FATHER 80-MOTHER 76

The aged father and mother of a prominent Boston lawyer safely carried through the last two winters by

Vinol

The son says: "My father and mother owe their present strength and good health to Vinol. During the last two trying winters neither of them had a cold, and were able to walk farther and do more than for years. I think Vinol is perfectly wonderful. It certainly is the greatest blood-making, strengthening tonic for old people I ever heard of."

We want every feeble old person in this town to try Vinol. We will return their money without question if it does not accomplish all we claim for it.

Attorney Chas. McBride has received a letter from his parents which was mailed in the Azores, stating that they had a very pleasant voyage. The only excitement they had was when a huge "quick wave" was encountered. One hundred forty members partook of Ed. VanDrezer's spread given from 3 to 4 o'clock on Saturday afternoon at the Koffie Klets. Litigation over property mortgaged 40 years ago, and against which foreclosure proceedings were started in 1876, was finally settled in circuit court last week, when the place was sold under the hammer to satisfy a claim of $1,738. Postmaster VanSchelven has received instructions that the practice which has been common on rural routes of placing pennies in the boxes in order that the carriers may place sufficient postage on unstamped mail matter, will be forbidden entirely after Feb. 15. The News a few weeks ago touched upon these points and the new ruling has come to pass as predicted. The department has been forced to take this action on account of the increasing popularity of the habit, which results in considerable delay to the carriers and much dissatisfaction at times, as errors are almost unavoidable. Estimates made by officials and inspectors of the postoffice department indicate that about three hundred million pennies were picked up by carriers during the last year from boxes on their routes, representing a sale of $3,000,000 worth of stamps.

Gerhardus Posthumus, the Holland marble and granite dealer, who died Sunday, sculptured his own monument, which adorns the burial lot in Pilgrim Home cemetery. Whether it was because of a presentiment that death was near or whether he harbored a desire that it should be his own work, is not known. The monument was finished last summer and embodies, besides the name, all the lettering, including the date of his birth. Mr. Posthumus was a fine sculptor and his work can be found in every book and corner of the cemetery.

WHAT YOU SAW IN THIS PAPER

35 Years ago To-day.

The trial of the suit brought by John Verhage of Vriesland against Peter Borst, the school teacher of district 2, in the township of Zeeland, for the suspension of the plaintiff's son Peter, a boy of about 14 years old, came off on Wednesday and resulted in a verdict of "No cause for action." This case (outside of other motives and influences of a local character which may not have had their effects on the course pursued) was a peculiar one and perhaps the kind tried in this locality. The plaintiff's son Peter, in reply to a certain question put to him by the teacher refused to "No sir" holding that a simply "No" was sufficient. Persisting in his refusal the defendant took him by the arm, put him out of the room and suspended him from school. The school board subsequently endorsed the action of the teacher. For this an action of trespass was commenced against the teacher. The defense of the latter was principally based upon the rights and duties of a teacher, and claiming that politeness and good manners were essential parts of a common school education. We learn that the plaintiff is not satisfied with the verdict and will appeal to the circuit court. The jury consisted of Messrs. S. Sprietsma, J. Van Landegend, S. Reidema, R. K. Heald and J. A. Streng.

Ex-Mayor Hubbard of Grand Haven has provided the poor of that city during the past week with 100 loaves of fresh bread daily.

The joint resolution introduced in the legislature by Mr. VanRaale, relative to an appropriation for our harbor by Congress, passed the House on Tuesday.

Mr. Bartel Van Dijk, one of our old settlers, died of cancer in the face on Sunday last at his residence about two miles east of the city at 74 years.

Mr. K. Schaddelee, of whose illness we have made previous mention died on Sunday last at his residence in this city at the age of 74 years.

Mrs. Capt. B. VanRij died Wednesday evening after an illness of 5 weeks at the age of 38 years, leaving a husband and eight children to mourn her loss.

Part of the interest of the Butter Tub Co., exactly how much we don't know, has again changed hands. G. VanPutten has sold his interest in the same to J. Van Putten, who purchased the same for his sons, Jacob and Adrian. The new firm will be known as J. Van Putten & Co.

Capt. C. Dok has bought the interest of J. Lisman in the meat market of L. De Kraker & Co. We have noticed several sailors from time to time, both here and in Grand Haven, who quit the lake and tie on an apron in a butcher's shop.

C. Blom, Sr.; died on Sunday last at his residence in Zeeland at the age of 64 years. He was buried on last Tuesday by Holland City Lodge No. 192, I. O. O. F., of which order he was a member. Rev. Shumate of this city preached the funeral sermon. The funeral was largely attended.

On Tuesday evening we could distinctly hear the pleasing sound of the new church bell at Graafschap. This village lying three miles south of us and on a gradual rise of ground more than a hundred feet above the level of this city, gives an opportunity for the sound to travel unhindered. This new bell, we are told, weighs 800 pounds and is placed in the tower of the True Dutch Reformed church. And we have heard it ever since. Ed.

