If there ever was a clothing sale in Holland it is the one of John J. Rutgers who is advertising on the correspondence page of this issue. The sale will start this week Saturday and will continue through February. If prices count for anything this sale certainly should be a success, besides there is not an old garment in the store.

Beginning next Tuesday Feb. 16, to last the balance of this month, John Vander Sluis will have a general clean-up sale of all Remnants, Odds and Ends and all Winter goods. Prices will be so low that you can not resist buying. Mr. Vander Sluis never carries over any goods from one season to the other. These goods must all be turned into cash. Be on hand in good season Tuesday morning.

ZEELAND CHICKEN THIEVES GET THEIR

CHICKEN THIEVES
SENT TO PRISON

Judge Cross Doles Out Stiff Sentences
To Ottawa Offenders.

Stiff sentences were meted out to Grand Haven's three chicken thieves by Circuit Judge Orien S. Cross, yesterday afternoon.

Harry Vis, Martin Eding and John Heybeer were each sentenced to serve from nine months to five years in the reformatory at Ionia. Recommendation that the minimum sentence be served in each case was made by the court. These men will leave for Ionia this morning.

Harry Wierda was sentenced to serve from year to five in Jackson prison. He will be taken to Jackson Friday morning.

Ottawa county farmers, who suffered from the operations of the gang for the past two years say their losses will run well into hundreds of dollars. The capture of the quartet was affected by Deputy Sheriff Dornbos and Marshal Koolstra. So overjoyed were the farmers when they learned that the men had been apprehended that they presented each of the officers with a fine turkey.

Attorney C. C. Coburn of Grand Rapids was a Grand Haven visitor Wednesday in the interest of certain members of the "Zeeland chicken thieves case."

RED BREASTS HERE THE YEAR AROUND

Says Robins are No Criterion

An old resident of Grand Haven makes the statement that the appearance of robins any time during the winter has nothing whatever to do with the coming of spring. The reason, he says, for the birds remaining in this section through the winter is not known but that many times during his years as a resident of Michigan he has seen robins at various times during the winter.

A few in the vicinity have reported the appearance of robins and that spring was not very far away when such was the case.

OVER 400 HEAR THE HON. A. G.
PROCTER TELL OF LINCOLN

Over 400 people witnessed exercises by the children of the Maple Grove school and listened to an address on, "Unwritten History," by the Hon. A. G. Procter of St. Joseph at the High school auditorium last night. Mr. Procter was a personal friend of Mr. Lincoln and as a leader in politics from the border of Kansas he was intimately acquainted with Lincoln's public life. He described the convention at Chicago in 1860 that nominated Mr. Lincoln. He was a delegate to this convention. He told of the fight made by Seward of New York for nomination, of Horace Greeley's fight against Seward and how finally Lincoln, a man with no experience in public life was chosen when thirty fighting delegates from the south through their spokesman C. M. Clay asked for Lincoln as the man to preserve the Union and handle the civil war he was imminent. He described the campaign and how finally Lincoln carried every state. He described the inauguration of Lincoln and the presidents inaugural address. He then pictured Lincoln through the four years of war, his death and funeral, which he himself attended.

HARRY ORR SEND LETTER
ABOUT SHIP WRECK

Steamer Palmer Sinks the Steamer
Washington

The following letter and photograph was received from Harry Orr of Wm. Orr of this city. Harry is quartermaster on the U. S. revenue cutter Mohawk that does coast service for the government along the east shore.

The letter was written to Austin Harrington and explains itself.

New York
Jan. 31, '15.
U. S. R. C. Mohawk

Dear Friend:
I suppose you heard about this wreck. This the schooner E. Palmer that sank the steamship Washington a few days ago.

We tried to tow her into port but could not because she had both anchors down. She was also water logged. The seas were breaking over so we couldn't slip the anchor chains. Our hope was that the sea would go down so we stood by her and that night she rolled over so it will be a big job to blow her up.

Yours truly
Harry Orr.

REWARD COMES AFTER DEATH

HER PENSION CAME TOO LATE

Grand Haven Tribune—The short lease of life of most Civil war veterans and widows is illustrated in the case of Mary Sanford of Grand Haven for whom Congressman Carl E. Mapes has been attempting to get a pension. During his whole term in congress, Mr. Mapes has been endeavoring to get the pension bureau or congress to allow Mrs. Sanford an adequate pension.

He succeeded in getting the bill passed through the house some time ago. Recently it passed the senate and is now in conference.

A few days ago Mr. Mapes received word that Mrs. Sanford had died at her home in Grand Haven. Despite the fact that the bill passed both houses, Mrs. Sanford's heirs will realize nothing.

LARGEST LAKE SHIPS

American Freighter Schoonmaker a Veritable Ocean Liner

The largest passenger vessel on the Great Lakes is the Seandee, she is the largest and most costly sidewheel steamer in the world, costing two million dollars. She is 55 feet long, 98 1/2 feet beam, accommodates 1,500 sleeping passengers and has a passenger carrying capacity of 6,000 persons, with tonnage of 6381.

The largest American freighter on the lakes is the steamer Jas. M. Schoonmaker. She is 597 feet long, 64 feet wide and 8,603 tons burden. This ship is longer and wider than the White Star liners Majestic and Teutonic, which are 585 feet long and 57 feet wide. The Schoonmaker is considered longer than the American liners St. Louis and St. Paul, they being 560 feet long, and 63 feet wide. This will give some idea of the size of one of the larger lake ships which are veritable ocean liners. The Schoonmaker carried 442,100 tons of ore through the Soo canal in 1913 or about 300 train loads of 30 cars each.

SHERIFF DYKHUIS DIS- CHARGES DEPUTY

MARSHAL AND SHERIFF
AT SORE LOGGERSHEADS

Break Follows Marshal's Trip After
Prisoner Out of State; Claims
Right Equal to Sheriff in This Particular Case.

Grand Haven, Feb. 11—Chief of Police John Welch of Grand Haven and Sheriff Hans Dykhuis of Ottawa county are at loggerheads. The sheriff holds Marshal Welch in his capacity of deputy sheriff as appointed by the Ottawa county officer, should not accept any business matters directing attention outside of Michigan. Marshal Welch says such a regulation cannot be any more than a rule made by the sheriff himself and that, as chief of police, he has a perfect right to perform all the duties as prescribed by law.

Marshal Welch was one of Sheriff Dykhuis' deputies, appointed for 1915. When Marshal Welch announced Monday that he would go after Leroy P. Noy of Madison, Wis., wanted in Grand Haven on a charge of burglary, Sheriff Dykhuis immediately revoked the appointment of Marshal Welch as deputy sheriff, who went to Madison, returning Tuesday evening with his prisoner.

Inasmuch as he worked up the case from the beginning and finally located his man, Marshal Welch says he certainly had a right to make the arrest, regardless of regulations. Also as chief of police he is vested with equally as much right in this case as is the sheriff, he states.

This break between the two departments has aroused no small amount of attention all over the county.

HOLLAND TOWN

In all probability Ottawa Beach will be "open" again the coming season; in other words it will be "wet," or in still other words a bar will be operated there after it has been dry territory for three or four years. This noon the Holland township board approved the bonds of J. Boyd Pantlind of Grand Rapids. These bonds have been forwarded to the county clerk at Grand Haven in the usual course of procedure and in due time a license for conducting a bar at the resort will be issued in accordance with the liquor laws of the state of Michigan.

This action is the result of many and repeated efforts on the part of men who wished to operate a bar at the resort. When several years ago the bar was closed at Ottawa Beach the prediction was made that it would be impossible to get another bar opened there for a long time to come. And that prediction came true. But it was not because no attempts were made to secure a license. But all attempts were blocked by the township board. This board refused to approve the bonds of all applicants. Applicants could get plenty of bondsmen outside of the township, but the board refused to recognize these. They pointed to the law that the only bondsmen they were compelled to approve were those who had a sufficient amount of property in the township itself. But Mr. Pantlind has finally succeeded in securing the necessary personal bonds with Holland township bondsmen, and the township board had no alternative but approve the bonds.

Although the perch are coming back big at the present time in Black Lake, perch is not the only fish that is being caught. Local fishermen have been rather unusually lucky the past winter in the catching of muskellonge and pickerel. Hundreds of pounds of this kind of fish have been caught by spearing through the ice. This kind of fishing is said to be fine sport and many have indulged in it the past winter.

Roy Heath of Holland township has been one of the most successful last week in the big Bayou he caught one muskellonge weighing 22 pounds and another weighing 35 pounds. The 35 pounder was 46-inches long. On the same day that it was caught Mr. Heath caught a smaller muskellonge weighing 5 pounds. The large one was so much larger than the five pounder that it could easily have swallowed it without inconvenience.

Many another fisherman has been making fine catches of muskellonge and pickerel.

THE MASTER KEY—By John Fleming Wilson

CHAPTER VII.

Wilkerson the Plotter.

WHEN he had thoroughly learned his lesson Wilkerson coolly, in spite of the letter he had received from Jean Darnell in New York, telling him of her willingness to finance her scheme, determined he must be friends with John Dorr, at least outwardly. So he smoothed out the visible wrinkles in his face, trying to veil the malicious gleam in his eyes, and spent two days quietly trying to show his amiability, not only to the miners, but to Dorr himself.

Wilkerson was absolutely certain, that his old partner, Thomas Gallon, had really made a rich find and that he had lost the location and accepted "The Master Key" as a substitute in the hope that by working it thoroughly he might find the mother lode. In other words, careful manipulation of Wilkerson flushed. "Miss Gallon, I hope that you don't think that I'm not doing my best. I am. John Dorr and I have gone over this matter together. He agrees with me that we have absolutely lost the vein and that if 'The Master Key' is to pay anything more we must find it again."

Ruth's expression softened at the mention of John Dorr's name. "What does he think?" she demanded. "What is the chance of finding it again?"

"If we run west, Dorr thinks," said Wilkerson slowly, "we'll recover the vein, but that will cost money, which we haven't got. Do you realize, Miss Gallon, that the pay roll here is over $1,000 a day? Within a week I have to pay out over $30,000 for the month, and I tell you frankly that when I have paid that there will be no more money to the account of 'The Master Key' in the bank in Silent Valley."

Ruth realized that he was speaking the truth, even lessening the immediateness of the catastrophe, but her distaste of the man was too great to allow her to discuss the matter with him in the intimate way which she felt was necessary. She must see John Dorr.

She quickly dismissed Wilkerson and then went to Dorr's office herself, meeting him at the door. She bore as a gift a small basket of fruit. Without preliminaries she said, "John, are we broke?"

He laughed; then his face grew grave. "The mine is not paying," he said briefly.

"But can't we make it pay? What is the matter?"

"Money," said John.

"But why money?"

"It will cost $10,000 to drive that new tunnel," John added as they entered the office.

"But Mr. Wilkerson just said he was going to pay over $30,000 to the men," Ruth said soberly. "If we have that much money, why can't we?"

A tenderness flooded Dorr's eyes. He comprehended her helplessness, understood why old Thomas Gallon had been so insistent that he, John Dorr, should look after her. She was a mere child. He tried to explain the exact situation, with the result that Ruth finally pushed him off his high stool, got up on to it herself and wrote in a large, childish hand right across the face of one of his new drawings, "I must raise $10,000!"

She swung around to John and asked, "How can I get $10,000?"

Dorr hesitated. His plan was risky in view of Wilkerson's attitude, but, after all, the money must be raised. He said quietly: "Pledge the stock you own in 'The Master Key.' I know a man in New York who will loan you $10,000 on it." He bent over her earnestly. "But listen, Ruth. If we spend the $10,000 and we don't find the mother lode, you lose the mine. It's just like a mortgage on a farm."

