Delay Action On Allegan Retirement

ALLEGAN — Action on two major items of county business was postponed by members of the Allegan County board of supervisors at their February meeting here Tuesday.

The finance committee is expected to bring in a resolution at the March meeting which will give board members a chance to vote on the proposal to put 130 county employees under the Michigan Municipal Workers' Retirement System.

Mrs. Florence Blundy, retirement system supervisor, appeared before the board to explain the plan which would cost the county $26,290 if put into effect this year. Employees would also contribute to the cost, paying 3 per cent of the first $4,200 in wages and 5 per cent of anything over that amount.

She said 160 Michigan cities and counties are now members of the system.

The plan provides for a compulsory retirement age of 70, but employees may retire at full benefits at age 60. An employee averaging $4,500 income per year with 25 years service would receive $1,162 per year under the plan. Similar benefits also are provided under the plan for employees who are disabled.

The board also decided to postpone until its April meeting final action on plans for a county-wide appraisal of taxable property.

So far, board members have heard presentations by three property appraisal firms. Richard Kisel, manager of the St. Joseph, Mich., office of the J.M. Clemenshaw Company, of Cleveland, was the latest to appear before the board. Kisel estimated cost of the project at "about $180,000." If the board decided to go ahead with the appraisal, specifications would be written and the contrast let on the basis of competitive bids.

Mrs. Siedelman, a former Holland area resident, was a member of Grace Episcopal Church of Port Huron, the Quota Club and the Ladies Auxiliary of the Charles Hammond Post No. 8 of Port Huron. She operated a women's apparel store in Port Huron for several years.

Surviving are one brother, Fred Bos; one sister, Mrs. Bert Keen of Holland; two nieces, Mrs. Justin Johnson of Holland, and Mrs. William De Maagd of Grand Rapids.

(center) and cousin Norm of Holland (right). Japinga and Juday autographed small footballs (held by Harold Japinga) that were presented to the youngsters. An MSU stadium blanket (held by Don Japinga) was presented to Al Bransdorfer by the MSU players as Holland's No. 1 MSU fan.

Japinga, Juday Speak at Elks

Don Japinga and Steve Juday, co-captains of the 1965 Michigan State football team, entertained 200 fathers and sons Wednesday night at the annual Elks Club event.

Japinga, son of the late Louis Japinga, a Holland native, praised the Elks for staging the annual event as he recalled his relationship with his father.

"Ours was a pal relationship," the Wayland senior said, "and he used to hold the down markers, not to tell me anything, but just to be near me when I played in high school."

"When it's gone you can certainly appreciate what a wonderful relationship it was," Japinga said in recalling his father who died in 1962.

He thanked the Elks "from the bottom of my heart" for the invitation as Holland "is my second home" and "my parents have told me about many Holland persons and many of relatives, including my grandpa are here." "I get to Holland quite often to see grandpa and my uncles," he continued.

On hand at the event were his uncles Don of Holland and Harold of Grandville and cousin Norm of Holland. "I wished I were my uncle Don's size when I saw those 6'4", 240-pound ends coming at me," the 5'7", 155-pound defensive halfback said. Japinga quipped about his size, saying "Steve says I'm the only guy who doesn't get the sheets messed up because I cuddle on the pillow (Japinga and Juday are roommates) and I'm the only player who checks the height of the blades of grass before a game."

He reported the co-captains wore the same ties through the 10 game season and wryly told how Coach Duffy Daugherty had given each player a tie prior to the trip to Penn State but the team members didn't think much of Duffy's selection of ties.

Quipping about teammates he told how team humorist Oil Can winner Drake Garrett, after being knocked out in the Michigan game, came to and said "I'm fine, how are my fans taking it."

He explained pre-season and regular season drills, noting a team meeting is held each Thursday night and on Sunday night after the game to review Saturday's films.

Japinga also told of the individual workout schedule and how the report was sent to Daugherty with a circle around each day missed.

As for the California trip, Japinga said it was "tremendous" with chauffeured cars at their disposal. As for the Rose Bowl, Japinga repeated his frequently quoted statement "We were flat and they (UCLA) played 150 per cent."

"We weren't overconfident or cocky but we weren't up mentally but we'd sure like to play them tomorrow," he added.

As for his biggest thrills, Japinga said "stepping out on the MSU turf as a sophomore for the first time before 76,000 fans, plus being elected co-captain by your teammates, the fellows who know you best and beating Notre Dame and intercepting the pass in that game to give us the national championship."

He felt the "break" that led to his getting on the MSU varsity came about three or four weeks after freshman drills started. As for his lifetime interest in football, Japinga said "my mother says we were buying lamps in the front room because my dad started throwing balls to me early."

Japinga said he selected MSU because he "first wanted to get an education" and although not on a football scholarship "I wanted to give it a try."

As for the 1965 team, he praised its "unselfishness, willingness to work and desire. We didn't have to get fired up on 10 Saturdays because we were up every day and we felt we were as good as we practiced."

During the winter, football players lift weights and play a lot of basketball and paddleball to stay in shape, the pair reported.

Juday revealed he had been offered a contract Tuesday to play football in the Canadian League but was going to reject it because he felt "education was more important" and he was going to obtain his master's degree.

The MSU quarterback, who said he started playing football in the seventh grade (Ron Schipper, Zeeland native and Central of Iowa football coach was Juday's tenth grade coach) with his two brothers who were both bigger "so I learned to run faster and cut sharper."

A Northville resident, Juday said he felt he knew a lot of Holland hearing Japinga talk of it.

As for the Rose Bowl, Juday felt he gained more from the loss about building character and accepting defeat. "I might have thought I was as good as people said that I was," he said.

Praising the Elks, Juday said "you guys be with your sons, you don't know about tomorrow." Juday thought the Notre Dame win was his greatest thrill.

"It was the greatest team victory I've ever seen although personally I didn't have a good game because I made mistake of a senior quarterback shouldn't make." Juday thought Jim Raye would be MSU's No. 1 quarterback next season. He looked for the Spartans to have an outstanding year but thought the team would have "lots of pressure" with five of eight All-Americans back. He praised co-captains Gene Washington and George Webster.

Each of the youngsters attending received a small football autographed by Juday and Japinga. Movies of the Rose Bowl game were shown.

Al Bransdorfer was presented an MSU stadium blanket as MSU's No. 1 fan in Holland. James Hallan, speaking on behalf of Phillips Brooks of Holland, presented Exalted Ruler Ray Vande Vusse with a $200 gift from the 7-Up Bottling Co. for the Elks Welfare Fund.

