NEWS' FUNNY MAN

The "News" has made arrangements to run each week, productions drawn by Walt McDougall, the "News" funny man. Walt is one of the cleverest sketchers of comical pictures in this country, and without doubt our subscribers will enjoy these comic offerings from week to week.

Ben Mulder of the "News" has been unanimously appointed member of the charter commission, in the place of Charles H. McBride, resigned.

BEEN—LETS

Playing "Been" bag requires no base ball fence.

Rollin' "Beens" or peanuts are games generally played after an election.

When bothered too much about that baseball fence Jake Lokker might have said: "Cut it down and cast it from thee."

Or Van Drezer might expostulate: "What's eatin' yuh? Don't bother me. If you don't like it use an ax."

Ben Brouwer might have figured that if his Beens, Luidens, Martinus constituency could not wait for diplomatic legislating away of the base ball fence, they had better deal with the situation as they "saw" fit.

"Our base ball park is not for the laboring men," say Mr. Beens, we presume it is for captains of in dustry such as Babe Woldring, Spriggie Te Roller, Carl Shaw, Benny Nash, Cornie Dronkers, Chester Vermuelen, Steffens, Pick, Halley and other distinguished persons who leave their factories Saturday afternoon for a week-end to sojourn at the baseball park. For such laboring men as John Vandersluijs it would work a hardship. Down with capital.

HOW TO JUDGE WHISKEY

That our sheriff's force, or some of the members of it at least, while being mighty good officers, are at the same time mighty poor judges of one thing that is doubtless a moving cause of much crime with which they have to deal, was demonstrated Monday afternoon at the preliminary examination of Walter Sutton who was charged with selling liquor illegally, but released by Justice Miles after a showing by his attorneys that he was innocent of blame.

After Deputy Sheriff Guy C. Northouse, the complaining witness, had testified regarding the purchase of a bottle of liquor, he was asked by Attorney Raymond Visscher on cross examination if he was sure that the bottle contained whiskey as charged in the complaint. He replied that he was no judge of whiskey and that he was not able to swear positively that the liquor contained in the bottle on exhibition was whiskey.

Prosecuting Attorney Oosterhous then put Sheriff Dykhuys on the stand, and asked him, after the customary oath had been administered, whether or not the liquor contained in the bottle was whiskey. He replied "I do not know." "Don't you know whiskey when you see it?" inquired the Prosecutor. "I do not," replied Hans. "Do you know whiskey when you smell it?" "I would not."

It then being up to Justice Miles, he picked up the bottle, took a whiff of the contents and promptly pronounced the liquor whiskey, explaining that he knew it was whiskey because he had often detected a similar odor in the breaths of persons appearing in his court who pleaded guilty to whisky jags.

Case On Trial This Morning

The case of the People vs. Roland A. Beens, John Luidens and Henry Martinus who it is alleged destroyed the baseball fence is being tried this morning before Judge Sooy. WELL KNOWN LAKE CAPTAIN DIES IN GRAND HAVEN

His Crew Once Save By Holland Life

Saving Crew

Captain Henry Schippers well known in Holland died in Grand Haven after a lingering illness of a year. He was born in the province of Zeeland, the Netherlands, January 1, 1840 but as a lad sixteen years of age he started for America arriving here in 1856. He settled in Grand Haven at once where a brother, Kryn Schippers and a sister, the wife of Captain Harry Smith, were already living. As a mere youth, he began his career on the lakes, very soon after his arrival in this country shipping with Captain Harry Smith on the schooner Sea Gull. Ultimately, he secured an interest in the Sea Gull and sailed her with Captain Smith.

As a sailor he was with Captain William R. Loutit, Captain Charles T. Pagelsen and Galen Eastman in some of the old time craft, which like some of their masters have passed these many years. In the early days Captain Schippers sailed with Jacob Nemire of this city in the famous old schooner Presto, a craft still well remembered by the older marine men of Grand Haven.

During the height of the lumber industry Captain Schippers sailed out of Chicago for several years for Captain Dall the well known vessel owner of that time, in the big schooners Annie Dall and Maggie Dall. That was in the days when sailing craft dotted the lake, and forests of spars lined the wharves from Grand Haven to Nortonville. The Dall schooners traded principally between the old Nortonville mill and Chicago and on board of these craft were men, hardy and seasoned to the life boat, the sailors of the older time. Few of them are left now. Some of them went down with their ships in the storms which have swept the lake, and others calmly finished their tasks of life at home and ashore surrounded by those dear to them. Like the craft they sailed, however, most of them have long since passed from existence.

Until about three years ago, however, Captain Schippers remained active, sailing his own trim little schooner, year after year, facing with dangers and the crises which he had learned to meet as a lad in the old time ships. With his lively little ship D. A. Wells, Captain Schippers was always among the first to sail out in the spring and among the last to lay up in the fall. When it was necessary, there was no chance too great for him to take and the story of his many narrow escapes reads like a tale of fiction. From the list of his adventures afloat a sailor's yarn could be spun which would equal the stories of the sea, which would have charmed generations in print.

One of his many narrow escapes was in the wreck of the little schooner Alert in 1895. With a gale of wind blowing Captain Schippers and Captain Charles Boomsalter in the Alert left Chicago and crossed Lake Michigan. About the same time the little schooner Antelope also got under way from Chicago for the east shore. When they arrived the lake was fairly boiling, and the harbor mouth was a mass of white foam. The Antelope, manned by three Norwegian sailors attempted to run into shelter, but almost within safety she suddenly turned turtle and was ground to bits in the surf, while the sea spitefully cast up her wreckage and the bodies of her crew on the north beach.

Within a few minutes the little Alert made a bold dash for harbor in a desperate attempt to get in out of the storm. But she missed the harbor and was hurled through the angry surf to north beach while the life savers rescued the two captains who manned her and brought them safely to shore.

In 1896 Captain Schippers and Captain John DeYoung, who passed away last fall, purchased the little schooner Ellen Stevenson, a ship which was to furnish them both an adventure which came near being their last. The story of the loss of the Stevenson in 1897 is still well remembered. Manned by Captains DeYoung and Schippers, John Schippers and Dick LeFebre who was making his first trip as a sailor, the Stevenson left Grand Haven for Kenosha with a heavy cargo of grapes. When nearing the west shore, the heavy seas to which the craft had been subjected, opened her seams and she began to leak badly. To make matters worse, a gale set in from the westward, stirring up a dangerous sea. Valiantly the little crew worked the pumps but the plunging of the little ship had broken open some of the baskets of grapes, and these clogged the pumps and put them out of commission.

At the mercy of the sea the little ship plunged helplessly settling lower and lower into the water. At last it was decided that the only hope of safety for the crew was in the abandonment of the ship. The small boat was lowered over the stern and at ten o'clock that night the crew manned her. All that night they remained under the lee of the settling craft, and in the morning when no other course opened they cast loose. As the west early gale hurled them away they saw the last of the Ellen Stevenson, wallowing decks to in the sea, with only a short time to live.

Al day they drove in their frail craft across the angry surface of Lake Michigan, striving desperately to prevent the yawl from swamping in the giant seas which were sweeping after her. Chilled and suffering and almost ready to give up they sighted the east shore late in the afternoon. At the same time the Holland life saving crew had sighted them, and two miles off shore, the big life boat picked them up and carried them to safety and comfort.

With the schooner Wells, the veteran lake skipper had many as perilous adventures, to be saved by a hair's breath sometimes. On October 23, 1904 at Sheboygan, the Wells swept through a hole in the breakwater with the sea, when all chance of saving her from being dashed to destruction seemed gone. At Ludington also Captain Schippers once accomplished a like bold piece of seamanship, when no tug in the harbor would venture out to her rescue. With iron nerve and unflinching courage, the skipper shot his small craft into the harbor opening, when it had seemed certain that she must either hit the piers or go on the beach.

SHEDS THIRD SET OF TEETH AT AGE OF 108

West Virginia Man Says He Expects To Live To Be 150 Years Old

Montgomery, W. Va., February 15. "Uncle Nathan" Adkins of Dorothy, who, if he lives until June 15, will be 108 years of age and who is now shedding his third set of teeth has an ambition to live until he is 150 years old. Despite his great age, the old man is as spry as a man of 50. He marches every day to the union commissary and draws his daily rations. Mrs. Adkins, the third, accompanies him, but he walks without assistance and carries his supply of food home with him. He has a faint recollection of the War of 1812 and is keen as a briar on events in 1820 and 1835.

"I have always used tobacco in some form or other," he said "and have not sustained and injury therefrom. I expect to live at least 150 years, and I'm going, to do my part to preserve myself."

HAMILTON

Louis Klinkers of Hamilton must have some "joker" friends in Holland. He went there to pass Sunday and took his Sunday clothes with "billed" shirt along. He was careless about leaving his suitcase in a store and when he went to don his fine raiment Sunday morning he found it tied in a dozen knots. This is a good joke beside the swimming hole but a mean one with Sunday clothes.

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Klinkers of Hamilton issued invitations to a few friends to the double wedding of their daughters, Eva Dena to Mr. James Wolterink and Anna May to Mr. Martin Clupker. The ceremony was performed in the Klinker's home Monday evening at half past seven o'clock.

LAKETOWN

The Sunday school teachers of the Graafschap Reformed church sprang a pleasant surprise upon their Superintendent, L. Lugers, Thursday night Feb. 2 marked the 60th anniversary of his birth but the surprise was postponed to Thursday. To show their appreciation for his 40 years of excellent and faithful services, first as teacher and then as superintendent they presented him with a fine gold watch chain and locket. An enjoyable evening was spent by making new places, discussions and games, and all report a good time. Those in the party were: the Rev. and Mrs. Wolvius, Mr. and Gerrit and George G. Heneveld, Mr. and Mrs. Johanna Van Zoeren, Miss Jennie Brinkman, John Brinkman Miss Dena Dunnewind Mr. K. Koster and Misses Georgiana and Etta Lugers.