"But you wouldn't suggest this if it weren't the only way out," she said briefly. "Now, how am I to do this?"

"You must go to New York and see George Everett. I will give you a letter to him, and he will see to it that you get the extra money we need. Meanwhile I'll keep the mine going."

Ruth gave him her full eyes. "You don't like Mr. Wilkerson, do you?"

"I don't trust him," he replied. At this moment the superintendent entered the office, and seeing their two heads close together over the desk, he scowled.

"I came to see what we are going to do about that new tunnel," he said roughly. "I don't like to start in anything I can't finish."

Ruth swung around to say quietly: "I am going to New York city to see Mr. George Everett, a friend of Mr. Dorr's, and I will come back with the $10,000."

"Everett, Everett"—repeated Wilkerson, "who is George Everett?"

Despite John's frowns, Ruth volubly explained. When she had finished to be filled with sunshine and a familiar zest of scurrying over dry California on half broken horseflesh.

"All right, we'll ride," he said. "While you are getting ready I'll write a letter to George Everett."

Ruth laid one slender hand on John's shoulder.

"You're always doing things for me, John," she said simply. "Some day I'll do something for you." She slipped away without a backward glance.

Dorr watched her trip down the hill toward her own little bungalow, and it seemed to him as if he held one end of a golden thread that she was spinning through sunshine. It was an echo in his heart. That thread would be 3,000 miles long before she saw good old Everett. He picked up his pen and wrote rapidly:

"Master Key" Mine, June —
George Everett, 111 Broadway, New York City:

Dear George—When a young, slender, brown eyed, golden haired girl walks into your office and says, "I'm Ruth Gallon," and hands you the papers that she will have in her little hand bag, please see that she gets $10,000. Ever yours,
JOHN DORR.

He would have added more. His finer instinct told him that Ruth should be the first to put the whole scheme before the cool headed, rather cold hearted George Everett. He addressed the envelope and sealed it. Then he went to the telephone and called up the station at Silent Valley.

"Bill," he said quietly after listening a moment to see if any one was on the line, "I want to send a telegram. Take it over the wire, please. I'll be down in a little while and pay you."

"Sure," floated back a cheerful voice.

"I wish my credit was as good as yours, ten miles away, but it seems as if I have to be always present when I ask for it. Go ahead, John."

"This is it, Bill," said John:

George Everett, 111 Broadway, New York City:

Miss Ruth Gallon leaves tonight to see you about "Master Key" stock. Meet her and wire me on her arrival. Take good care of her or I'll take care of you.

JOHN DORR.

The operator repeated the message and involuntarily adopted a little of John's savage intonation on the last four words. It woke him up to the fact that he was allowing his feelings to become public. He began to see why it was that men looked at him strangely at times, when it was a question of Ruth's interests. He must restrain himself.

The operator did not hang up immediately, but said hesitatingly: "Say, John, there's a wire here; just came in from 'The Master Key' mine. It does not seem to jibe with yours. Wilkerson sent it."

"I'll play fair," said John to himself, and he called back over the wire, "Bill, that's yours and Wilkerson's business, not mine." If he had listened to the tenor of the message directed to Jean Darnell, in New York, he would have learned what Wilkerson was plotting.

For years Wilkerson had built up for himself a golden image in Jean Darnell. No one realized better than himself that she was a creature of appetite, a lover of silk and velvet. A woman whose eyes widened at sight of a Persian cat. Feminine in every degree, womanly in none. But he himself, dominated absolutely, utterly and completely by his desires, had fallen under her spell, and he was going to win her, no matter how. It is a strange thing that when a dishonest man finally yields to an honest passion nothing will satisfy him but the utmost observance of the ritual of society. Harry Wilkerson's vision was of walking up the aisle of a great church to meet his bride at the altar.

Yet he had always thought of her in terms of gold; that was a contrast—the pallid, satiny, blue eyed woman, voluptuous, soft—and his image of her built of yellow gold, dragged out of the bowels of "The Master Key" mine.

This image was now before his eyes: Instead of the warm, sun blessed California hills, with their faint scent of sage and cactus, he saw a richly furnished room and breathed the odor of attar of roses. Let us not follow him in his dreams. But looking over his shoulder an hour later we read:

"Master Key" Mine, June —
Jean Darnell, Astor House, New York City:

Find George Everett at 111 Broadway and meet Ruth Gallon in Chicago on Santa Fe express leaving here this evening. Introduce Drake as Everett after you have seen Everett and keep the girl to yourself until I can arrange matters. HARRY.

"I can't send this through any office near here," he thought, "so I guess I'll ride down to Valle Vista and hand it to the conductor. He can send it from Los Angeles."

Three days later Ruth Gallon settled herself in the seat of a Pullman that was soon to leave Chicago for New York. She was excited. In crossing town from one depot to another through the streets roaring with traffic she had heard sounds that had never met her ears before—the sounds of the world's business which, oddly enough, seemed to be mostly bawled over cobblestones. The faint echo of that noise still rang in her ears. It appalled her to think that she must dwell with men who lived in such an atmosphere; also she felt very lonely. She thought of the mine, of Tom Kane in the door of his cook shanty, of the great ore bucket swinging across the gulch toward the mill, of John, bending over his blue prints and papers; of the grave on the hill where her father lay, still within the precincts of "The Master Key."

It had been so impressed upon her that her mission was of vital importance to the mine, that these tender emotions flowed into the same channel with her really keen business instinct. She pulled the key, warm from her bosom, out of its hiding place and looked at it.

CHAPTER VIII.

Jean Darnell's Ruse.

"THIS must be Miss Gallon," said a pleasant voice.

Ruth looked up to see a woman of florid beauty and dressed in somewhat extravagant style looking down at her out of great, tawny, velvet eyes. Western bred, Ruth responded amiably to this salutation, though she had not the faintest idea who the woman was.

"Yes, I am Miss Gallon."

"I am Mrs. Darnell," said the woman. "May I sit down? I am an old friend of your friend, John Dorr's. He wired me that I would find you on this train." The lie was so plausible that Ruth merely blushed, thinking that it was one more token of John Dorr's carelessness of her comfort and safety. To her inexperienced eyes this woman represented the tremendous city to which she was going. Her dress, her manner, her jewels, the evasive perfume that she affected were all strange and impressive to her. She moved over a little to allow Mrs. Darnell to sit down.

"John never spoke of you," said Ruth simply. "I did not have the faintest notion that I was to meet any of his friends. Do you live in New York?"

"Yes, I live in New York. I happened to be in Chicago, and through Mr. Everett I heard from John."

"Oh, you know Mr. Everett?" cried Ruth. "He is the man I am going to see in New York," and she went on to tell, as best she could, the gist of her mission.

It was typical of the woman to whom she was talking that she did not interrupt this naive narrative. She sat in silence, occasionally allowing her great eyes to rest on Ruth's fair face with an assumption of affection. As a matter of fact, she was profoundly interested. Life had taught Jean Darnell a great many things, and among them had been the great lesson of self preservation—the saving for herself of money, of comfort, of health and of good looks. Now it was a question of money, prime among them all, and her rather keen wits saw precisely the chances which Wilkerson was taking. She recalled his oft repeated statements that there was money in "The Master Key" and his latest letters imploring her to help him get control of the stock.

When Ruth ended up with a gentle "And so I told John I'd come and see what I could do," the elder woman smiled gently. Times were not so good with her as they had been, and if Harry Wilkerson could put this deal through and make money for them all it would simplify many a problem which she dully pondered at night.

"Mr. Everett will meet us at the train," she said briefly, "and then you can tell him all this. Meanwhile, suppose we talk about something else."

"But I can't think of anything else," said Ruth.

"Oh, you will," said Mrs. Darnell. "You can combine the pleasure of seeing New York with your little business. Mr. Everett will quickly settle that part of it, and I shall take great pleasure in showing you about Manhattan. I presume you are fond of opera?"

"I have never been to the opera," Ruth responded. "I should love to go, but when I do go I must go all alone, she went on impulsively. "I think opera must be like church—one wants to go all by oneself."

Mrs. Darnell turned very slowly and for the first time in many years revealed a secret thought: "Do you know that my only pleasant memories, my dear, are of myself?"

The bitterness of that confession, with all its implication, wholly escaped Ruth's sensitive but inexperienced mind. Yet there was something in the tone that warmed her heart to this effulgent creature. At least, she was not going into the great city all alone, nor confront Mr. Everett by herself. Mrs. Darnell made her feel that she was competently protected.

When they arrived the next morning at the Grand Central station in New York city Mrs. Darnell quietly introduced her to a slim, rather handsome young man, who seemed ill at ease until he had drawn Ruth's companion aside for a moment for a chat while the porter collected their luggage.

"I don't just like this game," he said. "In the first place, Everett is a big man in the city, and this Miss Gallon doesn't look to me like a girl you could fool long. Anyway, I can't understand what you are trying to do. Jean You must know what sort of a fellow Harry Wilkerson is by this time. Why play his hand for him?"

"I don't notice you holding any trumps in your hand," she returned gently, but with a faint gleam in her eyes which made him draw back. "This is my game, and I expect you to play your part. You come on now and be George Everett. The girl is as ignorant as a pigeon. Remember what I told you."

"About that stock?" he said sullenly. "Yes, the stock. You understand that she came to New York simply to raise money for this mine. You are supposed to handle the business for her. If you don't learn all that is to be learned about 'The Master Key' mine in the next two days you are more than the fool I take you for."

She drew him back to where Ruth stood amid the suit cases and hand bags and said, "Miss Gallon, Mr. Everett has been telling me that he, too, has heard from John Dorr about your coming."

Ruth scanned him politely. But the interest died in her eyes when she saw what sort of a man he was. He might be a friend of John's; he might be the man to rescue "The Master Key" from bankruptcy, but he did not interest her.

Drake, trying to play the part of the busy broker and, being thoroughly and temperamentally an actor, felt the chill of this lack of interest and would certainly have fallen down on his part had he not been prompted by Mrs. Darnell. He was glad to hasten away to find the elusive taxi.

The real George Everett got out of his limousine on the corner of Vanderbilt avenue and hurried through the revolving doors; brisk, debonair, alert, decided; with that happy style which denies foppery and avoids surveillance. It seemed strange that he should have a photograph in his hand at which he looked intently until he got in the course. There he stopped and, with the picture still in his hand, commenced watching the faces of the people thronging through the gates under the vast dome. As he waited he frowned slightly. "Why had John Dorr sent him during business hours on a wild goose chase?" He thought of this articulately and then smiled to himself. "A wild goose!" he muttered. It brought up darkling sunset vistas, lakes smooth as quicksilver under the evening sky, and slim, gray, beautiful birds homing downward. The frown left his forehead.

"After all it will be good to see somebody from out of doors," he said to himself.

Half an hour later he discovered that he had irretrievably missed the arrival of the Chicago express and with it Ruth Gallon. He went back into his car and drove to his office. Once there he called his head clerk, an ancient and fragile man, as crisp and bloodless as the money that passes on Wall street, and told him to see at what hotel Miss Ruth Gallon was stopping. Then he wired John Dorr:

111 Broadway, New York
John Dorr, "Master Key" Mine, Silent Valley, Cal.:

Could not find Miss Gallon at train. Am seeking for her, as it is important that the business be settled immediately. Wire any possible address.

GEORGE EVERETT.

Far out on Broadway, above the eighties, an operator was ticking off another message addressed to Harry Wilkerson. It read:

25 A West Eighty-fourth St., New York.
Harry Wilkerson, "Master Key" Mine, via Valle Vista, Cal.:

Everything all right. George met Ruth. She is now with me and waiting further particulars. Have seen Everett under guise of prospective purchaser of stock. The girl is charming.

