Eleven Days In Cuba.

The other night an employee of the West Michigan factory said that he had read all of the articles on "Eleven Days in Cuba," and that he had looked in vain to see some reference to labor conditions there, and that he would like to know what kind of a place it would be for a laboring man to go to. He suggested that I touch up that subject a little. I told him I would, so here goes right away, leaving further description of Havana to the future.

Unskilled labor, such as light farming, clearing land, handling freight, cleaning streets, trucking, draying, in fact nearly everything that may be styled manual labor is performed mainly by the native Cubans. Take skilled labor, such as machinists, street railway and railroad employees, and Cubans of the most progressive kind, and some Spaniards, may be found there. In the light trades there are Cubans and Spaniards, with the men of Spanish blood predominating. By light trades I mean barbers, printers, etc. The clerks are nearly all of Spanish blood. The American as is said of him in other particulars in this country does the whole business. You will find them making a trial of nearly everything, when they labor. When not laborers, they are planters, investors, cafe keepers, occasionally grocers and butchers, and sometimes professional men. Some of the good places for laboring men from the States would be in the sugar mills, sawmills, or on the electric or steam railroads. In the towns newly founded by Americans, carpenters would find conditions quite good. So called common labor is not very well paid in Cuba, as the Cuban laborers to whom that term might apply have a tendency to work for what you want to give them, to work as many hours as they like, and to take a long vacation every time there is a holiday or a wedding, or every time they think that they have amassed enough money to last them more than a week. They are very faithful however, when they do work, and are sober and honest. Good wages is paid skilled labor.

I would not advise any man to go to Cuba with the idea of depending upon his daily labor alone for a livelihood. He could live well enough and would enjoy the life, but he can do the same here and his chances for getting ahead are just at good. Of course if he wants to go to a more congenial climate than Michigan that is another story.

The best way to do is to invest in a little piece of land and develop it. Of course a man must have a little money or he cannot invest, and for the man of moderate means who is not afraid to work either for himself or others, there are good opportunities in Cuba. As in all parts of the world land in Cuba varies in price. You can get it for five dollars an acre and less. But it wouldn't do to buy this land, for there is something wrong with it. It may lack facilities for transportation to market; it may not be fertile; it may not have its title perfected; it may have been worked too long without care or judgment. All or one of these conditions prevail when land is marked too low. Land of the right kind, rightly situated, with encouraging prospects of the development of the country surrounding is worth fifty or sixty dollars an acre. Supposing then a man has $600. For that he and his family could pay their fare to Cuba and buy five acres of land suitable for an orange grove. He would have to get to work for somebody else right away in order to have the wherewithal to live, depending upon his spare moments for the development of his five acres. This would be hard pegging. In fact, too hard. If he had $1000 it would be easier, for he could clear his land right away and start an orange grove. But he would have to work for others for a salary for awhile, as he must live while waiting the development of his little grove. This is a pretty hard way, this investing your nearly all and clearing and developing your land as you go, although if a man has grit and self denial sufficient he can do it and at the end of six years his five acres will yield him a fine income, and his land will be worth from $500 to $750 an acre instead of $50, for a developed orange grove is worth a stiff figure.

A better way, however, would be to buy the land on a contract the same as a laboring man buys a house and lot on contract in this city, making a small first payment and paying the rest in installments. Suppose a man would buy ten acres in this fashion. Ten can be worked nearly as easy as five, although five-acre farms are common in Cuba and are amply large for a good living. He could start in developing it without pinching himself too hard, and before many years he would blossom into a planter with a good income.

But the best proposition that I heard of for a man with a small stake is the one offered by the Bartle Dairy Co. They want the right kind of men not only to labor for the company but to build in Bartle a community that will tend to make the coming city the best place to live in Cuba. And that is why to a limited number of families they offer these terms. If the right kind of a man desires to cast his lot with the Bartle Dairy company all he needs is enough money to pay the fare and expenses of himself and family to Bartle and to make a small first payment on ten acres of land. On this land the company will erect a little home, and the man will be furnished a milch cow, a pig and a few chickens. All of these he can pay for in small installments. He will be given employment by the company at fair wages and can develop his land into an orange grove as soon as his circumstances permit. To develop land, it must first of course be cleared. If it is virgin forest, and in Cuba they say this is the best land, he hires a Cuban to cut away all small growth and underbrush with his machete. The standing timber, which consists of mahogany, red cedar, mahagaua and other trees of great value is leveled to the ground and carted to the sawmill by a six ox team. As soon as the land is cleared he can set for nature has been prodigal in the bestowal of its gifts.

One of the reasons was that there was no incentive offered for progress. The Cuban would go to his daily toil discouraged by the thought that everything he accumulated over and enough to live upon would be taken from him in some form of taxation, license levy or extortion. "What is the use," they said to each other, "of trying to become possessed of the world's goods, if these goods are taken from us to enrich others across the sea?"

At that, even though but a fifth of the island was under cultivation, and there was no incentive to labor, enough was made each year to send millions of tribute to Spain. Such is the inherent richness of the island that it could not be kept down even by the most adverse conditions.

Another thing that kept Cuba down was the insecurity of life and property. Insufficient protection was offered. Every incipient insurrection brought about destruction or forfeiture of property. Every rebellion meant pillaging by Spanish troops, meant confiscation of crops and appropriation of farm stocks by Cuban rebels. Men were simply afraid to put their money in property, perishable or otherwise.

A slight change came and people were encouraged to take small chances after Spain was whipped by the United States. Capital made a few timorous advances. Then came the establishment of the Cuban government and Capital made some striking advances. A momentary check came when Cuba had to ask for American intervention. This check was removed when the great good of American intervention was made manifest, and the condition now is of the best. People realize that whether under Cuban government or under American government America will protect life and property, will be responsible for the welfare of every inhabitant of the island. This guarantee of protection has spurred Capital to high endeavor and the recent progress has been marvelous.

Your humble servants first attempt at horse - back

Since Spain packed away bag and baggage, more miles of railroad have been built than in all the other years of Cuban history, and foreign capital has fairly flowed in. The Royal Bank of Canada has found it necessary to establish five branch banks in Cuba to keep up with the demand of Canadian investments. American banks have also vastly increased their facilities to care for the influx of American capital, and American and Canadian capital have joined in the obtaining of valuable franchise rights in gas, in electricity and in electric railroads. American towns dot the island in many places, and American genius and enterprise are doing wonders to make complete the transformation from the lethargy of Spanish tyranny to the progress and accomplishment of Cuban-American freedom. With this transformation is coming the American schools, American churches, American customs and American progress, and the final result will be that this "garden spot of the world" will be one of the most desirable places on earth for man to cast his lot. And happy will be he who gets into the game early.

It is the firm belief of all who have been to Cuba that it is a land of wonderful possibilities. It is nearly 800 miles from end to end, and 135 miles wide in the widest part. Its average width is 55 miles and in one place in the western part it is but 30 miles across. Havana is but seventy two hours from New York, while Nipe Bay is but sixty-two hours. In beauty, climate, fertility and natural resources no other spot of its size in the wide world surpasses it. And yet today but one-fifth of this land of perpetual summer is under cultivation. For centuries it has lain as if asleep. What are the reasons for this condition? There are many of them, but the blame cannot be traced to nature,

Prof. and Mrs. Henry Boers were called to Chicago on account of the death of the latter's brother, Dr. D. Birkoff, who succumbed to a long illness. He is survived by a widow and seven children. ## Action Taken in

Telephone Case

Action against the Citizens' Telephone company, the effect of which will be to determine if the company is still held by the franchise granted Jud R. Watson, in which $12 and $18 were the charges fixed for telephone service was begun Tuesday in the circuit court in chancery. The complainant in the case is Lewis C. Bradford for whom Charles H. McBride is solicitor and Charles R. Wilkes & Stone of Allegan also appears.

Every possible ground has been taken in the bill by which the claim of Mr. Bradford, who in fact represents the subscribers of the city, may force the company to abide by the rates given in the old franchise and by which it is expected to prove that the action of council did not nullify the old franchise.

The bill after giving a history of the granting of the first franchise in which the rates were fixed at $12 and $18 and showing the successive transfers of the franchise to the Ottawa Telephone company and later to the Citizens' Telephone company sets up that throughout these various ownerships the rate was left at $12 and $18. The bill sets up that the Citizens' Telephone company acquired the property in the summer of 1898, from that time to the summer of 1907, the rate remained as fixed in the original franchise granted to Jud R. Watson.

