Fluoride Program Set For Summer

Materials have been distributed among schools in Ottawa County for the summer sodium fluoride program, which consists of oral treatments to reduce decay in children's teeth.

Even though fluoride has been added to the Holland water supply, dentists are strongly advising every parent to take advantage of this service.

According to Dr. Ralph Ten Have, director of the Ottawa County Health Department, this program has been in operation in the county for 15 years. The program is for children in the second, fifth and eighth grades. Four and five year old pre-schoolers are eligible. Special cases referred by the family dentists also will be accepted.

In Holland, clinics will be located in Washington, Maplewood and Montello Park Schools. In the suburban area services will be provided in West Ottawa School.

Last year more than 4,000 children were treated in Ottawa County. The entire procedure consists of four visits to the clinic. At the first visit teeth are cleaned and the first application of sodium fluoride is given. On the second, third and fourth appointments the application is repeated.

Application cards properly filled out and the $3 fee in each case must be returned to the various schools by Feb. 3, in order to set up organization procedures. Persons who did not receive the forms may obtain them by calling the Ottawa County Health Department in Holland or Grand Haven or from area chairman.

Area chairman are Mrs. Arthur Hoedema, Holland and Maplewood; Mrs. Leroy Essenburgh, Montello Park; Mrs. George Botsis, West Ottawa; Mrs. Maurice Boon, Grand Haven; Mrs. Michael Palkowski, Spring Lake; Mrs. William Engel and Mrs. Howard Kalmink, Zeeland; Miss Fanny De Kleine, Jamestown; Mrs. Gilbert Hall, Hudsonville; Mrs. Emerson Van Aelst, Coopersville; Mrs. Morris Richards, Allendale; Mrs. Forest Johnson, Conklin; Mrs. John Bosch, Borculo; and Mrs. Albert Vander Werf, Jenison.

Many Delight In Winter Art Carnival

Months of planning were successfully climaxed Tuesday when Junior Welfare League members staged their Winter Art Carnival for the Holland area special education students.

The enthusiasm of the 110 participating students pointed strongly to the possibility of the Carnival becoming an annual Junior League-sponsored event.

Under the chairmanship of League member Mrs. William Buis, students from five schools shared in the events staged in Thomas Jefferson School from 8:45 a.m. until 2 p.m. Groups arrived with their teachers at appointed times from Washington, Jefferson, Woodside, Beechwood and Glerum schools.

The Carnival activities for the children included easel painting, finger painting and clay molding. Each student was given time to participate in each category.

It was reported by League members that because the children had attended the Shrine Circus the day before, many created circus animals of clay and painted pictures of clowns and circus scenes.

Poetry Discovery Merits a Grant

Discovery of some very early Tudor poetry has won for Dr. Charles A. Hutter, professor of English at Hope College, a $1,045 grant from the American Philosophical Society. The grant will enable Dr. Hutter to complete research next summer at the British Museum in London and at Cambridge University.

Included in the critical edition Dr. Hutter is compiling are some early 16th century poems by the Earl of Surrey, which Dr. Hutter discovered in a book credited to another author. Announcement of the Hutter discovery was published a year ago in Rome in the journal English Miscellany. Printed about 1550, the British Museum copy, from which the new annotated edition is being made, is the only copy in existence.

The American Philosophical Society, which was founded in 1743 by Benjamin Franklin, values the proposed edition as a contribution of one of the earliest of the Tudor miscellanies to students of English literature.

Winter Returns With Vengeance

Winter returned to Holland today with a vengeance after a June-in-January interlude earlier this week in which the mercury climbed to 61.

It was a nasty day in which three inches of new snow fell, swirled by brisk winds which put visibility near zero. Driving on snow-covered roads was hazardous and nearly all motorists drove with lights on.

But Holland was still better off than many places in the Midwest which was visited first by freezing rains and pea soup fogs before being hit by snow.

The temperature fell during the day here. It was 26 at 6 a.m. today and 23 at 11 a.m. Up to four inches of snow was predicted by Friday morning. East and northeast winds will continue tonight at 15 to 20 miles an hour. Snow is expected to diminish to flurries Friday.

Eight inches of snow fell in four hours this morning in Paw Paw forcing schools to close. Schools were also closed in Dowagiac, Marcellus, Eau Claire, South Haven and Niles. Western Michigan University cancelled night extension classes in Cass, Van Buren and Berrien counties.

Heavy snow was reported in Grand Rapids, Lansing and Flint. The weather bureau warned Detroit would get four inches of snow today and tonight. Heavy snow warnings were posted for the state's southern and east central portions.

The new snowstorm produced up to eight inches of snow at Kirksville, Mo., six at Kansas City and St. Joseph and caused the closing of schools in southeast Iowa.

Schools also were closed in many parts of Kansas and Missouri as winds clocked at 35 miles an hour drifted roads closed, knocked out power lines and virtually paralyzed Columbia, Mo., with foot-deep snow.

At Kirksville, hospitals called in for emergency duty personnel who lived within walking distance. The Kansas City Power and Light Co. said its th worst storm in the area in nearly 20 years.