JEAN DARNELL.

Some houses, like some people, should never be illumined with sunshine, and Mrs. Darnell's residence, overlooking the Hudson, was of this type. Its dull, red stone front, marked by windows that seemed blind to all that went by, was not distinctive in that neighborhood. A thousand doors within a mile would have suggested to the passerby nothing more nor less than the great oak portals within which she lived. To Ruth Gallon, of course, the house seemed tremendously formal and stately. Within she found an atmosphere so absolutely strange and alien to all she had ever known that she shrank within herself and had nothing to say until she had been conducted to her own room on the third floor and a discreet maid was busy unpacking her things. Ruth felt that society had already laid its restrictions on her. She recognized the maid as the "gown and hat" policeman.

This silent, but exceedingly obtrusive personage having retired at last, Ruth studied her surroundings. When she had completed her survey she thought to herself that there were two things wanting. One was a silk haired Persian cat and the other a flaming colored scarf across the bed that completed the altogether of an apartment severe ly luxurious. Then she tried to analyze the odor, delicate yet insistent, which she was ever afterward to associate with Jean Darnell and her experience in New York.

At last she traced it to some pallid flowers in the great green and dark red vase, whose unwholesome beauty was that of plants whose roots have never been in good, sound soil. They looked to her much like lilies, whose pads had floated on some dark and opalescent pool, viscid with odors of the night. She was still staring at these and sniffing their scent through widened nostrils when Mrs. Darnell knocked on the door and entered slowly. She had changed her street gown for a negligee, which instantly caught the girl's appreciative eye.

"You look beautiful," she said quickly. Jean Darnell turned her tawny eyes on her and smiled faintly.

"I am not usually up until noon," she responded, "and I am getting old, my dear." She threw out her jeweled hands with a sparkling gesture of half comic resignation. Ruth laughed.

"John Dorr says everybody gets old in New York. Don't you like him?"

Mrs. Darnell looked into the clear eyes of the girl and almost failed to follow her baser instinct. But at that loose throat she saw the heavy gold of "The Master Key." As if it had supernatural powers, the sight of that key locked the door of her heart. "Of course I like John," she said easily. "We must get everything fixed up now. George will be here—George Everett, of course, I mean—tonight, and you and he can talk the business over."

"You know, we simply must have the money," Ruth returned earnestly. "The mine isn't paying now, but John knows where we can find the mother lode again; then we'll all be rich."

"Ah!" said Jean Darnell. "You're selling stock, I presume?"

"I own it all," Ruth returned proudly. "It's my mine. My father left it to me when he died." She did not see the sullen hatred that slowly flamed until Jean Darnell's eyes fairly blazed. In her own room she stood a moment breathless. Then she tore off her fleecy negligee in an intensity of silent rage and despair, seen only by the unexcited eyes of the god whom she had defied. It is wickedness, not virtue, which is theatrical, and at this moment Jean Darnell flung herself into her evil passion with all the abandon of the tragedienne, only her voice was almost inaudible: "Tom Gallon, Tom Gallon, dead though you are, I'll have revenge!" When her fury had spent itself—and, like all physically indolent women, she could not yield long to emotion—she prepared her campaign.

First she called up George Drake and made certain that he would be at her home for dinner that evening. Then she called up two old acquaintances who were always glad to fill empty chairs at her well set table. This settled, she again sought Ruth and persuaded her from going down immediately to Everett's office.

"You must be very tired, my dear," Mrs. Darnell purred. "And, anyway, you know, in New York young ladies do not go about unescorted to men's business offices, and I cannot go with you until tomorrow or next day."

"That will be too late," cried Ruth. Mrs. Darnell opened her eyes wide, as if in surprise. "Mr. Everett is coming to dinner tonight," she said soothingly. "You can talk business to your heart's content right here."

"That will be much better," said Ruth.

When her hostess was gone she stood by the window trying to think more calmly of all that had happened since she had left "The Master Key" mine, but one thought was prominent: "What was John Dorr doing?" She recalled that there was three hours' difference in time. It was now 2 o'clock in New York, and it was only 11 in Silent Valley. Tom Kane would be just making his final preparations for dinner, and she could almost smell the odor of his coffee. These home details occupied her mind tenderly for an hour; then she caught up and dressed herself for the street again.

She had barely finished when the maid came in with tea, followed by Mrs. Darnell.

"My child, what in the world are you going to do?" asked Jean. "Look, we'll have tea together."

"I was going out for a walk," Ruth responded. "You know I have never been in New York, and it seems a shame to waste this fine afternoon. Anyway, I want some fresh air."

"What was John Dorr doing?"

Mrs. Darnell looked at her thoughtfully and smiled presently in a way that made Ruth flush. It seemed to convict her of discourtesy to her hostess. "You had best have tea!" and the girl obediently removed her hat and jacket and sat down.

It seemed to her that the rest of the afternoon passed in flashes of such entertainment as she had never known. It must be remembered that Ruth, living in the mine nearly all her life since leaving school, had not had the advantages or the society of trained, alert, smart, clever women. Mrs. Darnell was very clever and she used her every art to keep Ruth's attention. She succeeded.

That night at dinner George Drake, posing as George Everett, suddenly dashed darkly and turned to the girl at his left. "Miss Gallon," he said in a whisper, flashing his dark eyes toward his hostess to see if she were watching. "I really hope that the trust you put in me won't find misplaced. I'll do everything I can to help you, even if it is funny that I didn't know that John Dorr has red hair."

Ruth looked at him very soberly. "I don't just understand a great many things," she said. "It all seems so strange, Mr. Everett, and you know, I am worried. I ought to go to the Ritz Carlton and see if there are telegrams for me, for that's where John would wire me. I'm afraid Mrs. Darnell thinks I'm awfully impolite because I want to go and make sure for myself that John has not wired."

"I'll go myself," said the false Everett, looking at his plate. "I'll go tonight. In fact, I'll go right now. He caught Mrs. Darnell's eye and said apologetically: "I'm afraid, my dear hostess, I'll have to leave you. I have just remembered my solemn promise to be at the club at 9 o'clock, and besides, I've promised Miss Gallon to go to the Ritz and get her mail and telegrams." He turned to Ruth and she noticed a very grave look in his eyes, which she was to understand later. He bent gallantly over her hand and lightly kissed her fingers. "You may trust me," he said.

(To Be Continued Next Week)

"Look here, Wilkerson, maybe both of us have made a mistake."

the present mine, painstaking toll in figuring out the trend of the various veins, would lead to that particular pot of gold which had been at the end of Gallon's youthful rainbow of hopes. Wilkerson was determined to be master of "The Master Key." He needed the skilled aid of John Dorr with his engineering knowledge.

John Dorr knew that there was a tremendous secret in Gallon's life represented by the golden key which he had torn from his neck and handed to Ruth when he was dying. That key had figures on it. He understood that those scratches on that golden surface represented something tremendously important, and that the old map had committed Ruth to his charge and had spoken of Wilkerson as his former partner and said, "Wilkerson knows."

What was it that Wilkerson knew? It was better, thought John, to accept his amiable advances and thereby possibly gain his confidence and find out for Ruth's sake that secret which Thomas Gallon had taken to his grave.

So on the second day after the restoration of the old scale of wages and his own reappointment as engineer in charge John went down to the office and said bluntly: "Look here, Wilkerson, maybe both of us have made a mistake. I'm sure my only aim is to help out in the promotion of 'The Master Key.'"

Wilkerson received him amiably. "I'm sure my only interest in this business is to fetch into good ore. All that we are digging out now is dirt without any pay in it."

"I think I know where we can strike first class stuff," Dorr returned. "There is sure pay rock if we travel south from that main tunnel. We may have to go a couple of hundred feet."

Wilkerson looked at him shrewdly. "That will cost money," he remarked. "But I'll take this up with Ruth."

John looked at him with a faint trace of the old enmity in his eyes. He did not like to hear the first name of the mistress of "The Master Key" on those lips.

"If the mine is not paying it's up to us to make it pay," he remarked.

When Wilkerson entered the bungalow Ruth perceived a great change in his attitude. He was no longer sullen, and he was evidently worried. It was a clean worry, and she smiled at him. Had not her father come in with that expression on his face many times? She put her chin in the cup of her hands and asked cheerfully, "What is it, Mr. Wilkerson?"

"May I sit down?" he said awkwardly.

She motioned to a chair, and he pulled out of his pocket a paper covered with figures.

"I think you ought to know how things are going along, Miss Gallon," he said, with unusual formality. "When your father made me superintendent of this mine I did not realize that the responsibility was so heavy as it is. We are not making any money. We are losing money. You can see by the reports which I have here that our cleanup lately has been far less than our expenses, and our last one showed practically nothing. We must find the vein again. To do so we must have money. There is no money in 'The Master Key' mine."

"That's what father used to say sometimes," said Ruth quietly. "But he always got it."

"John, are we broke?"

Wilkerson nodded and said: "I'll put the men to work tomorrow, Dorr. Better have your plans ready!" He stamped out.

"You had better go this afternoon," John told Ruth. "There is no time to lose."

"All right," she said. "I'll be ready in an hour."

John smiled. "All right; I'll take you over in the motor truck or shall we ride to Silent Valley?"

"I've never been to New York," she said timidly, and with that inconsequential logic which maidens have, she added, "Let's ride. I'll take Patsy and you can ride Black Joe."

Dorr did not understand at all that in leaving her home for the great strange city she wished her last hours

Schweitzer, 1 share and Paul Vittur 1 share. The stockholders all reside in Chicago.

All banks in the country have been notified of a discount of one percent assessed on United States money by Canadian exchanges, which has resulted in an attached discount on all Canadian money exchanges in the banks of this country. The familiar Canadian "quarter" is no longer worth as much as the home coin and can be cashed in for only 23 cents, and other coins are discounted accordingly. The news comes from the New York exchange and explains the condition due to the financial condition in Canada.

Word has been received at Eastmanville from the Standard Oil Co. that it will donate $100 toward building a bridge across Grand River at Eastmanville. This with the $100 promised by the H. J. Heinz Co., and the local contributions brings the bridge fund up to $600. The proposition to rise $12,000 for this purpose by the townships of Polkton and Allendale will be submitted to the voters of these townships at the primary election March 3. If ratified by them it will be submitted to the voters of the county at the April election to raise the balance.

Holland City lately bet about organization of an association of commerce, a similar concern having died of lack of interest. The new scheme has proved most popular has been secured. The annual fee is three dollars. With a fee only a third as large, the Allegan Board of Trade has had difficulty in keeping up any number of members whatever, yet it has been kept very much alive by the board of trustees and it has done a great deal of work beneficial to the who city. It is also in good financial condition, so far as assets are concerned but appreciation of it by business men in general is shamefully lacking. Efforts will probably soon be made to remedy the very discreditable state of affairs.—Allegan Gazette.

The county road commissioners of the state held a convention in Lansing yesterday. The meeting was called to discuss the proposed road legislation. No program for the meeting has been arranged. State Highway Commissioner Rogers addressed the commissioners. The commission appointed by Gov. Ferris, to investigate the highway laws of the state is about ready to report, it is said. Austin Harrington of this city attended the convention on behalf of the Ottawa County road commission.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dowd, 177 E. Fifth street, both close to 70 years of age, were found ill and in a helpless condition at their home. They were living alone. Mrs. Dowd is paralyzed from her waist down and Mr. Dowd was taken ill with pneumonia. They were discovered by the neighbors in an almost helpless condition. They were visited by the Health officer and Ald. Prips of the poor committee, and now a lady is helping them and doing their housework.

