JCC Will Sponsor Movie Premiere Here February 14

Bond Sales to Honor
Local Men in Service;
Names to Be on Poster

Another motion picture premiere to promote the sale of war bonds in Holland will be held Monday, Feb. 14, at 9:15 p.m. in Holland theater, sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Theater Manager Henry Carley announced today.

The picture to be previewed will be "Destination Tokyo," starring Cary Grant and John Garfield. A Bob Hope picture was previewed here during the third war loan drive last September.

Harry Beekman, vice-president of the Junior chamber and chairman of the premiere committee, pointed out today that the purpose of the February premiere is to call attention to the local fighting men. "Instead of a person buying a bond in order to see a picture, the purchaser may 'dedicate' the bond to one of Holland's fighting men," Beekman explained. "A large poster of the theater's seating arrangement will be on display in the theater lobby, and names of the soldiers honored by bond purchases will appear in the spaces designated as seats."

Purchase of bonds in denominations of $25, $50, $100, $500 and $1,000 will admit the person to the premiere. All seats will be reserved.

Sales of the tickets will open Monday at the following places: Holland theater, Holland State bank, People's State bank, Ottawa County Building and Loan association and the post office.

The Holland High School band under the direction of Eugene Heeter will provide music before the picture.

Humorist's Wit Amuses Guests At C-C Banquet

Joe Himself Advises
Smiles and Laughter
To Make Better World

The homespun wit of Joseph L. (Joe Himself) Andrews, Corning, N. Y., humorist who advised smiles and laughter to make a better world kept 450 guests amused for a full hour Wednesday night at the annual banquet of the Holland Chamber of Commerce in Holland armory.

Speaking on the subject, "Why Not Smile?", the humorist, who is regarded by many as a successor to the late Will Rogers, did not follow any definite outline, but chose to reveal his philosophical convictions in stories and jokes, using Holland names freely.

Joe Himself, according to Toastmaster Marion de Velder, had engaged in the candy manufacturing business for many years, selling out in 1929. Since then he has been devoting his time giving humorous talks, mostly after-dinner speeches to all kinds of gatherings.

At times speaking with a drawl, but for the most part employing a rapid patter, Joe Himself told dozens of stories ranging from the political to the religious, mostly about the good common people like those in Holland—"The kind that this world needs more of."

The humorist who made a tour of Holland Wednesday and met many of the citizens, said it was not necessary to tell the Chamber of Commerce what to do to improve the town—"you have already done it." The only advice he could offer was the title of the booklet which Secretary-Manager E. P. Stephan published recently, "Keep Holland Ahead."

"What this old world needs is a sense of humor and the ability to smile. When we lose our sense of humor, it's the danger point," Joe warned, "and a sense of humor is a dog-gone good thing to have in a country like this."

Adding a note of pathos, he related the story of a little English girl who played one night, "And God, please keep our house from being bombed, and dear God, please take care of Yourself because if anything happens to You, we'd all be sunk."

Impressing the blessings of free speech and the privilege of exercising a sense of humor, Andrews told the story of Churchill and Hitler fishing on opposite sides of the river, Churchill making a big catch and Hitler getting none. Answering Hitler's query, Churchill said, "Yes, there are just as many fish on your side of the river, but they're afraid to open their mouths."

Presented with a pair of suitable inscribed wooden shoes at the close of the evening, Andrews quipped, "I'll wear 'em and I'll wear 'em as I will, and the scent of Holland will stick to them still." The presentation was made by President Clarence L. Jaiving who introduced special guests at the start of the program and gave a resume of activities and aims of the organization.

Mr. Jaiving who paid a fine tribute to Secretary-Manager E. P. Stephan spoke of the war and said he had three sons and a daughter in the service. He urged firmer backing of the fourth war loan drive, adding he was sorry that Holland so far has been lagging in individual sales. He mentioned postwar planning and said the important thing is for all fighting men to be provided with jobs on their return from the battlefield.

He quoted Speaker Sam Rayburn's statement, "There are no calories in confetti." "These boys will want jobs and it is up to industry to furnish these jobs and I don't mean WPA."

The Wolverine quartet of Grand Rapids presented a musical program of seven selections.

Toastmaster de Velder, pastor of Hope Reformed church, displayed wit in his stories and introduction comparable to Joe himself. The Rev. Bastian Kruthof of First Reformed church gave the invocation. Serving of the dinner by women of Sixth Reformed church began not long after 6:15 p.m. The program opened with the audience singing the "Star Spangled Banner" and closed with "America."

Special guests at the banquet were Harold MCB. Thurston, president of the Muskegon C. of C., and Mrs. Thurston; Almon McCall, president, and E. T. Cameron, secretary-manager of the Grand Haven C. of C.; Jack Axe, Allegan C. of C. president, and Mrs. Axe, and Arthur W. Hartley, Allegan C. of C. secretary and Mrs. Hartley; James De Pree, president of the Zeeland C. of C., and Mrs. De Pree, Cornie Karsten, Zeeland C. of C. secretary, and Mrs. Karsten; Harry F. Watter of the Michigan Manufacturers' association, former Holland chamber secretary, and Mrs. Watter.