Heavy snow and hazardous driving warnings were posted for most of the Midwest as the storm system pushed eastward and sleet fell intermittently with the snow.

A severe thunderstorm warning was issued by the U.S. Weather Bureau for parts of Oklahoma, Texas and Arkansas for today.

The center of the storm moved across the central and southern Rockies Wednesday night, dropping up to four feet of new snow and triggering avalanches. One of the heaviest snowfalls in recent years was reported in Utah where Alta ski resort measured 55 inches on the ground. Up to two feet of snow was reported in Colorado's mountains.

A tornado spawned by cold air moving across the southwest ripped through the Owasso, Okla., area Wednesday night, tearing down power lines and injuring a family of four. A twister also damaged several buildings in Sequoyah and Foyle, Okla., and caused a power failure at Claremore. High winds believed to have been a tornado also hit Clinton, Okla., and Tulsa was hit by heavy rain and hail.

A Braniff 707 jet airliner slid off an icy runway Wednesday night at the Kansas City Mid-Continent International Airport, but no injuries were reported.

More than four inches of snow were expected to fall from Kansas to lower Michigan with some parts of Illinois getting as much as eight inches.

The snow fell heavily in Chicago, snarling commuter traffic while cutting visibility near the downtown area to less than a city block. Officials at O'Hare International Airport reported that although snowfall was heavy and visibility severely limited, traffic was normal.

A fog that covered parts of New York, Connecticut, New Jersey and Pennsylvania Wednesday caused the closing of three major airports, including Kennedy International, LaGuardia and Newark, but all three resumed normal operations at daylight today.

Following on the heels of the Midwest snowstorm is a cold air mass which plummeted temperatures to 24 below zero at Thief River Falls and 21 below at Bemidji, both in Minnesota.

In direct contrast mild weather was reported over the Gulf and Atlantic coast with Miami Beach recording 73 degrees.

Pacific Coast weather eased back to normal following floods and mud slides caused by unusual rains.

Hope Wins Over Aquinas, 82-68

Dutchmen Chalk Up Ninth Win

Hope College outthrustled a cold-shooting Aquinas basketball team Saturday night in the Civic Center to record an 82-68 victory — their ninth in 13 games this season.

After the lead changed hands seven times Jim Klein sank two straight field goals to put the Flying Dutchmen on top for good at 29-22 with 3:15 left in the first half.

Hope made 11 straight points in the last four minutes to lead 26-30 at intermission.

In the second half Hope did a good job of working the ball in for close shots. They made 15 of their 18 baskets in the period from close range, and were able to open up a 21-point lead near the midway point of the second half.

The Tommies began to press, with about eight minutes left in the game, and cut the Hope lead to 66-55 at the six-minute mark.

The Flying Dutchmen got untracked, and outscored their visitors 16-13 in the closing six minutes to insure the victory.

Aquinas which hit only 30 of 87 shots for 34 per cent was never able to shoot apart Hope's zone defense. The Tommies got so cold in their shooting that they went almost five minutes in the second half without making a point. It was during this period that Hope built up its 21-point margin.

Hope did some fine work on the backboards as they matched the taller Tommies in rebounding. Each team had 46. Hope's Floyd Brady led in rebounds with 13. Bruce Van Huis had 11 and Klein grabbed nine for the winners.

Paul Jagels opened the scoring with a jump shot, but Brady made three field goals and two free throws in the first three minutes of play to give Hope an 8-2 lead.

Hope took a 17-12 lead at 10:42 of the first half on a free throw by Gary Rypma.

Freshman Pat Ryan came off the Aquinas bench to spark a rally which put the Tommies ahead 26-23 with 5:29 left in the half. Ryan made four baskets in the spurt which saw Aquinas outscore their hosts 14-8.

The Flying Dutchmen then came back to take their half-time lead as the Tommies went about four minutes without a point.

Brady made 10 field goals and five free throws for a total of 25 points to lead all scorers. Klein came off the bench to score 14 points. Rypma had 11 and Van Huis 10 for Hope.

Ryan topped Aquinas' scorers with 23 points while Jagels had 15. The Tommies' top scorer, Dennis Alexander, had an off night, and made only 12 points.

Hope made 33 of 78 shots from the floor for 42 per cent. They hit an even 50 per cent of their shots (18 of 36) in the second half.

Hope travels to Wooster, Ohio, for another non-league tilt with Wooster College next Saturday night. They resume MIAA action against Calvin Feb. 8.

by the Michigan Council of Churches and has an annual grant-in-aid from the Department of State of the United States for promotion and development. The purpose of the program is to develop international understanding through a living experience in cooperation with families, schools, churches, and other community groups. The emphasis is on "learning by living." The students live with families in Europe, South America or Japan. The students have an opportunity to study the native language and travel with their host families.

The over-all cost to send a student is $750. This includes air travel overseas, inland transportation, health insurance, supervision and administration. The local committee grants a scholarship of $400 to the local winner. The student must pay the remaining $350 and bear the expense of a passport and incidental personal expenses.

