Businesses to Delay Opening on Monday
Because of Rally

To bolster the sale of U. S. war savings bonds and stamps in retail establishments, a city-wide mass meeting of Holland store employers and employees is to be held in the Holland theater between 9 and 10 a.m. Monday.

The rally was approved by the retail merchants' council of the Holland Chamber of Commerce and the merchants' war bond committee at a joint meeting held Tuesday.

Two Grand Rapids men will speak. A motion picture, "The Birth of the Flag," will be shown. A group of civic players from Grand Rapids will present two skits on the right and wrong way to sell war savings stamps and bonds. The Holland High School band will furnish a musical program.

At Tuesday's meeting, the two groups endorsed the "Washington Birthday Bond" dinner to be held Feb. 22 and will assist in the sale of $1,000 bonds.

Clears Up Point On Dance Issue

Mayor Says Vote Won't Affect Present School
Recreation Program

Next Monday's straw vote on the school dancing question will not affect the present recreation program in the public schools, Mayor Henry Geerlings, secretary of the board, pointed out at the Monday session of the board of education.

The board does not intend to curtail the present recreation program, he explained, and the straw vote is being held to determine the sentiment of voters on supervised dancing in the schools.

He said he had received many telephone calls in regard to the straw vote and felt that a statement should be made that the present recreation program will not be done away with should the "no" votes prevail.

Supt. E. E. Fell has explained that the recreation program includes year-round activities for both students and adults. The board and the city jointly finance summer playground schedules and softball, tennis, horseshoe and other sports. In the winter, the gymnasium is open to students and adults for various activities, including softball, basketball and volleyball.

The board approved Wednesday, Sept. 8, as the opening date for the 1943-44 year in the public schools.

Supt. E. E. Fell advised the board that the school calendar for next year had not been completed since he had been unable to meet with the committee, but he felt the opening date should be set. On motion of Trustee A. E. Lampen, supported by Trustee John Olet, the Sept. 8 date was approved.

The board also approved the sending of letters to State Rep. Nelson A. Miles and State Sen. Frank McKee, requesting them to oppose any legislation that would tend to change the state board of control of vocational education. It was brought out that a bill pending in the legislature would increase the present four-man board to seven members by eliminating one of the present members and permitting the governor to appoint four additional members.

Claims amounting to $58,183.94 were approved for payment.

Company Is Made Part Of Second Battalion in New Michigan Setup

Major Henry Rowan has received official notice from Lansing that Co. 305 of the Michigan State troops has been changed to Co. H, and made a part of the second battalion of the 32nd Infantry regiment.

Reorganization of the state troops to include regrouping of the present battalion and separate company units into a streamlined divisional command patterned after similar organizations in the U.S. Army was announced Saturday in Lansing by Gov. Harry F. Kelly.

Col. Lewis J. Donovan of Grand Rapids has been named regimental commander for the 32nd Infantry regiment. The second battalion also includes headquarters company, Co. E and Co. G, both of Muskegon, and Co. F (formerly Co. 315) of Grand Haven.

The Holland company will be composed of three officers and 77 enlisted men. Capt. Loren Wenzel is commanding officer of the local unit but promotions of two lieutenants have not been confirmed in Lansing, Major Rowan said. For Michigan, there will be 288 officers and 6,026 enlisted men in the state troops.

"The reorganization of the state troops will provide a big change in the program of training the men and the state troops will be operated on a regular army basis," Major Rowan stated.

The changeover provides that a new roster be prepared, giving the names of the men, their present rank, their new assignment and organization from which they were transferred. All company property must be transferred from the old company commander to the new commander, the work to be completed by Feb. 25.

New equipment recently received by the Holland unit includes 82 new gas masks, metal disk "dog tags," targets and target frames for outdoor firing. New overcoats and shoes, received last fall, were issued to the men last week, Major Rowan reported.

Challenging Address Is Heard by Century Club

A philosophy of work, individual responsibility and faith was propounded by Robert Kazmayer, news commentator, lecturer, author, in a dynamic address entitled "A Challenge of a Changing World," presented before members of the Holland Century Club Monday night in the Warm Friend tavern.

Admitting that he did not know the answer to the question "What lies ahead?" the speaker urged his listeners to back away from the headlines to get a real picture of events and to consider those things "of which we may be sure."