When Simon Harkema, Justice of the Peace of Laketown township, member of the Laketown school board member of the town board of the same township, found his beagle dog chewed up some time ago, he took what amounted to a vow that he would bring the dog that did the job so effectively to justice even if it was necessary to set the whole machinery of justice into motion for it. Any dog that had the nerve to attack the beagle dog of a justice of the peace and of a man invested with so many other township honors ought to be signally punished as an example to all other dogs with like propensities.

The bull dog of Archie Horning was the one that had to stand the brunt of Harkema's anger. Harkema claimed that he had seen a little fox terrier that was in the habit of being in the company of the bull dog smell the spot where the dead dog lay, and hence he connected the bull dog with the crime. All other bull dogs should learn from this how dangerous it is to be in bad company, or rather to be the company of little dogs that are inquisitive.

Thursday the case was tried out in the courtroom and it consumed the greater part of the day. The case aroused a great deal of interest and many listened to it all day. Harkema valued his beagle at $50 intrinsic value and $50 more for sentimental reasons. He believed that his grief at the death of the dog could be assuaged by the payment of one hundred bones.

The evidence against Horning's bull dog "Fly" was largely circumstantial. It was proved that the bull dog "Fly" had before killed dogs, cats and had once bitten a pig. This was taken in connection with the fact that "Fly's" companion, the fox terrier, was seen smelling the carcass made things look pretty black for "Fly." The jury finally solemnly filed out of the court room and after an hour's deliberation they returned a disagreement, two having voted for the plaintiff and four for the defendant.

Then came anti-climax. Harkema, whose grief a few moments before had been worth a hundred dollars, offered to drop the case and not bring it up for trial again if Horning would agree to sell the bull dog "Fly" within two weeks. Horning was not a bit loath to do this and he accepted the offer.

The jury was composed of Frank Charter, Frank Van Etta, John Kremer, Ed Vaupell, Mr. Brink and Nick Hoffman. The case was tried before Justice Sooy.

BLENDON

Sheriff Dykhuis went to Blendon to investigate the shooting affray which William Lubbers claimed took place at his home a short time ago. Lubbers said a neighbor was shooting at his dog, and went out to intervene and was himself made a target for the bullets.

He showed the sheriff several neat holes in the side of his barn where the bullets struck. They hardly coincided with the holes made by the bullets of the sheriff's acquaintance, so he opened his jack knife and proceeded to probe for them.

Not a particle of lead could be found, so the sheriff came to the conclusion that Lubbers made them with an augur and told his story to the officers with a view of avenging a grudge against one of his neighbors.

ZEELAND

Friday while standing in front of the Rief-Vanden Bosch Co. store, in Zeeland, unbitted, a team of horses owned by John Bos of Vriesland became frightened by a passing street car and ran across the street, where the wagon struck a telephone pole leaving the horses running down the street with the front truck in front of the Zeeland Furniture Co. one of the horses struck a telephone pole. The horse was taken with paralysis and in ten minutes was dead.

The horse was valued at over $200. The wagon and harness were practically destroyed.

STATE DAIRY INSPECTOR RE- MINDS MILKMEN WHAT IS EXPECTED OF THEM.

List of Rules and Regulations Is Sent to Every One of Holland Milkmen Dealers

The State Dairy and Food Commission is after the milk dealers and is insisting that the state milk laws shall be enforced. Tuesday City Clerk Overweg sent the following letter to the milk dealers who supply this city:

Your attention is earnestly directed to the following requirements:

Milk room must be clean and sanitary, free from contaminating surroundings and provided with good drainage.

Cans, bottles and other utensils must be clean, sanitary and sterilized (Boiled water or steam.)

Milk must be thoroughly cooled to a temperature of not higher than 60 degrees or lower until delivered to your customers. (Wet Blanket.)

Bottles must not be refilled while on your route.

Cans or receptacles with cracks or open seams must not be used.

Milk must not be poured or dipped on any street, lane, alley or vacant lot.

Milk must be free from sediment of any kind or nature, and must be protected at all times from contact with such sediment or from insanitary conditions.

The department has no apology to offer for its enforcement of the law's provisions governing the care and sale of milk nor for the stand it is taking to procure a supply of pure milk. What is wanted and what we sincerely trust may obtain, is that every person engaged in the milk business will cheerfully cooperate with the department in procuring a purer and better milk supply.

Very truly yours,
W. T. HULSCHER,

JUDGE PERKINS OF GRAND RAPIDS DOES NOT LAND THE NOMINATION

Hard Fight Was Made to Land the Grand Rapids Man But Joseph B. Moore Wins Out.

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 12.—At the Republican state convention Tuesday day the following ticket was named:

Justices of the Supreme Court—JOSEPH B. STEERE of Sault Ste. Marie and JOSEPH B. MOORE of Lapeer.

Superintendent of Public Instruction—L. L. WRIGHT, of Ironwood.

Member of State Board of Education—FRANK CODY of Detroit.

Regents of the University of Michigan—W. H. SAWYER of Hillsdale and VICTOR M. GORE of Benton Harbor.

Members of State Board of Agriculture—A. J. DOUGHERTY of Clare and R. D. GRAHAM of Grand Rapids. State Highway Commissioner—F. F. ROGERS of St. Clair.

The chief interest centered in the fight for the nomination for judges of the Supreme court to succeed Joseph H. Steere and Joseph B. Moore.

Frank Sullivan of the Soo placed Judge Steere in nomination to succeed himself and it was made by acclamation.

Next came the one real battle of the day, the nomination of a justice of the supreme court to succeed Joseph B. Moore. Four candidates for this place were presented and it took two ballots to determine it.

Justice Moore was a candidate to succeed himself and Patrick Kelley presented him.

Martin H. Carmody, in a splendid speech presented the name of Willis B. Perkins of Grand Rapids. Watts S. Humphrey nominated Judge W. G. Gage of Saginaw and J. M. Harris named Judge F. W. Wayne of Charlevoix.

On the first ballot the favorite son vote was heavy. Justice Moore received 559 votes; Judge Perkins, 607; Judge Wayne 137 and Judge Gage 156.

On this first ballot Wayne county had cast sixty for Perkins, 149 for Moore and 10 for Gage. The Wayne leader, Charles B. Warren and William L. Carpenter wanted to put over Moore and they had fixed the third, ballot as the time to do it. However, a strong Perkins sentiment was manifested in the Wayne delegation which if voted fully would nominate the Grand Rapids man.

The second ballot got down to Wayne with Perkins gaining all the way and Moore generally losing. It required 735 to nominate and Perkins on the first ballot lacked but 128. He apparently had succeeded when Wayne was reached on the second ballot, but he lost through the enthusiasm of some of his friends on the Wayne delegation.

As Wayne was called Perkins had enough to land him if Wayne voted as she did on the first ballot.

"Announce the same vote as before," said Charles B. Warren to Judge Carpenter.

But immediately some of Perkins' friends protested and knowing he must be close to the goal demanded a poll of the delegation in the hopes of getting more than the 60 votes.

Judge Carpenter then mounted a chair and asked all who favored Judge Perkins to stand.

The turmoil was so great that few could tell what was going on and only 24 arose. Thereupon Carpenter announced 14 for Perkins and 205 for Moore.

Genesee, which had been splitting its vote all ways, during the turmoil changed and cast 26 votes for Perkins and others were rapidly falling in, but when the big vote for Moore was announced from Wayne several of the smaller counties began flopping and when the turmoil was all over and the totals announced it was found Moore had 756, Perkins 681, Wayne 4 and Gage 20. Moore then had just 21 more than enough to nominate, while if Wayne had remained as on the first ballot, Perkins would have had a majority.

Senator Verdie, chairman of the Fifth district delegation moved the vote be made unanimous, and it went.

"ELECTRICAL WORLD" OF NEW YORK COMMENTS ON HOLLAND'S SYSTEM

Has Word of Praise for Way Records Are Kept and Way Business Is Conducted

The February issue of the "Electrical World," a well known electrical magazine in New York, contains a complimentary article on Holland's electric light and water plant. It shows what others think of Holland's system and is herewith reprinted. The tables mentioned in the articles are printed with the article but they can not be reproduced here.

"The municipal light and water plant at Holland, Mich., (described in the Electrical World" of Feb. 2, 1911) enjoys the double distinction of having had competent management during a number of years and of being one of the few municipal stations in which complete records are kept of the essential factors of the business. The annual report of this plant in its published form, is an interesting little booklet to those in the central-station business because of the operating and financial facts given. One portion of the report is entitled 'Facts and Factors,' and contains items computed in accordance with the standards 'Facts and Factors' form which has been used by the 'Electrical World' and by the Iowa Electrical Association. This arrangement which puts much information about the plant in condensed form, is given in Tables.

"Since the 'Electrical World's' form was originally adopted a number of central station men have suggested that kilowatts of peak load rather than kilowatts of station rating should be the standard of comparison on items relating to the utilization of apparatus. This suggestion seems well made, as the peak load of a system usually has a more fundamental relation to other items of operation and finance than the kilowatts of station rating. In the case under consideration in Table I the reader can obtain the investment and gross income per kilowatt of maximum peak load by using the figure given for maximum load, namely, 825 kw., and the investment and income figures from Table II.

"Other interesting information concerning the Holland plant is given in the second table. This traces the history of the investment since the plant was started in 1894, and shows how the cost of equipment, size of plant, gross earnings and operating expenses have increased from year to year during the eighteen years of plant operation. The water works investment, earnings and operating expenses are kept separately and analyzed systematically.

"The statement is one which shows what can be done by consistent good management, with few mistakes, in a period of eighteen years. The figures should serve to quiet the claims sometimes made concerning the large profits of the business and on the other hand, to keep unscrupulous central-station owners and promoters from concealing facts as to the profits of the business.

