Friday night the Holland High team will meet the fast South Haven aggregation in the local gymnasium. A real hard battle is expected because the teams are great rivals and are evenly matched. In both of the last two games played between these teams overtime periods have been necessary to decide the contest. Holland won one game by a one point margin and lost the other by the same margin. South Haven has a team made up entirely of veterans and Holland will have to travel at top speed to win. Coach Martin will present his regular lineup. This will be Cook's last appearance in the Holland lineup as he will be lost to the team the next semester.

FREIGHT THROUGH HOLLAND HARBOR IS CONSIDERABLE

MR. JOHNSON OF THE GRAHAM & MORTON COMPILES STATEMENT

More Than 45,000 Passengers Were Carried During the Past Season

Mr. Johnson, representative of the Graham & Morton Transportation Co. of Holland has compiled a detailed statement relative to the freight and passenger business between this port and Chicago, and other points during the season of 1922.

These figures have played an important part with government engineers in bringing additional funds for the maintenance of our harbor.

According to Mr. Johnson's figures the number of eastbound passengers was 28,760 and the number of those westbound was 17,245.

The total number of cases figured is freight was 43,267. Of this the amount leaving Holland was 6,657 tons; to Pere Marquette, 42 tons; to Michigan Railway Co., 10,000 tons.

From Holland proper 13,501; from the Pere Marquette, 1,485; from the Michigan Railway, 9,600; from the Michigan fruit growers 1,982.

Holland—Eastbound, automobiles, 1,020; Holland westbound, automobiles, 1,278; pianos, 425; furniture, 2,278; eggs, 286; veal, poultry, etc., 148; sugar, 1,632; celery, lettuce, etc., 4,534.

Most of the celery shipped came from Hudsonville, Vriesland, Zeeland, Hamilton, Drenthe and other places in the vicinity of Holland. The total number of cases figure 409,757.

The number of trips taken by the different steamers in and out and amount of gross tons of each is as follows:

City of Grand Rapids, tons, 3061, trips 102; City of Saugatuck, tons, 1735, trips 47. City of Holland, tons, 1,749; trips 57. City of Benton Harbor, tons 1,286; trips 27. City of St. Joseph, tons—1439; trips, 30.

Surely these figures speak volumes and cannot help but convince the authorities at Washington that this port is not a dead one. The possibilities of Holland harbor are just beginning to be realized, and with a winter boat line a probable thing the amount of freight to and from this port will be considerable more each year.

It is possibly too much to hope for a car ferry just at present, but this is not out of the realms of possibilities.

With the development of poultry, and taking in a greater scope, embracing garden truck such as celery and lettuce, the amount in tonnage of freight will be materially added to each year. The thing to do is to boost for Holland harbor every minute.

Larger boats, car ferries and commerce of all kinds cannot help but come our way if we only have a harbor big enough and deep enough to take care of this commerce.

ICE HARVESTING NOW EASY MATTER

SUPERIOR ICE COMPANY HAS INSTALLED POWER BOAT

Mr. Naberhuis and Mr. Fairbanks of the Superior Pure Ice Co. took a representative of this paper to the large ice houses recently rebuilt at the foot of 16th street, and showed a new device used for filling the ice houses. It is an endless chain power hoist, run by a tractor engine. The hoist has a capacity of pulling up into the ice houses 16 cakes per minute, each cake weighing 150 pounds.

The hoist goes right into the water, picks up the cakes from the surface, and up they go.

The two ice houses each have a crew, and the slide in which the cakes are drawn up divides into a fork, one going to the first ice house and the other going to the second. When the men of the first ice house signal that they have enough ice for the next few minutes, the switch is thrown, and the oncoming cakes are side-tracked to the second ice house and so the switch goes forth and back, keeping both crews busy.

At this rate considerable territory in the lake can be cleaned of ice more than 900 cakes shooting aloft every hour.

Where it formerly took the Superior Co. 15 days to harvest, it now takes but five days. The two ice houses have a capacity of 5,000 cords, which is equivalent to 10,000 tons. This amount has been harvested and the company has through with the endless chain hoist, at least for this year.

Another interesting feature is the power saw that skids along like a sled and saws across upon acres of ice during a day.

BAND CONCERT MAKES A BIG HIT WITH AUDIENCE

BEST ENTERTAINMENT SO FAR PROVIDED BY THIS ORGANIZATION

Liberati Is Popular With the Large Audience That Gathered in Carnegie Hall

The largest crowd that ever witnessed a band concert in Holland was present in Carnegie Gymnasium Wednesday night and the seats that were vacant were very few. The program started promptly at 8 p. m., and the band, with John Van Vyven leading, rendered two enjoyable numbers. The second number on the program was a march, "All Along the Line," which was led by Liberati and the same piece in piano form was found in the inside of each program. He surely is a good director.

The third selection by the band was one out of the ordinary run of music entitled "The Haunted House" and you could hear the clock strike 12, and hear the chains rattle, and the ghost, and all in all it was very good. Next on the program was a cornet solo by Liberati, accompanied by Speranza. He played "Inspiration," a waltz. It surely left an inspiration with the audience as well, and he was called back often.

The fifth number was a very fitting one rendered by the band entitled "Joy to the World," which comprised a number of well known hymns and was enjoyed by all.

The sixth number was a vocal solo by Miss Kathryn Bush House, of Kalamazoo, accompanied by Bradford Mohrse, of the same city, who leads the college band there. Number 7 was a selection by request and comprised a lot of trombone. This was followed by an overture, "The Three Guardsmen," which is one of the newest overtures out and was rendered very nicely by the band.

Next on the program Liberati rendered a cornet solo entitled "Sault Rapids," and was encored twice.

The American Legion quartette was next on the program and they rendered the following: "Southland," by Roberts, and "Susan Jane," by Holcomb. The following comprise the quartette: B. Kammeraad, Maurice Schepers, Henry Topp, Joe Kramer, and these are all band boys. They were encored several times.

The next number was a combination of well known home songs and it was highly appreciated by the audience.

The concert was closed with the "Star Spangled Banner."

It was a great success and the band is very grateful to the citizens of Holland who helped make it so.

Mrs. Benj. Borgman entertained her Sunday school class of the 6th Reformed church, Wednesday night.

Refreshments were served and a social time was enjoyed.

Andrew Klomparsen who recently purchased the Marsilje homestead on East 14th street, for a consideration of $6000 has had it remodeled and is now occupying it with his family.

Mae Marsh "came back home" a few days ago, when she signed a contract to play a leading part in D. W. Griffith's next production, "The White Rose." Thus after an absence of six years, the little freckle-faced school girl whom Griffith moulded into fame in "The Birth of a Nation," returns to his direction again to resume her career.

JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL BIDS WITHIN THE LIMIT

TOTAL OF ALL CONTRACTS IS $288,675, WELL WITHIN THE AMOUNT VOTED

Is $23,823 Lower Than Last June's Bid, Due to Changes in the Gymnasium Plans

The bids for the new Junior high school were opened Wednesday evening at a special meeting of the board of education and the board received the glad information that the total amount of all the lowest bids on the various contracts is well within the appropriation. The total is $288,675, which is $23,823 lower than the bids opened last June. In view of the fact that the total appropriation for building and equipment is $350,000 and that the board of education has been trying to keep the cost of the building under $300,000, figuring $50,000 for the equipment, the bids opened Wednesday night are very satisfactory and they mean that the school will be built, provided the contractors making the bids are found to be reliable. No contract has yet been awarded, the board desiring to safeguard the city in every way by first finding out the standing of the contractors making the lowest bids.

On the general contract, including all the carpenter and mason work and so on, there were seven bids, the lowest being submitted by W. M. Allen Son & Co., of Peoria, Ill. The figure was $219,789. The other bids submitted for general construction were: A. Postma, $256,870; H. Vander Horst, Kalamazoo, $265,980; John McNabb, Grand Rapids, $240,126; Frank Dyke, $284,300; Van Dyke & Oosting, $226,177; F. L. Broughton, Lansing, $247,959.

On the heating and ventilating contract the lowest bid was made by Lige Heating & Ventilating Co., of Auburn, Ind., the amount being $28,800. Other bids: H. Kraker $34,409.97; Alurheimer Co., Fort Wayne, Ind., $31,200; F. J. Hotop, Kalamazoo, $31,300.

Plumbing contract: Lowest bid made by Henry Kraker Co., $17,289. Other bids: Pulte Plumbing Co., of Grand Rapids, $23,901.