The students considered for this program are judged by their scholastic school record and the activities in which they participated in school, church, and community. The students must be good representatives of American teenagers, and favorably impress their foreign hosts about the American people. They should have a knowledge of the free enterprise system and how our democratic form of government functions.

WHERE THE QUESTIONS GET TOUGH

Forty billion dollars is a lot of money. That's the price that is used when the discussion gets around to protecting the United States with anti-missile missiles. But that's not the whole story. If one were sure that this would secure our safety, there might be some reason to go ahead, but is it? Experts speak on both sides of the argument. And the average man can only listen, with no hope of making a reasonable decision. We are caught like a man who has no real alternatives, and yet must make a choice.

We have no answer. But it might be well for all of us to ponder the position in which our scientific age has placed us. The great God on whom we have relied, and whom we invoke with the awesome "science says," has shown us to what demonic situations we are now committed.

It would be foolish to keep science unrelated to man, for the "science says," is really nothing more than the vaunted pride in our own ability to remake the world and ourselves. The real flaw in our thinking has been our failure to realize that we are not some kind of utopian being. We still use all our horrible power with a nature that has been untamed and terribly raw.

At present the American government is seeking to draw the Russians into an agreement that will put off the spending of the many billions needed for anti-missile defense. But the world changes rapidly. And the Russians have more than the United States to fear. The Chinese with thousands of miles of common border, are also a part of the problem. And the Russians are realistic about human beings. Can they afford not to spend the money.

The age of progress moves on. We have more sophisticated tools, but the same human beings. We could probably put up with a minimum of knowledge of the age of science and progress. But we are stymied by man himself.

The Messiah and His Mission
Luke 9:18-22, 57-62

By C. P. Dame
The question, "Who is Jesus?" is still asked and answered variously. A person's life is influenced by his answer to that important question. This lesson tells us who Jesus is and what He demands of his followers.

I. Jesus is the Messiah promised in the Old Testament. "And it came to pass as he was, alone, praying" — these words remind us of the fact that Jesus prayed much and especially when he was about to take an important step. A significant event took place at Caesarea Philippi. Jesus and his disciples were together by themselves and so Jesus asked them, "Whom say the people that I am?"

Note that he asked about the remarks of the people, not about what the religious leaders were saying—they said some unkind things about him. Religious leaders do not always reflect the mind of people. Now Jesus knew what the people were saying but he wanted the disciples to express themselves.

The people were agreed that Jesus was a great man for some said that he was "John the Baptist; but some say, Elias; and others say, that one of the old prophets is risen again." Today some people admit that Jesus is a great Teacher, a Reformer, but no more. The views of the people of Jesus' day and that of some modern liberals is inadequate.

"But whom say ye that I am?" this personal question followed. Peter answered, "The Christ of God." The word Christ is not a name but a title, the Hebrew word is "Messiah" and both words mean "anointed." In this statement Peter confessed that Jesus is the Messiah foretold in the Old Testament, and separated himself and the apostles from the rank and file of the people and the religious leaders.

Now the disciples still had a wrong idea of the mission of the Messiah and that is why Jesus spoke about his coming death and resurrection. Note the word "must" which Jesus used. And observe that in this story the deity, the substitutionary death and resurrection of Jesus are taught. Do you believe these truths?

II. Jesus, the Messiah, makes heavy demands. The text tells us about three men who talked with Jesus. The first one said, "Lord, I will follow thee whithersoever thou goest." This man showed willingness and enthusiasm. Jesus, knowing the man said, "Foxes have holes, and birds of the air have nests; but the Son of man hath not where to lay his head." Would this man be willing to go without some of the normal things of life? We wonder whether he did in order to follow Jesus, who wants complete commitment.

Jesus approached a man and said to him, "Follow me" but he made an excuse saying, "Suffer me first to go and bury my father." Jesus said to him, "Let the dead bury their dead; but go thou and preach the kingdom of God." The man's father was not dead or dying. He said he wanted to look out for his father until he would die. Jesus rates the family high, but demands first place.

The third man was willing to follow Jesus by he first wanted to say farewell to his family. To him Jesus said, that no man, "having put his hand to the plough, and looking back is fit for the kingdom of God." This man had shown interest in the kingdom by putting his hand to the plough and therefore he should not look backward but forward.

The high standards and demands of Jesus have not changed. The Lord does not accommodate himself to the times and moods of people.

Barking Dog Leads Trio To Safety

Three Holland brothers are recovering from a harrowing experience Sunday on fog-shrouded, fast-thinning ice of Muskegon Lake.

Richard, Roger and David Essenburg had arrived in early afternoon for some fishing, parking their car and walking out onto the ice off the mouth of Bear Lake channel.

They fished only a short time in the blinding fog and decided to make for shore, but found themselves walking in circles. As the Muskegon fire chief put it later "they hadn't the foggiest notion where the shore was."

The ice appeared to be thinner too, and they abandoned their fishing gear to lessen weight. One of the men broke through the ice twice up to the knee.