"The Holland plant is under the control of a board of public works, with Mr. R. B. Champion as superintendent."

NEXT YEAR FOR CELEBRATION

A Hundred Years Ago Next Year our Country Was Delivered From The French.

Probably the largest number from Holland and other western Michigan Holland-Americans that have left this country in any one year for a visit to the Netherlands will go during the coming summer. The occasion is the great centennial celebration of the liberation of the Netherlands from French rule, that will be observed there at that time.

Extensive preparations are being made throughout the country for the celebration. It is peculiarly noteworthy because thru it the people of Holland will show their loyalty to the House of Orange, which was exiled from the country in 1795 when the French were invited in, and which returned in 1813. At that time, also the government of the Netherlands was changed from a Stadholdership to a limited monarchy.

The seed of the French revolution which spread through Europe causing the revolutions of 1848, sprouted first in the Netherlands where the Dutca "patriots" drove out their Stadholder—William V. The French were invited in and promptly made themselves the masters of the country.

At this time Napoleon was obtaining control of the French government. He gave the Netherlands a king, his brother Louis. Despite Louis efforts to reduce the burden of French taxes and his attempts to thwart Napoleon's demands for Holland recruits for his armies, the Dutch became disaffected and tired of the French.

In 1813 Graaf Van Limburg Stim, Gysbert Karel Van Hougenorp, and Vander Duys van Maasdam appeared in the streets of the Hague with the Orange cockads in their hats signifying their loyalty to the exiled house of Orange.

Although every fortress in the Netherlands was in the hands of the French and the Prussians and Russians, who were fighting Napoleon at the time, were unable to give aid, the three patriots inspired such resolution in their fellow countrymen that the French fled the country without a battle being fought. William of Orange, a son of the exiled prince, entered the country and became its first king of the house of Orange. Queen Wilhelmina is his descendant.

COULD NOT LIVE UP TO HIS NAME

Friday, James Moral was arrested for being too much under the influence of the contents of "the cup that cheers." Saturday morning he appeared before Justice Robinson and as a gentle reminder that he should strive to live up to his name, he was given thirty days.

The annual meeting of the Federation of Bible classes of a number of churches in this city was held Monday night in the M. E. church. The following officers were elected:

President—H. Van Tongeren; 1st Vice Pres.—J. M. Stephan; 2nd Vice Pres.—G. C. Moody; Secretary—George Albers; Asst. Sec'y—B. D. Keppel; Treasurer—George Schuurman.

On this board of officers all of the churches in the federation are represented. Mr. Van Tongeren represents the First Reformed church, Mr. Stephan, the Third Reformed, Mr. Moody the M. E., Mr. Albers, Trinity, Mr. Keppel, Hope, and Mr. Schuurman the 14th St. Christian Reformed.

Monday night at the meeting the devotional exercises were conducted by A. H. Meyer president of the Federation. The Rev. P. E. Whitman pastor of the M. E. church gave an address on Bible Study. A song was given by the Federation Male Chorus after which T. A. Van Huel of Grand Rapids delivered an address on "Practical Hints on Bible Class Organization." Miss Reidsma and Miss Kamferbeek rendered a piano duet. W. E. Vander Hart gave a recitation with music accompaniment and the Male Chorus sang another song.

After the business and the program had been disposed of the members adjourned to the basement of the church where they were royally entertained by the Bible class of the M. E. church.

PROPERTY OWNERS ALONG COLLEGE AVENUE AND GRAVES PLACE TO MEET ALDERMEN

On Friday evening of this week the property owners that live along College avenue and those that live along Graves Place will meet in the court room in the city hall for the purpose of discussing paving on those two streets. The aldermen will be there in a body to consider the arguments on both sides and every one will be given ample opportunity to give his or her views. No individual invitations are being sent out by the city to the property owners, and all along these streets can look upon this notice as the invitation to the meeting.

It is understood that there will be considerable opposition to the paving of these streets. But if College avenue is paved Graves Place will also be paved since the little street is considered, for paving purposes, as part of the longer street. It is proposed to pave from 6th to 24th.

A HUNDRED OF THEM MEET AT HEADQUARTERS FRIDAY EVENING.

Meeting Is a Harmonious One and Full Set of Delegates to County Convention Chosen.

The Progressive Party of Holland held its city caucus in the Progressive headquarters in the Vander Veen building Friday night for the purpose of electing delegates to the county convention. HOLLAND PARK BOARD AGREES WITH GRAND RAPIDS TREE EXPERT

City Forester Hugh E. Lynch Gives Reasons Why Some Trees Are Barred

City Forester Hugh E. Lynch of Grand Rapids in commuting upon an ordinance recently enacted by the Common Council of the City, in the interest of its shade trees, has this to say, which, at the suggestion of the Board of Park and Cemetery trustees of this city.

"The city wishes to encourage as far as possible the planting of good trees where they are likely to grow. There has been a sentiment in the city, that the tree ordinance was designed to prevent the planting of trees. On the other hand, it was designed with the intention of protecting good trees, and encouraging people to plant and care for them, instead of inferior ones, which are a public nuisance.

"Perhaps it is not known that the popular, willow, and kindred trees are a menace to the public health, but such is the case. The roots of these trees have a curious faculty of working their way toward water, even if that water be enclosed in an iron pipe apparently secure from all surroundings. Experiments show this to be the case. Many of the earlier cities planted their streets with popular trees, because they were quick growing, and would endure drought. When water mains were laid, nothing was known of this water seeking proclivity of trees.

"All would go well for many months, while the roots were prowling through the uncharted ground to ward the pipes. They wrapped themselves about the pipes, and almost microscopic root hairs, which actually absorb the nourishment for the trees, crept through the tiny crevices at the joints into the water mains. Once inside, they formed great mats of root, stopping the water, and forming an ideal place for germs, till the roots either swelled and burst the pipes or the rotten germ laden mass so polluted the water that it became unbearable. An investigation was conducted, at great expense, and the pipes uncovered. That has occurred again and again, and is the reason why these trees are barred by the ordinance of almost all cities at present.

"Other trees, like the catalpa and box elder are objectionable because they are mussy and irregular, and objectionable because their leaves and fruits litter the neighboring lawns.

We wish to line the streets of the City with formal, symmetrical trees, of such varieties that they will resist borers, insects and rot.

"It is better to invest in disease resisting trees, than to pay to have rot dug out of trees, and cement filled in when the cure is but a makeshift, and frequently does no good at all. When rot starts in the trunk of the tree, it is doubtful whether it is best to invest any money in cavity work. The chisel never gets the root of the rot, which is in the heart of the good wood. Usually the cement shrinks from the tree, leaving a place for water to gather, and new rot to start. One man in this town paid $300 to have an elm tree filled. Within two years, he had the tree and three tons of cement inside, carted away.

"In setting a tree it is well to do so in the winter or early spring. The plan is to move the tree while it is hibernating and dormant, so to speak. If the tree is to be moved a short distance, the winter is the time. Take it when the ground is frozen to the roots, so that the tiny hair roots, the real feeders of the plant, will not be disturbed. A small tree from the nurseries should be gotten as early in the spring as possible. They will not take them up when the ground is frozen, as they do not ship them dirt and all, and could not remove the frozen earth from the roots without injuring them.

"Tree trimming should be done when the least sap is running. Many people advocate winter trimming. I prefer summer trimming. In this winter, for instance, I have noticed that the cold nights and warm days have set the sap running, and many trees trimmed recently are bleeding badly. If one trims in midsummer, he can get a better idea of the true shape of the tree, and do a better job. He runs no risk of a thaw snap starting bleeding, and thus seriously weakening the trees.

REPRESENTATIVE FROM HOLLAND IS SKETCHED BY NASH IN DETROIT JOURNAL

Representative Charles H. McBride has arrived Tuesday. For the first time as far as we know, he appeared in cartoon.

Cartoonist Nash of the Detroit Journal often gets together a group of faces from the legislature and brings out some characteristic that seems to characterize each one. Yesterday McBride was among the number. There was a group of ten in a seven column cartoon, including Lieut. Governor Ross, who is represented as a man with very long legs and the caption "Lieut. Gov. Ross is long on legs." accompanies it.

McBride's forelock is very much emphasized in the cartoon and under his picture is printed: "And he had a little curl right down in the middle of his forehead." The man from Holland is represented as standing with an expression of deep thought on his face.

ARE INVITED TO ATTEND MEETING OF SENATE COMMITTEE ON HOME RULE BILL

Next Tuesday evening the Home Rule Bill will come up for consideration in the Senate Committee at Lansing and all the city attorneys of the state have been invited to attend the meeting and give their opinions. City Attorney Van Duren has also received an invitation and it is possible that the city of Holland may send him as their representative, since the city is deeply interested in this bill.

There are two bills up for consideration, one known as the Scott Bill and the other as the Verdier bill. There are some radical differences and it is expected that there will be quite a contest on in regard to them.

Whether or not the Home Rule act will be given immediate effect or not is also quite a question. Attorney General Fellows has ruled that it cannot be done constitutionally. But it is claimed that the senate may pass it anyway and that it is very likely that the House will concur in the action of the senate.

JURY AT MIDNIGHT BRINGS IN VERDICT IN JUVENILE COURT.

Trial Lasted Till 10:30 and Jury Was Out for Hour and a Half.

At midnight Friday the jury in the case of the People vs. Miss Eva Woods, tried yesterday before Juvenile Judge Edward P. Kirby in Grand Haven, brought in a verdict declaring the girl was guilty of being a delinquent child as charged in the complaint. Judge Kirby has not yet passed sentence on the girl, and probably will consider her case for some time.