The world has changed more in the last century and a half than in the preceding 30 centuries, and in the past 25 years the change in the realm of things scientific and mechanical is most noticeable in the United States, he said. There are also changes in ideals and goals—whole groups starting out to create new ways of life. The development of totalitarianism—fascism, communism, nazism—has been obvious, but here in the United States the changes have come with startling suddenness and few have realized the trends, he declared.

In the past, savages have fought with inefficient tools against civilized groups, but today the barbarians have weapons and organization, "as good or better than ours," which he called "streamlined, mechanized, industrialized savagery."

"We must remember," declared the speaker, "that in war and peace, totalitarianism is the greatest striking force that has ever been developed. We may be grateful that Russia is our ally, for it is significant that it took the followers of totalitarian Stalin to stop Germany."

"Doubting Hitler a 'mathematical improbability,' and 'the greatest rabble rouser who ever lived,' Mr. Kazmayer described the emotionalism of his hold on the German people, which however, is bolstered by fear.

In every totalitarian country the people have learned the meaning of work and responsibility, stated the speaker, and in this war "we must meet them work for work, production for production." There must be development of individual responsibility, with the realization that there shall be no rights and privileges without the accompanying duties. There must be a tightening and hardening if America is to be strong in war and the peace to follow.

"The American working man is patriotic and hard working. The problem of organized labor, however, will be solved, just as soon as 'we solve the problem of the labor agitator.' The labor union leader should be just as responsible as the president of a bank, advised the speaker.

With work and responsibility there must be religion. "We can't fight a faith—even a pagan faith—without a better faith," he said. Mr. Kazmayer concluded his address with a word about the post war world. "When peace comes, our struggle in America is just beginning," he said. "We must learn that there is something greater than American business, because there is something worse than a depression and taxes. We are going to have to rehabilitate Europe, and we will have to pay, because we have the wealth with which to pay."

Mrs. J. D. French presided and introduced the speaker.

As an opening feature of the program, Robert Cavanaugh, head of the voice department of Hope college, sang a group of vocal solos which were well received by the group. His numbers were "Droop Not, Young Lover," by Handel; "The Candles," in French; "Sylvia," by Spelski; and the encore, "Danny Boy," arranged by Weatherly. He was accompanied by Mrs. W. Curtis Snow.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Vander Meulen, and Mrs. P. F. Boone and Miss Catharine Mersen formed the reception and social committee.

Can Limit Use of Streets at Park

Grand Haven, Feb. 11 (Special) — In an opinion filed in circuit court Saturday by Presiding Judge Cornelius J. Hoffius, who heard the proofs in the case of Irwin H. Unverzagt, et al., against George E. Miller, the bill of complaint was dismissed with costs in favor of the defendant to be taxed. Judge Hoffius held that Miss Miller, who inherited certain real estate in Macatawa park from her father, the late Swan A. Miller, has a right to limit the number of persons who can and who cannot travel the streets and roads over the property in question for the purpose of delivering goods, etc. This is considered a blow to the cottage owners and a victory for Miss Miller.

In disposing of the case Judge Hoffius stated: "Merchants, tradesmen and peddlers have no right to use the roads, streets, drives or alleys as public thoroughfares; defendant is permitted to license merchants, tradesmen and peddlers for the right to use the roads, streets, drives and alleys of Macatawa park, but the license fee charged shall be reasonable in amount and uniform within such class or type of business as the licensee may carry on in Macatawa park and in line with the rules and regulations as heretofore enforced."

There has been much controversy for many years over the right of the Macatawa Park Co. and later on that of the late Mr. Miller to limit the number of persons who might sell and deliver goods to cottage owners. Miss Miller has insisted upon her right to say who shall and shall not be permitted to go over the streets and deliver goods, while many of the cottage owners felt that they would like to buy from anyone they desired and the suit was brought to determine Miss Miller's right.

He traced the relation of the church and state from the earliest period to the present time and indicated the lines of development in different countries of the western world. Expanding Duties Of Coast Guard Told to Rotarians

History of Service Outlined in Address By G.H. Lieutenant

Lieut. (Jg) Galavin of the U.S. coast guard training station at Grand Haven, in an address delivered Thursday noon to members of the Holland Rotary club, explained the duties of the coast guard and gave a brief history of the service.

Activities of the coast guard in peace time, he said, include supervision of whaling, sealing and fishing, ice patrol, weather patrol, lifesaving and shore patrol. However, in war time, the coast guard operates under the navy department and submarine patrol, convoy duty and many other marine activities are added to the duties.