The Rev. Lambert J. Hulst, pastor of the Christian Reformed denomination, has joined the ranks of nonagenarians. The veteran minister is celebrating his 90th birthday anniversary at the home of his daughter in Nunica Tuesday. Mr. Hulst has been in the ministry for 64 yrs. and retired from active pulpit service about three years ago. During his three score years of service in the ministry he established the record of having preached three sermons every Sunday for 57 years. He was pastor of Coldbrook church, Grand Rapids, for thirty years.

Jake Jappinga a local bartender, was released of a charge of furnishing liquor to a man on the blacklist after a hearing before Justice Sooy. He was charged with selling liquor to Carl Wagner, but as Wagner lives outside of the city, Jappinga said he did not know him or had never seen him before. It was found that there was no intent on the part of Jappinga to violate the law.

Carl Wagner, the blacklisted involved, will be given a hearing on a charge of drunkenness on Monday before Justice Sooy.

Included in Holland's dog population is a little rat terrier which has achieved distinction of having traveled a greater number of miles than any of the 300 licensed canines in this city. Her name is Fannie and she is owned by a meat market man. Many months ago Fannie took a notion of following the trail of Thomas Venhuizen, a Holland letter carrier, and the trip suited her so well that she since has followed the postman on every trip of the day for every day of the year. In case a substitute takes the regular carrier's route Fannie takes the trail as steadily as though her master were on the job.

Ornamental Street Lighting

Below is an accurate report of the specification cost and maintenance of an Ornamental Street Lighting system on the plan proposed by the Common Council. The reports was drawn up by R. B. Champion, Supt. of the Board of Public Works and this report is official.

Limit of District to be Lighted	Number of posts required	Kind of post contemplated	Length of time lamps will be lighted	Time required to install system	Reasons for choosing single-lighting standard
Eighth Street from First avenue to the east side of Lincoln Avenue.	One hundred fifty-eight posts are required, each one to carry one 400 candle power lamps of the very latest and most efficient type.	The posts will be of cast iron and of such 14 feet above the street.	All the lamps will burn every night from dusk until 10 o'clock P. M. Twenty-seven lamps which take the place of the present arc lamps, will continue to burn after ten o'clock on a moon light schedule, or in other words, will be turned on and off after 10 o'clock P. M., with the regular street lamps throughout the city.	From sixty to ninety days, depending on the number of men employed, will be required to install the system complete and assuming no delay in the delivery of material.	In a few words, the reason is because of increased efficiency. At the time the layout or system was first presented there was the choice of using a single light standard equipped with a high efficiency nitrogen-filled Mazda lamp giving 400 C. P. or a five lamp cluster using four 60 watt Mazda lamps and one 100 watt lamp. Other combinations are in use but the one mentioned is the prevailing practice, or was up to the time of the advent of the new lamp.

lency nitrogen-filled Mazda lamp giving 400 C. P. or a five lamp cluster using four 60 watt Mazda lamps and one 100 watt lamp. Other combinations are in use but the one mentioned is the prevailing practice, or was up to the time of the advent of the new lamp.

A comparison of the two sources of light are given in the following table.

The table is given in order to show the higher efficiency of the new lamp. The figures given, however, are based on the rating of the bare lamps. The single light-unit has the advantage of available enclosing glassware of which the upper part acts as a reflector and redirects a large portion of the light that would otherwise be lost in an upward direction, to a direction below the horizontal, or in other words makes more of the light available on the street surface. With the five light cluster, frosted spherical balls must be used which serve no other purpose than to diffuse the light in all directions and to hide the lamp. Moreover 20% of the light given by the five lamps of the cluster is lost by absorption and interference with the post and the other lamps.

The cost of operation is less with the one light standard as is shown by the following table, based on four globe cleanings per year and two lamps renewals per year.

The cost of operation is less with the one lamp standard as is shown by the following table, based on four globe cleanings per year and two lamp renewals per year.

	1 lamp standard	5 lamp standard
No. of enclosing globes to be cleaned	632	3160
No. of lamps renewals to be made	316	1580

In regard to the second item it may be remarked that through the year there would be 1580 times that a lamp is burned out if cluster lighting is used as against 316 times with single lamp lighting. It is a question whether one of the 5 lamps on a post burned out does not detract from general appearances about as much as having the entire post dark.

The first cost of cluster lighting would be from 30 to 40% greater than with single lighting; the operating cost 25% greater and the relative illumination about one half in proportion to power required.

The tendency at present is to get away from cluttering up the street with a bulky mass of glassware which detracts rather than enhances the appearance of the street. The less obtrusive the standard is made, consistent with beauty and dignity, the longer is it likely to prove satisfactory to merchants, civic organizations and citizens in general.

The total cost of the installation, ready to turn current on, is estimated at $13,000 of which it is proposed to raise $10,000 by a general bond issue; the $3000 is contributed by merchants, the Chamber of Commerce, and other parties interested in the future progress of the city.

The total cost per year to operate the system is estimated at $3555. The depreciation allowed in computing the operating cost is based on a life of the system of fifteen years.

To retire the bonds at the rate of $1000 per year would increase the amount estimated to be raised annually for operating expenses to $4555.00.

The system of ornamental lighting proposed would replace 21 arc lamps now in service.

The estimated cost of operating the 21 arc lamps and which should be deducted from the cost of operating the ornamental system is $840.00.

The total net operating cost is as follows:

	Per $1000.00 Assessed valuation	Old system	New system
Operating cost of ornamental system	$3555.00	$494	$355
Yearly cost to retire bonds in 10 years	1000.00	.139	.100
Total	4555.00	.633	.455
Less 21 arc lamps	840.00	.117	.084

Total final additional cost of operation for first 10 years	3715.00	.516	.371
Commencing with the eleventh year the cost will be less by	1000.00	.139	.100

Annual cost during remaining life of the system	2715.00	.377	.271
---	---------	------	------

The total capacity, or number of horsepower of engines in the power plant is 2412

Holland Furnace Inspector Was Some thing New to Muskegon Housewives.

The following item is from Tuesday night's issue of the Muskegon Chronicle:

"The mysterious city heating inspector, about whom the police received several telephone calls, and who, it was feared, was a burglar trying to find out how the land lay in houses he intended to ransack, was explained late Tuesday afternoon.

The inspector is Clarence Beattie, who is employed by F. D. Kleinhekel local agent of the Holland Furnace company of Holland, Michigan. To make a canvass of Muskegon and find out what the heating facilities in every house of the city is. This data is being secured to help Mr. Kleinhekel in his business. Mr. Beattie is called a heating inspector by the company, and this probably led some people to think he held an official position."

Several persons from Ganges attended the cantata "Ruth" by 200 voices of the Holland high school Thursday evening.

The Adelphe society was entertained at the Beardslee home Tuesday night. G. Menning presented the subject, "The Way into Life's Values" during the devotional hour. A paper was read by Raymond Meenges on "Present Day Prison Reform." After the literary program, refreshments were served.

Mrs. Walter Lane and Mrs. Edward Allen delightfully entertained about sixty ladies Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lane. Cards were played in the ballroom and refreshments were served. Prizes were won by Mrs. Malcom McLaughlin and the misses Bess and Belle Lindley of Grand Rapids.

The annual business meeting of the Elizabeth Schuyler Hamilton Chapter D. A. R. will be held this afternoon at the home of Mrs. L. W. Stebbins, 102 W. 13th street.

The meeting will begin at 3 o'clock sharp. Mrs. Stebbins will be assisted by Mrs. H. T. Knowles. Members are requested to bring their annual dues to this meeting.

Miss Marie Dykstra, of Holland, who for some time past has been a student at the New England Conservatory of Music, Boston, had a prominent part last Saturday afternoon in a recital given by some of the more proficient pupils in Recital Hall of the Conservatory building. She played the Romance in D flat Major of Jean Sibelius, the distinguished Finnish composer and made an excellent impression on a large and representative audience. These concerts and recitals, such as the one at which Miss Dykstra was heard, are of frequent occurrence throughout the season at America's oldest and largest musical school. They give invaluable exercise in performing under actual concert conditions.

The February meeting of the Foreign Missionary Society of the M. E. church was held at the home of Mrs. Ray Nies. The subject for the lesson study was "The Child at Play and at Work." Many interesting features in connection with this subject were brought out by Miss Mabel Higgens, the leader, assisted by Miss Gretchen Nind and Mrs. Clara Tuttle. Mrs. F. T. Miles spoke of the number and work of orphanages in foreign lands under the auspices of the M. E. church. A letter of unusual interest at present was read by Miss Nind. It was written by Miss Nind's cousin, a missionary at Nankin, China. He told of a great revival in the M. E. church in that city, the second largest auditorium in Nankin. Mrs. G. W. Atwood had charge of the Mystery Box. Vocal music was furnished by Mrs. M. Klassen, accompanied by Mrs. Gowdy.

The Men's Adult Bible class of Trinity Reformed church enjoyed a surprise sleighride Tuesday to the home of Mr. Sam Pas, one of their fellow members residing a few miles south of this city. Arriving at the Pas homestead, the men marched up to the house and soon made Mr. Pas aware of their presence and intentions. The evening was spent in enjoying an informal program in which nearly every one took part. A quartet sang several selections. Mr. A. Glass told several of his imitable stories and jokes at the expense of many fellow-members of the class. Mr. A. Siersma, recited a Dutch dialect poem which was the "hit" of the evening. Miss Pas entertained the company with a few recitations. The only incident which marred the joyfulness of the occasion was the inability of Mr. Pas to respond to a toast, due to nervousness resulting from shock. Refreshments were served and morning found the party of merry-makers upon the homeward trail.

HIGH SCHOOL

The Seniors will entertain the Juniors Saturday night at the Ladies Literary club house.

Sylvester Paulus, star forward of the Junior and Dnalloh High teams, is confined to his home with a severe case of blood poisoning.

Junior High School has donated ninety dollars toward the new curtain in the Auditorium.

The Senior class team will go to Zeeland Friday night to play the Zeeland High school reserves.

The sacred cantata "Ruth," given by a chorus of 150 voices of the High School last Thursday night was a great success from every standpoint.

During chapel hour yesterday Mr. Fell read the beautiful word-picture of the life of Abraham Lincoln, "A Perfect Tribute," by Mary Andrews.

The Seniors will entertain the Juniors next Saturday evening at the Ladies' Literary club rooms. Good work, Seniors!

A number of Seniors are preparing their orations for the annual oratorical contest which will take place in about three weeks. There will be about a dozen entries and the contest is expected to be close.

Friday night the first team will play the Alumni and the girls will probably play the Hope College girls. The Dnalloh High team will play in Howard City Friday night.

Friday night the Dnalloh High team will play Howard City at that city. A good game is looked for. Several more games are promised, making enough for a good trip during the spring vacation.

Friday afternoon the High school Seniors defeated the Hope B class team by the score of 17 to 16. This was the closest and hardest fought game seen here in some time. After dinner the Juniors sent Saugatuck home with the short end of a 21 to 29 score, while the first team triumphed over Lowell High to the tune of 40 to 24 in a loose and uninteresting game. While these things were going on here the girls were over in South Haven whipping the South Haven girls on their own floor 18 to 5. Friday was certainly a day of victories for Holland High.

The Dnalloh High society enjoyed a "hard luck" party at Macatawa Park Monday night that really was a hard luck party. All members came dressed in their most ancient garb and each did not forget to bring his share of the "cats". The party was held at the Post cottage; but before some of the members got there they thought it was going to be held in the clouds. Everybody had to hunt wood to keep the place warm, at different time during the night; and the quality of the wood was poor.

About 1 o'clock the "cats" began to float around. This was continued until 7 o'clock Tuesday morning few tried to sleep, but owing to the vigilance of those on guard, they had a hard time doing it.

