Four of the forty Hope Democrats who traveled to Grand Rapids last Wednesday to protest President Bush’s opinion that war may be necessary to disarm Iraq. Bush was in Grand Rapids delivering his first speech since his State of the Union Address. Four Hope Republicans attended the speech. more WAR AND PEACE on 2

Focus will be on the influence of violent video games in reality

Kurt Koehler  CAMPUS EDITOR

In choosing its annual speaker, student congress was looking to depart from the recent trend of inviting famous and expensive speakers. While following recent high profile speakers, student congress believes it has found quality, if lesser known speakers, in Jack Thompson and David Kushner. The two will debate the issue of whether violent video games are to blame for real-life violent acts.

Thompson, a Miami attorney who has represented families of the victims of the Columbine and Peshash school shootings, is currently suing the maker, of Grand Theft Auto III for Playstation 2, Rock Star Games for a Wyoming, Michigan murder allegedly inspired by that game, Kushner, a contributing editor for Rolling Stone Magazine, will present the position that video game violence and marketing is not to blame for real-life violent actions.

“Thompson and Kushner will provide unique and professional perspectives into the topic of violent media and its effects on human behavior,” said Student Congress Comproller Jeremy Brieve (‘04). “They will also allow students the opportunity to converse with leading experts in this important area of study. Both will be available to interact with students and believe that this is of paramount importance to their visit.”

Neither speaker is famous, but they will bring an interactive new debate format to the presentation.

Early plans call for the debate ending with an informal question and answer session with both speakers and a community breakfast the following morning. They will also be available to visit classes. The debate format will also present students with the opportunity to learn in a lively environment that presents both sides of an interesting issue,” Brieve said.

Thompson and Kushner have a long history of advocating their respective opinions on video game violence. Thompson is involved in a class-action lawsuit with leading experts in this important area of study. Both will be available to interact with students and believe that this is of paramount importance to their visit. Neither speaker is famous, but they will bring an interactive new debate format to the presentation.

New Peale expansion vandalized

Jared Gall  STAFF REPORTER

When I think of all the things done in the name of science,” writes Jack Handley, author of “Deep Thoughts,” “I have to cringe. No wait, not science, vandalism. And not cringe, laugh.” This time, no one is laughing.

By the time construction and renovation are completed on Peale Science Center, the project will have been underway for over two years and will cost Hope more than $36 million. Dollars. Due to the actions of two Hope freshmen last week; the estimated bottom line has now increased by $15,000.

Early Wednesday morning last week, the two students broke into the construction site on the corner of 12th St. and College Ave. They reportedly tore down some plastic covering a window and climbed to the third floor of the building.

The students then allegedly took a length of pipe and smashed seven double-paned thermal windows, and caused extensive damage to other areas of the building.

A nearby Holland resident telephoned Holland Police and reported hearing glass breaking at the construction site. Officers found the two students in the site and took them into custody pending bail.

Both have been released and placed under summary suspension by Hope College, meaning they will be temporarily suspended while going through the judicial processes of Hope and Holland.

Following the incident, Hope will be examining possible improvements to security at the Peale Science building. "We’re always trying to be vigilant,” said Richard Frost, Dean of Students. "We make regular rounds of all the buildings. However, we are not a small campus. We appear small, but if a student makes a decision to do something, hopefully, they’ll use better judgment than they did last week.”

One of the windows at the Peale Science Center expansion allegedly damaged by vandals last week
America cannot risk inaction

The United States of America faces a multitude of threats at home and abroad, as we enter 2003. Domestically, the economy continues to recover following a mild recession and terrorist attacks. Abroad, the United States faces a number of challenges, both within and beyond North Korea and Iraq.

Most Americans are concerned with the health of the economy, and rightfully so. The President has proposed a number of items that are intended to move our economy in the right direction. The first is his tax cut proposal. It is a simple matter of economics: the more money people have, the more likely they will be to spend that money on goods and services. This, in turn, will be pumped back into the economy and help to create more growth and jobs. Everyone will see his or her taxes lowered under this plan.