The trial lasted all day yesterday and it was not until 10:30 last night that the attorneys finished their pleas and the case went to the jury. After an hour and a half the jury came back with a verdict. The case was a very bitter one and it was strenuously fought on both sides. It was held in the supervisors' room in the court house and Attorney Fred T. Miles represented Miss Woods, while Prosecuting Attorney Louis H. Osterhouse appeared for the people. Miss Woods was accompanied into the court room by her mother and one or two other women.

There were twelve witnesses in the case, five for the people and seven for Miss Woods. The examining and cross-examining of these witnesses consumed a great deal of time so that it became necessary to hold an evening session.

A feature of the case was the testimony of John Penne, who was one of the men implicated in the affair here last fall. Penne is now serving a 90 day sentence at the county jail and he was brought from his cell to the court room to give testimony in the case. There were other witnesses from Holland and the case was followed with a great deal of interest.

SUTTON EXAMINATION HELD MONDAY AFTER NOON.

The preliminary examination of Walter Sutton, charged with selling liquor in smaller quantity than three gallons, was held Monday afternoon in Justice Miles' court. Visscher & Robinson represented Mr. Sutton and Prosecuting Attorney Louis H. Osterhouse appeared for the people. Evidence was brought out showing that the actual sale had been made by Aron Smith who conducts the Atlas Bottling Works for Sutton. The defense claimed that the warrant against Sutton should be recalled on the plea that Smith had sold the liquor as an individual, not as the agent of Sutton. Justice Miles took the matter under advisement, but he has not yet reached a decision.

Resigns Position as President of Albert Lea College to Take New Position.

Hon. G. J. Diekema has received a letter from the Rev. J. Tallmadge Bergen, former pastor of Hope church and member of the Hope College faculty, stating that he had accepted a call extended to him by the First Presbyterian church of Minneapolis, Minn. The Minneapolis Journal recently printed a cut of Dr. Bergen and the following article:

"Dr. J. Tallmadge Bergen, president of Albert Lea college, was last night at a congregational meeting chosen pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Minneapolis, upon recommendation of the pastoral committee, which, after only two months' consideration, settled unanimously on Dr. Bergen, who had preached several times at the church. He will succeed Rev. Dr. C. A. Hilton, who died in October. Dr. Bergen is a lecturer, an author, an athlete, loves fishing and hunting and outdoor sports is 53 years old and has a family of six children, three of whom are at home. Mrs. Bergen was Miss Grace Updegraff, daughter of a high member of the Society of Friends, and known as an accomplished singer. Dr. Bergen up to a year ago was for five years pastor of Westminster church, Dubuque, Iowa, from which Rev. Dr. D. J. Burrell came to Westminster church, Minneapolis, about 25 years ago. Dr. Bergen's pastorate will be in the oldest Protestant church in the northwest, which in June 1910, celebrated its 75th anniversary.

"Dr. Bergen graduated at 16 years from Erasmus hall, Flatbush, Long Island; from Rutgers college, with the degree of A. B., in 1883, and from Union Theological seminary in 1886. He received his A. M. from Rutgers in 1894 and his D. D. in 1903. He supplied the church at Stenway, L. I., while in the seminary and was pastor of the Dutch Reformed church at Thokan, N. Y., from 1886 to 1889. He was pastor of Hope Dutch church, Holland, Mich., to 1892, and from 1892 to 1895 of the South Brooklyn Dutch Reformed church, returning to Holland. Meanwhile for eleven years he filled the chair of ethics and Christianity in Holland college. In 1906 he went to Dubuque. Dr. Bergen is author of "Bergen's Evidence of Christianity," 1900; is stated chaplain in Iowa for the Sons of the Revolution, and is a member of the Holland society of Chicago. Dr. Bergen has accepted the call to the First church and is expected to begin his work in the near future."

Arthur Rosine But 13 Years Old Seems Bound to Make His Own Way.

Arthur Rosine the thirteen year old boy who has three times ran away from his home in this city ran away again Saturday and was picked up by the Benton Harbor police Monday upon references sent by Chief of Police Kamferbeek. His father went after him Tuesday and will bring him back home to again try and mend his ways. Mr. Rosine seems to be at a loss as to what to do with his child and when he consulted At. F. T. Miles about this Mr. Miles advised him to give the boy another chance and have a doctor examine him as he thinks the child is affected from a bump he received on the head when small.

DR. A. F. BRUSKE URGES HIS CONGREGATION TO TAKE INITIATIVE.

Suggests That Church Donate Site Facing Tenth Street; Calls Site An Ideal One

Speaking on the subject "This Church and the Sick," the Rev. A. F. Bruske delivered a strong appeal in Hope church Sunday night for the building a hospital in Holland. Dr. Bruske urged the congregation of Hope church to take the initiative in this work. He declared that Hope church is representative of Holland's population, since people of all classes, rich and poor, Hollander and American worship there. He suggested that the church could give a site for that purpose without spending a cent, namely by giving the lot on the church property facing Tenth street, back of Hope church. This, Dr. Bruske declared, would be an ideal site. It is centrally located, it is near the car line, yet not so near so that the patients would be disturbed by the noise it is near the most beautiful park in Holland where in the summer time the convalescing patients could be taken to regain their health more rapidly.

Moreover, Dr. Bruske declared, "Hope Hospital" would be an ideal name for the institution. He said "Hope" was an ideal name for a college and a church, but there was an added significance in the word for a hospital.

Dr. Bruske strongly urged the people of Hope church to take the initiative in this work. He said there was no way of knowing what could be done along this line until the attempt was made, and then it was usually found that more could be done than people had supposed.

Holland needs a hospital, declared the speaker at the beginning of his sermon. The argument that this city is near Grand Rapids is no valid argument, according to Dr. Bruske. He told of the city of Flint, a number of years ago with a population of less than 10,000 bearing the same relation to Saginaw that Holland bears to Grand Rapids. That city built a splendid hospital that amply took care of the sick of Flint. He said that there was hardly a cry in Michigan the size of Holland that did not have its own hospital. It might as well be argued, said the speaker, that Holland needs no physicians since we are so near Grand Rapids where there are great specialists along all lines. And in the same way it might be said that Holland needs no dry goods stores or hardware stores since there are better stores of that class in Grand Rapids.

Dr. Bruske bewailed the fact that fifteen thousand dollars that was donated for a city hospital last year should have been returned to the donors. He insisted very strongly that Holland needs its own hospital and he urged Hope church, in view of the failure of the plan last year, to take the first step and make the work part of the activities of that church.

GRIM REAPER CLAIMS A NUMBER OF VICTIMS IN HOLLAND.

Several Succumbed To Old Age; With Swell Death List of Month Considerably.

The list of deaths that occurred in Holland since yesterday is larger than has been the case for many months. Most of them were due to old age. Following is the list:

Mrs. Saphonia A. Wright, aged 81, died Thursday at the home of her son, Fred Wright, 22 East Ninth St. Mrs. Wright has made her home with her son for many years. Her death was due to old age. She is survived by her husband, the Rev. Mr. Wright staying with his son; Fred, Clarke E. Wright of Glendale, Calif., Ben F. Wright of Los Altos, California and Fred Wright of this city. Short services were held at the home Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, the Rev. Mr. Whitman officiating, and then the remains were taken to Howell, Mich., for burial.

Funeral services were held here Sunday at 2 o'clock from the home of Mrs. Bertsch and the remains were shipped to Battle Creek for burial Monday. Services were also held at Battle Creek.

Sheriff Locates the Missing Roll of Money.

Although the life of Sheriff Dykbus is mostly filled with unpleasant duties incident to the woes of his fellow men, an incident occurred Thursday night which gave the attendant of the county jail a great deal of amusement.

William Sabattes, an Italian rushed into the sheriff's office about 11:30 o'clock all out of breath and said he had been robbed of $115 in a downtown saloon.

Before sending out his deputies into the cold to search for the thief, the sheriff exercised his search privately and went through the man finding the roll beneath his underwear in the vicinity of his shoe tops.

SONS OF THE REVOLUTION WILL OBSERVE THE DAY APPROPRIATELY.

The Holland Chapter of the Sons of the Revolution will celebrate Washington's birthday by attending the annual meeting at Grand Rapids on Saturday, Feb. 22, and by a memorial service at Grace church on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 23. To this service the local Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution and the old soldiers of the G. A. R. the veterans of the Spanish war, the Woman's Relief Corps, and all other patriotic organizations and citizens will be invited. The Rector of the church who is State chaplain of the society will preach an appropriate sermon.

FAKE FOOD STUFF IN MICHIGAN

People have noticed of late attractive advertisements of "Cook's Concentrated Substitute for Eggs," a supposed importation in wide use in foreign countries, etc. The state health department has just issued a bulletin showing that this wonderful fake is a powder containing 81 per cent common baking powder, 18 per cent starch, and about 1 per cent yellow analine dye, which is presumed to contain the "great amount of egg value." The advertisement says the substitute is guaranteed by the U. S. food and drug act but the phraseology is so arranged that the sentence means nothing and is gross attempt at deception. An amusing feature of this fake advertising is the sentence, "It is not necessary to use baking powder with Cook's substitute for Eggs." The expose will doubtless save hundreds of Michigan people from the fraud and do much toward getting a law to punish such advertisers.

Naturally. Meeker—"Just one year ago to-day I led my wife to the altar." Bleeker—"You did—eh?" Meeker—"Yes; and then and there my leadership ended."—Judy.

WHAT'S A PROGRESSIVE

All good men of all parties are progressively in the sense that they earnestly favor all legislation which is clearly effective in bettering the lot of any class of citizens oppressed by unjust and pitiful conditions. The whole trend of modern legislation is in this direction, and properly so, and communities cheerfully burden themselves to give advantages out of the public purse to people who could not otherwise obtain them. Progressive legislation aims to do for the incapable, what they can not do for themselves, either by forcing men so far as possible to treat their fellow being with consideration, or by doing a public expense what would not be otherwise done. If this is your idea you are a progressive, no matter what you call yourself, quite as much so as though your vest were starred with bull moose buttons and you wanted to amend the constitution every day. But how many bull moose thought of progression in this light? Not many. Progression, insurgency, and kindred names were words to conjure with but to the most of them only words, meaningless words.

