Soil Conservation District Convenes For Annual Meet

Correspondent Details
Worth-While Work
And Early Obstacles

A talk by Keats Vining highlighted the annual meeting of the West Ottawa Soil Conservation district Saturday at the Bussis Implement Co. in Borculo. Vining is correspondent for the Prairie Farmer and former Kent county agricultural agent.

Vining paid tribute to the late Olin A. Clay. He also traced the early history of the district and difficulties experienced in awakening public interest in the project.

Vining also recounted the development of the reforestation program to its present large achievement. He complimented the district on its active program.

Albert Stegenga, Olive township, was re-elected director for a three-year term. He has held the office since the district was organized in 1938.

Polling superintendent was Bob Svoboda of Grand Haven township.

Clarence Reenders, chairman of the board of directors, opened the meeting with a welcome and later gave a brief resume of the year's activities. The Rev. Heyboer of Crisp church gave the invocation.

Entertainment was provided by the 4-H orchestra of Zeeland under the direction of Jud Branderhorst and Mrs. Sabin Austin of Coopersville, gave a reading.

A new district movie of local scenes titled "The Road Back" was shown.

Winners of door prizes—which were trees—were: Alfred Bosch, Zeeland; Henry Ebel, West Olive; Marilyn Greenwood, Holland. Apples were won by Jean Kromann, Holland; Harry Bowyer, Grand Rapids, and Kenneth Jacobsen, West Olive.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Clarence Reenders, Grand Haven; Mrs. George Maierhauser, West Olive, and Mrs. Edward Dinkel, Conklin.

Tri-Cities Stage Big Polio March

Grand Haven (Special)—The Tri-Cities area put on a successful "Mothers March on Polio" campaign Wednesday night when $3,304.02 was collected between 6 and 7 p.m. by volunteer workers under the direction of various civic groups. Church bells rang and the Grand Haven and Spring Lake fire departments blew their sirens at the opening and close of the campaign. Canvassers called at homes where porch lights were on.

In Grand Haven $2,058.70 was collected, in Spring Lake, $1,007.66 and in Ferrysburg, $237.66.

This is not a new project, as it has been tried in other cities. The biggest success was in Phoenix, Ariz., last year, when the population of 29,000 gave $44,000 in an hour. The slogan was "Turn on your porch light for Mothers March on Polio."

In Grand Haven, volunteer workers carried on the canvases under auspices of the Junior Chamber of Commerce with Ray Allen, president, in charge. In Spring Lake, the Spring Lake PTA with Mrs. Carl Johnson, president, and in Ferrysburg, under its PTA, under direction of Mrs. Agnes Mosher, employed in Spring Lake post office.

The oldest solicitor was 73-year-old Mrs. Liddie Sisco, whose granddaughter, Mary Lou White, is a polio victim.

This noon a baked goods sale was to be carried on in Spring Lake, all proceeds to go to the fund. Braak's bakery furnished coffee and cake for the workers and as a large supply was left over, these were to be donated for auction at this noon's sale.

Because of the success of the campaign, it may be possible this area will do away with the wishing wells and planks and concentrate their efforts on the porch light campaign, it was announced. Grand Haven has now reached $6,458.88 of its $10,000 quota. The Eagles lodge reported this morning they are within $50 of their $1,000 goal.

Holland Soldier Killed in Action

Pfc. Robert F. Smith, 24, of Holland, has been officially reported killed in action in Korea, according to a War department telegram to his older brother, William, of Chicago.

Smith was the son of Fred H. Smith, Sr., of 523 136th Ave. He previously was reported missing in action.

According to the brief notice, he was killed in action July 20, 1950.

The communication was sent to William in Chicago Saturday and he informed his father in Holland Sunday morning.

Smith, who served in the Navy during World War II, enlisted in the Army after the war and was with the 34th Regiment of the 24th Infantry division stationed in Japan. His unit was one of the first to go into action.

He had been overseas for the last four years with the Army in Japan.

He was born in Fennville in October, 1926, and attended Fennville high school. He was employed in Grand Haven and at the H. J. Heinz Co. in Holland before World War II. The family moved to Holland 12 years ago.

Survivors besides the father and older brother include two other brothers, John Wesley, and Fred, Jr.; two sisters, Janet and Ruth, all at home.

He attended Sixth Reformed church and Youth for Christ.

His mother died last July 12 and efforts to reach the son in Korea at that time proved futile.

The clerk's office is in the process of bringing the poll books up to date, and weeding out cards of voters who have let their registrations lapse, Mrs. Ter Meer said.

Complete registration figures for the city will be available soon, she added.

Winter Storm Batters Across Most of Nation

A great winter storm battered the nation relentlessly today, but its full fury missed Michigan.

Holland area followed the cold pattern of the last few days, altered by a slight increase in temperature. Low point for the night was six degrees, compared with zero Wednesday and -7 the day before. By 11 a.m. the mercury had climbed to 13 above.

Wednesday's snowfall added another inch or so of "white stuff" to the local blanket, and brought the January snowfall to 21.8 inches, according to Charles A. Steketee, chief weather observer who keeps records at Hope college.

January's snowfall of 21.8 inches was considerably below December's 33.4 inches and on a par with November's 20.6 inches. In all, the snowfall so far this season totals 75.8 inches; the most snow in many years.

Old Man Winter was taking it easy in Michigan, compared with the rest of the nation where the "ice box" area extended from the Rockies to the Great Lakes and deep into Dixie.

Snow fell from Arkansas north-east to New England, and accumulated to depths of seven inches in Ohio. Forecasters predicted an eight-inch fall in western New York and "heavy" falls in some sections of New England.

Predictions called for continued cold weather tonight, -2 in the city and -10 in suburbs.

Noon Chicago Run Cancelled; Postal Delivery Affected

Nationwide Strike
Silences Industry
Around the Country

Effects of the rail tie-up in Chicago reached into Holland for the first time today.

Train No. 3 running from Grand Rapids to Chicago and scheduled to leave Holland at 12:23 p.m. today was cancelled at the last minute at Grand Rapids. Consequently, the return trip of No. 3, scheduled to arrive in Holland from Chicago at 10:01 to-night, won't be run either.

Several passengers were on hand at noon today to make the trip to Chicago, but had to go back home or look for other transportation. Disappointed travelers included several from Muskegon, who took the train to Holland to transfer to the Chicago run. The railroad sent them back to Muskegon.

Superintendent of Mails S. H. Houtman said that mail usually sent to Chicago at noon would be taken by truck to the Grand Rapids terminal this afternoon. Attempts will be made to route this mail through Lansing by truck for delivery by another rail line to Chicago, Houtman said.

"Both the post office and local rail office are working on a minute-to-minute basis," Houtman said. "Nothing is official except that the noon train didn't run."

Combat veterans of the 1st Battalion of the First Marine Regiment in Korea gave nearly $4,000 in a special March of Dimes drive, directed by Lt. William H. Draper of Holland, battalion motor transport and special services officer.