Celebration for Returning Vets

Also to Start Shaping Centennial Fete; Wage Increases Requested

Common council at a meeting Tuesday afternoon authorized appointment of two committees, one to begin plans for the 100th anniversary of Holland to be celebrated Feb. 9, 1947, and the other to arrange a reception for the men of Holland's original Co. D who, according to widely circulated newspaper stories last week, may be expected home soon. This group has been overseas nearly 22 months.

Mayor Henry Geerlings appointed Ald. Bernard De Pree, chairman, L. Phillip Van Hartesveldt and Henry Te Roller to serve as the centennial committee, and Ald. Bertal Slagh, chairman, John Bontekoe and Donald Sligher for the reception committee for Co. D.

Mayor Henry Geerlings today added the names of several World War I veterans, all of whom have sons in the service, to the committee named Wednesday to arrange a reception for the boys of Holland's original Co. D when they return home from service.

Representatives of the American Legion post include Arthur Prigge, Louis B. Dalman, Frank Miller, Ed Slooter and A. E. Van Lente. From the VFW post will be Shud Althuis and Paul Wajohn.

Holland's governing body met late Tuesday afternoon instead of on its regular meeting date tonight because of the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet scheduled at 6:15 p.m. in the armory.

Cornelius Vander Meulen, treasurer of the Netherlands Pioneer and Historical foundation which was founded seven years ago in connection with Holland's 90th anniversary, said the city has celebrated each year since 1937, always looking forward to the centennial in 1947. He said the Reformed Church in America appointed a committee at general synod last June to cooperate with the foundation directors. He expressed the belief that three years hence the country no longer will be at war.

In disposing of a communication signed by H. Geerlings requesting that council make provision in the next budget for an increase in wages of 10 cents per hour for employees in all city departments, council approved Ald. Herman Mooi's motion that inasmuch as council does not recognize a union, the communication be tabled and each department take up pay increases with its department head. The motion was voted on despite Ald. Phil Van Hartesveldt's protest that there was no mention of a union in the communication.

Lester Overway, president of AFL local 515 which he said takes in about 95 per cent of the city employees, was present and offered no comment during the meeting but said afterward that the pay increase question likely would be referred to the department heads. Geerlings is secretary of local 515.

Premier Showing Of New Dutch Film Scheduled Feb. 8

Anniversary Program Picture Will Include Sequence of Holland

A premier showing of the new film "The Dutch Tradition," will be the principal feature of the program Tuesday night, Feb. 8, in Holland high school auditorium, marking the 97th anniversary of the founding of the city and the seventh anniversary of the Netherlands Pioneer and Historical Foundation. It was announced today by Mrs. Alonzo Bell, in charge of program arrangements for the museum committee of the Woman's Literary club.

Of particular interest in the film is a sequence of Holland, Mich., scenes showing the transplantation of the Dutch tradition to the United States. In this portion of the film are local views and local persons, including shots made in and around Holland.

When the film has its first public showing in the midwest here at the anniversary program, local residents may get some idea of the story of this city that is being carried throughout the world, according to Willard C. Wichers, director of the midwest division of the Netherlands information bureau. The film was produced by the bureau in cooperation with the Canadian film board, which made versions with sound track in both French and English, and is now showing it throughout Canada.

John Ferno, head of the film production unit of the information bureau, edited the American version of the film so capably that 140 copies have been acquired by the armed forces for showing to American troops in this country and abroad. The office of war information has placed its seal on the production and prepared for exhibition of 70 copies of educational groups and between 100 and 300 copies more will circulate in other channels.

In addition to those distribution outlets, the British ministry of information has obtained rights for its exhibition in the dominions and colonies, and the film will be immediately circulated throughout the British Isles, South Africa, Australia and the Middle East.

Other films showing activities of the United Nations are being selected by the committee to supplement the program, Mrs. Bell said. In addition to the motion pictures, there will be music by the American Legion band, under the direction of Eugene Heister, with vocal music directed by Miss Gladys Moore. A color guard from the army specialized training unit at Hope college will take part in the ceremony, "advance of the colors."

An officer of the Netherlands foundation will give a brief report on the activities of the foundation and the Netherlands museum in 1943.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. W. Curtis Snow, organist, played appropriate selections and accompanied Miss Marjorie Brouwer, soloist.

The bride, who approached the altar on the arm of her father who also gave her in marriage, wore a lovely classic gown of white silk jersey draped into a closely fitted bodice featuring a deep V-neckline.

Simplicity marked the dinner gown of shell pink crepe worn by Miss Persis Parker of Buffalo, N. Y., who was maid of honor. The same simple dignity was carried out in the gowns of glacial blue crepe worn by bridesmaids Miss Norma Lemmer of Kalamazoo and Miss Jean Brummel of Holland.