Del Van Tongeren was banquet chairman and introduced guests. Jake Boersma gave the invocation and the Emblem Club served the dinner.

NEW PARKING FOR ALLEGAN — A building housing Allegan's old city hall and fire department, erected in 1884, was among the first buildings to be torn down for the city's downtown redevelopment project. This photo shows the last wall (right) of the old city hall being nudged by a power crane and then pulled down by a cable attached to a truck. In knocking down the wall, some damage was done to the Allegan News-Gazette building at left. Several warehouses and garages near the old municipal building also are being torn down to make way for parking.

Rebounding Wins Contest For Tommies

GRAND RAPIDS — Superior rebounding by the Aquinas College basketball team offset Hope's fine shooting here Wednesday night and gave the Tommies a 94-91 win in the West Catholic gym.

The victory was the eighth in 18 games for the Tommies while Hope is 10-7. The Flying Dutchmen return to MIAA action Saturday night in the Holland Civic Center against Adrian at 8 p.m. Adrian edged Albion, 84-81 Wednesday.

Coach Russ De Vette felt the game was decided on the boards where the Tommies outrebounded Hope, 60-41. Aquinas was especially strong on the defensive boards and did a good job on the offensive boards of getting second and third shot attempts.

These factors offset Hope's fine 50 per cent shooting mark of 43 of 86. The winners fired 102 times and made 38 for 37 per cent. Hope had halves of 23-44 and 20-42 while Aquinas had 16-52 and 32-50.

Another factor in the game was Aquinas' defense which committed only eight fouls. The Tommies played man-for-man and zone and combinations of both but were effective in not making fouls.

Aquinas chose to let the Hope players shoot, rather than try to block shots. Hope shot from outside (Clare Van Wieren and Bill Potter) and succeeded in feeding Floyd Brady inside. Joe O'Toole, who had four fouls, guarded Brady.

Instead of blocking shots, Aquinas worked for the rebound. Dennis Alexander picked off 16 while Tom Steiner had 15 and Phil Saurman, 14. Brady had 13 rebounds for Hope and Van Wieren, 10.

Hope made five of 11 free throws, two of three in the first half and three of eight in the second half. The winners hit 18 of 22.

The Flying Dutchmen led 48-40 at half but the Tommies tied the game early in the second half. The contest was knotted ten times, the last tie being 64-64. Aquinas went ahead 65-64 and didn't trail again.

With seven minutes to play Hope was down 72-70 but the rest of the game they trailed by three or more points.

Roy Anker, Hope center, was ill and played about half the game. De Vette used him for five minute intervals.

Van Wieren led Hope with 28 points while Brady had 23 and Potter, 19. All of Aquinas' players were in double figures as Alexander led with 27 followed by Steiner with 22. Bob Topper, who sparked the second half rally, had 17 and Saurman added 16 and O'Toole, 12.

Nab 2 Youths In Breakin

ZEELAND — Zeeland police referred two 16-year old rural Zeeland youths to Ottawa County Probate Court today after they were apprehended in the midst of a breakin at the Zeeland Farmers' Co-Op Service Station, 255 East Washington Ave. about 8 p.m. Wednesday.

Police said the youths also admitted another breakin of the same service station several weeks ago. A total of $150 in cigarettes, cigars, pipes, auto equipment and other articles was taken in the two breakins.

One of the youths was apprehended as he was leaving the station with his arms full of loot.

The other youth who had been driving a car around the area allegedly stopped in the service station to pick up the first youth.

Zeeland police had been tipped off that there might be a breakin at the station Wednesday morning, and one patrolman was stationed inside the building while other patrolmen staked out the area Wednesday evening.

The youths had been in the station Wednesday morning and had unlocked a large window at the rear of the building, police said. Employees of the service station noticed the unlocked window, and informed police.

Police said the youths entered the building through the window in both breakins.

Ottawa sheriff's deputies assisted Zeeland police in apprehending the youths.

Two Crews Mend Holes in Streets

It was a nice day in Holland Monday. The sun was shining and there was no new snow. So the city engineer's department put on two crews mending holes in local streets.

It was a change of pace for some of the men who have been busy mending plows.

Holes in the road are nothing new in the winter, and the situation this year is not particularly serious. More serious breakdowns come with the spring thaws.

Allegan Faces Huge Damage Suit

ALLEGAN — Allegan county's road commission has been named defendant in a $200,000 damage suit resulting from a freak accident in which a 39-year-old Douglas man and his young son were killed.

Mrs. Marion Jarvi, as administratrix of the estate of her husband, Ernest W. Jarvi, and son Brian, initiated the civil action which accuses both the county road commission and board of supervisors of negligence in failing to remove a dead elm tree which fell on the Jarvi car, killing the father and the 22-month old son.

The accident occurred during a wind storm on the night of Jan. 25, 1964, near the intersection of 127th Ave. and 63rd St., a few miles west of Fennville.

The bill of complaint charges that the road commission had knowledge of the dead elm tree at least 30 days prior to the accident and that it was negligent in failing to remove it from the roadside.

Mrs. Jarvi's suit also cited the Allegan county board of supervisors in the case because —when the road commission appealed to the board for special funds to remove several thousand dead elms from along side county highways — the board failed to do so. The road commission had made a special appeal to the board of supervisors prior to the accident.

At one time supervisors had discussed a special half-mill county tax to provide funds for removal of the trees — victims of Dutch elm disease — but no such action was taken. At the time of the discussion, several board members had pointed out that the county might be liable for damages in just such a case as Mrs. Jarvi has initiated.

Prosecuting Attorney E. L. Andrews has filed an appearance in the case in behalf of the county.

Man Runs for Council Seat

ZEELAND — The City nominating commission has persuaded John F. De Vries to run for city council in this year's city election.

De Vries is the fourth candidate for the two council seats which will be decided in the election April 4. Other candidates for council are Edward Nagelkirk, Howard Stephenson and Herman A. Ten Harnsels.

The nominating commission is still seeking a second candidate to run for treasurer. Incumbent Theodore Vanden Brink has filed petitions to run for reelection to the post.

According to the Zeeland city charter there must be two candidates for each office. The nominating commission's job is to complete the ballot.

Views From The Campus

(Mrs. Joan Tallis joined the Hope faculty in September of 1964 as Instructor in Music at Hope. Mrs. Tallis, who teaches voice, was graduated from Lawrence University with an A. B. degree and received her Master of Music degree in 1964 from the Eastman School of Music. In 1963 she studied at the Amsterdam Conservatory in The Netherlands. For four years, she and her husband, also on the faculty at Hope, have been Directors of Music at the Reformed Church at Metuchen, N. J., and for three years at the First Presbyterian ian Church at Hastings, Neb. At the Hastings church they were in charge of eight choirs. Editor's Note.)