Lt. Draper, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Draper of 42 East 13th St., knew quite a lot about polio campaigns too. He worked on the drive in Holland last year.

According to word received by his parents, the five companies of the battalion tossed money into cigar boxes, C-ration cartons and ammunition cases, and reach a total of $3,922.73, an average of $4.41 per man.

With this figure, the battalion members proudly proclaimed their unit to be the champion of the 1st Marine division, after the drive became a contest to see which company could beat the other.

Lt. Draper displayed a bit of strategy in promoting the campaign. He staged it at an appropriate time—the day after pay day.

The above picture of Draper was taken in California just before he shipped out to Korea last fall. His parents received a letter last Saturday dated Jan. 19 which said he was on the move again.

Bill's younger brother, Dick, is a private first class with the Marines. He is in training on the west coast and expects to go overseas any day. Mrs. Draper also has a young brother, Pfc. Tom Holden, in the Marines.

Application for nomination petitions was received Wednesday for John Emmick, plant superintendent at De Free Chemical company, for the position of alderman from the first ward.

Emmick served as alderman from the sixth ward April 1942 until May 1943 when he resigned from council due to change of address. He lives at 124 East Ninth St.

Emmick will be opposing present Alderman Anthony Nienhuis, whose completed nomination petition has been received and filed.

This brings to six the number of candidates for council nomination. Other candidates are Alderman John Van Eerden in the fifth ward, Rein Vischer in the third ward, and Raymond Holwerda and Miss Bernice Bishop at large.

Deadline for filing completed petitions is noon Feb. 3. Petitions require at least 20 and no more than 40 signatures for ward candidates, and at least 60 signatures, including at least 10 from each ward, for candidates at large.

Marine Officer Sparks Polio Drive

The polio campaign isn't carried on alone in this country.

In far away Korea, American servicemen fighting with UN forces took time out of their busy schedule to remember the crippled kids at home.

Combat veterans of the 1st Battalion of the First Marine Regiment in Korea gave nearly $4,000 in a special March of Dimes drive, directed by Lt. William H. Draper of Holland, battalion motor transport and special services officer.

Lt. Draper, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Draper of 42 East 13th St., knew quite a lot about polio campaigns too. He worked on the drive in Holland last year.

New City Treasurer Appointed by Council

Holland has a new city treasurer.

At a special meeting Monday night, Common Council approved the appointment of Alden J. Stoner, of 134 West 16th St., to fill the position vacated early this month by the death of Henry J. Becksoff Jan. 10.

The new appointee was graduated from Hope college last June and at present is associated with the American Aerosol Insecticide Corp. His wife is the former Lorraine Mokma of Holland and they have two daughters, Donna, 7, and Barbara, 4. He was born in Rockford and has been in Holland since 1943. He spent three years in the Army during World War II.

His appointment was recommended by a special committee headed by Alderman Bertal Slaght which studied applications submitted by eight or nine office seekers. The appointment is for an indefinite period subject to rules and regulations of the new charter.

Stoner said he expects to take over his new duties in a week or 10 days.

Man Sentenced

Nevilles pleaded guilty to the charge on Jan. 17, and sentence had been deferred.

Council Overrides BPW Amendments To New Charter

Unanimous Ballot
Comes After Airing
Of Issues Involved

Holland citizens will not vote on Board of Public Works revisions at the April election.

Common Council voted unanimously Monday night not to place a series of amendments on the April ballot which would in large part retain BPW operations under the old setup instead of the co-ordinated program as outlined in the new charter passed Nov. 7.

The vote followed an hour of discussion in which members of the Board of Public Works, Charter Revision commission and members of council participated.

After the vote, council unanimously passed a resolution to place an amendment on the April ballot retaining the name "Board of Public Works" replacing the term "Board of Public Service" as adopted in the new charter.

Request for the change was based mainly on the grounds that the old name was well established and highly respected in the locality. A charter commission spokesman said that although the new title more accurately defined the services of the board, the commission had no objection to retaining the old title.

In other business, council approved a BPW recommendation to purchase a 11,500 kw. generator from General Electric Co. at a cost of $377,555 plus an escalator clause of 10 per cent with no exceptions. Council also approved purchase of a 13,000 square-foot surface condenser from C. Wheeler Mfg. Co. for $106,500 including price of erection. Both are for the new addition at the James De Young power plant.

Discussion on proposed revisions started with James H. Klomparnsen, BPW vice president, who called attention to the fact that citizens could vote only on a bulky package last November with no chance to express opinions on separate issues. He reviewed the situation when the charter commission voted 4-4 to abolish the BPW and was saved only by the vote of the chairman.

"Because of the very close election, it is difficult to know just how people feel about the BPW. If they vote for it, it would bolster BPW confidence. If they vote against it, it would show the people are not for the board and there may well be another amendment to abolish the BPW," he said.

John F. Donnelly, charter commission member, said he voted to retain the Board of Public Works, believing the BPW, the hospital board and the library board could well operate within the framework of city government under the new charter, operating as separate agencies under council. He pointed to advantages of consolidating fiscal affairs of the city, saying the new proposed amendments have many discrepancies and do not conform either to the old charter or the new charter. He said the new amendment would jeopardize the position of the new city manager.

Adrian Klaasen, BPW member, said many persons want the new amendments passed and the people have a right to decide on them. He pointed to Grand Haven where the BPW is separate from the city and appears to have no trouble. Donnelly, however, answered he had spent considerable time studying Grand Haven's system which, he said, has a co-ordinated bookkeeping system with the city. "We patterned our program in the new charter much along the lines of Grand Haven," he said.

Randall C. Bosch, BPW member, asked council not to consider the merits of the system, but just to put the issue on the ballot and let the people decide. "We live in a democracy and let's keep the vote free and give everybody an opportunity to vote."

He quoted from history, "I'm violently against your idea but I'll fight with my life your right to say it."

Vernon D. Ten Cate, charter commission chairman, said he had cast the deciding vote not to abolish the board and said the commission spent three months on BPW questions.

"By prejudging what can be done under the new charter, the BPW says it cannot work and plans to set up a department separate and distinct from the city government. If it can't work after we have a manager and auditor then I believe such a vote could be called for," he said.

Millard Westrate, assistant BPW superintendent, said the proof of the pudding is the eating, and pointed to Holland's enviable position not only among municipal utilities but among utilities of all kinds. He said the board seeks changes "so that we may continue to operate as we know how." He said the BPW deserves a vote of confidence and urged that changes be made before a city manager and auditor are hired.

Peter S. Boter, former city attorney, said every city attorney has been faced with the need of a workable city charter, particularly in determining the differences between the BPW and council such as the 50-50 split on profits and the question of reserves.

Bosch objected to the implication that the BPW did not get along with council and pointed to the many meetings between the two groups. "We have the highest respect for you and I think you have for us," he said.