About half past three on Thursday a fire broke out in the old Union building on Eleventh street on the second floor near the chimney. The children were instantly who fled in dismay, many bareheaded, some carrying shawls, cloaks, school books, etc., in their arms. The alarm was first given by the untimely ringing of the school bell, which being recognized in our office, the alarm was given on Eighth street immediately thereafter, and our two hand engines were brought out and into use by voluntary action. It was soon apparent that the school buildings could not be saved and then the fight was made to save a dwelling house in close proximity, belonging to O. Breyman. For once our wells did not give out and both engines kept pouring a stream of water on the points to be protected. Although it was terribly hard work to keep at the brakes so long, the people pumped with an admirable determination so as to prevent the spreading of the flames to other buildings. The board of education held enough insurance on the buildings to cover their loss. The main loss of the buildings falls on Messrs. Toren and W. H. Finch, who virtually owned them, since they were removed from their old place. Whether other buildings will be rented for temporary school rooms or not, we have not learned.

The recent effort of connecting Grand Rapids with Lake Michigan by means of a ship canal has revived the agitation of the old scheme for a short cut across the state.

The old and well established furnished furniture house of Meyer Brouwer & Co., has been dissolved, and out of its membership three new firms have arisen. Jas. A. Brouwer will continue the furniture business proper at the old stand. Messrs. H. and A. Meyer retire and carry with them the sewing machine and musical instrument department, to which branches they will devote their exclusive attention. The new firm will be known as Meyer & Son. In addition to this A. Meyer and Mr. Dykhuys will open a new boot and shoe store.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. S. DenUyl' Sunday, a son.

The Fennville fire of Friday was a very destructive one and laid in ashes the finest block in the village. At about 7 o'clock in the morning the people were aroused by the alarm in the store of R. R. Barber. As the village is without fire protection little could be done to check it. Soon the fire communicated to the adjacent stores in the block. Among those who are burned out are J. A. Pieters who succeeded in saving much of his stock; and the Herald office, which lost most of its material. The total loss is estimated at $40,000, with insurance of $18,000. During the progress of the fire Mrs. Newton Arnold was found dead in a neighboring house. It is supposed she died of heart disease due to the excitement incident to the fire. This is the fifth big fire in a few years. Underwriters now threaten to cancel all policies unless fire protection be provided.

The Cronin case has been revived, not the Chicago but the Holland affair. The disappearance of David Cronin in March last, has always been clouded with something mysterious. The latest trace of him was found at West Olive, and from thence on every effort at discovery failed. There were some circumstances connected with the affair which gave rise to suspicion of foul play, to such an extent that for a while last summer the matter received official investigation. Last week the secretary of the I. O. O. F. lodge of this city received a letter dated Jan. 23, Protection, Erie county, N. Y., asking if they had a member in good standing in their lodge by the name of David Cronin, Protection lodge having assisted a person of that name. He claimed to be a member of the Holland lodge and a tanner by trade, was dead broke and on his way to Olean, a place 40 miles from Protection. On further investigation between the two lodges a description of the alleged Cronin was obtained but it hardly answered to that of David. The handwriting on a postal card, written by the former and transmitted to the lodge here, is identified by David's friends here.

The "Monday Night Club", held its regular meeting on the 28th at the elegant new home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Browning. The occasion was made commemorative of the birth of Chas. An Old Fashioned Winter

New fashion folks are saying that if this is an old fashioned winter they regret the change of style. People who are ready to go back to old fashions in everything else, if only they become the prevailing mode, demur when nature returns to one of her old fashion plates and decrees that we accept it, whether we like it or not. The man who doesn't like to wear full dress, but who puts it on without audible complaint, makes his complaint audible when the great god of things as they are lays down the law. The great god of things as they are is a long way off, while the gods of the satorial world are always within earshot. Surely there must have been some among the men who were wearing green hats not long ago who didn't like them, but they kept silence. They were afraid to speak, in the fear of offending against the canons of what was, for the moment, held to be good form.

Tailors, dressmakers and milliners know all the law of reversion. History repeats itself for the reason that nature repeats itself, and for the same reason fashions repeat themselves. Nothing but the energetic protests of the fat woman and the lean man have, during the last half dozen years, prevented a return of hoop skirts and knee breeches. These protests, we are convinced, will not avail much longer. The gods of things as they are in the world of fashion, realizing that the old stock of hoopskirts and knee breeches are wholly exhausted and that everybody who must be in style will have to buy, will not much longer consent to be kept out of their profits. Ladies of amplitude and gentlemen of the lean shanks, will have to conform to fashion's decrees, will have to accept their dictum—also their terms. The women will give themselves the appearance of balloons. The men will take on the seeming of walkers on stilts. They will all cry out and protest again, before the event, but after the event we shall hear nothing more from them by way of complaint or reminder that they are not wholly comfortable and satisfied with themselves and the figures they cut in society. Such is the power of the gods of this world to force return to old fashions when they can think of no more new ones, or when there is more money for the trade in bringing about a reversion.