It is also essential that Congress makes the president's tax cuts permanent. The Bush administration, with the support of the Tax Cut and Jobs Act, has already lowered taxes and increased our economic growth. With the addition of permanent tax cuts, we can continue to move our economy forward.

The second major issue facing America today is Saddam Hussein and his regime. Prior to September 11, 2001, the United States and its allies were nestled in our beds, and the world was a safer place. But, on that day our vulnerability became evident. We are no longer in a position to view Iraq as a minor problem. What if Iraq has or is in the process of developing nerve gas or anthrax? Iraq faced with such weapons would be a much more dangerous threat.

President Bush, or any other president for that matter, needs to make a decision on how to approach the issue of Iraq. The United States and the world cannot afford to ignore the threat posed by Saddam Hussein. We must take action to prevent him from acquiring weapons of mass destruction.

Let's solve this problem while we have the chance. Martin Luther King Jr. once said, "We must pursue peaceful ends through peaceful means." We say to the President, if it is people you are pursuing, do not jeopardize the innocent lives of our citizens. We must ask ourselves if this truly is the way to seek peace? Martin Luther King Jr. once said, "One day we must come to see that peace is not merely a distant goal we seek, but that it is a means by which we arrive at that goal. We must pursue peaceful ends through peaceful means." We say to the President, if it is peace you are pursuing, then let us work together to achieve it through peaceful means.

The United States of America is a great country, and we have the responsibility to lead the world in the pursuit of peace and security. Let us work together to achieve a future where peace and prosperity are the order of the day.
Christian singer performs February 14

Katie Taylor

From the people who brought Hope students Jennifer Knapp and Jars of Clay comes another concert by a Christian performer. At 8 p.m. on Valentine’s Day, the Christian Music Series presents Michael Card in Dimnent Chapel.

Card is an accomplished musician who has released 20 albums in the duration of his 20-year career. Nineteen of his songs have been number-one. One track, titled “El Shaddai,” was the only Christian song on the R1AA list of 365 songs for the 20th century. Card’s music has won five Dove Music Awards and seven nominations. He’s being a singer. Card is also an accomplished author of Christian works. The musician has been an ECPA Gold Medallion Book nominee five times. He has written 13 books, selling over 400,000 copies.

“Scribbling in the Sand” is the title of both Card’s newest book and album. The CD is a compendium of Card’s greatest hits featuring some of his musical colleagues such as Steve Green, Sara Groves, Phil Keggy and Kirk Whalum.

On the new album Card also premiers two brand new songs, including the title track, “Scribbling in the Sand,” the story of Jesus scribbling in the sand while deep in thought was the inspiration for this song. The overall theme of the CD, however, is creativity.

Derek Emerson, Arts Coordinator, is enthusiastic about bringing Card to Hope. Emerson feels that Card’s music will be enjoyable, in part, because of how long he has been perfecting his work. “Michael brings a more intelligent approach to his music,” Emerson said.

Emerson also noted that the show would be somewhat different from those that the Christian Music Series has done earlier this year, like Jars of Clay.

“The best word I can think of to describe the show would be ‘melllow,’ ” Emerson said.

Card will be performing solo in a simple setting without the bright lights. He will sing about half of the concert while playing the piano, and the other half with his guitar.

“Though Card’s approach to music may be more passive, his Christian message is strong. ‘He takes time to focus his work within the Christian faith,’” Emerson said.

Card plans to share his message not only through this music Friday night, but also earlier that morning. He will be leading the chapel service at 10:30 a.m.

Tickets for the concert will be available at the DeWitt Center Box Office Thursday through Friday this week and Wednesday through Friday next week, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. They are $7 for students and $10 for the general public.

Tickets are going fast. Emerson has already had calls from several out-of-state Michael Card fans that plan to see his show. Because of this, the concert was moved from Knickerbocker into Dimnent.

Christian singer Michael Card performs as part of the Christian Music Series at 8 p.m. on February 14 in Dimnent Chapel.