Having the honor of being the oldest branch of the armed service in the United States, the coast guard was founded in 1790 to stop smuggling. Various duties have been added, the latest of which has been the office of captain of the port in 1941. The name "Coast Guard" was first used in 1915, he said.

At the present time, many sailing vessels are used by the coast guard against the submarine menace. The absence of motors and the presence of the latest sounding devices make them ideal for this dangerous work, he related. Many coast guardsmen are used in the operating of landing barges in places like the Solomon Islands and New Guinea. Their experience with small boats makes them experts at work of this nature, he said, adding that the men of the coast guard are of a high calibre, physically and mentally.

Chief Boatswain's Mate M. E. Rhea, officer in charge of the Holland coast guard station, was a special guest. The Rev. W. J. Hilmer of Zeeland was a visiting Rotarian.

Due to the illness of President Dick Miles, Vice-President Duncan Weaver presided. Cigars were presented to the club by C. Neal Steketee, in honor of his admittance to the "grandpappy club."

Herbert Heaney of Grand Rapids addressed members of the local Kiwanis club and their guests, the Kiwanis "Queens," at a dinner meeting in the Warm Friend tavern Wednesday Feb. 3. Taking as his subject, "When Walls Come Tumbling Down," he spoke of the walls of smugness, bigotry and selfishness.

The American people must break through the wall of smugness, he said. They have been too contented and are loath to face the fact that in the last 1,000 years only two and one-half per cent of the time has there been peace. There must be a breaking down of the walls of bigotry in the churches and in religion. Americans must learn to appreciate the boon of freedom of worship. In breaking down the wall of selfishness, there must be more interest shown in one's neighbors, with a distinction made between inconveniences and sacrifice, he declared.

President Leo Ebel presided and Dr. James K. Ward led community singing. Special music consisted of piano solos by Miss Marie Lemmen and selections by the Lyric Four, a mixed quartet of young people.

A BUSY MAN'S HOBBY

A small detail in the endless publicity about the meeting of the United Nations' leaders at Casablanca, so small that most readers probably overlooked it, has an interesting story behind it.
One of the reporters took the trouble to record that Winston Churchill took time out while in Africa to do some sketching. People who are unfamiliar with Churchill's personal life may have wondered at the single sentence that told about this; perhaps they attributed it to a typographical error.

But Winston Churchill is an enthusiastic amateur painter. (He is also an enthusiastic amateur stone mason; but that's another story.) One of the reasons why this aging man stands up so well under the great political burden that rests on his shoulders is that now and then he can drop the burden, take up a paint brush, seat himself before a canvas, and let his troubles flow out from the tips of his fingers in paint. His half day of sketching in Africa was almost certainly not a pose for Churchill's part; in all probability it represented a real interest and was incidentally a kind of health insurance. Thus a hobby helps the United Nations to win the war.

A further fascinating fact about Churchill's hobby is that he did not take it up until he had passed forty. He had no special aptitude for painting, but at 40 he needed something to take up the slack in his activities. Thrown out of the ministry that he had served during the first World war he was left with time on his hands. Almost by accident he decided to try his hand at painting. He took no lessons, he had no expensive teachers; he simply bought a piece of canvas, some paint brushes, some tubes of paint, and began. As simple as that! He tells about it himself in an essay called "Painting as a Pastime" that appeared in a volume, "Amid These Storms," published in 1932. He did not then and does not now, make any pretensions that his paintings are great or even good. That is not the point. His paintings are not so much for others to enjoy as for the painter himself to get satisfaction from. Neither does he pretend that the walls he builds on his farm in England are important examples of the stone mason's art. If they help him as mason, they serve their purpose.
Similarly, if these paintings help Churchill, they justify themselves.

Such hobbies of busy men are a form of health insurance. Some men play the trombone; others write sonnets, still others whistle out model ships from blocks of wood. It does not matter what they do; their instinct for conserving their mental health is sure. The world owes much to Churchill's interest in amateur painting.

THE CHURCH INVITES YOU

Why Go to Church?
"When I was a boy, I was made to go to church three times on Sunday, and so now..." is sometimes heard from the non-church goers, spoken so auda-ciously, as if such vindication were justifiable.

In a well regulated home, children are taught in an effective way the meaning of the church as a sacred institution offering the needed religious privileges that must not be denied any child. Any condemnation of the home should fall on the parents who permit their children to grow up without the needed moral background that makes for character. Investigations by juvenile courts have proved that the vast majority of delinquents come from homes without a religious program.