Toward the god who is afar the new fashion world is much more outspoken. They want none of his reversions. The mild winter fits them like paper on the wall and is very becoming to their complexions. More over they have been acclimated to it, and such a sudden change, without notice, shocks them. Why couldn't he have let well enough alone? It may comfort them to know that we haven't had a real old fashioned winter in this latitude yet. We have had a change of style, and there have been moments when old folks have really hoped that we were on the verge of great things. But not until the snow drifts above the tops of staked and ridged fences and stays there for days and weeks, can we call ourselves old fashioned in this winter of our discontent. Men who rise of a morning in houses heated from subterranean depths, bathe themselves in warm bath rooms, and draw warm water for their shaving out of a faucet, look out upon this weather and shiver, damning it as an old fashioned winter. Why in the old fashioned winter people of better worldly estate than very many of these jumped out of bed into cold rooms and broke the ice in their water pitchers. Faugh! Ye race of mollycoddles! We are not in an old fashioned winter yet. But we are like the Irishman who lost a wager that a drunken companion could not carry him up a ladder in a hod to the top of a skyscraper. When asked by the winner what he thought about on the way up, he answered: "Whin yesthumbled at the fifth flure, begorra I had me hopes"

The name of the hen that lays the golden egg seems to be Cold Storage.

That billion dollar trust being formed by the Bell Telephone Co. is sure to start a lot of talk.

It is hoped that Commander Peary may warm up to the occasion when attending the Lincoln club banquet.

The fact that our police report shows 33 arrests in January as against 10 in December is conclusive that a great many have already broken their New Years resolution.

Notwithstanding that the sun shown yesterday the ground hog did not see his shadow, owing to the over abundance of snow. Therefore he will hibernate for six more weeks as it will take that long to thaw him out.

Jack, the hugger, is again making his appearance after dark in Grand Haven. Apparently this elusive individual is hard to catch, or possible the officers are dillitory in their duties or maybe the girls rather like it.

The Board of Trade wishes to interest Holland citizens with a $50,000 bonus fund. That in connection with Buchanan's flying machine ought to keep the air filled with factory rumors.

Anyhow it is less dangerous to have a Jack the hugger, than a Jack the ripper, or Jack, the clipper, or even a Jack with treacherous hind legs.

Though the duty on hides was dropped out in the new tariff the price of shoes is advancing. How do those who denounce protection as a breeder of high prices explain the rise in the cost of shoes that has quickly followed the free admission of hides?