By Mrs. Joan Tallis

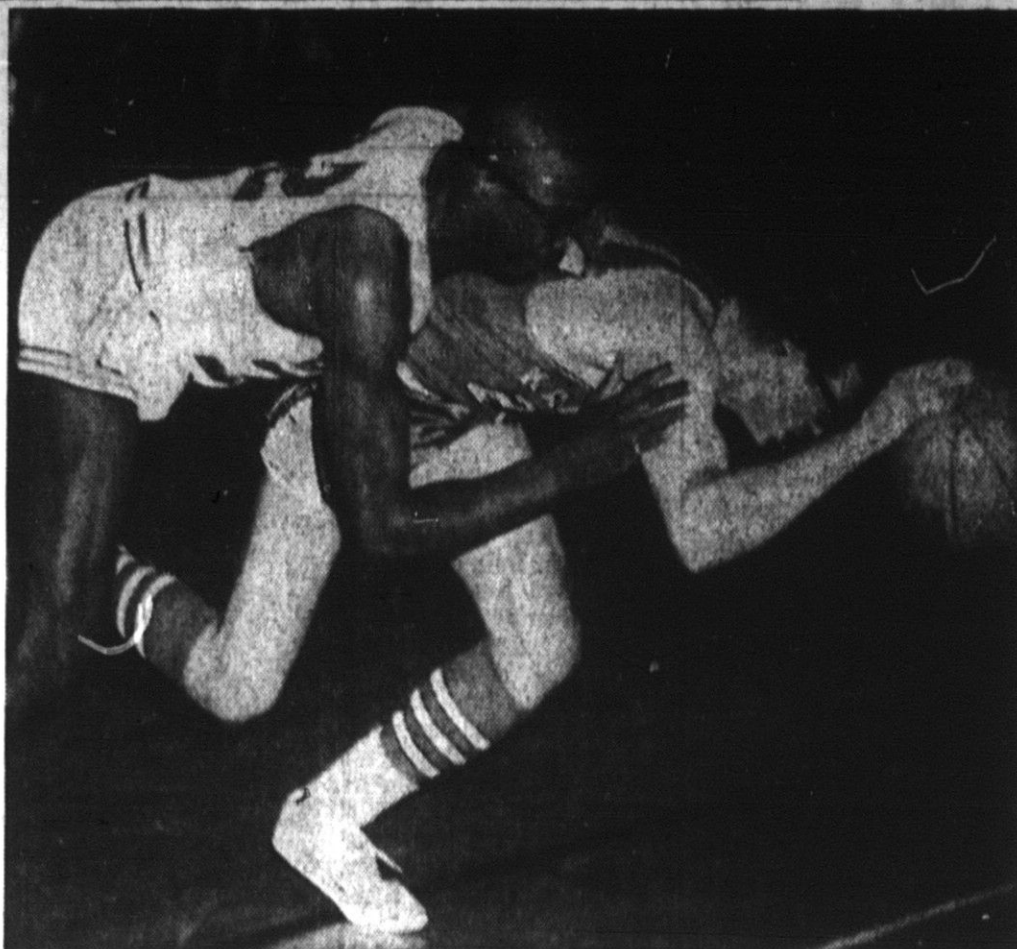

Were you in church on the Sunday when the minister preached about the seventh commandment "Thou Shall not Commit Adultery" and then the choir stood up and sang "All We Like Sheep Have Gone Astray"? Or did you hear about the minister who preached on "Launch out into the Deep" after which the congregation responded with the hymn "Pull for the Shore?"

These bring a chuckle as do many other incongruities in life, but behind the chuckle lies the hard fact that in all too many churches this represents fairly accurately the amount of thought given to the role of music in worship. Church music too often is thought of as the choir (or quartet or soloist) "rendering" some "special music" which is chosen not for any particular relevancy to a given service of worship but simply because it is "religious" and "inspirational."

If the function of music in worship is not always properly understood, it seems to me that the problem lies not so much with a lack of understanding of music as with a lack of understanding of worship. Traditionally, and by definition, worship is above all an action: an act which the faithful make in response to the searching loving kindness of Almighty God. This God-directed act may take many forms from the highest liturgy to the simplest prayer, and in it are to be found elements of confession of sin, thanksgiving, adoration, instruction, and consecration and dedication of self. In performing this action the worshiper himself gains strength, comfort and knowledge of the faith. However the primary aim is not self but God-centered.

Within such a definition of worship the role of music is not difficult to find. Worship involves the whole person, both intellect and emotion, and because music's first appeal is to the emotions it is in the nature of things that people should want to sing unto the Lord—which they have done throughout recorded history. And whether this sacred song took the form of a plain chant, a Palestrina motet, a Lutheran chorale, or a Calvinist Psalm tune, it was always God-directed. In performing this act of worship it has frequently been the custom that a part of the congregation—those with talent in this direction—should lead their fellow-worshippers in this song. Likewise, it has been the privilege of this choir to praise God through the singing of sacred compositions of a more elaborate nature. In this act the other members of the congregation participate vicariously and in so doing are strengthened in the faith.

This definition of worship and music's place in it is the ideal, and as was stated above, many of us seem to have lost sight of this ideal, if, indeed, we ever recognized it at all. To many a 20th Century Christian worship seems to mean little more than "attending church." He no longer comes to join others in the lifting of their corporate voice in praise of the Almighty; he comes, rather, to view and to listen. He has brought "spectatoritis" into the sanctuary. He speaks, innocently perhaps, of the body of worshippers as an audience rather than a congregation. Since he has come more to

LEAP-FROG BASKETBALL — Floyd Brady (32), Hope College basketball player, and Bob Pursel of Kalamazoo College look like they are playing leap-frog or follow-the-leader during action in Saturday night's game in the Civic Center. What happened was that Pursel stopped on the play and Brady toppled over him. Brady scored 31 points in leading the Flying Dutchmen to an 85-81 win. The victory gave Hope a 6-1 MIAA record. Hope Edges Kalamazoo

Rising to the occasion is becoming synonymous with Hope College's basketball team this season and it was evident again Saturday night as Hope received some fine individual efforts to score an 85-81 win over Kalamazoo.

Coach Russ De Vette was quick to point out after his club had chalked up its sixth MIAA win in seven starts that this has been a season where players have risen to the occasion and helped insure a Hope victory.

A crowd of 2,250 fans were on hand in the Civic Center to watch sophomore Floyd Brady put on his best performance this season — 31 points and 13 rebounds (10 defensive) — in leading Hope to its 10th win in 16 games.