Temperature Control contract:

lowest bid submitted by the National Regulator Co., Detroit, $6,090. Other bids: White Brothers, Holland, $7,784; Johnson Co., Chicago, $6,600.

Sheet metal work contract: Lowest bid by the Wm. Ackerman Electric Co., Grand Rapids, $7,690. Other bids: Stadt Hardware Co., Grand Rapids, $14,537.50; G. A. Van Landegend, $8,850; Grand Rapids Sheet Metal Co., $10,069; H. F. Cox Co., G. Rapids, $8,667; G. A. Richardson, Grand Rapids, $8,746; Lige Heating Co., Auburn, Ind., $8,000.

Electric wiring, clock system contract: lowest bid submitted by the Ackerman Electric Co., Grand Rapids, $1,815; other bids: Midler Electric Co., Alma, $5,253; White Brothers, $1920.

It was possible to stay within the appropriation because the board had made changes in the gymnasium plans that cut the cost considerably. If the contracts are awarded, the work on the new building will begin as soon as weather permits, and the building must be finished by December first of this year.

A rousing meeting was held in the Eagle hall last evening when Otto P. De Luse of Indianapolis and N. F. Gray of Lansing spoke on "Old Age Pensions." The speakers made a fine impression and the need of such a pension is apparent.

This evening Trinity church will hold its annual congregational meeting in the basement of the church. The financial report of the past year will be given and a short praise service will be held, to be followed by a social hour. The service will begin at 7:30 o'clock. All members are expected to be present.

Next Sunday evening, Rev. C. P. Dame, the pastor of Trinity Reformed church will give the last sermon of the series entitled, "Bible types of American Women." The pastor will have for his topic Sunday evening, "The Woman with a marvelous faith."

John Den Herder, former county treasurer is to move back to Holland. He is now engaged at the DeKraker & De Koster Market, and incidentally makes out a few automobile licenses. He will be at the First State bank at Zeeland on Tuesday, Jan. 30th where autoists may be accommodated.

LOCAL

The Young Woman's Bible Class of the First Reformed church met for a social gathering Wednesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Mooi. The class has a membership of 55 and there was practically a full attendance Wednesday night. Rev. Henry De Pree, of China, gave an address on some phases of Sunday school work in that country, and informal talks were given by Mrs. Jas. Wayer, Mrs. Walvoord, George Schilling, Rev. Jas. Wayer, and George Mooi.

The class is one of the best in the First church Sunday school, one that can always be depended upon to do more than its share in the work of the school. Besides taking a full part in the regular collections the class supports a Japanese worker in the foreign field. Mr. Mooi, the teacher, was presented at Christmas time with a beautiful chimes clock.

The Men's Bible class of Hope church held their regular quarterly meeting Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Olive, West 11th street. Sixty members were present and a delightful evening was spent. C. J. Dregman, president of the class, presided over the meeting. The program opened with two duets sung by Mrs. R. M. Waltz and Mr. Martin Dykema, accompanied by Miss Imogene Dykema.

An eloquent and stirring address was given by Dr. J. E. Kuizenga on the subject, "Our Faith in God." After the program a short business session was held. Refreshments were served by a committee composed of A. L. Cappon, J. B. Hadden, William Stephan and Dr. E. D. Dimment.

The Holland High school will soon have the distinction of being affiliated with the National Honor Society. A local chapter is being organized, which will be fully accredited by the opening of the second semester. The purpose of the organization is "to create an enthusiasm for scholarship, to stimulate a desire to render service, to promote worthy leadership and to encourage the development of character in the pupils." Students on the honor roll are eligible to membership, and the membership shall be known as active and graduate.

Principal J. J. Riemersma recently attended a meeting in Lansing and thoroughly investigated the movement. A committee has been formed composed of Miss Hoekje, as chairman, Miss VanDrezer, Miss Parkyn, and Mr. Leddick. This committee forms the council of the Honor society and is at present drafting a constitution for the local chapter.

After conducting a grocery and dry goods business at 577 College avenue for the past 17 years, Henry Haveman has sold his store to John Huist who will take possession next Monday morning. Mr. Huist has been employed at the Van Putten grocery for the past two years and is thoroughly familiar with that line of work.

Mr. Haveman has not yet decided what line of work he will follow in the future.

A fine program is in store for the friends of the Ufilas club and all those interested in Dutch literature in the near future. The club which was to have given a program some time ago, has been delayed in its action because of confictions, but a good time is promised to the public when the date and program shall have been completed.

What looked hardly short of a miracle to horrified spectators happened Thursday at the Lincoln school when a large number of children were very near mutilation if not death from frantic horses that were out of control and were galloping pell-mell down the street.

It was just at recess time and the bell was ringing for the children to return to school. The sidewalk leading to the school was crowded with children, some five abreast. The kingbolt in a milk wagon on the street broke releasing the front wheels from the rest of the wagon. The horses became frightened and they dashed away with the two wheels dragging behind them. They headed directly across the school yard, and for a tense moment it looked as if they would dash into the crowd of defenseless children.

And then came what to the spectators looked like the miracle. About thirty yards from the mass of children was a tree and one horse dashed to one side of it and the other to the other side. The ground was covered with ice and both horses went down with a crash on the ice, bringing them effectually to a stop.

In another second or two the frightened animals would have been on the children and there was practically no chance for the youngsters to get out of the way in time. It was a dramatic incident and those who saw it declare that their hearts were almost in their mouths, expecting to find children trampled under foot, and in the flash of an eye the danger was averted so unexpectedly that it was startling.

The horses were recaptured and the wagon was repaired with no one injured.

Zeeland still ranks highest per capita in bank deposits for Ottawa county, as shown by the quarterly reports just published. The Holland banks are probably the nearest in per capita with a round seven million and a per capita of less than $500 gross resources, while Zeeland banks with a total in round numbers of three million deposits and a per capita of over $1200 gross resources.—Zeeland Record.

Miss Margaret Hughes of Hudsonville, has attained musical popularity as a musical entertainer and is widely sought in Hudsonville and vicinity. She was graduated from the Hudsonville high school in the class of 1922 and entered the Grana Rapids Business college, where she is using herself for secretarial work. She studied three years on the violin and spent four years with competent piano instructors. Besides being an excellent musician she has a charming personality, which makes her one of the most popular entertainers of this district.—G. R. Press.

Three Allegan county men were sentenced by Judge O. S. Cross on charges of possessing or selling moonshine and given fines. Lewis Fieser, Salem township, was fined $100 and assessed $7.60 costs for having moonshine in his possession, and was given 30 days in jail. Jas. Edward Hudson, 19, Wayland, was fined $100 on a charge of buying and selling liquor and was given 30 days in jail in addition to $5.10 cost. The third was Hiram DeVries, Dorr township, who was charged with delivering moonshine to Hudson. He drew a fine of $100, $5.10 costs and 30 days in jail. Both Hudson and DeVries were put on two years probation.

The tar and feather case of Dick Lenters, East Saugatuck, who was awarded a verdict of $1,000 by jury trial during the December term of court may be tried again if a motion made by the attorney for the defendants for a new trial is granted by Judge O. S. Cross. Motion was also made for new trial in the suit of John A. Flagg, et al. against the Holland Canning Co. Saugatuck fruit growers were awarded judgment against the canning company in circuit court last month for fruit they claim was not paid for according to agreement.

Attorney Diekema, Kollen & Ten Cate are handling both cases for the defendants.

A group of young girls, sixteen in number, met at the home of their teacher, Miss Nellie Breen, 245 W. 15th street, Thursday night to organize the class. The class name chosen was "The Colonial Girls," in commemoration of the old church.

The following officers were elected: president, Albertha Brat; vice-president, Nella De Jongh; secretary, Bertha Prins; treasurer, Tena Baker. After the officers were elected games were played and refreshments were served.

The free clinics conducted by doctors and nurses of the state department of health came to a close on Friday evening after having been in progress for three days. Similar clinics will be held in other sections of Ottawa county during the rest of January.

The clinics in Holland were more than successful, the waiting rooms at the W. L. C. Hall and the hospital annex being crowded most of the time each day so that at night persons waiting to be examined had to be turned away and told to come again the next day, because the doctors and nurses could not take care of them.

There was hardly a minute during the 3 days of clinics that the doctors and nurses were not fully occupied and so many persons came to take advantage of the clinics that several more days could have been occupied with examinations. But the schedule of the state department party is made out long in advance and all the arrangements are made for the appearance of the physicians and nurses in other places so that they have to break off work on the day appointed.