LAGQ performs

Guitar Quartet plays at Dimnent for GPS

Maureen Yonovitz

Arn't they beautiful?Called "one of the finest guitar quartets in the world" by "Guitar Player Magazine," the recently Grammy nominated Los Angeles Guitar Quartet (LAGQ) comes to Dimnent Chapel as part of the Great Performance Series. The performance will be held on Tuesday, Feb. 18, just days before the Grammy winners are announced.

LAGQ is made up of already accomplished soloists Andrew York, William Krigeris, Scott Tennant, and John Dorrman. "They are four outstanding guitarists with great individual careers who combine to create a stunning quartet," said Derek Emerson. Hope Arts Coordinator. "Any one of the guitarists would be worth their own GPS performance—to have four at once will be incredible."

The music of LAGQ has made its way across the continent. They have recently been heard on radio stations and featured on television programs throughout the United States.

"I booked this knowing it would be one of the most well attended concerts of the year," Emerson said. "They have a devoted following, and guitar players will come many hours to hear this group play."

Although they are best known as a classical guitar group, they play a wide range of different musical styles. In fact, their Grammy nomination is for the Best Classical Crossover Album for their 2002 release "LAGQ Latin."

"Most people appreciate great guitar playing, whether it is classical, blues, or rock," Emerson said. "On the other hand, they are not a strictly classical group, and I like hearing their range—1 think other people will as well."

Tickets to see LAGQ go on sale beginning Feb. 12 and through Feb. 18. They cost $14 for adults, $12 for senior citizens, and $5 for students and children. The DeWitt ticket office is open weekdays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

What's Hangin'?'

Cool Beans Coffee House
Byron Keith
Tonight, 7-9:30 p.m.
Mr. Klein

Cool Beans is a cool neighborhood coffee shop. It is located at 252 E. Michigan Ave. Come by for a cup of Joe, or to hang out and enjoy the atmosphere.

March 6-8: Trust (implied)
March 9: "Myth and the Creative Process: Michael Ayrton and the Myth of Daedalus" continues through Friday
DeWitt Gallery
Free Admission

"Myth and the Creative Process: Michael Ayrton and the Myth of Daedalus" continues through Friday

"Rabbit Proof Fence"
7 p.m. and 9 p.m.
Mon.-Sat., Feb 3-8
Mon.-Thurs., Feb. 10-18
Knickerbocker Theatre
$5 Regular Admission

LAGQ performs

Guitar Quartet plays at Dimnent for GPS

Maureen Yonovitz

Arn't they beautiful?Called "one of the finest guitar quartets in the world" by "Guitar Player Magazine," the recently Grammy nominated Los Angeles Guitar Quartet (LAGQ) comes to Dimnent Chapel as part of the Great Performance Series. The performance will be held on Tuesday, Feb. 18, just days before the Grammy winners are announced.

LAGQ is made up of already accomplished soloists Andrew York, William Krigeris, Scott Tennant, and John Dorrman. "They are four outstanding guitarists with great individual careers who combine to create a stunning quartet," said Derek Emerson. Hope Arts Coordinator. "Any one of the guitarists would be worth their own GPS performance—to have four at once will be incredible."

The music of LAGQ has made its way across the continent. They have recently been heard on radio stations and featured on television programs throughout the United States.

"I booked this knowing it would be one of the most well attended concerts of the year," Emerson said. "They have a devoted following, and guitar players will come many hours to hear this group play."

Although they are best known as a classical guitar group, they play a wide range of different musical styles. In fact, their Grammy nomination is for the Best Classical Crossover Album for their 2002 release "LAGQ Latin."

"Most people appreciate great guitar playing, whether it is classical, blues, or rock," Emerson said. "On the other hand, they are not a strictly classical group, and I like hearing their range—1 think other people will as well."

Tickets to see LAGQ go on sale beginning Feb. 12 and through Feb. 18. They cost $14 for adults, $12 for senior citizens, and $5 for students and children. The DeWitt ticket office is open weekdays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

What's Hangin'?'