Discrimination Is Charged.

Section 9 then sets up one of the strong points in the case. It says:

"Your orator further shows unto the court that for several years prior to July 1907, said Citizens' Telephone company began to discriminate in the charges it made to its subscribers, charging the old subscribers the rates aforesaid, to wit, $12 per year for residence and $18 per year for business places. That in case a person not then a subscriber desired telephonic service, they required said new subscribers to pay $15 per year for dwelling houses and $24 per year for business places although the service rendered and the connections furnished and supplied were in each case identical, both as to instruments used and to connections furnished."

In this paragraph the question of discrimination is raised and the next forces it home a little more strongly by showing that in the summer of 1907 the automatic system was installed and the rates arbitrarily raised to $15 and $24. Paragraph 11 then drives the plug in still harder in the following language:

"Your orator further shows unto the court that said Citizens' Telephone company in installing its new automatic exchange for the most part arbitrarily demanded and required of its old subscribers that they accept telephonic service from the new exchange and pay the increased price thereof, or that in default thereof said Citizens' Telephone company would refuse to furnish them telephonic connection with said telephone exchange and that most of the old subscribers were forced and compelled by said telephone company either to pay the increased price for the new service or to be deprived of telephonic connection with the Citizens' Telephone company's exchange at Holland aforesaid."

Discrimination In New Rate.

The bill then sets up, that on January 1, 1908, the company again raised its rates to new subscribers to $18 and $30 and again the discrimination is shown in that the company has entered into contract with some subscribers at the old rates while it refuses to give service to others for less than the new rates.

The bill then goes into the matter of tenders. It shows that under the original franchise persons were permitted to purchase the telephone instruments outright upon payment of $25. The bill then shows that Mr. Bradford offered to Manager Orr the $25 in payment for an instrument and that Mr. Orr refused him. At the same time Mr. Bradford offered him payment of $18 and again Mr. Orr refused. Mr. Orr also refused to give Mr. Bradford service for $18 or to install the phone for $25 or anything less than the new $30 rate, "although" says the bill, a most interesting point—"your orator charges the truth to be that the said Citizens' Telephone company is now furnishing telephonic service to some of its subscribers at the rate of $18 per year for business places."

Refused All Tenders.

Mr. Bradford then tendered to Manager Orr, so the bill says the price of $24 for a business phone, the same rate that is now being charged, offering to take a contract for ten years, five years, three years, two years, or one year and all these offers were refused by the manager of the company.

Next comes the prayer of the petitioner which is as follows and shows what he is seeking by this action:

"(a) That said Citizens' Telephone company be ordered and directed to furnish your orator with telephonic service in connection with its telephone exchange at Holland, Michigan, at the rate of $18 per year for his place of business, and that they place imposition for service a telephone known as the Chase Improved Telephone, or one equally good, and furnish your orator with suitable telephonic service. Your orator to buy said phone when placed in position at the cost thereof not exceeding $25.

"(b) Or if your orator is not entitled to the relief aforesaid, then that the said defendant be decreed to furnish your orator with a telephone and telephonic service in connection with its automatic telephone exchange at the price of $24 per year for his business place.

"(c) That the said defendant be directed to furnish your orator with a telephone and telephonic service without unreasonable delay and without discrimination and at a price not exceeding the lowest sum charged to its other subscribers for service through a similar telephone and for similar telephonic service."

"(d) That the said Citizens' Telephone company, a corporation, the defendant herein, under the statute in such case made and provided may be decreed to forfeit all right to transact telephone business in the state of Michigan.

"(e) That the said Citizens' Telephone company, a corporation, be enjoined and restrained from leasing telephones to the public and from supplying the public with telephone and telephonic service and from operating a telephone exchange.

"(f) That the orator may have such other relief and such further relief as shall be agreeable to equity and as the court shall seem meet."

EMINENT PHARMACIST.

Everywhere Acknowledge the Superiority of Vinol.

If one person more than another should know the value of a medicine it is the retail pharmacist.

For this reason such testimony as the following should be convincing.

C. A. Patterson, the leading druggist of Charleston, W. Va., writes: "I have used Vinol for many years as a member of my family. I have never been disappointed in the results. It is a pleasure to sell a remedy that gives such universal satisfaction."

Mr. Chas. E. Rogers, Druggist, of Elkton, Ky., writes: "I consider Vinol one of the best remedies in my store, and sell more of it than any one medicine. I have also used Vinol in my family with excellent results."

Mr. J. F. Bradley of New Brunswick, N. J., writes: "It is a pleasure to recommend the cod liver preparation, Vinol, as it gives such splendid satisfaction. As I have used it in my family, I can recommend it from experience."

The reason Vinol is so far superior to old fashioned cod liver oil and emulsion is because it contains all the medicinal, body building elements of cod liver oil actually from fresh cods' livers with all the useless oil eliminated and peptonate of iron added.

As a body builder and strength creator for old people, weak women, delicate children, after sickness and for all pulmonary troubles, Vinol is recommended by over 5000 of the leading druggists of the United States. Your money back if it fails. R. M. DePree and Co., Druggists, Holland, Mich.

Make this According To The Directions

What will appear very interesting to many people here is the article taken from a New York daily paper, giving a simple prescription as formulated by a noted authority, who claims that he has found a positive remedy to cure almost any case of backache or kidney or bladder derangement, in the following simple prescription, if taken before the stage of Bright's disease.

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

A well known druggist here at home, when asked regarding this prescription, stated that the ingredients are all harmless, and can be obtained at a small cost from any good prescription pharmacy, or the mixture would be put up if asked to do so. He further stated that while this prescription is often prescribed in rheumatic affections with splendid results, he could see no reason why it would not be a splendid remedy for kidney and urinary troubles and backache, as it has a peculiar action upon the kidney structure, cleansing these most important organs and helping them to sift and filter from the blood the foul acids and waste matter which cause sickness and suffering. Those of our readers who suffer can make no mistake in giving it a trial.

"I have been somewhat positive, but Doan's Regulents gave just the results desired. They act mildly and regulate the bowels perfectly."—George B. Krause, 306 Walnut Ave., Altoona, Pa.

GOV. HUGHES AGAIN ON KELSEY'S TRAIL

NEW YORK EXECUTIVE ADVISES REMOVAL OF SUPERINTENDENT OF INSURANCE.

PLAN IS LAID ON TABLE BY SENATE

Upper Branch of Empire State Legislature Refused Recommendation a Year Ago—Head Terms Methods as "Wasteful and Corrupt."

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 12.—Gov. Hughes Tuesday renewed to the senate his recommendation of last year that Otto Kelsey be removed from the office of state superintendent of insurance on the ground of incompetency. Last year the senate refused by a vote of 27 to 24 to remove Superintendent Kelsey. Gov. Hughes bases his renewal of the recommendation upon the report of Matthew C. Fleming, the governor's special commissioner, who recently investigated the insurance department, and transmitted with his message a copy of Mr. Fleming's report.

Message Laid on Table. On motion of Senator Raines the message without comment was unanimously ordered printed and "for the present to lie on the table." The governor says further that he appreciates the unusual conditions which confronted Superintendent Kelsey upon his taking office, but adds:

"But he had conspicuous advantages. He took office with abuses ascertained; with the derelictions of the department known, and with clearly defined obligations which were not left to him to discover, but which were writ large in the minds of all the people of the state."

Methods Termed Wasteful. He was also equipped with additional powers. While admitting the magnitude of the work of the insurance department and that its task has recently increased, the governor says that "side by side with these departmental activities there grew up wasteful and corrupt methods which scandalized the country and brought the supervision of the department with regard to the important interests of the holders of life insurance policies into contempt."

"From the insurance investigation of 1905," says the governor, "it appears that if its energy had been well directed and the department had been efficient in the true sense, most of the scandals which were revealed could not have existed."

DENEEN REPLIES TO CHARGES.

