Blizzard Brings Big Drifts Here

Predictions of continued cold weather with temperatures dropping to 5 to 10 degrees tonight discouraged local residents who were somewhat unprepared for the raging blizzard which enveloped the area Wednesday night and today.

A snowfall of some three inches swept by fierce winds resulted in drifts of hard packed snow, some of them three feet high, which blocked roads and driveways.

The local street department was out in full force early this morning clearing the main streets aided by extra trucks and the new snow loader.

According to the Ottawa county road commission office in Zeeland, all highways are in good condition and county roads also are open. Several township roads are impassable. The north-south roads were somewhat more affected by drifts than the east-west roads.

At 11 a.m. today the official temperature was 19 degrees, compared with a high of 46 and a minimum of 28 Wednesday.

Cold blanketed most of the nation today with the exception of the extreme southeastern states where temperatures ranged in the 70's and 80's. A federal forecaster at Chicago said that the cold wave was centered over the Dakotas, western Minnesota, Nebraska and Iowa but would move eastward as the day progressed. Heavy snow was reported in lower Michigan and in Iowa. Snow and ice coated roads in the plains states where driving conditions were described as hazardous.

City to Send Two Men to Cleveland For Housing Units

Steffens, Maj. De Kruij To Report on Trip at Council Meeting Feb. 6

Common council at a special meeting Wednesday night authorized Ald. Ben Steffens and Major Jack De Kruij, an AAF officer home on terminal leave, to go to Cleveland to apply to the federal public housing authority for housing units for veterans to relieve the present housing emergency.

Steffens who had been named chairman at a meeting of representative citizens Monday night and Major De Kruij, who said he was a local pressure group of one since he also is interested in finding a house, were instructed to report on the result of their trip at the next regular meeting of council Wednesday, Feb. 6. De Kruij, formerly of Zeeland, is home after 34 years overseas with the 13th air force. Steffens presided.

Council also voted to use the tannery property as a site for the temporary housing which probably will consist of barracks or quonset huts. De Kruij suggested asking for 100 units.

The city's obligation in the temporary program includes a site with special regard for sewer, light and water facilities; provision for topographical survey, engineering services and grading plans; arrangements for construction; and possibly providing furniture and such movable equipment as refrigerators and electric ranges.

The FPHA will provide installation of foundations, transportation and erection of structures, extension of utilities from street mains to houses, extension of sidewalks to houses, necessary finish grading and ground cover, furnish fixed or movable equipment if available to FPFA, other than refrigerators, ranges or furniture.

De Kruij, who spent five hours studying Grand Rapids plan which expects 160 units within 60 days, suggested the Grand Rapids system be followed, with rentals paid to the city treasurer, the topography work done by the engineering department and the work done by private means or by employees of the city.

He emphasized that the program is entirely temporary, that all units must be torn down two years after the termination of the present emergency, the salvage to revert to the city.

He said rent would be determined by the FPFA and OPA. As an example he said renters of temporary housing units in Monroe paid an average of $32 a month which included laundry, janitor and other services.

He said the city's share in the cost of such a project could not be determined immediately but said Grand Rapids had earmarked $10,000 for its program begun Dec. 1 and estimated that Holland's project would be about half as large.

Gornelius vander Meulen, local veterans' counselor, said the housing problem has proved to be one of the largest headaches confronting returned veterans. He estimated that 300 homes are needed at present and said many discharges are planning to get married as soon as they locate homes or apartments. He said approximately 1,500 have returned home out of the 2,700 of Holland and vicinity in the service.

De Kruij said the campaign started last September by the Junior Chamber of Commerce was resumed Wednesday morning in charge of Clinton F. Diekmann. De Kruij said some of the persons contacted were very cooperative and courteous but that others reacted in a way that made him ashamed of some of the people of Holland. He said any renting of rooms to veterans by local home owners would be done on a personalized basis, with veterans making the contacts and arranging terms with the owners.