And while Brady's work was outstanding, not to be lost in his shadow, was the work of Holland freshman Cal Beltman and sophomore Gary Rympa and the ever present consistency of Capt. Clare Van Wieren, who contributed 23 points.

Beltman and Rympa filled in for sidelined Carl Walters, who was out with strained ligaments in his left knee, but on hand in the team huddles to offer encouragement to his replacements.

"Beltman carried us," De Vette said. Coming in for starter Rympa, the 5'10" speedster sparked on offense with three baskets and demonstrated his defensive ability. "Cal didn't lose the ball and passed well," De Vette continued. He also lauded Rympa's all around play and eight points.

observe than to act, our worship becomes self-conscious about his own actions and utterances and critical of the behavior of others. To such a person worship has become man-centered rather than God-centered.

In regard to music, such a self-centered attitude toward worship has created a vast wasteland of music whose only aim is to tickle the ear. Anthems by the ream flow out of publishing houses bearing the threadbare credentials of saccharin music and maudlin text, but because they claim to be "sacred" music, no one in a congregation dares condemn them, and because they have a certain immediate emotional appeal, not everyone in a congregation wants to condemn them. Making an honest response to God by way of an unfamiliar anthem of confession or praise or supplication is perhaps not as easy or enjoyable as sitting back and feeling a few spine chills when the choir lets loose with a well-known "war horse."

And this egocentric attitude toward the anthem is exceeded only by the all-too-prevalent response to the hymns we sing. "If we must stand up and sing in church, then let it be something we know." The Biblical injunction to "Sing a new song unto the Lord" often falls on deaf ears when it comes to learning hymns which don't immediately jump out at us and cause our feet to start tapping. Admittedly we will get more of a lift out of singing hymns that we know well. But it is common knowledge that most worthwhile accomplishments come only with a certain amount of effort, so somewhere along the line the worshipper should occasionally be willing to put forth that effort to learn something new which ultimately will enrich his worship.

Every church musician is eventually confronted by the sincere, well-meaning, but somewhat disgruntled parishioner who asks, "Why can't we sing some of the good old hymns?" That the hymns in question are often markedly less than good music or text, or that in terms of hymnology they are not really very old is not the point. The person is really asking, "Why can't we sing some of the hymns I learned long ago in my home church which are meaningful for me as an individual because of the powerful emotion-

After a Brady steal, Beltman exhibited his speed on a fast break layup and then a half-minute later hit a long jumper. These two baskets helped Hope to seven-point leads, the game's biggest spread, and enjoyed only one more time 45 seconds later at 5:12 when Brady hit a reverse layup.

This was Brady's night and the 6'3" Chicago ace bombed from outside like he's never done before. "If he keeps hitting like that," De Vette quipped, "he'll be Little All-American."

Brady's first basket came with the game ten minutes old. But he sank five more in the first half, including a jumper at the horn that gave Hope a 45-44 halftime lead. He made 12 of 20 shots, including six of eight in the second half, and scored seven of 10 free tosses.

The game was tied four times with 15 lead changes. Van Wieren's turnaround jumper at 10:35 was the 15th change, giving Hope a 61-60 edge and they never again trailed.

Twice in the next three minutes, the Hornets got within three (67-64 and 69-66) and then a Brady jumper put Hope five ahead. Then came Beltman's baskets followed by Brady's reverse layup.

Brady's last basket came as he broke open in the lane after Hope had spread out with long passes. It resulted in a three-point (layup and free throw) with 29 remaining and made the score 85-79 after the Hornets had been within three. Kalamazoo's last basket was nine seconds later.

al associations with my childhood."

True, these may very well be worthwhile hymns capable of intensifying contemporary worship, but there is also the strong possibility that because of texts which reflect an outgrown theology or music which has not stood the test of time these hymns have little to recommend them to someone who does not associate them with warm childhood memories. Possibly when church members begin to realize how selfish this request might actually be, they will make it less often. Every church musician also has a secret dream that maybe some day someone will come up after the service and say, "I didn't know that hymn, but the text was so appropriate at that point in the service that it was very meaningful."

Certainly not all churches fit into this rather somber picture, but if we examine ourselves in this realm where it is often difficult to be objective, we may well see aspects which do apply to us. The Biblical injunction "Sing a new song unto the Lord" is not just a statement on church music; it refers to all of our attitudes in life. But when we do apply it specifically to music in worship, perhaps we will be stimulated to sing that New Song with increasing thought, insight and concern.

Maroons Stop Ludington; Fifth Victory

Holland Christian's basketball squad avenged an earlier season defeat in the Civic Center Saturday afternoon by downing the Ludington Orioles, 62-52 before 2,000 fans.

With the exception of two scant margins in the first half, Ludington never held the advantage. The closest they came after the first half was 49-45 with 3:50 remaining. Christian's biggest lead was 11 points shortly before the end of the contest.

Coach Art Tuls' club was not as sharp as it has been on other occasions this season, but was poised under pressure to post its fifth win against nine defeats. The Maroons clearly outplayed the northerners who absorbed their sixth loss against nine victories.

Ludington played a scrappy aggressive game but it took its toll in fouls with Christian sinking 25 out of 34 charity tosses in the contest. Meanwhile Coach Joe Kowatch's outfit went to the foul lane just 18 times while sinking 12. Oriole forward, Mitch Newberg, fouled out in the closing minute.

Tuls got fine performances out of all his starters and excellent jobs from substitutes Rich Nykamp and Ken Vander Kamp. The Holland mentor rested each of his regulars periodically in the second period with the bench strength preserving the Maroon advantage in the stanza.

Soph Steve Bushouse turned in another fine game as did forwards John Lappenga and Don Hulst. Guards Lest Hulst and Lloyd Dozeman also performed well against the Ludington pressing tactics. Hulst also led his club with 18 points, hitting on 10 out of 13 charity tosses.

Christian's combination of a man to man and zone defenses kept the Oriole offense off balance with most of their scoring resulting from the fine outside shooting of forwards Bill Wrege and Newberg who combined for 37 of the 52 Oriole points.

The Maroons also dominated the boards offensively and defensively with Bushouse and Vander Kamp accounting for three tips ins.

With Lappenga and Bushouse leading the way, the winners moved out to a 7-0 margin in the first two minutes of play. Newberg then swished two from the corner and Wrege started to connect from all over to pull the Orioles up to 13-11 with 1:45 left. By the end of the period, Ludington rallied to a 16-14 bulge.