Eight boys of the senior class of the High school fell into the clutches of Marshal Koostra of Zeeland, when they stole the hayrack from near the Colonial restaurant, where the sophomores were enjoying a spread.

The senior boys followed the sleighride party to Zeeland in a coal wagon, which John Schmidt furnished. While the sophs were eating they hitched the hayrack to their coal wagon and drove away with it, intending to take it to Holland. They were overtaken by Marshal Koostra of Zeeland when about three miles out from that city and when the boys laughed at his order to return, it is alleged he brandished a gun in their faces.

The boys returned the rack and paid the expenses of the marshal in hiring a rig to chase them. The senior boys are Frank Douma, Elmer Kruidinier, Gordon Oltmans, Rudolph Habberman, Arthur Smit, Charles Marsh, George Glupkers and John Schmidt.

HOPE COLLEGE

Eldred Kuizenga, janitor at Voorhees Dormitory, has departed for his home in Muskegon, on account of illness. John Bruggers is temporarily filling his position.

The B. class of Hope College enjoyed a sleighride to the home of one of their members, Julia Kleinheiser, living in Overisel, last evening, where a short program was rendered.

The Rev. Peter Moerdyke of this city conducted Chapel exercises at Hope college yesterday morning. He gave a few reminiscences of his college days. He was a member of the class of 1866, the first class that graduated from the college. He said that in those days the students studied because they had nothing else to do. He was realistically simple at that time. But learned that he rejoiced that the students of today have so many advantages.

HON. C. VAN LOO SOUNDED THE KEY NOTE OF REPUBLICAN COUNTY CONVENTION MONDAY

Spoke of Harmony And Reviewed The Record of the Party Since Civil War Times

Hon. C. Van Loos of Zeeland made the key-note speech at the Ottawa County Republican convention in the court house in Grand Haven Monday noon—the convention at which the probable candidacy of G. J. Diekema for the republican nomination for the governorship was unanimously endorsed. Mr. Van Loos, veteran republican and a man who has been prominent in the party in Ottawa county since its organization in civil war times, was chosen temporary chairman by a unanimous vote of the convention. He forthwith delivered a rousing speech in which the key-note was harmony. He reviewed the history of the party and called attention to the principles it had fought for and stood for all these years. His address was given in Mr. Van Loos's characteristically terse, epigrammatic way.

County Clerk Jacob Glerum was chosen temporary secretary, and the business of the convention was disposed of smoothly without any friction. Justice F. L. Brookes and Justice Aaron McAlvey were endorsed for supreme court positions but there was no attempt to bind the delegates. The convention satisfied itself with mere endorsement.

Following is the full slate of delegates to the state convention to be held in Grand Rapids Friday:

Delegate at large—G. J. Diekema, Henry Pelgrim, Holland; D. F. Paegelen, Grand Haven; M. F. Donahue, Grand Haven; H. A. Tripp, of Robinson; Hans Dykhuis, W. I. OTTAWA COUNTY REPUBLICANS PASS ENTHUSIASTIC RESOLUTION FOR DIEKEMA FOR GOVERNOR

Home County Delegates Start Demonstration For Holland Man At County Convention

That the Republican party of Ottawa County will stand by Hon. G. J. Diekema if he consents to become a candidate for the republican nomination for governor of the state of Michigan two years hence was shown this afternoon in Grand Haven when the delegates assembled in the court house in county convention unanimously and enthusiastically endorsed him for that position. It was a feature of the convention that came as a surprise to most of the delegates and it resolved itself into a spontaneous outburst in which the delegates went on record as standing back of the Holland candidate to a man, in case he becomes a candidate. The passing of the resolution of endorsement gave to the convention a spirit of enthusiasm such as is seldom seen in county conventions.

The following resolutions were unanimously adopted at about three o'clock this afternoon:

"The republicans of Ottawa County, in convention assembled, avail themselves of this early opportunity to acknowledge with a deep sense of appreciation the many flattering expressions of approval and the voluntary pledges of support that have reached them from every portion of the state, bearing upon the probable candidacy of our fellow citizen, G. J. Diekema, for the gubernatorial nomination of the republican party in the approaching campaign of 1916. Mere reference to his ripe experience in public affairs, good judgment and efficiency when entrusted with leadership, unquestioned fidelity to principle and party, together with grateful acknowledgement and hearty endorsement of what has been so truthfully and forcefully said by others, is deemed by the republicans of his home county to be sufficient at this time to urge upon the republican party his nomination for the responsible position of governor of our beloved commonwealth."

MISS MARY CARTER NELSON TO SPEAK ON SUBJECT OF RESIDENT NURSES

She Finds Conditions in Holland that Warrant Appointment of Such Official

"I have found conditions in Holland that more than warrant providing a resident visiting nurse for the schools," said Miss Mary Carter Nelson, R. N., who is spending a month in Ottawa county as visiting nurse. Miss Nelson has been at work now for about a week and she has been concentrating specially on work in the schools. As a result of her investigations she declares she is convinced of the need of a resident school nurse.

Miss Nelson will advocate this, this evening when she will give a public address in the court room of the city hall. This address will be given under the auspices of the city government, the city council having allowed the use of the hall for this purpose. Miss Nelson will talk about general health conditions in Holland and the meeting will be an interesting one especially for those who take an interest in health conditions here. Later the council and the board of education may be asked to take the necessary steps toward securing a resident nurse for the schools who will take charge of medical inspection work.

Miss Nelson has been making various addresses in the city in the schools and before various organizations. She is co-operating with the health officer and the committee on poor of the city.

M. E. CHURCH SOCIETY HELD INTERESTING MEETING MONDAY EVENING

The regular monthly meeting of the Home Missionary Society of the M. E. church was held Monday night at the suburban home of Mrs. I. H. Fairbanks. After the devotions of the evening by Mrs. E. Markham, the feature of the program was the second chapter of the study book, "In Red Man's Land" by Mrs. E. H. McClellan. This chapter showed the methods of dealing with the Indians by the U. S. government since the Revolution. These methods have always been unsatisfactory. In these recent years the government boarding schools have been a help in educating Indian children in the ways of the white man.

Pictures were shown of Navajo Mission at Farmington, N. M. Indian Camp meeting with large Indian choir, Indian groups of worshippers at Northport, Mich., Indian Mission at Honor with Chief Wyasa, Indian student at he arrived and as he left Carlisle University. Three years ago the local society had the honor of naming a bed in honor of one of its members, Mrs. Etta Whitman, at the Navajo Mission.

Miss Lulu Boggs gave a piano solo, Mrs. Mable Smith and Miss Clara McClellan sang a duet, and Miss Smith sang a group of songs, the sentiment of which was helpfulness and cheerfulness.

BUILD FENCE AND SIDEWALK AROUND ICE RACE TRACK GO OVER POND WITH PLAINER

The pond committee of the H. O. H., working with the street committee of the city, are determined to get the skating pond in front of the Harrington dock in shape for the ice festival Saturday afternoon, and three men are kept busy fixing up the ice. Yesterday the entire pond was gone over with an ice planer so as to take off the top layer of slush ice and get a solid bottom. The ice will then be flooded and it is expected to be smooth and hard, assuring some fast races and clever skating.

The lights have been placed and are being wired. The race course will appear as a land track and the order of taking care of the people will be somewhat the same. A fence is being erected along the track and a sidewalk will be built around the outside of the fence for people to stand on while watching the races.

Ald. Bert Slagh has charge of the work.

HON. G. J. DIEKEMA ANALYZES CHARACTER OF THE GREAT EMANCIPATOR

The meeting of the Woman's Literary club Tuesday night was an appropriate to the nearness of Lincoln's birthday. On the wall at the rear of the platform was a flag draped over a photograph of Lincoln. A basket of pink and white carnations decorated the president's table.

The president, Mrs. Oggel, opened the meeting with the reading of Lincoln's Creed. After this the audience rose and sang "America."

Mary Raymond Shipmans Andrews' story of Lincoln, "The Perfect Tribute" was read by Mrs. Browning. The music was given by the Misses Brouwer who pleased the audience with the singing of two duets, "The Barcolle" from the "Tales of Hoffman," and a song from the Italian.

Mrs. Robbins accompanied them.

In introducing the Hon. G. J. Diekema, Mrs. Oggel named the many great men who were living during the time in which Lincoln lived. Of these W. E. Gladstone and Lincoln stand out as the great liberators of their countries.

Mr. Diekema commenced his address "Our Lincoln," with a sketch of the lives of Lincoln's parents and grandparents. His mother died when he was a young boy in Indiana and she was buried with no ceremony. It is related that some time after that when a traveling minister happened to come to the settlement where the Lincoln's lived Abraham had him say a prayer over the grave of his mother.

In spite of his humble beginnings, Lincoln showed the greatness within him for every minute that he had to himself was used in reading or writing. Every book or newspaper which he could get hold of was thoroughly read. His stepmother was the guardian angel who fostered his ambition for an education.

The eccentricities of Lincoln's genius are shown most clearly in his love affairs. His first fiancée died and his grief over her death was so great that his friends feared he would lose his mind.

It is thought that Stephen A. Douglas was a suitor also for the hand of Mary Todd. She seems to have had an intuition that Lincoln would be president some day and she would by becoming his wife, share this important position with him. On the day first set for the wedding, Lincoln was not present. Afterwards the marriage took place, but it seems not to have been happy. The fault was not entirely that of Mrs. Lincoln for Mr. Lincoln had some unpleasant habits. There were many sides to Lincoln's greatness. He used different tactics before the Supreme court than before a county jury for he understood fundamental principles. Horace Greeley said, "The one man who could do his side less harm and more good than any other living man." He appealed to the hearts of the common people.

Lincoln had the courage to surround himself with the ablest statesmen of the time. It was thought at first that he would be a tool of Seaward but it was not long before Seaward acknowledged the supremacy of the president. As a politician Lincoln was never too far ahead of the people. He waited till the time was ripe for the execution of his plans.

As a man and an American he showed himself great. He was willing that any man should lead if he led the cause to triumph.

He was simple and gentle without weakness. Some say that he received his religious inspiration when he stood at Gettysburg, but it is known that he was always a man of prayer, not a churchman, but an intensely religious man. Everywhere he is regarded as the Great American Liberator.

A very fine patriotic meeting of the Parents-Teachers' club of the Maple Grove School was held Monday. Some two hundred were present and it was one of the most enthusiastic meetings of the season. After the regular reports the Federation Male Chorus sang. Miss Elsie Gowdy gave "The Star Spangled Banner" in pantomime, while Dr. McCreaty sang the words.

Dr. A. F. Bruske gave the principal address of the evening, his subject being "American Citizenship." Other addresses were given by Supt. Ellsworth of the Hastings schools and by Prin. Drew. A violin solo by Gerrit DeWeerd and the singing of "America" by the audience completed the program.

A paper on the prevention of desecration of the flag, prepared by Mrs. M. A. Sooy, was read by Miss Mabel Higgins. Little flags accompanied the refreshments, which were very fine. The flags were the gift of Miss Ewald of the Maple Grove school.

The Committee on Ordinances to whom was referred the matter of lighting part of Eighth Street and of River Avenue, submitted a report outlining the plan of construction, the manner of installing and the intended use of Boulevard Lighting; also detailing the annual cost of maintenance, and the unit rate of assessment therefore, and recommended that said report be published in full and filed, so that the electors may be informed on the proposition before voting thereon.

Official report will be found on page four of this issue.