HIGH PRICES AND HIGHWAYS

Good Roads Reduce the Cost of Living for All

Poor highways contribute to the high price of farm produce to the consumer, for transportation charges enter into the ultimate cost of every article of food produced on the American farm. The influence of roads on prices reflects not only upon the man who raises the product and transports it to market, but on the consumer as well. This is one reason why highway improvement has become a state and national issue, says Farm and Home. It is one reason why country roads should be constructed and maintained out of the general funds of the public instead of by assessment against adjoining property or from strictly local sources.

The average cost per ton per mile for transporting goods on American highways is 23 cents; in France and other European countries it costs 9 to 11 cents. The greatest obstacle to highway improvement in many states is the manner in which public money has frequently been expended, and the fear that large sums will be spent without securing adequate permanent results. Whenever the American taxpayer has reasonable assurance that public funds will be efficiently expended he shows an increasing willingness to be taxed.

ABOUT INSURANCE

The so called Mobile bill, which places the fraternal insurance societies under the supervision of the state and requires them to prescribe rates which will ensure stability, is one of the important measures proposed. It was defeated at the last session and re-introduced this year with a few amendments. Insurance Commissioner Palmer is out for it and urged its passage in an emphatic speech at a hearing before the committee on insurance of the house and senate on Tuesday. He declared the law is needed and referred to instances which have come to his attention since he took office, which prove that necessity. Widows, he said, have found, after their husbands have died, that life insurance they supposed would protect their families, has left them penniless.

TUGMEN "PUT ONE OVER" IN OLDEN DAYS TO PROTECT THEIR BUSINESS

When the White Lake country disputed the supremacy of any district in Michigan on the score of lumber shipments, many years ago, the need of a well dredged and well protected channel at the harbor entrance became so acute that Uncle Sam gave heed and liberally opened up his pocketbook. In that early day in lake navigation practically all the commerce of the east shore of Lake Michigan was carried in sailing vessels. There were a few steamers, but for the most part they were kept on through traffic, and seldom were called in for a lumber cargo. But the steamship was becoming more and more common, and the White Lake folk recognized that there was need of a deeper and better channel if the steamer ever was to be brought into the harbor.

The channel connecting White Lake and Lake Michigan was a makeshift affair, following the course of the natural outlet. It had been kept dredged sufficiently to care for the flat-bottomed old lumber-carrying hookers, but it was ill designed for a sailing ship. In fact, a sailing vessel of any tonnage could not negotiate the channel unassisted. As has been indicated, White Lake was some lumber port at that time. Often there were as many as a dozen schooners tied up at the docks, while half a dozen others could be seen coming and going. With such a channel naturally there was a fine field for the towboat man. The tugs were very numerous. Indeed, the tug owners of the east shore banded together in an association designed to protect and advance their interests, and this association is reputed to have had not a little to do with the program of harbor improvement carried out when Uncle Sam gave heed to the demands of the Whitehall and Montague folk for a modern harbor.

Everyone in the district long had been devoting himself to boosting for the new harbor appropriation, and when it was announced that the government engineers had recommended the outlay of a sum sufficient to make it one of the best east shore harbors there was rejoicing that still lives in the memory of the older residents.

While White Lake was rejoicing over the new channel, the tug boat association quietly considered the situation, and agreed that it would never do to have the harbor improvement kill its business. It is maintained now that this association slyly sent representatives to Washington and manfully pulled the wire on every bit of influence it could command. Whether this had the effect or not, no one knows. At least it is well established that the new channel, broad and deep and well protected as it was, was so cleverly laid out that a cross-eyed skipper with wind blowing from three directions never could have safely come into harbor with a ship of any size. Home people were disposed to laugh in their sleeves over the neat trick played by the towboat men. Everyone agreed it had been cleverly worked. The tug boat was a home industry, while the ships that dropped in were largely of outside ownership. The White Lake people knew the ship would have to call anyway, so long as there were cargoes to be had.

IN THE LEGISLATIVE LIME LIGHT

Senator Joseph B. Hadden, of Holland

Detroit Free Press.—After serving his city as alderman, Joseph B. Hadden, veteran Holland furniture man, has now gone to the state senate from the twenty third district to serve a large number of his people.

And he has declared himself as in favor of progressive legislation, which is just what his constituents wanted when they picked him out for his latest public position.

Senator Hadden was born at Otsego, Mich., July 30, 1865, and acquired his education in the schools of that town, particularly the high school. In 1890 he was married to Miss Frances E. Scott, of Plainwell, and two daughters, Mae and Evelyn, were born to them.

Twenty-two years ago he became connected with the West Michigan Furniture company, of Holland, and has remained with that company since.

He has served his fellow citizens as alderman of Holland and during his occupancy of that office was on the important council committee on public buildings. At one time he was county superintendent of the poor.

Senator Hadden's district comprises the counties of Ottawa and Muskegon.

"TRUXTON KING"

"Truxton King," George Barr McCutcheon's third story of the delightful land of Graustark, has been dramatized by Miss Grace Haywood, who was also responsible for the dramatization of "Graustark," and it was made its first appearance in Grand Rapids Feb. 20, opening a three days engagement at the Majestic.

Miss Haywood has long been prominent as a playwright of ability. She is also a gifted actress and has played at the head of her own stock companies in Chicago, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Hartford, Conn., and in other cities and made successful tours in well known plays.

ALLEGAN'S OLDEST LANDMARK PASSES

Modern progress at Allegan has finally reached the last one of the original pioneer business buildings, and the old Allegan house is being razed to make room for a modern building.

This landmark, which is familiar to every one who has sojourned in Allegan, was built by Col. Joseph Fisk, who came to Allegan in 1835, and who also built the railroad from Kalamazoo to Grand Rapids, now a part of the Lake shore, and the line from here to Muskegon, now the Pere Marquette. He also built the Chicago breakwater.

Colonel Fisk was the hotel's first landlord, and Thomas E. Streeter and his sons, "Tom" and "Hod," were among the last.

The structure was built on the bank of the Kalamazoo river, beside the bridge leading to the south side, and the same error was made here that was made in building Washington city. When the capitol was built it was faced to the east, where it was supposed the business portion of the city would be centered, but an enterprising real estate dealer started a boom west of the capitol and now the business portion of the city is in the rear of the capitol.

So it was here in Allegan. When the Allegan house was built it was supposed that what is now the south side residence section would be the business district, Marshall street having been laid out extra wide for the purpose, but the Boston company which built the first portion of Allegan village started in the opposite side.

A modern structure of cement and iron, veneered with yellow brick, will supplant this old landmark.

HOW MUCH DID HE LOSE?

A Fargo grocer who is not a mathematician has asked the police to solve a little financial problem for him.

A well dressed, smooth-talking young man entered his store and asked for a 5-cent jar of mustard. He gave a $10 bill in payment and upon receiving his change remarked that he thought he had handed the grocer a $1 bill.

"You certainly are an honest man," he said. "You might have given me only 95 cents in change and I would never have discovered the mistake." Then the customer produced a $1 bill, placed it with four of the $1.00 bills the grocer has given him in change and asked the grocer if he would mind letting him have a $5.00 bill for the five $1 bills. The grocer threw a $5 bill on the counter.

"Here, I'm robbing you of all your change," said the customer picking up the $5 bill and the five $1 bills. "I can do better than this. Just let me have my $10 bill back and I'll give you this $5 and the $1 bills."

The grocer made the change, and the customer left the store. Later the grocer, in going over his cash, discovered a shortage. He told the policeman he was not sure, but thought he was out about $5.05. The policeman insisted the grocer was shy $9, and the clerk at the police station to whom the report was made figured the shortage to be $6.—Fargo Forum.

BRING MONEY TO BANK IN BUSHEL BASKET

Does Advertising Pay?

Allegan Gazette.—If there has been any doubt about the attractiveness of Allegan as a trading center, or if there has been any question about the ingenuity of her merchants, this week's activity certainly settles the question and dispels the doubt. The merchandising world probably never saw a sale quite the equal of Tripp's "crazy January sale." There never was quite such a "jam" at any of his now famous January sales as there was Wednesday. People came from every corner of the county on the early trains and in carriages, many of them before the townspeople had taken up the activities of the day.

A nine o'clock every department was crowded and people were fighting good naturedly for the specials. The real rush came at one o'clock when for two hours twenty-five pounds of sugar were sold for one dollar. The auctioneer offered among other things a large, handsome wicker rocking chair. He positively declared that a week ago the chair cost at wholesale $4.50. The bidding started with a rush and went up to $3.75 when with other bids in the air was sold. The man stepped forward to get it and the auctioneer said, "Now, Mr. Brown, you gave me a fairly generous bid and to show you that my heart is in the right place you may have the rocker for $1.25." Any number of reasonable and unreasonable things were disposed of just that way. Mr. Tripp declared yesterday that the week had been the most successful and satisfactory case he ever held. "If any merchant in all the world ever had a better sale, a more satisfactory one to both merchant and patron, I would like to see him." Even at the prices at which goods were sold, it was said that in a single hour Wednesday morning the sales amounted to more than $250 and the total for that day was in the neighborhood of $2,500. "They took the money to the bank that evening in a bushel basket," one enthusiastic admirer of the Tripp establishment and methods told.

Here is a message of hope and good cheer from Mrs. C. J. Martin, Boone, Mich. Va., who is the mother of eight children. Mrs. Martin was cured of chronic trouble and constipation by Chamberlain's Tablets after five years of suffering, and now recommends these tablets to the public. Sold by all Dealers.—Adv.