Finally they called for help and a barking dog along shore helped orient them. Several persons along shore also heard their cries and called the fire department. A crew arrived just as the men, visibly shaken, gained the shore.

As a final touch to the misery, the men could not remember where their car was parked, and they rode around in the fog with the rescue squad before locating it.

"By then, they could laugh about it a bit, but they were very much aware how close they were to tragedy," Fire Chief Edward J. Klecka Jr. of North Muskegon said.

He added, "That dog that barked deserves a steak."

Violinist Demonstrates Highly Skilled Techniques

A most responsive audience greeted the young French violinist Regis Pasquier in his Community Concert appearance here Tuesday night in Holland Civic Center.

Accompanied by another Parisian, Jean-Claude Penetier, at the piano, the 21-year-old violinist displayed excellent technical skill in a variety of works.

His interpretation of some of the most difficult and complicated violin compositions have won for him plaudits from critics and artists in European music centers as well as from his American audiences.

His skill was manifested in two major works of Tartini and Brahms. The Tartini Sonata in G Minor featured cadenzas designed to bring out the artistry of the performer as well as the beauty and novel effects of the music. This Sonata is also known as "The Devil's Trill."

Seemingly correct accuracy marked the Brahms Sonata in D minor, with its contrasting movements. It was in this work that the pianist, Jean-Claude Penetier, contributed accompaniment enhancing a performance of two artists rather than one.

Pasquier's interpretation of the Johann Sebastian Bach Chaconne (for solo violin) brought out all the inventiveness of the 200-year-old composition. It was the one selection of the evening's program played completely without accompaniment.

Holland Man Charged With Felonious Assault

Clarence McDonald, 44, of 105 East 15th St., demanded examination at his arraignment in Municipal Court Tuesday on a charge of felonious assault arising out of a family fight at his home Monday night.

Examination was set for Jan. 31 at 4 p.m. McDonald was released without bond.

McDonald allegedly threatened his wife with a 16 gauge shotgun and struck her in the head with the weapon. Holland police arrested McDonald at his home about 10 p.m.

Demonstration of further artistry and technique was given in three other sections: Romance by Faure, Etude in Thirds by Scriabin-Szigeti, and Trizane (Gypsy Rhapsody) by Maurice Ravel. The latter started with an unaccompanied cadenza or free fantasia ending with trills in double stops, then followed by a definite rhythm and occasional piano interludes, all in true gypsy character.

The next concert of the Holland series Feb. 16 will bring to Holland The Netherlands Chamber Choir.

The vote for seven new board members is being compiled and results will be announced soon. Balloting was done at Tuesday's Concert.

Get Those Measles Shots Now

There is no immediate threat of a measles epidemic in Holland, but Dr. Ralph Ten Have, director of the Ottawa County Health Department, today cautioned parents to have their children immunized for this disease if they have not already done so.

A survey last November among kindergartners, first and second grades in all schools in the county revealed that well over 80 per cent of these children have been protected either by disease or vaccine.

Of 6,167 questionnaires returned, 2,401 children had measles and 2,923 had vaccine. Children protected by disease or vaccine were 90 per cent among kindergartners, 87 per cent for first grade and 81 per cent for second grade.

The questionnaires also revealed 970 requests for the measles vaccine and the health department is planning a few clinics in selected areas for those families who are unable otherwise to obtain this treatment.

With about 20 per cent of children in the low-age bracket parents are urged to have their children immunized immediately. During the past year, more than 3,500 doses have been given by physicians in the county and in clinics with no severe reactions. In most cases there was no reaction whatever.

"Measles should no longer be part of growing up," Dr. Ten Have said. "It is a disease which may have serious complications and may even leave permanent defects."

Measles vaccine is most effective if given children at about one year of age, health officials say. It is the most contagious of all diseases, and while there is no immediate threat of an epidemic, public health officials want the most protection possible for the children. To prevent a major epidemic, at least 80 per cent of children of all ages must be protected.

The Ottawa county health department has sufficient amounts of vaccine on hand and have distributed supplies to physicians.

Similar immunization programs have wiped out epidemics in diphtheria, small pox, polio and whooping cough, the department said.

Dave Brubeck Quartet Sets Concert Feb. 2

Dave Brubeck, internationally acclaimed as one of the world's foremost jazz personalities, will be in Holland Feb. 2, bringing his quartet for a jazz concert in the Civic Center.

The concert in the inimitable Brubeck manner will begin at 8:15 p.m. and is sponsored by the Hope College Cultural Affairs Committee.

Brubeck is the symbol of progressive jazz in the minds of most Americans and also in the minds of people all over the world, even behind the Iron Curtain.

Winning national and international awards in recognition for his outstanding contributions to jazz is a common event for Brubeck and his quartet who have won at one time or another virtually every poll and award in jazz.

Each member of the Brubeck quartet to appear in the Civic Center here, has won impressive recognition. Paul Desmond, alto sax, is considered by most critics to be far and away the world's number one alto saxophone player.

