtle. They are new things under the sun, things that are appropriately as much at ease under the glare of fluorescent lights as in quotidian daylight."

Bailey's show, coordinated by Bruce McComb, will open at Van Zoeren Library on Monday, Feb. 1, and will run throughout the month. A reception for the artist will be held Saturday evening, Feb. 6.

MONSTER DEVOURS CARS — After the junk car is lowered into the shredding hopper and other component units of the huge machine complex it will emerge in two minutes as the size of big cornflakes. Operation of the device was

Old Cars Chewed By 'Iron Monster'

Junk cars which clutter the American landscape may soon face reincarnation into bits and pieces of metal similar in size to large cornflakes.

An "iron monster" was put into operation here Thursday which eats up old cars and shreds them within a couple of minutes. A complete junk car, less engine, tires and transmission, is fed into a hopper at one end of a huge machinery complex.

After two minutes, the car emerges at the other end like oversized cornflakes.

Rippers, shredders, singeing and magnetic separators work together inside the 650,000-pound machine — tearing, disintegrating, scorching and separating the materials. The machine, costing nearly $1 million and installed at Padnos Iron and Metal Co., is supported by 339 cubic yards of concrete weighing over one and a half million pounds, bringing the total weight of the complex to 2.1 million pounds.

In the effort to clean up the environment, however, ecologists have pointed out that it's not enough to just chew up the junk cars. For several years, efforts have been directed not only at erasing old cars from the landscape, but also improving the scrap metal.

Elzinga and Volkens, the Holland construction firm which provided the engineering and design for the 24-foot long, 43-foot wide, 44-foot high machinery, said the operation provides the refinement necessary to satisfy the steel industry.

Company president C.E. Haltenhoff said that although the unit at Padnos is the first in the industry, it may provide the breakthrough for other iron and metal companies to follow suit.

"What used to be considered as unsightly is now considered a serious health hazard and the discarded auto hulks have been properly brought into focus on the ecological scene," he said. Seymour Padnos, president of the iron and metal co., said the "iron monster" will devour more than 10,400 junk cars in Michigan within a year. With the present backlog of old cars, however, Padnos said it would take his company 10 years to clean up the Michigan landscape, working five days a week and eight hours a day.

The machine, although a monstrosity of machinery, has air pollution control equipment that curbs undesirable emissions and it has a normal grinding sound to eliminate any noise pollution.

Women Voters Discuss New Study Items

Mrs. John Winter and Mrs. G. S. MacKenzie led a discussion meeting of the League of Women Voters Monday.

Mrs. Winter summarized how much the study on taxation and education had covered in the two years of study by the local League. She asked the members to decide whether they would like to continue the study of taxation and education, possibly studying the distribution of tax monies for education, or other areas not included in the previous study.

Mrs. MacKenzie informed them concerning the state support items, and asked the members which item would be their preference for study next year.

Every League of Women Voters, each year studies a national item, a state item and a local item. The local leagues discuss various topics they feel would be useful and investigate it in depth. The subject must be in line with League policy of a topic that will be of interest and use to the community, upon which it would be possible to make a non-partisan study.

For the state item all Leagues in the state send their preference to the state organization and the study item is announced at the state convention. The state conventions decide national item for study.

There are state and national support items that have been studied in previous years, that continue to be supported but are reviewed each year.

League of Women Voter Unit meetings will be Jan. 26 at the home of Mrs. John Winter at 9:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

The president, Mrs. Jerome Counihan, announced that a group of Holland League members will go to Lansing Jan. 21 for a workshop on taxation.

demonstrated Thursday at the Padnos Iron and Metal Co. as it went into action. Supporters claim it is part of the answer to the junk car backlog problem.

DAR Hears Book Reviewed at Meet By Mrs. Donovan

The Elizabeth Schuyler Hamilton chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Harrison Lee in Larkwood.

This January meeting marked the founding of the Holland chapter 63 years ago. Miss Myrtle Beach the only charter member was unable to attend.

Mrs. Edward Donovan reviewed the book "What So Proudly We Hail" by Maymie R. Krythe. This delightful book is the story of American symbols which inspired the growth and development of our country.

