General Fund Contributions Increase by 18 Percent

Contributions to Hope College for general purposes during the 1973-74 fiscal year increased 18% from the previous year. The goal for gifts to general purposes for 1973-74 was $670,000. President Gordon J. Van Wylen noted that realization of the goal was the result of a commitment by alumni and friends of Hope College to a personal involvement in the life and mission of the College.

The College's Alumni Fund, headed by national chairman Jack DeWitt of Zeeland, raised $169,163 during 1973-74, as compared to $139,227 the previous year. Contributions of the Reformed Church in America contributed $283,935 as compared to $258,351.

Other contributions to the general fund by category with the previous year's giving in parentheses were parents and friends $59,373 ($44,395), business and industry $85,992 ($65,115), and foundations $74,773 ($64,354).

The College received $121,155 in 1973-74 for the endowment increasing its book value to $2,832,604.

Total gifts for all purposes (unrestricted and restricted) in 1973-74 were $1,447,920 as compared to $1,324,993 in 1972-73. The decrease in total giving is attributed to two very large annuity agreements that were written in 1972-73.

During 73-74 $766,427 was received in gifts and pledges for the Build Hope Fund, bringing the total at the end of the year to $5,244,612, 59% of the $8,500,000 goal.

New Center Bears Dr. Lubbers' Name

The new Humanities and Social Sciences Center will be named in honor of President Emeritus Irvin J. Lubbers, seventh president of Hope College.

A testimonial dinner honoring Irvin and Margaret Lubbers will be held Friday, Oct. 18 at 7:30 p.m. in the Phelps Hall dining room.

Renovation of the former science building is expected to be completed in time for the second semester of the current year. The Center will house the Departments of Communications, Economics and Business Administration, English, History, Political Science and Religion.

The Center, renovated at a cost of $360,000, will contain 11 classrooms including two outfitted for multi-media and video purposes, three secretarial areas and offices for approximately 48 faculty members. The college's audio visual department will be headquartered there.

When Dr. Lubbers assumed the presidency of Hope in 1945, he found himself in charge of an institution suffering the aftermaths of the years of war--an inadequate physical campus, a small student body, and a limited endowment. In addition, the college was virtually unknown outside the confines of the Reformed church constituency. Within the 18 years of "the Lubbers era," Hope was transformed into an accredited, confident college boasting an efficient, modern campus.

Through his courage, insight, and imagination, Dr. Lubbers proved himself to be the man for that season of Hope's history, for the post-war years were unmistakably decisive ones for the college's future.

The war years had left the college with a 1944-45 enrollment of 312. Only through stringent economy measures was Hope able to maintain even this small number of students. In the fall of 1945, 401 students enrolled. By the 1947-48 school year, enrollment numbered more than 1200. In three years the student body had increased 400 percent. The college was ill-prepared to handle such changes. But Dr. Lubbers, perhaps a result of his many sessions of chess-playing but more probably stemming from his strong religious conviction that men are placed on earth to serve, refused to be overwhelmed and took up the challenge with enthusiasm.

Dr. Lubbers sensed quietly that if the

Enrollment at All-Time High

The student body for the fall semester climbed to an all-time high according to registrar Jon Huisken.

The headcount of 2,198 includes 2,011 full-time and 187 part-time students. Enrollment a year ago was 2,103-1,900 at full-time students and 205 on a part-time basis.

The increase is a direct result of a vigorous admissions program during 1973-74 after enrollment last fall dropped 19 students from the previous year.

"Through the effective work of the Admissions Office and the involvement of faculty, students, alumni and friends, the enrollment picture is bright," noted President Van Wylen.

"We are thankful to all those who have worked to make the increase possible. We are convinced that an increasing number of students seeking an undergraduate, residential college which emphasizes academic excellence and also offers a personal, value-oriented education such that at Hope."

The breakdown by classes with last year's total in parentheses are: freshmen 638 (575), sophomores 556 (558), juniors 537 (487), seniors 307 (304) and special students 160 (181).

There are 55 students from foreign countries representing Canada, Colombia, Dominican Republic, Ethiopia, France, Germany, Greece, Honduras, Hong Kong, Iran, Japan, Jordan, Korea, Mexico, Micronesia, New Zealand, Nigeria, Norway, Peru, Qatar, Rhodesia, Saudi Arabia, and Venezuela.

The freshman class, second largest in the history of the College, consists of 296 men and 289 women from 25 states. Fifty-four percent of the class are from Michigan with eight percent each from New York and New Jersey and nine per cent from Illinois.

Approximately 30 per cent of the freshmen have some previous college credits while 17 per cent stated that their church preference is the Reformed Church in America.