Alderman A. W. Hertel presented detailed data on the total picture, charging that the new amendment confers power well in excess of what the new and old charters offered, that it scraps in substance the present charter without giving it an opportunity to operate, that it asks the people of Holland to convey the city's most valuable asset to control of a board which also fortifies itself by extending its terms from five to six years.

He emphasized that the request for the public vote did not come from the people, but from the five members of the Board of Public Works.

Hertel also submitted several exhibits of literature used during the two campaigns.

Mayor Harry Harrington presided at the special meeting which lasted exactly one hour and six minutes. Alderman Tony Peerbolt gave the invocation. All aldermen were present.

In the picture above, Cooper is at left, while Al Dyke, bureau manager, and employee Ruth Schuetky give him a hand with the 203 licenses, which weigh approximately 150 pounds. (Sentinel photo)

Jackson Bound Prisoners Admit Further Crimes

Allegan (Special)—Two youths, bound for Jackson to begin prison terms, opened up with details on some December robberies, resulting in a round-up of a small crime ring, sheriff's officers revealed today.

The case was opened up when Donald Merritt, 21, Kalamazoo, and Edward Golladay, 24, Allegan, met in the county jail and discovered they were co-partners in the same crime, although they had not met before, Sheriff Louis Johnson said.

Golladay had been convicted of passing worthless checks which had been written on the defunct Gun Valley Growers and Packers Association Merritt was sentenced for breaking and entering a Martin gasoline station.

Before leaving for Southern Michigan prison at Jackson, Merritt told Sheriff Johnson he wanted the "record clear" before he started his term, and admitted taking part in the robbery when the checks were stolen as well as entering an Otsego home in December.

He said he was with Eugene O'Connell, 410 Greenwich place, Kalamazoo, and Jack Brennan, 19, Otsego, when they broke into Pete Meredith's office in Hooper Dec. 16 and stole the checks. Golladay then told O'Connell giving him the checks the next day to pass.

Merritt also told of Richard Wood, 19, Otsego, accompanying him on entering the Frank Walters home near Otsego and taking $3 and ransacking the house in December.

Traffic Fatality Is Third of Year In Holland Area

Spring Lake Father Killed Instantly
North of City Limits

The Holland area traffic record was blotted with a third traffic fatality in the last 13 days Thursday night. It was the second traffic death in as many nights in the Holland area.

Victim of Thursday night's accident was Russell J. Schlakebir, 31-year-old father of four children, who lives at route 1, Spring Lake.

Schlakebir was killed instantly in the accident that happened at 8:50 p.m., three miles north of Holland on old US-31, just south of Riley Ave.

He received a skull fracture, crushed chest, and fractured right arm.

Deputies who investigated said the car, going north, skidded and went off the west side of the highway where it sideswiped a tree. The car was enough to turn the car sideways and it slammed into another tree 25 feet away.

The 1947 sedan was wrapped partially around the tree.

Chief Deputy Clayton Forry, who led the investigation, said the road was slippery and it was snowing hard at the time.

Schlakebir was en route home from work when the accident occurred. He had been employed at Decker Chevrolet Co. in Holland as a mechanic since Feb. 15, 1950.

The body was taken to Nibbelink-Notler funeral home and to Van Zantwick funeral home at Grand Haven this morning.

Joining the Navy is old stuff for Donald Tucker, 48, who has answered his third call to service. He is shown wearing his fatigues in this informal shot taken during his first hitch in World War II with the Seabees in the Marshall Islands. Wearing high boots for protection proved most uncomfortable in the torrid climate, but the men partly offset this discomfort by wearing as few clothes as insects of the jungles would permit.

Fennville Man Answers Third Call to Navy at 48

Fennville (Special) — Getting his Navy uniform out of moth balls and putting his private affairs and personal belongings in "lock, stock and barrel" must be almost routine work for Donald Tucker who at 48 has answered his third call for service to his country.

"Are you really 48?" Tucker was asked when he received his third call a few weeks ago.

"Yep, I'm just a kid" he replied.

Then he added, "But don't write anything until I've passed my physical. I'd feel terrible if I didn't pass, and the Navy really is in my blood."

Tucker sailed through the physical with flying colors and many young men in the 18-19 age bracket looked mightily askance at the tall, raw-boned veteran when they were rejected.

Tucker's first call came Nov. 30, 1942, when he joined the Seabees in California. This time he served two years and nine months in the Pacific, including the Philippines, Russell and Marshall islands. He was engaged in construction on the islands. He was discharged in 1945.

The second hitch began Aug. 12, 1948, when he enlisted for six years. But he had served only 10 months when his ship went into drydock and he was discharged to inactive duty. During his second hitch, he was on the Atlantic, serving in the capacity of naval engineer from Cuba to Newfoundland.

Tucker is the oldest man in his barracks, he informed his daughter, Mrs. Walter Bale and family, when he was home last week-end. Later Mrs. Bale received a telegram saying he was leaving for California. This was his choice.

Driver of this car was killed outright Thursday night in an accident on US-31, three miles north of Holland, just south of Riley Ave. Victim was Russell J. Schlueke, 31, of route 1, Spring Lake. He was returning home from work in Holland at the time of the accident. The car, going north, brushed a tree, was turned around and crashed into the above tree 25 feet away from the first tree. Deputies who investigated said the road was slippery and it was snowing at the time. There were no witnesses and Schlueke, was riding alone.

Big Reds Trample Dutch Cage Squad In Lopsided Tilt

Muskegon (Special) — Muskegon high school unceremoniously dumped Holland high's Dutch basketball team out of a tie for second place in the Southwestern conference by drubbing the visitors, 62-33, here Friday night.

It was a complete reversal of form for the Hollanders from their Tuesday night victory over Grand Rapids Central, and the defeat was by 29 points—the Dutch victory margin over Central.

Muskegon displayed an almost errorless, inspired type of basketball. Paced by guard Bruce Bosma with 17 points, Muskegon had five men who scored in double figures.

Meanwhile, Holland was having trouble finding the range, and also experienced some tough luck on rim shots. The Dutch connected on only 13 of 59 shots from out court all evening, with six of 29 in the first half and seven of 30 in the second half.

Muskegon jumped to an early 10-4 lead in the first period, and extended the margin to 21-13 at halftime. The third quarter really broke the collective Dutch back as the Big Reds poured through 23 points to nine for the Hollanders. The tempo slackened in the final stanza but Muskegon still outscored the Dutch, 18-11.

Coach Tom McShannock of Muskegon might be accused of rubbing salt in an open wound, as he left in his first stringers until three minutes remained in the game and Muskegon had a 30-point lead.

Center Bob Armstrong was high point man for Fred Weiss' crew with 10 points. Rog Eggers grabbed second honors with eight points, while Bob Tasma carded seven. Max Doolittle took fourth honors with five.

Weiss substituted freely in the second half of the contest, while McShannock sent 17 players into the fray. However, only seven saw action before the 30-point lead was established.