Morris Tardiff of Holland assisted Mr. White as best man. Seating the guests were Willard Pelgrim, brother of the bride, Don Lievens, Lt. Harward Nevenzel, Pfc. Ray Van Ommen and Pfc. Bill Tappan.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Pelgrim chose a dinner gown of pale aqua crepe accented by a corsage. Mrs. A. Leenhouts and Mrs. H. Pelgrim, grandmothers of the bride, also wore corsages as did Mrs. H. Smith, the groom's grandmother. White boutonnieres were worn by the bride's grandfathers.

Following the ceremony a reception for 200 guests was held in the church parlors elaborately decorated for the occasion.

During the reception Miss Vivian Tardiff and Miss Lois Mary Hinkamp presided at the punch bowls. They were assisted by Miss Barbara Lindeman and Gordon Meuseus. A two-course lunch was served by waitresses Jean Snow, Janet Snow, Faith Den Herder, Dorothy Ann Van Zoeren, Connie Ringa, Peggy Prins and Betty Ranger and waiters Bill Pelgrim, Bill Hinga, Bill De Kruij, Jim Lamb, Peter Van Domelen Jr., Dale Drew and Donn Lindeman.

Misses Peggy and Merry Hadden, cousins of the bride, were in charge of the gift room, Master and mistress of ceremonies were Mr. and Mrs. Marvin C. Lindeman who on Friday evening entertained the bridal party at dinner in the Warm Friend tavern preceding the wedding rehearsal at the church.

Both bride and groom have lived in Holland all their lives and are graduates of Holland high school. Sheriff's officers said today they would call to the attention of state traffic engineers the dangerous curve on M-21 at the eastern approach to Holland where three accidents have occurred since the middle of October.

The latest accident occurred about 4:30 a. m. Monday when a car driven by Hollis Tiffany, route 2, Greenville, an evangelist minister en route to Chicago for further study at the Moody Bible Institute, crashed into the guard cables on the south side of the road just opposite Vandenberg's service station. The cables held the car from going over the embankment into the creek.

Tiffany was accompanied by his wife, Mildred, and Miss Ruth Reynolds of the United Memorial hospital in Greenville. Behind the car was a two-wheeled trailer loaded with supplies and equipment for light housekeeping. The front end of the car and one of the rear fenders were damaged. CONCRETE DAIRY IMPROVEMENTS can help American increase food production

The Department of Agriculture has urged greatly increased milk production to meet the needs of the United Nations for dry milk, butter, cheese. Concrete improvements—such as a new milk house, cooling tank, dairy barn floor, granary, manure pit or storage cellar—will help many farmers do a bigger production job. Concrete improvements are durable, sanitary, cost little to build, last for generations. Concrete farm jobs require a minimum of critical materials. If you need help, get in touch with your concrete contractor or building material dealer.

Among articles already lined up for sale are bed-spreads, a high-chair, dresses, an inner spring mattress and dishes.

A bond booth also will be set up for those who wish to buy bonds and stamps. The club is arranging for a canteen, proceeds of which will eventually go for a movie-sound projector for the school. Each article should be labeled with the name and address of the owner together with the minimum price acceptable. 'Leper Meeting' Plans Announced by Board

The annual prayer and praise service commonly known as the leper meeting of the federation of women's societies of the churches of Holland and vicinity, will be held in the Ninth St. Christian Reformed church on Friday, March 24 at 2 p.m. This will be a celebration of the 25th anniversary of the organization, founded in 1919 by the late Mrs. C. V. R. Gilmore. It is also in recognition of the 20th year of the support of the leper work in Inhambane, Portuguese East Africa.

Speaker for the occasion will be Dr. Bernadine Siebers who has been for many years on the staff of Dr. Ida Scudder's college and hospital in India and has had experience in roadside clinics to which lepers always come. Dr. Siebers is now in Ann Arbor preparing for further work at Velore. Besides the afternoon meeting, an evening meeting of interest to the children will also be arranged.

Preparations for the praise service were made at the winter session of the federation board held in the class room of the Central Ave. church Monday afternoon. Representatives from 42 churches answered to the roll call by the secretary, Mrs. D. Vander Meer. Two new organizations became members, Drenthe Christian Reformed church and the Salvation Army.

The opening moments were poignant with reminders of the late Mrs. E. V. Hartman, president of the federation at the time of her recent death. Tribute was paid to her memory by Mrs. P. E. Hinkamp, vice-president, who led the devotional service and quoted favorable texts of the deceased. Her chosen hymns also were sung by the audience.

Resolutions of appreciation of the late president and also of another member of the executive committee who was taken by death, Mrs. Otto Kramer, were read by Mrs. A. B. Ayers and passed unanimously by the gathering. A letter from Dr. C. J. Stauffacher, with personal greetings to the workers, was read by the chairman who commented on the success of the work this year in that 20 lepers had become Christians.

Woman's Club Stages Birthday Celebration

Members of the Woman's Literary club celebrated the anniversary of the club house dedication Tuesday afternoon with a gala program and tea which was arranged by the board of directors and members of the education committee.