The Holland high school team handed the Allegan aggregation a neat trimming in the local Gym. Friday night, the final score being 28 to 7. The game was slow and featureless. Allegan scored but one field goal during the entire game and was hopelessly outclassed from the start of play. This is the first year that Allegan has turned out a basketball team and Coach Damoth has a team made up practically of Freshmen. This partly excuses them for the poor showing. Kleis was easily Holland's individual star he being responsible for 18 of their points, 10 of which he scored from the foul line. Epley performed the best for Allegan and although he failed to break into the scoring column he played a splendid defensive game.

Mrs. Mary Kinast, 74, mother of Mrs. Emma Randall, Allegan, was found lying dead near the north bank of the Kalamazoo river near St. Anthony's home, Comstock, a victim of exposure and exhaustion. She had wandered away from the home, where she had been staying for the week previous.

Mrs. Randall had always cared for her mother at her home but had left her at the home near Comstock while she made a trip to Chicago.

The Michigan Railway has won its suit against the steam roads for the through routing and rating of the freight, Saugatuck being one of the points being specifically mentioned. This is bound to result in greatly reducing freight rates, thus removing the hitherto insuperable barrier to the town's industrial development.—Saugatuck Commercial Record.

HOLLAND-ST. LOUIS SUGAR CO. TAKES MEN TO LANSING

Sears McLean of the Holland-St. Louis Sugar Co. has just returned from the state capital where he took thirty-five men from the three plants—namely Holland, Deatur and St. Louis in order to give them the benefit of a school of instruction which had to do with soil and culture problems, and methods to combat insects and disease that are sometimes found in sugar beet neils, notwithstanding the fact that sugar beets are about as free from pest as any farm produce grown.

A great number of the men were field men, although several out of the plant in Holland and elsewhere also received their instructions.

The men all went at the company's expense and remained at the capital city for three days.

The school of instruction was held at M. A. C. where 350 men from the different Michigan factories were gathered together.

On the last day a banquet was given. At the banquet in the swimming pool room of the gymnasium, Mr. Ward Giltner, head of the bacteriology department, was toastmaster, while other speakers were C. O. Townsend of the United States department of agriculture; Jotham Allen, manager of the Alma factory of the Michigan Sugar Co. and Thomas Read, lieutenant governor. Music was furnished by the college orchestra and a swimming and diving exhibition was given by the Michigan Aggie swimming team.

WILL NOT HAVE ICELESS WINTER THIS SEASON

Holland need not worry about ice next summer, as the ice harvest is going merrily on with no thaw in sight.

The proverbial January thaw was of short duration, in fact it lasted just long enough to melt the top snow from the ice, relieving ice harvesters of the added work of clearing the ice.

The Superior Pure Ice and Machine Company has been cutting ice for the past three days having thirty men going besides several teams. The company has two large ice houses at the foot of 16th street on the Pike and these are already more than half filled.

The ice houses were remodeled last summer and considerably enlarged, and now have a capacity of 5,000 tons of ice.

The management states that the ice is between 9 and 10 inches thick and is as fine an ice as has ever been cut in the lake. The company is not alone dependent upon the natural ice, also having an artificial ice plant with a capacity of 20 tons daily.

This is not the only ice supply upon which Holland will be able to draw. The Lakeside Ice Co., organized last year, has built a large ice house 100x40 ft. and eighty ft. high. The house is located on the north side and for the past four days the company has been having 15 men going and within a short time the large new ice house will be filled to capacity with ten-inch crystal ice.

This new ice supply together with the other avenues through which Holland received its ice in the past will be more than ample to fill all Holland's needs, and no one need worry about an ice famine the coming year.

Two years ago Holland experienced an iceless year and all that this city had to depend upon was the output of the artificial ice plant, which at that time could not have the capacity for turning out ice that it has today.

Attempts were made to ship in ice from the north, but very little of the crystals came to Holland, all other cities being in the same boat, and what supply there was on hand was spread around to the different cities.

The result was an ice famine such as Holland has never experienced before. All the resorts were practically without ice, and hotel proprietors came to Holland begging for it.

The local company doled out sparingly to every one and the city and resorts got through the summer in some way.

Last year and this year however, resort hotels, milk men, creameries and the ice companies did not wait for two foot ice but started to harvest as soon as the ice became thick enough so that it could be used for commercial purposes. The result is that next summer's cakes will be only about a foot thick. However it will be of a good substantial quality.

Everything Points to the Greatest Spring Demand for Ford Products in the Company's History

1,202,517 Ford Cars and Trucks were delivered to retail purchasers in the United States alone in 1922—

Actual deliveries for last month greatly exceeded any previous December in the history of the Ford Motor Company—

It was the ninth consecutive month in which more than 100,000 Ford Cars and Trucks were retailed—keeping the Ford Plants working at capacity to meet dealers' requirements—

In many parts of the country dealers are already finding it necessary to specify later delivery dates on certain types because there are no reserve stocks to draw from—

Commercial users, business houses and farmers, anticipating their future requirements, are placing orders and taking delivery of Ford Cars, Trucks and Fordson Tractors to insure against delay—

Everything points to the biggest shortage of Ford Products this Spring that has ever existed—

The only way you can be sure of obtaining delivery of a Ford Car, Truck or Fordson Tractor is to list your order immediately—

We have given you these facts as they actually exist so that if you are planning to purchase a Ford Car, Truck or Tractor for use this Spring or Summer, you can list your order now and take advantage of our dealer's first opportunity to make delivery.

JUDGE NOW HAS KAMFERBECK- FORTNEY CASE

Judge M. L. Dunham, of the Superior court of Grand Rapids, was the presiding judge in the much discussed Kamferbeck-Fortney case that opened in the court house in Grand Haven Monday forenoon at ten o'clock. The Grand Rapids judge heard the testimony in the case in the absence of Judge U. S. Cross who was in Kalamazoo to hear a case in circuit court there.

The court room was crowded to the doors Monday forenoon long before the trial opened. Grand Haven was naturally well represented by interested spectators, and about 75 from Holland were also on the scene to listen to the testimony.

A case of this kind naturally does not contain many twists, the question argued being chiefly a technical point of law. Some testimony however was taken early in the proceedings. After the stipulation agreed upon by the attorneys on both sides had been read by Fred T. Miles, in whose name as prosecuting attorney of Ottawa County, the document was filed, E. F. Moll, chairman of the election board of the 4th ward in Grand Haven was called to the witness stand. The testimony brought out the fact that although the ballots in that ward were marked by the initials of Mr. Moll, they had not been indicated personally by him, but that he had delegated that to two deputies. The vote in that ward was 141 for Fortney and 114 for Kamferbeck, and all the votes were counted by the election inspectors. While testimony the initialing of the ballots by another is illegal, the result would not change anything, and hence this testimony will not have any effect on the decision.

Richard Overweg, city clerk of Holland, was the next witness. He testified to the opening of the ballot boxes. Nick Kammeraad, chairman of the election board of the 3rd ward, Holland, was the third witness. A question arose as to whether Mr. Kammeraad had indicated all the ballots in that ward. The initials, while those of Mr. Kammeraad, were in two handwritings, and the attorneys questioned the Holland aldermen narrowly for an explanation. Mr. Kammeraad swore that he had indicated all the ballots in the two handwritings, explaining that he had become tired and had changed to another position, thus changing the handwriting.

After the testimony of these witnesses, Attorney L. H. Osterhouse, who represents Mr. Fortney in the case, stated to the court that the other technical issues would not be taken into consideration, since they would not affect the result anyway, but that the case would hinge on the initialing of the ballots in pencil.

The attorneys for both sides were armed with voluminous briefs on this point and this afternoon's session of court was being taken up with making the arguments. G. J. Diekema is appearing for the disfranchised people of Holland, T. N. Robinson for Mr. Kamferbeck, Fred T. Miles for the people of Ottawa county, and L. H. Osterhouse for Mr. Fortney.

No doubt the large crowd that packed the court house at Grand Haven were quite disappointed because of the lack of fireworks which were expected in the hearing before Judge Dunham of the Kamferbeck-Fortney recount case involving the disfranchisement of several hundred voters, most of them being in the city of Holland.

Except for an argument of ten minutes at the beginning of the trial by Attorney Thos. N. Robinson and the masterful plea by Attorney G. J. Diekema of one-half hour, the proceedings were about the driest case that one could possibly listen to.

Case after case was cited by all the attorneys in technical legal phraseology that the judge and the attorneys only could untangle. These citations went on for hours, in fact Attorney Louis Osterhouse, who represents Sheriff Fortney read for at least two hours and a half from his findings in law books citing nearly a hundred cases that he considered had a bearing on the case in hand. The judge however told the attorney to be more brief, stating that if he had all the details of the case in question in his brief to the court, then the court would examine them after the hearing.