Joe Morello has won one poll after another for drummers in the last several years. Gene Wright, the newest member of the group, joined the quartet in January of 1958, in time for their U.S. State Department tour of the Middle East. An outstanding bass player, Wright has been featured with Count Basie, Cal Tjader and Red Norvo before his association with Brubeck.

Shinabarger Hits 36 in 85-69 Win

GRAND HAVEN — Dan Shinabarger scored 36 points as Holland High's red-hot shooting team tore apart Grand Haven's zone defense for an 85-69 basketball victory Friday night.

In hitting a new high for his career Shinabarger sank 14 of 21 shots from the floor for 67 per cent and added eight of 18 free throws for 44 per cent. The 5'11" junior guard leads the Valley Coast Conference in scoring.

As a team Holland made a blistering 61 per cent of their field goal attempts. The Dutch made an even two-thirds of their shots from the floor (26 of 39) in the first three quarters before cooling to 41 per cent (five of 12) in the final period.

Shinabarger hit a jump shot at 4:30 of the first quarter to put Holland in the lead 8-6, and they never trailed after that.

Holland took a 20-13 lead at the end of the first quarter as Shinabarger notched 14 of his points in the opening period. They led 41-27 at the half.

In the third period the Dutch opened up a 16-point lead after two straight three-point plays by Jim Fortney. The score was then 63-46. The period ended with the Dutch on top 65-48.

The Buccaneers finally came out of their zone, and put on a full-court press with six minutes left in the game. It worked better as they forced the Dutch into several ballhandling miscues and other turnovers. Grand Haven was able to narrow the margin to 73-64 on five straight free throws with three minutes left in the game.

Holland scored six straight points at the close of the game to regain their 16-point margin.

John Thomas also had the hot shooting hand for Holland. He scored 17 points. Jim Swartz added 12 and Jim Fortney 10 for the Dutch.

Holland's fast break was running smoothly during several spurts, but was slowed by lack of control of the backboards and ballhandling errors at other times.

The Dutch outbounded Grand Haven 39-34. Steve Jacobus was the top Holland rebounder with 12.

Ike Nettrink led a balanced Buccaneer scoring attack with 15 points. Rick Westhoff and John Vander Meiden each had 11 points while Dan Warner had 10.

Grand Haven made 23 of 63 field goal attempts for 36 per cent.

Coach Don Piersma praised the team's sharp shooting particularly in the first half. He added, however, that the team missed too many layups and other easy shots in the second half.

Holland made 23 of 40 free throws for 58 per cent while Grand Haven sank 23 of 33 for 69 per cent.

The victory was the fourth straight for Holland. They're still in second place in the VCC with a 7-2 mark. Their overall record is 7-3. Grand Haven is 3-6 in league play.

The Dutch host Grandville in another VCC game next Friday.

Panthers Lose Ninth

Unlucky number nine proved to be just that for the luckless West Ottawa basketball team who lost its ninth game in as many starts to an overpowering Wyoming Rogers team, 65-43, Friday night in the West Ottawa gym.

After improving its offensive attack in the last several games, the Panthers were unable to generate much scoring spark against O-K leader, the Golden Hawks. Coach Jack Bonham tabbed the Hawks, who possess a 6-1 mark, as the "team to beat" in the league.

After the first period of play the Hawks led by only five points, 16-9. Shortly after the opening tip off Bill Henson was awarded a free throw but the Panthers didn't sink a bucket from the floor until Henson again connected with 3:30 remaining.

Again in the second quarter the Hawks quickly pumped in three goals and added a foul shot before West Ottawa hit the TOUR NEW SCHOOL — Students at Van Raalte School this week got their first good look at the addition which will replace their old building after spring vacation. Roger Stroop (extreme right) of the architectural firm of Kamekara and Stroop exhibits the tour of the new building. Stroop said classroom areas are about 89 per cent completed and should be ready for occupancy after spring vacation. An addition to Longfellow School is about 60 per cent completed. Stroop said. target with half the period gone.

At the halftime mark the accurate shooting of the Hawks provided them with a 12 point spread, 32-20. In the first half Rogers controlled the boards snagging 25 rebounds to West Ottawa's seven.

The Hawks also hit on 10 of 13 free throws taking advantage of the Panther's 10 fouls. Dave De Jonge collected four fouls in the first half and saw little action the remainder of the game. Not given as many opportunities by the cautious Hawks who fouled only three times in the first half, the Panthers made two of four from the free throw line.

In the third period Rogers again took the scoring advantage, piling up an additional lead, 48-32. Neither team was given an opportunity at the free throw line in the third stanza. At the opening of the fourth period West Ottawa utilized its full court press but with little success as the Hawks still outscored them, 17 to 13.

The teams were evenly matched in ball control errors with Rogers committing three more miscues than the Panthers, 16-13. Each team used a tight man to man defense throughout most of the game.

In the second half Rogers took 22 rebounds compared to 15 for West Ottawa.

From the floor West Ottawa made 9 of 24 for 38 per cent in the first half and 10 of 35 for 29 per cent in the second half. Both teams were cold at the free throw line in the second half with the Panthers hitting on 3 of 8 and the Hawks on four of nine.