From the free throw line, the contest was almost a draw. Holland connected on seven of 15 attempts, while the Big Reds made five of 11 charity tosses.

The loss gives Holland a 3-3 conference record, with an overall mark of five wins and four losses.

Holland returns to cage action next Friday night by entertaining Benton Harbor at the Armory. It is the next-to-last home game of the year for the Dutch. Meanwhile, Muskegon engages league-leading Kalamazoo in the conference headliner next week.

Hope Half-Mile Team Takes Third in Meet

The Hope college 880-yard relay team placed third behind Kalamazoo and Alma in the special MIAA event held at the Michigan AAU relays in Ann Arbor Saturday.

While icy roads were bringing muttered disgust from motorists and the mid-winter snows were wrapping the countryside in a blanket of white that hampered all movement, the small fry were out in force, making the best of the worst. One hill near the Holland hospital always draws numerous youngsters in after-school hours and these four winter enthusiasts paused in their "belly-whopping" just long enough for a picture before taking off again. From top to bottom they are Tom Cotts, Bill Pontious, and Jim and Dave Cotts. All three Cotts are sons of Mrs. Eleanor Cotts of 208 West 13th St., and Bill Pontious is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Le Roy Pontious of 325 Washington Blvd.

Library Adventures

By Arnold Mulder

Every now and then we are reminded that there are fashions in literature as there are in women's clothes. No woman in her senses would today wear a bustle or a hoop skirt, but there was a time when all of the "ten best dressed" women wore both. A generation hence the costumes of the Duchess of Windsor and the other nine who were this year's best dressed women will probably seem as ridiculous as the bustle-hoop skirt costumes seem to the people of today.

Something of the same thing is true of literature. Books that were in the best seller list 50 years ago, and that were read by hundreds of thousands, would not have even the ghost of a show of being published today. The style has changed and publishers read the literary fashion pages; it is their business to do so because their success depends on it.

An illustration is the recent republication of an American novel that was called a "classic" when it was first issued in 1899. The book is "McTeague," and the author was Frank Norris, the writer who later became famous because of the publication of "The Octopus" and "The Pit." The 1899 novel has now been re-published in a paper volume, one of the Rinehart Edition volumes of American "classics."

A re-reading of the book has convinced me that if Frank Norris were appealing to the publishers today with the manuscript of this novel he would hardly have a chance of an icicle in a blast furnace to get it published. For the publishers know very well that the mood of the public has changed, and that the 1950 fashions in novels are radically different from the fashions of 1899. The book is re-published now not for the general public but for educational circles; it is meant to be read because of its educational interest, not because of its inherent interest to general readers.

At the turn of the century most of the young "advanced" writers in America were under the spell of the French novelist Emile Zola. Frank Norris was an innovator, so far as American fiction was concerned. He preached the idea that only novels with what he called "guts" were worth writing. Other writers of the day who were under a similar Zola spell were Jack London, Stephen Crane, the young Theodore Dreiser. They and some others pinned their faith to Zola and got their inspiration from him.

As a group they did a great deal of good in rescuing American fiction from the romantic futilities to which it had degenerated. American novel readers were in the grip of all sorts of fictional futilities. It was at this time that "David Harum" was published, and "Richard Carvel" and "When Knighthood Was in Flower" and many others still more sentimentally romantic. Norris and the others succeeded in establishing a new style in American fiction that some 15 years later transformed American taste in reading and that resulted in a crop of writers who have given American fiction international standing.

But the early attempts to transplant the Zola technique in America were sometimes very feeble. "McTeague" was one of those attempts. The type of fiction it represented was known in France as "naturalism." Roughly, those novels were materialistic, deterministic, and pessimistic. Even poor novels, like "McTeague," that had those characteristics were called "great" because they were in the manner of Zola.

But a half century later, the style has changed. "Advanced" American readers no longer regard Zola as a "prophet," and a novel that is merely "naturalistic" and nothing else has no chance. Such a novel is said to be "dated," and that is fatal.

Little Reds Hand Dutch First Loss

Muskegon, (Special)—The Holland high school reserve squad was as cold as the weather outside Friday night as they dropped their first game of the season to Muskegon's Little Reds, 38-26.

Nothing seemed to go right for the junior Dutch, while Muskegon was hotter than the proverbial fire cracker, with more than 50 per cent accuracy on their out-court shots.

But the Little Reds also displayed a polished type of control ball to squelch completely any Holland hopes for victory. The Red defense bottled up the center lane and forced coach Bob Connell's boys to try for long shots which were accurate only 26 per cent of the time.

Dean Vanderwal was high pointer for Holland with 11, while Dave Jack Kempker was second with six. Ron Israels had six, Carl Visscher three, Dave Moran two and Terry Burns one.

De Forest paced Muskegon with 11, while Heuser and Voss each had nine. Muskegon led all the way, and halftime score was 21-13.

The loss gives Holland an 8-1 record for the season, with 5-1 in conference play to tie with Muskegon for the league lead.

Zeeland's Quint Edges Allegan To Tie for Lead

Zeeland's cagers overcame a halftime point shortage at Zeeland Friday night and edged a strong league leading Allegan five, 53-51.

The game was tight all the way with the largest gap between the two teams coming during the first quarter, when Allegan was able to build up a seven point lead.

But the score was tied 13 times during the contest, and the second half was a point-for-point battle, with Zeeland dropping in the final quarter. High for Zeeland was Ray Wagner with 18 and Glenn Schrottenmoer with 17. Cook and Wells were high for Allegan, with 16 and 15 respectively.

The first quarter of play was ragged for the Zeeland club, and the period ended 16-11, Allegan. But in the second period, Zeeland outpointed the Tigers and led 29-28 at the half.

The win puts Zeeland in a first place tie with Allegan for the Tri-County league lead, each team having a 4-2 season's record. Friday night's win gives Zeeland an over-all season record of 5-5.

The Zeeland reserves also won Friday night in the preliminary game, 35-26. Paul Heyboer was high for the seconds of Zeeland with 12 while Miller and Smith each had six for Allegan.

Next game for the Zeeland club is Friday night at Otsego. The first time the Chix played Otsego this season, they won 45-31, but Otsego has been coming up in recent games and is now tied with Paw Paw for third place in the league.

Wool Production Vital to Nation

Recent price advances and the unsettled international situation have made wool both a valuable farm product and a raw material vitally needed in our defense program.

Michigan State college sheep specialist Graydon Blank says that farmers who keep sheep will want to make every effort to produce quality wool. This means keeping it free from chaff and other objectionable foreign material so the wool will bring the top price and be of most use for military requirements.

Hay and other roughage should be fed from a rack with sides which will not let chaff get into the wool. Another method is to feed hay and other roughage on the ground, some distance from the barn. This helps to keep chaff from the wool and also helps the flock to get needed exercise. Under no circumstances should hay be carried over the backs of the sheep, Blank cautions.