Attorney Thos. N. Robinson opened the case after Prosecutor Miles had presented to the court a history of the bone of contention between Sheriff Fortney and Fred Kamferbeck, candidate on the democratic ticket, who was elected on the face of the returns before the recount.

Mr. Robinson after presenting several convincing instances in the state of Michigan, as well as in other states, bearing upon this question, made plain to the court that when the legislature changed the law stipulating that ink or indelible pencil should be used by the election inspectors, they did not state that lead pencils should not be used.

Said Mr. Robinson: "Had the legislature said that lead pencils should not be used in marking ballots, then this case would not be here. But the legislature never intended that there should be a wholesale disfranchisement of the voters on a technicality of this kind, and the legislature did not dare to make this change knowing that this radical change would fool the people, and also knowing that the people would not stand for it. Technically, in the fourth ward of Grand Haven, the inspector of election could not recognize his own initials, placed there in ink. Why not? Because the initials were put on the ballot by someone else and not him. Still the votes were counted by the canvassing board.

"In Holland where lead pencil was used the election inspector was in constant touch with the ballot from the time that it left his hands until it was returned to him by the voter.

"When he gave the ballot to the voter he knew that his signature was displayed thereon, he knew that the same ballot was handed him by the voter for the reason that his signature was immediately recognized by him. He knew that no signature had been changed, that no ballot had been substituted, and that no fraud had been perpetrated. Surely all the requirements of the law as this protects the voters had been complied with."

Attorney Louis Osterhouse stated in substance that the marking of ballots with lead pencil opened the door for fraud. That crooked election inspectors could by erasers or by abuse of the practice of using lead pencil disfranchise voters, and he stated that the expressed stipulation of the law was to use ink or indelible pencil to prevent any fraud, and that while it was deplorable to have voters disfranchised in this case, because the law wasn't complied with, it was far better, and the legislature intended it that way, to correct this evil at the expense of the voter and thereby prevent a chance for wholesale fraud which is possible when lead pencils are allowed to be used.

Said Mr. Osterhouse: "If the legislature intended that lead pencils should be used, they would have so stated it explicitly in the law."

"However the fact is that the law was changed and the words 'use of lead pencils' was stricken out of the law, and ink and indelible pencils were the only instruments designated as the ones to be used in the marking and initialing of the ballots, in fact, the law emphatically states that the ballots marked in this way shall not be placed in the ballot box by the inspectors of election."

Mr. Diekema took up about a half hour in presenting his case to the court, and after he had finished there is no doubt but that the judge was much impressed with his presentation of the case and the audience at least was visibly affected.

Said Mr. Diekema in part: "In this country the majority rules. In foreign countries the minority holds sway. When this great nation was founded, the founders intended that this country should be governed by a majority and not by a minority, and thus they wrote in the constitution of the United States, the foundation upon which this nation stands, the ground work of our democratic form of government, and the very essence of our well-being."

"Time was when bosses controlled elections. When they prepared the ballots for the voter. This was not a majority vote, and did express only the will of the minority."

"Time was when, in the state of Indiana, the voting was done on a long table under a tree. In the center of the table was a keg of beer put there to influence the voters. As the voters filed along the big table, on the one side workers jumped up and hurrahed for their particular candidate and brow-beat the voters to vote a certain way. This was not an expression of the majority, and the legislatures of the different states and the federal government got together and devised ways where by an expression of the voters could be obtained, that was absolutely untrammelled by virtue of coercion or boss rule."

"They invented the Australian ballot system by which the voter is given a chance to have his vote honestly counted. These ballots are marked by an inspector, are numbered, and the voter is directed to a private voting booth where he may mark his ballots, expressing his preference and his will rather than following the dictations of a minority."

"Why did the legislatures adopt this system? They did it to protect the voter in order that his vote might be honestly counted, but how is this vote honestly counted in this case? Because the inspectors of the election did not technically follow the law, hundreds of votes were thrown out. If under this phase of the law it is intended that voters should be protected, then I say that the voter surely does not get much protection, when the wholesale disfranchisement of voters is made possible as it is in this case."

"We hold that these ballots must be counted if the intent of the law to protect the voter is followed out."

"If the law is intended as a trap to ensnare the voters, surely the will of the majority is then not expressed at the ballot box. I do not believe, Your Honor, that this law was intended by the legislature to be a trap used for the purpose of disfranchising hundreds of voters, whose honest expressions at the ballot box have been disregarded in this case, and I hope the court may establish a precedent that will prevent a recurrence of a case of this kind."

"The law was made to protect the voter, and we hold that all the safeguards necessary to make this voter's vote valid have been complied with in this election."

FIVE AND TEN CENT STORE HAS CHANGED HANDS

A big business change has just been consummated when Abraham Peters who for the past twenty years has been conducting a five and ten cent store, sold out to the Woolworth Company, having possibly the largest chain store system in the United States.

The Holland Woolworth store will be moved from the Vander Veen building to the Peters building some time next spring, however the exact date has not yet been set.

The building will be remodeled in order to suit the needs of the company, one of the changes being a second entrance opening up on 8th St. John Klinkenberg who for a number of years has assisted Mr. Peters in conducting the business has formed a partnership with Peter Boven and has purchased all the merchandise above ten cents found in the Peters store and will have these moved to the new Walsh building, directly east of Du Saar's photo shop. These gentlemen will begin business on March 1st.

Mr. Peters will retain the building which was at one time the First State Bank and the Holland City Post Office, and which was remodeled some four years ago.

After winding up the details in his business, Mr. Peters intends to take a prolonged vacation and incidentally will take a trip to Europe with Mrs. Peters, taking in all the points of interest to be seen there.

Mr. Peters has not yet decided what kind of a business he will go into when he returns.

Hope College promises to the people of this city some very interesting and important debates for this year.

The Debating League has provided for the very best in the line of debates. It includes three different debates on as many questions.

The first debate of the season will take place on the 16th of February. At that time the first debate of a series will take place. The colleges involved are Albion, Olivet, Ypsilanti Normal, Hope, Alma and Kalamazoo college. The first three form a triangle in one section and the last three form an other triangle in this section of the state. An attempt will be made to decide the championship of the state. Those who will try for Hope against Alma at Hope will be Simon Heemstra, Jerry DeVries, and Harvey De Weerd, who will hold the affirmative side of the question, "Resolved, that the United States shall immediately enter the League of Nations." At the same time Hope's negative team will travel to Kalamazoo to debate on the same question. Those who comprise this team are Julius Van Eenam, Irvin Borgman and Jack Prins.

On the 12th of April, Hope will meet one of the best debating teams in the middle west. At that time a team from Parsons College, Fairfield, Iowa, will debate here on the question, "Resolved, that the United States should adopt the Cabinet-Parliamentary form of Government." The team for this debate will soon be chosen. Sometime in the latter part of April, Hope will meet Kalamazoo Normal. These two colleges have never met in forensic work before, but it promises to be an interesting debate. The question for this debate will be, "Resolved, that the United States cancel the debts due her from the Allies in the World War." The men to take part in this debate will be chosen from the inter-city debates to be held in the latter part of February.

Hope has some prestige in forensic work is shown by the fact that at recent conference at Albion, some of the colleges of the state hesitated to give Hope a place in the State Debating League, formed at that time. The argument put forth then was that Hope was too superior in this work. A committee composed of Vern W. Bunnell of Kalamazoo College, Jack Prins of Hope College, and professor Eubanks of Albion College, is now working on a constitution for the State Debating League. This league will be similar to the State Oratorical League. It will comprise eight of the colleges of the state. This league will be formally voted upon by the various colleges at the state oratorical contest to be held at Hillsdale in March.

The Century Club met Monday evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. A. Knoolhuizen, a large audience of members and guests being present. The program opened with two beautiful duets for low voices by Miss Maebel Anthony and Miss Mabelle Muider, accompanied by Mr. Harris Meyer.

Since the last meeting of the club one of the charter members of the organization, Mr. Charles E. Luscomb, had died, and in recognition of this bereavement, Mr. Arthur Vischer gave a brief talk calling attention to Mr. Luscomb's sterling qualities, his integrity, his loyalty, and his unpretentiousness.

The paper of the evening was read by Arnold Muider, the subject being "The American Novel—1923 Model," a review of present tendencies in American fiction as compared with the trend of fiction in England and on the continent.