The average high school grade point average was 3.15 on a four point scale and 50 percent of the class ranked in the top quarter of their class. The average College Entrance Examination Board scholastic aptitude test (S.A.T.) verbal score was 497 while the S.A.T. math average was 535. The average American College Testing (A.C.T.) composite was 24.

The Admissions staff will visit approximately 800 high schools during the fall and winter months. Alumni and friends who wish to recommend potential Hope students are encouraged to contact the Office of Admissions.

EQUIPMENT GIFT AIDS PROGRAM

Gerber Products Corporation of Fremont, Mich. has donated color television equipment valued at over $14,000 to Hope for use by the communication department in its radio and television courses.

The addition of the color equipment to the college's existing black and white television system will enable the communication department to broaden its services to the campus and Holland community according to Dr. Jack Hopkins, chairman of the communication department.

The equipment will also have potential in the use of examining for the proposed cable television system for Holland.

The donation consists of two color cameras and video recorders, 12 inches of monitors, and a special effects generator. It became available as a result of reorganization of the Gerber audio-visual department.

The equipment will be located in two multimedia classrooms in the Lubbers Hall for the Humanities and Social Sciences.

The multimedia rooms will double as television studios, since the rooms will be equipped with overhead grids for the hanging of lighting instruments and microphones. Between the rooms will be a control booth, which will also house film and slide projectors.

GRANT SUPPORTS BIOLOGY RESEARCH

A Frederick Cottrell Science Research Grant of $9,140 has been awarded to Hope by the Research Corporation to support the work of Dr. Ralph Ockerse, professor of biology.

Funds from the grant will be used to support Dr. Ockerse's research on plant growth regulation. It will involve several undergraduate students over a two-year period.

"The aim of this work will be to determine the way in which the physiological actions of peroxidases influence the growth and developmental processes in plants as well as the levels of certain hormones in these plants," said Dr. Ockerse.

This past summer, three students conducted research under the grant. Jean Lambert, a junior from Portland, Ore., investigated the distribution of peroxidase enzymes in the nuclei of peas which has isolated from the plant cells. Paul DeWeese, a sophomore from Muskegon, Mich., studied the relation of these peroxidase enzymes to the metabolism of the hormone indoleacetic acid. And Steven Van Doren, a senior from Hamilton, Mich., concerned the influence of several hormones on the enzyme invertase. Each study plays an important role in the control of sugar in plants.

In the future, the students plan to do further research in the city of Vienna, Austria. In July, they will be joined by other students participating in the program of the Vienna Summer School.

Dr. Ockerse served as a member of the Hope Vienna Summer School faculty during the early years of the program in Austria, when he came to know and love Mrs. Snow. In his brief remarks Dr. Ockerse challenged the recipients and all other students participating in the 1974 summer session in Vienna to become "ambassadors of international understanding," making friends for America as Mrs. Snow had done, and carrying back with them some of the European cultural heritage as Mrs. Snow did when she returned to Hope College after her summers in Vienna.

SNOW SCHOLARSHIP AWARDS GIVEN

The first Esther M. Snow scholarship awards to be given to Hope students were presented by Dr. Richard Sickinger, Director of the Austrian Institute, at a special ceremony in Vienna, Austria, in July.

Receiving the one thousand dollar scholarships were Lynn Bauer, a sophomore from Bridgeport, Mich., and Lester Hill, a junior from Flemington, N.J.

The scholarships were in memory of Mrs. Esther M. Snow, a long-time member of the Hope College faculty, who played a vital role in developing the program of the Vienna Summer School. Between 1957 and 1965 she became a trusted advisor and friend to hundreds of students and an enthusiastic ambassador of Vienna.

When Mrs. Snow passed away earlier this year her family, students and friends established a scholarship fund in her memory. From the income of the fund, one or two awards are to be made each year to Hope students whose record and interests indicate that they could clearly benefit from the experience of participating in the program of the Hope College Vienna Summer School.

UPWARD BOUND CONTINUES ON CAMPUS

Hope has been awarded an $81,800 grant by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to continue its Upward Bound program for fiscal 1974-75.

Upward Bound is a pre-college preparatory program designed to help students overcome obstacles necessary for success in education beyond high school among young people from low-income backgrounds and inadequate secondary school preparation. Hope College has provided the program since 1969.

This year's program consists of 75 students, 60 of them regular high school students in grades 10-12, and 15 students who have dropped out of high school who now seek a GED, diploma or reentrance to high school.

Insuring A Cheery Day

Thursday, August 29, dawned clear and warm at Hope. Within a few hours, the sun drowsily made its way through the thick barrier of branches, warming the Pine Grove that was soon to become a thoroughfare for students bustling to find their classrooms, adjust their class schedules, and greet friends not seen since spring. A pretty typical day at Hope in its first week of operation for a new school year.