MUST SECURE BONDS THAT DO NOT MATURE SERIALLY

One of the things that the charter revision will consider in the near future is a plan of creating ways and means of securing a sinking fund or bonds that do not mature serially. It is further planned to create a commission to take care of the money, pending its use for the purpose of which it is designated.

ONE ON JOHN

There has been a dearth of "fish" stories this winter and even accidents on the ice have been few. Bert Slagh, notorious for his misdeeds such as taking a sudden plunge in icy water, etcetera, has failed to live up—or down whichever way you will have it—to his reputation, and John Vander Sluis has to bear the brunt of the laughter this time.

It seems that on Monday, while Bert Slagh and George Steketee were ostensibly fishing with John, John was really doing the fishing for the trio, and the other two sat inside the shanty at Jenison Park, wholly at ease. There was a rip roaring fire in the stove and as John's coat was evidently in the way, Bert carelessly hung it on the only available peg in the place which happened to be the damper. "Nough said; soon that coat was no more. Had not Chief of Police Kamferbeek happened along with an extra coat, poor John would have been obliged to weather the wintry gale unprotected. Next time John intends either taking his coat along with him wherever he goes, or else sitting inside and watching it.

"LEST WE FORGET."

Tuesday afternoon, the Women's Literary Club gave a program in the club rooms, in honor of the memory of Washington's birthday. The rooms were beautifully decorated with the national colors and the hostesses of the day, Mrs. Lacey and Mrs. Smith, were dressed in Colonial costume. The program was as follows:

"America," the Club; "The Early Life of Washington," Mrs. Gilbert; "Ollie Speak's 'Morning,'" sung by Mrs. Thomas Connors of Columbus, Ohio; "Ecce, Cadmus's 'The Land of the Sky Blue Water,'" "Public Life of Washington," Mrs. Burd; "Mount Vernon Bells," Mesdames Grannis, De Vries, Hanchett, Wing and Murrey.

Mrs. Thurber's report of the gains made in the campaign for a new club house was encouraging. Supt. E. E. Bell showed a series of stereopticon views of the places and scenes connected with the early history of America. At the close of the program, Mrs. Corner sang Tosti's "Goodbye" and responded to an encore by singing Browning's "The Year's At The Spring," from "Pippa Passes."

The social hour was in charge of Mrs. Bosch. Those who served were in Colonial costume.

WHAT YOU SAW IN THIS PAPER THIRTY FIVE YEARS AGO

We had the pleasure of meeting Mr. H. B. Moore of Saugatuck, the other day, who told us that he had between three and four million feet of logs on the skids, on Rabbit River, and that he was compelled in the absence of snow, to haul the logs over ice roads, sprinkling them every night until midnight when with the usual frosts the roads would be ready for the sleighs, and hauling would commence and continue as far into the forenoon as the warm atmosphere of the day or the rays of the sun, would permit. The prospects to get out a full crop of logs, are considered in deed gloomy.

Messrs. Veneklasen and Son are making extensive preparations to re new labor in their brick yard next spring. Their brick is gaining a wide reputation—from the south as far as from St. Joseph, and all along the line as far north as Big Rapids, orders are steadily pouring in upon them. The highest praise and most satisfactory contract, they have had from parties building the Muskegon Opera house, whom they furnished with an immense lot of brick. We are happy to note the progress of this enterprise, and hope they will keep the lead along the whole Lake Shore.

Onion parties are all the rage just now. Six young ladies take an onion with them into a room, and one of them takes a bite of it. Then a young man is admitted, and after kissing all of them, if he fails to tell which one of them bit the "onion" why then all of the girls are compelled to kiss him, or he is compelled to kiss all the girls, we forget which. The play will have a big run here if the onions hold out. A chromo goes with the play. Married men are not admitted to the game. They are too keen on the scent.

TWENTY FIVE YEARS AGO A Fatal Railroad Accident.

Shortly after the time for the arrival of the Thursday morning train from Grand Rapids, a rumor was circulated on our streets to the effect that an accident had occurred to the train at Vriesland Station by which the engine was disabled and the fire man killed. The non arrival of the train seemed to warrant the rumor as the arrival of the relief train afterwards verified it. The remains of the fireman, David Potter, were brought here by the train and Coroner Yates was notified who impaneled a jury composed of the following persons: L. D. Balduis, C. D. Wise, James Ryder, A. B. Bosman, L. D. Vissers, and P. J. Cull, who rendered a verdict in accordance with the evidence of the engineer, George Eckard, who was the only witness called.

THIS CITY WAS WELL REPRESENTED AT THE MARDI GRAS FESTIVAL

During the past week there were 20 citizens of Holland visiting at the same time in New Orleans. If all the other cities in the United States the size of Holland were as well represented as that the beautiful Louisiana city certainly received a great deal of advertising.

Some of these Holland citizens were attracted to New Orleans by the Mardi Gras festival that came to a climax Tuesday evening. The beautiful festival lasted several days and some of the people from here are very enthusiastic over it.

Friday a party of seven returned from New Orleans. In this party were J. H. Parr, Dr. H. Bos, Frank Polhuis, Henry Sterenburg, John Van Os, Bert Arink, Wm. Vanden Belt.

In addition to this party the party of Holland businessmen consisting of J. C. Cappon, B. D. Keppel and others were in the city at the festival, as well as Mr. and Mrs. George E. Kotten and William Damson and Nick Dykema. The Parr party went to the dock to see the Holland people off

STATE OF MICHIGAN

To the Circuit Court for the County of Ottawa in Chancery:

The petition of Oramel B. Fuller, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State respectfully shows that the list of lands hereinafter set forth and marked "Schedule A," contains a description of all the lands in said County of Ottawa upon which taxes were assessed for the years mentioned therein and which were returned as delinquent for non-payment of taxes and which taxes have not been paid; together with the total amount of such taxes, with interest computed thereon to the time fixed for sale, and collection fee and expenses, as provided by law, extended against each of said parcels of land.

Your petitioner further shows to the Court that said lands were returned to the Auditor General under the provisions of Act 206 of the Public Acts of 1893, as delinquent for non payment of said taxes for said years respectively, and that said taxes remain unpaid, except that lands included in said "Schedule A" for taxes of 1890 or prior years were returned to the Auditor General as delinquent for said taxes under the provisions of the general tax laws in force prior to the passage of Act 200 of the Public Acts of 1891, and which taxes remain unpaid.

Your petitioner further shows that in all cases, where lands are included in "Schedule A" as aforesaid for taxes of 1890 or of any prior year, said lands have not been sold for said taxes or have been heretofore sold for said delinquent taxes and the sale or sales so made have been set aside by a court of competent jurisdiction, or have been cancelled as provided by law.

Your petitioner further shows and avers that the taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses, as set forth in said "Schedule A," are a valid lien on the several parcels of lands described in said schedule.

Your petitioner further shows that the said taxes on said described lands have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent; and the said taxes not having been paid, and the same being now due and remaining unpaid as above set forth, your petitioner prays a decree in favor of the State of Michigan against each parcel of said lands, for the payment of the several amounts of taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses, as computed and extended in said schedule against the several parcels of land contained therein, and in default of payment of the said several sums computed and extended against said lands, that each of said parcels of land may be sold for the amounts due thereon, as provided by law, to pay the lien aforesaid.

And your petitioner will ever pray, etc. Dated January 8th, 1913.

ORAMEL B. FULLER,

Auditor-General of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State.

JAMES BOYS' SWAG' STARTS GOLD RUSH

Discovery of $37,000 Near Vinita Okla., Sets Many Persons to Digging

Vinita, Okla., February 14.—Gold diggers are at work in all parts of northeastern Oklahoma, following the report that George Hartsock son of "Uncle Tom" Hartsock, of Vinita, had unearthed $37,500, mostly in gold, while excavating for an old pipe line, six miles south of the town of Nowata.

The money is said to be in a Nowata, bank pending the settlement of the dispute as to ownership. Under the laws of Oklahoma, the person on whose land buried treasure is found is the chief owner. Hartsock's share would be about $7,000.

The latest information about the "find" comes from Memphis Tenn., where a man calling himself "Kit" Dalton is allowed to tell what he thinks he knows about the matter.

Dalton is described as having long white hair, to be 78 years old and to have lived in Memphis for the last 10 years. Alabama was his home before the Civil War. Dalton is sure that the $37,500 is part of $70,000 taken by the James gang in a Missouri Pacific train robbery in 1884, near Moserette a town that has been abandoned.

"The robbery was made one night in October," said Dalton. "The gang was led by Jesse James, and with him were Dick Little, Jim Cummins, Jim Collins and four others. Collins and Little boarded the blind at a water tank just west of Moserette."

"When the train has passed the station they climbed over the water tender, pointed two revolvers at the engineer and fireman, compelled them to uncouple the engine from the train and halt it 200 yards up the track."

"Jesse James and one other whose name I will not mention, for he is living, entered the express car, overpowered the messenger and compelled him to open the safe."

"They got nearly $70,000, most of it being in $20 gold pieces, such as were found in the swag dug up in Oklahoma, considerable in silver and the balance in green backs. They escaped to a ravine, where the loot was to be divided. Deputies and a posse began pressing them so hard that they separated to meet at an Indian camp near Claremore, I. T. United States marshals got wind of their whereabouts and began to surround them."

"The silver and gold was so heavy it was troublesome and as all had to get away quick, Jesse James buried the money near a big tree. The balance was taken to a place on the bank of Little Blue River, Jackson county, Mo. Some of the gang returned to Indian Territory after the swag but the makers had been moved, and as it was not safe to dig around there, they gave it up."

"Strange to say that money hidden in Jackson county, Mo., was also lost."