The Holland Bonus Committee, through its President W. H. Beach presented the following:

Whereas the bonus trustees have been negotiating with the Cappon Bertsch Leather Company Holland Mich., for several months in reference to locating a pig skin tannery in this city and have previously offered them a bonus of $5000.00 if they would locate said tannery in this city, but on account of the peculiar advantages afforded by their North tannery site they had practically decided to locate said pig skin tannery on the North side of the bay without receiving a bonus, but since such decisions were reached they have been offered a bonus of $20,000.00 and sixteen acres of land by the city of Muskegon if they would locate said pig skin tannery in that city. Therefore, be it resolved that in view of these inducements offered by the city of Muskegon we have been assured by the management that if we should pay them the bonus which was offered if they would locate within the city limits of Holland and allow them to locate the tannery on the North side of the bay, that they would not accept the Muskegon offer but would immediately proceed to let the contract for the building and commence work on same at the earliest possible moment, realizing the value that would accrue to the city of Holland in securing this plant in this vicinity instead of allowing it to go elsewhere, that we renew our offer of $5000.00 and allow them to locate the tannery on their North Side site, said amount to be paid said Cappon Bertsch Leather Co., when the building is finished and in operation, said offer subject to the approval of the City Council.

On motion of Ald. Slagh, The Council took a recess of five minutes.

After recess, the Council having been called to order, the Mayor, the above mentioned Aldermen, and the Clerk being present,

On motion of Ald. Vander Ven, Resolved, that the Council hereby concur in the action of the Bonus Committee, in offering a bonus of $5000 to the Cappon Bertsch Leather Co., for locating a pig skin tannery on the North side of Black Lake.

Said resolution prevailed, all voting aye.

Reports of Select Committees
The Committee on Ordinance reported as follows:

We, your Committee on Ordinances, to whom was referred the proposition of lighting all that part of Eighth Street lying between Lincoln Avenue on the east and First Avenue on the west, and all that part of River Avenue lying between Fifth Street on the North and Thirteenth Street on the South, in the City with what is known as Boulevard Lighting system, do hereby offer a resolution to issue bonds in the sum of Ten Thousand dollars for such purpose, and for the submission of the proposition to the electors at the next annual Primary election to be held Tuesday, March the 16th next, and recommend its passage.

C. VAN LOO WAS A FREMONT VOTER

REGRETTED HE VOTED FOR HAYES, WAS SORRY HE COULD NOT VOTE FOR TAFT.

Cornelius Van Loo of Zeeland, Who Cast First Republican Vote in 1850, Presides over Ottawa County Convention

"Cornelius Van Loo, the man who shouted for Fremont and Dayton, 'Free Men, Free Speech; Slavery shall not go into the territories by our vote,' who voted for Lincoln, fought in the war of the Rebellion, and has missed few republican state conventions since 1868, was chairman of the last county gathering of Ottawa county republicans Monday in the court house.

He is now in his seventy-sixth year although in good health and able to make almost as good a speech as in the days when he spoke from the stump with Senator Ferry and Geo. A. Farr. His address before the gathering Monday showed the flash and brilliancy of the old campaigner, who is one of the few men in Michigan knowing from personal knowledge the history of the party in the United States.

With a little sigh of regret the veteran politician will tell of the only republican presidential candidate for whom he did not vote. This was Wm. H. Taft, and sickness barely kept him from leaving his bed to go to the polls. And there is but one candidate in the long list for whom the old campaigner regrets casting a vote. This was at the election of Hayes, says Mr. Van Loo in a little review of the historical squabble so fresh in the old man's memory to this day.

"Yes, I have attended many a convention in my day, and have been asked to preside many times. I have always bowed to a majority but never to a minority," remarked the veteran, in passing over some incident.

"To bow to a minority would be bowing to one man theoretically." This courage of convictions has characterized Cornelius Van Loo during all the long days of his public activities.

Cornelius Van Loo came to Ottawa county with his father in 1849. He has been a continuous resident of this section since that time and now is a resident of Zeeland. When the Civil war came he too volunteered and served 3 years. His first vote for a president was in 1850, and he has always been a staunch republican. Among his little keepsakes Mr. Van Loo will tell of a little red and white badge that he wore when a lad of eighteen and yelled for Fremont for president.

CONKEY, KNOLL & NIENHUIS HAVE IT OUT

The jury in the case of L. L. Conkey of Lawrence, Mich., formerly manager of the Veterinary Specialty Company of this city, vs. Nienhuis & Knoll, local market men, Tuesday split the difference in their verdict in the case that lasted from 9 in the forenoon until 7 at night. Conkey brought suit against Nienhuis & Knoll for the price of an elevator that Conkey had built for them. He claimed $131. After listening to the evidence all day the jury gave him a judgment of $42.91. They allowed a set-off bill of Nienhuis & Knoll of $43.95. Moreover they allowed Nienhuis & Knoll to deduct $45 from what remained of Conkey's bill because the elevator did not come up to specifications, according to the market men, thus leaving the judgment of $42.91.

Mr. Conkey wishes the News to state that a day before the suit, he called up Nienhuis & Knoll and told them he would settle for $40, so that they could save the cost of a suit but this the defendants refused to do, so now says Mr. Conkey must pay $43.95 costs and judgment of $42.91 or a total of $86.86.

There were many interesting angles to the case which made it last all day. The jury was out about three quarters of an hour to adjust the various claims and to arrive at a judgment. The jury was composed of Dick Boter, C. Vander Heuvel, J. Lofler, Mike Hall, Henry Barkel, S. Habing. The case was tried before Justice Robinson. Att. F. T. Miles representing Conkey's interests and Att D. Ten Cate represented Nienhuis & Knoll.

TWO OUTSIDERS ARE PATRIOTIC ENOUGH AND SENDS CHECK TO MAYOR BOSCH FOR BOULEVARD LIGHTING SYSTEM

Mayor Bosch has received a letter from E. H. Gold, enclosing a check for twenty-five dollars for the boulevard lighting system. The check has been turned over to the business men's committee. In his letter to the mayor Mr. Gold says that he has noticed in the newspapers the movement for lighting the main street. "Although the illumination will hardly reach as far as Marigold Point," the letter continues, "nevertheless, I would like the privilege of subscribing my little bit to the good work, and therefore enclose, herewith, check for $25.00.

Another Holland township resident who will get no direct benefit from the boulevard system but who is nevertheless enthusiastic about it is Hugh Bradshaw of Jenison Park. Mr. Bradshaw donated ten dollars with the remark that although he does not live here he has enough pride in the old town to contribute to the cause of properly lighting the streets.

UP AND DOWN THE AVENUE IN WASHINGTON WITH FRED C. KELLY

The national Magazine among its stories on statement entitled "Up and Down the Avenue" has the following on Senator Wm Alden Smith. Senator William Alden Smith, of Michigan, was trying his first lawsuit, and sought to show that Jones, a witness for the other side, was an off-hand liar. He put a neighbor of Jones on the stand, and asked him about Jones' reputation for truth and veracity. "Twas bad, very bad," said the witness.

Then the other lawyer tried to show that this testimony was due to spleen.

"You and Jones have had some trouble, haven't you?" he asked the witness.

"No nothing special."

"Ah, nothing special. Then you did have some little trouble."

"Nothing, only he stole a cow bell from me."

"But didn't he deny stealing the bell?"

"Yes," admitted the witness, "he denied it, but—but—"

"But what?" interrupted the lawyer sharply.

"He brought back the bell."

Congressman Gilbert M. Hitchcock, as proprietor of one of the largest papers in the Middle West, naturally enough, is a believer in advertising. Here is a story he told recently:

"Years ago an elderly gentleman came into the office and submitted to me a want ad, offering a half interest in his store at Tekamah for sale. About a week later the gentleman returned with a beaming smile on his face, and told me he had succeeded in getting a fine partner through the want ad."

"Several days after that the same gentleman visited me again and said 'Remember that want ad I gave you, and how it got me a partner? Well, it didn't stop with that result; my partner has decided to board with me! So you see I got a boarder also from the want ad.'"

"Lo and behold about two months later the advertiser called to see me again. 'Remember that want ad I gave you,' he said, 'that got me a partner and a boarder? Well, that isn't all it brought me. My partner, who is a fine young chap, fell in love with my daughter and now I've got a son-in-law, all through that one little want ad.'" remote results that those mentioned, from that one little want ad."

ZEELAND FARMERS ARE GRATEFUL OF THE WORK OF DORNBOOS CATCHING CHICKEN THIEVES

Gave Him A Fine Turkey

Some of the farmers living in the vicinity of Zeeland have come across with a fat turkey which they presented to Deputy Sheriff C. Dornbos of this city, in appreciation of the work the officer has done in apprehending chicken thieves. Mr. Dornbos was associated with Marshal Kostra in apprehending a number of chicken thieves a month or two ago near Zeeland. Later he engineered the capture of men on the North Side who were taken on the charge of chicken stealing. Feeling that the work of an officer along this line, no matter where it is done, is liable to mean greater safety for all farmers, the Zeeland men decided to show their appreciation by giving the turkey. At Christmas time the Zeeland marshal was remembered in a similar way.

HENRY DE KRUIF WILL GO INTO AUTOMOBILE BUSINESS IN ZEELAND

Henry De Kruij of Zeeland after several years of rest from active business, will enter into a new enterprise. Mr. De Kruij for years was a heavy dealer in wagons, buggies, machinery.

He will now enter into the automobile business. The Isaac Van Dyke Co. of Zeeland has for years past represented the Reo automobiles, but felt that the automobile business is becoming more and more a distinct business and requires closer attention than they were able to give it in connection with their regular implement business. Thus arrangements have been completed whereby they will turn the automobile business over to Mr. De Kruij. Mr. De Kruij will build on Church street in the rear of I. Van Dyke Co. and A. De Kruij's stores, thus being centrally located and will conduct a regular automobile and accessory business. Bert Van Dyke, experienced automobile salesman for the Van Dyke Co., has been engaged by Mr. De Kruij, as special salesman, covering Ottawa and Allegan counties.

WHAT BECOMES OF MILK BOTTLES

Ask the House Wife She Knows Maybe?

A milk dealer in a town of 5,000 population reports that in a period of ten years over $4,000 worth of milk bottles have been lost.

No, these bottles have not all been broken or thrown into the garbage heap. Some are filled with jams and jellies, some are in the pantry filled with spices, vinegar, salt, mustard and what not, bath rooms serving as tooth brush holders and receptacles for bay rum, glycerine, camphor, arnica, and other lotion ingredients.

"Thou shalt not steal," never enters the good house-wife's mind, when she thoughtlessly takes a quart milk bottle to hold her floor polish, gasoline or the Oil of Gladness cleaning rag. Her conscience never gives her the tiniest irritation when she carelessly knocks an unwashed bottle into the sink with a crash, for as she picks out the pieces and casts them into the garbage can, she usually remarks, "There, I won't have to wash that one, anyway!"

The milk delivery man says "I have stepped unexpectedly into many a home, while on my route, when the lady of the house has been busily engaged pouring her jelly and jam into a long row of pint milk bottles. She always says, 'Good-morning,' without the faintest tinge of embarrassment on her cheek, as she continues to fill up the remaining bottles.

The matter is a serious problem to the milkman for the bottles are made of heavy glass and are worth more than the contents.

It is not believed that any one would deliberately take the bottles if they gave the matter a second thought.

Now that you are fully cognizant as to what the loss is to the dealer, make the owner smile by setting out all the extra bottles you have, and from time to time, as your jelly is used. The milkman will be so pleased with the results that his stony heart will melt with gratitude.

LITTLE MAIDS OF HOLLAND

In the land of Holland there are many little maidens. A lady who spent one summer in that quaint land has told a number of interesting things about the children there.

She says that when school is out, a noise is heard like a troop of mounted soldiers coming down the street, but as the noise draws nearer, you will find out that is the noise made by the happy school children chattering over the cobblestones in their much too large for the children, and Dutch children run and skip as fast as American children, but they go with a funny, waddling motion from side to side, because of the weight and size of the sabots.