Through this Pine Grove passes Connie Danville, a junior from Peking, Ill. Connie shares a special secret with this late-summer’s day, so “average” to most of those around her—August 29 is her birthday. But what can you do when you’re several hundred miles away from home and everyone around you is so busy—arrange your own party? Soon, even to Connie, this special day had become pretty average.

Meanwhile, several miles across town, Barbara Brink, a housewife and mother of four, hurries through her morning chores. When the back door’s slam signifies that the last of the children has made her way outdoors to play, Mrs. Brink settles down to search through her recipe collection for her family-approved white cake recipe and a chocolate fudge frosting she knows to be especially good. For, although Mrs. Brink has never met Connie, she knows Connie’s favorite cake is white with chocolate frosting. And, although Mrs. Brink has never met Connie, she knows this is Connie’s birthday. And, although Mrs. Brink has never met Connie, she is about to spend nearly half her day insuring that Connie’s day be just a little bit festive.

Mrs. Brink is one of 125 women of the Third Reformed Church of Holland who donate their time and ingredients in baking cakes for Hope students away from home. Although most are for birthdays, cakes can be made for any special occasion or just for an exciting surprise, according to Mrs. Gerald Tillemann, current chairman of the Cake Service, which has been in operation for 14 years and has produced roughly 4,000 cakes.

The college provides the church with a list of all out-of-town students and their home addresses. A letter is sent inviting parents to “insure a cheery day.” The order form has space to include the choice of cake and any special message desired on the card. The $4 fee is used solely for the work of the church.

But let’s get back to Mrs. Brink’s kitchen. Mrs. Brink is hurrying to remove the delicately browned cake, lest we intruders see her slightly spattered oven, the aftermath of yesterday’s pie. While the cake cools, Mrs. Brink whips up her frosting, taking a little extra time to best it to a consistency firm enough to withstand this warm day. Within minutes, the cake has been assembled and, as our photographer licks the bowl, Mrs. Brink adds a few artful swirls to the basic product of her labors.

The trimmings are next. “The decorating is strictly a personal, creative thing. It’s what really makes the cake look homemade,” Mrs. Brink confesses. Having decided on a yellow frosting for contrast, Mrs. Brink fills her pastry tube and proceeds to write “Happy Birthday!” in a sprightly and, to Mrs. Brink’s relief, legible script.

Mrs. Brink’s eight-year-old son comes to share in the festivities. A sprinkling of flowers adds a merry touch. Soon it appears that Mrs. Brink and her pastry tube can’t stop! Every bit of frosting finally finds its way to the cake. Mrs. Brink gives the creation a final critical gaze and then packs it away in the carton donated by DuMond’s, a local bakery.

Later Mrs. Brink drives to Hope and is seen ringing the bell of Connie’s college residence. “Hello Connie. On behalf of the Third Reformed Church and your parents—Happy Birthday!”

Friends gather round. “Hey Connie, I didn’t know it was your birthday!” The candles are lit, the birthday greeting sung, and as soon as the cake is cut, the day becomes special for Connie, as well as for her lucky friends. But where is Mrs. Brink?—she left some time ago and is now back in her kitchen, doing the last of the cake dishes and making plans for her family’s supper.

Appoint Divisional Deans

The appointment of two faculty members to positions of academic leadership has been announced by Provost David Markoe.

Professor George Ralph, chairman of the college's theatre department, has been appointed Dean for Humanities and the Performing and Fine Arts while Dr. F. Sheldon Wettack, professor of chemistry, has been named Dean for the Natural and Social Sciences.

The appointments are part of a reorganization of the administrative structure. Upon completion, the reorganization will include four divisional deans reporting to Dr. Markoe who was appointed chief academic officer this past summer. Ralph, a member of the faculty since 1966, was named the recipient of the college's outstanding professor-educator award (the H.O.P.E. award) in 1971 in a vote of the graduating class.

He received the B.A. degree from Stanford University, the M. Div. degree from Union Theological Seminary and an M.A. degree from Northwestern University. He is presently a doctoral candidate at Michigan State University.

In 1971 Ralph was designated a Kellogg Fellow by the W.K. Kellogg and the Association of Independent Colleges and Universities of Michigan to conduct postgraduate study.

Dr. Wettack has been a member of the faculty since 1967. A Kansas native, he received both the B.S. and M.A. degrees from San Jose State University. He taught high school chemistry in San Jose, Calif. three years before earning his doctorate from the University of Texas at Austin.

In 1970 Dr. Wettack was named the recipient of the prestigious teacher-scholar grant of the Dreyfus Foundation. A physical chemist, Dr. Wettack and his students have received grants to support their research programs from the National Science Foundation, the Petroleum Research Fund, the Research Corporation and the American Chemical Society.