The Declaration of Independence in 1777 is the birth certificate of the United States. It is on this date—June 14—that we celebrate Flag Day, Mrs. Donovan said. There are only six countries in the world with flags older than the Stars and Stripes. It was the 15-star and 15-stripe flag in 1814 which inspired Francis Scott Key to write the poem the Star Spangled Banner during the bombardment of Fort M'Henry at Baltimore.

Later this verse was adapted to music from an old English hunting tune "Anacreon in Heaven" with a 12-note range. Not until 1931 did the Star Spangled Banner become our national anthem.

Another symbol of our country is the National Seal, the present seal found on the back of a $1 bill was first cast in 1903. The bald eagle with 13 arrows in the outstretched left claw symbolizes military readiness; while the olive branch in the right claw is a sign of peace. In the eagles beak is the banner with the latin inscription meaning "One from Many."

Mrs. Donovan concluded her review with a brief history of Arlington National Cemetery and famous pictures and paintings of the American flag. The most recent and well known is the picture of the flag raising at Iwo Jima in World War II.

West Ottawa Loses To Grandville

GRANDVILLE — West Ottawa, leading for three quarters, dropped an OK Red Division basketball game to Grandville Friday by a score of 72 to 63. It was a close contest until the closing minute when the Bulldogs pulled away, hitting four straight foul shots.

The Panthers got off to a fast start on some good rebounding and nice defensive work in the first period and took a 17-12 lead. But Grandville started to click in the second period and trimmed the lead to 34-31 at the half.

Con Zommermand, a sophomore brought up from the reserves this week, looked real good with his scrappy defensive work and sinking some fine baskets from outside. Doug Cook kept the Panthers in the game with some nice shooting from just about everywhere.

Early in the third period the Bulldogs tied the score at 36-36 as the Panthers rebounding slipped and allowed too many turnovers, but still managed a slim one-point lead at the end of the period, 50-49.

In the fourth quarter Grandville put a hard press on the Panthers and they were unable to break through it causing several turnovers which cost them the game.

Four three quarters though, West Ottawa looked good but when the pressure was on the Bulldogs came through. In the turnover department, West Ottawa had 22 as compared to only 14 for Grandville.

The Panthers shooting percentage was slightly better at 36 per cent compared to 33 per cent for Grandville. Mike Gorman looked tough on the boards but Grandville outrebounded the Panthers 42-38.

Cook was high scorer with 23 points followed by Zommermand at 15 and Gorman with 12.

The Panthers play at East Grand Rapids next Friday.

Coach Karl Von Ins' junior varsity dropped their game by a 61-52 score.

It was a fourth period press by Grandville that cost the little Panthers the game as they were unable to buy a basket in the last three minutes. Steve Hartman had 19 points followed closely by Doug Vork with 16.

Von Ins thought that Zommermand being moved up to the varsity could have made a difference in the outcome of the contest.

18-Year Old Visitor From Mexico Enchanted by Snow

Theresa Aienza, 18-year-old resident of Mexico City, has returned with Mr. and Mrs. Justin Scholten of 1429 West 32nd St. for a two-month stay in Holland after vacationing with the Scholtens in Acapulco.

Theresa has just completed the equivalent of high school at Coronet Hall where she spent the past one and a half years in a bilingual secretarial program. Theresa says she came to America to practice her English, and since she is in Holland, perhaps her Dutch too.

Upon returning to Mexico Theresa will either resume her studies perhaps picking up an additional language such as French, or will start work as a bilingual secretary.

Back home in Mexico City Theresa lives in a large family with eight brothers and sisters, her mother and father, who is the chief maintenance man at Herdez. Herdez is a Mexican business firm which produces among other things, marmalade, gelatin, mayonnaise and hand lotions.

This is Theresa's first visit to America, and being here only a week she really hasn't had much of a chance to form many opinions or impressions about it. The snow however intrigues her, as she says she's never seen anything quite like it. She noted "it's like living in a large dream." Theresa was also enthusiastic about snowmobiling and expressed sentiment on "how kind the Americans were" that she had met.