About 30 visitors, most of them representing organizations, attended the council meeting. The temporary housing program is backed by the Chamber of Commerce, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Lions club, Veterans' counseling agencies, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, local industries, UAW-GIO, AFL, merchants, realtors, contractors, ministers, Exchange club, Rotary club, public schools and Hope college.

Clothing Drive Will Be Staged Here in April

Mayor Elmer Schepers announced Monday that Holland will stage a used clothing drive in April with emphasis on the Netherlands, rather than participate in the current UNRRA drive, since the facilities of the army which was used as a clearing and packing center are not available at present.

Because of their excellent direction and organization in the drive last year, Willard C. Wichers and C. Neal Steketee have again been assigned to head the committee this year by Mayor Schepers.

Results of last year's drive in Holland were so successful that Holland was given national recognition by Henry J. Kaiser who headed the national drive. Holland and its environs collected over 80,000 pounds of clothing at the time, much of which was earmarked for the Netherlands.

Schepers said anybody wishing to contribute clothing at the present time for other overrun countries such as Poland and Italy may bring the contributions to the police or fire stations and arrangements will be made to have the clothing go out under the current UNRRA program.

Last year, the army was open for a week or more while clothing poured in from all directions.

Jonkman Urges Incorporation of Labor Unions

Washington, Jan. 31 — Rep. Bartel J. Jonkman of Grand Rapids is urging congress to adopt immediate legislation requiring the incorporation of labor unions, as a cure for the current trend in which he said New Deal advisors are conspiring with White House leaders to replace constitutional government and free enterprise with bureaucratic rule.

In a speech before the house, the Michigan representative also urged that the national labor relations act and other labor laws be amended in order to require both management and labor to respect human rights and property rights, and to assume responsibility for their obligations. He believes constructive union leaders and political leaders would welcome such changes.

In tracing the course of what he believes to be a continuance of the "conspiracy," Jonkman cited the "trial-balloon" statement that wages could and would be raised 50 per cent without increasing prices, for which William H. Davis was let out as head of the office of economic stabilization, although with explicit support from the president, who said, "About that aim there has never been any conflict of views."

Next, Jonkman cited the statement by Henry Wallace, a month before the General Motors strike, to the effect that government should help labor to win a 25 per cent increase in wages.

To top this off, declared Jonkman, President Truman in his wage-price policy speech of Oct. 30, backed up Davis and Wallace with a statement that he believed industry could afford substantial wage increases without raising prices.

At the same time, said Jonkman, the president "straddled the issue" by saying that the goose that lays the golden egg should not be killed, and that industries showing a loss of six months under this policy should be permitted to apply for price increases.

"Now, after the president and his administration leaders threw these sparks about and started the conflagration," concluded Jonkman, "how could we expect conservative labor leaders to stop it? What chance had collective bargaining? Why bother about the obligations of contracts?"

Precautions for Safety on Ice Are Listed by Bocks

Fred W. Bocks, Jr., skipper of the sea scout ship Bon Homme Richard, Holland, Friday called attention to certain characteristics of Lake Macatawa in an attempt to avert accidents such as claimed the life of Mienard Vander Hill Jan. 19.

Bocks, a resident of the north shore area for many years, served as assistant camp director and director of the waterfront at Camp Ottawa last summer and is particularly interested in safety measures in connection with water activities. He is a graduate of the Boy Scout National Aquatic school where special emphasis is placed on safety of all types.

Because of his experience and training, the Boy scout office asked him to compile some information which would serve as a guide to Boy scouts and others participating in skating and other sports on the ice.

The north shore side of Lake Macatawa with its series of bays and points is more dangerous than the south shore, although precaution should be maintained at all times, Bocks said.

"The bays are in the lee of most of the winter winds and freeze first and usually have good ice. Ice that freezes during a heavy snow (snow ice) is very unsafe and must be four to six inches before entirely safe. Ice which freezes during clear quiet nights (black ice) is the best ice and is safe at two inches although all dangerous spots must be avoided," according to Bocks who prefers that the ice be six inches thick.