It is probable that the one who makes the above excuse ought to have had the early childhood program continued a little longer.
The habit of church attendance would have been as normal as the habit of eating three times a day is normal. Who ever heard of an adult refusing to eat because he had been made to eat three times a day when a child? Why not go to church next Sunday?

The Man Born Blind

John 9:13-38

by Henry Geerlings
The scene of this miracle cannot be definitely fixed. And we are in doubt as to the exact time.
It probably occurred in Jerusalem about the time of the Feast of Tabernacles. But it is not difficult to visualize the story presented to us in this chapter. In the East blind people may be seen almost anywhere. Especially are all the approaches to temples and churches infested with the blind who are usually begging.
The number of these people were increased in the early days when an important festival was being celebrated. The spectacle was one that moved passers-by to pity.
That the account of healing concerns itself with one man does not deny the presence of others who were similarly afflicted. His may have been a unique case, and the results of such a character as to lift it out of the category of the usual miracle of healing.

As Jesus and His disciples were passing along they beheld a blind beggar, who must have been a well-known character. The twelve were at once reminded of disputes among leaders of the Jews as to the relation between sin and suffering. And so in a speculative spirit they asked their Master who had sinned that this man was a life-long sufferer. Jesus answered that the suffering was not the result of any specific sin either in the sufferer or his parents, but that it was now to be the occasion for an expression of the Father's good will.

The Pharisees who were the guardians of the law and the judges of questions of legal observance began to find fault. It seems that neighbors brought the healed man before these judges for a decision on the legality of the healing which was performed on the Sabbath. These neighbors wanted it known, in case any difficulty arose from the miracle, that they had done their duty in reporting it to the proper authorities. Any student of the New Testament knows how the Sabbath was hedged about and made a burden by hundreds of minute rabbinical laws.

The Pharisees asked the healed man. He had been questioned before as to the manner of the cure, and he must have become impatient at the repeated investigations. It seemed no longer a question as to whether the man before them was that was blind and sat begging, but as to whether actual work was done on the Sabbath, and as to whether he who did it could be a good man.
He told his story.

The Pharisees maintained that this man was not from God. The trouble in this instance was not with the healed man or with Jesus who had healed him, but with the minute requirements which made it unlawful to do good on the Sabbath day. Most assuredly Jesus did not keep it according to their false and unscriptural notions, but he kept it in the very best way, by giving a blind man sight. The more reasonable of the group began to think that perhaps their law about the Sabbath was at fault. They could not doubt the miracle. They could not doubt that the power to perform it was from God. Hence they were not convinced that Jesus is a Sabbath breaker and a sinner.

Not being satisfied with the information so far obtained, the Pharisees called the young man's parents and asked them about him, the manner of the cure, and who his healer was. They answered cautiously, for they knew an agreement had been made to bar any one from the synagogue who was suspected of sympathy with Jesus. Being good Jews they did not wish to commit themselves. To escape expulsion they refused to make further answer.

Growing desperate, they pressed for further light on the case.
Their repeated questioning of the young man may have been undertaken in the hope of finding flaws in his testimony. But he lost his patience, supposing that their controversy was about words, and refused to tell his story again. It was evident he believed his benefactor was a prophet and deserving of something else than condemnation. His manner as well as his words put him on Jesus' side.

Arguments fail, so they resort to abuse. They placed him with Jesus, while they took their stand with Moses, whom they regarded as a true prophet through whom God spoke and who gave the law concerning the Sabbath. Had they known the truth they would have seen there was no antagonism between Moses and Jesus.

The young man works from the miracle back. The miracle was performed. It was a good work, therefore it must have been from God. He had no theological opinions to defend; hence he went straight to the truth. We know.
This is the logic of the healed man. This is his argument. The power to work the miracle was in answer to prayer; but God hears only those who worship him and do his will—therefore Jesus could not be a sinner. This is the more certain because of the greatness of the miracle.

The man grows bolder as the controversy advances. He sees the weakness of the position of his opponents, and soon reaches the point where he declares himself a believer in Jesus. His remarks cut them to the quick and they turned in to insult and revile.

There is not much sense in winning the war if we are going to turn into a nation of gamblers before we win it.