Theresa met the Scholtens where they were staying which sparked the friendship. The Scholtens annually vacation in Acapulco and usually fly. This year however they drove down in a motor home which enabled them to take Theresa back with them.

Theresa says she will spend two months in Holland with her "American parents" Mr. and Mrs. Scholten. Theresa added that she asked to stay four months, but officials said no and granted her two months instead.

What sport would you guess is Jim De Neff's favorite?

Most people and myself included would say baseball but we are dead wrong because De Neff's first love is football.

"I just love to play that rugged game called football the most and I would have to honestly admit that it's my first love," said De Neff in a recent interview.

The quick moving ex-Holland High graduate added, "I would

De Neff doesn't like to talk about his batting average which was around .250 when he was playing regularly for Toledo but when Mudhen manager Frank Carswell decided to use him as a pinch-hitter, it fell even lower. "I guess I must have been 1-for-30 in pinch hitting and I can honestly say that I didn't care for that role."

The solid De Neff is optimistic about making the majors in two years. "I will have a rough time in making the Angels squad this season because it looks like the Angels are going for a one-shot pennant and I believe that they will have a good chance of winning the Western Division title in the American League this year."

There was talk last year that De Neff was traded to the Tigers and Jim indicates that he first thought he was but adds, "the Angels just optioned me out to the Tigers farm team. They do that a lot to help out the farm teams in the minors."

De Neff says that the Pacific Coast League in which he played in Hawaii is tougher than the International League, that is the one Toledo competes in. "One of the big differences is the weather," stated De Neff. "It's so much better."

When asked, who are the best prospects at Toledo, De Neff snapped, "Catcher Gene Lamont and pitcher Chuck Soeclack, have the best chance of making the Tiger club in 1971." Soeclack was the Tigers No. 1 draft choice from Dartmouth in 1970.

De Neff enjoyed playing for manager Chuck Tanner at Hawaii more than he did in Toledo. "I just couldn't understand why they didn't play me more at Toledo," said De Neff, who indicated that he has never been sorry for signing with the Angels. "California has just been great to me and farm director Rol Hemond has been terrific."

Hemond is now director of player personnel for the White Sox and ironically, Tanner is the new manager of the Sox. "I wouldn't mind playing for Tanner again," De Neff said. "He was a real fine manager."

De Neff indicated that this is the last year that the Angels can farm him out to the minors without taking the risk of losing him. "I sure would hope that some team would pick me up if the Angels decided to farm me out."

Even though De Neff won't be in the position to make a deal for himself like in pro football, he feels that he has a

The Holland native could always hit with power and Jim has set some high goals that he would like to accomplish in 1971. He concluded, "I would like to hit around 25 home runs and drive in over 75 runs in 1971."

We hope you reach your goals in 1971 too and expect to see you in the majors in 1972, if not this year Jim. Good luck.

12 Sets of Brothers Swim for West Ottawa

West Ottawa's swimming team currently boasts 12 sets of brothers stroking for the Junior and Senior High swimming teams.

Senior co-captain Rick Zavdil, a powerful butterfly and sprinter is followed by brother Steve, a freshman and point-getter in the individual medley. Their older brother Mike, a freshman at Michigan State was also a butterfly and co-captain for the Panthers, while little brother Jeff already looks forward to following the Zavdil footsteps.

Rick "Animal" Hamstra, a big, powerful senior sprinter leads the Hamstra family with his name on the record boards as a member of the number one freestyle relay team in the state. Junior Randy, a determined breastroker, is already going places, while Ken, eighth grade co-captain is breaking junior high records in the breaststroke.

Jon and Jeff Helder, a versatile senior-junior combination are both freestylers, Jon a sprinter and Jeff a distance man.

The Wiley crew is headed by record-setting senior sprinter Ken, with sophomore Rick following the freestyle trail. Don Wiley, an eighth grader, dives for the Junior High team, while six-year-old Doug wants only to be like his big brothers.

Striking distances for the Streur family, Jim is a junior, while little brother Doug is an eighth grade distance paddler.