1974-75 Alumni Drive Class Representatives Named

President Gordon J. Van Wylen has announced the alumni who will represent their classes in the Alumni category of the 1974-75 Annual Fund campaign.

This year's campaign will have a dual purpose. Alumni are encouraged to maintain their support of the Annual Fund which supports the day-to-day programs of the College. Alumni are also asked to support the Build Hope Capital Fund which is providing funds necessary to complete the College's campus development program and build a significant endowment.

"It has been the support of alumni, friends, churches and organizations which have enabled Hope to operate with a balanced budget these past years," said President Van Wylen. "It is through unrestricted contributions to the Annual Fund that alumni and friends have expressed their confidence in the on-going programs of the College and their faith in the Hope tradition.

"Gifts to the Build Hope Fund will allow the College to provide the basic physical facilities needed for the foreseeable future and will enhance the continued financial stability of the College."

The Build Hope Fund has reached 59% of its $8,850,000 goal with $5,244,612 pledged and gifts through the 1973-74 fiscal year. Among priority projects of the Build Hope Fund is the completion of financing for renovation of the former science building into the Balfour Hall for Humanities and Social Sciences and the raising of funds for a new physical education center.

Members of the H-Club, alumni who earned athletic letters while attending Hope, have contributed or pledged $463,407 towards the PE center. H-Club drive chairman Harvey Buer of Holland, Mich. noted that commitments have been received from 307 of the 1,200 eligible members.

The Annual Fund goal for 1974-75 is $718,000 compared to a $670,000 goal last year. Goals by division with 73-74 giving in parentheses are: Alumni $170,000 ($169,163), Churches $300,000 ($283,935), Parents and Friends $70,000 ($59,375), Business and Industry $85,000 ($85,092) and Foundations $35,000 ($47,773).

The number of alumni donors to all funds of the College in 1973-74 increased by 74 persons from the previous year to 3,820. There are 11,756 eligible alumni donors making participation 32%.

A number of classes showed outstanding participation during the 1973-74 drive according to J. Norman Timmer, Coordinator of Annual Giving. The Class of 1916, under the leadership of Mrs. James Van der Hoef of Holland, Mich., had 74% class participation while the Classes of 1917 and 1924, Mrs. John Vanderbroek of Holland, Mich. and Mrs. G. E. Oostin of Oostin, N.C. class representatives, each had 72% participation.

The Class of 1954, under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Christensen of Sterling, Ill., had the largest participation making 55% of the class. The Class of 1950, headed by Dr. R. H. McElroy of Holland, Mich., was next with 31% donors while the Class of 1963, Rev. Jack Cooper of Glennmont, N.Y. class representative, counted 37 participants.

The Class of 1928, headed by Frank Moser of Holland, Mich., contributed the largest amount ($6,872) while members of the Class of 1927, Clyde H. Gooch of Tuscaloosa, Ala., serving as class rep., donated $6,867.

A Vital Challenge

Through the class representative letters and nationwide alumni meetings, alumni and friends will be asked to support the College’s capital needs in addition to continuing their annual fund support.

The planned giving program gives alumni and friends the opportunity to support the College through gifts of appreciated securities or life income contracts in the form of annuities, trusts, and pooled income agreements. Advice for estate planning and a provision for wills is also offered by the College.

The planned gift program, possibly the least familiar to alumni and friends, offers income to the donor now and provides resources at the College at their passing. Recognizing the need for institutions such as Hope, the federal government has provided for generous tax laws when gifts are made through the planned gift program.

Foundations play an important role in the financial picture of the College. Faculty work with foundations on academic programs, while the Development Office seeks support of the College’s capital needs.

Alumni and friends play a vital role in the future life of this College. This is your College, and you can be proud of it! We ask each of you to prayerfully consider the various opportunities of supporting your College through its development program.

Nader Challenges Students: ‘Think, Dare, Experiment’

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader recently urged Hope students to rid themselves of “the epidemic of boredom, which is a disease on the body of human fulfillment” and make their college years “throbbing with involvement, challenge, commitment, determination, and achievement.”

Nader addressed an all-college convocation Sept. 8, the first of the college’s new Campus Community Hour, a time set aside by students, faculty and staff to share and discuss matters of campus, national and international concern.

Nader spoke to an audience which filled Dimnent Memorial Chapel on the topic, “Restructuring the American Political System,” citing the main projects requiring reform as the elimination of government secrecy, the restructuring of the campaign financing system, and the curtailment of presidential powers.

“However, beneath all these reforms,” Nader emphasized, “there must be a national resurgence of civic involvement in solving the problems of the community, state and nation.”