The program closed with a song cycle, "A Persian Garden," the words from the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam, the music by Liza Lehman. This beautiful song cycle was given by a quartet composed of Miss Louise Schlutt, Miss Mabel Anthony, Mr. Gerrit Ter Beek and Mr. R. A. Page, with Mrs. Page playing the accompaniments.

Sewer & Water Connection, 17.32 Refund to Park Fund for freight, 8.40 Board of Park & Cemetery Trustees, Accepted and the Treasurer ordered charged with the several amount. City Clerk reported that interest coupons for $56.00 had been presented to the Treasurer for payment and that the Mayor and Clerk should be instructed to issue a voucher for the amount. Adopted and vouchers ordered issued. City Engineer reported as follows: "Your Committee on Sewers, Drains and Water Courses to whom was referred the petition for a sanitary sewer in Michigan Ave. to 28th St., and on 26th St. and 28th St. east and west from Michigan Ave., has asked that the Common Council be informed as to what will be required in order that the sewers may be built in the above named streets."

The City of Holland has a definitely designed sewer system for the entire City. All sewers built to date have been built according to this general plan. If this plan is followed in building sewers into the district above mentioned, it will be necessary to continue the 8" main which at present ends at Maple Ave. and 22nd St. This main would be continued on Maple Ave. from 22nd to 24th St.; thence on 24th St. to First Ave.; thence on First Ave. from 24th St. to 28th St.; and thence on 28th St. from First Ave. to Maple Ave. Then the laterals would be laid on 26th St., 27th St., and 28th St. connecting into this main sewer.

A rough estimate of the cost of this work would be about $23,000. Of this cost the City of Holland would pay about $4,500 and the balance would be assessed against the abutting property. First Ave. has been selected as the street on which to build the main, since it lies somewhat lower than most of the surrounding ground. This helps to get a somewhat uniform depth for the sewers running east and west from the main, and at the same time giving a minimum out to secure the required depth at the end of the lateral. If the plan is changed and the main laid on Michigan Ave. as asked for in the petition, it will mean quite an excessive depth at Michigan Ave. in order to get a usable depth of the lateral at First Ave. This would of course increase the cost of the work as well as bring about several changes in the general plan, which might bring about difficulties later.

If the sewers are to be built in this district, I believe it would be advisable to construct them according to the general plan previously adopted, since the plan originally adopted was the plan involving the least expenditure of money for constructing same. Another reason for continuing the plan as originally outlined, is that the plan have already been laid from Central Ave. and 19th St. to the main on 24th St. The difference in cost of this main over the cost of a lateral, would be wasted if the main were not continued as planned.

On motion of Ald. Vander Hill, Resolved, that the expenditure for the construction of above mentioned sewers be and the same is hereby denied.

Carried.
Clerk reported recommending that Bond No. 1 of 1922 Avenue and W. 15th St. be paid. Special Assessment District and the Interest Coupon accompanying same be ordered cancelled.

Adopted.

A Sales Manager's Letter

LONG DISTANCE helps one large wholesale house serve its 4,500 customers in Southern Michigan and builds business for the Company.

The General Sales Manager of that Company, comparing the work of a modern telephone salesman with that of one of the old school, writes:

"In 124 days the telephone salesman called on 4,628 merchants, 4,522 of them by telephone, averaging 37 calls per day.

"The old school salesman made 3,750 calls in 216 days, less than half of them by telephone, and averaged only 18 calls per day.

"The average daily sales of the man who sold by telephone were two and one-half times those of the member of the old school."

The telephone is quick, handy and a sure card of admittance. It builds business and good-will and lowers selling costs.

CHAPTER X

In the night, in that hour of self-reproach which comes to us all, Virgil awoke in a rage with himself. He had been dreaming, had seen himself infirm of purpose, without character. Back to Highland Bruce he traced his ancestry, and was he to be the first of his race to prove degenerate, to trample upon the memory of his father, to holl in stupid love, to give his soul to a creature far beneath him in birth and schooling, a girl whose father had murdered! Out of bed he got, and bowed with the weight of shame, walked the uneven floor, for his slow steps were doddering.

"Caught in an instant, a fly in a speck of jelly, and have never been able to get free," he reproached him-

HOLLAND ENGINE CO.
RE-CAPITALIZED; SUCCESS IN SIGHT

Sometime ago the Holland Engine Co. passed through a rather crucial period which now is being viewed by the stockholders as a blessing in disguise. In the first place, Mr. John Knott, superintendent of the concern, developed a new engine which probably would never have been developed, had everything been running smoothly.

Last week, while about fifty of the most successful branch managers of the Holland Furnace Co. were attending their company's school in this city, many of them became interested in the Holland engine and purchased stock. Mr. Wm. Hayes, a very successful salesman from Pittsburg, Pa., who has been with the Holland Furnace Co. for years, has been made a salesmanager of the Holland Engine Co. His first duty will be to sell the stock that was still outstanding under the new plan of recapitalization. He has been so successful that it has been decided to stop all sales of common stock at the end of this week.

With the new engine proving to be an article worthy of further support, more and more Holland Furnace men became interested until now many of the liveliest wires of the "Warm Friend" organization are supporting the engine.

Since sending out a few sample engines to spray machine manufacturers, conveyor concerns and farm supply houses, the company has received enough orders to keep the factory busy more than half of the coming year. However, production will be speeded up in every possible way at once, for the popularity of the engine has grown beyond all expectations or hopes. Unprejudiced engine critics have pronounced the Holland to be not only the simplest but the finest gasoline power plant, in one or two cylinder form, on the market today.

It is good to see another very useful and deserving product come to the front. All signs point to a tremendous success.

self. "Even Liberty Shottle, the slave of cards and dice, can see my weakness and must laugh at me. But by the God in Heaven it shall not be. In this land there is no law. I bring my own law with me, my oath, and a smile and a word of flattering love bade me put it aside, and I let it slip from me. Now I must redeem myself."

He stood at the window. Gamecocks were crowing the dawn, a courageous challenge to all the world. No, there would be no weakening now. The sweetish comedy had been played.

Swiftly he dressed himself, stole downstairs, out of the house, down to the river. There was no boat, but no matter, he would walk to Willow Head. Realizing that it was yet too early for the execution of his grim purpose, he halted at a wayside place, ate breakfast and waited for the sun. Then not in hurried haste, but deliberate in strength, he walked on to Willow Head, crossed over, found his neglected rope where, in a hollow stump in backsliding weakness he had hidden it, buttoned it beneath his coat and strode down into the swamp.

It was a long way to his canoe near the Muscadine Isle, and then a long pull to Periwinkle house, but there was time enough. Stepho would not go away till Thursday. Ah, he would go away no more, for now on Tuesday he must settle with the spirit of Alfred Drace.

Mists hovered about, but the island was in a blaze of light. Silently the canoe split the satin water. Silently he landed. Determined vengeance may pick its way as softly as eager love; and in the cane, sharper of whisper now that the weather was cool, he made not a sound. Out into the open he peered. No one within sight. On the bark of the live oak were the dead flowers of yesterday. There in the shade was the box that had served as table, once so prettily strewn with violets.

In spite of his vow of vengeance and his hatred of Stepho, these things caught at Drace's heart, shook his fixed purpose of action. For many minutes he waited—no sign of Stepho, of anyone. And then his blood leaped; for soft hands suddenly blinded him from behind, soft laughter bubbled over at his astonishment. And dark thoughts and dark purposes fled on the wind as he caught Nadine and hugged her close.

"Now for your punishment!" And he kissed her.

"Oh, you must not again . . . Virgil, I cannot like you when you are rude. . . . You must not!"

"I don't want you just to like me."

"You do not? Then I will try not to."

Come and sit down, Virgil!

You worked so hard for your kisses you must be tired. . . . How did you guess?"

"Guess what?" he asked as she led him to the sofa and he sat gazing entranced as she captured and imprisoned her guerrilla bands of hair.

"That Father and Tony had gone hunting today. But they may be back at any time, Virgil. You must not stay."

"But I must stay; you hold me prisoner. I must stay until you love me as madly as I do you."

"As madly as you do me? That might not be so much mad, Virgil. But why should I love you?"

"Because you are to be my wife. We are engaged."

"Are we? I did not know that."

Why you not tell me sooner?"

"I did, and now you must know it."

"But I did not. Then I must be stupid, yes?"

"The whole universe is stupid if it denies it. The angels are stupid if they fail to see it."

"Oh, you must not talk like that. It is worse than swearing the big oath."

. . . And I am to be your wife, Mrs. Virgil? Then what do we do? Go about and sing with the fiddle?"