Sheep should be housed only in well ventilated sheds. When housed too close or under poorly ventilated conditions, the tips of the fleeces are stained and the sale value reduced.

Plans for a hay rack which will help to keep chaff out of wool, along with other sheep management suggestions, are contained in the recently revised extension bulletin 242, "Selection and Care of the Farm Sheep Flock."

A copy of this bulletin may be obtained at the county agricultural agent's office or write to the Bulletin office, Michigan State college.

Saugatuck Five Tops Muskegon

Saugatuck's cage squad held together just long enough Friday night to defeat Muskegon 57-54 on Saugatuck's floor.

The Indians were never behind during the game, but Muskegon was shaving the Saugatuck lead rapidly as the final whistle ended the game. Leading throughout the encounter by from eight to 10 points, the Saugatuck crew was paced by Mark Waugh at forward with 18 markers.

High pointer for the losing Muskegonites was Gene Russell who bagged a healthy 20. The game was a non-league tilt and gives the Saugatuck club an eight won, three lost season, although all three of the losses have been in league competition. Next game for the Indians is Tuesday night at Rogers, also a non-league game.

In the preliminary game, the Indian reserves also won, beating St. Jean's reserves, 32-20. The Indian reserves, like their varsity counterpart, were never headed in the game, and outpointed the opponent at every quarter whistle. Jack Parker sparked the little Indians with 13 points and for the losers it was Bob Messinger with eight points.

LYING LANGUAGE

The man out in New Jersey who slaughtered a family of five, mowing them down without mercy in a bloody assault that left a kitchen, living room and a lawn strewn with dead bodies, has been sentenced to "life imprisonment." The prosecution had held out for the death penalty, but as the result of an emotional appeal to the jury by the defense, the twelve men and women who sat on the case recommended mercy and the judge followed their recommendation.

At this distance and because resulting lack of details, it is impossible to say whether or not this action represented essential justice. It is arguable that "mercy" was justified in the case, even though the surface appearances are against it.

But the very next sentence in the press dispatch reporting the sentence said: "The prisoner will be eligible for parole in 14 years."
It is hard to see how there can be any justification for that. The courts all over the land, Michigan courts included, are joined in a conspiracy of legal lying in passing sentence on murderers. Nine times out of ten the judge solemnly imposes a "life sentence" on a particularly atrocious murderer.
But nine times out of those nine sentences that "life sentence" is a lie.

Who ever hears of a murderer,
no matter how atrocious the crime
he committed, dying in prison, except in the few cases when untimely disease does the job? When a prisoner lives out his normal life expectancy as calculated by life insurance companies, he is virtually sure of spending a substantial period of his life in as great a degree of freedom as the members of the family he has bereaved by his crime.

Why the term "life sentence" should be employed at all in the courts is a judicial mystery. For it is almost literally true that there is no such thing as a "life sentence" in most states, Michigan included. About all the term has is an impressive sound, at the time when sentence is passed.
But murderers know as well as anybody else that it does not mean anything.

As a result of this judicial lying language the courts themselves are becoming a joke. And of all agencies surely the courts should speak the truth, not merely in a technical sense but in actual reality. The people of Michigan are themselves to blame because they tolerate the "soft" parole law under which Michigan penology operates. But courts should object to being turned into institutions that put a premium on lying.

Jesus Uses His Power
Mark 5:21-24; 38-43
By Henry Geerlings

Jesus with His disciples had returned to the east side of the Sea of Galilee for a season of rest.
Upon His arrival there He met the demoniac whom He cured at the expense of hundreds of swine, his loss was too heavy in the eyes of the inhabitants and so they besought the miracle worker to leave their country.

From the records we have it would seem that He acceded to their wish, retracing His steps with the disciples and landing back at Capernaum, the center of His Galilean activities. His unexpected return was heralded abroad and in a very little time He was pressed by the crowds as much as before. But He at least had the rest that came with crossing and recrossing the lake. The distance each way would be about eight miles. He did nothing the disciples could do, so they must have worked at the oars while He rested in the boat.

The synagogues were places of worship scattered over Palestine, and other parts of the world where the Jews had settled. Most of the Jews went to Jerusalem to the temple service only a few times a year because of its distance, but they frequented the synagogues which were nearby, services being held in them at least once or twice a week. This institution arose during the seventy-years' captivity, while the temple lay in ruins and the Jews were in a foreign land.

A ruler of the synagogue was an official chosen to have charge of that place of worship. One of his duties was to preside at the services. He also preserved order, provided speakers, kept the building in repair, and had general oversight of the schools which were conducted here. He was one of the leading men of his community. Some synagogues had several rulers who in general were opposed to Christ. For that reason it was the most unusual that Jairus should come, falling at His feet in worship.

As an evidence of the prejudice of Jairus against Jesus we should note that he did not appeal for help until his daughter was at the point of death. Luke tells us that she was an only daughter. It is not without significance that we read of Jairus that he beseeched him. He had cast all prejudice to the winds and thought now only of the recovery of his daughter. The original language implies that she was the light and life of the home, and that the father's affection for her was very strong. It did not seem to be necessary for him to plead so because and fervently with the Lord,
but desperation was in his heart.

What Jairus asked was that Jesus would come and lay His hands on the dying child, for the imposition of hands was the recognized symbol of conferring a blessing. He did not know that the Master with a word could effect a cure. Still it was great faith this father had in Jesus, for though the daughter was at the point of death he believed that with the help of Jesus she would live. The important man's request was granted and Jesus went with him. The popular interest was augmented by the fact that this Jewish leader who had opposed Jesus brushed his religious scruples aside and came seeking relief.

For some reason we are at a loss fully to explain why Jesus would permit only three of the disciples, Peter, James and John to accompany Him to the house of grief. As they approach they heard mourning and lamentation, and Jesus asked what it was all about. His assurance that she was not dead but asleep fell on deaf ears, and they laughed at His pretensions that He could bring joy into a house where death held sway. But He put them all forth, taking with Him in addition to the three the father and the mother.
The six of them advanced into the room of death.

Here we are to witness life conquering death and break its power. The first thing Jesus did was to take the girl by the hand.
It was almost a custom He had
of touching those He would help.
It was the way He showed His sympathetic love for those who suffered. Then He spoke to her, as though she had been only sleeping lightly. He at once announced that the little girl was not dead
but asleep and He was ridiculed.

It is the way of ignorance and inexperience. They make up their minds that things cannot be otherwise than as they know them.
And ignorance and inexperience sometimes become intolerant and scoffing. They block the way of truth. They make uncomfortable and unhappy those who have good news for the world. They overlook the fact that it is altogether possible that there may be another point of view than their own.

Jesus did not mean to deny the fact of physical death, but he did propose a different philosophy of it from that which His critics held. If He looked upon death as a sleep then the world is all the richer in meanings. If death is as sleep then death is not the end of us but rather the cessation of our activities and functionings here and the awaking of our powers and personality into a newness and largeness of expression in a new mode of being.