West Ottawa's only player scoring in double figures was freshman Lynn Lorck playing his second varsity game. Loncki poured in five field goals and a foul shot for 11 points. Starting guard Jim Visser added nine in the losing effort.

Four players scored in double figures for Rogers. Steve Minnema dumped in 10 field goals and five free throws for his 25 points. Brian Vossekuil made 12. Randy Lindhout had 11 and Jerry Hoag contributed 10 in the balanced scoring attack.

Next Friday West Ottawa will travel to Grand Rapids to meet South Christian in an O-K League game.

Zeeland Firm Raises Half Of Michigan Turkey Flock

LANSING — Turkeys sold better than ever in 1966. Michigan State University poultry specialists said the year was "good" for producers in the state.

An estimated 115.8 million were raised in the U.S. last year, an increase of 11 per cent over 1965 and about 7 per cent over 1961, the previous high year. Michigan's production was about one million.

The traditional Thanksgiving-to-Christmas period is still the best time for turkey sales, accounting for about 55 per cent of the annual output, and 85 per cent of the whole turkeys produced.

Producers, however, are aiming at a year-round market, processing their product in a variety of ways to make it easier to store and prepare.

Bil-Mar Foods, Inc., of Zeeland, which handles half the turkeys processed in the state, is an example. Comptroller Gary DeWitt can tick off a half-dozen products put out by his firm.

The firm raises about 400,000 of the half million birds it processes.

Bil-Mar's big freezing rooms are stacked high with turkeys prepared in gift boxes, as boneless roasts ready for the oven, as individual smoked or fresh turkey breasts, in cooked rolls, roasted rolls, or separately plastic-wrapped and frozen drumsticks, wings or thighs.

DeWitt told Carl Hoyt, MSU Extension agent in Ottawa county, that only 30 per cent of Bil-Mar's production is in whole birds.

More than 25 per cent of the turkeys produced in the U.S. are sold in one form or another than whole birds, and the percentage is climbing rapidly.

Producers like the variety of products because most can be sold in relatively small packages, lend themselves to year-round use, and are easy to prepare. Many can be put into the oven for roasting in the same foil packages in which they are sold.

The products' year-round attractiveness allows a producer to hold them if prices dip too low for him to make a profit, and sell them at a later date when prices are higher.

Michigan's slice of the total market is relatively small at a million birds a year. The state's consumers eat three times that much, and MSU poultrymen are working to boost the industry.

"We'd like to see Michigan take the same strides as Minnesota and Wisconsin. They've both expanded their turkey industries greatly," within the past 8 to 10 years," said Dr. Cal Flegal, MSU Extension poultryman.

"We're very optimistic, and think that Michigan has a good future in the industry. We have a good geographical area for turkey production and are close to markets and feed supplies," Dr. Flegal said.

About 6 million poult—young turkeys — are hatched in Michigan annually. Most of them are shipped to out-of-state producers. MSU's poultry research facilities at Chatham, in the Upper Peninsula, will be used for turkey breeding research in an effort to bolster the industry.

A great deal of capital is needed for a successful turkey production operation. MSU economists predict that large organizations integrating feed, hatching, production and processing facilities will continue to control the industry.

"Those not in these setups will find economic success almost impossible," specialists forecast in MSU's "Project '80" report on what Michigan agriculture will look like in 1980.

The turkeys raised by Bil-Mar and its competitors bear little resemblance to the birds grandma served up to the family on the Thanksgiving of a generation ago. Today's turkeys are bigger breasted, with short, squat bodies, plumper legs and thighs. They are especially bred and fed to provide as much meat as possible from each bird.

Bil-Mar, like many big agricultural enterprises, handles all phases of production. The birds are hatched from eggs laid by the 5,000-hen breeding flock, and never leave the farm until they are processed and ready to go to the grocer's freezer.

Feed is bought by the railroad carload, mixed and ground at the Bil-Mar feed mill located beside a railroad siding. The land and buildings are owned by a company-owned realty company.

It takes about 25 weeks to raise a tom turkey to a weight of about 28 pounds. Hens are processed at 15 to 16 pounds in 18 to 20 weeks. Young turkeys are kept in heated buildings for 8 to 12 weeks, then put on a fenced-in area outdoors. From 5,000 to 10,000 birds are placed in each 8-to-10 acre pen.

In cold weather, the turkeys are kept indoors. They are very susceptible to rain and cold. Last spring, about 20,000 were lost in the Zeeland area in a single storm.

Turkey feed consumption averages about a bushel per bird, which means that the 500,000 processed annually by Bil-Mar uses the corn production of 50,000 to 60,000 acres of corn, agricultural agent Hoyt said.

According to a poultry survey by the American Feed Manufacturers Association, the stage is set for another record turkey crop in 1967. Production of about 125 million birds — 10 per cent more than in 1966 — is predicted.