These wooden shoes are usually much too large for the children, and extend two or three inches beyond the heel, being kept on by the toes. The toe stays in the front part of the shoe, but the back of the foot flaps up and down as they run, and the children always have a hole in the heel of their stockings, worn by the constant rubbing. But then just think what a saving those wooden shoes are to the Dutch fathers and mothers, for often the first shoes given to a little girl are the same ones which she wears when she is grown up! What would your father and mother say if they only had to buy one pair of shoes.—Christian Intelligence.

"MICHIGAN POULTRY BREEDER" TELLS ABOUT WINNINGS OF CASPER BELT IN FOUR EXHIBITS

The February number of the "Michigan Poultry Breeder", published in Battle Creek, appears the following paragraph about Casper Belt of this city.

"Casper Belt, Holland, Mich., a breeder of S. C. R's, has been one of the most consistent winners at four of Michigan's leading shows, winning best display at Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo, Battle Creek and Holland, and the smallest class that was entered in any one of these shows was 74 birds, some running over 100 birds.

He has won this season alone at these four shows, 5 cups, including state club cup and $50 cup for best pen in the show at Grand Rapids, and one cup for best display in show, all varieties competing, which is exceptionally good for these part-colored birds, besides valuable specials and 8 firsts, 5 seconds, 10 thirds, 5 fourths and 1 fifth. Mr. Belt has an up-to-date poultry plant in Holland and invites any one interested in poultry to give him a call, as his latch string is along on the outside."

MRS. GERTRUDE BOYENGA MADE COMPLAINT AGAINST HUSBAND AND MRS. DROOST

Arrested On Charge Of Adultery

Mrs. Gertrude Boyenga this morning made complaint against her husband, Guile Boyenga and Mrs. Antje Droost charging them with adultery. Mr. Boyenga was arraigned Saturday before Justice Robinson and he demanded an examination, which was set for tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 in the court room of the city hall. Bail was fixed at $1,000.

Mrs. Droost was also arraigned Saturday and was released without bail to take care of her children. She demanded an examination which was set for the same time Mr. Boyenga will have his examination.

"PUPILS" DRAWINGS OF COWS DIRECT GERMAN ARMIES LEFT BY KAISER'S SCOUTS TO AID TROOPS FOLLOWING

Size of Animal and Positions of Head Told Strength and Location of Allies

Paris, Feb. 9.—Crude drawings of cows of varying proportions, some in attitudes of defense, belligerency or alarm, and others in grazing positions, were noticed by French officers during the early days of the campaign on the Aisne.

The sketches at first were considered the simple efforts of school children, but the frequently with which this subject appeared on walls, buildings and bridges in Oise and Somme puzzled French officers, who investigated that the system was used by German scouts to direct the armies that were to follow.

There was a great variety in the sizes of the drawings and in the particulars. By comparing notes and dates it was discovered these crude pictures had a very intimate relation with passing events.

Certain categories of the pictures coincided in every case with the same development in the military operations, and continuing their researches, they discovered that a perfect system of communication had thus been organized, similar to the system often employed by Gypsies and tramps for indicating information to those of their confederates that come after.

The position of the animal's head was made to indicate the direction in which the French troops were to be found and the size of the animal indicated the importance of the forces.

A very small cow meant that the route was not very strongly guarded; a cow in a natural position of defense indicated fortifications in the neighborhood, and the size of the animals indicated the strength of the fortifications; and the pose of the head its exact location. A cow whose head was raised on high indicated that prudence was necessary.

Farmers Haul Gravel From Bass River to County Roads

The farmers in the section of county north of Zeeland have thus far been making good use of the open winter and comparatively good sleighing, by hauling gravel for road work from the Bass River gravel pit. Long trains of teams and sleighloads of gravel might be seen along the highway almost any day.

HOLLAND CREATES FLOUR AND FOOD IMPORT MONOPOLY

Contract With the Holland American Line The Only Ship Line Not To Accept Private Cargoes

AMERICAN MILLERS ARE ALARMED; SEND PROTEST

Washington, Feb. 9.—Holland has created a practical government monopoly of the importation into the Netherlands of flour, foodstuffs, cereals and cattle foods.

The state department has announced that the Netherlands government has entered into a contract with the Holland-American line, the only neutral steamship line plying regularly between ports in the United States and the Netherlands, where by private shipments of contraband or conditional contraband will not be accepted by that line.

Definite information as to Holland's position, has been sought by American millers, who protested to the state department that the action of Holland if followed by other neutral countries would demoralize the American flour trade and probably depress prices.

Counselor Robert Lansing issued the following statement: "Shipments of flour and other foodstuffs consigned to private firms in Holland will not be barred from Dutch ports when carried in American or other neutral vessels, but Holland-American line cannot accept such shipments.

"The Netherlands government does not intend to forbid the fulfillment of private contracts for shipments of such goods made before the war, but under the existing conditions private Dutch importers having such contracts for American foodstuffs should apply to the department of commerce of the Netherlands government for permission to have such goods consigned to or bought by the Dutch government."

It is known that the American government has no way of interfering with such a monopoly as Holland has created such an act being entirely within the sovereign right of every nation.

Dean White of St. Mark's Pro-Cathedral of Grand Rapids addressed an informal gathering of the men of Grace church and their friends held Thursday night at the Guild hall. Henry Geerlings gave a short address. Prof. Nykerk and Prof. Diment of Hope College rendered a few selections.

PIG SKIN FACTORY ALREADY ASKING FOR BIDS

COMPANY IS READY TO DEAL WITH THE CONTRACTORS NOW.

The Cappon-Bertsch Leather Co., is allowing no delay in regard to the contract for the new pig-skin factory which that concern will build on the North Side. Actual building work will be begun soon after that and by spring a good start will have been made.

CITIZENS WANT OLD POINT SUPERIOR NAMED IN HONOR OF E. H. GOLDS

To Call It Marigold Point Instead

A movement has been launched to change the name of Point Superior on the north shore of Black Lake to Marigold point in honor of E. H. Golds of Chicago, who has converted the place into the most beautiful spot on Lake Michigan at an approximate cost of $100,000.

Point Superior received its name in the '30s. A petition signed by many prominent Holland citizens has been forwarded to Washington asking for the official change in name.

WM. BLOM WAS NOT IN FORM AND WEST WON POOL CONTEST 100 TO 53—PLAY AGAIN NEXT WEEK

Jack West is the new city pool champion. In a 100 point game played Friday at the Palace Pool and Billiard Parlors, West outplayed Champion Blom from the start to the finish and won by a score of 100 to 53. Blom was not playing in his usual good form last night, but in spite of this it is doubtful whether or not he could have beaten West. West played a cool, clever game and he showed up well.

In spite of his humiliating defeat Blom will not admit that he is out of the running and arrangements have been made for another go with West two weeks from last night.

The lack of practice seems to be Blom's greatest drawback. He seldom plays pool except on the night of the game and in spite of the entreaties of his friends he never practices.

MRS. WM. MOERDYKE IS CHOSEN PRESIDENT OF NEW WOMEN'S A. B. C. CLASS OF THIRD REFORMED CHURCH

A federation of the Women's A. B. C. classes was organized Friday night at the Third Reformed church. Despite the inclemency of the weather a large number of the ladies of the M. E., First Reformed, Trinity, Hope and Third churches were present.

The following officers were elected—president Mrs. Wm. Moerdyke, 3rd church; vice president, Mrs. P. Mar-silje, 1st church; secretary, Mrs. Winfer, M. E. church; treasurer, Mrs. H. Cook, Trinity church; ass't treasurer, Mrs. D. Damstra, Trinity.

Prof. E. D. Diment, and the Rev. M. Flipse spoke very encouragingly of the work that could be done along this line.

A choice program was given consisting of readings by Miss Margaret Muller, vocal duet, Miss H. Van Zee and Miss Jennie Steketee, vocal solo Mrs. Wichers and a piano duet by Miss Cornie Kamferbeek and Miss Ruth Riedema.

CHURCH WAR IN ZEELAND Public Pulsers Are Throwing Bible Texts As Missiles

Texts As Missiles

The Forest Grove drama-in-church war goes merrily on through the "Public Pulse" columns of the Zeeland Record. Last week the anonymous writer, "A Lover of Zion" who started the fuss by "calling down" the people of Forest Grove for allowing a presentation of "Queen Esther" to be given in a church, was rapped over the nose sharply by two Forest Grove correspondents. This week "A Lover of Zion" still anonymous, comes back in a column article and flings a bushel or two of Bible texts at his assailants. So hot has the controversy become that the publishers of the Zeeland papers prints "An Explanation" in which they declare they have been severely criticized for placing the first article of "A Lover of Zion." They state in explanation that the Public Pulse is open to all as the proprietors are observed by writers.

All in all it has so far been one of the merriest little scraps that has stirred Zeeland for a long time, and it seems likely that still more is coming.

In the matter of the petition of Oramel B. Fuller, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.

On reading and filing the petition of the Auditor General of the State of Michigan, praying for a decree in favor of the State of Michigan, against each parcel of land therein described, for the amounts therein specified, claimed to be due for taxes, interest and charges on each such parcel of land, and that such lands be sold for the amounts so claimed by the State of Michigan.

It is ordered that said petition will be brought on for hearing and decree at the March term of this Court, to be held at Grand Haven, in the County of Ottawa, State of Michigan, on the 15th day of March, A. And it is further ordered that in pursuance of said decree the lands described in said petition for which a decree of sale shall be made, will be sold for the several taxes, interest and charges thereon as determined by such decree, on the first Tuesday in May thereafter, beginning at 10 o'clock a. m. on said day, or on the day or days subsequent thereto as may be necessary to complete the sale of said lands and of each and every parcel thereof, at the office of the County Treasurer, or at such convenient place as shall be selected by him at the county seat of the County of Ottawa, State of Michigan; and that the sale then and there made will be a public sale, and each parcel described in the decree shall be separately exposed for sale for the total taxes, interest and charges, and the sale shall be made to the person paying the full amount charged against such parcel, and accepting a conveyance of the smallest undivided fee simple interest therein; or, if no person will pay the taxes and charges and take a conveyance of less than the entire thereof, then the whole parcel shall be offered and sold. If any parcel of land cannot be sold for taxes, interest and charges, such parcel shall be passed over for the time being, and shall, on the succeeding day, or before the close of the sale, be reoffered, and if, on such second offer, or during such sale, the same cannot be sold for the amount aforesaid, the County Treasurer shall bid off the same in the name of the State.

Witness the Hon. Orien S. Cross, Circuit Judge, and the seal of said Circuit Court of Ottawa County, this 11th day of January, A. D. 1915.

ORIEN S. CROSS,
Circuit Judge,
JACOB GLERUM,
Register.

STATE OF MICHIGAN
To the Circuit Court for the County of Ottawa in chancery.

The petition of Oramel B. Fuller, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State respectfully shows that the list of lands hereinafter set forth and marked "Schedule A," contains a description of all the lands in said County of Ottawa upon which taxes were assessed for the years mentioned therein, and which were returned as delinquent for non-payment of taxes, and which taxes have not been paid; together with the total amount of such taxes, with interest computed thereon to the time fixed for sale, and collection fee and expenses, as provided by law, extended against each of said parcels of land.

Your petitioner further shows to the Court that said lands were returned to the Auditor General under the provisions of Act 206 of the Public Acts of 1893, as delinquent for non-payment of said taxes for said years respectively, and that said taxes remain unpaid; except that lands included in said "Schedule A" for taxes of 1890 or prior years were returned to the Auditor General as delinquent for said taxes under the provisions of the general tax laws in force prior to the passage of Act 200 of the Public Acts of 1891, and which taxes remain unpaid.