New Motor Boat Law

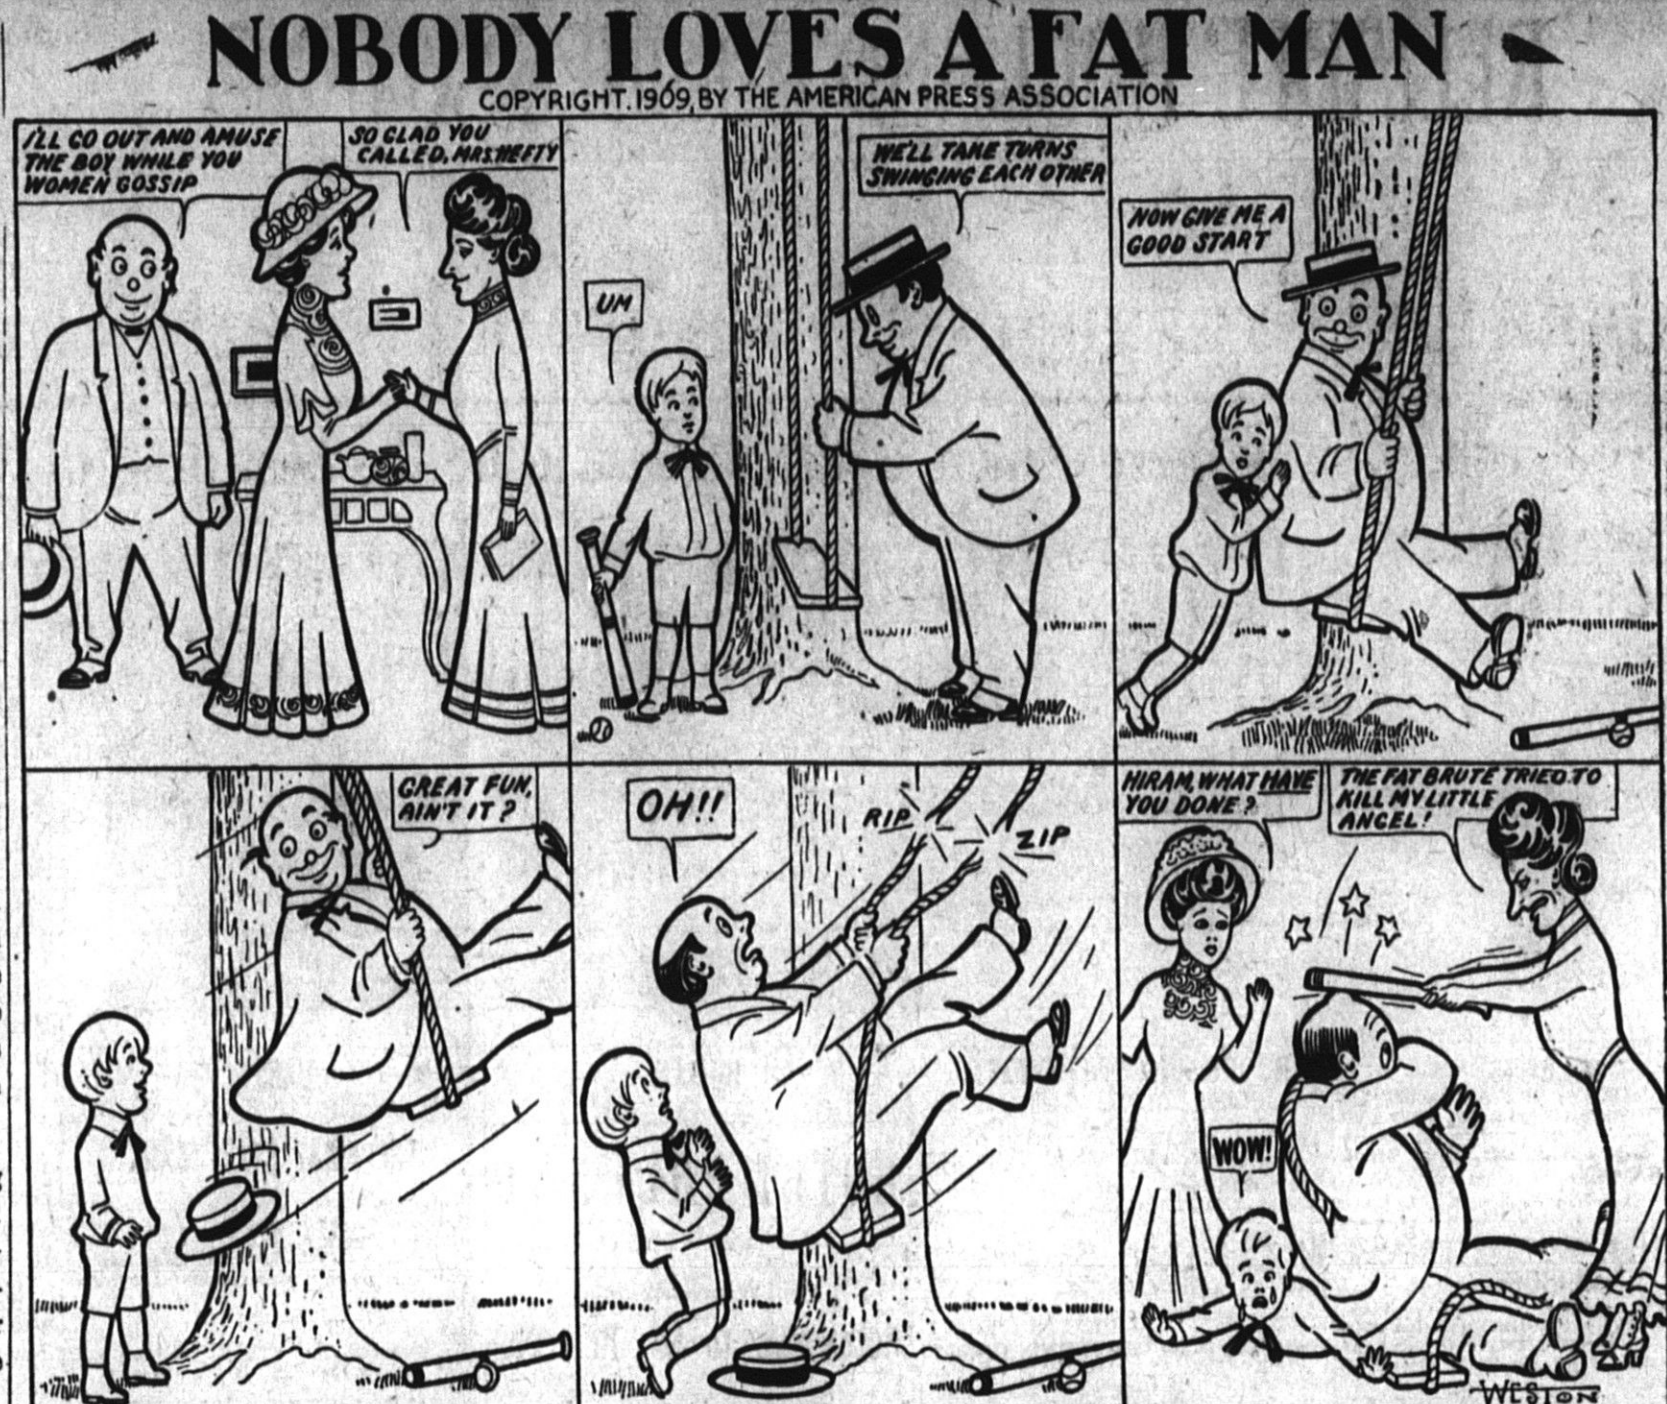

The new motor boat law as proposed in a bill introduced in Congress by Congressman Humphrey has stirred up motor boat owners to a high pitch, and from all accounts the bill will be strongly opposed. The bill is as follows:

"Every power boat over 35 feet long must carry the following equipment: a licensed pilot, a licensed engineer, a wireless operator, (if it goes more than 30 miles from shore and it is used for carrying passengers) line carrying projectile, wire less telegraph operator if boat is used for carrying passengers, and such additional local crew as the local board of inspectors may think it necessary."

A boat under 35 feet must carry at least one duly qualified person, who may, on passing the examination imposed by the proper official, be permitted to act as pilot and engineer.

Motor boat owners claim that if this bill becomes a law that it will kill the motor boat as a pleasure craft. This is a mistaken idea to say the least. In the writer's opinion it will not only increase the sport but will raise it to a higher standard and one of greater safety. The reason for the bill is to make careless people careful and ignorant people wise if this is possible. As it now is any one who has the price and the inclination to invest in a motor boat does so, and in operating his boat does so at not only the risk of his own life but the lives of others. How many motor boat owners know any thing about the rules of the road, which side to take and the blowing of the proper signals by whistle and the corresponding alteration of the helm? How many of them know the first thing about the compass, the chart and the lead? Notwithstanding that these are simple things, easily learned and spell safety, yet there is but a small percentage of motor boat owners and operators that take the trouble to inform themselves on these subjects. The object of the law is to make owners and operators learn a few things about the business that they will not learn only by compulsion. The getting of the license will not be such a hard matter and anyone is equal to it.