Feature of the program was a series of original character sketches by Miss Harriett Allyn of Evanston, Ill., who from her background of radio and theatrical work produced a variety of personalities and situations which were highly interesting and amusing. Effects were achieved by use of a few props, a mere suggestion of costume, the entertainer relying on her facial expression and voice to bring her characters to life.

Impersonations included "The Party Line," a sketch of a "little Englishwoman," "Activities of Geraldine, a clerk in a Ten-Cent store," two scenes in a railway station, a mother returning from a vacation trip with five small children, and a foreign mother in mourning; "My Day at the Art Institute," or "a woman speaks informally on art," "A Typical New Yorker attends a band concert," and as a final impression, "The wife of a Montana rancher experiencing her first trip to Chicago and the elevated train. Encore numbers were the entertainer's impressions of three types of singers.

Snackdrinks, smilax and candles were used as decorations in the club house tearoom where members gathered for a social hour following the program. Past presidents of the club poured.

HOLLAND'S "LAST LEAF"

Reaching the astonishing age of 99 is something that is of course reserved for very few. The funeral therefore of Mrs. Jennie Saggars, Monday, was an event deserving attention because of its very rarity; such a thing does not happen once in a decade in any average community.

Extreme old age has often stirred the imagination of poets.
Louis Couperus, a novelist of the country in which Mrs. Saggars was born, once wrote a book called "Old People and the Things that Pass" in which he portrayed the mental life of not one but of two such old, old persons. And the poem of our own Oliver Wendell Holmes, "The Last Leaf," in which a Boston survivor from the Revolutionary war era in the mid-nineteenth century is described, is familiar to every schoolboy.

Mrs. Saggars was this community's "last leaf." It is curiously exciting to imagine the life of her mind during the closing years of nearly a century of living. When Holland's founder, Dr. A. C. Van Raalte, was leaving the Netherlands with his band of colonists, she was three years old. She did not follow that migration, with her parents, until she was eleven.
But when this growing child arrived in the forests of Michigan, most of the institutions that we think of as old had not yet come into existence. It was, for instance, two years before the first building was erected on the Hope College campus. Many, many men and women born years later, have passed through that institution, have given their period of service to the world as alumni, and have died, during the single span of the life of this 99-year-old citizen.
Perhaps there is no other way to get a realizing sense of what such a life span means than through comparison with the life of institutions on which moss has been gathering through the years.

Or the span of such a life can be measured in terms of national events. When Mrs. Saggars, as an eleven year old girl, arrived in her American home, the Civil war was still half a decade in the future. Abraham Lincoln was a still somewhat youngish lawyer-politician of 45 whose name had hardly penetrated to the consciousness of the Hollanders in their Michigan forest retreat.

In "The Last Leaf" the poet imagines the old, old man he describes looking back down the long, long road he has come. The friends of his youth are gone, and he is alone. He has his memories, but his real life is in the past.
The memories of Holland's "last leaf" were doubtless different from those of the mid-nineteenth century Revolutionary war survivor. But they were doubtless the same mingling of triumph and pathos that is inseparable from extreme old age.

THE CHURCH INVITES YOU

Even those not professing religious cannot fail to be impressed by the fact that the world's best sellers have had a Biblical basis or background as witness Ben Hur, In His Steps, The Robe,
The Apostle, One Foot in Heaven and others.

The tendency to read books having a religious basis indicates that the church having a religious basis ought to have a place in the program of the general public.
These best-seller books prove that religion can be interesting. What makes these books interesting makes the church interesting.
Why not accept the invitation and go to church next Sunday?

Jesus Feeds the Multitude
Mark 6:35-44; 8:1-9
By Henry Geerlings

It is significant that Jesus and His disciples were defeated in the plan they had for themselves. He had invited them to go with Him to some lonely spot where they might get a little rest. They were busy and tired and needed rest.
So they sought this place where they might relax and talk things over. But they were not to have their way about it. Some people saw their movements and discerned their purposes. They hurried away and came to the lonely spot before Jesus and his disciples did.
It was hardly fair that these eager and thoughtless people should rob Jesus and His disciples of their needed rest. It was cause for irritation and at least disappointment. We might have shown our feelings. Maybe we would have fretted and fussed and fumed against such thoughtless selfishness. We have demanded our right to seclusion and rest. Or we might have left the crowd and sought out another place where we could be alone and think our own thoughts and to do as we pleased for at least one hour.

But not so Jesus. Far from being angry and annoyed at the crowd we are told that at the sight of these eager and restless people He was moved with compassion upon them. They seemed to Him to have such hungry and sated souls. They seemed like homeless wanderers across the continent of time. They seemed like children who wanted something and they did not know what it was. They were without leadership and the interest of one who knew and cared. He saw that they had souls that were responsive to the great truths upon which their real selves lived and so He began to teach them at length.