Message of Illinois Governor Fairly Sizzles in Some Parts.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 12.—Gov. Deneen Tuesday gave out a statement in reply to charges of alleged horrors in state institutions that fairly sizzles in spots. It is considered the strongest message the executive has written since he assumed the office of governor. He boldly accuses his traducers of playing politics and attempting to inflame the public mind by means of misrepresentation. The governor scores the investigating committee of the legislature, declaring that the testimony is being taken in a way that falsely represents true conditions. This is the first reply from the executive since the legislative probe began and it deals with the investigation of the Illinois asylum for feeble-minded children at Lincoln, Ill. The governor takes up each individual case in the indictment against the management and sets forth what he terms to be the facts, placing the blame where he asserts it belongs. It is the intention of Mr. Deneen to answer charges of mismanagement in other institutions as the work of the inquisitors progresses.

OHIO PRIMARIES RULED BY TAFT

RODWAY COMMITTEE OF COUNTY IS VALID CUYAHOGA ORGANIZATION.

BALLOTS ARE CAST UNDER THAT REGIME

High Tribunal Declares Board of Election Is Without Authority to Ignore Body—Decision Is Previously Sustained Several Times.

Columbus, O., Feb. 12.—The supreme court Tuesday declared that the Rodway committee of Cuyahoga county, which is controlled by the Taft people, is the valid county organization in that county, and Tuesday's primaries were held under the management of that organization. The committee which was sustained by the supreme court Tuesday had previously been declared regular by the Republican state central committee, by the secretary of state and by two of the lower courts. The Foraker people contended, however, that the board of elections had final authority by implication to decide which was the rightful committee, and that it had recognized the Harvey, or Foraker, committee, that later, the board under direction from the secretary of state, and not because it had altered its opinion, recognized the Taft committee.

Cannot Ignore Committee. They accordingly asked that the board be enjoined from exercising its executive power contrary to the way in which it had exercised its judicial functions. The supreme court in affirming the decisions given previously by the circuit court, and common pleas court of Cuyahoga county, declare that the board of elections is without authority to ignore the committee recognized by the state central committee and that the committee it named must be accepted. Judges Crew, Summers, Spear and Davis concur in the decision; Chief Justice Schauck and Judge Price did not participate in the case.

Primaries Held in Ohio. Columbus, O., Feb. 12.—Primaries for the selection of delegates to the Republican state convention were held in 36 counties of Ohio Tuesday. In 52 counties there is but one list of candidates, and no actual vote was taken. Taft Wins in Cincinnati.

OUTRAGE BY NIGHT RIDERS

ARMED BAND BLOWS UP LARGE FACTORY IN KENTUCKY.

Tobacco Barn Also Is Burned—Citizens of Fredonia Are Temporarily Made Prisoners.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Feb. 10.—Saturday night at 12 o'clock a band of about 150 mounted night riders, masked, heavily armed and wearing the insignia of a secret clan, invaded Fredonia, Crittenden county, captured James Scarberry, operator of the Cumberland Telephone company, and cut all telephone connections. They then forced Dave Potter, a clerk in a drug store, to open his store in which they corralled several citizens and held them prisoners.

Leaving a large guard in the town the others galloped to the village of View, five miles away, and blew up Alfred H. Cardin's tobacco factory, containing 35,000 pounds of tobacco and set fire to and destroyed Mr. Cardin's barn, containing 10,000 pounds of tobacco belonging to him and his croppers.

The loss aggregates $10,000, with $5,000 insurance.

Mr. Cardin is the buyer for Buckner & Dunkerson of Louisville. He and his family were away from home.

After firing volleys of shots into the air, the night riders returned through Fredonia and released their prisoners.

Eighty per cent. of Crittenden county farmers have tobacco pooled in the Society of Equity. Mr. Cardin is not a member. He is a prominent citizen, aged 75, and was formerly a candidate for governor on the Populist ticket.

Grandfield, who, for a little more than two years, has been chief of the bureau over which Mr. Hitchcock presides. Dr. Grandfield has been actively identified with the postal service for about 20 years and is widely known and highly esteemed, personally and officially.

MORSE IS ACCUSED OF GRAND LARCENY

NEW YORK GRAND JURY INDICTS THE EX-BANKER AND ICE MAGNATE.

Bail Is Fixed at $20,000—Former Bank, Ice and Steamship Magnate Is Due to Land Saturday from Quick European Trip.

New York, Feb. 11.—The grand jury for New York county, which has been investigating certain business transactions involving some of the banks with which Charles W. Morse, the organizer of the American Ice company and the Consolidated Steamship company, until recently was identified, returned five indictments Monday. Three of these indictments had to do with liquor tax cases, while two indictments charged grand larceny.

The indictments were not made public, but in asking that a good-sized bail bond be required, District Attorney Jerome stated to the court that the two charges of grand larceny were laid against "a man now on his way over here" from Europe. Following the court proceedings it was stated authoritatively that the man referred to by Mr. Jerome was Charles W. Morse, who sailed for Liverpool a week ago Saturday on the Campania but is now returning upon the advice of his counsel.

Morse Due Next Saturday.

Mr. Morse is a passenger on the Cunarder Etruria due here late next Saturday. The grand jury, it is learned, has ordered other indictments, in connection with its investigation into banking affairs.

When the jury appeared before Justice Dowling in the supreme court District Attorney Jerome said:

"Your honor, two of those papers in that batch are indictments on which I would like to have bail fixed. I would suggest $20,000 on one of them and nothing on the other."

His Bail Will Be $20,000.

Justice Dowling looked through the indictments and replied:

"I suggest that bail be fixed at $10,000 on each of them."

This was agreeable to Mr. Jerome. Among the matters which the grand jury looked into was a transaction in which two notes for $200,000 figured.

The federal grand jury, which also has been investigating the banking situation, concluded its day's session Monday without handing down any indictments.

JEWISH WEDDING STOPPED.

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 11.—Sunday afternoon a squad of police raided Sharry Shomayim synagogue and stopped a wedding being performed there on the ground that the Lord's day act says no work must be done on the Sabbath.

Just as Rabbi Levine, who was assisted by Rabbi S. Goldstein, started the ceremony, several policemen appeared and forbade the ceremony, taking the names of the persons. Application will be made to the attorney general for leave to prosecute, his sanction being necessary in all cases under the Lord's day act. A full band had been engaged for the ceremony, and each bandsman will also be prosecuted.

PROBE STOCKMAN'S MURDER.

Cassell is not badly hurt. He says he was struck by a blunt instrument when the two men were accosted by a man two miles south of this place and he remembers no more until he found himself in the buggy with the dead body of Mills. It was learned Saturday that Mills drew $1,800 from the bank and only $690 was found in his pockets.

A Modern Fable.

Here is something that should be passed along. It is entitled "A Modern Fable" and the moral is obvious. We would give the author credit if we knew him. The "Fable" speaks for him:

Once upon a time there were two men, Mr. Optimistic and Mr. Pessimistic, who made up their minds they would enjoy a day's fishing. They expended a large amount of money for tackle, dug a nice lot of worms, caught some good fat frogs and met on the shore of the lake.

Mr. Pessimistic said, "It smells to me a little like rain, it seems to me I can see a cloud over there in the sky, and I tell you right now I am not going to take any chances by going on the lake until conditions change. The boat might tip over you know and then I might lose all my expensive tackle. Even if the boat didn't spill me out, if it rained I would get wet, and if I got wet I would catch cold, if I caught cold I would have a fever, and if I had a fever I would probably die, so I am going to stay on shore until everything is more favorable."

Mr. Optimistic said, "Well, you can stay here, count your worms and eat your frogs if you want to, but I am going out." I have put a lot of money in this outfit. I have got some good fresh bait, and a little cloud doesn't scare me a particle. Suppose we do have a shower, the sun will soon come out, and anyway you would dry off just as quickly in the boat as on shore, and besides all that, I want some fish and I am going to have them."

All day long Mr. Pessimistic sat on the shore waiting for the storm which never came. His worms dried up, his frogs died, and at night when Mr. Optimistic came in with a big string of fish, he cursed his luck, said everything all ways went against him, and then teased Mr. Optimistic to divide his fish with him.

MORAL—Simply because Wall Street was foolish enough to get its feet wet is no reason in the world why the entire country should stand still and shiver. Don't scuttle the ship or let the bait dry up. Put on fresh bait, a pleasant look and trust in Providence but don't forget to throw out your line. No man ever caught a mess of fish who jumped out of the boat, ran up in the woods and kicked a tree. The country was never in better shape than it is this very minute, with "bumper" crops and good prices, all we need to do is to displace foolish fear with intelligent confidence. Business conditions will again be normal just so soon as the mind of the people is normal.