"The north shore line has a drop-off which varies from 10 to 25 feet from the shore and extends again the length of the lake. These drop-offs and the points create the most dangerous spots. The drops extend out beyond the points and the ever moving current humps up over the drops and disturbs good freezing of the ice. The spot may be only 10 feet in diameter, but even with the best of ice, it may remain thin."

"In passing these points, the best course is to either crowd the shore or give it a very wide berth. The best advice is to stay clear since the thin ice may run in a path 50 yards or more out in the lake."

"If at any time you feel yourself going through the ice, spread your legs wide apart and your arms straight out in front. This procedure will stop you from going under and your arms will catch the good ice in front of you. Keep calm. Don't get excited or hysterical. If help is near at hand, call out. Kick your feet as soon as you have your hands on good ice. Try to bring your body to a horizontal position as if you were learning to swim hanging onto a rail. If you keep your feet down they will go under the ice."

"If no help is at hand, don't try to haul yourself out like going over a fence. Turn the hands so that the inside of the wrists are away from the body. Lift the chest as gently as possible on the ice, kicking the feet meanwhile until the body can be turned sideways and slid to safety. Too much pressure, such as lifting the entire weight, will result in breaking more ice. Remember the water is cold and it can't be long before the senses are numbed."

"Almost anything will do in rescuing a person—a long stick, a board, rope or even a belt. Approach the person with caution, moving on the stomach if the ice is thin. Don't let the person in the water pull you in. Talk to him and keep him calm. Work speedily but don't forget caution."

On the other side of the picture, Geerlings pointed out that management is not entirely without fault and that industry should get in closer personal touch with their employees. He also stated management has the responsibility of understanding its men and seeing they have decent working conditions; that compensation should be made to the employee according to the requirement of the job; and that any trouble or grievance that the employee may have should be listened to patiently and promptly considered.

Her children were all present; the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Arnold and son Monty, Mr. and Mrs. Clair Arnold, and Messdames Eva Richards and Lillian Bader. A two-course dinner was served and Mrs. Arnold received many gifts. Her granddaughter, Mrs. Evelyn Berglund of Rochester, N.Y., telephoned to congratulate her but she miscalculated the time and the guests had gone home. Mrs. Arnold is the daughter of pioneers, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Hutchins, the first settler in Ganges township) and was born a mile west of what is now Fennville. She has spent her entire life here. The house where she was born still stands, owned by Albert Crane, who has reconsecrated it in the past two years.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Beagle and baby son have returned here to live at the home of his father, S. J. Beagle. They have been visiting Mrs. Beagle's parents in Lafayette, La., for several weeks.

The engagement of Miss Jacqueline Collins to S. C. Harold Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew E. Johnson of Pearl, has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Collins of Ganges. Both young people were graduates from the Fennville school last June. Miss Collins is attending Kalamazoo college and Mr. Johnson is at the Great Lakes naval training station.

Several members of the Fennville Lions club, with their wives, were guests in Allegan Thursday evening when the newly organized club there received its charter in the presence of state officers and Lions clubs of neighboring towns. J. E. Burch, president of the Fennville club, which sponsored the new organization, was toastmaster.

Last Wednesday evening the New Richmond Youth Fellowship was host to the Fennville and Pearl Fellowships. A potluck supper was followed by a program of games and an address by the Rev. Kimey, pastor of the South Haven Methodist church. Forty-five attended.

On Monday evening Jan. 28 the West Allegan Junior Farm Bureau entertained the local Senior Farm Bureau at the Pearl Grange hall.

The officers of the Fennville Past Noble Grand's club entertained the club and a few invited guests in the I.O.O.F. dining room, Friday night. At the business meeting a collection was taken for the March of Dimes. Two pretty aprons and a lunch cloth were donated by members and sold at Chinese auction. It was voted to hold a "painless" baked goods sale at the next meeting Feb. 8, at the home of Mrs. Carl Hogmire with assistants, Frances Sheehan and Ida L. Sherman.