Cool Beans Coffee House
Byron Keith
Tonight, 7-9:30 p.m.
Mr. Klein

Cool Beans is a cool neighborhood coffee shop. It is located at 252 E. Michigan Ave. Come by for a cup of Joe, or to hang out and enjoy the atmosphere.

March 6-8: Trust (implied)
March 9: "Myth and the Creative Process: Michael Ayrton and the Myth of Daedalus" continues through Friday
DeWitt Gallery
Free Admission

"Myth and the Creative Process: Michael Ayrton and the Myth of Daedalus" continues through Friday

"Rabbit Proof Fence"
7 p.m. and 9 p.m.
Mon.-Sat., Feb 3-8
Mon.-Thurs., Feb. 10-18
Knickerbocker Theatre
$5 Regular Admission
I’m not my own donor. Many students will stay on their feet for 24 hours to solicit pledges that will be donated to the DeVos Children’s Hospital, and other charitable organizations are willing to accept donations all year. If you want to make a difference with a donation to a charitable organization, consider DeVos Children’s Hospital, and other places where donations are welcome.

Educational events are a good start, but not enough

In our ongoing attempt to understand each other, which has found its way to the surface on campus this year, we must be careful to not further alienate those who we wish to understand. With this in mind, we must think of events like “The Other Shoe” and the Habitat for Humanity sleep-out in the Pine Grove as what they really are. These events can promote diversity and understanding as they are intended to, but the understanding that a participating gets is only a limited one. The most difficult part of being blind is that you will never see again; of being homeless that you never know where your bed will be tomorrow night. When we take part in these events, we only get a small sample of what the lifestyle is actually like; thinking anything else only trivializes the problems that we are trying to experience.

While we may never be able to truly understand viewpoints that are not our own, these events can serve as a starting point, but our work is not complete just from attending a few events and pretending to be someone that we are not.

Dear Dean of students should give an explanation

I love this College, and I believe I have the responsibility to do what’s best for it when I can. In the past few months, a series of events has led to our loss of a dedicated, hardworking, and wonderful Residential Life member, Stacy Kemper. Stacy has responsibility for the cottages and for the Student/Faculty Judicial Board. She has touched many students’ lives and earned friendships and trust outside of her formal roles.

However, it is as a member of Judicial Board that I can foresee the greatest loss to the College and its community. She selected and trained each of the students who serve—and from all reports, we have done a commendable job upholding the judicial process that the school has in place. Stacy has always been present at hearings and offers advice to help ensure fairness, consistency, and a positive educational experience for everyone involved in the process. I have spoken with each member of Judicial Board, and we are all sad to lose Stacy and very concerned about how the College can make such a loss and ensure it never happens again.

I do not intend to sit idly while the College dismisses those who, in their dedication to excellence, make their supervisors look unproductive and the Dean look like a puppet of departmental politics. Please join me in making the Dean of Students and the Assistant Dean for Housing and Residential Life accountable to the best interests of the College, not their own.

Nicol Grzegorczyk ('04)

Letters to the Editor Guidelines

Open to anyone within the college and related communities

The Anchor reserves the right to edit due to space constraints

No personal attacks, poor taste or anything potentially libelous

Letters chosen on a first come first serve basis, or a representative sample is taken

No anonymous letters, unless discussed with Editor-in-Chief

Editor-in-Chief may verify identity of writer

The Anchor reserves the right to refuse publication of any letter submitted

Letters over 500 words in length will not be considered for publication

Mail letters to the Anchor c/o Hope College, drop them off at the Anchor office (located in the center of Dewitt, behind WTHS), or e-mail Anchor@hope.edu
A war with Iraq is not properly justified, must make stronger connection to bin Laden

To the Editor:

only problem with this picture is al-Qaeda and Saddam when you ing at one point that Hussein and Osama bin Laden, say-are “clear links” between Saddam and al-Qaeda, so expect Secretary of State Powell to consider that the administration has provided when he goes to the Security Coun-