Outside of the license question the law will not affect the motor boat as a pleasure craft. The public demands that boats carrying passengers for hire must be manned by competent persons and that there may be sufficient life saving equipment on board in case of accident. If there is anything wrong and absurd with such a law the Advocate would like to have some one point it out. The writer is of the opinion that anyone who has ambition enough to buy a boat ought to have ambition enough to qualify himself as a competent operator of such a craft.—Sturgis Bay Advocate.

Missionary Conference

A conference in behalf of Home and Foreign Missions is to be held Thursday, Feb. 17, at Holland. There will be three sessions, the first beginning at 10 a. m. The forenoon and afternoon sessions will be held in Winants chapel and are to be devoted to the discussion of practical methods of missions in the local churches.

In the evening, beginning at 8 o'clock, there will be a more public meeting in Carnegie hall. The speakers will be Rev. S. M. Zwemer, of Arabia, Field Secretary of Foreign missions and Rev. James I. Vance of Newark, N. J., Pres. of the Board of Domestic Missions of the Reformed church. Drs. Zwemer and Vance are in the very front rank of platform speakers on mission subjects.

Though the prime purpose of the Conference is to arouse and stimulate mission interest among men, we heartily invite the ladies to attend all the sessions, but especially the evening session.

Arrangements have been made with the Holland Interurban for an excursion rate of 50 cents between Grand Rapids and Holland, and with the Muskegon Interurban for a rate of 75 cents between Muskegon, or Grand Haven, and Grand Rapids, providing a sufficient number of passengers can be secured.

In behalf of the conference committee, A. Oltmans, Secretary.

County Roads Meeting

A road institute for Ottawa, Kent, Ionia and western Allegan counties will be held on Tuesday, Feb. 8, in the court house at Grand Rapids. A representative of the Michigan State Highway department will give information to all those interested in the betterment of the public highways. The farmers of the vicinity are invited to attend. Per diem and expenses for a day spent at the county roads meeting will be allowed to county commissioners and township highway commissioners.

Seminary News

The Adelphic Y. M. C. A. met last Tuesday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Dubbink. The paper for the evening was in charge of Dr. Zwemer. Its subject was The Work of the Reformed church at McKee, Ky.

Geo. Hankamp of the Senior class has the promise of a call from the Reformed church at Hamilton.