AN OBJECT LESSON

IN AMERICANISM

Out in Downingtown, Pa., a Gold Star father and mother are giving an object lesson in Americanism of which Abraham Lincoln would be proud. They are Mr. and Mrs.
Robert Johnstone, the parents of Robert S. Johnstone, who was killed in the Ipo Dam sector on Luzon on May 14, 1945, doing his best, as young Americans should at that time, to kill Japanese. In honor of the boy the parents have established a scholarship in Lafayette College, with the provision that "a Japanese student must be given first consideration as the scholarship recipient."

Lincoln would be proud of them, because they are translating into action his phrase, "with malice toward none." That phrase is far often quoted than acted upon.
In Lincoln's time fellow Americans from another section were the enemies and were reviled.
Fanatics like Senator Sumner and his associates were quite as bitter toward the people of the south as many Americans are toward our recent enemies. From the safe distance in time of 80 years every American today is quick to applaud Lincoln's phrase, but in 1865 it took quite as much courage for him to express that sentiment as it now does for the Pennsylvania parents to translate it into action.

What is it they are really saying in stipulating this provision of their scholarship? They are telling the American people—and because of their sacrifice they have a better right to speak than most—that their boy gave his life not in a fit of passion and hatred but to fight a monstrous wrong that was being committed against the Japanese people as well as against the helpless people of other countries. That boy killed Japanese soldiers not because they were Japanese but because they were the instruments of vile forces that had to be destroyed. The parents are expressing their faith that he killed with no more malice in his heart than that of a judge whose constitutional duty it is to condemn a fellow human being to death.

In establishing the scholarship they seem to be saying that if those former enemies of ours, those enemies that killed their son, can be exposed to the influences of true democracy, it will not be necessary, in some other generation, for others of our boys to kill them and be killed by them.
That may seem idealistic and romantic, but the same thing can be said for Lincoln's phrase. Yet Lincoln's philosophy of tolerance has proved far more practical in the long run than the spirit of vengeance of men like Senator Sumner.
A greater than Lincoln, 2,000 years ago, said: "I say unto you, love your enemies." This Pennsylvania parents are acting on that injunction.

THE CHURCH INVITES YOU

Bishop Elvind Berggrav, primate of the Norwegian Lutheran Church, called for a declaration of war against evil forces in the world to follow the declaration of peace. Expressing the happiness of millions that the terrible period of war had ended, he warned that "we must be on guard against what may await us in peace. We must be mobilized against the evil forces of envy and revenge. The people's moral and religious forces must meet this evil or it will triumph over us again within the next generation." Bishop Berg-grav declared further that "out of the world's present hopelessness we must find a way and a goal." We must, he said, "gather our forces to rebuild society."

Feast Days of a People Leviticus 23:4-6, 15-16, 24, 27-29, 34, 39

By Henry Geertlings

The carp with which the ancient Israelites celebrated their holy days seems strange to us. It was a serious matter with them. There is a reason for their taking to heart feast days and holy days.
Moses, under the guidance of God, had succeeded in liberating the Hebrews from the Egyptian Pharo-ahs, and in a sense the Israelites had united to begin their famous exodus.

On the other hand, they were still a nomadic people, who moved in family groups, and who probably did not feel an intense loyalty to other clans or to the nation as a whole. In addition to that, they were at this point confronted by other people who were pledging their allegiance to all sorts of false gods. Idol worship and pagan rites were commonly employed.
That lack of a religious background made certain holidays both necessary and important. They were in a sense review lessons for the people. They were the means by which the people would keep in mind certain circumstances in their history. It was a time for them to think and rethank God for their deliverance.

Religious anniversaries, if properly observed, can be of immense value to church life. They are the means of calling the attention of the people to the traditions, the heritage, and the spiritual possibilities of their faith. The Hebrews had several holidays which reminded them of their past and linked them with the ongoing stream of history. These festivals brought them into closer fellowship with God as the giver of every good and perfect gift.

First in the list of special days in Hebrew life was the seventh day of the week, which was called the Sabbath. It was decreed as a day of rest and worship. Since God created the world in six days and rested on the seventh, it was therefore incumbent upon man to cease from his toil and spend the seventh day in seeking refreshment for body and soul.