This tired man—this man who had already poured out His soul upon the poverty of needed people—found new joy and new life in unfolding to this restless multitude the mysteries of the kingdom of God. We dare say that He forgot that He was tired, just as He forgot He was hungry when He was talking to the woman at Jacob's well. He had ever flowing resources and He tapped them and caused new streams of grace and truth to course into the starved areas of these hungry souls. This wonderful Jesus always had a heart of compassion for needy humanity. A crowd to Him was always an opportunity, not an annoyance, not an irritation, not a mere foolish aggregation of un-lovely and unlovable people. A crowd to Him was like the appeal of a crying child to its mother and He brooded over these people with divine tenderness.

Moffat says that He proceeded to teach them at length. Maybe He held them spellbound for a large part of the day in telling them about God and His love and about their own endless possibilities until they felt they were in a new world and the eyes of their souls were seeing wondrous sights.
Maybe He made the spiritual world seem to be so real to them that for some sweet moments they forgot their troubles and their sorrows—that they were citizens of a hard and trying world. A great teacher like Jesus rings bells in human souls and stirs their souls' spirits unto an unwonted sensitiveness to the best things of the world. We have no doubt that this crowd would ever forget this great day in their experience and they would live in a new world thereafter.

But the day is now drawing to a close. The disciples now become concerned about the physical hunger of the crowd. They introduce the bread problem in that out-of-the-way place. Let us not think that the disciples were concerned about this and Jesus was not. Jesus was, but he was not worried about it. He had as many resources with which to face the bread problem as He had with which to meet the soul problem.
He knew what He would do.

The disciples were disposed to follow the easiest way out for them. They would send them away to help or care for themselves. He put the disciples to the test. He proposed that instead of sending them food, He would throw them back upon their own responsibility and the consciousness of their ability that they might fall across His unfeeling ability. He would make them feel their insufficiency that they might come to see His all-sufficiency. By this method of procedure they became all the better cooperators with Him. By obeying Him they became living factors in the winning out of this stupendous miracle of the feeding of the multitudes.

And how do we know that by putting ourselves in the line of God's going and by becoming the obedient agents of His methods we are not helping him to work out mighty plans in his world today?
Are we not the human factors through which and by means of which the divine power expresses itself? All the time God may be behind the great silent operations of his world using us human beings in our seeming weakness and insufficiency as the media through which he works here.

If present plans do not fail Holland will soon have the distinction of having the only Dutch Socialist paper in the United States, according to a story appearing in the Monday, May 19, issue of the Holland Daily Sentinal published in 1913. The Socialist organization here is planning to establish an organ of this kind and steps have already been taken to start the venture.

The Model Drug store fountain did the biggest soda fountain business ever done in a day at one store in this city Saturday and as a result the High School Ath-

$50 and $60 to help pay off their debt of $90. About $20 in cash was taken in and 1475 tickets were redeemed.

On next Friday morning Dr. G.
J. Kollen will leave Holland for over and this morning the men returned to their work as usual, issue. Last night at a meeting of the strikers and the contractors an agreement was reached and for the present at least there will be no further trouble. By the terms of the agreement the striking carpenters will not get the raise they asked for at present but the hope is held out to them that they will be given 40c an hour at some future date.

Display Your Colors

Every patriotic home in America will want to display this emblem. Paste it on your front door or on a window to show that you have done your part in the 4th War Loan.

Show that you care...display your 4TH War Loan Sticker

Build Your Future With The World's Safest Investment

All over the country men and women look to the future with confidence. They are the ones who have put part of their extra wartime earnings into the world's safest investment—U. S. Government War Bonds.

Yes, they are helping their country in its grimmest struggle. But they are helping themselves, too! They are helping to secure their future, to weather any troubled days that may lie ahead.

What about you? Are you letting the dollars slip through your fingers—dollars that should be put safely away in War Bonds?

There are War Bonds to fit your needs... Bonds which are backed up by the strongest "company" in the world. Build that home you have always dreamed about. Send your child to college. Buy the wonderful things that are coming after the war. YOU CAN DO IT WITH YOUR WAR BOND SAVINGS.

YOU DIDN'T ask anybody to fight for you or die for you. Of course not. You ordered them to. You ordered them to make this sacrifice through your representative in Congress just as surely as if you had handed each of them a gun. Think that over.

There is only one decent thing to do for them in return. Bring them home as quickly as possible. That costs money—astronomical billions of dollars to convert all of our sons, brothers, and friends into the best fed, best dressed, best armed, hardest hitting fighting army in the world.

No one has ordered or will order you to buy Bonds. You are asked to invest in a Victorious America! You are asked to invest in at least one extra hundred dollar Series E War Bond in the 4th War Loan. That will cost you $75.00 and you get back at maturity $100.00, or $4.00 for every $3.00 you have invested.

Put that 4th War Loan Sticker in your window today. It shows that you have bought extra War Bonds during this drive. And don't stop with that extra $100 Bond. Give everything you've got—the men in uniform have.

Let's all BACK THE ATTACK!