A clever swindling scheme is worked by a pair of smooth young fellows in various parts of the country. One goes through the country on a bicycle and when he strikes a town he claims to be hard up and offers his wheel cheap to get the money. The boys admire bicycles and bite readily, paying a small price for a first class wheel. After a few days the other sharper turns up and claims to be looking for a man who stole a wheel. He gives a good description of it, giving the number and the possessor has to

But It's True

Holland
In 1912

A clever game was worked on Fred Meyer, proprietor of Meyer's cave, who is $52.80 out in cash as well as two meal tickets amounting to $7.50, according to a story in the Nov. 14 issue of the Holland Daily Sentinel published in 1912. The man who worked this game on Meyer had been going under various names. It develops that his real name is Harry Max.
Max claimed to have a good pay check coming from the Grand Rapids office, although he had worked at Waverly as dispatcher for only a few days, and borrowing money from Meyer where he boarded on the strength of the coming check. However when he had been given the money he disappeared.

During the night the Brink Book Store and the Vaupell Har-dollars worth of pens, etc.

Air Medal Given Corp. Robert Graf

Wins Second Award For Hundred Hours Of War Zone Flight

Corp. Robert F. Graf, route 4, Holland, has been awarded the air medal by Lieut. Gen. George C. Kenney, commander of the Allied air forces in the southwest Pacific area, according to a United Press news dispatch from general headquarters of the southwest Pacific area.

Lieut. Gen. George C. Kenney, commander of Allied air forces in the southwest Pacific, awarded the air medal to Graf and to first Lieut. Thomas R. Fowler, Jackson.

The citation for Graf said he "participated in more than 100 hours of operational flight missions during which hostile contact was probable and expected. These flights included long range bombing missions against enemy airbases and attacks on enemy naval vessels and shipping." Graf piled up his 100 hours between Dec. 8, 1941 and Nov. 10, 1942.

Last Oct. 14, a press dispatch from General MacArthur's headquarters reported Corp. Graf had been awarded a Silver star for beating off several enemy fighters in a raid on Manado Jan. 17, 1942.

He is the son of George Graf, a Chicagoan who at one time was superintendent of the former Charles P. Limbert Furniture Co. Mr. Graf moved back to Chicago about April 15, 1942. At the time Corp. Graf enlisted in the service, his address was route 4, Holland.

About 2,480,000 youths, of ages 18 and 19, are now subject to military service, according to a census bureau survey in 1942. Many of these will be called this year.

Letter From Officer of Wehrmeyer Received

Anthony W. Kucera who apparently was Wehrmeyer's commanding officer, in which he offered his condolences to the family.

"We will miss Henry the hours and years to come for he was well liked by all of us who knew him. He did his duties loyally and efficiently which is the one requisite of a good soldier. Henry gave his life for the one thing he knew was right. He died bravely and honorably, fighting for a country he loved. Few men are thus privileged."

"Please accept the prayers and condolences from us who are left to carry on," his letter read.

Fennville, Feb. 11 (Special)—Fred Steuker, 50, died suddenly at 9 p.m. Saturday following an illness of only one hour, in the home of his nephew, Harvey Steuker at New Richmond. For nearly 20 years he was employed on the Pere Marquette railroad, but was off from last April until Jan. 6 when he again started work for the railroad as a bridge guard over Kalamazoo river, at New Richmond, working exactly one month before his death.

Never married, he leaves one brother, Charles Steuker of Michigan City, one sister, Mrs. Anna Prindiville of near Elk Rapids, and one niece and two nephews, including Harvey with whom he was living the past two years.

Concrete Blocks Have Many Uses

Van Voorst Brothers, concrete block manufacturers whose yard and plant are located at Columbia Ave. and 19th St., have been supplying this city with concrete blocks for over 30 years. The company was organized in 1911 by Henry and Fred Van Voorst to furnish this community with a concrete block which "lasts a lifetime." Since the death of Fred Van Voorst in 1935, his son, John, has taken over his share of the business which is still operating under the original name of Van Voorst Brothers.

In the past Van Voorst blocks have gone into a great number of buildings in this community and have withstood the ravages of time, proving there is nothing superior in quality of building material to concrete blocks. Now, in these war times when building is almost at a standstill, most of their business is repair work. Concrete blocks are especially useful in the repairing of basements and porches. Water and frost do not damage them, and once placed they will last indefinitely.

Fennville

(From Tuesday's Sentinel)

The course in better pork production presented to out-of-school boys over 17, and other adults has been completed, and a ten weeks course on better egg production has been started. Archie Welder will be the instructor. Classes will be held from 8 to 10 p.m. each Tuesday evening in the school's agriculture room. Fourteen were enrolled at the first meeting.