The fourteenth and fifteenth days of the first month, which correspond to parts of our March and April, were the dates for the celebration of the Passover and the Feast of Unleavened Bread. It was customary to kill a lamb, roast it, and eat it along with unleavened bread and bitter herbs. The two observances were associated with the exodus from Egypt. You will recall that the angel of death passed over the Hebrew homes and spared the firstborn. The people, in their haste to depart, ate bread that had not been leavened. In recognition of this fact, unleavened bread was always eaten for seven days following the celebration of the Passover.

The Feast of Pentecost, celebrated 50 days after the Passover, was associated with the close of the grain harvest. This feast has also been termed the Feast of Firstfruits and the Feast of Weeks.
The period corresponds to parts of our May and June. A gay spirit prevailed among the participants.
The Feast of Trumpets occurred on the first day of the month Tishri which corresponds to parts of our September and October. At this time the Jewish new year began. The people were reminded by the blasts of trumpets that the year had begun and that the Day of Atonement and the Feast of Tabernacles were at hand. The tenth day was set apart as the Day of Atonement. The Feast of Tabernacles was a week's celebration beginning on the fifteenth.

The Day of Atonement was a day of fasting and penitence. The Feast of Tabernacles, or Booths, came at the time of the grape harvest. People camped out in tents, thus commemorating the wilderness journeys and experiences of their forefathers.

These festivals grew out of great moving spiritual experiences in the life of the Hebrew people.
As such they were considered sacred. They reminded the people of the goodness and the mercy of God. Some of them such as the harvest festivals and observances related to the phases of the moon, were perhaps older than the organization of the Hebrew nation itself.

Passover and atonement are two words which have had an important relation to the New Testament writings. The Lord's Supper was instituted at the close of a Passover celebration. In Christian theology the redemptive work of Christ on the cross by which man is reconciled to God is gathered up in the doctrine of the atonement.

Although we do not have many special observances in our churches, we should make the most of those we do have. Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter need no special mention, for they receive the lion's share of our attention. We must, however, refrain from commercializing and paganizing them. More attention should be given to church anniversaries as a time of rededication and challenge.
The founding of our foreign and home mission work should receive more notice as a means of interesting people in the outward reach of the Christian message.

Holland In 1914

(Following is the 242nd in the series of weekly articles taken from news of the Holland Daily Sentinel published more than 30 years ago.)

Holland has the reputation of being a clean city and so it is in comparison with most cities, according to a story appearing in the Tuesday, May 26, issue of the Holland Daily Sentinel published in 1914. In fact, the sanitary conditions here have often been praised by outsiders and the state board of health has more than once called attention to conditions here, commenting on them favorably.

The high school assembly room was crowded last evening with interesting spectators when the Camp Fire girls and the Boy Scouts gave their unique program.
There is a movement on foot to organize a new club to be known as the Black Lake Yacht club and to use the quarters formerly occupied by the Macatawa Bay Yacht club.

Last evening the Men's Federation of Bible classes met in the parlors of Hope church. The main addresses of the evening were delivered by the Rev. J. W. Esvelid and Atty. Gelmer Kuipers of Grand Rapids.

Dr. W. A. Taylor of Allegan, graduate of the Michigan Agriculture college, has been appointed assistant secretary of agriculture at Washington, succeeding Dr.
B. T. Galloway, who has resigned to become dean of the state college of agriculture at Cornell university.

Peter Cooper was returned winner in the final preparation department oratorical contest held at Hope college last night. His oration was entitled "Liberty Under Law." Second place went to Carl Staplecamp on "Super-Democracy."

Three large gatherings will inaugurate the summer season at the Ottawa Beach hotel this summer. The international convention of the Police Chiefs of America will be held there one day during their stay in Grand Rapids June 15 to 19. The Illinois Furniture warehousemen's association, about 200 in number, will be at the beach hotel June 19 to 22. The third body will be the Moneypenny-Hammond company, a wholesale company of Columbus, O., which takes its 500 employees for an outing each summer. They will be at the hotel two and a half days.