Christian Chalks Up 80-49 Win

Shooting a phenomenal 49 per cent from the floor, the Holland Christian Maroons easily defeated previously unbeaten Muskegon Christian 80-49, in a basketball game played before 2,500 enthusiastic spectators in the Civic Center Friday night.

With four players scoring in double figures and a tough man-to-man defense, the Maroons were never behind in the game and as early as 2:30 left in the second quarter they had built up a 20-point lead.

The game was wrapped up in the first half as Holland Christian hit 18 out of 33 attempts from the floor for an average of 55 per cent. On the other hand, Muskegon Christian shooting under constant pressure was only able to make eight out of 27 shots for a low 30 per cent in the opening half.

Leading the Maroons in the first half was John Lappinga who scored 13 points, nine in the big first quarter. The score at the end of the first period was 24-14 Holland Christian.

The hustling Maroons didn't let up in the second quarter as they out scored Muskegon Christian 19-9. Eight men scored for Holland in the quarter, while Pete Wagenmaker, 6'4" center of Muskegon was the only player doing any scoring for the Warriors as he collected six points in the quarter and 15 in the first half. The half time score showed Holland Christian enjoying a 43 to 23 advantage.

The Maroons started the second half by scoring six straight points to open up a 26-point lead. Bob DeNooyer and Steve Bushouse each scored six points in the quarter to help the Maroon cause. Their shooting from the floor was still tremendous as they dumped in nine of 16 shots for 56 per cent.

The fourth quarter was played on even terms as Holland Christian only out scored Muskegon Christian in the period by two points (18-16). Coach Art Tuls cleared the bench early allowing all his players to get into the game.

Leading the Maroons in scoring was Lappinga with a game high of 21 points. He was followed by Bob Van Langevelde with 16, Bob DeNooyer with 13 and Steve Bushouse with 12 points.

The final shooting percentages for Holland Christian figured up to 35 out of 71 for 49 per cent. The free throw accuracy was 10 for 16 for 62 per cent. The Muskegon Christian Warriors never found the range as they made only 16 out of 56 attempts for a poor 29 per cent. They were 17 for 27 at the charity lane for 63 per cent.

ADULTS GET EDUCATION—Miss Sue Mooy, one of the two instructors for the basic education class at West Ottawa High School, gives individual attention to adults enrolled. The class meets on Monday and Wednesday evenings from 7 to 10 p.m.

Basic Education Program Operates at West Ottawa

By William F. Bloemendaal

As with most school districts throughout the country, the West Ottawa School District in Holland is deeply concerned about the high school dropout who is committing economic suicide in a society which increasingly requires more and more education.

But the school district is also aware of the educational needs of adults who left school without requiring a basic knowledge of reading, writing and arithmetic. These adults now find themselves economically hindered and their job potentials severely limited.

Last fall the school district began the first Basic Education Program for adults. Thirty-three men and women enrolled initially in a program that meets two nights a week, Monday and Wednesday, from 7-10 at Woodside school.

Those enrolled have command of less than a fourth grade level achievement in reading, writing and arithmetic.

These people were forced to drop out of school for one reason or another—their parents died and they had to support the family. Compulsory education laws were not yet passed when some felt it necessary to quit school to help supplement the family income.

Others were living in areas where there were no schools available and they didn't have the opportunity of obtaining an education.

A few in the class have attained a very high level of education but were born in foreign countries and have trouble communicating in English. They are in the course to learn how to read, write and speak English better.

Two students are Japanese, four are Spanish speaking, and one speaks Polish. There is also one student from the Netherlands and one from Germany.

Local industry is all for the program. Not knowing how to read directions on machinery, write reports, or do simple computation, not only hinders production but also blocks job promotion and severely limits job selection.

One student in the class is a valuable employee in a local machine shop but misreads directions on the machine and the foreman has to check the machine. This limits his job potential. Because of this the company allows this student to leave his job, come to the basic education class, and return to the plant after class. The student said, "My boss said 'any cost involved he will pick up.'"

The class is free. There is no charge for attending nor for materials. Peter Roon, assistant superintendent of the school system and director of the program, explains that it is financed partly through federal funds from the Office of Economic Opportunity and the rest in state aid. As a result this program costs the local taxpayer nothing.

Of the 33 who originally began the program Sept. 19, 21 are still attending on Monday and Wednesday from 7 to 10 at Woodside School. Project director Roon investigated reasons why 12 left the program and found that some moved, others were on another job shift which conflicted with the class time, and one is returning when the class works on math. Only two could not be traced.

Of the original group 11 come from the West Ottawa District and 22 from as far away as Pullman, Drenthe, Hamilton, Zeeland and Holland city.

Who can enroll in the program? Any person feeling the need for Adult Basic Education at no charge. Roon will accept any student at any time during the year. Three new students have begun the class since the new year began.

The class is taught by two West Ottawa teachers, Mrs. Lidia Stillwell and Miss Sue Mooy. Miss Mooy speaks Spanish which is very helpful for the few Spanish speaking students in the class.

The educational opportunities for the adult students are unlimited. When the student feels he is ready he can take an eighth grade equivalency test, and if he passes he may enroll in the West Ottawa High School evening program and go on to complete work for a high school equivalency certificate.