Christian Subs
Take Preliminary

A "never say die" Holland
Christian reserve squad fought back valiantly in the last few minutes of its preliminary contest to take a 37-34 overtime victory from the St. Augustine's Little Irish. The contest was tied 33-33 at the end of regulation time.

Trailing by five points with less than two minutes to go in the contest, the locals turned on the steam in the closing seconds to gain the overtime. Jerry Schipper was the big gun in the final drive with the last two baskets.
The Maroons had little trouble in the overtime, getting four points while holding the St. A club to a lone foul shot.

St. Augustine led 7-5 at the end of the first quarter and 18-15 at halftime. At one time in the third period, the losers led by as much as eight markers although the third period count was 27-20.

Rich Sharda paced the Maroon attack with 11 tallies, followed by Schipper with nine and Ken Scholten with eight. Mike Dorgan and Jim Maroon led St. A with nine apiece.

by trouncing the Globetrotters 41-
29. Jim Kuiper netted 16 points for the winners while John Van Raalte and Dale Grissen each had eight points for the Globetrotters.

And the final game saw the ter dropping the first 2, by beating the Jaguars, 33-20. Ray Vinstra and Chuck Goulaze led a well-balanced scoring attack with 10

and eight points respectively.

lies as they dumped in 10 each.

City Voters Face Spring Elections Reducing Council

Six Aldermen End Terms, Only Five Can Be Returned

The first step in cutting down the number of aldermen on Holland's Common Council will take place in the spring election when six aldermen end their terms and only five aldermen will be elected to replace them.

The new city charter which became effective Jan. 1 sets up the election procedure which eventually will trim the council to eight members—one from each ward and two at large. Under the old charter, each ward was represented by two aldermen.

The terms of six aldermen expire—Anthony Nienhuis, first ward; Bert Huizenga, second; Bertal Slagh, third; John Beltman, fourth; John Van Eerden, fifth; and Clarence Kammeraad, sixth. Only three are eligible for re-election from their own wards—Nienhuis, Slagh and Van Eerden. The other three are automatically retired with the option of running for alderman-at-large.

The other two councilmen to be named at the April election will be from the city at large.

So far, two aldermen have applied for petitions for re-election. They are Nienhuis and Van Eerden. Two other candidates are circulating petitions for council alderman-at-large—Raymond Holwerda and Miss Bernice Bishop.

If enough candidates apply for election, the primary election will be held Feb. 19, with the general city election following on April 2. If it appears there will be no more than two candidates for each council position, then no primary will be held. Names of candidates will be placed on the general election ballot for April 2.

Petitions for ward candidates require at least 20 and not more than 40 signatures. Petitions for alderman-at-large require at least 60 signatures, including at least 10 from each city ward. Petitions must be completed and filed with the city clerk by noon, Feb. 3, to meet the Feb. 19 primary deadline.

Under the charter, petition blanks are not to be made up personally by the candidates but must be obtained, properly drawn up, from the city clerk.

But what are the plans of councilmen whose terms expire and who haven't as yet filed? Alderman Bertal Slagh, the dean of the council in point of service, said Friday that he "definitely won't run again." Slagh has been on council for 10 years.

Alderman John Beltman, present mayor pro tem and a councilman for four years, said he hasn't decided but "I don't think I will run again."

Alderman Clarence Kammeraad came up with the same answer, "I don't think I'll run again." Kammeraad is completing his first two-year term on council.

Alderman Bert Huizenga doesn't know yet whether he will run for alderman-at-large. Huizenga has been on council for two years.

Through these portals 89 big lake boats passed during 1950, according to unofficial tabulations. That's the number of boats that entered the harbor last year to drop off cargoes ranging from oil and cement and coal to people and buoys. The recent air view of the harbor entrance shows the channel and arrowhead clogged with ice while the drifted snow changed the Lake Michigan shoreline with its accumulation. The ice formations extended past the tip of the arrow before clearly open water once more appeared. The shipping season extended from early April until the middle of December, with the Coast Guard cutter Sandew unofficially opening and closing the season on her yearly trips of laying and picking up buoys. Marvin Lindeman Gives Talk on New Commission

Social Progress club members, meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Drew, Central Ave., Tuesday evening heard an outstanding paper by Marvin C. Lindeman, member of the new City Planning commission. Lindeman, in answering the question of "Why We Need a Master Plan," outlined the functions and duties of the planning commission and presented several problems and matters to be worked on.

Lindeman explained that the commission will work under guidance of Scott Bagby, professional planner engaged by the city. Bagby, considered tops in his line, has worked on plans for many cities in the East which are now considered model cities. He is now doing preliminary work.

In his paper, Lindeman emphasized the host of phases in a master plan and emphasized the importance of laying out ideas. Among the many items touched on by the speaker were the school board and its relationship to the schools, expansion of the city residential district, including the possible necessity of apartment houses as the city grows, the lack of room for large industrial corporations within the city limits and the importance of the lake to the city.

Following Lindeman's paper, a general discussion was held in which several members cited the wonderful opportunities for such a commission and expressed boundless limitations on possible accomplishments.

Mrs. Drew served refreshments to the group.

Tax Collections At 92 Per Cent

A total of $132,818.98 of the 1950 fall tax levy has been collected up to Jan. 27, according to figures released by the city treasurer's office.

This figure represents 92.17 per cent of the total levy of $165,806.65. The fall tax includes county assessments and any other special assessments.

Tax bills may be paid at the treasurer's office until March 1, with an additional three per cent delinquency fee. After March 1, the books are closed and sent to the county treasurer at Grand Haven.

Collections so far are behind the 97.13 per cent collected one year ago at this date. This is due partly to the fact that veterans' exemptions have not been received from the state as yet.

Dog licenses also are available at the treasurer's office until March 1 for those dog owners who live in the city.

Christian League Airs Hunting Ban; Officers Named

Grand Haven (Special)—The Ottawa Christian league at an organization meeting Tuesday night in First Reformed church, Grand Haven, voted to organize on a permanent basis and elected Tony Last of Holland as its president. Organizations formed last June include representatives of 100 churches in the county.

William Van Eenennaam, Zeeland church leader, has been acting as temporary president and under his guidance the league sponsored the successful campaign to put into effect the ban of sale of beer and wine on Sunday.

Proposed ban on Sunday hunting in Ottawa county was discussed and it was reported this bill is now before the state legislature which would authorize an election on the question in April. The conservation club of Zeeland, the Ottawa Farmers Union and other groups are in favor of the proposed law, Van Eenennaam reported.

A Grand Haven township resident was present to protest the section of the proposed law which would prohibit property owners from hunting on their own land on Sunday. "This is a violation of the civil rights," he said. He is in favor of the remainder of the law.

Officers of the league answered that such a law would be weak; there is no more a violation of the right than the present law which prohibits land owners from hunting on their own land during the closed season.