Friday evening the Raven Oratorical contest will be held at Win-ants chapel, began a story in the Wednesday, May 27, issue. The orators will be C. Wierenga, H.
Lockhorst of the freshman class, F. De Jong and F. De Roos of the sophomore class and L. Yntema and L. Bosch.

A review of the work done by the Woman's Literary society during the past year was read by the recording secretary at the last meeting of the year yesterday.

Mooi Roofing Is Leader in Field

"We Keep Holland Dry." This has been the motto of the George Mooi Roofing Co., 29 East Sixth St., from the time of its small beginning many years ago to its present standing as a leader in the roofing industry.

A large spacious warehouse and office building covers more than 15,000 square feet of floor space. In normal times a complete line of all types of roofing material is carried. During the past year all desirable materials have not been available but it is hoped that soon the company will again be able to satisfy every need of its customers.

The Mooi Roofing Co. is well-known throughout the state and has been in business for many years. Men at the head of the business are of long experience in the roofing craft and this experience is essential to suit your need.

The company is an expert on all types of shingles, tile, asbestos, asphalt and built-up tar and gravel or asphalt roofs. The best is none too good for your roof.

The Titeon storm-proof shingle, securely locked down, manufactured by the Rubberoid Co., is one of the most popular types of roofing material on the market. Titeon shingles are particularly designed for easy application over other roofing materials.

A new item in their line is the economy size asbestos fire proof paper, 90 square feet in the roll. This item has many uses in the home, and being priced to sell, no home can afford to be without it.

TEMPLE BUILDING SOLD

Sale of the Temple building by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Kuiper to Harry J. Plaggenmeyer of Holland was announced today by Henry Oosting, local realtor.

The Temple building, one of the largest commercial buildings in Holland, was built around 1920 as a Masonic temple and was maintained by the organization until the building passed into the hands of the Michigan Trust company about 1930.

Built at a cost estimated from $180,000 to $275,000, the four-story building of brick and steel construction is 120 feet long and 60 feet wide. It was originally designed with three auditoriums, a public auditorium on the main floor with a second floor balcony, a private Masonic auditorium of the same size on the third floor with a fourth floor balcony, and an auditorium and stage in the basement.

After the Kuipers acquired the property in 1940, Mr. Kuiper closed off the second floor balcony, remodeled the first floor into quarters for the Temple Furniture Co. and built four apartments on the second floor. The third floor auditorium with its balcony is intact as it was originally planned and is about the only part of the building which is not in use.

In addition to the furniture company on the first floor are office quarters for two physicians. The Red Cross production rooms are in the basement. Besides the apartments on the second floor is an insurance office. The selective service headquarters are on the third floor and a dance studio on the fourth floor. A self-operating elevator is in constant use.

Shortly after 1940, Kuiper installed an entirely new heating system using fuel oil. He was ordered by the OPA to convert to coal and at a cost of $15,000 installed a new stoker. Some three weeks later he learned oil operators who had converted to coal might reconvert to oil since the shortage was not nearly so serious as was first thought.

The Temple building which faces Centennial park was dedicated with elaborate ceremonies in the early 1920's, with Masonic orders from all over the area coming to Holland to participate. The building was largely financed by several wealthy residents of Holland. It was the late Walter Lane of the Bush and Lane Piano Co. who furnished the walnut for the woodwork which still remains in the building.

There will be no immediate changes in the building; although it is the plan of the new owner to add additional apartments later.

Sale of the building to the Kuipers from the Michigan Trust Co. in 1940 also was engineered by Oosting who is entering his 21st year in the real estate business in Holland. He specializes in commercial, residential and resort properties and has handled several commercial deals in other cities in western Michigan. He is a member of the National Association of Real Estate boards, Michigan Real Estate association, and president of the Holland board of realtors.