Nykamp led the Christian surge in the second stanza with six points to send Holland into a 21-20 margin, a lead which they never lost again. Some help at the charity lane sent the Maroons into a 31-26 halftime advantage.

Tuls inserted his starters back into the lineup in the third period but neither club could muster much in the way of a rally. The Maroons maintained their five point lead throughout and upped it to seven at the three minute mark. Wrege hit on free throws just before the end of the period to cut the Christian margin to 42-38 moving into the last eight minutes.

Christian operated efficiently against the Oriole press in the last stanza to up their lead to 45-38 before the losers made their last big bid for victory. With Wrege and Newberg hitting some big ones of the clutch from the outside, the northerners crept to 49-45 before the Maroons halted the drive. Christian then went back to its conservative game to draw fouls and the move paid off.

The winners hit on 14 out of 18 foul attempts in the final six minutes of the game as the Orioles extended their efforts to get the ball. Ludington never threatened against as Christian led by nine and 11 points until the final horn.

Local Rotarians Hear World Neighbors Founder

Dr. John Peters, founder of World Neighbors, described his world-wide peace mission to members of the Holland Rotary Club Thursday noon.

A former minister, Army chaplain and college instructor, Dr. Peters and a group of business men formed the World Neighbors in the mid-1950's as a means of reaching people with a message of peace and with practical help for their economic problems. The program operates on a "people-to-people" basis and is supported by private funds and contributions.

Dr. Peters was introduced by J. J. De Valois who has been associated with World Neighbors for several years.

Junior Rotarians for February were introduced by Loren Howard. They are John Oonk, West Ottawa; George Fernandez, Holland Christian, and Greg White, Holland High.

Dutch Take 85-46 Win; Ninth Victory

TRAVERSE CITY — Excellent defense and superior shooting were combined here Friday night as Holland High's basketball team trounced winless Traverse City, 85-46 in the Traverse City gym.

The victory set the stage for Holland's first place showdown battle with Muskegon Heights next Thursday, Feb. 10 in the L. C. Walker Sports Arena in Muskegon.

The Dutch and Tigers are tied for first place in the LMCA with 6-1 records as Muskegon Heights dumped Muskegon, 93-64 Friday in the Walker Arena.

Thursday's game will also be a Valley-Coast Conference first place battle as the Dutch with a 5-1 mark, can tie Muskegon Heights for the league lead. The Tigers have a 6-0 Valley Coast record.

Against the Trojans, Coach Don Piersma's team put on its best display of defense this season. Piersma has been emphasizing defense in every drill and his team responded with such a stingy defense that the Trojans got only 16 baskets.

Traverse City's 46-point total was the lowest scored against Holland this season as the Dutch have chalked up nine victories in 12 starts.

Piersma had his club use a full court man-for-man defense throughout and the Dutch, including the reserves, showed they had learned their lessons well as they forced Traverse City in many cases to work as long as a minute for one shot, and then the Trojans missed.

The losers got only 13 shots inside the key. And Holland's rebounding was superb. Piersma said Holland completely controlled the game on the boards with Mike Lawson, Bob Brolin and Dan Colenbrander leading the way. Lawson was especially strong on the defensive boards and blocked several shots.

Holland won the rebounding battle, 39-28 but the big difference came in the second period when the Dutch broke the game open, outscoring the losers, 20-11 and winning the board game, 12-2.

The Dutch led 24-10 at the quarter, taking the lead for good, 8-7 after the game was tied three times in the first few minutes. Holland continued sailing along in the second quarter and rolled up a 44-21 halftime lead.

With Steve Millard, Larry Pete and Bob Brolin leading the first half bombing, the winners sank 50 per cent of their shots (14-28) on quarters of 8-13 and 6-15.

Millard, who hit eight baskets in the game, had five in the first half, including some 25-foot two-hand jumpers. Brolin added three first half baskets and six free throws while Lawson had a basket and eight of nine free tosses as Holland made 16 of 18 first half free throws.

Holland made 49 per cent of its shots (27-55) in the game and the second half was 6-13 and 7-14. Piersma played his regulars about half the game. They retired for good with 6:34 to play and Holland leading, 66-34. Lawson's lone field goal and nine free throws (one in the second half) gave him 11, far below his 24.8 LMCA average going into the game. Lawson leads the league with 160 points and a 22.6 average.

Millard led with 17 while Brolin and Pete had 14, including six baskets. This trio was hitting from out and on driving layups. Holland made 31 of 40 free throws and the losers, 14 of 23.

Vander Werf Addresses Top Chemists

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — "The nation's liberal arts colleges, where half of today's Ph.D. scientists received their undergraduate training, face a crisis in continuing their critical role as suppliers of scientific manpower," Dr. Calvin A. Vander Werf, president of Hope College at Holland, Mich., declared Sunday night.

Dr. Vander Werf was the after-dinner speaker at the first Middle Atlantic regional meeting of the American Chemical Society Sunday and today in Sheraton Hotel in Philadelphia.

He said liberal arts colleges must not be written off as a source of supply for chemists and other scientists urgently needed in the next 20 years.

"This would be contrary to our national interests and to our long-term goals as human beings," Dr. Vander Werf said.

The Hope College president said institutions such as Hope are caught in a web of circumstances beyond their control. "Society," he said, "has now discovered scientists. Scientific knowledge is exploding at an exponential rate, and the education of scientists has become an instrument of national policy. Money is being poured into graduate research assistantships and fellowships.

"This is all to the good, but its byproduct is to demean the teaching of science per se relative to research. The scientist with the research grant has become the high priest of the academic community," he said.

He said the crisis in the liberal arts college is to a large degree economic, pointing to the fact that schools are unable to compete with the salary scales offered by industry for their scientists and are unable to find room in their budgets for the expensive advanced tools of research including instruments and libraries.

Thus, he admitted, the prospect is bleak for the liberal arts colleges, but he added these institutions would be debilitated if the education of scientists were left to the large universities. Such an abdication of the liberal arts college's role would reduce the nation's pool of scientists.

Dr. Vander Werf said the education of first-rate scientists who can bridge the gap between science and the humanities may be the most crucial educational function of today, and the ideal climate for a wedding of these two cultures is the liberal arts college.

Three Rivers Starts School Bible Drive

Mrs. William Westrate Jr. and Mrs. Howard Graves of Holland, who spearheaded a growing drive to restore voluntary prayer and Bible reading in the public schools, west to Three Rivers Wednesday to participate in a town hall meeting on the subject at 7:30 p.m. in Three Rivers High School.

Three Rivers and environs are engaging in a "Freedom for Action" program and leaders are prepared to circulate petitions much like those circulated in Holland and many other places in Michigan as well as other states.