Christian Loses To St. Mary's in Closing Quarter

Visitors Break Loose After Tie And Advance To 28 To 20 Victory

After holding on to a slim lead for three quarters the Holland Christian cagers fell before a determined Lansing St. Mary's assault in the final frame, 28-20, Thursday night in Holland armory.

The Maroons held a 7-4 lead at the end of the first quarter; a 15-14 point lead at the half and were barely behind, 20-19, at the end of the third.

In the final quarter Howie Beelen started the scoring by dropping a free throw and making the score 20-19. Then the Blues broke loose with a barrage of baskets which put the game on ice with about a minute and a half remaining. Bozzo, Gintner, Pizzo and Bozzo again dropped buckets in the last quarter to outscore the Christians, 8 points to 1.

Don Zwier, playing his last game for the Maroons, was high scorer with 8 points while Bill Kool was second with 6 points.

Jim Pizzo, despite the fact that he was pulled out of the game, midway in the second period because of three fouls, still led the Lansing scoring with 8 points. He returned to the game just before the end of the third canto.

The game was fairly clean but neither team found the hoop easy to hit from the free throw line. Holland missed seven out of 13 and Lansing missed six out of eight.

The Maroons' defense was stiff throughout and the St. Mary's boys did a good deal of their scoring on free balls. Man for man the locals looked like the better ball club but with the pay-off coming in the scoring column the Maroons were the poorer team.

The trouble with the local quintet seemed to be in the fact that their set-up plays were not working and when having to play on their own, they were almost helpless. With the score 28 to 20 against them the Maroons still pulled up slowly from the backcourt into set-up plays when some quick down the floor drive might easily have resulted in scoring.

Raise Sixty-Five Thousand at Bond Dinner in Tavern

Hollywood Actors Put Selves in Background; War Heroes in Front

One hundred and twenty-four guests representing bond investments totaling $65,000 attended the special bond dinner in the Warm Friend Tavern Thursday night and heard stirring stories of four war heroes, who related their experiences, and two screen personalities who assured the diners that they were not "stars" but just framework for the military representatives of the caravan which is touring three states, appearing in 27 towns in 15 days.

The uniformed guests in turn said they were not "heroes" but just representatives for the boys "over there" who are the "real heroes."

Capt. Kendall C. Scofield of Boston, Mass., attached to the first infantry task force to land in Australia and first to occupy New Caledonia, later reinforcing the marines on Guadalcanal, told a gripping story of American bravery, saying the soldiers, sailors and marines are willing to give all they have and then turn a bit sour when they hear stories of strikes at home and of people unwilling to buy war bonds.

Scofield in illustrating American bravery told the story of a young marine, perhaps 16 years old, but with the attitude of "I'm 21. Want to make something of it." This youngster was a jungle soldier covered with dirt and grime, uniform in tatters, who had gone four miles through Jap-infested jungles to get some army supplies for his marine company. The young marine who was suffering from "war neurosis" refused to spend the night at the army camp for badly needed rest saying, "If I don't show up there tonight, my buddies will start looking for me in the jungle and some might get killed!"

Unknown to the marine, Scofield sent a patrol to follow him and the youngster returned safely. However, on the return trip, one member of the patrol was killed. Scofield said he learned later that the marine's outfit was relieved a month afterward. "When you find people like that, it seems mighty funny to come back home and find that the home folks who have everything aren't doing their best!"

Scofield said soldiers place one-third of their income in war bonds. "It is true that those overseas have no place to spend it. The army bank offers 4 per cent interest, yet soldiers put their money into bonds because they believe in America."

Porter Hall, character actor, served as master of ceremonies and told several choice anecdotes. He said he was all prepared for Michigan's well known winter weather and found fog, rain and warm breezes. He was glad to be in Holland which is known far and wide as the "city of churches" and said in spite of his screen reputation as a killer he serves as a deacon in First Presbyterian church of Hollywood. He introduced Lois Andrews, 19-year-old actress, who introduced the service men and interviewed each briefly. Miss Andrews is best known in pictures in her role as Dixie Dugan. She said she was glad to be in Holland as she always had a secret desire to "get in Dutch."

First Lt. Ross Mitchell, pilot of a Mustang fighter which he says is the best fighter ship, briefly related of his experiences in five invasions in Africa, Sicily and Salerno. He spoke of one raid near Rome in which his ship was badly damaged by enemy fire. "Getting that ship to the home base 200 miles away wasn't due to my ability as a pilot, it is a tribute to the high quality of American planes."

First Lt. Paul Bob Sied, a navigator on a P-17 who shot down one Jerry and possibly two others, said the real heroes of this war are those who gave their lives and the mothers on the home front who sent them. Sied who served nine months overseas is the holder of 10 oakleaf clusters for his part in 15 missions. Miss Andrews pointed out that it is very unusual for a navigator to do any shooting.