DETERS SHOWS PACKARD

The new 1946 Packard is now on display at the Deters Auto Co., 25 West Seventh St. In the brilliant 1946 Packard Clipper are found 68 brand new improvements in addition to the scores of exciting features which made the prewar Packard Clipper unique among all fine cars.

Only Packard offers a true fade-away fender, smoothly disappearing into the body, free of any seams, in which clogging ice or sleet could cause a car door to "stick." It has the widest front seat of any car—measuring 61½ inches from door to door—practically a foot wider than the car is high.

The low rakish lines of Packard Clipper speed-stream styling are a constant delight, no matter from what angle the eye takes in the sweeping beauty of "America's No. 1 glamour car." To own this car is to know the satisfaction of being one of the thousands to whom dealers refer when they say, "Ask the man who owns one."

Although shortage of parts from suppliers has restricted production, Mr. Deters says the Packard Motor Car Co. is doing everything possible to keep cars flowing from assembly lines in increasing volume.

Stop in to see "America's No. 1 glamour car." At the Deters Auto Co. will be found a well equipped force of mechanics who will keep that present car in condition until all can be supplied with '46 models.

BILL'S TIRE SHOP

William Valkema, owner of Bill's Tire shop, 50 West Seventh St., has been in the tire business since Sept., 1922, when he began work for the Holland Vulcanizing Co., formerly owned by the late Charles Van Zyl. Mr. Valkema, a veteran in his business, spent two years working in a tire factory repairing tires.

He began his own business in Feb., 1935, in the building next to the Sentinel office. In 1936 he took an agency for General tires and in 1938 he began recapping tires with the Hawkins system of retreading. He moved to his present place of business in 1941.

Mr. Valkema, a tire specialist, has one of the best equipped tire shops in western Michigan for servicing trucks and automobiles. Service calls for tire repairs are made.

Russell "Buck" Barendse, who has 15 years' experience in the tire business, is foreman in the tire shop. Also assisting Mr. Valkema is a brother, Morris Valkema, who began work following his discharge from the Canadian army last July.

Mr. Valkema advises interested persons to place their orders for new tires now.

Holland Drops 50-41 Decision To Muskegon

Muskegon, Jan. 31—Muskegon High school jumped off to an early lead in their game here with the Holland High school basketball team Friday night and then held a six to 10 point advantage nearly all the rest of the way to win, 50-41.

For the first time this season Holland did not have a distinct command over the backboards. Four and sometimes five Muskegon youths barged in to steal balls from Holland's tall cagers to score on shots from three and four yards out.

After being behind 18-10 at the end of the first quarter, the Dutchmen made a strong comeback. Vander Kuy scored on a couple of tip-ins and Bud Vande Wege on a dog-shot and then Vande Wege followed with a foul toss and the score stood at 18-18. But the Dutch never got the lead. Bill Pedler, Charles Cotton and Gil Dobberstein all scored in rapid fire order and the Muskies went ahead again, 24-18.

Holland was behind 30-21 at the half.

During the second half the battle swayed first in favor of Muskegon and then in favor of Holland but the nine point advantage the Reds had built up remained.

For Muskegon it was the work of Ray Lorenz and Dobberstein under the baskets assisted by Bud Kalsbeek that stood out. They made it rough going for Holland's leading scorer, Bob Van Dyke. Dobberstein and Lorenz led Muskegon's scoring with 13 and 12 points respectively.

As far as Holland was concerned Leo Vander Kuy was their only threat. His tip-in work was outstanding and he scored 12 points. Seriously missed in the Dutch offense was the follow-in work of Van Dyke and Vande Wege's one-handed pokes from out around the foul circle.

Rotary Club Hears Rev. W. de Velder

Rev. Walter de Velder, recently returned to this country from the Netherlands where he preached at the English Reformed church in The Hague, told members of Holland Rotary club Thursday noon at their weekly meeting in the Warm Friend tavern of conditions in that war-torn country.

He described Rotterdam, with many city blocks utterly flat. The Hague is also badly bombed, largely by a mistake of the British air force, but Amsterdam is in the best condition of any city in the Netherlands, he reported.