Senior sprinter Dave Ketchum has set the pace for little brother Joe, a ninth grade backstroker, while another freshman backstroker Dan Van Dort is followed by brother Matt.

Fred Nelis, 10th grade sprinter leads the Nelis clan, with sprinter Kevin in the eighth grade and brothers Pat and Tom swimming in elementary school.

Senior Jeff Boone, a good specialty stroker, capable in both the breaststroke and butterfly, has paved the way for eighth grade backstroker Jim Boone.

Dave and Tim Beckman, in seventh and ninth grades, both show promise for the Panthers, as do seventh grade twins Scott and Paul Van Lente. Phil Van Lente, a Panther alumnus, is currently at Hope College.

Ace diver Dan Troost introduced brother Doug to the water sports, as the younger Troost is an eighth grade stroker.

In addition to the current brother combinations, two prominent swimming families have already had the limelight at West Ottawa. The Seidelmans, Walt and Chuck had their names in the record books in freestyle and butterfly events for several years. Chuck is currently a junior stroker at Bowling Green of Kentucky, after achieving the status of Junior College All-American at Grand Rapids Junior College.

The Nienhuis clan, lead by backstroker Tom, state champ in 1966, also boasted Ron, another backstroker, and Chuck, a record-setting distance man currently a freshman at Youngstown, Ohio. Tom graduated from Bowling Green of Ohio, Coach Henry Reest's alma mater, in December of 1970 and is currently looking for a job to coach swimming.

Why do all these brothers stick to one sport? Coach Henry Reest is one good answer; along with assistants Robert Washburn and James Parker, they provide the dedication to the sport that every athlete needs.

A second good answer would be the interested and devoted parents that travel all over the state and tote the little ones along to see the defending Class B state champions swim, Reest

Ab Martin Retires After Over 41 Years With GE

Local General Electric leaders Friday night bade farewell to Ab Martin who is retiring after 41 years and seven months with GE, the last 15 years in Holland.

Martin, who turned 65 Saturday, officially retires Feb. 1 but is currently off to North Carolina for some quail shooting, taking advantage of some vacation time.

More than 100 co-workers gathered for the farewell dinner in Holiday Inn Friday. Among those from away were Fred Holt, a GE vice president of Fort Wayne.

When headquarters of the Hermetic Motor Department shifted from Fort Wayne to Holland in the mid-50's, Ab Martin and his family and many others moved here, a good number still here today. While the headquarters division was concerned with the production of hermetic motors in three locations, Fort Wayne, Tiffin, Ohio, and Holland, a good deal of interest lay with the Holland plant which became operative in 1955.

The Holland plant which aimed for 20,000 motors a week in 1955 now produces 50,000 a week, and the employment doubled, today's figure 1,100 to 1,200. Hermetic motors are used in the air conditioning and refrigeration industry. Holland produces about 25 per cent of the GE total.

Ab Martin who has lived all over the country is going to stay in Holland, Mich. "I could think of a hundred places which might have something more desirable, but the other aspects outweigh them, and I'm remaining in Holland where I've made a lot of friends and established many friendly associations," he said.

Besides, he loves the outdoors and Michigan offers lots of contrast. He has his own little retreat of some 250 wooded acres for bird hunting, and his own snowmobile trails.

In no hurry to make a lot of plans, he does think of spending three months in Alaska where one of his daughters formerly lived. She has suggested eventually that Ab spend six months of the year in Alaska and the other six months in Hawaii. He also is thinking of a visit to New Zealand where

Hope Scores 100 Points For 1st Time

Hope College turned in one of its top performances of the basketball season Saturday night in the Civic Center as they breezed past MIAA foe Adrian, 100-76.

The victory was the second in a row for Hope in the league and the fourth straight in the Civic Center. The Dutchmen are now 3-2 in the MIAA and 6-5 overall while Adrian is 0-6 in the loop and 0-12 for all games.

Hope's win over the Bulldogs gives them a lopsided 47-9 advantage over Adrian since they have started playing each other in 1937. The Dutchmen have defeated Adrian in the Civic Center for the past seven years counting Saturday's battle.