Marine Staff Sgt. Willard (Willie) Arliss, 20-year-old aerial gunner who is a veteran of 22 successful missions, told of experiences on his last combat mission in the southwest Pacific in which the objective was a Jap airbase 301 miles from the home base. As it neared the airbase, the marine's plane started going down from 16,000 feet, and at 7,000 "the Japs threw everything at us but the kitchen sink." "Part of the wing was torn off, the landing device was jammed, the gun turret blasted and a 20-millimeter shell lodged in one of the engines, yet we got home." The spunky marine who told reporters later that he'd "rather face a mess of Japs than try to talk before a crowd of people" is the holder of the Air Medal.

For the bond dinner, Miss Andrews wore a street-length black dress, tiny black halo hat and carried a silver fox coat.

In stressing the importance of more and more bond purchases, Porter Hall said everybody believes in ultimate victory for America, but few can comprehend the terrific costs. In a bit of private research, Hall found that during Caesar's wars, it took $75 to kill a man; in the Napoleonic wars, $3,000 per man; in Civil war, $5,000 per man; World War I, $21,000 per man; and the present war, $50,000 figure is out for yourself. We're going to have to kill a lot of Japs and Germans, and we must provide the money. We can't let our boys down and we've got to stick to it until the job is done."

Hall also warned about the "Peace Now" movement promoted by a Harvard university professor. "If we declare peace before the job is done, we'll have another war in 20 years. Whenever you hear anybody talking about 'Peace Now' jump on him with both feet!"

Mayor Henry Geerlings welcomed the guests and Hotel Manager Chester S. Walz introduced Porter Hall. The invocation was given by Prof. Paul Hinkamp of Hope college. Tiny flags of the allied nations in a group on the speaker's table and a huge war promotion poster as background served as decorations. The group left at 9 a.m. today for Grand Rapids.

Boy Scout Week To Be Celebrated With Huge Rally

Event Planned Feb. 9 In HHS Gymnasium; Program Arranged

Boy scouts and cubs from 14 troops and 3 cub packs of the central district of the Ottawa-Allegan Boy scout council will assemble in the Holland high school gym Wednesday night, Feb. 9, to stage a huge rally in celebration of National Boy Scout week. Every troop and pack of Holland, Zeeland, Hudsonville, Saugatuck and Douglas will participate and the program will be one of interest to the parents and friends as well as to the boys themselves.

It is expected that nearly 500 scouts, cubs and adult volunteer leaders will join in the grand entry led by the massed flags of the United States. The Holland high school band, directed by Eugene Heeter, will furnish music.

After the posting of the colors and the opening ceremony of the pledge of allegiance to the flag, the group will rededicate themselves to the ideals of scouting which is an annual ceremony during Boy Scout week.

One of the features of the first part of the rally will be the presentation of membership certificates to six new Air scouts, the first to qualify in the Ottawa-Allegan council. This new Air scout squadron is sponsored by Third Reformed church of Holland, which also sponsors troop 7, John Van Eerden is squadron leader and Ben Plasman is assistant squadron leader. The Air scouts are Jack Barense, Roger Kempers, Ervin Knothuisen, Robert Post, George D. Zuidema and James Wojahn.

Several hundred scouts and former scouts of the council are now in the armed forces and Dr. A. Leenhouts, past president of the council and recipient of the Silver Beaver award, will pay tribute to these men.

A group of scout and cub games will be demonstrated with every troop and pack having a part in this program and the air scouts will present a special demonstration.

The part of the scouts and cubs in the war service will be depicted in a brief pageant emphasizing the projects which have been carried out.

The Jayhawk Ropers will present a program of rope spinning and trick roping with Don White, a member of the commissioner staff, in the role of chief command. He will be assisted by Dave White and Teddy Du Mez. This act is thrilling and is a credit to any big time rodeo show.

The final feature of the rally will be an entertainment by Jack Russell, stylist of deception, a magician with many clever tricks to mystify the audience. This feature will be of interest to all as Jack Russell is well known throughout the country as a magician of many accomplishments.

Members of Fellowship Group Attend Institute

Twenty-one members of the Youth Fellowship group of First Methodist church attended the Youth Fellowship institute of the Grand Rapids district Jan. 28-30 in the Central Methodist church in Muskegon. More than 300 members of the district were registered at the institute.

On the convention schedule were a banquet Friday night at which time the Rev. Wayne Fleener spoke on the subject, "Don't Be Foolish," claims and entertainment at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday, and a closing meeting Sunday noon at which time the Rev. Le Roy Robinson of the Central Methodist church was the speaker.

For the past two Sundays the local Fellowship group heard a book review, presented by Miss Beatrice Denton, on "The Land of the Good Shadow," by Aneta, which tells of the life of an Alaskan woman.

Relatives here today hoped that the men of the original Co. D of Holland would be included in the group of the 126th infantry now in the southwest Pacific area who may be homeward bound early in March, according to reports from Saidor, New Guinea.

Holland's company left here Oct. 25, 1940, with 65 men for training in Louisiana and in February, 1942, were ordered to Australia as part of the 126th infantry's 1,300 men. The 126th participated in the New Guinea campaign the latter part of 1942. Some of them were in the recent landing at Saidor and may still be in action.