It is intimated that there are grocers in Holland who are not selling any better grade of maple syrup than was sold by the seven Lansing grocers who were arrested by the Dairy and Food Commissioner. But until we are shown otherwise we will have to brand as a base calumny the intimation that any grocer in Holland would step over the traces in any way.

That walk in front of Charter's barber shop is a menace to the city and should be rendered less slippery or torn up forthwith. A cement walk that is as slippery as glass must be ridiculously defective in its makeup and the city should condemn a job of that kind in the first place. It's up to the city to see that the defect is remedied and thus protect the pedestrians. Someone should get busy.

The biggest gun in the Republican vanguard was brought into play in Grand Rapids last night and did very effective work. And at that it wasn't a Cannon.

Congressman Dickema's friends knew that he would make good the first trial. You see he has the experience, as well as the ability.

Entries in the race for county offices will not close until the motion to adjourn is made convention day at Grand Haven.

Holland will be the center of democratic influence tomorrow night.

The "Con Con."

Although it has been two weeks that the salaries of the members of the constitutional convention has stopped still their work is not yet completed and the next day found all the members back in their accustomed places, working just the same as if they were drawing their pay. Nothing will be left undone however even though the salary limit has expired.

The convention has been a remarkable one, made up, as it was, of the brightest, most scholarly and profound men of the state. Probably never in the history of the state has there been such a select body of men, brought together for the consideration of any question or questions. Of course their vote on some portions of the proposed constitution has not met the approval of all their constituents, and yet, when all is finished and the different sections of the new instrument are analyzed and understood by the public we believe that the citizens of Michigan will approve of the results of their deliberations and that the new constitution will be adopted.

The crusaders will have to take to the woods if the crusade against them in Congress keeps up.

Our German Citizens—The German population in our city is increasing rapidly and they already control one of our largest industrial interests. More capital is invested, and more money is made in our tanneries than in any other branch of manufacturing. This important and profitable business is now almost entirely in their hands. The brewing of "lager beer" belongs of right to them, and a German firm is now building a brewery which will cost and employ $10,000 capital, which they bring here. Our city pays from $6,000 to $8,000 for ale and beer every year, and they expect to supply this demand and keep the money at home instead of sending it to the brewers of Kalamazoo and Grand Rapids. They will also maintain a cash market for barley at prices as high as any other place in Western Michigan. There are other branches of business open here, in which German industry, economy and energy could not fail to succeed. We have plenty of room for them.

Edward Vaupell has started out for himself, rented a small building on River street, formerly occupied by Mrs. Barnier as a temperance restaurant, purchased a stock of goods necessary for a harness shop and is now ready to compete in make or wear with any harness shop in town.

Among the many versions given in the village of Zeeland about the burning of P. Vijn's sawmill, we selected as the most authentic, that a Mr. J. Verjaai was hired to set it on fire by the proprietor, for a sum of money, and that leaking out, causing them such terrible remorse that they both left for parts unknown. We extend our sympathy and condolence to the relatives of the accused, who feel deeply grieved and astounded about such a revelation.

On Monday evening next Messrs. J. R. Kleyn and A. Geerlings of this city and J. R. Van Keppel of Overisel will leave for Kansas.

Miss Minnie Bangs of this city, and well known to the young ladies of Holland, was married to D. C. Kellogg of Grand Rapids on Thursday last by Rev. Wm. M. Coplin.

A couple of weeks ago a boy arrived in town, who gave his name as Cornelius Annals, and his age as 9 years. He seems to have canvassed the town for a situation of some sort, pretty thoroughly. He was willing to be taken as errand boy, or kitchen boy or anything else, so he could earn his support. Finally he hit the lucky house, and was kindly taken in and sheltered by Mr. and Mrs. J. Hummel. They say he is bright, obedient and willing and they have dressed him up and sent him to school. The curiosity about him is, where did he come from?

The third fire within nine days broke out on Monday morning at a few minutes before 2 o'clock a. m., on the third floor of the Aetna House, owned and occupied at the time by P. Zalsman. He ascribes the cause to three tramps, who wanted to procure lodging at his house, about which a dispute arose, and when the proprietor was aroused from his slumbers by the fire alarm he found the lodgers gone, likewise their baggage and the front door unlocked. Be that as it may, the flames spread with terrific rapidity and endangered considerable surrounding property. No. 2 engine which was housed next door to the hotel, was soon on the ground and took water from the well known as the "Van Landegend well" and that well proved itself inexhaustible. In the meantime No. 1 prepared to take water from the well on the corner of Cedar and 8th streets, and in due time threw a powerful stream on R. Kanter's residence, and that and the heroic exertion of the men on the roof prevented ignition of that handsome and imposing residence. In the meantime the barn belonging to the hotel, located immediately to the east, had started in a full blaze, and No. 2 engine being relieved from Mr. Kanter's residence by No. 1, moved over and had a tough fight to prevent Mr. Kruisenga's property from going up in a blaze. The battle now became terrible. The out-houses back of and around the barn reached almost to the rear of the premises of Prof. Chas. Scott, and a hurried application of a pail brigade prevented the destroyer from absorbing this handsome residence. The fire got so hot, however, that if No. 2 had not come in time to reinforce the pail brigade, Prof. Scott's residence would have been doomed. Some of the most terrific efforts were made by Star Hook & Ladder company in pulling down outhouses and leveling everything that could feed the flames and obstruct the work of extinguishing the flames.

The people at large and especially the fire department did all in their power to confine the fire to the premises mentioned above, and by tremendous exertion, and the favor of a "dead calm" they succeeded. One and all deserve the thanks and gratitude of the authorities and the citizens at large. It was a big battle well fought. We are sorry to be compelled to mention, out of regard for the brave and the diligent, that again several were noticed to be unwilling to lend a helping hand to friends in distress, among which we can count some students of Hope college. Those students might take a lesson from the brave Japanese, who worked like heroes. We understand that Mr. Zalsman had about $5,000 insurance on the hotel and contents, and several assert that this sum will fully cover the loss. The east side of Mr. Kanter's residence is badly scorched and damaged to the extent of about $150. He feels very grateful, however, for the efforts in his behalf and made each fire company a present of $10 and the "Hooks" $4. He also made good several individual losses of some of the men, which came under his notice, and gave $10 to the workers at large. Mr. Kruisenga also sustained considerable loss by breakage of furniture, etc., and some damage was sustained by Prof. Scott.

By order of Mayor Schaddelee the Fire Department was treated after the danger was over, to coffee and lunch at the City Hotel, which was very welcome to the fatigued men. Refreshments were also served free by R. Kanter and Prof. Scott to the weary workers. We again venture to suggest, as we did after the burning of Kenyon's Hall, the utility of an organization like a Fire Patrol, and would add that of an organized pail brigade under the supervision of our old citizens, who are too old to assist at the brakes or at the hose, and still willing to assist. This fire abundantly illustrated our suggestion as a good one.

The failure of Ferry & Bro., of Grand Haven, which the people in general have just heard of, has been a subject of much anxiety to many of their creditors since the beginning of the year. The immediate cause of the failure is said to have been brought about by the investment of all the money they could command to develop their silver mine in Utah, from which they have as yet had no returns, though they have been very sanguine regarding the value of the property. For about two years the firm has been in financial straits, and many of their more prominent creditors have since Jan. 1st been quietly securing themselves. Several attachments and mortgages were filed at Grand Haven last Friday against property belonging to the firm, and several sales of real estate are reported. The Genesee county and First National banks of Flint, attached certain property at Whitehall and Montague on Saturday, which had the effect of bringing matters to a crisis. It is now reported that the Park City, Utah, mining interests of the Messrs. Ferry have taken a sudden turn for the better, which will serve to relieve their present financial embarrassment.

Our Steamboat Line

The first annual meeting of the Holland Transportation Co. was held in this city on Tuesday, and the following directors and officers were elected: President, W. H. Beach; vice president, W. B. Griffin; Saugatuck; secretary, C. J. DeRoo; treasurer, J. C. Post; directors (including the above named) I. Cappon, J. F. Hanchett of Chicago, G. P. Hummer, H. H. Pope, J. F. Henry. Vice president Griffin was appointed manager or the line during the coming season, and the executive committee of the board is composed of Messrs. Griffin, DeRoo, and Hummer. Arrangements have already been perfected with Hugh Bradshaw for the use of his dock at the head of Black Lake. The landing place at Chicago has not yet been decided.