He described the college period in one’s life as “precious years” and told students, “You’ll never again have the opportunity to have the time and the freedom to ponder, think, dare, experiment and carve out the kind of life you want to lead, both professionally and outside of your job hours in the community.”

Nader received a standing ovation following his hour and 45 minute address and remained to answer students’ posed questions and distribute forms regarding Student Public Interest Research Groups, local student consumer organizations patterned on the Public Interest Research Group (PIRG) which Nader established in Washington D.C. in 1970.

According to Jim Benen, Student Congress president, student reaction to Nader’s visit was “very positive” and approximately 100 signed up to receive further information regarding Student Public Interest Research Groups.

Hope Is MIAA Pick

Hope's defending Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association (MIAA) football champions are the choice of league coaches to repeat as the crown bearer this fall.

Coach Ray Smith's Flying Dutchmen were picked as the pre-season favorite by coaches during the MIAA's seventh annual football coaches' day at Alma College.

Next in the voting was Olivet, followed by Albion and Alma tied for third place and Kalamazoo and Adrian were deadlocked for fifth.

Hope's championship campaign a year ago was the college's first in a decade. With 24 returning lettermen including five all-MIAA players coach Smith looks to the league again with enthusiasm.

The Flying Dutchmen dominated the league statistically last fall outscoring their foes 133-31 while leading the conference in both defense and offense. The team's rushing performance (258 yards a game) was ranked among the nation's top 10 small colleges.

The nucleus of the Hope team remains atop the returning list of All-Americans. Two of them include sophomore offensive end Dave Teener of Columbus, Ohio, senior fullback Chuck Brooks of Glen Burnie, Md., junior defensive tackle Craig Van Tuinen of Grand Rapids, Mich., junior defensive end Bob Lees of Pompomont Lakes, N.J., and junior middle guard Dave Yeter of Lowell, Mich.

Olivet will build its squad around 31 returning lettermen, mostly sophomores and juniors. The offense has 10 returning regulars, but the defensive line must be rebuilt at six of seven positions according to coach Doug Say.

FINANCIAL RETURNS—THE STATISTICS

"An investment in knowledge pays the best interest." (Benjamin Franklin—Poor Richard's Almanac)

Recent figures show Franklin's wisdom holding true today in terms of cold, hard cash. According to U.S. News & World Report, it does "pay" to go to college; the average lifetime income for a man with a college degree is estimated at $750,000 compared with $479,000 for a male high school graduate and $444,000 for one who only finished elementary school.

In short, the college graduate can assume an average income of more than an additional quarter of a million dollars during his lifetime and raise his mean income 35% above the mean income of individuals completing only a high school education.

A survey of more than 9,000 college graduates by Haveman and White compares average incomes of college graduates with the median income of the male population as a whole and finds the college graduate not only earning more money, almost from the first year on the job, but they continue to "get richer" as they become older, the average man's income declining after age forty-five. Graduates in their thirties are better than twice as well off as the average male-bred winner. Graduates beyond fifty years of age... were 18% better off—indeed, in other words, doing nearly three times as well as average. The graduates exceed the non-graduates not only in terms of dollar figures, but also in age by age comparisons.

In subsequent issues we will look at the "return on investment" of a college degree, the impact on job satisfaction, family and "extra-community" activity, and conclude with the affects of a college education on one's attitudes and critical thinking ability.

Alma will be seeking to recover from its worst season in a decade. The Scots finished 5-4 overall, but slipped to just 2-3 against league.

Outstanding Scots returnees include senior end Doug Fillmore of Hope, Mich., senior defensive tackle Keith Froelich of Grove City, Pa., senior wide receiver and defensive end Keith Wilson of Galesburg, Mich. Fillmore and Froelich were all-MIAA performers last fall while Schleicher and Wilson earned the honor in '72.

Albion used the 1973 season to rebuild its football program under new coach Frank Joranke and the result is 41 returning lettermen to camp this fall. The Britons, under veteran coach Ed Blakes, could feature the league's most balanced offensive attack. The Horns have several veterans in the backfield including fullback Dennis Kane, a senior from Muskegon, Mich. who rushed for 360 yards last fall.

Adrian will be attempting to rebound from a winless 1973 league campaign for second year coach Tom Heckert. The Bulldogs feature junior Jim Allhouse of Grass Lake, Mich., who was the nation's second leading small college punter last fall, averaging 42.9 yards per boot.

Non-league action will dominate the itineraries of all MIAA schools until Oct. 5 when the five week conference schedule begins. Hope opens league play at Alma followed by consecutive home games against Adrian and Albion. Then the Dutchmen travel to Kalamazoo before concluding league action against Olivet at home.