A happy Coach Russ DeVette commented after the game, "It was one of our better overall games and I'm just pleased that everyone could play and do the job for us against the Bulldogs."

Reserve forward Lon Eriks' basket gave Hope its 100th point Saturday. It was the first time this season that the Dutchmen have reached the century mark. The most previous points scored this season came against Albion on Dec. 16 when the Dutchmen won by a 96-74 count.

With ex-Holland High stand-out Dan Shinabarger hitting his first four shots from the field and Marty Snoop and Ric Scott doing almost as well, the Dutchmen raced out to 52-36 halftime advantage.

Both Shinabarger and Scott made six of 11 attempts from the floor in the first half while Snoop was five for seven, as the Dutchmen were tearing down the nets with their deadly outside shooting.

Hope finished the first half with 24 baskets out of 45 attempts for a torrid 53 per cent while the aggressive Dutchmen defense held the Bulldogs to only 14 buckets out of 36 shots for 38 per cent.

With reserves playing most of the second half for Hope, the Dutchmen cooled off from the court, as they only connected on 16 of 48 tries for 33 per cent and finished the night with 40 baskets out of 93 attempts for 41 per cent. The Bulldogs mustered 30 fielders out of 73 shots from the floor for 40 per cent.

The Dutch held a wide edge in rebounding with a 62 total compared to only 36 for the shorter Bulldogs.

Snoop and Scott led Hope in rebounds with 11 and 10 in that order.

With Doug Smith and Shinabarger along with Lorenza Howard directing the Hope offense from their guard position, the Dutchmen were only charged with nine turnovers compared to 16 for the losers.

Another ex-Holland High flash, Dave Gosselar drew a large response from the audience when he canned a jumper to give Hope a then 75-52 margin.