The district is presently receiving state aid on 52 students enrolled in the Adult High School program. Each student still needs 16 units of credit to obtain the high school certificate, but credit is given for work experience, course work through correspondence schools, and the amount of responsibility involved in the position being held.

The student can then take the general education development tests, a national battery of tests based on what the average high school graduate should know. When he passes these tests, the results are evaluated in granting the equivalency certificate.

From here, after college admission tests, he can begin his college work. In an age where lack of basic education sets up roadblocks to financial well being, the West Ottawa School District has paved the way for many adults who would like to pick up their formal education where they left off and lead a better life.

It's old stuff in Holland linking Dutch names with various ads or news items. But it can be a novelty elsewhere.

The Houston Chronicle made a point of a sign in Holland, Mich., noted by a Texan during a vacation trip.

The sign, outside a used car lot, read: "Lemmon — Used Cars."

Did you know that Audrey Hepburn, one of Hollywood's top actresses, has a Dutch background?

The November-December issue of the Holland Herald, news magazine of the Netherlands, tells the story of her return to the land where she spent the war years, suffering the same privations as the Dutch people. Her mother is Dutch Baroness Ella van Heemstra and her father is a British businessman.

Audrey was in Britain when World War II broke out and she went to Arnhem to be with her mother's family and studied ballet there, later going to Amsterdam to study under Sonia Gaskell, a teacher she regarded as second only to her mother. She left the Netherlands in 1948 and her career took her to Broadway and Hollywood.

Her visit to the Netherlands with her husband Mel Ferrer was to attend the European premiere of the film El Greco, produced by and starring Ferrer.

At the premiere, Audrey lost a shoe as she went toward her seat in the circle of Scala cinema. It was picked up by Prince Bernhard. It was not midnight.

The 1967 UNICEF calendar, which contains a reproduction of a water color of Eleanor Van Malsma of Holland, is an interesting art treasure. Designed as an engagement calendar with one week to the page, it has paintings of 54 artists from five continents, all geared to children at play.

Mrs. Van Haisma's delightful water color of children on skis appears the second week in November. She painted the picture about a year ago after watching a ski school class of children at Boyne Mountain, showing the humorous and awkward stances of beginners on skis.

She has turned over the water color to UNICEF with no restrictions. It may hang in the U.N. offices or be used in traveling exhibits, or could be used in Christmas greetings.

Bob Jaehnig, former Sentinel reporter now with the Peace Corps in Africa, writes from Sierra Leone that he and his wife Mary Ann, are completing their second year of work there and will return home in July.

He described some hair-raising experiences last summer when he and Mary Ann were vacationing in Nigeria. They were inside the railroad station at Lagos, the Nigerian capital, when machine guns went off outside. They ducked behind the ticket counter and later after things quieted down and the dead soldiers were carted away they boarded the train. But things weren't much better upcountry and they holed up in a Peace Corps hostel.

During the Christmas holidays they traveled around Sierra Leone using an old Land Rover, traveling over dirt roads that make the lowliest township roads around Holland look like the Edsel Ford expressway.

Elwood J. (Pete) Brush, of 10 West 30th St., in going through a box of army medals and trivia recently, found a clipping he had sent to the Lakeshore News in Wolcott, N.Y., during his World War II days in Italy.

Dated Jan. 10, 1945, the article tells of his visit to St. Peter's Cathedral in Rome on Christmas Eve and the difficulty of getting into the cathedral through a mass of at least 75,000 gathered in the square. After waiting 30 minutes in the cathedral, he heard a fanfare of trumpets played by Swiss guards on a balcony.

Then the Pope was carried in by Swiss guards and gave the blessing while the Sistine Choir sang throughout. It was the first time in nine centuries that the Pope presided at mass at midnight on Christmas Eve. It's Newcomer time again and the city hostess welcomed several new families to Holland during December.

Dr. Berkhof Speaks to Exchange Club

Dr. H. Berkhof, professor of theology at the University of Leyden, The Netherlands, addressed members of the Holland Exchange Club at their regular meeting Monday in Hotel Warm Friend.

Centering his talk on the communistic situation in Europe Dr. Berkhof traced the changes in the communistic thinking and acting and pointed out the differences in the Stalin program and that of Khrushchev.

Each of the European communistic countries is headed in the same direction but by different methods, he said. In most of the countries it is becoming necessary to give more responsibility to local groups. The younger groups are not as interested in slogans or in fighting and say that war is a tool of the capitalistic countries. Some of the western European nations are becoming economically sound and this condition is not good for Communism, he added.

The speaker warned that the goal of all communists is still domination of the world and the older ones still believe Communism will win out, capitalism will be overcome; however all this has been slowed down by the rift between Russia and China.

Dr. Lester Kuyper introduced the speaker and L. Vande Bunte, president of the Exchange club, conducted the business meeting.

The annual Ladies Night dinner will be held at Point West Monday, April 17, when Buck Mathews will be the speaker.