Hope Coeds in Sports

As women continue to gain stature in national athletic circles, Hope College has also been expanding its women's sports program in order to offer the best possible agenda to interested coeds. According to Cindy Bean, assistant professor of physical education, the women's sports financial budget has been increased significantly during the past few years, allowing the department to broaden its program, 'although there still is a ways to go,' adds Sandy Parker, assistant professor of physical education.

Some of the biggest changes noted by Bean are: a greater number of participating women, a larger competitive schedule, and better and more equipment. Also, Bean informs, there is now a more equal use of facilities by Hope men and women athletes. "The established philosophy at Hope has become that sport is an educational experience for every athlete in every sport," she explains.

Presently Hope offers field hockey, volleyball, basketball, archery, and tennis as varsity sports for women. "We have an insufficient coaching staff to provide any more competitive sports at this time, but this is certainly one of our goals for the future," Bean emphasizes.

"Our sports program can only get stronger because of our women's attitude," Bean maintains. "Our athletes are taking themselves more seriously. They have a desire to win, dedication, and a willingness to try hard."

However, most Hope women athletes do not align themselves with the popular "Billy Jean philosophy" which sees sports as an opportunity for sexual combat, according to Bean. "Our athletes want to show they can be women in spite of their sport," she reports. Parker adds: "Our women go into sports mostly just for the pleasure of competing, just like men do!"
A Fitting Tribute: Lubbers Center for Education

college to survive, Hope must develop a sense of confidence in the type of quality education she was offering—a confidence strong enough to overcome the challenges of limited resources, stimulate growth, and finally achieve distinction. Let us examine the various measures Dr. Lubbers took to achieve this goal.

1) The Immediate College Community

During the first few years of Dr. Lubbers' term, students were housed in barracks and an ancient remodeled junior high school. Many students were served meals in nearby buildings leased by the college. The G.I. student bulge had occurred but not in the right places. Even this makeshift campus had required a high level of ingenuity and practicality. In these early years, when the factors of time and money made the erection of permanent buildings an impossibility, Dr. Lubbers was quick to realize the virtues of fresh paint, trimmed lawns, and new sidewalks, ceilings and lighting. He is remembered as saying, "If we don't have a campus of unusual splendor, let's at least make it clean!"

One of his main goals, however, became to provide a first-rate campus, adequate to meet the student's educational and living needs. The Korean War brought enrollments down temporarily, giving the college a chance to catch her breath and assess her immediate and future plans. During this period, Durfee Hall and the central heating plant were constructed.

The late 50's and early 60's heralded a second enrollment rush, as "war babies" entered Hope College. In 1956, the college awarded 247 degrees and a program of physical expansion was initiated, resulting in the construction of the John B. Nykerk Music Hall and Snow Auditorium, Kollen Hall, Phelps Hall, and Van Zanten Library. The acquisition and contributions of Van Staal's Athletic Fields; the modernization of Carnegie Gymnasium and the remodeling of Graves Hall. In addition, when Lubbers arrived, Ewell Hall and the fraternity complex were under construction.

Thus, during the Lubbers era, Hope's campus experienced a total renovation and became a place where students could live and work with pride.

But Dr. Lubbers realized that fine buildings were not the only student need to be filled. He established the first health center, realizing that this was a responsibility the college owed its students. Long before, the days of a counseling center, Dr. Lubbers opened his office door to students, whether their needs were individual or communal.

Methodologically, Lubbers used to tune in on campus feelings was the popular President's Luncheon, where a cross-section of the student body was given the opportunity to periodically communicate their thoughts and opinions. These sessions were very informal, the only rule of order being: "No one may quote anyone else!"

If any "formula" existed for Dr. Lubbers' position of respect among students, it had one main component—concern for the students' needs, for this concern would give rise to a sense of pride which would in turn prompt every student to pride himself.

Dr. Lubbers was equally concerned with faculty needs. In 1945, each teacher was assigned a room to serve chaluy as his classroom and office. Dr. Lubbers quickly remedied this impractical situation by carving offices from classrooms, for he realized the necessity of creating a more professional atmosphere for the college's staff.

Dr. Lubbers encouraged faculty members to become engaged in professional activities of research and study. These types of pursuits were relatively unprecedented at Hope and difficult to accomplish because of budget limitations and heavy teaching loads. Dr. Lubbers' encouragement often took the form of aiding in securing funds. These scholarly activities soon paid off in acquiring more recognition of Hope by the larger academic world.

The great increase of students necessitated the hiring of many new faculty members. Hope included many "individuals on amazingly strong fund-raising organization during Lubbers' presidency. Upon the completion of Durfee Hall, the college adopted the Village Square as a method of obtaining the money necessary to furnish the new dorm. Since then, this annual event has continued to provide considerable funds for the college's furnishing and decorating needs, while also bringing Hope to the churches' attention and promoting goodwill between the college and congregations.