A course of six weeks' instruction in farm machinery repair has been organized, to be held from 8 to 11 p.m. each Tuesday at the Fennville Fruit exchange. John Bast, mechanic at the Michigan Fruit Cannery Co. the last two or three years, will instruct the class. Requirements for eligibility are the same as for the egg course. For information call: William Fisher, 24401. Last Thursday Mr. Fisher, Harold Johnson and Mr. Welder went to Lansing and brought back a load of equipment for the machinery repair class.

Last Wednesday the following Junior Farm bureau members drove to Lansing where they attended the day's session and banquet served as part of the three-day Farmers Week: Arthur Wightman, Richard Reimink, Herman Pedersen, and the Misses Virginia Greitzinger, secretary of the West Allegan Junior bureau, and Olga Chinalski. L. C. Pedersen accompanied them.

The announcement of a Fisher party once was received not only by dancers but by onlookers with enthusiasm and anticipation not experienced much today. When such a party was staged by Masons or Eastern Stars of Fennville the event was looked upon as a red letter event in society. It has been many years since such a party has been held here, but the Lions club has arranged to hold one Friday night, Feb. 12, in the I.O.O.F. hall.

Mrs. Ruth Carey of the Pearl school has resigned and is teaching a school in her home district. The room is now being taught by Mrs. Baker of Allegan.

Fennville seniors, in order to get in their two years of foreign language required for graduation, have been obliged since the resignation of Miss June Denmore who taught Latin, to take a correspondence course by the University of Michigan. This is especially difficult because they are obliged to take the entire course of the university, which necessitates making up the first 12 weeks as well as keeping up the advanced work.

Plans are being made to give a play early in March, both juniors and seniors taking part. The play will be directed by Denton Norlin.

Two candidates for Rebekah degrees were elected by Radiant lodge Friday evening. They are to be initiated at the next meeting, Feb. 19.

Invitations have been issued for a bridge luncheon party at the home of Mrs. Fred Martin with Mrs. James Smeed co-hostess, on Saturday.

Robert L. Stevenson who is receiving his basic training at Camp Claiborne, La., has been promoted to the rank of corporal. Mrs. Stevenson is making her home with her parents at Kibbie. Milton Sackett of Wyandotte, spent a few days here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Sackett, before entering the army. Mrs. Sackett will remain with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alec Blenc, at Wyandotte. Mrs. Bruno Gudatich has returned from a visit with her parents in Chicago. She reports that her mother is recovering nicely from her recent illness.

Mrs. Mamie Bell was in Chicago to attend the graduation of her grandson, John Bell, Jan. 28 from South Shore high school. John has the distinction of being the first boy in Chicago to be inducted as a naval cadet under the new ruling. The navy and the marine corps are bidding for the 1943 crop of 17-year-old graduates by offering aviation cadet training and college education. John got in under the ruling, but as he was to be 18 Feb. 6 he was sworn in on the day of graduation. John is the elder son of John Bell, Sr., former Fennville resident who graduated from the school here in 1917. Donald, the younger brother of John Jr., spent his summer vacation here with his grandmother last year.

Calvin Crane and Norman Burch drove to Chicago Saturday to visit friends. Norman thought he may take some sort of work there. Calvin is employed at Holland while waiting for induction. Mrs. William Bushee and baby son, Robert, have been visiting her sister, Mrs. Hugh Harper, in Muskegon the past week. Mr. Bushee is employed there.

Seventeen members and four guests of the Methodist W.S.C.S. were entertained last Thursday afternoon in the home of Mesdames Lloyd Phillips and Pearl Schnoor. There was no sewing to be done, but plans were completed for serving the annual Farm bureau dinner Feb. 18. Reservations for 75 were made by the Farm bureau. Money is still being received for waist measurements, the amount now being over $9.

John Doyle, sophomore at Ann Arbor, was the guest during his semester vacation of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dickinson, and Miss Jane from Sunday to Saturday of this week. His mother is the former Florence Dickinson, of Fennville, now living in Duluth. John is a member of the naval reserves and expects he may be called the first of May.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Blakeslee Crane entertained at a 6:30 p.m. dinner at their home Friday evening, guests of honor being the boys from here who are expected to go into service soon, their son, Calvin, Clifford Paine, Jr. (Chink), Norman Burch and John Doyle, guest of the Dickinsons. Other guests were Mrs. Dickinson and Jane, J. E. Burch and Mrs. Clifford E. Paine.