There is one feature in connection with this steamboat project to which we desire to call the attention of our citizens, and that is the naming of the boat. It would be so fitting to have her named the "City of Holland," and it would be equally fitting for our citizens to signalize the event by the presentation of a set of colors on the day she will be launched.

Uncle Sam Will Punish Violators of Fish Law.

A very important and far reaching decision was handed down by United States Steamboat Inspectors Pardee and Eckloff of Grand Haven this week. The decision means that in the future all violations of the fishing laws on Lake Michigan will be brought to the attention of the government and all licensed captains and engineers may lose their licenses if the violation is recognized by the officers of the government.

On November 17 last State Game Warden Charles N. Pierce and Deputy Game Warden J. B. Eddy left Charlevoix in the fast gasoline yacht Sophia on a search for violators of the state fishing law, it having been reported to them that a number of commercial fishermen in northern Lake Michigan were fishing during the closed season. Off Big Rock Point the state officers approached a tug in the act of lifting nets. The tug proved to be the Sea Gull of Charlevoix, Capt. Warren Harris. The skipper of the Sea Gull suspecting that the gasoline yacht was a state cutter made haste to get away as soon as possible and had a half mile start of the Sophia.

The race that followed was one of the prettiest that ever took place in the northern waters of Lake Michigan but after a ten mile run the gasoline yacht crept up alongside of the fishing steamer and the crew of the fisherman surrendered. The tug was brought into Petoskey and the captain was brought before Justice Creager and fined for violation of the state law. The nets, amounting to nearly a thousand dollars worth, were confiscated by the state and destroyed. The tug was also confiscated but was afterward returned to the owner, Capt. Harris.

The matter was brought to the attention of the U. S. Inspectors Pardee and Eckloff of the Grand Haven district and they rendered an opinion and decision in which Capt. Harris was severely reprimanded. In the written decision the inspectors declare that in the future licensed captains and engineers will put their licenses in jeopardy when they deliberately violate laws as the fishing law has been violated by commercial fishermen.

The decision means that the government is now behind the state officers and that in the future if a tug or fishing steamer is detected in the act of violating the law its captain and engineer are liable to fine by the government and to the possible suspension and revoking of licenses for misconduct. The decision is looked upon as far reaching and will undoubtedly go a long way toward the upholding of state fishing laws, as Uncle Sam will not be trifled with.—G. H. Tribune.

Not a Liesman Story.

In the Tribune office window is an interesting old photograph showing Grand Haven in 1872. The picture is evidently made from a drawing but it gives a very good view of Washington street from Third street to the river. The photograph shows prominently the old Cutler House, then only just completed and the Magnetic Mineral Springs across the street, which gained a national reputation and helped make Grand Haven, the Saratoga of the West.—Grand Haven Tribune.

While in the city Tuesday on his way to Chicago, R. A. Stewart, president of the Muskegon Stamping works, reported the loss of his $70 overcoat to Chief Kamferkeek. An officer was detailed on the case and the mystery turned into a surprise when the chief received a notice from the express office that a package was addressed to him which proved to be the missing coat. A bunch of letters and a pair of tan gloves in one of the pockets was undisturbed. The package bore no indication as to the place of shipment and was forwarded to Mr. Stewart today.

James DeKraker, also of the Senior class had chosen as his theme "Government by Impulse." Impulse, said he, can either mar or make a nation. Wrongly directed or mistakenly applied it steers the ship of state upon the treacherous rocks. But the home, the school and the church are back of the impulses that mould our national life, and through the storm and stress of political evil, we are slowly but surely getting to the safe harbor. Mr. DeKraker has an exceptionally fine stage appearance and a strong voice.

Jacob Heemstra of the Sophomore class told the story of Charles Martel and its significance in history. The oration was marked by unusual vigor and the unassumed enthusiasm of the speaker held the entire audience interested and expectant.

On March 6th, Mr. Walvoort will represent Hope in the State contest held in Carnegie Hall. He is enthusiastically supported by the whole college, and nothing short of victory is their aim.

We are advised by the Gulf Coast Land Co., of Holland, Mich., agents for the Rock Island R. R. Co. that 79 people left Chicago for Texas on the excursion Jan. 21, and that 91 people went on Feb. 4th. Henry Kley, the agent, is interesting a number of people in this vicinity in these fertile Texas lands and a number may join him on the next excursion which will leave Feb. 18th.—Saugatuck Commercial-Record.

There was a great deal of enthusiasm shown by the classmates of the speakers. All had the yells "down pat" and the next day all had that hoarse voice and wan expression that showed the wear of three hours of over exertion. Each of the three upper classes had beautiful new class banners, on which was emblazoned the date of the class. Just before the speaking began two of the classes indulged in a lively scrap for the possession of one of the banners which finally the rightful owner's of the banners won.

Mr. Walvoort's oration was simple in treatment. Through the whole of it there was a note of earnest sincerity that could not help but impress an audience. The speaker was saturated with his theme and he had mastered most of the essential elements of true expression. Pen picture, voice, gesture, facial expression, and that unconscious pose in which the speaker loses himself in giving expression to his thought,—all these were blended to produce a picture of one of the most heroic sieges in history. More than half of the oration was descriptive. But the application was simple and clearly made. The siege of Leyden is typical of the whole Dutch war for freedom and of humanity's struggle for human rights. It is not a mere episode in a galaxy of heroic battle pictures. In this siege are crystallized man's best efforts in his struggle to attain the perfect day of freedom. With another month's training Mr. Walvoort will be ready to carry away first honors in the state contest.

Mr. Pleune gave a semi patriotic address. The initial picture in his oration was the heroism and endurance of the Pilgrims. When they braved the dangers of ocean and pathless wilderness and made for themselves a home on New England's storm tossed shore, they gave by this very act a priceless heritage to posterity. That same spirit that actuated the Pilgrims must guide the American citizen of today in his struggle against national evils. Mr. Pleune has a fine stage appearance and is a strong speaker.

Henry Vruink of the Sophomore class spoke on "A Plea for the Magistrate." The oration was largely argumentative. He held that the Hungarian is worthy of America's sympathy and aid if need be. The wonderful career of Louis Kossuth shows that that oppressed people has in its national life the spirit of a strong independent nation. Mr. Vruink's oration was well written and his delivery did justice to his theme.

Wynant Wichers of the Junior class spoke on "Guardians of a Nation's Destiny." This oration also was of the semi-patriotic nature. It was full of optimism for the future of America. Not only the man in high authority but each American citizen plays a vital part in the destiny of our country. Mr. Wichers spoke with sincerity and oratorical finish.

Mr. Vruink's oration was well written and his delivery did justice to his theme.

Wynant Wichers of the Junior class spoke on "Guardians of a Nation's Destiny." This oration also was of the semi-patriotic nature. It was full of optimism for the future of America. Not only the man in high authority but each American citizen plays a vital part in the destiny of our country. Mr. Wichers spoke with sincerity and oratorical finish.

James DeKraker, also of the Senior class had chosen as his theme "Government by Impulse." Impulse, said he, can either mar or make a nation. Wrongly directed or mistakenly applied it steers the ship of state upon the treacherous rocks. But the home, the school and the church are back of the impulses that mould our national life, and through the storm and stress of political evil, we are slowly but surely getting to the safe harbor. Mr. DeKraker has an exceptionally fine stage appearance and a strong voice.

Jacob Heemstra of the Sophomore class told the story of Charles Martel and its significance in history. The oration was marked by unusual vigor and the unassumed enthusiasm of the speaker held the entire audience interested and expectant.

On March 6th, Mr. Walvoort will represent Hope in the State contest held in Carnegie Hall. He is enthusiastically supported by the whole college, and nothing short of victory is their aim.

We are advised by the Gulf Coast Land Co., of Holland, Mich., agents for the Rock Island R. R. Co. that 79 people left Chicago for Texas on the excursion Jan. 21, and that 91 people went on Feb. 4th. Henry Kley, the agent, is interesting a number of people in this vicinity in these fertile Texas lands and a number may join him on the next excursion which will leave Feb. 18th.—Saugatuck Commercial-Record.