Mrs. Westrate reports continue interest in the cause and said petitions are still dribbling in, as well as a flow of mail seeking information.

The two women went to Washington, D.C., Oct. 20 to deliver petitions bearing 20,000 signatures seeking a constitutional amendment to permit Bible reading in public schools. Later they delivered additional petitions bearing another 20,000 signatures to Cong. Robert P. Griffin in Holland.

Sen. Everett Dirksen, minority leader, commented recently to the subject in connection with the FBI annual crime report. He said: "It is interesting to note that as prayer goes down, crime goes up." Observers believe Dirksen would have to resort to a constitutional amendment to achieve prayers in the public schools, but the Senator has refused to discuss this possibility.

He said further, "I will not let nine men get by with outlawing prayers in the public schools as long as I can fight ... and I can and will fight!"

A WORTHY PROJECT

The plight of the civilian population in Viet Nam is a pitiable one. Through excellent reporting, the suffering endured there is brought to us by press and by the television medium is carried into our living rooms. The United States is really fighting two wars, one on the military front and another to win the support of the civilian population, in relief of their suffering from the ravages of war and in improving education and their economic lot generally.

All of which is preliminary to calling attention to and urging city-wide support for the project undertaken by the Hope College Student Council. With the cooperation of the Michigan State People-to-People Association, the Council has undertaken to provide support for the village of Le Loi. It has a population of 2,500, broken down into 350 family units with 375 school children. The present inhabitants are refugees from two other villages previously overrun by the Viet Cong in March of 1965. Among the immediate needs toward which funds collected will be applied are a primary school and a health station.

A student drive for funds is scheduled today, to be followed by a city-wide drive on Saturday which has the approval and endorsement of Holland's City Council and many other community leaders. In these days, there are many demands upon our purse-strings. This project is a most worthy one, and we are glad to call it to public attention and to urge for it generous public support.

Sunday School Lesson

Sunday, Feb. 13
Man is a Person
Genesis 1:26-27;
Matthew 12:9-14;
Hebrews 2:5-9
By C. P. Dame

The Christian religion has the highest view of man. The three passages from the Bible which compose the lesson text tell us what God thinks about man. In this materialistic age it is fitting to study what the Word of God says about the worth of a human being.

I. God created man in His own image. In some respects man is like God. Man bears God's moral image. He can distinguish between good and evil and he knows that he should shun the evil and do good. Man's conscience reveals the moral law. Man also bears the rational image of God. He can think the thoughts of God after Him.

In addition man also bears God's image in the deputed sovereignty which He gave him—God told him to have dominion. Man's spiritual nature, his need of fellowship with God is another indication. Man is a created being and God is his Creator, and therefore man is responsible to God. The biblical view of man is much needed today.

II. The Bible teaches that man is of priceless worth. Jesus had the habit of worshipping on the sabbath day in the synagogue. Millions of Americans do not follow the example of Jesus. In the synagogue on that sabbath day when Jesus stepped in there was a man with a withered hand. Luke says it was his right hand. Tradition says the man was a bricklayer.

Jesus was asked whether it was lawful to heal on the sabbath. The questioners wanted Jesus to say something so that they might accuse Him. The Lord asked, "What man shall there be among you, that shall have one sheep, and if it fall into a pit on the sabbath day, will he not lay hold on it and lift it out?"

Jesus knew right well what every man would do. "How much then is a man better than a sheep?" And then Jesus healed the man, doing three things for this man. Jesus gave him back his health, thus making it possible for him to go back to work, and in addition he got back his self-respect which is most important to a person.

Jesus used the day of rest wisely for He worshipped and helped a needy person. Often people say, "Sunday is the only day I can do this or that." They forget that it is the only day when they can have a part with others in the worship of the living God. Usually people who have time for God also have time for their fellow men.

III. God gave man mastery. Jesus Christ is God's final revelation to man. In the Old Testament times God spoke through the prophets. The revelation of God through Jesus is superior because Jesus is superior to angels, prophets and priests. God gave a high position to man but man by his disobedience lost that position.

Today man is not what God intended him to be. Christ has made it possible for man to be restored again to his high position. Through the redemption wrought by Jesus man shall one day occupy the place and the glory God meant for him. Man's hope lies in Jesus Christ.

The line would have served the Roosevelt elementary school and the Middle school, and the council had proposed that the Zeeland school system pay about $20,000 of the estimated $42,570 cost of the sewer. The school board informed the council that the most it could pay for the sewer was $15,000.

The alterations include enlarging the police department into the area now occupied by the garage, and enlarging the general accounting room into the area now occupied by the police waiting room and outer office. Included in the alterations would be widening the stairway on the north side of City Hall, construction of a new entrance to the police quarters on the east end of City Hall, and installation of a fire-resistant ceiling in the fire department section. Parent, Teachers Club Has Meet at Lakewood

A large audience gathered in the Lakewood gym Thursday for the regular meeting of the Lakewood Parents and Teachers Club.

The children of the fifth and sixth grades sang several patriotic songs under the direction of Mrs. Doris Kleinheksel, instructor of music. Mrs. Marcelle Weersing, third grade teacher, sang three numbers, "Little Boy Blue" "Scarlet Ribbons" and "Down in the Valley."

James Bielby, sixth grade teacher, addressed the group on the subject of "discipline." He emphasized discipline begins in the home, continues in the school and on into life. One of the chief problems today is that many parents have forsaken the standards set by their parents and grandparents without establishing satisfactory new ones.

The school cannot be expected to solve all of the problems of children resulting from a lack of discipline in the home, but much can be accomplished by close cooperation of the parents, the school and the community, he pointed out.

Enthusiastic Audience Cheers Mexican Dancers

An unusual combination of instrumental music, singing, folk dancing and dances of a more esthetic variety provided a most interesting program in Civic Center Friday night given by Ballet Folklorico De Morelia of Michoacan, Mexico.

An enthusiastic and demonstrative audience of well over 1,000 persons, many of them Spanish-Americans, cheered the program which was sponsored by Christian Family Movement and Cusillistas of St. Francis de Sales Church.

Much of the dancing was done barefoot, and the dark-eyed, dark-haired dancers and musicians performed with ease and grace in the spirited numbers which are synonymous with gaiety, rhythm and color.

There were many changes of costumes for the seniors and senoritas, some of them simple but most of them elaborate, the girls wearing beruffled skirts and flowing mantillas.

The program opened on a somber note with a candle-light scene entitled "The Day of the Dead in Patzcuaro." This initial presentation with its slow chant and ceremonial movement was followed by enchanting dances and holiday traditions of the state of Michoacan where the dancers reside.