By-laws were approved and new officers elected were Last, president; the Rev. E. Ten Clay of North Holland Reformed church, vice president; Albert Bytwerk of Hudsonville, secretary, and Henry Steketee of Holland, treasurer.

Five directors were elected, one from each section. They are Henry Freeze of Ferrysburg, the Rev. G. J. Rozeboom of Coopersville, Al Faasen of Holland, Robert Pool of Zeeland and Jacob Schipper of Hudsonville.

The Rev. Bernard Brunsting, pastor of First Reformed church, Grand Haven, led devotions.

Saugatuck Cagers Wallop Rogers In Lopsided Game

Saugatuck's Cagers ripped through a Rogers' quintet Tuesday night, ringing up a lopsided 91-38 score.

Rogers was never ahead as the no-contest game rolled forward with all Saugatuck's players fattening their scoring averages. Rogers, held on for two quarters, however, and at the half trailed by a respectable 12 points.

But in the third quarter, Saugatuck dropped 31 points and Rogers netted only 11. In the fourth quarter, it was a little worse as the Indians bagged 27 while Rogers got six.

The combined scores gave the highest points in any Indian game in the past seven years.

All the Saugatuck players scored and all played in the varsity game. A non-conference tilt, the game was the second win over Rogers this season.

The game was marked by numerous fouls, with 26 charted against Rogers and 15 against Saugatuck. High pointers for the Indians were Bruce Green and Jerry Bale with 24 and 23 points respectively. Others were Waugh with 20, Timmer with 15 and Janousek with 12.

And the reserve Indian squad made the night complete by stopping the Rogers subs, 36-25. Tim Green had 16 points for high honors for the winners.

Next game for the Indians will be a conference tilt Friday night at Bloomingdale. The Indians won the last time they played Bloomingdale, 43-34.

Long-term Investment that pays daily dividends

THESE days thoughtful people turn their minds to the durability of things they purchase.

But it's rare when doing your duty turns out to be the best way to satisfy your heart's desire.

That's what's so marvelous about this '51 Buick.

If you picked a car just for the lift it gives you—your pride in its power—or its generous comfort—you couldn't make a better choice.

But make note of this:

That gleaming new push-bar forefront, which greets your eye with flashing beauty, contains 25 grille bars made of stamped steel, individually mounted to "give" and come back unharmed. Combined with a massive, wrap-around bumper, fortified by two stalwart "bumper bombs" and two added uprights, it gives unsurpassed protection.

Springs of stout spiraled steel on all four wheels let your wheels curtsy over bumps, while you ride level as a lance. But they also need no servicing, and breakage is virtually unknown.

Buick's great-powered engine is a Fireball, wondrously lively and eager at the mere touch of your toe—but it also wrings extra power from every drop of fuel, and has the mechanical perfection that comes only from years of experience with this basic design.

Dynaflow Drive gives you effortless smoothness of control—but it also eliminates clutch repair bills, saves tires, eases strain on the whole driving mechanism, from engine to differential.

The road-steady gait of a Buick assures relaxed security—and is also evidence that you have a durable, deep-silled, X-braced frame beneath you.

However you check it, you'll discover this: The things that make you yearn for a Buick on first acquaintance, are the very same things that make Buick such a smart long-time buy.

Better see your Buick dealer—soon.

'Fast-Improving' Maroon Quintet Breaks Gym Jinx

A fast improving Holland Christian quintet captured its fourth game in its last six starts Tuesday night at Kalamazoo when it stopped a highly rated Kalamazoo St. Augustine aggregation 37-33 in a well played contest. The loss was only St. A's third defeat, two coming at the hands of the local five.

Victory was particularly sweet to Coach Art Tuls and his Maroon quintet. Not in recent years had the Dutch been able to capture a decision on Kalamazoo college's Treadway gymnasium where Tuesday's tilt was played. But Tuesday night the jinx was broken, the locals playing as if they owned the court, hitting almost 35 per cent of their shots.

From a basketball fan's standpoint, the contest was a beautiful game to witness. Both clubs employ the set-up control style of play, relying mostly on blocks and cuts for their baskets. It was simply a case Tuesday night of the Hollanders outshining the Irish at their own game of ball handling and clever, under-the-basket maneuvering. Added to this, the Hollanders took control of the backboards, thanks to Ed Altana, Ken Knott and Ralph Bouwman.

The Maroons definitely felt the added experience of Ed Altana in the lineup against the St. Augustine five. Starting his first game, the clever pivotman was all over the backboards in addition to leading both clubs in the scoring department with 16 tallies. Owen Bennett, one of the best grid quarterbacks in the area, proved the same against the Hollanders on the basketball court, garnering 13 markers. He was tied for scoring honors with teammate Dick Maury.

Coach Harve Freeman's crew showed they were ranked in state stage polls in the first quarter as they combined some good outdoor shooting and fancy screens for 11 points while holding the Dutch to seven markers. The Maroons were out in front early in the fray but soon were outshot by Maury and Bennett.

After St. A had increased their margin to six tallies early in the second period, Christian's well coached offense moved into high gear. In short order the Dutch had knotted the count at 16 all, and then moved out in front on Ed Altana's hooker just before the intermission.

The third quarter was all Christian as they continued to play smooth basketball. Meanwhile their tight defense permitted the St. A club just five points, all being scored by Bennett. At the third quarter mark, the Maroons enjoyed a 28-21 margin.

St. A came to life with three quick baskets at the start of the fourth period to narrow the Holland margin to 28-27 with six minutes remaining. Captain Ben Bouwman and Altana then came through to again move the locals out to a seven point margin and ultimate victory. Chuck Curry of St. A and Ken Knott of Christian left the game via the foul route in the last quarter.

Holland connected on nine out of 20 fouls while St. A hit on five out of 14.

Recreation 'B' Clubs Finish First Half of Schedule With Three Games

Holland's Recreational "B" league finished the first half of its split season Tuesday night, with three games being played on the Holland high school floor.

Tulip City grabbed undisputed hold on first place in the first game Tuesday night, stopping a Kopper Kettle five 46-33. High man for the winners was Ken Decker with 22 and Pete De Witt with 13. Bruce Ming had 18 points for the losers.

The Tulip City five now has won three and lost one for the season and looks like the team to beat in league play.

The second game Tuesday night saw Elzinga and Volkens stop a stubborn Pelon Sunoco club 33-29 in a see-saw battle that was close all the way. The E & V quintet won the game in the last 45 seconds by dropping in two baskets. High pointer for the winners was Don Bocks with 14.

In the final game, the Hoosier Hotshots edged the Independents, 27-25. The win places the Hoosier Hotshots in a second place tie with the Hotshots. The game was close all the way and as in the previous game was won in the final seconds, as the Hoosiers sunk two points with 30 seconds to go.

For the winners it was Nels Jacobs with 11 points and Langejaans with 10 for the losers.

Three cars were involved in a traffic accident at 1 a.m. Monday on South Shore Dr. near Fishers Bay. No one was injured.