OUR CHURCHES

The Fourth Reformed church of this city has extended a unanimous call to Rev. J. M. Lumkes of Alto, Wis., who is expected to preach for that congregation a week from Sunday. This is the congregation's sixth effort to secure a pastor. Rev. Lumkes is a native of the Netherlands and a graduate of the Western Theological seminary. Several years ago he was a pastor of the Oakdale Park church in Grand Rapids.

Rev. A. R. Merrill goes to Grand Rapids today to assist in the revival work in the Wesleyan church and will return to conduct the regular services in the church Sunday.

Century Club.

At the meeting of the Century club held Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Post, the musical selections were furnished by a ladies' quartet composed of the Misses Keppel, Beach, Yates and Demarest, who sang "Loves Old Sweet Song," by Molly and "Lullaby" by Denece.

An able paper on Richard Mansfield was read by Prof. E. D. Dimment. "More than any other playwright or actor," said Mr. Dimment, "Richard Mansfield flaunted a matador's flag in the face of the objective decision of other men and at the same time fought to the bitter end the battle between the two natures he felt struggling within himself. No other great American actor has shown such versatility in parts or such wide appreciation of the most opposite traits in human nature."

Richard Mansfield lived a life upon which not a breath of suspicion has ever fallen. Not a touch of scandal, not even the odium of petty gossip has ever risen to veil the sincerity of his life. Robert Mantell calls his life "an unselfish role" and Henry W. Savage said he was "always an idealist." He was an earnest, conscientious student and his knowledge of human nature came by close introspective thought and most acute suffering. His temperament added to his capacity for suffering and edged his imagination until he could build every conceivable attribute of human nature into a living being, pulsating with life. Daniel Frohman said of him, "In his personal relations he was a charming man, cordial, affable, kindly. But when his personal relations assumed anything of a business nature, then the geniality faded and storms gathered." Egotism, rank and intolerant, made him forbidding and exacting. Petty foibles took from the pleasure and priceliness of his performances, yet when all has been said and done, his faults cannot hide his fineness, his failures cannot measure over against his successes, the petty errors of human judgement and spirit can not weigh against his unusual force of intellect, his unswerving devotion to his art, his overpowering mastery of those elemental impulses which sway the human heart, which make and unmake princes, which, laughing at generations of training and culture, make a man run the whole gamut of life from the low bass of bestiality to the high tenor of the soul's spiritual lyrics.

Among his greatest roles were: "Richard III," "Ivan, the Terrible," "Napoleon," "Nero," "Peer Gynt," "Brutus" and "Cyrano de Bergerac." The refreshment committee last night was composed of the Mesdames Cook, Kymer, Kremers and Miss Stefens.

Congressman G. J. Diekema, who came to Michigan to preside over the meeting of the Republican state central committee, went to Detroit today on the special train containing Secretary of War Taft and the party that accompanied him from Washington. He will remain at his home in this city over Sunday and return to Washington Monday.

STATE OF MICHIGAN

To the Circuit Court for the County of Ottawa, in Chancery:
The petition of James B. Bradley, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State respectfully shows that the list of lands hereinafter set forth and marked "Schedule A," contains a description of all the lands in said County of Ottawa upon which taxes were assessed for the years mentioned therein, and which were returned as delinquent for non-payment of taxes, and which taxes have not been paid; together with the total amount of such taxes, with interest computed thereon to the time fixed for sale, and collection fee and expenses, as provided by law, extended against each of said parcels of land.

Your petitioner further shows to the Court that said lands were returned to the Auditor General under the provisions of Act 206 of the Public Acts of 1893, as delinquent for non-payment of said taxes for said years respectively, and that said taxes remain unpaid; except that lands included in said "Schedule A," for taxes of 1890 or prior years were returned to the Auditor General as delinquent for said taxes under the provisions of the general tax laws in force prior to the passage of Act 200 of the Public Acts of 1891, and which taxes remain unpaid.

Your petitioner further shows that in all cases where lands are included in "Schedule A," as aforesaid for taxes of 1890 or of any prior year, said lands have not been sold for said taxes or have been heretofore sold for said delinquent taxes and the sale or sales so made have been set aside by a Court of competent jurisdiction, or have been cancelled as provided by law.

Your petitioner further shows and avers that the taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses, as set forth in said "Schedule A," are a valid lien on the several parcels of lands described in said schedule.

Your petitioner further shows that the said taxes on said described lands have remained unpaid more than one year after they were returned as delinquent; and the said taxes not having been paid, and the same being now due and remaining unpaid as above set forth, your petitioner prays a decree in favor of the State of Michigan against each parcel of said lands, for the payment of the several amounts of taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses, as computed and extended in said schedule against the several parcels of land contained therein, and in default of payment of the said several sums computed and extended against said lands that each of said parcels of land may be sold for the amounts due thereon, as provided by law, to pay the lien aforesaid.

And your petitioner will ever pray, etc.
Dated January 15th, 1908.

JAMES B. BRADLEY,
Auditor General of the State of Michigan,
for and in behalf of said State.

To filter the blood is the kidney's duty.

When they fail to do this the kidneys are sick.

Backache and many kidneys ills follow;

Urinary trouble, diabetes.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure them all.

Holland people endorse our claim.

Otto G. Van Dyke, retired farmer, 28 W. Eighteenth st., Holland Mich., says: "I unhesitatingly say that Doan's Kidney Pills are the reliable remedy on the market today. While splitting wood a short time ago, I was suddenly taken with sharp pain or crick in the small of my back, so severe that I was unable to finish what I was doing. I did not pay much attention to the pain at first, but it gradually grew worse and soon were dull, constant pains across my back and loins. My condition soon became so bad that I was unable to exert myself in any way. I was hardly able to walk and gradually growing weaker when my son, who had used Doan's Kidney Pills with very good results, advised me to try them. He procured a box for me at George E. Lage's drug store. I had only taken a few doses when the pains began to leave and as I continued using them, I gradually improved until I received a positive cure. I now feel as well and strong as ever. I now feel that I owe my present good condition to the use of Doan's Kidney Pills.

TEAMS ARE READY FOR LONG CONTEST

AUTOMOBILES TO START FROM NEW YORK WESTWARD FOR PARIS.

Go by Way of Siberia—Six Cars, Representing Four Nations, Will Leave Gotham Wednesday on Most Extraordinary of Races.

New York, Feb. 10.—The last details of the start of the New York-to-Paris automobile race next Wednesday morning were arranged Sunday. Six teams are to be sent away in this most extraordinary of all the many motor contests that have been planned since the horseless vehicle first came into use.

Four nations will be represented among the contestants and this fact, in addition to the territory to be traversed, will give a world-wide interest to the race.

Three French crews, one German, one Italian and one American will make the start when word to go is given by Mayor George B. McClellan of New York city. The place of the start is at Times square, in the heart of the city, and the first stage of the long journey leads up Broadway and Riverside drive to the city limits. Two hundred or more automobiles are expected to accompany the racing cars as far as Yonkers.

Personnel of Teams.

The order of start and the personnel of the various teams follow:

No. 1, French—G. Bourcier St. Chaf-ray, Capt. Hans Hendrik Hansen and M. Autran.

No. 2, French—M. Godard, M. Hue and M. Livier.

No. 3, French—M. Pons, M. Deschamps and M. Berthe.

No. 4, Italian—Antonio Scarfoglio, Emilio Sirtori and Henri Haag.

No. 5, German—Lieut. Koeppen, Engineer Hans Knappe and Engineer Ernest Maas.

No. 6, American—Montague Roberts and Howard Brinker.

Three of the drivers contested in the famous Pekin-to-Paris race, the success of which caused the present unusual contest to be projected. A part of the journey is to be made over the same route traversed by the winning car in the Pekin-to-Paris race—from Irkutsk on the line of the trans-Siberian railroad to Paris.

May Take Nine Months.

All of the men are confident of their ability to take their machines safely through the difficult tasks before them. The winter journey across the western plains and plateaus of the United States, including the crossing of the Rocky mountains in Wyoming at an altitude of more than 8,000 feet, is regarded by the racing enthusiasts as the easiest part of their work and they expect to be in San Francisco inside of 30 days. As to the remainder of the journey, including as it does the first experience with an automobile in the Polar regions, the estimates of the time required to get through to Paris vary from six to nine months.