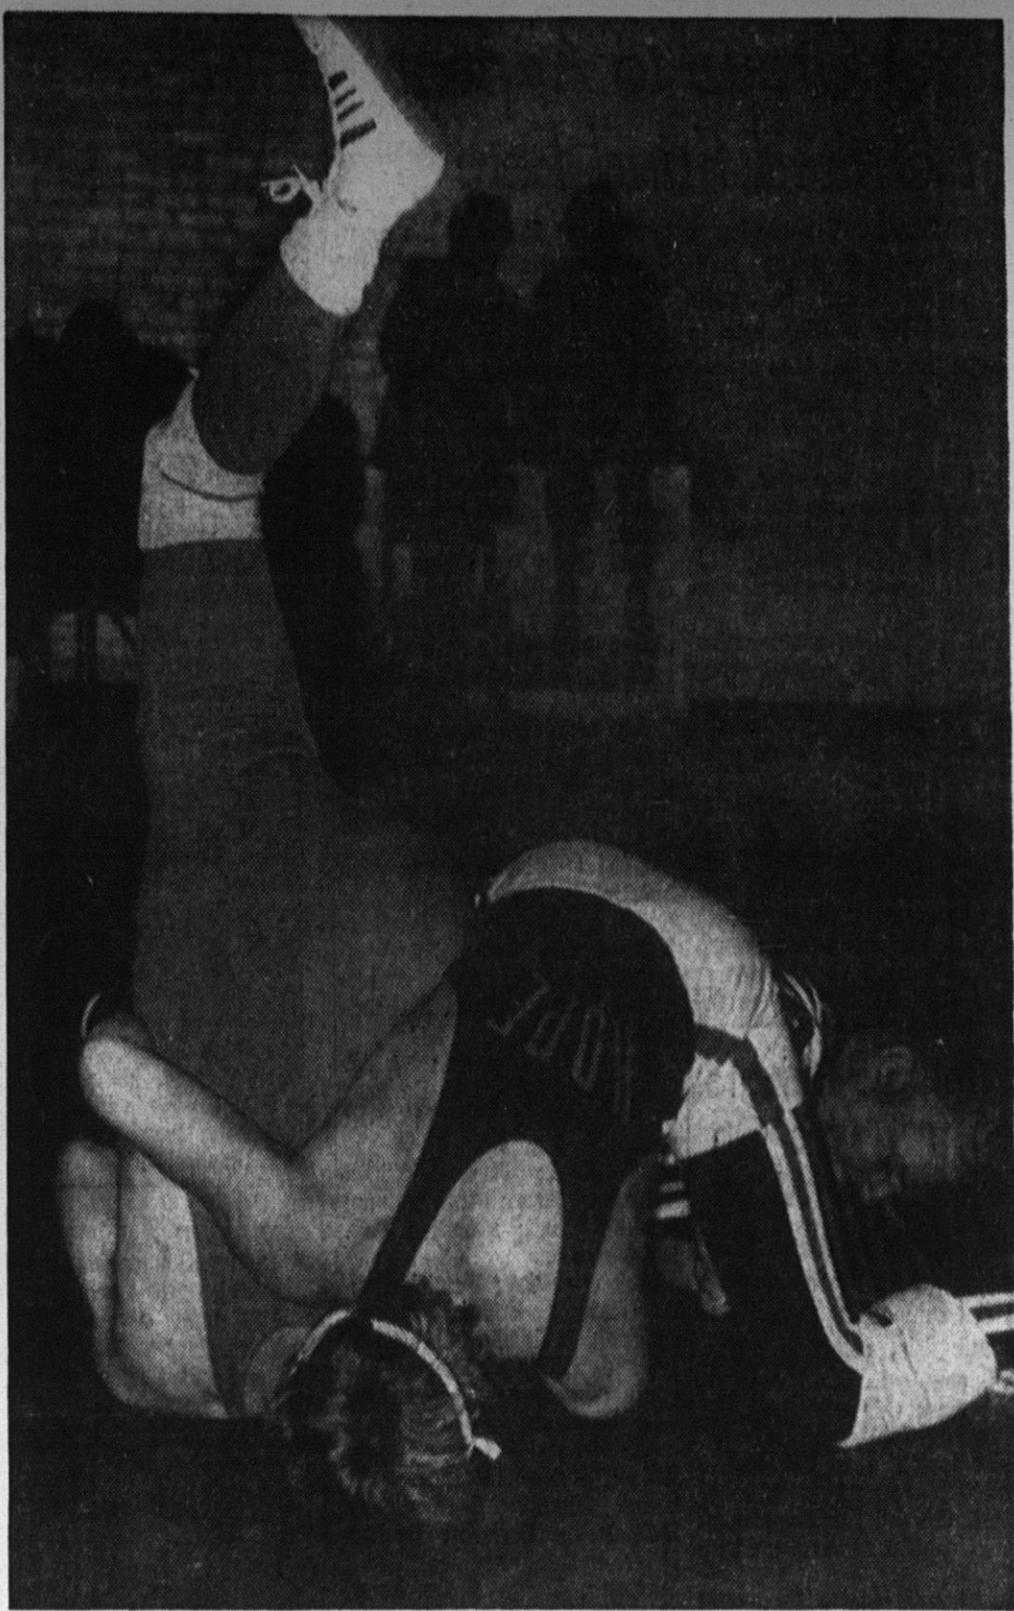

DeVette's bench came through in great style, as Grand Rapids JC transfer center Jack Hankamp threw in six fielders for 12 points and did a strong job on the boards too when starting center Tom Wolters ran into foul trouble. Not to be outdone, Wolters pumped in 12 points also.

Shinabarger finished the night as the game's high scorer with 23 markers while Scott and Snoop, who were deadly from the key all night followed with 16 and 11 points respectively. Howard chipped in with 10.

Substitute Bruce Haynes fired in eight long field goals for 16 points to lead the Bulldogs scoring column. Tom Lyons and Jim Burnell added 15 markers apiece.

Starting forward Steve Balyo of Adrian suffered a cut in his head in the first half on a collision with Wolters and was taken to the hospital for stitches. Balyo later returned to the game but did not see action.

'World Premiere' Gets Enthusiastic Response

"Generation — What?" a new musical for teenagers written by Dorthy Lee Tompkins of the Red Barn Theater at Saugatuck, attracted a full house of enthusiastic people at its "world premiere" Thursday night in Hamilton High School.