Woman's Club Guests See Unusual Pictures

A land of color, contrast and many moods, vast blooming deserts, timber-covered mountains, deep canyons, weird formations, remote outposts of lost civilizations, vacation paradise, all were seen Tuesday night by Woman's Literary club members and their guests when Ray Eggersted showed his newest color film in the club house.

Mr. Eggersted is a master photographer and adventurer, and on many occasions has risked his life to secure unusual and beautiful effects in his pictures. The film he showed Tuesday night was called "Desert Canyon Symphony," and he took his audience with him from Denver to Arizona by way of the Colorado river.

Seen were springtime in Denver, skiing at Winter park and Berthoud Pass, the world ski championship runs at Aspen, the San Juan valley and a narrow gauge railway ride from Durango to Silverton, the tracks clinging to the high rock shelf blasted out of the Animas River canyon wall.

Highlight of the film interest was the dangerous trip by boat down the Colorado river with its swirling rapids, 25-foot waves and high canyon walls, the party finally reaching the floor to the Grand Canyon. The photographer's colors are rich and true, his narrative interesting, and the musical background artistically synchronized.

Mrs. Clyde Geerlings, club president, welcomed the guests and introduced the speaker. Mrs. George A. Pelgrim and Mrs. J. D. French were hostesses. Coffee was served in the tea room following the program.

On the committee were Mesdames Adrian Bort, A. W. Hertel, W. H. Boer, William Du Mond, J. Stempley, Peter Hiemenga and Edwin John. Chairmen of the divisions poured.

Next Tuesday will be the annual club house birthday program with Miss Helene Hekman of Chicago presenting a song recital.

The two didn't have to worry about the favorite food melting. Holland's thermometers registered near zero readings Monday afternoon and evening before plunging to sub-zero readings early Tuesday. Truck and Auto Collide on US-31

A semi-truck and automobile collided head-on along new US-31 about a mile north of the M-21 intersection northeast of Holland early on Tuesday, injuring the two occupants of the car.

Injured were Jerome Camastos, 32, of 115 East South St., South Bend, Ind., and his wife Dorothy, 20. Camastos was admitted to Holland hospital with a broken left leg and wrist. His wife was admitted with knee injuries and a broken tooth. She was released this morning.

Driver of the truck, Gordon Thompson, 1036 Colfax, Grand Haven, was uninjured.

The automobile was judged a total loss, while damage to the truck was estimated at $500.

The collision occurred at about 1 a.m. today as the Camastos car was proceeding north on US-31 and the truck was moving southward. Visibility was poor, officers said, with a light snow sifting down onto the highway. The left front of the car and the front of the truck came together, causing the wreck.

Both Camastos and his wife have been employed as restaurant workers.

Driver Hurt in 3-Truck Crash

Douglas—A truck driver was hospitalized and his truck almost completely destroyed in a $9,000 fire as the result of an accident involving three trucks on US-31 a few miles south of here at 7:45 a.m. Saturday.

Marvin E. Graham, driver of Crescent City, Ill., was taken to Holland hospital with a possible hip fracture and badly skinned knees. His condition was favorable at noon.

The crash occurred when Graham's truck, a '50 model owned by Ed Wilkinton of Momence, Ill., sideswiped a semi which in turn was pushing another truck. The second truck, a '48 model, was driven by Charles Felrick who was pushing a '40 truck driven by Ivan L. Conline.

Felrick's truck was damaged to about $1,500 and Conline's truck escaped damage. Graham's truck caught fire which was put out by Douglas fire department.

State police of the South Haven post investigated.

Holland Christian Bows to St. Joe In Final Minutes

A game Holland Christian quintet played a powerful St. Joseph quintet to a standstill for 31 minutes Friday night at St. Joseph before bowing out in the final seconds 62-53. The win was St. Joseph's eighth in 10 starts compared with Christian's seventh loss in 12 contests.

Coach Bus Burgoyne's St. Joe Bears, rated as one of the state's classiest court aggregations, certainly knew they were in a ball game Friday night. Although Christian never moved into the lead, they were always close on the heels of the winners. With a minute and 10 seconds left in the tilt, the Dutch trailed 57-53. But in their effort to take "all or nothing" in the final seconds, the Maroons threw defense away in favor of offense. Consequently the Bears came through with five points to take the hard earned decision.

Christian's defeat could possibly be blamed to one factor. Had Captain Ben Bouwman, one of the Dutch high scorers, been able to play more than he did, the outcome might have been different. The officials set some sort of a record on the diminutive Maroon guard, calling three fouls on him in the first 50 seconds of the fray. From that point on, Bouwman saw little action until the final four minutes. To top it off, two other Dutch regulars played with four fouls most of the second half before bowing out via the foul route. Bouwman is not only a valuable cog in the Maroon offensive machine but a superb defensive player.

Three Dutch performers stood out in the contest. Ralph Bouwman put on a one handed shooting exhibition, hitting seven outcourt shots throughout the game. Tony Diekema showed his speed and deception to good advantage by garnering 19 tallies for his efforts. Ed Altena, making his first appearance in a Maroon uniform this year, also proved he is going to be an asset to the Dutch cause, by collecting nine points in the time which he played.

It would be hard to spot a weakness in the St. Joe attack. Burgoyne uses nine men interchangeably without seriously weakening his attack. Sparking the Bear offense was Captain John Gersonde with 21 tallies and Paul Weber, tip-in specialist, with 14 markers.

St. Joe moved to a 13-9 lead at the end of the first quarter after both clubs matched point for point throughout the first seven minutes. The Bears led by Gersonde, took advantage of Maroon defensive lapses in the second quarter to roll to a 32-24 halftime lead.

Christian kept creeping back into the thick of it by the end of the third quarter and trailed 43-36. The Maroons really made it interesting in the final three minutes to close the gap to four points with a minute to go. If Christian had chosen to play conservative ball for the last seconds, the final score might well have been closer.

A total of 24 personals were called against the Dutch and 14 against St. Joe. Both Jim Kok and Ben Knott left the game on five fouls. Christian connected on nine out of 16 foul tosses compared with St. Joe's 10 for 27 average.

Ottawa, Allegan Top Farm List

Ottawa and Allegan counties are two of Michigan's 15 most important farm counties, according to bureau of census reports issued Friday in Washington.

Ottawa county had 3,665 farms which produced agricultural products worth $250 or more as farms last year. This compares with 4,131 farms counted at the 1945 census.

Allegan county had 4,442 farms, according to the 1950 census, compared with 5,268 in 1945.

Allegan ranked third in the state list while Ottawa was No. 11.

Michigan has 20,000 fewer farms now than five years ago, according to the report. There were 155,575 farms listed in Michigan last year by census takers compared with 175,268 in 1945.

But officials noted that slightly different standards were used in counting farms in the 1950 census. Therefore, they warned, "the data for 1950 is not fully comparable with that for 1945."

In 1945 they were counted as farms if agricultural income was $150 or more.