Each car will be equipped with every contrivance the drivers believe the exigencies of the journey will require. Spiked tires for travel over the frozen rivers of Alaska and Siberia are a part of the equipment and various devices for retaining heat in the engines and radiators have been made. Camp utensils, repair outfits and stores will make cumbersome baggage.

Through Untraveled Wastes.

The route leads through many miles of heretofore untraveled wastes, but so far as it has been possible the committee in charge of the contest has made arrangements for supply stations. The drivers, it is believed, will elect to keep together through the more difficult stages of the trip, leaving the speed feature to the last.

Reaching San Francisco by way of southern California, a detour from Reno carrying them south to Mojave, Santa Barbara, the automobilists will take a steamer to Seattle and there transfer to another steamer to Valdez, Alaska. A journey of 1,100 miles by snow packed roads and frozen rivers will bring the racers to Nome.

The arrangements for crossing Bering straits are not yet perfected. Unless there is solid ice a steamer will be taken to East Cape, Siberia, a matter of some 60 miles. Then the autoists will skirt the frozen shore of the Arctic sea to the mouth of the Lena river. Up this frozen stream they will make their way to Irkutsk, from which point the roads to Moscow, St. Petersburg, Berlin and Paris are well defined.

KING AND PRINCE LAID IN THE TOMB

FINAL ACT IN BLOODY TRAGEDY OF PORTUGAL TAKES PLACE IN LISBON.

Funeral is Impressive—Manuel and the Queens Unable to Follow Coffin on Foot—Franco Arrives at Bordeaux.

Lisbon, Feb. 8.—The simple but impressive funeral services Saturday were the final act in the bloody tragedy of the royal family. All the arrangements for the solemn march through the city and the ceremonies at the Church of San Vincente were carried out.

Although it is the ancient custom in Portugal for the new sovereign to walk behind the coffin of the dead monarch, as King Carlos did when his father was buried, neither of the queens nor the boy king was able to endure this trying ordeal. Additional troops were brought into Lisbon to accompany the cortege and line the route of march.

Many Floral Tributes.

The last of the special foreign missions to attend the funerals arrived in Lisbon Friday night and hundreds of floral tributes were received at the palace. Practically every government was represented. Charles Page Bryan, the American minister, sent two wreaths, one to King Manuel, with expressions of the most profound sorrow of President Roosevelt and the American people, and the other to Queen Amelle, conveying the heartfelt regrets of the American nation. The bodies of the king and the crown prince were viewed by the members of the diplomatic corps Friday afternoon as they lay in the royal chapel.

Every hour during the day masses were said at the altars on the palace chapel and, according to tradition, priests prayed before the caskets, sprinkled them with holy water and burned incense. The principal mass of the day was celebrated by the Papal Nuncio. It was attended by King Manuel and Queen Amelle and the members of the diplomatic corps in uniform and the gentlemen and ladies of the court. After the service had ended all those who attended the mass viewed the bodies of the monarch and his son. The public was not admitted to the chapel.

Franco at Bordeaux.

Bordeaux, Feb. 8.—Senhor Franco arrived here Friday. The former premier of Portugal brought a large amount of baggage with him. A group of local newspaper men awaited him at the station, but when they stepped up he waved them away with a gesture of weariness and ignored the questions they asked him. He walked quickly to his hotel.

The face of the man is haggard and he appears to be pre-occupied. He looks constantly to the right and to the left, as if he felt he should be prepared to forestall some impending physical danger.

Senhor Franco told the manager of the hotel that he would remain over night, as he wished to change his Portuguese money into French money, having none of the latter. He did not say where he purposed going Saturday. The hotel was guarded all night by the police.

Ticket Scalpers Enjoined.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 11.—United States District Judge Smith McPherson Monday issued an order permanently restraining 11 so-called ticket brokers from buying or selling non-transferable reduced rate railroad tickets. The ticket brokers were also restrained from giving any information where non-transferable reduced rates tickets could be bought or sold.

GREAT OVATION FOR TAFT

HE IS GUEST OF REPUBLICANS AT KANSAS CITY BANQUET.

Fifteen Thousand Persons Cheer the Secretary, Who Speaks in Defense of His Party.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 11.—William H. Taft, secretary of war, was given a memorable ovation by 15,000 people in Convention hall Monday night when he was the guest of honor and principal speaker at the most elaborate banquet ever attempted in this city, given by the Association of Young Republicans of Missouri and attended by 1,200 persons, many of whom came from Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and distant Missouri cities.

The demonstration accorded Secretary Taft when he entered the great banquet hall and again when he rose to speak, has never been surpassed by the welcome given any public man in the history of this city. Each of the 1,200 banqueters paid $2.50 for the privilege of attending, but the balconies of the hall were free to the public and long before the speaking began standing room in the hall was at a premium.

Secretary Taft's speech was a general defense of the Republican party and especially of the policies brought to the fore by the administration of Theodore Roosevelt. In eulogizing Lincoln the speaker said Lincoln was a party man, "as all men must be who expect to leave their individual impress upon the political character of the nation." Speaking of the recent panic and the president's late special message to congress the secretary said:

"The message contains an answer to the charges made that the administration is responsible for the industrial depression, and the sharpness and emphasis with which this unfounded attack is met has heartened the great body of the people as a bugle call to renewed support of the policies of the administration."

Mayor Henry M. Beardsley delivered the address of welcome and E. D. McJinney, editor of the Springfield (Mo.) Republican, acted as toast master.

Herbert S. Hadley, attorney general of Missouri, responded to the toast, "We Have Put Our Hand to the Plow." Judge Sheldon P. Spencer of St. Louis spoke on the "Republican Party," and other well-known Missourians delivered short addresses.

RECEIVER FOR A VILLAGE.

Result of Tangled Financial Affairs of Cahokia, Ill.

Belleville, Ill., Feb. 10.—Judge B. R. Burroughs, presiding in circuit court here, Saturday granted the petition of the Federal Union Security company of Indiana for an injunction to restrain George Lepeich from further acting as supervisor of the village and common fields of Cahokia and from collecting rentals from the tenants of 60 acres of valuable lands of that historic settlement. Frederick B. Morrill of Belleville was made receiver.

The court order results from an effort to readjust the affairs of the village, which were entangled as a result of the alleged failure of Supervisor Anthony Bordeaux, who served the village from 1882 to 1892, to turn over to Camille Drott, his successor, $20,000 collected in rentals.

This is the first time in the history of Illinois courts that a receiver has been named for a village or city. The office of supervisor of Cahokia was created in 1722 and has been continued since with the same powers. The village is still governed by the laws given it by Louis XIV. of France.

Rear Admiral Ackley Dead.

Washington, Feb. 10.—Rear Admiral Seth M. Ackley, U. S. N., retired, died here aged 62 years. He was born in Nantucket, Mass., and entered the navy in 1862. At one time he was commandant of the naval stations at Olongapo and Cavite on duty at the naval war college at Newport and with the general board of the navy.

The Rev. Dr. Oltmans delivered the first of a series of lectures on Japan before the students of the Theological Seminary in the First Reformed church last Tuesday evening. The subject was "The general conditions of Japan as a field for Missionary work," and was ably handled.

The sudden thaw of yesterday has put M. Slotman of Overisel in a bad fix. He had made a contract to deliver ice to the Overisel creamery. When he had delivered about 20 cords the thaw came on and there were still 20 cords to deliver. Five hundred cakes had been cut which had to be abandoned on account of the bad shape the roads are in.

John Slagh, who delivered the oration "The Revolutionary Rising," won first place in the Sixth grade declamation contest held at the High school building last Friday evening. Daniel Vos won second place and Charles Van Duren third, with the orations, "Marmion on Douglas," and "Rienze's Address to the Romans."

Harm Veldheer, of Zeeland charged with stealing merchandise from the delivery wagon of J. Wiersema of Muskegon, had his hearing in Justice Roosenraad's court Tuesday. No verdict was reached in Veldheer's case but he was bound over to the March term of circuit court. In default of $800 bail he was taken back to the county jail to await trial. Bert Raak, charged with being an accomplice in the robbery was acquitted for lack of evidence.