WTS Students Given 'Wings'

Nine students of the Hope college WTS program, formerly known as the CPT, were presented their wings at chapel exercises held in Hope Memorial chapel at 11 a.m. Monday, the awards being made by Prof. Bruce Raymond, coordinator of the program.

Those receiving their wings were John Shirley Belware, Frederick Emmerson Bliss, Joseph Cavello, Erwin Bruce Fitzsimmons, Clarence Elmer Levertson, Charles Willis Maxfield, Ellis Carl Maxwell, Carl Nelson and Lawrence Wesley Payne.

The group has been in training at Park township airport only two weeks but all of them made their first solo flight within the past week. Dr. Raymond reported he explained the WTS setup to Hope college students at today's chapel program.

Dr. Raymond introduced each member as he pinned the "wings" on them.

Members of this class the third to be trained on Hope campus, will probably go into duty with the ferry command or as copilot work on transports. They are the first group to be given uniforms by the government.

Dr. Raymond commended the boys all of whom have some solo hours to their credit in less than two weeks on the campus. The National anthem was sung at the opening of the program with Mrs. W. Curtis Snow at the organ. The Rev. Henry Bast read a military passage of Scripture and also offered prayer. Dr. Wynand Wichers presided.

Prayer week services, originally scheduled for this week, were indefinitely postponed today due to the illness of Dr. Kuzenga of Princeton, N. J., who was to conduct the meetings.

Boy Scout Service Is Held in Sixth Church
A special Boy scout service was held in Sixth Reformed church Sunday morning with the Rev. Marion de Velder of Hope church as guest preacher. Scouts entered to the processional, "America the Beautiful," presented the colors, gave the flag's "Pledge of Allegiance" and the Scout oath. At the close of the service Miss Vivian Dalman sang "God Bless America."

Since the death of his parents a few years ago he made his home with the Mareks, having never married.

Hingamen Pile Up 95 Points to Sink Dales in MIAA Tilt

Take Firmer Hold on Lead While Chalking Up Apparent Record

The Hope college basketball team climbed another notch on their ladder of fame for the current season, as well as grabbing a firmer hold on first place in the MIAA conference, when they set what was believed to be a conference scoring record against Hillsdale College Friday night, ringing up 95 points to 55 for the Dales.

Conference scorekeepers went scurrying to their records after the contest, for it was believed to be the highest total ever posted in a conference game. The score, at least, was the highest in Michigan in the 1942-43 season.

The first half was pretty evenly matched, although the Dutch were never headed. Pulling out in front in the last minutes of the second period, the Dutchmen chalked up a 39-22 lead at the half. Coach Milton L. (Bud) Hinga played his reserves a great deal of the game, and again the Dutch seconds showed plenty of power in collecting a good percentage of the total points scored.

Guard Don Mulder of Hope led the parade of points, collecting 21 points to lead all scorers for the evening. He was closely followed by his roommate, Center Russ De Vette, who missed the record by one and had 20. Guard Charles Patrick was high for the Dales with 20.

The defeat for Hillsdale was the fifth straight in conference competition. The victory was the fifth for the Dutch in the conference and the 11th in 12 starts, to keep them high and dry on top of the MIAA ladder. Hillsdale has yet to win a game in 10 starts.

Hope scored an 85-32 victory over Dales earlier in the season. Between halves of the game, Burr Manby, Hillsdale college fullback, was presented the 1942 Randall C. Bosch trophy awarded annually to the MIAA's outstanding football player. Bosch, Holland resident, made the presentation himself.

The three dominating personalities at the January, 1942, conference, which the speaker regarded as an important event in American history, were Ruiz Guinazu of Argentina, Oswaldo Aranha of Brazil and Sumner Welles of the United States, foreign secretaries of their respective countries. Although the outstanding achievement of the conference was the unanimous recommendation that all South American republics sever relations with the Axis, many other benefits came from the conference, Miss Post said.

She concluded her talk with an up-to-date discussion of affairs in each of the three major countries of South America, Brazil, Argentina and Chile, from the standpoint of their political and military activities since the conference. Delegates to the state D. A. R. conference to be held March 24-26 in Detroit, were named as follows: Miss Rogers, delegate, Miss Post, alternate; Mrs. Allan B.