"No, we go to the beautiful places on earth and look upon them—together. We—"

"No, no, you must not think like that. You take my father by the wrist and he hate you. . . . And I do so wrong to see you. I am the sinner, but I believe that the Blessed One, she ask for my forgiveness. . . . No, Virgil, we can only play together and then . . . It will live in the mind, our childhood here. . . . My father is not well all the time now, and I must be good to him. . . . Only I must see you, sometimes. That is the only wrong I do him."

"For I—I love you. . . . I did not want to tell you, but I cannot keep it all the time down in my heart. . . . I dream of you all of the night, and I kneel down and pray that you always love me. . . . There, I have told you so much. And I kiss you, too. . . . Now—you may stay for a little time, and then you must go."

Boy and girl they played, not from the book but from love's ever-varying text. In his canoe they paddled afar off where the lily-pads paved the surface of the pond. They landed on a knoll where was spread over persimmon saplings an arbor of muscadine; here an adventurous catbird had her nest of young. She cried and fluttered about in great alarm, but when she saw that they were not her enemies, that they caught grasshoppers to feed her brood, she sat high among the vines, calling her mate, the musician, and here he came, scared at first, but when she had explained to him he sang his melody, ending with the catcall whence comes his unpoetic name.

The sun had been speeding, and went behind a cloud. Fear seized Nadine, and taking Virgil's hand, she urged him toward the boat.

"My dear one, we must go now. The sun was jealous that we so happy and will go into the dark to pout. . . . I will show you the near way for you to come again, the way I came when there was the fire. You can leave the canoe in the rushes and you will need it only to cross over to the camp. But we must hurry now."

In the rushes opposite the island he hid his canoe, and then she conducted him along a narrow and sometimes treacherous trail. Coming to the foot-log, she halted.

"I must leave you here. But I stand for two minutes. The sun he will wink a few more times. . . . I am so glad now to know that I will be your wife. And I am strong and can work."

"Lord bless you, but you won't have to work."

His arms were about her, her cheek against his, and with happiness the world was glowing.

"Till Thursday!" he cried as he dipped his paddle.

"Till Thursday!" she echoed as she watched him go.

"Till Thursday!" muttered the sinister voice of old Stepho, who had approached softly through the undergrowth at the sound of voices, and had overheard their parting. But when he came to Periwinkle house, he gave no sign to Nadine that he had overheard—only talked of Monsieur Boyce and the fine dresses he would buy for her when she was his wife.

It was long past noon when Drace reached the river.

The General had gone over into another parish to attend a stock sale. Tycie said; and when she had looked at Drace more closely, at his torn clothes, his muddy shoes, she sighed and sat down beside him where on the rustic bench he had dropped to rest before going to his room.

"Virgil," she said, "there is something troubling you. Now, you needn't tell me that it is business. I know what business is. I know all of its tricks; but I also know love and all of its tricks. Virgil, you are in love. Let me hope that it is not that Nina Spence. She isn't worthy of you; and besides, she doesn't belong to us. She is not of our world. Virgil, I am so sorry."

She put her hand on his arm, and he took it and affectionately kissed it.

"Aunt Tycie, I never saw the girl you speak of. I am in the—the throes, you might say, and have been—was before I got here, but not with her."

"But is it with anyone I know?"

"You have seen her, I have heard."

"Oh, you must tell me. It shall be sacred with me. If you only knew how people tell me their affairs of the heart. Even old Colonel Josh has told me. Now, why won't you?"

"I shall tell you, but I must put you on your honor. I said that you have seen her. You have; you spoke of her. Nadine—"

"Oh, Virgil! But her father!"

"Yes, I know. But let me tell you my story."

He told of his love, not of his father's death—told her nothing of his oath; she listened enraptured; and when he had finished, she mothered him with her arms about his neck.

About ten o'clock next day, while the family sat in the shade, up to the gate drew a resplendent carriage drawn by two black horses and driven by a negro in livery. Out stepped a man as tall as Lincoln and wearing a hat as high as his. His raiment flashed like the varnish of his equipage. Drace recognized him as he came through the gate, taking off his gloves, and the General cried out:

"Tycie, I wish I may die and if it isn't Liberty Shottle!"

"Colonel Shottle, at your service," replied Liberty, bowing and gesturing with his gloves in his hand.

"Well, Liberty!" cried his aunt, giving him a hug of welcome.

The General and Drace grasped him, stroked his velvety raiment, urging him to a seat.

"Why all this, Colonel Shottle?"—from the General. "You don't mean to tell me that you have sold your jute-stock?"

"Uncle Howard, sir, first issue orders to have my carriage stored, my horses stabled and my driver quartered, please."

The order was issued, and they sat waiting for Shottle to explain his transformation.

"A simple story," he began, stretching out his legs. "But do not forestall me. Poker, dice, roulette, faro, hazard—all of them failed."

"And this comes of legitimate investment!" Tycie cried. "I knew it would. Oh, I knew it just had to come. Now tell us about it."

"It was an investment, Aunt Tycie. But let me not forestall myself. I left here on a boat, got broke. Finally I reached Tampa, Florida."

"Away down there, Liberty?"—from Tycie.

"Patience, my dear aunt. Tampa, and broke! After a day of hope with its throat cut from ear to ear, I got on a boat bound for Havana. The Spanish captain gave me passage for service. He was studying English, and I agreed to explain to him certain niceties of our mother tongue, you understand; and I am sure that, reaching port, he knew more about gambling terms than he could have picked up in a year of close study in one of our ordinary schools. He was appreciative, generous, and gave me a bonus of five dollars. I went to a hotel, not of the first class, and it was there that I made my investment. The weather was warm and—"

"For gracious sake, Liberty, tell us!" his aunt urged him.

"That is my aim, but let us not be impetuous. . . . I was eating a Spanish stew out on the sidewalk, the weather being warm, when along came an agent—not a man in distress, but a regular agent—and I invested with him. I bought a ticket in the Havana lottery. . . . Well, now. Nothing ever happens until it does, you know. The drawing came off two days later, and my number, 356,792, won the first prize, twenty thousand in gold."

Tycie hugged him; Drace shook his hand; and the General exclaimed his astonishment.

"Well, that beats anything I ever heard in my life. It doesn't seem possible, sir."

"No, and I was somewhat taken by surprise, Uncle Howard. But there is often success in a change of occupation, and I had tried everything else. It took me a few moments to adjust myself; then I got a draft, and in Mobile received premium enough on my gold certificate to pay my debts. And now it gives me great pleasure to perform that duty. I owe you, Uncle Howard, twelve hundred and thirty dollars, all told. Aunt Tycie, I owe you five hundred. Virgil, I owe you—but we'll get at that later. Worthy and patient creditors, here we are!"

He took out a roll of bank notes, counted the amount of his indebtedness to his aunt and showered her lap with greenbacks. Then he turned to the General.

"No, Liberty, I don't want the money," protested Bethpage. "If you pay me, it will be the first time you ever returned borrowed money to me, and I don't care to have you establish a precedent that might bring disappointment in the future."

After the family bedtime, Shottle came into Drace's room and requested him to report as to what progress he had made; and Drace told him all that had occurred.

"And now let me tell you a notion of mine," said Shottle then. "If you are waiting for that old sharkbone to decay, you'll perhaps wait twenty years. Attention: I'm going on a little trip tomorrow. In two days, when I come back, I'll drive down to a convenient point; you fetch the girl, into the carriage you jump, and away we go, drive over to some place where we can catch a train, and Cincinnati before old Stepho knows which way we've gone. What do you say?"

"But—what becomes of my oath? Oh, don't think that because I daily I have forgotten it or that in one job I shall fail to keep it. If I should, in all after-life I'd have a contempt for myself."

QUIET WEDDING OCCURRED AT HIGH NOON

At high noon Friday, Miss Elizabeth Alice Nibbelink, oldest daughter of Mr. Sedn Nibbelink, 13 West Ninth street, was wed at the home to Mr. Edward Leeuw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Akin Leeuw of Zeeland. The marriage was performed by the Rev. James M. Marun, pastor of the 3rd Reformed church, of which the bride is a member.

The bride was beautifully gowned in black beaded canton crepe and carried a large bouquet of red roses and was unattended. The groom was attired in conventional black.

After the ceremonies light refreshments were served, and the happy couple immediately departed on a motor trip to Detroit.

Only immediate relatives and a few intimate friends were present during the wedding ceremony.

Miss Nibbelink is one of Holland's popular young ladies, being a graduate from Holland high school and also having taken a course at Holland Business College.

Mr. Leeuw is a well known business man of this city, for the past four years having been proprietor of the Hudson-Essex Automobile Service Co.