In Brabant province, 350 farms were utterly destroyed by the retreating German army, although he visited one farm five miles from the highway that had not seen a German, the family even keeping their radio all through the war years.

Dutch railroads, run efficiently before the war with fast schedules and diesel type engines, are now disrupted. The speaker said he saw 40 locomotives in one lot completely destroyed by bombs.

Rev. de Velder described the wood shortage, the sad sight of the many beautiful trees now cut down, Vriesland province, where there were many underground workers, was able to keep more cattle than was anticipated, he said.

"The Germans invaded our country, they did not conquer us," stated one Hollander. This typifies the spirit and the courage the Dutch showed throughout the war period, the speaker said. He told the club that the British and Dutch do not complain, although they have a little fuel for keeping warm. He stated that he had seen the patience of the Chinese, the bravery of the Dutch and the uncomplaining attitude of those three nations.

Rev. Marion de Velder presided at the meeting and introduced his brother, Guests were J. J. Riemersma, Holland High school principal, Capt. James R. Jessum, E. P. Stephaan and Randy Bosch. E. E. Fell returned to the club after spending several months in Virginia.

Oils Nosed Out in Y Tournament

The Dutch Kraft Paints captured first place in the Grand Rapids Y Major basketball league Saturday night by defeating the Holland Pure Oils, 21-20 and the American Seaters, 25-16.

The Holland quintet defeated the Seaters, 22-18 to claim second place in the round-robin tournament.

Holland dropped behind the Dutch Krafts 7-0 at one stage of the first half but came back to tie it 7-7. The first half ended in favor of Dutch Krafts, 12-11.

The Oils held a 15-6 lead over the Seaters at the half.

In the second half with Dutch Krafts, the Oils moved into a 18-18 tie with about three minutes to go. They missed five free throws in succession then and although a sixth split the tie it was ruled "no-basket" by the officials as the shooter's foot was over the foul line. The Krafts then took a 21-18 lead and just after Ken Van Regenmorter dropped a dog-shot for Holland making the score, 21-20, the final horn sounded.

The Oils maintained the upper hand in the second half over the Seaters because of their big nine-point first half advantage.

The Dutch Kraft club won easily from the Seaters after building up a 11-5 halftime lead.

SHORT CALLS HELP EVERYONE GET BETTER RURAL LINE SERVICE

If YOU'LL remember to keep every call-short these days, you'll enable your rural party line telephone neighbors to get their calls through, too.

When you have finished talking, please hang up the receiver carefully. One receiver off the hook can tie up a whole line. And please avoid listening in or interrupting when the line is in use.

This kind of friendly co-operation helps everybody to get better service, especially now when most rural lines are serving more telephones.

More lines and more switching equipment will be added as fast as conditions permit. This will enable us to care for those who are waiting for telephones, and reduce the number of telephones per line.

Work of Junior Red Cross Will Go On Without Letup

War work of the Ottawa county Junior Red Cross members in making comfort and recreational items for the armed forces may have concluded, but production work for men in veterans' hospitals and children's institutions continues as one of the urgent post-war projects of the young chapter members, Miss Mae Whitmer, vice-chairman of the Junior Red Cross, said Friday.

Pointing out that on a national basis the school members of the Red Cross had made over 35 million articles for servicemen and women during the war, Miss Whitmer called attention to the shift to peacetime service which includes, in addition to school production, the acceleration of school correspondence exchanges, international and intersectional, and eventually international student exchanges.

The Ottawa county Junior Red Cross members already have exchanged albums with school children in South America and European countries. The war necessarily curtailed such activity, the chairman explained, but it is hoped to be resumed on an enlarged scale soon.

International student exchanges are well underway in some border states, it was explained, although this aspect of the Junior Red Cross still is new. Complementing it, the vice-chairman said, are rural-urban exchanges of letters and of students so that both country and city children will have a fuller understanding of the other's needs and habits.

"The past of the younger members of the Ottawa county Red Cross chapter is a creditable one," the vice-chairman said. "We intend to surpass it in our peacetime activities for 1946."