SOME CLOTHES? NEED TO
LIKE TO SAVE $$$!? NEED
You should come to Lakeshore household items, and furniture, all gentle on your budget.
Free brochures for first month.
WANTED!
Avon Reps. $10.00 to get started.
Free brochures for first month.
40% off first 2 months. Products shipped to your door, shipping is free.
Call Annie Wiley 399-3429 or e-mail anniewiley@chartermi.net

WANTED!
Mackinac Island or Mackinaw
City
Have fun this summer with Mackinac State Historic Parks! Full-time seasonal positions: Historic Interpreters, Naturalist, Receptionist, Airport Aide, Grounds/Maintenance, Guest Services, Costumed Interpreters, Archaeolyogy Crew Members, and American Indian Interpreters. Low cost dormitory housing $95 a month. $7.14 hour, 40 hours/week (start early May or June through Labor Day or later). Visit our web page www.MackinacParks.com. Call 231-436-4100; E-mail LINNT@michigan.gov.

Recycle The Anchor! Recycle The Anchor!
The Anchor! Recycle The Anchor!

The Philadelphia Center
Live, Work and Study in Philly!
Visit Linda Koetje in the Communication Department for more information!
www.philacitr.edu
experience life: education at work
610-544-2601
SNIP IT OR CUT IT
(A Style You Can Live With)
Open Tuesday through Saturday
Recycle The Anchor! Recycle The Anchor!
The Anchor! Recycle The Anchor!

In the struggle to “sell” the war, establishing the Osama-Saddam link is all-important. If Saddam had something to do with the 9/11 attacks, most Americans would rightly support a war of self-defeasence against Iraq, as was the case with Afghanistan. But if Osama and Saddam are in fact not conspiring, then a U.S.-led war against Iraq would appear to be one of aggression, one that many patriotic Americans would feel a duty to oppose.

Analysts at the CIA and FBI now are telling us that evidence of the supposed al-Qaeda-Saddam link is being exaggerated. The Sunday
New York Times quotes a government official who says, “We’ve been looking at this hard for more than a year and you know what, we just don’t think it’s there.” Four-fifths of Americans, however, according to polls and thanks no doubt to Bush’s assertions, believe that Saddam has ties to al-Qaeda.

In the face of a lack of evidence, Americans rely upon their easily fanned fears, thinking, somewhat naturally that Osama and Saddam might work together because they are both enemies of the United States. But the fact is that the two are adversaries, one religious and one secular, in a deeply tragicompetition for pan-Arab leadership. President Bush is asking the American people to wage this incredibly riskiy war on the presumption that Saddam would hand over his most degross weapons—and therefore his most valuable possessions—to a religious fanatic who is committed to the overthrow of Saddam and all other secular Muslim leaders.

What we can be sure of is that bin Laden, far from being intimidated, eagerly welcomes the recruitment and public relations bonanza that an aggressive U.S. war and occupation of a Muslim nation in the heart of the Middle East would provide. In the eyes of far too many in the region, the war will serve to prove his point: that the United States is on a crusade to dominate the Middle East and that only “holy warriors”—and not secular tyrants—can effectively resist the assault.

Despite Bush’s not daring to mention his name in the State of the Union address (while using Saddam’s name 19 times), Osama bin Laden is the principal enemy in the war on terrorism. It would be the height of foolishness to underestimate that enemy. Instead of striking a fatal blow against terroism, attacking Iraq without evidence of an Osama-Saddam comspiracy amounts to the taking of bin Laden’s bait.

Joel Toppen, Associate Professor of Political Science
Two new shows added to Hope television lineup

Music themed shows produced by students will begin this Friday.

Erin Wickens
Staff Writer The Lakeshore Report

"Track Nine," a public television station that airs to the Grand Rapids area, is planning to bring two new shows about music into Hope's lineup. The shows are "Track Nine," produced by students and "Col Spired," produced by the Health Clinic.