Upon the return from their honeymoon trip Mr. and Mrs. Leeuw will for a time be at home to their friends at 13 West Ninth street.

MISS HATTIE LANNING AND GERRIT TER BEEK ARE WED

A popular young couple of Holland were wed at 5 o'clock Thursday when Rev. Ghysels, pastor of the 9th St. Chr. Reformed church married Miss Hattie Lanning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Lanning, 78 E. 17th street and Mr. Gerrit Ter Beek, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ter Beek, sr., also of Holland.

The marriage ceremony was performed under an arch of ferns supplemented by a bank of beautiful flowers of pink and white.

As the sweet strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March was played by Miss Ella Lanning, sister of the bride, the young couple proceeded to the altar where Mr. Ghysels awaited them.

The bride was beautifully dressed in white georgette over canton crepe with bead trimmings and in her arms she carried a magnificent bouquet of bride's roses and swansonia. She wore a veil of tulle gathered together with orange blossoms.

The bride and groom were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Topp, the bridesmaid wearing pink Georgette, and carrying pink roses. Mrs. Topp is a sister of the bride, while Mr. Topp is an intimate friend of the groom.

The home decorations were carried out in white and pink and were very tastily arranged.

After the wedding an elaborate supper was served to the fifty guests present.

Miss Lanning has for some time been connected with the Huizenga Jewelry store, and is very popular with the young ladies of her set, while the groom is one of the sales force of the P. S. Boter Clothing Co.

Mr. Ter Beek has gained quite a reputation as a singer in our local churches. As a tenor soloist he has few equals in this vicinity.

R. A. PAGE SUFFERS ACCIDENT IN ZEELAND

R. A. Page, manager of the Phenix Cheese Co. plant at Zeeland, had the misfortune of skidding on the highway near the company's plant while driving his Buick roadster on Wednesday morning, damaging the machine considerably. Both the front and rear wheels on the left hand side were demolished, besides other damage. The machine remained upright and Mr. Page escaped injury.

TO REFUND ROAD MONEY TO MANILIUS AND SAUGATUCK

A total of $8,732 will be refunded to the townships of Manilius and Saugatuck and additional road construction will be done in Ganges to the extent of $4,426 as a result of action taken by the board of supervisors of Allegan county. This money represents the amount of road money paid by the townships and not used for roads in those townships. Saugatuck's share is $6,143, while $2,589 goes to Manilius. Other townships that have debtor balances will continue to pay in until the money is paid.

LOCAL MAN'S HEN BREAKS OWN RECORD

George W. Deur, who reported a record number of eggs from his hens during the last two weeks of 1922, has kept record of the eggs laid by the same hens during the fourteen days from January 4 to Jan. 17, and the hens have broken their own records. There was one less hen in the flock making the total 22 hens, and the total number of eggs laid in that time was 213. The smallest number for any one day was 10 and the largest number 20, the average being 15 a day for the period. This record was a gain over the previous report of 20 eggs with one less hen.

ANOTHER FLOCK OF HENS HEARD FROM

George W. Deur's hens have again been beaten. Mrs. Frank Kampen sends in the following:

"I read about Mr. Deur's hen record but I think I have him beaten in the short and long run both. I have only 15 hens and got from Dec. 1st to Jan. 21st 603 eggs. The smallest number for any one day was 9 and the largest number 15."

The Grand Haven Tribune states that eggs are taking a tumble; two cents in one day.

CONGREGATION LED OUT WHEN BLAZE STARTS IN CHURCH

While the Central Avenue Christian Reformed church was well filled with worshippers Sunday forenoon about 9:45 an alarm of fire was given, a small blaze having started at the base of the chimney.

There was no panic however. Rev. B. H. Einink, the pastor, was pronouncing a prayer at the time the alarm was given, and the janitor, Mr. Gerrit Kamper, led the congregation quietly out of the church, without undue disturbance.

Meanwhile an alarm had been sent in and the fire department responded in quick time. The blaze, which had not gained great headway, was soon under control. The damage is estimated at between $50 and $75.

15-CENT JAIL MEALS FOUND IMPOSSIBLE

With only six dissenting votes the Muskegon County supervisors decided at the October session to pay the sheriff only 15 cents a meal for prisoners. The old price was 20c.

Since then members of the board have visited the jail, inspected the food served, its costs and have decided by a 21 to 6 vote in favor of retaining the old 20-cent meals.

"Prisoners are well fed and should be. Let us continue to feed them well," said Supervisor Hadden in favoring the resolution.

CAR IS RECOVERED FROM BOTTOM OF THE LAKE

The Ford car of Casey Jones that went through the ice near Point Superior on Sunday, January 14, was recovered from the lake after it had been down in the icy water in a full week. The car was down in about 30 feet of water and it was a big job to manipulate the tackles that lifted it from the water. The machine was rather a sorry looking sight, but after it had had time to dry it will be ready for service again. Employees at Marigold Lodge donated their services to help recover the car from the water.

The Van Raalte P-T club was favored with an unusually fine program last Friday evening. Rev. C. P. Dams, the speaker of the evening, gave a most interesting talk on education and its value. He brought out the fact that there were two types of education, education of the mind and the education of the heart; and to have a well rounded education one must possess both types. He further stated that he factors which entered into this kind of an education were the home, the school, the church and the street.

Rev. G. B. Fleming sang "Open the Gates of the Temple," and "My Task," which were both very pleasing.

It was indeed a great privilege to have the pleasure of hearing a few words and a group of readings by Mrs. Martha D. Kollen.

Fred Steketee of the 6th grade, Van Raalte school, closed the program with a violin solo.

The Star of Bethlehem Chapter, O. E. S. No. 40, gave one of the most successful parties ever held in Chapter rooms Thursday evening. A few weeks ago, Mrs. L. N. Tyner and Mrs. A. M. Galentine, invitation committee, sent out the following announcement:

On Jan. 18 Star of Bethlehem Chapter invite you to come To their chapter rooms prepared for a lot of kid fun.

If you come dressed in your best A fine you'll be assessed. So choose some character petite Or some past personage unique. There will be games where fun abounds.

Races, marbles, tops and fishing ponds. Admission? Just a smile, Eats? Sure! So of pennies bring a pile.

Be the weather foul or fair All Eastern Stars will be there.

In response about 125 Stars of Holland and guests from Coopersville and Newaygo enjoyed a very pleasant evening. No one had a chance to snooze as there was "something doing" all the time.

Lake Michigan wasn't in it with the fishing pond as here everyone caught something from a minnow to a whale. The sports of the evening were in the hands of a very efficient committee under the leadership of Mrs. Helen Doan, to whose untiring efforts a great deal of the success of the party was contributed.

The Grand March, led by "Bill" Murphy as chief cook, and Mrs. Luella White as Mary Pickford, displayed a "motley gathering." All kinds of people were represented. Old Lady of '76, Sisters of Mercy, Romeo looking for his lost Juliet, Little Red Riding Hood, Aunt Jemima, Sis Hopkins, old Dutch Cleanser, etc. too numerous to mention.

Madames Kathryn Van Duren, and Jennie Lacey and Mr. Paul Coster were judges and it was no child's play to decide which character to pronounce best. The final decision resulted as follows: Best dressed woman, Mrs. Helen Doan; best dressed man, Leonard Klevit; best comically dressed woman, Mrs. Irvin; craziest dressed man, Leo Eby. Music was furnished by "Little Bo Peep," portrayed by Miss Eva Clark.

A cafeteria lunch of "Sizzling dogs," rolls, cookies, pickles and coffee, was served to which all did ample justice. Mrs. Lacy Chairman. The exorbitant prices charged for everything made the financial part of the party a booming success. Everybody was satisfied with the investment of their pennies, as every thing cost just one penny.

At a late hour the party broke up, all congratulating W. M. Mrs. Ming and her efficient corps of helpers in providing such a pleasant evening of amusement.

BANDITS OVERLOOK FINE OPPORTUNITY

Bandits in Muskegon apparently missed a fine opportunity to obtain many thousands of dollars in Muskegon without much trouble.

Altho police officers, heavily armed, always accompany paymasters at the manufacturing plants from the banks to their shops, the city commission of Muskegon learned only recently that Miss Anna Voss, Muskegon city treasurer, made trips daily to the banks with the city funds.

She carried the money, which at times amounted to $20,000, in a tain this reputation.

It is too late for bandits to attempt to rob her. Other arrangements have been made for transporting the city's cash to the banks. sack.