"Rhythms From the North" was a combination of dances inspired by the people of the northern states of Mexico. Some dances showed the American cowboy influence and the choreography was reminiscent of Agnes de Mille's western dances in the musical, "Oklahoma!" These western influences, far from weakening the deep Indian heritage, have actually served to strengthen it and to enrich substantially the culture and tradition of Michoacan.

Rhythmic heelwork, virtuosity on harp and guitar and light mischievous songs (the humor recognized by Spanish-speaking people) marked the fandango section of the program.

Music for the dancing and singing was provided by a group playing two violas, two cornets and three guitars, plus an occasional accordion and at one time an unusual harp.

A spirited encore by the entire company was done to the music of "The Mexican Hat Dance."

Members of the ballet troupe were housed in local homes. Mr. and Mrs. Hector Munro served as chairmen of the local arrangements committee.

Maroons Drop Tenth Game To Grandville

Holland Christian's unpredictable basketball team dropped its 10th game of the season Tuesday night in the Civic Center bowing to a determined Grandville team 66-60 before 1,700 fans.

A closing rally by the Maroons which came within one point of tying the game with 37 seconds left almost made Christian fans overlook the lackluster performance during the first 28 minutes of action.

Trailing 58-45 with 3:40 left in the contest, the Maroons showed their only spirited play of the game to whittle the count to 61-60, as soph center Steve Bushouse sunk two free throws. Bushouse stole the ball a few seconds later and set up three more shots for Christian, including two tips in the dying seconds, but they couldn't capitalize. Grandville sub Jim Dykstra then hit two from the foul stripe with 18 seconds left and Jim Erickson collected the last field goal in the last few moments to ice the victory.

Christian played its worst game of the season and were guilty of many errors — some mental, some physical. They were bothered by a Grandville zone defense because they couldn't hit, particularly in the first half, and by Bulldog pressing tactics in the second half.

Coach Art Tuls shuttled 11 players in and out of the lineup during the game in an effort to find a shooting combination or someone who could kindle a spark in the Maroon play. The Maroon mentor did get some good performances from several reserves including forward Rich Nykamp who collected eight points.

Grandville was a scrappy ball club and outthrust the Maroons until the final three minutes. They were led by two aggressive guards Jerry Miller and Dick Tuinstra along with the smooth floor play of forward Jim Erickson. Christian's defense did a good job on Erickson for the most part, but several costly errors permitted him to score a couple of "gift" baskets at crucial times. Coach Jack Springer also got a fine job out of reserve center Don Boonstra who worked hard on the boards and collected 11 points for his efforts. Bushouse, Lappenga and Don Hulst did most of the board work for the Maroons.

Les Hulst, Christian's best shooter injured an ankle early in the second half and returned to hobble through the final three minutes of the tilt. The Maroons lost Lappenga and Lloyd Dozeman on fouls while the Bulldogs lost forward Ben Dieleman.

Neither club could find the range against each other's zone defense in the first quarter as the lead saw-sawed back and forth. Les Hulst finally gave the Maroons a 13-11 lead on a mid-court swisher at the first horn. It wasn't much better in the second quarter as the game was tied on four different occasions. Both coaches substituted frequently, but the scoring tempo remained slow. Dieleman hit on two free throws just before the half to give Grandville a 22-21 halftime bulge.

Both clubs came out with zone presses in the second half as the scoring pace picked up in a hurry. Led by Boonstra, the Bulldogs took over the lead again at 25-24 and never trailed again. Behind the shooting of Lappenga, the Maroons tried to play over their defensive lapses and remained close to the winners. At the midway mark, it was 34-32 and at the period's end, Grandville led 45-40.

The Maroons trailed by 10 points during most of the last period before the winners pulled the margin to 58-45 with 3:40 left. Then came the Maroon drive which was too little and much too late. The loss was Christian's tenth in 15 games.

Christian hit 14-25 at the free throw line, while Grandville had 21-38. Erickson hit 19 points for Grandville and Lappenga had 14 for Christian.

Van Raalte Seen in New Light in ten Zythoff Talk

About 75 persons gathered in the lounge of Phelps Hall on Hope College campus Tuesday night to commemorate the 19th anniversary of the founding of Holland and other Dutch colonies in Western Michigan.

The arrival of Dr. A. C. Van Raalte and his band of pioneers occurred on Feb. 9, 1847, but Holland celebrated it a day in advance because of scheduled church meetings on Wednesday.

A scholarly address by the Rev. G. J. ten Zythoff interpreting Dr. Van Raalte as a religious leader showed Holland's founder against a background of theological and historical events in the Netherlands, rather than the Michigan settlement.

Rev. ten Zythoff pointed to two historical events in the early 19th century which affected the Netherlands politically and ecclesiastically. As a result of the French revolution, the Netherlands was placed under French rule, its own ruling family exiled to England and its constitution of 1795 scrapped.

The speaker traced events in the 1815 Congress of Vienna which united the Netherlands and Belgium into the Kingdom of the Netherlands under the House of Orange. Under the new constitution, the Church of the Reformation was stripped of many privileges it had enjoyed under the constitution of 1795.

Subsequently the Belgian revolt of 1830 was seen by many religious leaders of the Reformed Church as a manifestation of God's disapproval of political and religious concepts. Unable to revert back to the 1795 constitution, a secession took place in 1834 and other factions seen arose.

Ten Zythoff said Van Raalte who grew up in this era joined the secession in 1835 but instead of identifying himself with either faction sought to serve as a mediator. Van Raalte had been strongly influenced by his father, a minister highly respected.

Van Raalte differed from some secession leaders, ten Zythoff said, in that Van Raalte always sought to keep high standards in training ministers despite pressures to lower standards because of a shortage of ministers. This attitude was clearly reflected in his zeal in this country in establishing an educational system for the city and in Hope College.

Willard C. Wichers, president of the board of trustees of the Netherlands Museum, expressed thanks to board members for their continued interest and support given the museum. He said the anniversary of the city's founding is usually celebrated at five or 10-year intervals, but this year's gathering was something special because of the availability of Rev. ten Zythoff as a speaker. The Dutch theologian is currently completing Prins' research reveals that the Van Raalte group boarded the Bark Southerner at Rotterdam Oct. 6, 1846, and spent 6½ weeks at sea. The master of the 276-ton vessel was Tully Grosby. It arrived with over 100 passengers Nov. 17, 1846, and the collector of customs signed the manifest Nov. 19. His name appears to be N. C. Uleuser. Although the boat arrived at New York, its home port was Boston, according to the manifest.