The Seminary will be represented next Sunday as follows: B. De Young, Decatur; G. Hankamp, Otway, Iowa; H. B. Mollema, Muscatine, Iowa; C. Muller, Hamilton; M. A. Stegeman, So. Blendon; J. J. Bonus Offer System

Since the bonus offer system has worked highly satisfactorily for Holland in bringing several large industries to the city, board of trade committees are at present ascertaining popular feeling as to the question of again bonding the city for $50,000. Investigation has been left in the hands of the combined ways and means and industrial committees, whose report, if favorable, will be taken up with the council, backed by the endorsement of the board of trade members.

To Dr. J. J. Mersen and Con De Pree, chairmen of the banquet and program committees, were left the arrangements for the annual banquet. The proposition to publish a souvenir booklet of Holland views was voted down.

The board took notice of the acceptance of its proposition to John Buchanan, the local airship inventor. Mr. Buchanan expects to commence the building of his airship after he has procured his patents and it will take from two to three months to build the machine which is different but superior to any other out. The ship can be folded and weighs about 500 pounds and has an engine of 36 horse power. The motor weighs only 97 1/2 pounds and is of the gyroscope model, which always keeps the machine in balance.

Schools Begin Second Semester

All the city schools have entered upon the second semester work with the same teaching force except Van Raalte avenue school, where Miss Clara Baker takes the Fourth grade and the Maple Grove school, where Mrs. C. Wabeke will take charge of the Six grade. The teachers committee is trying to secure a teacher to take the place of Miss Hackett, who has accepted a superior position in the East.

The Kindergarten has been opened to children who will be five years old before June 1 of this year, and instead of having the children enter the school in the spring, school authorities are very anxious to secure a full enrollment at once. About 125 youngsters were promoted into the first grade at the end of the term last week.

Miss Vera Kleinheksel Dead

A pall of gloom settled over city and college circles yesterday morning, when tidings came from the quiet home at 78 East Twelfth St., that Miss Vera Kleinheksel, the only daughter of Prof. and Mrs. J. H. Kleinheksel, after an illness of more than nine weeks, had passed away.

The battle with death was a brave one, the lingering hopes of parents, brothers and friends often growing strong for her recovery. However, yesterday morning at 8.30 o'clock she passed away peacefully. Besides her parents she is survived by three brothers, Paul who was called from Chicago, and Frank and Lewis.

A most popular young lady, lovable and gentle of character, the loss of Miss Kleinheksel is felt most keenly by many city and college friends. She was a favorite with her classmates of the Sophomore class at Hope college and with the members of the Sorosis Literary society. The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence.

Tomorrow night the debaters of the Fraternal and Cosmopolitan societies will clash in a public debate in the rostrum of Winants Chapel. Warnshuis, Luidens and Yntema will uphold the Fraternal side, the negative, while Heemstra, Vis and Abbink have been chosen to defend the affirmative for the Cosmopolitans. Dr. Steffens, Principal Bishop, and Mr. George P. Hummer will judge both the merits of the debaters individually, and those of the teams. The three best men will represent Hope College in the intercollegiate debate at Olivet in April. The losers must debate the Knickerbocker Society, for which Dame, De Motts and J. Vrwink will bring up the arguments. The winners from this debate will meet the Alma team at home.

NO REASON FOR IT

When Holland Citizens Show the Certain Way Out

There can be no just reason why any reader of this will continue to suffer the torture of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the dangers of diabetes of any kidney ills when relief is so near at hand and the most positive proof given that they can be cured. Read what a Holland citizen says:

Thomas Boven, lumber salesman of 151 W. Fourteenth street, Holland, Mich., says: "For some time I was afflicted with kidney complaint and I suffered severely from pains in the small of my back. My head ached intensely at night and I was subject to dizzy spells. The least cold I caught settled in my kidneys and made me feel worse. Some time ago I commenced taking Doan's Kidney Pills and in a week they relieved me. The contents of one box effected a cure and I now have no trouble whatever from my kidneys."

Synopsis

CHAPTER II—Judith Bartelmy, society woman, goes to the office of the Daily Advance to protest against a story which had severely criticized her father, a judge of the United States court. She discovered that the author of the article was Wheeler Brand, a brilliant young writer whom she had promised to marry. He refused to cease attacking her father. II—Judith discards her engagement ring. Dupuy, a lawyer, representing big advertisers, calls and demands Brand's discharge, as his clients are friends of Judge Bartelmy. III—Brand is discharged by the managing editor, for the paper, long owned by an insurance company, had been friendly to corporations. Michael Nolan, who buys the paper, comes in the office and finds Dupuy to be an old enemy of his. IV—Nolan calls for Brand and makes him manager editor. V—Brand tells Nolan and his socially ambitious family that the dishonest judge Bartelmy, and his unsuspecting daughter have taken them up socially so as to try to induce Nolan not to attack the judge in his newspaper. I

Bartelmy was showing not the slightest hesitancy at using his beautiful and accomplished daughter as a decoy in his plottings. In the first place, he desired that she should marry Wheeler Brand, hoping that the young reformer's zeal against him would disappear; secondly, by prevailing on her to pay attention socially to the Nolan family he was confident that the owner of the Advance would capitulate and become his friend. As for Judith, she little comprehended the entire significance of her father's attitude, and if she had, her frank, genuine nature, which revolted at trickery and deceit, would not have permitted her to continue to do his bidding. She admired and loved her father.