Miss Tompkins' new play with music and lyrics by her son, Jim Bill Dyas, is probably just the thing to meet a growing need in dramatic material for high school youth since it is geared to the "now generation" which youngsters react with enthusiastic gusto, yet its rock music theme is a happy blend of rhythm, musical themes and drama that even adults who abhor rock music can accept gracefully.

The play setting warms the heart of any teenager of the "now generation. It is the basement of a home set up with wild posters, musical instruments and enough sound equipment with microphones, speakers, wires and paraphernalia to excite the heart of any hi-fi bug.

Miss Tompkins provided roles for 18 in her story, something to cheer the heart of any high school dramatic director anxious to give assignments to a large number.

Hamilton High School has no dramatic department as such, but Miss Tompkins who served as director, aided by Jim Bill as musical director, found the students easy to work with. A focal point was developing an acceptable rock group of four musicians, a not too formidable task for Jim Bill who has his own rock group and lots of equipment.

The plot has lots of action—another thing to warm the heart of a high school drama director. There was loud music which definitely distracts the older generation, the need for new equipment and financing thereof, the selection of a girl singer replacement providing for auditions for lots of girls, and the generation gap — a subject which can be perused at all levels.

There was the perennial argument over getting a haircut — "It's my hair! Can't I keep anything for myself?" And the old argument, "You want me to grow up, but you treat me like a baby!"

There even was an ugly duckling role — the tomboy who ran around in jeans and a baseball cap doing all the thankless jobs who emerged as the beautiful girl singer in a borrowed formal. This was a replacement roll with Beth Topp taking over only 10 days ago. The play had been cast just after Thanksgiving.

Every opening must have one snafu and this occurred in the second act—a kicked plug or a volume switch which cut out an important mike, impairing auditions of three girls. But they weren't hired anyway.

Cal Peters as leader of the rock group possessed a rare poise in his pivotal role. He was faced with resuming his early morning paper route if he did not meet payments for the equipment and it was these responsibilities that gave him more mature judgment in arbitrating differences. Other musicians in his group were Dale Downing, Mark Reuschel and Scott Wolters.

Gift Paves Way For HEW Grant

Hope College has been presented a $94,500 gift by brothers Dick and Jack DeWitt, founders and owners of Big Dutchman of Zeeland, to help in equipping the new $2.9 million DeWitt Cultural Center which is currently under construction.

A $600,000 gift to Hope by Dick and Jack DeWitt in July, 1968, made construction of the building a reality.

The new gift will allow the College to qualify for a U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare interest grant subsidy totaling $594,500 for equipping and furnishing the new multi-purpose building which will contain instructional space, a theater, and a student union.

Announcement of the HEW interest grant subsidy was made this week by U.S. Rep. Guy VanderJagt to Chancellor William VanderLugt. VanderJagt, who represents Michigan's 9th district including Ottawa county, is a Hope College graduate.

The interest grant subsidy will enable the college to secure a 25-year loan at a three per cent rate of interest according to Clarence Handlogten, treasurer and business manager. The interest grant subsidy will be used to pay the difference between current interest rates and the three per cent level when the college obtains the loan from private lenders.

The DeWitt Cultural Center is scheduled for completion next fall. The building will provide Cultural and recreational opportunities for both the Hope student body, the Holland-Zeeland community and western Michigan.

A major area of the building is devoted to facilities for the performing arts. The auditorium will provide flexible staging for various types of presentations and will seat between 500 and 600 persons. Workshop and design areas accommodate teaching and production requirements.

The center also provides an exhibition area for permanent and special art works, reading and studying rooms, game rooms, lounges, music listening rooms, snackbar facilities and the college bookstore.

A multi-purpose room will be provided for banquets and other large gatherings, and all-student functions. The building will also house student government and publication offices, seminar rooms and classrooms. The exterior features outdoor plazas.