Your petitioner further shows that in all cases where lands are included in "Schedule A" as aforesaid for taxes of 1890 or of any prior year, said lands have not been sold for said taxes or have been heretofore sold for said delinquent taxes and the sale or sales so made have been set aside by a court of competent jurisdiction, or have been cancelled as provided by law.

Your petitioner further shows and avers that the taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses, as set forth in said "Schedule A," are a valid lien on the several parcels of lands described in said schedule.

Your petitioner further shows that the said taxes on said described lands have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent; and the said taxes not having been paid, and the same being now due and remaining unpaid as above set forth, your petitioner prays a decree in favor of the State of Michigan against each parcel of said lands, for the payment of the several amounts of taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses, as computed and extended in said schedule against the several parcels of land contained therein, and in default of payment of the said several sums computed and extended against said lands, that each of said parcels of land may be sold for the amounts due thereon, as provided by law, to pay the lien aforesaid.

And your petitioner will ever pray, etc.
Dated January 8th, 1915.

ORAMEL B. FULLER,
Auditor General of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State.

SNEAK READERS LOOK OUT!

If there is one thing that disgusts a newspaper man more than another it is the fact that a subscriber will discontinue the paper through the Post Office and leave a debt for the paper unpaid. Other papers are taking harsh measures with such subscribers and in fact call them "sneak readers." The Holland City News is no different in this respect than any other paper, it also has its "sneak readers" but thank goodness they are few. It is the intention of the News to make short work of this class of accounts. Any subscriber who discontinues his paper and does not take care of his account before doing so whether it be large or small will receive one notice from this office. This notice will give him a week to respond, if he does not respond within that week the account will be sold to a publishers collecting agency who do a brokerage business in such dead head accounts. That will be the end of the account as far as the News is concerned but we assure these "sneak readers" that then their troubles begin, because a publishers collecting agency is the most resourceful collector on earth. It is unfair to our good subscribers of which we have at least 2,700 to allow these "sneak readers" to get their paper for nothing. The News has been most lenient with all subscribers owing to the hard times and those who have been unable to meet their subscription promptly for reasons of sickness, etc. therefore any man who finds it difficult to meet his subscription indebtedness right on the dot and tells us his reasons we will treat with the utmost courtesy and will extend him credit for any reasonable length of time, but we have no patience with a subscriber who runs a bill then discontinues his paper leaving that bill unpaid. The latter class are the ones who we are going after strong.

YOUR OWN ICE PLANT

Small Investment of $20 Will Save Much Labor

Every farmer can have his own ice plant at a cost of from $13 to $20. If he will use apparatus described in a new bulletin just issued by D. J. D. Walters, professor of architecture in the Kansas Agricultural college.

The ice plant is made of galvanized iron and consists of a double tank with an inner tank about 10 feet long, 2 feet wide and 12 inches deep. The top of the tank should be slightly wider than the bottom. The inner tank should be divided into six compartments by means of galvanized iron strips.

This double tank should be placed near an outdoor pump where the compartments can be easily filled with water. Being exposed on all sides, the water will freeze in from one to three hours. A bucket full of hot water poured into the space between the two tanks will loosen the cakes so that they may be removed. One freezing will give five cakes of ice each weighing 120 pounds. Fourteen freezings will yield four tons of pure ice, or enough to last an average family for a year. The cakes of ice can be packed away in sawdust in the cellar as they are frozen.

EXPENDITURES FOR LABOR BY MICHIGAN FARMERS

Fifty-four per cent, or 111,842 of the farmers of Michigan, employ hired help, and their annual expenditure for this item is approximately $19,063,000. Ten years ago the yearly expenditure for labor by farmers of this state amounted to $10,717,000, and the increase within a decade has been 78 per cent. Seventy nine per cent of the amount paid for labor by Michigan farmers is cash.

For continental United States the yearly labor expenditure is more than $651,000,000 and 46 per cent of the farmers hire labor. There are nearly 3,000,000 farms in the country that employ hired hands.

BEET SUGAR BY PANAMA CANAL.

Much Cheaper in New York Market
Allegan Gazette—California beet sugar is reaching New York by way of the Panama canal and is sold at several "points" less than the price fixed for that port on cane sugar by the sugar trust. Western beet sugar can get no farther east than Buffalo or Pittsburgh because the rail rate beyond makes it impossible to sell in competition with trust sugar. A better proof could not be given for the contention of beet sugar producers that proper protection of their industry would result in cheaper sugar to the American public. The only reason why much beet sugar was manufactured this year or will be made in 1915 is the shutting off of the great importation of such sugar from Germany, France, and Belgium. Under the lower tariff of this Democratic administration, and its provision for entirely free sugar in two more years, there would not be a pound of beet sugar made in the United States next year, unless beets and labor could be secured at European prices, which is impossible. Meanwhile we are having to pay odious stamp taxes to make up for the loss of revenue caused by the reduction of the sugar tariff and other such injuries to American manufacturers and American farmers.

Seth Nibbelink has received a carload of horses which he has placed on sale at his Livery Stables in West Ninth Street, between Central and River Avenues.

WHY IT WILL PAY TO PROTECT

THE GARTER SNAKE AND ENGLISH SPARROW

By John T. Timmons

The Famous American Horticultural Expert

For nearly half a century the farmers and gardeners of this country have been battling with the potato bug, known as the Colorado striped beetle. Occasionally there comes a year when these potato bugs are rather scarce, and optimists declare the sudden disappearance of the beetle. The following season of the pest is as plentiful as on any former occasion, and this seems to prove that it will require some natural method to exterminate these destructive beetles.

Down among the rugged hills of West Virginia a few years ago a truck grower happened to discover two or three garter snakes in his potato patch. Being averse to snakes of any kind he killed the reptiles with his hoe. But just before he reached the last snake he saw it darting its head in among the leaves of the potato plants, and the recollection of this, and the subsequent discovery of other snakes in the same potato patch, led the man to believe the reptiles were eating the potato bugs.

A careful study of the habits of garter snakes was the result. Local papers mentioned the matter, and other gardeners took it up, and ever since that time the truckers in West Virginia and southern Ohio have been ready to defend the garter snake declaring they should have protection.

Potato growers declare that the snakes, which are perfectly harmless, frequently the potato patch from the time the potatoes first come up until the vines are either dead or eaten up by the potato bugs, and that they are seen darting in and out among the potato hills eating hundreds of the bugs.

It is claimed that popular protection of the garter snake would soon insure such numbers of them that in a short time the potato bugs would simply have to go. The snakes are not injurious to crops in any manner, and, besides the millions of beetles they would destroy, they would rid the country of the rapidly increasing field mouse pest. They seek out the nests of the mice in warm weather, and eat the very young mice.

In many sections the hawks and owls that destroy mice in the fields are fast disappearing, and unless some method is devised to remove these pests the land will soon be infested beyond control. The garter snake seems to be the solution to the problem, and since they do a double duty toward the aiding of mankind, it would seem to be the State's duty to protect them. Hundreds of farmers in the South will have garter snakes in their gardens during the coming summer.

The English sparrow is getting almost as bad a reputation as the snake, and with equally false reasons. Many experts who are making a constant study of the habits of birds throughout this country are slowly admitting that the sparrow is gradually adapting itself to conditions in America, and that it is not as destructive as has been generally supposed.

"People are prejudiced against the sparrow," declares one Ohio bird student. "These birds are actually worth their weight in gold, as they destroy enough weed seed in one month to pay for all the damage they may do in other directions in a whole year. We must study the despised little birds credit for the actual good they are doing."

During July, August, September and October, throughout the Eastern and Central States, the sparrows are constantly gathering seeds from ragweeds, lambsquarters, sorrel, and a number of obnoxious grasses, such as the foxtail grass, which the gardener and farmers dread so much on account of its persistence in resisting all their efforts to rid the country of it.—Chicago American.

THE INVENTOR OF SHRAPNEL

Shrapnel was originally the name of a British general who, about a hundred years ago, was begging the board of ordinance of his native land for some substantial recognition in respect of the new and deadly missile he had placed absolutely at their service, and was being told that the institution in question "had no funds at their disposal for the reward of merit."

Henry Shrapnel's invention was probably first employed at Surinam in 1804, and was then "favorably reported on," but eleven years later Sir George Wood, who commanded the artillery at Waterloo, declared that shrapnel had won that famous battle. Without it, Wood asserted, no effort of the British could have recovered the farmhouse of La Haye Sainte. In 1814 the government granted Shrapnel a pension of £1200 a year for life, but this was interpreted by his paymasters to cover all the inventions Shrapnel had given to the army, including an ingenious gun-mounting whereby the recoil was utilized to bring one gun into action at the same time as another was put under cover. Shrapnel was thus placed at a disadvantage, though he had the satisfaction of drawing his pension to a ripe old age. He died in 1842, aged 81.

The next number of the Ladies Aid Lecture Course of the M. E. church will be held on the evening of February 26, when Robert Seeds of Pennsylvania will appear here.

THE HOME FOR FALLEN WOMAN

DETROIT SATURDAY NIGHT

It is a blessing that so many legislators report that their home towns do not want the new state home for delinquent women. Such a home will best serve its purpose as far removed from city life as possible, surrounded by woods and fields and clear sun and fresh air. It is not to be a jail, or a prison, or a penitentiary, if the original advocates of such an institution have their way. It is to be a place where women of the street can be detained under auspices and influences that will do most to reconstruct their lives, physically and morally. Bedford, New York is its prototype; not Jackson, or Marquette, or Ionia, or the Detroit House of Correction. It is to represent an attempt on the part of society to reclaim those women who have fallen below their natural status in life, and to segregate those who are victims of feeble-mindedness, or moral deformity, or chronic vice. Since none of the lawmakers seem to want it as a personal monument for their own neighborhood the probability is it can be advantageously located.

THE ELECTION TOTALS

The tabulation of the vote cast last November shows one remarkable fact: The total number of ballots was greater than the number in the presidential election of 1912, in spite of 1914 being the off year.

Those who are interested in such matters will find considerable food for study in the figures, which are as follows for the two years:

	1914	1912
Democratic	6,324,962	6,293,019
Republican	6,013,374	3,484,958
Progressive	1,906,417	4,119,507
Socialist	687,495	901,873
Prohibition	193,869	207,925
Soc. Labor	30,344	29,253

The gain in the total vote was 119,919, or an increase of .007 per cent over that cast in 1912. The Democrats gained 31,943, which is an increase of .005 per cent, or less proportionately than that in the total vote cast. The Republican gain was 2,528,418, being an increase of 72 per cent, and the Progressive loss was 2,213,090 or 52 per cent. The Socialist and the Prohibition parties both fell behind while the Socialist Labor party showed a slight advance.

Two points will impress themselves on the studious observer of the table. One is its evidence that the Progressives who leave their new party are going solidly to the Republicans. The other is that the anti-Democratic vote in the country is growing, for while the Democratic gain in the two years was 31,943, the combined Republican Progressive gain was 315,328. The Democratic party is even more a minority party now than it was in 1912, and if the Republicans and Progressives continue to come together in a small portion of the ratio of the last year Mr. Wilson will have to show a marked advance on his first vote to have any chance at all. The discouraging fact for his followers is that he has not shown any advance thus far, but is actually losing ground instead of gaining.

NEW HARBOR BILL GIVES HOLLAND $5,000

A new rivers and harbors bill, carrying in the aggregate $34,000,000, passed the house of representatives during last week. Leader Underwood declared it to be the cleanest bill of the kind ever reported to congress, absolutely needed by the country, and gave it as his opinion that it must be passed at the present session. No new projects are authorized in the measure, although there are several provisions for examinations and surveys.