The list was one of thousands on film for the years 1820 to 1897 covering New York, Boston, Baltimore and New Orleans harbors. These films were made during the WPA period under Franklin Delano Roosevelt and have been available in the National Archives in Washington since the 1930's.

Ship's List Of Pioneers At Library

Herrick Public Library has obtained a new microfilm copy of lists of ships' passengers who entered New York harbor between Sept. 1, and Nov. 30, 1846, which includes the Dutch immigrants who came under the leadership of Dr. A. C. Van Raalte to found Holland, Mich., Feb. 9, 1847.

Ed Prins who dabbles in family genealogy came across the film while doing research on family migration. He purchased a copy from the National Archives in Washington, D.C.

A photo-copy of the original handwritten list of the passengers on the Southerner, the ship on which the Dutch group sailed, is kept at Netherlands Museum here. It was found at New York by Y. C. Spysma of Passaic, N.J., in 1942 and was given to Henry Geerlings who was mayor of Holland at the time.

The microfilm at the library includes ships' laws on customs signed by President Monroe on March 21, 1819, along with additional information on the Southerner.

Back in 1846, each passenger was guaranteed 60 gallons of water, 100 pounds of salted provisions, one gallon vinegar and 100 pounds of wholesome ship bread. If put on short rations, a passenger could claim $3 a day and collect this much as a seaman collects back pay.

Prins' research reveals that the Van Raalte group boarded the Bark Southerner at Rotterdam Oct. 6, 1846, and spent 6½ weeks at sea. The master of the 276-ton vessel was Tully Grosby. It arrived with over 100 passengers Nov. 17, 1846, and the collector of customs signed the manifest Nov. 19. His name appears to be N. C. Uleuser. Although the boat arrived at New York, its home port was Boston, according to the manifest.

The list was one of thousands on film for the years 1820 to 1897 covering New York, Boston, Baltimore and New Orleans harbors. These films were made during the WPA period under Franklin Delano Roosevelt and have been available in the National Archives in Washington since the 1930's.

Company Receives Special License For Television

The Booth-American Co. of Detroit Tuesday was issued a license for operation of a community antenna television system in Holland by the City Clerk.

The system which would operate over special lines to be installed on Michigan Bell Telephone utility poles would allow customers to receive the television signals on channels 2 through 13 and FM radio signals from 88 to 108 megacycles.

To receive the programs residents would have to have a line connecting their sets with the special lines on the utility poles.

The company hopes to construct a 400-foot tower south of M-21 between 121st and 120th Avenues to receive and amplify the television and radio signals. The cost of hooking up with the system for customers would be $15 for installation and a $5 per month service fee. Additional sets would be connected at the cost of material and labor. A 50 cent service charge would be added for each additional set.

Peter Boter, resident agent for the company, said it hopes to begin operations in the near future.

Japanese Art and Drama Demonstrated for Club

Snow Auditorium on Hope College campus was decorated in oriental fashion for Monday night's meeting of the Holland Century Club which featured a lecture-demonstration on Japanese music and drama by Dr. William P. Malm, associate professor of music literature at the University of Michigan.

Dr. Malm's keen interest and enthusiasm was infectious as he prepared his audience on what to expect in a composition, then demonstrated by performing on each type of instrument. These instruments are the type used in orchestras that perform the elegant music of the imperial court of China as well as those used in theatricals on outdoor stages.

Dr. Malm exploded the idea that "music is an international language" pointing out that cultural conditioning dictates the pleasure of enjoying music. In the Japanese music, rhythm is guided by breathing and defined by drum calls with an elastic tempo as contrasted with the western music of harmonic patterns and metronomic tempo.

Oriental music differs from western music in that its tonal scale is geared to seven notes instead of the octave. Its cadence also is different and there must be a change to denote the end.

In Japanese theatricals, there always is a narrator. Japanese drama starts out with puppets, and people are put into the play later, Dr. Malm said.

Dr. Morette Rider, club president, presided at the meeting. The nominating committee consisting of Mrs. William Winter, Dr. Titus Van Haitsma and Mrs. Henry Steffens presented a slate which will be voted on at the March meeting in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Calvin Vander Werf.

Hope Vienna Summer School Programs Are Announced

Detailed plans for the 11th annual Hope College Vienna Summer School were announced today.

As in past years, the program will consist of three major parts: study tours, the formal academic session in Vienna, and free time for independent travel at the end of the summer session program. This year's 13-week program will be the longest in the summer school's history.

The group will leave New York on June 7, aboard the 15,000 ton Spanish liner, Cabo San Vicente, and arrive in Southampton, England on June 15. They will fly directly to Berlin to participate in an important feature of this year's program, a seminar on East-West relations to be held prior to the study tours.

Members of the Hope College faculty will lead the study tours and administrate the program in Vienna. Courses in Vienna will be taught by English-speaking European instructors.

Dr. Paul Fried, chairman of the department of history and director of the Center for International Education at Hope College, will direct the Vienna Summer School for the 11th consecutive year.

Stuart Wilson, instructor in English, will be assistant director for 1966. Mrs. Wilson will serve as women's advisor. Joining the group in Berlin will be Stanley Harrington, instructor in art at Hope, and Mrs. Harrington.

This year's study tours will devote attention to eastern and southern Europe. The major focus of the southern tour will be the artistic and cultural heritage of Italy. Visits of several days each will be made to Rome, Florence, and Verona. Briefer stops will be made at Strassbourg, Andernacht, Ravenna, Venice, Pisa, Padua and Milan. Mr. and Mrs. Harrington will lead this tour.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will lead the Eastern tour. This 18 day visit to countries within the Soviet sphere of influence is a major and significant departure from last year's program. It will emphasize meetings with students, the political climate of Eastern Europe, and the rich but relatively unfamiliar cultural heritage of this area. Prague, Warsaw, Krakow, Budapest and a number of other points of interest in Czechoslovakia, Poland, Hungary and Yugoslavia are included in the itinerary.

The two study groups will meet in Ljubljana, Yugoslavia on July 6. From there they will travel together to Vienna to begin the formal academic session.

Courses in art, music, history, literature, and German will be offered for the six weeks session. Field trips to such places as the Schoenbrunn Palace, the Kunsthistorische Museum and attendance at concerts, operas, and recitals will supplement the classroom instruction.

Special guest lecturers and performers will occasionally participate in the academic program. The students will have opportunity to take optional mid-term excursions to Prague, Venice, or Salzburg.

Following the formal farewell banquet at Auersperg Palace and closing convocation, the students will be free to travel independently and explore Europe for almost three weeks. They will reassemble in Paris for the jet flight to New York on Sept. 9.