Both Dr. and Mrs. Lubbers had a role in bringing the Women's League to this level of success.

2) The Alumni

Dr. Lubbers believed that informed and loyal alumni could be a source of great strength to the college. Therefore, he appointed both a director and a secretary of alumni relations, and in 1947 instigated the publishing of a quarterly alumni magazine. The presence of many alumni chapters across the country today is evidence to support Dr. Lubbers' belief that Hope graduates maintain affection for their alma mater, and this affection deserves avenues for expression.

3) The Athletics

Dr. Lubbers also wanted to strengthen Hope's ties with the church. This was a challenging goal in a period when many churches were questioning the social practice of campus dances. Dr. Lubbers, however, was an apt public speaker, and armed with a supply of anecdotes as well as his convictions concerning Hope's importance, was often able to sway even the most skeptical audiences.

The Women's League for Hope College, in existence since 1929, emerged as an educational opportunities formerly available only in larger universities.

During this period, the college also earned accreditation by the National Association for the Accreditation of Teacher Education, the American Association of University Women, the American Chemical Society, and the National Association of Schools of Music, increasing both the college's stature and renown. In addition, Hope was included in several academic rating surveys, including the 1957 Chicago Tribune survey which placed Hope among the ten best coed liberal arts colleges in the nation. Although Dr. Lubbers shared the colleges enthusiasm over this honor, he also recognized the importance of a student being recognized for his pedestal or on the spot?, realizing the responsibilities and implications of Hope's acquired position in national academic circles.

Thus we see that Dr. Lubbers successfully led Hope through one of its most difficult periods as it attempted to merge with a growing, modern community of academic institutions. By instilling confidence, he taught the college to face the problems ahead. He taught that periods of crisis can also be periods of opportunity, and this spirit continues today to serve as an impetus for continued growth and betterment.

Upon his departure from Hope, Dr. Lubbers was elected president of the Iowa Association of Private Colleges and Universities. His ties with Hope remain strong. Trips to visit friends and associates occur periodically. In 1970 he delivered the fall convocation address. His active alliance with the Board of Hope fund has been instrumental in providing the college with the financial resources necessary to support the college's expansion and development.

Despite his talents and achievements, Dr. Lubbers is basically a humble man. He has never taken his resonance from the president's title. He has been a better listener than even a remarkable person like himself. "In all thy ways acknowledge Him, and He will direct thy paths."

In this context, we hope, Dr. Lubbers that the legacies left behind will continue to benefit a few of the many who have known and worked with you through the years.

My first contact with Dr. Lubbers was at the Board of Trustees meeting at which I was being interviewed in regard to my coming to Hope College as President. After the questioning had proceeded for perhaps an hour and was obviously coming to a conclusion, Dr. Lubbers asked his first and only question: "Are you comfortable with the method that I have used to answer your questions? Why did I ever allow myself to get into this position?"

My heart was in tune with Dr. Lubbers in the way I thought of him, a man who understood the realities of what it means to be a college president, and from his experiences knew the thoughts and emotions which frequently take place in the recesses of our minds and souls. Later during the course of these meetings I had opportunity to talk further with Dr. Lubbers and told him how much I appreciated the perceptions and wisdom which were evident in his question, and that I will greatly value the opportunity for future conversations with him. He immediately invited Mrs. Van Wylen and me to the dinner with Mrs. Lubbers and him the evening. We did so, and it proved to be enlightening that both Mrs. Van Wylen and I always treasure. I found Irwin Lubbers to be a man of great vision, unbounded compassion, delightful humor, and deep spiritual insights. Meeting Mrs. Lubbers was an unusually delightful experience; her grace and warmth enabled us to have a very meaningful friendship on our first meeting. As Mrs. Van Wylen and I traveled back to Ann Arbor that night, we knew that we had been with truly great people. We also realized that to carry on the tradition of excellence which Dr. and Mrs. Lubbers had established would call for our very best efforts, as well as a reliance on the grace of God which was so evident in their lives.

My subsequent associations with Dr. and Mrs. Lubbers, which have, fortunately, been quite frequent, have only served to enhance the deep respect and admiration which came from our first meeting. At this very significant occasion in their lives and in the life of Hope College, I extend to them our sincere gratitude and appreciation, and our affection and love.

Gordon J. Van Wylen
President

Those of us who knew Irwin Lubbers as a teacher, Hope College President and cherished friend never cease to marvel at this inspiring leader, a superb communicator of lofty dreams and bold plans on which to act with confidence and daring.

Whether you chatted man to man with the president or listened as he addressed a group, somehow you were motivated to action. His organizational talent was an indispensable asset when he assumed the Presidency of Hope College in 1945.