She knew that her mother before her had aided her father in his work and ambitions to a considerable extent, and now that her mother was no longer alive she felt it her duty to fill her place in every possible way. After all, she had only a young woman's knowledge of the ways of men in the business and professional world, and she could discern in the attacks on her father nothing beyond what he himself had taught her to believe—that they were the efforts of envious men or ignorant reformers or misguided fanatics, who assailed him entirely without just cause. However, it would seem that the judge would in clouds. The air up there makes your nose bleed; but, by the Eternal, you see all that's going on down here."

There was much "going on down here" that Bartelmy by all means preferred to have remain unseen, yet he managed to reply, with an attempt at sincerity:

"More power to you, Wheeler! More power to you!"

Nolan stepped toward the jurist.

"You're a generous foe, Judge Bartelmy," he said warmly, deceived by the smooth tactics of the judge.

"Foe? That's hardly the word," responded Bartelmy, and with deference: "Wheeler and I merely energize differently. He is dynamic; I am static, and that is because he is young and I am old."

"He'll outgrow that, Judge. You never will," remarked Dupuy, crossing to Nolan's side.

"But under every system of free government," pronounced Bartelmy in his best judicial manner, "there have al-able then to put his wife and daughter in the way of gratifying their desires. Sylvester, too, would be benefited in whatever business career he should take up, and the membership would enable him to meet and make his personal friends the most prominent men of the city—the men he naturally craved to associate with—on terms of equality. Then he spoke:

"Really, Judge," he said warmly, "that's something that I never expected to hear from your lips."

"Not at all; not at all! I shall be delighted to put you up, and Dupuy will second me."

"With pleasure," bowed the lawyer.

Nolan hesitated over his final reply. He remembered what Brand had stated regarding the attentions of Judge Bartelmy and his daughter. Probably this offer was a trick, a bribe, and it did not improve the situation to have Dupuy brought into it by the jurist as a second of his nomination. Still, the idea came into his head—if he accepted it he did it with his eyes open; he need not necessarily change the policy of the Advance toward certain public men. Thus he reasoned, and still there lingered within him an insidious desire, even a prompting, in view of the advantages for himself and his family, to accept at all hazards, under any circumstances.

"Thank you, gentlemen, thank you," he said, temporizing, in an endeavor to gain time before actually committing himself. He glanced across the room at Wheeler Brand, wondering how he was accepting the situation. Brand took a quick step forward, straightened himself stiffly and shot a glance of warning over the shoulder of Bartelmy, whose back was turned to him. Nolan nodded his head slightly to show that he understood. Dupuy caught the interchange of signals, and he glared malignantly at the young managing editor. He saw that Brand would do his utmost to swing Nolan away from the subtle snare. Nolan addressed the judge, "I'll think it over—and thank you once more."

Bartelmy and Dupuy started toward a door.

"Now, if you will excuse us, Dupuy and I will join the ladies," said the jurist. "Wheeler, you're not going away yet, eh?" he added.

Brand moved toward the hall door and ignored the query.

"What's your hurry, Wheeler?" asked Nolan as Bartelmy and Dupuy disappeared.

"Oh, it's time to get back to the office."

"H-m! What's the trouble?"

"What's the use of talking about it?"

"Come, get it off your chest."

"I don't have to tell you, Mr. Nolan."

He drew closer to his employer.

"You think Mike Nolan is going back on you—isn't that it?"

The young man's voice rang out in his deep disappointment that Nolan was lingering on the verge of an acceptance of Bartelmy's offer, which could mean only two things if his employer yielded, and these were the musing of the Advance and the silencing of Brand as long as he remained on the paper. He blamed Nolan bitterly for failing to spurn the offer outright on the moment.

"Do you think you can accept favors from Bartelmy with one hand," he cried, "and knife him with the other?"

Nolan gave a spirited but kindly reply:

"Hold your horses, Wheeler. You know I don't care anything about this social stunt for myself. It doesn't fit into my life, but remember I've got a family, and nothing comes ahead of them. Mother and I may have a jangle now and then; but, after all, we have been side partners for a good many years. And my girl! There ain't a finer educated or a prettier girl in New York, and she ought to be able to go anywhere, but she can't in this town—this cold man's town. Then, of course, there's Sylvester. I know he ain't as bright as he might be, and I've spent—well, more than twice your salary trying to get him through freshman year at Harvard, and I couldn't, but still he's my son, and if he wants to run around with these other sports, why not? I can afford it, and I guess the kid's got to sow his wild oats anyway. My wife and children ought to be happy with the money I've got, and, as I figure it, if I join this Oak Door club I can help them to get what they want. Do you follow me, Brand?"