DOUGLAS ROBY WILL COACH AT ALABAMA; GRADUATES IN JUNE

Douglas Roby of Holland and star University of Michigan football player will assume the duties of assistant football coach at Alabama Poly Tech at Auburn at the completion of his college course in June.

Roby is one of the greatest backs ever developed at Michigan and except for serious injuries received in the Ohio State game, many expected him to win All-Conference honors.

Cappon is another football player of renown from this city, having played with Roby at Michigan for the past two years and one year previous to Roby's appearance.—G. R. Herald.

"Home" was the subject of the W. C. T. U. meeting Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. Smeenge. The devotions were in charge of Mrs. Pas assisted by Mrs. Visscher and Mrs. Dressel. Mrs. John Kooiker sang "Rock Me to Sleep" and "The Swing."

Mrs. Ithman gave a paper on "The Christian Home the Bulwark of Civilization." Miss Marjory Du Mez very ably rendered "Love's Dream." Nocturne 3.

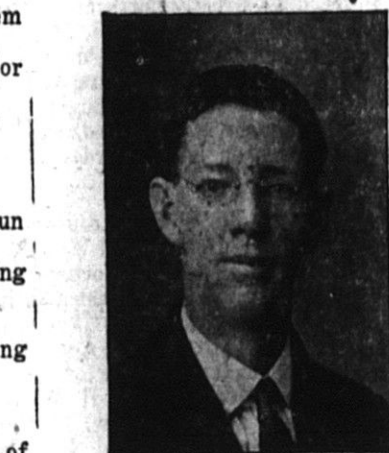

A discussion was held under the leadership of Mrs. Miles on "The Model Home." Mrs. John Dykema told of health in the model home. Mrs. J. Visscher showed that the model home must have children in it. The value of money in the model home was told by Mrs. H. Ketel. Mrs. J. DuMez told how love and harmony are necessary in such a home. Mrs. Fleming showed the high ideals of a home. Mrs. Lindsey expressed her ideas on the respect for law. The necessity of cleanliness and order of the model home was told by Mrs. Race. Tea was in charge of Mrs. Mooi and was served by Mrs. Wayer, Mrs. Mooi, Mrs.

GERRIT G. GROENEWOLD FOR COUNTY SCHOOL COMMISSIONER

Mr. Gerrit G. Groenewoud, candidate for the nomination of County School Commissioner has an unusual record.

He was born and raised on a farm in Olive township. Being the oldest of a family of nine children, he was at an early age kept from school to assist his father on the farm to support the family.

During the four years that he worked as a farm hand after he was of age, he managed to save out of his earning of not more than $200 per year a sum of nearly $600. At the same time, he was eagerly desiring to obtain an education. But where? No preparatory or high school would admit one without an eight grade education. The Ferris Institute was open to backward students. There he worked hard to obtain that long desired knowledge, first, to get his elementary education and then to obtain his credits in the high school subjects. To a large extent he worked his way thru school doing odd jobs, the money he had being necessary to pay for books and tuition.

Two years later he graduated from the State Normal College located at Ypsilanti after having completed the general course for a life certificate.

He has had now ten years experience in teaching in the rural schools, eight of which were spent in teaching in Ottawa Co. During the last seven years, he has never had a failure among those that took the eighth grade examination, numbering 48.

He is also a religious worker in his community. For six years he has been a teacher in the Sunday School of a class of young men, one year of which he was also superintendent of the Sunday Schools. At present he is also superintendent of the Christian Endeavor society. He believes no education complete without the religious side developed.

He prides himself of the fact that during all his school career he has never been tardy once. He firmly believes in the motto, On time all the time.

Having missed the advantages of an elementary education during his youth, and fully realizing the value thereof, he is in full sympathy with the problems of educating the youth of the rural schools. Adv.

SLANDER SUIT RESULTS IN A $250.00 VERDICT

A man by the name of Henry Costen of Robinson sued Arie Van Toll of Grand Haven for slander demanding $5000 as injury to character and hurt feelings.

It was alleged in the complaint that Van Toll had intimidated that Costen had stolen a grip while building a club house near Robinson, and it proved afterward it was stated that this was untrue, consequently the suit.

Van Toll claimed that he did not cast reflections upon Costen, but apparently the jury thought otherwise giving the complainant a verdict of $250.

Van Toll is very popular in Grand Haven and attorneys for the complainant saw to it that here wasn't a Grand Haven juror on the last.

The attorney for Van Toll was Hugh Lillie of Grand Haven while Costen retained Attorney Lindsey of Grand Rapids.

The jury was as follows: Leonard Visser, Herman Vos and Egbert Dyke all of Holland, Richard Nies, of Zeeland; John Kuite, Allendale; Fred Berens of Blondon; Wm. Grath of Grand Haven township; J. Hoet of West Olive; George Straight of Park; Climon Lieffers of Polkton, Henry Klintworth Spring Lake and Cornelius Van Farrowe of Zeeland.

JUDGE CROSS RESTRAINS ALLEGAN CITY OFFICIALS

A temporary injunction forbidding the city officials of Otsego from expending public money in violation of the city's charter has been issued by Judge Cross. A hearing will be held in two weeks on a question of making the restraining order permanent. The city officials contested the order on the ground that it would block the city's improvement program and compel the city treasury to borrow money at the bank instead of the system of interchanging of various funds by which excessive borrowing had been avoided. They also contended that every penny of every fund was in its proper place at the beginning of each month.

CHIEF WARNS AUTO OWNERS ABOUT THE TIME LIMIT

Next Wednesday is the last day of grace for driving in Holland with a 1922 automobile license. This announcement was made by Chief of Police Van Ry Wednesday so that no one may have a comeback if on or after the first of February he is arrested for not being provided with a 1923 license plate. No excuse will be accepted the chief announced. Anyone found using a 1922 license plate will be arrested and he will have to explain to a justice why he is violating the law; and it is assumed that the justices will be just as unrelenting as the police officers.

Because of the fact that certificates of title caused so much delay, the secretary of state granted until February 1 to get the new license plates. But there are some drivers who have made this an excuse for delaying a month longer even to make an attempt to get a license.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TO DATE

Fifty Years Ago.

Accident—On Tuesday of this week, as the Saugatuck stage loaded with passengers, was passing down Eighth street some one called the driver to return a short distance. In attempting to turn around the sleigh upset, leaving the passengers in various ridiculous positions in the street and side walk. A little child belonging to John Nies, of Saugatuck, was thrown on the walk in such a manner as to make a large wound over the eye baring the bone nearly half as large as a man's hand. The child is in critical condition.

We notice that our delivery man John Alberti, has just purchased a two hundred dollar sleigh, a perfect beauty in style and finish. Our more well-to-do folks who can afford to hire the rig have been having a wonderful time the past week. We understand that Mr. Alberti is renting the outfit drawn by a handsome pair of horses, for 75 cents per hour.

Rev. E. O. Fletcher, a baptist preacher of Allegan, our neighboring village, married a white woman named Hattie Wineberger, to a negro named Charles Collier. The event caused a stir of indignation in Allegan, and Fletcher will be prosecuted. He claims that he did the deed unthinkingly. The affair it is said may be made a test case in the state courts.

Michael J. Clapper, well known to our community as a revivalist wishes to make known to the people that he will commence with a series of revival meetings on Monday evening next to the hall of Verbeek and Co. Note—This revivalist was a unique personality tall, gaunt, with long beard and a voice like a fog horn. In the early days he preached nightly at the corner of Main and River St. and it is said that his preaching could be heard plainly six blocks away, but remember Holland was a quiet burg in those days when frogs were still croaking right in our midst. The writer was told of one incident where the evangelist rented a building in the city to be used for service. It seems that while he was surrounded with his followers a heavy rain storm struck and water soon soaked the gathering because of a very leaky roof. The old gentleman Clapper was in the middle of a very earnest prayer when he also felt the down pour. Without opening his eyes he supplemented the following in his supplication to the "All mighty" Oh! God! wilt thou with thy presence descend upon this roof and we will pay for the shingles.

Next Wednesday at 10 o'clock Mr. John Duursma will sell at public auction at his residence on Tenth street, all his household furniture. Note—The Duursma family in the early days were what was then considered the aristocrat of the city. Mr. Duursma is the large home now directly east of the new Masonic temple. It was considered the most desirable location in the city at that time and the mecca of Holland society in the earlier days. Financial reverses scattered the family the old gentlemen going later to Fremont where he died a few years ago. At one time Mr. Duursma conducted a grocery and dry goods store in the building directly north of the Holland City State Bank and B. Steketee the local merchant was the delivery boy.