"Track Nine," however, will have a set format. It could take the form of interviews or video footage of bands and music, but it is uncertain what is going to happen with "Track Nine," but it promises to be fun for viewers.

First up for "Track Nine" is a recent concert held in the Voorhees Hall basement featuring Volk's band, Hope for August, and James Pierce's band, Lyle! Future shows will play clips of and interviews with The Fashion Club, Isaiah Kalman from the Grand Rapids-based band Joust, Launch of the Ultra Spider, Tara Leigh Cobble and Just Plain Ann.

"We are taking it week by week," said Wert when asked what they plan to do with the show in the future. "We are open to ideas, and we don’t want strictly rock and roll." Right now, he said, they are planning a show featuring Grand Rapids bands once a month to bring interest from a wide demographic.

The only problem would be finding the time and money to drive out to Grand Rapids. But it would be great if we can do it because David Schock, professor of communication, has even talked about eventually putting the show on WTVU, a public television station that airs to all of West Michigan.

"...these shows will be the ones people will want to watch." - Sarah Sterling ('06)

Schock has spoken to the Grand Rapids Communication Media Center and says that they are very interested in a show that features new music.

"This is what they are supposed to do," he said. "I’m not as interested in ‘Col Spired’ as I am in ‘Track Nine.’ I think I would watch that show regularly. I’m interested in knowing about local bands," she said. "It would be very interesting if the show is interactive by saying ‘send us a tape! Let us know about upcoming shows.’ People would feel like they were a part of the show and involved with the music. It wouldn’t be like other music shows where they talked about and played the top 50 songs in the nation...it’s applicable to this town and county."

Emily Adams ('06), a music fan agreed. "People are interested in knowing other music. If they do get into Grand Rapids shows, they will be able to interest other people besides Holland residents."

"If things work out as planned the shows could be quite a hit, even ‘Col Spired’ Sterling predicted.

Health Clinic offers free limited medical care

Students can save up to $1000 with Hopehealth benefit plan in effect

Anjey Dyhuis
Staff Writer

"Tis the season to be...sniffly, achy, and all around under the weather."

Unfortunately, the milder pre-winter weather of West Michigan is past and "deep cold," as some older Michiganders call it, has assaulted us yet again. The upside: this winter’s deep cold is the new and improved Health Clinic.

Unfortunately to many students, this year's tuition for full time students added $130, which covers all services the Health Clinic offers, plus anything they refer students to for up to $1000. Students received Hope Health Benefit cards from Student Development this fall. If they were not received, they can be signed out with D from the Student Development Office in DeWitt Center. These cards must be presented at time of service in the Health Clinic to receive the Hope Health Benefit.

"The Health Benefit is primarily to be used here in the Health Clinic for things like strep throat, routine vaccinations and flu shots, and colds and the like. If someone comes in and there is some service we cannot provide or we feel they do need to see a specialist, as long as we can get them, it also can come under that $1000. It also covers most prescription medicines at one hundred percent," said Cindy Saho, Registered Nurse. Prescription drugs are filled through the Apothecary and Model Drug Store on Eighth Street and River, with presentation of the Hope Health Benefit card. Model Drug is the only drug store that will subtrack to the particular company Hope users.

This is not the same as major medical insurance, which students are required to have to be enrolled. "One thing we don’t want is for students to confuse this with major medical insurance. Their major medical insurance should kick in for costly operations," Saho said. Hope offers major medical insurance for purchase through an agency that works with college students. This differs from the $1000 dollar benefit because it covers everything, not just the incidentals that occur during the year. Major medical insurance is what students would use if they were seriously injured, in need of surgery, or any other type of medical care.

The Health Benefit, on the other hand, covers everything else, from sprains and fractures to sniffles and most vaccinations. "This is to provide immediate care for acute symptoms," Saho said. "The other thing that comes out of there is anything pre-existing. Some (travel) vaccines can run up to two hundred, three hundred dollars."