Innovated ideas were translated into reality and when occasionally one failed for lack of support, Dr. Lubbers accepted these reverses with commendable grace.

With good humor reality he measured his countless achievements, always accepted with humility and quiet satisfaction.

As Hope’s President, Dr. Lubbers employed his many talents with consummate skill for the single purpose of improving educational opportunities for Hope’s students.

It has been my privilege to enjoy a long association with the Lubbers and no words adequately express my admiration, respect and affection for Dr. and Mrs. Lubbers. Surely no more suitable tribute can be paid to one of Hope’s “first families” than to recognize Irwin and Margaret by establishing the Irwin J. Lubbers Center for the Humanities and Social Sciences.

When my father was president of Hope College, our family life was immersed in the life of the institution to an extent that seems remarkable to me. The way he worked at his job and the way all of us felt about Hope College reflected the kind of commitment he had to the people who made up the institution and the values that they represented. His philosophy of life was synonymous with the philosophy represented by and symbolized by Hope College. I can’t imagine a better match of a man and an institution. I feel fortunate to have learned from him and to have a father who is always been able to have the highest respect and affection.

A $1,000 book fund to promote peace and reconciliation has been established in Van Zoeren Library to honor the late Abraham J. Muste (1885-1967), internationally known apostle for peace.

Muste's concern for reforming American society had already taken root while he was a student at Hope. In his valedictory address, he said: "The external unrest of humanity and the discontent of the soul urge men to action, and in action is the principle of all progress on the part of the race and the ultimate warrant of peace to the individual. Thus all the simplest laws summon us to conflict."

World War I brought out Muste's first declaration of pacifism. From this period to the mid '30s, Muste became increasingly involved in reform, working tirelessly for the labor movement.

Muste is best remembered for his contributions to the pacific movement and his affiliation with the Fellowship of Reconciliation and other smaller peace groups. During World War II he championed the rights of conscientious objectors and helped found the Congress of Racial Equality.

In the late '30s and early '60s, Muste served as chairman of the Committee for Nonviolent Action. Opposed to U.S. involvement in Viet Nam, Muste spoke across the country and participated in demonstrations, always insisting that the peace was the only Christian and humane answer to international conflict and clamping to the hope that man could learn and choose not to destroy himself.

G. John Van Zoeren, principal donor to the Van Zoeren Library, was honored at a party celebrating his 90th birthday in June, 1974, at Haven Park Nursing Home in Zeeland where he is a resident. Those attending the party were some of his former coworkers at the chemical plant.

A scholarship fund to help deserving students attend Hope has been created in memory of Frank B. Lounsberry, former vice president and head of research for the Allegheny Ludlam Steel Corp.

The Frank B. Lounsberry Educational Foundation was established in the will and testament of the late Mrs. Marguerite P. Lounsberry.

The $47,648 trust will allow Hope to help worthy public high school graduates who would otherwise be financially unable to attend college.

Sara Winter Zwemer returned early in March to Claremont, CA, from a three-month visit with old friends in familiar places and the Golden Jubilee celebration of Sherman High School in Chitrak, India. She wrote: "It was wonderful to see the many improvements and heart-warming to note with what great affection people all over the area think of all their former associates in the Arcot Mission. This is a new day with young churches grown up, but they still belong to our family!"

A small but enthusiastic group of Hope alumni returned to campus in July to participate in the educational, cultural and recreational programs of the College while enjoying western Michigan's beautiful landscape.

Bill and Libby Hillegonds, directors of the first Hope Summer Alumni Camp, offered a balanced program designed to give participants a broadened perspective of the academic program of the College. The format was not structured minute-by-minute, giving participants the opportunity to enjoy the recreational opportunities of Holland, or visit friends and relations, or just plain relax.

A highlight of the Camp was a mini-class program in which participants attended classes "taught" by professors from the departments of math, chemistry, psychology, communications and religion.

The group heard several thought provoking lectures during the week. They included a lecture on the Middle East by English professor John Holtenbach, a lecture on Robert Funkhauer by English professor Nancy Taylor, an environmental lecture by geology department chairman Dr. Cotter Tharin, a paper on "Art Today" by art department chairman Delbert Michel, a mini-recital on the Chapel organs by music professor Roger Davis and a presentation on a unique interdisciplinary study program in the sciences by English professors Joan Mueller and Elisabeth Riedly.

One afternoon was spent touring the college's biology field station with Prof. Paul Van Faasen serving as a guide.

Participants lived in Kollen Hall and ate most of their meals in Phelps Hall.

The 2nd annual Alumni Summer Camp has been scheduled for next July 28 to Aug. 1. Details will be sent alumni after Jan. 1 according to alumni coordinator Vern Schipper.