"Yes, I understand," sighed Brand. "At first you took up the side of the people, and you are continuing at it. But you and your family have become ambitious, or, at least, so far as you are concerned, you are ambitious for them. When you begin to associate familiarly with rich men as their friend you'll soon find yourself playing golf or billiards with one, drinking whiskey with another, and your son will marry the daughter of a third. You will forget all about the people. Your paper will become decadent and feeble. The circulation will dry up." He paused for breath and added warningly in strong tones, "The Advance is now at its zenith, but its decline begins the very day that you are elected to the Oak Door club."

Notes of Sport

The Holland Midgets defeated the Olympia Midgets at basket ball the score being 36 to 13. The boys in the lineup are John Diekema, Harold Lage, Wm. Van Putten, John Whelan, Carl Smith and John Slagh.

The shoe factory indoor team defeated the Veneers by a score of 18 to 3, with Manager Fred Tilt of the shoe factory in the box. They are now champions of the Lyceum League without doubt.

The new indoor base ball team organized in Zeeland are called the Independents, and consist of the following players: Thurston, Slab bekorn, Miller, Ed Hendricks, De Kruif, De Koster, Doc Van den Berg, B. Eding, Korstge, V. Driel, F. J. Titus and Nick Piepers.

The Manhattans of Grand Rapids were defeated by the Interurbans Friday by a score of 15 to 3, in a game of indoor base ball. Peterson secured 14 and Gelder for the Manhattans 15 strikeouts, but 18 hits are registered against him. The next game for the Interurbans will be with St. Joseph, tomorrow evening.

By a score of 33 to 23 the Macatawa basketball team defeated the Olympias last Friday night in a fast game at Jenison Park, the big lake resorters displaying the better team work. In a lively preliminary, the Holland Midgets overwhelmed the Olympia Midgets by a score of 54 to 7. Carl Smith of the local youngsters piling up 36 points.

In a fast game, exciting from start to finish, the Hope College basketball five last Saturday night defeated the Chicago Hull House team by a score of 36 to 27. The windy city quintet started with a flash and got the lead of the locals, but the college boys soon fell in a steady swing and in the first half piled up a score of 14 points against Hull House 8. Captain Veenker did the starring in this half. The second half was fought even harder, but the Chicago players were evidently outclassed by the crack college team. Close guarding by Henry Vruwink and M. Verberg and the phenomenal playing of John Vruwink at center and the stunts by "Big" LaVan who in the latter part of the game was relieved by H. Stegeman finished the game with a score of 36 to 27. Walf and Labon starred for the visitors. Field goals: Veenker 4, LeVan 3, J. Vruwink 4, H. Vruwink 3, Stegeman 1; Labon, Wallson, Walf 2. Referee, W. W. Wren, of Grand Rapids. Umpire, Dr. White, of Chicago. As a curtain raiser the Hope College second team played and defeated the Holland High school five. Next Wednesday night the college team plays the Brinks of Grand Rapids, by whom they were beaten when out of condition.

The sweaters which were ordered for the members of the basketball High school squad have arrived, and are being worn for the first time this week. The sweaters are white and bear the letter "H" in orange, although only Capt. Harriet Notier will be honored with the letter this time. When the team is finally picked, the other members will also be allowed to wear the school letter upon the sweaters. At least $30 remained from the sale of carnations and McKinley tags from Saturday's sales after the expenses were paid.

Having played some wonderful ball in New York and Cleveland last season, Neal Ball, of local base ball fame, is the object of attention of Manager Smith of the Buffalo club. The Bisons have already secured Chas. Starr from Philadelphia to hold down either second or short and are quite confident to book Ball for infield.

With local wrestling enthusiasts and out-of-town sportsmen, who have chartered a special car for the evening, Lyceum Rink will be pretty well taken up tonight, when John Novik, the local fighter of rising prominence, grapples with P. L. Ream, the mysterious engineer of Saugatuck. Ream holds a record of 42 victories, having been beaten only by Rudwick, the Polish wrestler, and Champion Frank Goch. Jimmy McCarthy and Young Perches will go six rounds in the preliminary, and John Wirth of Grand Rapids will take the place of Johnny Vos, who was scheduled to go six rounds with Jimmi Hall of the Valley City, in the semi-windup.

The West Michigan Sluggers found little difficulty in defeating the Ottawas of the Auditorium in a slow game by a score of 17 to 8. Prins and Van den Berg performed for the winners and Westerhoff was in the box for the Ottawas.

All Skin Troubles

Are overcome by using Dr. Bell's Antiseptic Salve. It is as pleasant to use as pure cream and is guaranteed to give satisfaction. 25c a box.