Saho admits that some problems have occurred in the past, but the Health Benefit has been active. One major glitch Hope Health has run into is the routine of submitting claims forms at the time of service. When a student has lab or referral work done, the Health Clinic must bill the insurance company directly for the student verifying that it is covered under the policy and will be paid for. Last semester, they ran into problems with the forms arriving at the insurance company after the student had already been billed, and they had to do it over again to fix the problem.

"Sometimes they don’t meet up together. We can’t do anything about it except to make sure we file the claims and the insurance company know, but by the time they get the claim form, the hospital has already billed, and they haven’t had to do it over again to fix the problem."

Many student volunteers will be needed to help make the shows a success, so if you are interested in helping produce them in some way, contact Ryan Wert at ryanw@hope.edu. According to Wert, it takes more than 24 hours filming and editing for each television show, and he is interested in hearing ideas for the shows as well as interest in helping with production.

"That would be the type of show even parents and senior citizens in the community would be interested in watching," she said.

"No matter what, I think these shows will be one people will want to watch." Many student volunteers will be needed to help make the shows a success, so if you are interested in help producing them in some way, contact Ryan Wert at ryanw@hope.edu. According to Wert, it takes more than 24 hours filming and editing for each television show, and he is interested in hearing ideas for the shows as well as interest in helping with production.

"That would be the type of show even parents and senior citizens in the community would be interested in watching," she said.

"No matter what, I think these shows will be one people will want to watch." Many student volunteers will be needed to help make the shows a success, so if you are interested in helping produce them in some way, contact Ryan Wert at ryanw@hope.edu. According to Wert, it takes more than 24 hours filming and editing for each television show, and he is interested in hearing ideas for the shows as well as interest in helping with production.
Intramurals offer fun for students

Hope athletes find friendly competition outside of varsity sports

Dave Yetter
Sports Editor

Be fair. Play nice. Have fun. These are rules that we have all been taught to obey since a very young age. These rules not only apply to us in our everyday lives, they are also the motto for the Hope intramurals.

The schedules for the fourth intramural season are now available. They are a great place to get together with friends or meet new people. Teams compete in a number of different sports, including everything from bowling to racquetball to water polo.

“Iintramurals are a blast,” said Justin Blazek ('06), who was on a dodgeball team last semester. “There is nothing more fun that a bunch of people firing dodge balls at each other’s faces.”

A number of sports are starting very soon. Coed volleyball, men’s and women’s racquetball, and men’s and women’s basketball all start on Feb. 15 and it is never too late to join a team.

Although it is hard to imagine in this weather, a number of outdoor sports will be starting up sooner than you might think. Frisbee golf, ultimate Frisbee, and men’s softball will all be starting in March. Make sure to get a team together and sign up early for any of the events that interest you this semester.

Members of “Air Force One” Barry Rice (’03), Pat Irish (’03) fight for the rebound during practice.

The schedules for the fourth intramural season are now available. They are a great place to get together with friends or meet new people. Teams compete in a number of different sports, including everything from bowling to racquetball to water polo.

“Iintramurals are a blast,” said Justin Blazek ('06), who was on a dodgeball team last semester. “There is nothing more fun that a bunch of people firing dodge balls at each other’s faces.”

A number of sports are starting very soon. Coed volleyball, men’s and women’s racquetball, and men’s and women’s basketball all start on Feb. 15 and it is never too late to join a team.

Although it is hard to imagine in this weather, a number of outdoor sports will be starting up sooner than you might think. Frisbee golf, ultimate Frisbee, and men’s softball will all be starting in March. Make sure to get a team together and sign up early for any of the events that interest you this semester.

Members of “Air Force One” Barry Rice (’03), Pat Irish (’03) fight for the rebound during practice.

Our Co-op/Intern Program

Our program provides some of the best trained entry-level professionals in the aerospace industry.

The experience will give you hands-on exposure and allow you to work in your chosen field, alongside seasoned professionals. We employ co-op and interns students from a variety of technical disciplines.