According to reports, the first group from the 32nd division are scheduled to leave the first part of March under an 18 months' overseas order, soldiers to be returned on a monthly quota basis with preference given those with 6 months or more in tropical areas. Men of the 32nd division, known as Red Arrow men, who fought in the Buna campaign have had nearly nine months of tropical service.

When the men reach the United States they probably will be given leaves and then report for assignment to other army units in America.

Mrs. Henry Geerds of Holland, wife of Lt. Col. Geerds who headed the second battalion in the southwest Pacific area, said he mentioned the possibility in a letter a few weeks ago but said it was just a rumor and he couldn't write much about it. Co. D is part of the first battalion and not under Col. Geerds' command.

Col. Geerds, who suffered three heart attacks during the New Guinea campaign and who was out of active service about nine months, wrote that he sees some of the Holland boys occasionally. He left Australia about Dec. 1 but Mrs. Geerds said she does not know where he is located now.

There are only seven Holland men left in the original Co. D according to a letter from one of the soldiers recently. Maj. Henry Rowan of Holland said many of the Holland boys have transferred to other units. Nine of Holland's original group have been killed.

The size of the monthly quotas will determine the length of time necessary for return of all Wisconsin and Michigan men in the division. It is predicted that starting in March they will return in increasing numbers and that practically all who landed in Australia with the 32nd and served with it in New Guinea will be in the United States by next Christmas.

Another Contract To Shoe Concern

C. C. Andreasen, president of Holland-Racine Shoes, Inc., announced Saturday a March-April contract to make new army combat boots, valued at $307,300, has been awarded the firm. The shoes will be made at the Holland plant, which has been converted to army production of this type of shoe, instead of at the Racine plant, because of a critical labor shortage in Racine.

The company, through the Racine plant, has previously made 1,500,000 pairs of shoes of the No. 2 and 3 type for the army. The army, however, is converting entirely to the combat type boot, and the Holland plant will manufacture this type at a rate of 20,000 pairs a month.

Shoes for the navy have been manufactured at the Holland plant for the past year at the rate of 5,000 pairs a month.

An election set for Jan. 29 was canceled because of legal technicalities.

City Attorney Vernon D. Ten Cate said if Park township votes to offer the property to Holland for a stated amount, the city would have to call an election later, but he added that there has been no official action of any kind taken by the city as to the right or method of acquiring the airport.

He was in the battle at Guadalcanal and has seen action elsewhere, although his letters to Holland revealed little of what he had seen or done. The last letter received by his family was five weeks ago. His parents believe he may have seen action in the recent New Britain battle.

While in training here, Pfc. Dalman was given highest ranks as expert rifleman and marksman in pistol. Besides the parents he has a sister, Vivian at home. An uncle, Lieut. James C. Ottipoby, the only Indian chaplain in the U.S. army, is serving in New Mexico.

Harry has lived away from here since his college days at MAC (now MSC), but many recall him as a high school graduate here in the class with U. S. Crane, Harold Dickinson and others. He is a graduate of Cornell university and was a college professor in West Virginia. He has now given up teaching and is doing government work in connection with the NRLB.

A telephone call Tuesday morning from Mrs. Andrew Johnson of Monroe, informed Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnson that their son, Capt. Andrew Johnson, has been promoted to the rank of major. Controlling 90 per cent of the backboard balls and scoring on a fast revolving offense which had the Holland defense in a dither, a tall Kalamazoo Central basketball team handed Holland high school a 43-26 defeat in Holland armory Friday night.

It was the eighth consecutive win for Coach Max Johnson's crew and their sixth victory on an unblemished conference record. It was the fourth conference defeat for Holland.

The Kalamazoo boys were just too tall and fast for the locals as they piled on score upon score after a close first quarter which found Coach Malcolm Mackay's team leading, 11-10, at the one-quarter mark.

In the second quarter, with Don Groggel scoring 6 points and Bob Sauers and Erwin Fitzgerald connecting with buckets, the Giants took a 20-13 half-time lead. Holland scored only one basket in the second quarter.

During the third quarter the local cagers could manage only one free throw and the Maroons, led by Frank Gilman, with 3 two-pointers scored 14 points for a 34-14 lead at the end of the third period.

In the final frame, Holland outscored Kazoo 12 points to 9, but the lead the Maroons had built up was far too great for the locals to offset. However, the Dutchmen never gave up and were driving hard even in the last few minutes of play. According to a Kalamazoo writer the Holland quintet was a greatly improved club over the one the Giants had defeated earlier in the season.

Both teams found the hoop hard to hit even on free throws, but the law of averages kept the visitors in the lead as they peppered away with about twice as many shots as the locals.

Earl Folkert was the only man that could do anything in an offensive way for the Dutch and he scored 11 points. Jason Krikke, playing his last game for Holland, scored 4 points for second honors. Kenney De Waard, high scoring guard, had an off night and scored only 2 points.

Coach Max Johnson had a wealth of reserve material and used it freely against a very tired bunch of Dutchmen who were playing their hearts out against a far superior opponent.