BASEBALL FOR GRANDMOTHER

Grandmother Martha Holland, of Weehawken, N. J., who cheerfully confesses to being 65 years old and who is proud of her spryness, attributes her liveliness to the fact that she is devoted to baseball. No seat in the grandstand suffices for Grandma Holland. For five years, almost daily, she has played the game with her grandsons, going to bat like a professional and running bases like—well, like an old dear, of course. She unhesitatingly recommends the great American game to all grandmothers and grandfathers in need of rejuvenation. And she says it is a cure for the blues, laziness, grouches and many other ills.

Grandma Holland began playing by the advice of her physician, and if physicians are going to start advising sexagenarians and older ones to take up baseball as a health measure, it may not be so long until the Grandmothers' and the Grandfathers' leagues contest for a pennant before capacity crowds. There is something attractive, too, about the idea of a Grandfathers' baseball league. For in the major leagues there occasionally are veteran popular idols who must retire to the regret of the infatuated fans and who could be retired to the Grandfathers' league with profit to themselves and the league.

We could have a grandfathers' ball team here in Detroit—as, indeed, could most towns. Memory is crowded with names of eligibles, who might with profit to themselves and pleasure to the rest of us, renew the feats that live in recollection and tradition. Cannot Ald. John C. Lodge take the initiative in the matter?

PRACTICAL IDEAS IN COST OF LIVING

The Oklahoma boy of 13 who raised 102 bushels of corn on one acre at a cost of $14.50, including $5 for rent, sold his crop for $306. It is in demand for seed at a special price, and it is to be remarked that he paid $4 a bushel for the seed he used himself. Another Oklahoma boy, aged 15 raised 6000 pounds of cotton on two acres and sold it for $260. The seed brought $20 more, making $480 was the cash return from the two acres. It is no surprise to hear that 4000 boys and girls in Oklahoma have entered the corn and cotton contest begun a few years ago in the enterprising and vigorous young states, whose productions have already put it among the foremost. A special effort is needed to give intensive farming a start. An acre set apart for an ambitious and earnest youth may seem a side issue, but its demonstration of possibilities is of great value.

Many a farmer plods along with much land but poor cultivation on his hands. Few have realized how much even one acre signifies. In the suburbs of Paris there are single acres that rent for $100 a year. The soil is utilized all the time and every square foot kept under the highest possible culture. Otherwise it could not be a profitable way to employ time and so much capital. On the basis of the Oklahoma boy's experiment the corn crop of this country could be increased from three billion bushels to fifteen billions. The cotton test implies a like chance in that crop. It is said with truth that more workers are needed on the farms. A higher ratio of yield there is also something to be diligently, confidently, worked for. The cost of living can certainly be influenced in this way, and to the advantage of both consumers and producers.

RURAL GOSSIP TO SUFFER A SLUMP BY REASON OF NEW TELEPHONE DEVICE

By the operation of a new telephone which has been put in service on the Grandville rural lines by the Citizens Telephone company that company has obviated a big nuisance.

No longer can the patron of the farm phone line sit and listen to all the gossip of his neighbors by simply taking down the receiver.

As the result of six weeks' test the new telephone, which can be attached to a party line and only use alone is found to be a success. By its mechanical arrangements it will do several things:

All parties except those called by the operator can be locked off the line.

Only one clear distinct ring instead of a series of code jangles is necessary.

The operator has absolute control of the line at all times.

An emergency button on each telephone provides for immediate communication with central when necessary if line is in use.

A busy signal notifies the subscriber when the line is in use.

A subscriber cannot interfere with a call by operating the telephone.

The service is equivalent to that of an individual line where talking and ringing are concerned.

From 2 to 20 telephones can be used privately on one circuit.

The Citizens company is well pleased with the new service, which is the first of the kind in this state. It was installed by Oscar Lee, local representative of the Anderson Electric & Manufacturing company, makers of the telephone.

GERMANY, HOLLAND AND THE RHINE

The German Emperor is trying to persuade the Netherlands to consent that tolls shall be levied on shipping on the Rhine.

Although the mouth of the Rhine is in the Netherlands, Germany is vitally interested in it, for more than half of all the goods carried by vessels in Germany travel on the great river. More than three-quarters of a century ago, the importance to Germany of controlling the mouth of the Rhine impressed itself on Friedrich List, who said that Germany without Holland was like a house the front door of which belonged to a stranger. List was an exile in the United States from 1825 to 1833; and during that time he became so imbued with Alexander Hamilton's theory of a protective tariff that when he went back to Europe he urged the German states to form a customs union, or Zollverein. They adopted his suggestion. Out of the customs union grew the confederation of states now known as the German Empire; and out of the German Empire has grown Germany's economic need to control this water outlet to the sea.

Germany cannot expect soon to persuade the Netherlands to enter the federation; but if it can secure the repeal of the treaty under which the Rhine is made free to the ships of all nations, it will have a powerful weapon with which to coerce the little kingdom. There is already a German canal connecting the Rhine with the North Sea port of Emden, at the mouth of the river Ems. Over this route, it is proposed to build a large canal, big enough to accommodate all the Rhine shipping that finds at Rotterdam its outlet to the sea, and all that enters Germany by way of Rotterdam. If Germany should obtain the right to levy tolls on river shipping, it could divert to Emden such of its traffic as now goes to Rotterdam; all it would have to do would be to give preferential rates to shipping within the German Empire, and to levy tolls on all ships that pass down the Rhine into Holland.

Holland, however, has not shown itself hospitable to the German overtures. Instead, it is turning its back on the Kaiser and seeking friendly relations with France and England. Not long ago the Queen of Holland paid an official visit to Paris; and her government has recently awarded to English ship builders the contracts for building three new seventeen thousand ton warships. These great modern battleships each one of which is nearly three times as large as any warship now in Wilhelm's small navy, are, it is said, for the defense of the Dutch East Indies. But if there should be conflict in the North Sea, they would be of great value to Holland, or to any nation or nations that happened to be in alliance with her.

Talk of tolls and plans for a canal are the moves in the game the Kaiser is playing. Wilhelm, backed by his parliament, is meeting them with big warships and friendly negotiations with the Kaiser's rivals. The situation grows more interesting every year.

And it has all come about because a liberty loving German, when he was living in Pennsylvania in the early part of the last century, was impressed with the view of Alexander Hamilton—YOUTH'S COMPANION.

Wonderous Strength of Love.
There is a comfort in the strength of love.—Wordsworth.

Favorable Report on Sugar Beets

The department of agriculture's report on the beet sugar industry of the United States in 1910-11, just issued, contains articles on the work of the bureau of plant industry on sugar beets, a general review of the beet sugar industry in the United States, the sugar beet in European agricultural economy, relation of adaptation to the improvement of sugar beet varieties for American conditions, farm practice in the Arkansas valley, Colorado; suggestions on cultural methods in the sugar beet industry and sugar statistics. It is illustrated by two maps showing areas where sugar beets are grown, location of sugar factories, rainfall and frost data, and six other plates relating to the industry.

The average American consumes eighty-two pounds of sugar each year—and only ten pounds of that ration is now produced in this country. The farmers of the country should keep that money at home; in other words, put it in their own pockets and the department of agriculture has been trying for 16 years to show them how and induce them to do so.

Sugar is a product of manufacture mainly from the farmers' sugar cane and sugar beets. Incidentally some sugar is produced from the sap of the sugar maple—the entire value of that product, both sugar and syrup, and the sorghum syrup, being only about $15,000,000 annually while the total value of the sugar beet and sugar cane industries of this country totaled $117,000,000.

The cane sugar industry fared badly this year on account of the Mississippi river flood, the entire production, including molasses and syrup, being valued at only $34,000,000.

Beet sugar is a comparatively recent product of this country and can scarcely be said to have existed 20 years ago. The production during the twelfth census year (1899) amounted to 81,729 short tons, while the 1912 product aggregates 700,000 short tons, valued at $73,000,000. The growth of this industry and the plans for its increase indicate that beet raising for sugar purposes is much desired by farmers for profit and cultural benefit to the land.

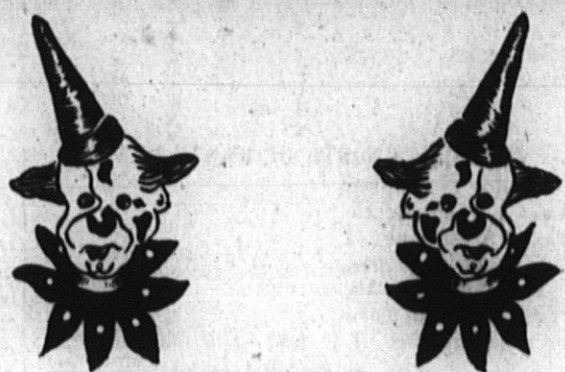

There are now in operation 66 factories in 17 states which used during the past season 5,062,383 tons of beets produced on 473,877 acres, and the industry has become one of the main stays and chief supports of agriculture under irrigation in the semi arid states. Yet this industry produces practically only one-eighth of the home consumption. The importation from entirely foreign territory now approximate 2,000,000 short tons annually. A home beet sugar production sufficient to cut off this production would not effect the home cane sugar industry adversely, because that has so nearly reached its limit that any possible growth it may have from now on will not equal the annual increase in the country's consumption, which has considerably more than doubled in the past 25 years and now is greater per capita than any other country except England.

With our present low average of one and one-fourth short tons of beet sugar per acre, it would require 1,600,000 acres to produce the 2,000,000 short tons now imported; or, as the acreage harvested the last year was slightly less than 475,000, it would need the production of 2,000,000 acres under beets to equal the entire home demand, a condition to which for more than 80 years economists have looked forward.