Flexible schedules include summer semester and year-round part-time opportunities.

Our Full-Time Employment Opportunities

If you are graduating with an engineering or computer science degree, consider working in an atmosphere where your efforts will be recognized and rewarded. Talented graduates help make our programs succeed by bringing fresh ideas and perspectives.

Smiths is located in dynamic Grand Rapids, Michigan, where you’ll enjoy a competitive salary and generous benefits, as well as the low cost of living and a wealth of cultural, educational, and recreational activities that our area has to offer.

Smiths Aerospace, Recruiting Department, 3200 Patterson Avenue, SE, Grand Rapids, MI 49512-1991
Lady Dutch win on historic day

Senior Amanda Kerkstra sets record

Olum Allmorv
Sport Reporter

On Saturday, the fans of the Flying Dutch traveled to Adrian in hopes of seeing another victory and a record-setting performance. They witnessed both.

The Flying Dutch came into the game with a perfect 8-0 record in the MIAA (18-0 overall) to play a struggling Adrian squad. Amanda Kerkstra ('03) of Grandville, MI came into the game just 6 points shy of all-time Hope women's scoring record. Kerkstra scored 13 points, grabbed 8 rebounds and blocked 3 shots, becoming Hope's all-time points leader with 1,376.

Coach Morrice is proud of Amanda's achievements.

"Amanda's record is a great accomplishment. The number of points she has scored is really amazing, but she would be the first to praise her team for their part in the record. As a post player, success depends on them to get her the ball at the right time in the right place," said Kerkstra.

Amanda agreed. It took four years for her to get to that mark, but as she pointed out, nothing could be possible without her friends and fellow players.

"I play with great players like Kashi Gretenhuis ('03), Amy Baltmanis ('03), Katie Nienhuis ('03) and other amazing girls. The reason that we play so well is because we have so much fun off the court," said Kerkstra.

She also said that the whole team is very close and are friends off the court. After games they like to hang out together, pull practical jokes on each other, and do "fun and stupid things that make us very effective on the court.

Kerkstra comes from a large family where she is the second of seven.

"Amanda's record is a great accomplishment," said Jennifer Layne ('06) led the Flying Dutch with 14 points, including 4 of 6 from three-point range while Amy Baltmanis dished out 6 assists. Katie Nienhuis also added 10 points off the bench. The Dutch shot 51 percent overall and out-rebounded Adrian 41-32.

Hope is ranked first in the MIAA. Their next game will be at Saint Mary's College (1-7) on Wednesday.

Track teams compete at Carthage

David Yettter
Sports Editor

The Flying Dutch track team kicked off their new season over the weekend, competing in a meet at Carthage College on Friday.

The men ended up in seventh place among sixteen teams in the meet while the women finished eighth in a twelve-team field.

Carthage, the host of the tournament, finished first in both the men’s (143.5 points) and women’s (177 points) competitions.

The Hope men’s team finished the meet with 37 points. Their highest finish in a single event came in the intermediate hurdles. Ben Troost ('06) finished third in the 200-meter race with a time of 26.95 seconds. Other top finishes for Hope came in the pole vault. Al Chimowski ('05) finished fourth and Chevis, head track coach for both teams, thinks that the team performed very well for their first meet.

"Our first meet helps us to evaluate everyone and see where we are as a team. I think that we performed to our expectations and some people exceeded our expectations." Chevis is hoping that the team will continue to get better and hopes to perform well at the next meet in a couple of weeks.

"This meet showed us where our conditioning is. We also do a lot of videotaping so we can see our progress. We hope to keep doing better.

Both teams will have their next meet on Saturday, February 22 at the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh. The time for the meet has yet to be announced.

Upcoming Women's Games

Feb. 8 at Alma, 3 p.m.
Feb. 12 Home vs. Calvin, 7:30 p.m.
Feb. 15 Home vs. Albion, 3 p.m.

HOPE COLLEGE
ANCHOR
141 E 12TH ST
PO BOX 9000
HOLLAND MI 49422-9000