Hope was defeated Tuesday evening by Detroit by the score of 51 to 22. In the first half the college boys held their own pretty well and their was even a prospect of victory. But in the last half the visitors completely out played the locals and easily took away the laurel. The Detroit team is one of the fastest in the state; they came near defeating Muskegon. This defeat puts Hope out of the race for state championship. Hope played good ball but were simply outclassed.

New Ordinance for Disorderlies.

The council Monday night passed an ordinance that will cover a host of small misdemeanors that have hitherto been indifferently defined. The ordinance is an important one and has long been much needed in this city. Whenever Chief of Police Kamferbeek makes an arrest now for loafing and similar misdemeanors he will have this ordinance back of him.

Alderman A. Stephan presented the ordinance, and he was assisted in drawing it up by Attorney Chas. Mc Bride. The ordinance contains a long catalog of crimes and misdemeanors which will hereafter be punishable. Any person who shall violate any provision of the ordinance shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $50 and costs, or by prison sentence not exceeding 90 days.

Congressman Diekema Makes Great Speech.

Washington, Feb. 7.—Congressman Diekema of the Fifth congressional district made his initial bow in the house of representatives yesterday taking part in the discussion which has been going on for the past two days.

His speech was enthusiastically received by the members of the house who listened with closest attention to his first effort. Upon its conclusion many members pressed around Congressman Diekema and congratulated him upon his splendid achievement. Took Issue With Cockran.

He took issue with Mr. Cockran of New York, who had proclaimed Bryan a crusader, and following up the idea conclusively proved that what was needed at the head of national affairs was a statesman rather than a crusader, and without mentioning names, he idolized the personality of William H. Taft and his reference to the secretary of war brought forth a round of applause.

Mr. Diekema spoke in part as follows:

"If there is any one thought that has impressed me more deeply than another during the short space of time that I have occupied a seat upon this floor, it is the inspiring thought that every noble, exalted and patriotic sentiment, whether uttered on this or on the other side of the middle aisle, which divides partyism, but not patriotism, finds a ready response and arouses general applause in the whole house. This bodes well for the republic and for the future of this great theater of human liberty, where the problem of the ages, the struggle between might and right, between the forces that make for righteousness, which exalteth a nation, and corruption, which destroys nations between freedom and oppression, must still be fought out.

Praise for Roosevelt.

"Every ideal rightly pointed out in the Declaration of Independence and guaranteed by the constitution is safe guarded in the ringing appeal, which has lately come down to us from the White house, and which is as conservative as it is aggressive, as optimistic as it is severe, and every line of which breathes an abiding faith in Almighty God and in the American people. The stern notes of the prophet's warning voice are mingled with the psalms of victory, and finally there emerges from the din of battle a beautiful vision—the revelation of justice with malice toward none and with charity for all, upheld by the sons of the men who wore the blue and the grey, assuming dominion in the hearts and minds of our countrymen.

"Greatly do I rejoice at having come to the seat of government at a time when the spirit of sectional strife has been buried and when there is a new alignment and the marshalling of the forces about the standards of a great moral issue—that of the supremacy of the law, and the equality of all men before the law.

All Equal in Buisness.

"I do not believe in the socialists' dream of equality, for I believe that as in religion so in the world of business every man must work out his own salvation. All nature and all history, yes—even the glimse, which revelation gives us into the realm of the world of spirits, of angels and archangels, teach us the lesson of inequality, but before the throne of justice, whether that throne be set up in heaven or upon the earth, all men must be equal.

"Justice can have no quarrel with capital or labor, with rich or poor, with great or small, as such, but only with the wrongs committed by either. The envious hand that would smite a great business industry solely on account of its magnitude is not the hand of the true American. The genius, the ambition, the spirit of leadership, the capacity to think great thoughts, do great deeds, and work out a great tiny, which in other days caused men to enlist in the army and make them world conquerors, now drives them into business and makes them captains of industry who feed the hungry mouths of vast armies of laborers and supply their homes with comforts and luxuries of which the world has never dreamed."

What They Accomplished.

"They have tunneled the mountains, spanned the rivers, opened the mines, plowed the prairies, felled the forests, and transformed the face of the western continent. All honor to the American business men, the builders of this mighty fabric on industry, the projectors of our transcontinental railroads, the heroes of our world of commerce, manufactures and trade.

All honor to these broad-gauged, chivalrous, invincible citizens who constitute a splendid type of the world's best product, the American gentleman. All honor to them while they respect the majesty of the law, and acknowledge the equal rights of their fellow men. When, however, any of them overleap these bounds, neither their genius, industry, power nor wealth should save them from the humiliation and the punishment which outraged justice visits upon the law-breaker.

Work Wrought by Crusade.

"We have been told by that matchless orator from New York, who makes even the little fishes talk like great whales, that for this strenuous inspiring work we need a leader who is possessed with the spirit of the crusader; that the Republican party has none such except our great president, whom he has enshrined among the heroes of the ages and has mounted on a pedestal of fame far above the reach of party strife; that the Democratic party offers the only crusader whose lofty idealism fits him for leadership. We accept the challenge, and boldly announce to him and to the world that we want no crusader for president. The crusader leaves behind him a trail of blood, and 3,000 miles of bleached bones, once happy pilgrims to a Savior's tomb, and then left that tomb in the possession of the Saracen. His idealism was his undoing.

Statesman is Wanted.

"We want a constructive statesman with high ideals, deep rooted convictions, dauntless courage, lofty conceptions of duty, and dogged determination, one who will not give us painted ships upon painted seas, the delusive hope of the mirage in the desert, stones for bread, and serpents for fish, but a real reformer upon whose broad shoulders, and massive frame even our great president has leaned with safety, who has shared his hopes, thought his thoughts, and executed his plans—one who is so big that Bryan's clothes would not possibly fit him.

"First the crusader, and then the judge," says the voice of the gentleman from New York.

"First the crusader, and then the undertaker," says the voice of history. You may have your crusader. We will take our statesman. You may destroy with the desire of building better. You may kill with the vain hope of restoring life. We will never destroy nor kill. This mighty fabric of an American genius and industry must stand; only the rotting timbers must be replaced.

Crusader and Statesman Contrasted.

"The crusader lashes the waves of public fury into a seething, foaming mass until they beat in destructive breakers upon the shores. The statesman says to the wind and the waves, 'Be still.' The crusader applies the whip and throws away the reins; the statesman holds tight the reins while he uses the whip. The crusader throws wide the throttle and dashes the train down the embankments; the statesman slacks up the speed around the curves and lands safely at the depot.

"When some future historian writes the history of our period he will dwell upon the conservatism of our president and point out how every measure of reform launched by him was anchored to some rock of public safety. He has lifted the whole country to a higher plane of thinking, away from the material to the ethical, and has brought from the mouths of unwilling witnesses the testimony which magnifies his inspiring leadership, and exalts the deeds of his political party.

"We welcome the struggle of the statesman against the crusader, construction against destruction, life against death.

"Already we hear the revival songs of civic virtue ringing in our ears. Already we hear the tumult and the noise of the march of the oncoming hosts of earth's best and bravest enlisting under our banners, upon which we have emblazoned in letters of burning gold the words: 'The supremacy of the law' and 'Equal justice to all.'"

TURN TO A MAP OF THE UNITED STATES

Note the point of Texas on the Gulf Coast between the Neucus and the Rio Grande. This territory is one of the most wonderful fruit and agricultural sections on the Western Hemisphere. Up to the fall of 1904 farming was hardly thought of in this lower Gulf country except on plantations along the Rio Grande. Now it is shipping many hundreds of carloads of vegetables of all kinds at highest prices because they are on the market 3 to 6 weeks ahead of any southern point. In another 5 years it will be storing up millions of dollars annually equally California in many of its fruits and surpassing every other region of the United States in winter vegetables.

This section is located 200 miles south of Galveston, is cooler in the summer and warmer and more pleasant in the winter. Has no swamps, therefore absolutely no malaria and no mosquitoes. It is a land where it is a delight to live and breathe, where climate partakes of the healthful qualities of Arizona, New Mexico, etc., but where the salt sea air comes to your doors. It is a land where the purest water gushes forth from artesian wells and where fresh fruit may be picked at nearly every season of the year. It is a land ripe with promise where thousands of homes will be made with in the next five years and where developed lands will be worth $1,000 an acre. Do you want a share in it? Then go with us