ON TO PONTIAC—When Sue Bazan, 17 (seated in chair) Zeeland's Junior Miss competes in the Michigan Junior Miss Pageant in Pontiac Friday and Saturday, she will have no more staunch supporters in the audience than her family. They include (standing left to right) her sister, Pat, 16, her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bazan Jr. of route 3, Zeeland and seated (left to right) Bev, 11, Amy Jo, 3 sharing her sister's chair, Mary Beth, 6 and Gary, 12. Only the two younger girls will not be in Pontiac to cheer Sue on. (Sentinel photo)

Zeeland's Junior Miss In Michigan Pageant

A high school senior with five younger brothers and sisters is pretty certain of being cut down to size whenever she begins to take herself and her grown-up state too seriously.

But it's another ball game when big sister gets to be Zeeland's Junior Miss then goes on to be selected in a regional pageant to be one of 24 contestants in the Michigan Junior Miss contest.

Sue Bazan, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bazan Jr., route 3, Zeeland is preparing to leave Thursday for Pontiac for the Michigan's Junior Miss Pageant, and even brother Gary, 12, is impressed. Her four sisters, Pat, 16, Bev, 11, Mary Beth, 6 and three-year-old Amy Jo are nearly as thrilled and excited as Sue herself.

While Sue will leave a day early with Mr. and Mrs. Bob Geerlings and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Telgenhof of the Zeeland Jaycees to go to Pontiac, all her family, except Amy Jo and Mary Beth, will travel to Pontiac Friday for the preliminaries and the pageant finals on Saturday. Sue's best friend, Barb Vredevel, will also be a member of the Bazan cheering section.

On Friday, Sue, playing the piano selection, Debussy's "Clair de Lune" which is her talent entry, will take part in the preliminary program, in which all 24 contestants will display their talents.

Saturday, the girls chosen as finalists will compete for the title of Michigan's Junior Miss. Judging will be based on physical fitness, talent and poise and appearance in evening dress. Scholastic ability, mental alertness and personality will be judged in personal interviews by the six judges of all 24 contestants during the week.

The winner of Saturday's pageant will receive a $1,000 Michigan scholarship; a $500 savings bond and all-expense paid trip to the national finals in Mobile, Ala. where she will compete for more than $46,000 in scholarships and awards in the America's Junior Miss Pageant.

Whether Sue goes to Mobile, or not, her parents and her brother and sisters will never be any more proud of her than they are now, nor more excited than when she was selected to be Zeeland's Junior Miss.

Local Audience Thrilled By De Cormier Singers

An appreciative audience Monday night in Civic Center found the Robert De Cormier singers a unique theatrical experience and a refreshing treat in a lively program which brought out the best in folk music.

Under dramatic lighting, the 15 vocalists gave not only a polished performance but did so with an enthusiasm that was contagious. Their folk songs came from Cuba, Spain, Scotland, Poland, Russia and Israel, but the best were American Negro spirituals, a natural for this well trained chorus, half of whom are Negroes.

Conductor De Cormier, a French Canadian who won nationwide fame as conductor for the celebrated Harry Belafonte Singers, is a creative and versatile musician who made his mark as a composer, arranger and conductor. A Juilliard trained musician, De Cormier is equally at home doing arrangements for the Mormon Tabernacle Choir and Philadelphia Orchestra as he is directing his own singers, but the latter stands out as a unique achievement.

A new rock cantata named "The Creation," written by David Bobrowitz and Steven Porter in 1969, proved to be a musical experience in Holland. A part of De Cormier programs for the first time this year, this cantata was skillfully performed in a dramatic setting of lights, movement and fine choral effects. Based on the first verses of Genesis, the theme built up to a dramatic climax, "And God saw that it was good."

Another master work, "Missa Luba," a mass in Congolese style arranged by Guido Haazen, demonstrated pure Congolese completely devoid of modern Western influences. Originally none of it was written, and the rhythms, harmonies and embellishments were all spontaneous improvisations. African music differs from the western rhythmic feeling in which the basic rhythm of the tom toms serves as a canvas on which other instruments base their improvisations.

The well known American Spirituals proved the most popular and the audience happily joined in the final "Amen Chorus" the theme of the Oscar-winning film, "Lillies of the Field."

Next concert Feb. 3 will feature the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

Warren demanded examination for which no date was set.

Bonds of $2,500 each were not immediately furnished and the pair was held at jail.