In the 19 states adapted to growing beets there are about 2,500,000 farm and 278,719,622 acres of improved land. Therefore, if every farmer in those states could cultivate one acre of sugar beets some of the cane sugar from noncontiguous territory would have to seek another market. Or if one farmer in four in these states would plant a three-acre patch and give it care that could readily be bestowed upon so small a plot, it would be unnecessary for us to buy foreign sugar. Two-thirds of one per cent of the improved land in the states adapted to sugar beets would accomplish this result, and more than that acreage lies idle, absolutely unused, every year. Any one of the states of Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska or Ohio could produce all this sugar and then have the beets come only once in a ten-year rotation, and several of the others could do it alone on a five-year rotation. The devotion of the necessary 2,000,000 acres to the production of the sugar required for our own consumption would have an utterly insignificant effect in reducing the acreage of other crops, and, in fact, the growing of the beets would actually increase the total yields of other crops, because of the effect of the beets upon the soil, for the thorough working of the soil necessary to grow a profitable beet crop increases the yield of everything else grown on the same ground in succeeding years, and the beets need occupy the soil but one year out of ten.

The Board of Public Works reported the collection of $10,610.71 light, water and main sewer fund moneys and recommended that the Treasurer be ordered charged with the amount.

The Clerk reported that $252.80 of the above amount has been reported to the Council on Dec. 18, 1912, and the Treasurer ordered charged with the same.

Accepted, and the Treasurer ordered charged with the difference between the above figures being $10,357.91.

Chief Kamferbeek reported the collection of $16.98 Criminal bills and presented Treasurer's receipt for the amount.

Accepted and the Treasurer ordered charged with the amount.

The Clerk reported the collection of $796.96 proceeds from the sale of East 12th Street and West 10th Street Sewer bonds, and presented Treasurer's receipt for the amount.

Accepted, and the Treasurer ordered charged with the amount.

The Clerk reported that at a meeting of the Board of Police and Fire Commissioners, held Feb. 3, 1913, he was instructed to present the following report to the Council in answer to the communication from the Council, requesting the Board to report the fact and circumstances surrounding the expenditure for repairs to the heating plant:

1st. The breaking of the boiler may have been due to carelessness, or it may have been an accident, the Board not being able to reach an agreement on the subject, and hence is able to do nothing but replace the boiler, with the hope that if it was carelessness it will not occur again.

2nd. The Board begs leave to express its surprise at receiving such a communication from the Council, since Ald. Brower was present at all the meetings in regard to the matter, and it seems to the Board the very purpose of having a member of the Council with us is to avoid such communications as the Council has sent.

On motion of Ald. Mersen, Resolved, That the Mayor appoint a committee of three to confer with the Board of Police and Fire Commissioners relative to the affairs at Engine House No. 1.

Carried.

The Mayor appointed as such committee Aldermen Brower, Harrington, and Van Drezzer.

The Clerk reported that at a meeting of the Charter Commissioners, held Jan. 27, 1913, the City Attorney presented the following draft to provide for Representation upon Boards of Supervisors by Cities of less than Fifteen Thousanda Population:

A Bill

To provide for Representation upon Board of Supervisors by Cities of less than Fifteen Thousand Population.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF MICHIGAN ENACT:

Sec. 1. Cities of less than fifteen thousand population shall be entitled to one representative upon the Board of Supervisors of the County where such city is situated, from each ward in such city. Provided, that no city of less than five thousand population shall have more than three wards; and provided further, that no city over five thousand and under fifteen thousand population shall have more than four wards for such five thousand population; and one additional ward for each additional two thousand population, or major fraction of such number. And provided further, that no city having more than the number of wards herein provided for, shall be compelled to reduce the number by reason of this law.

Sec. 2. The officers representing any city coming under the provisions of this law, upon the Board of Supervisors of the County wherein such city is situated, shall continue to so represent such city, until the said charter shall otherwise provide there for in the Charter. If any city is entitled to greater representation than in its charter provided for, then such additional representatives shall be appointed by the Common Council, or other legislative body of such city, to serve upon such Board until such time as such city shall otherwise provide in its charter.

STORY CONCERNING PAST OF GAS COMPANY

Says Original Promoter Handled Situation With Shrewdness of a J.

Rufus Wallingford

The Michigan Investor issued this week contains an interesting story on the Holland Gas Co. The first half of the article is devoted to the decision of Judge Sessions and contains nothing that has not been printed again and again. But the balance of the article goes into the past and it makes interesting reading. That part of the article is reprinted here:

"The history of the franchise under which the Holland City Gas Company supposed it was operating is interesting and throws much light upon the attitude of that corporation.

"The city administration then in power felt that Holland had outgrown its swaddling clothes and should have gas, but, being a municipal ownership advocate, the then mayor sprung the proposition for the city to build and operate its own gas plant. This involved the expenditure of $100,000 or more, and the issuance of bonds to provide the money. The good people of Holland did not take kindly to the idea, yet they wanted the gas. Angered by the attitude of their constituents who failed to fall in with their municipal ownership idea, the powers then in political control said:

"Oh, yes, we will give the first fellow that comes along a franchise, but it will be a peach, one under which no one will do business." Acting under instructions, the city attorney set about the preparation of an ironclad contract so stringent in its provisions as to make profitable operation under them almost impossible. He found that 600 British thermal heat units was the usual standard, so he placed the standard in the Holland franchise at 650, which would create a gas so rich as to blacken mantles and destroy burners. He found the usual procedure was to lay new mains to the lot line. In the Holland franchise the mains were specified to be laid to the house. For use for fuel the pipes are usually laid to the meter. The Holland franchise specified they should extend farther. Finding that as a rule, new service could be compelled when the houses were 100 feet apart on a street, the Holland franchise specified new service would be required when requested when the houses were 200 feet apart. So it went. Other provisions were placed in the grant that would make an experienced gas operator stand aghast.

"When this artistic piece of municipal creation was completed the municipal ownership administration sat back and smiled, believing that no one would build a plant under such restrictions and that the citizens of Holland would then say 'Give us a municipal plant.'

"About that time a gas company promoter, with the shrewdness of a J. Rufus Wallingford, came smilingly forward and said that he would gladly accept the franchise and build an up-to-date plant. He did. It cost him about $100,000. Keeping discreetly silent as to the disadvantages under which it would have to be operated, he neatly unloaded the whole thing upon prominent citizens of Holland for $125,000, and, pocketing his profit bid the city a fond adieu. The present owners of the plant, recognizing the prosperous future Holland had before it, and relying upon the love of fair play of its citizens, purchased the plant from its Holland owners with the belief and understanding that a new franchise would be granted that would be fair alike to the company, the city and the consumers. No pains nor expense were spared to bring the plant up to a high standard, and today it is one of the most modern and best equipped gas plants in the country. It is giving the citizens full value for their money. In all matters the course of the Holland City Gas company has been open, honest, and fair, and there is little doubt that under a charter amendment, an equitable and satisfactory agreement will be reached."

ANDREW H. HARNLY WILL CLOSE
M. E. LECTURE
COURSE.

On Friday evening of this week the last number of the M. E. church lecture course will be given in the auditorium of the church. The speaker will be Andrew H. Harnly. This is how Mr. Harnly is described by the lecture bureau under the auspices of which he works:

"Descended from a Swiss ancestor, Uldick Harnly, who came to America in 1737. Born in the home county of Thaddeus Stevens, and reared in the home county of Abraham Lincoln. A Simon-pure Pennsylvania Dutchman with a Mississippi Valley bringing up. The terror, the excitement, the suffering of Lee's invasion a pre-natal influence that begat the spirit of conflict. Reared in a Christian Communion of narrow views but a rigid discipline that puts iron in the blood; educated in the public schools and the small Christian college in which the life of the teacher becomes wool and warp in the life of the students. Farmer, teacher, editor, preacher, lecturer. A varied but not checkered career, touching life vitality at many points. Sympathies as large, and interests as broad as humanity, with a special affinity for the under dog. Believing in God and believing in man, he is an incurable optimist.

Mr. Harnly has four lectures one of which will be given here Friday night—"The Renaissance of Law," "The Nation's Bulwark," "The Mirage of Life" and "Parasites."

KANSAS PAPER COMMENTS ON

HOLLAND MAN'S ADDRESS

A short time ago Hon. G. J. Diekema delivered an address on "The Future of the Republican Party" in Topeka, Kansas, before the leading republicans of that state. This is the way the "Howard Courier" speaks of Mr. Diekema's address:

"Congressman Diekema, of Michigan, the only away-from-home speaker spoke on the 'Future of the Republican Party.' He came last on the program and there were many in the room who, in consideration of the unusually good speeches preceding his, were sorry for him. But he hadn't talked a minute until everybody knew he needed none of their sympathy. He was of sturdy build, strong features, and had a pleasant, sonorous voice of great power when he approached his climax. He preached the gospel of straight Republicanism, and it was the expressed opinion of many who have heard the leading orators of the United States that Hon. Diekema's speech before the Kansas Day club last Wednesday night was a magnificent oration, worthy to be classed with the strongest public speakers of the nation."

ALLEGAN COUNTY BOARD
DRAWS MORE PAY THAN IT SHOULD

The Allegan county board of supervisors are in a peculiarly embarrassing position, having drawn three more days' pay than the law permits for their January session. Each man drew pay for six days of the session, while the statute permits but three days for that meeting. The difference is, for the whole board, $225. There having arisen in Kent and several other counties, at this time, a dispute as to what the law provides, appeal was made to the attorney general, who has ruled that three days' pay is all that can be legally drawn, the Kent supervisors have been notified to return the extra money. The provision of the law seems to have been understood by the Allegan board as in several other instances in the state, but effort was made to circumvent the statute by what was deemed an "adjourned" session. That is, instead of the usual motion to adjourn, as made from day to day, when Wednesday evening came the motion was made in different form and the date of January 10 specified, but that was merely the next day. The board was in continuous session for all that.

A GENTLE HINT

A bachelor had courted a girl for a long time without coming to the point. One evening in Leap Year, the young lady being musical, he took her to a concert.

The orchestra played No. 6, a selection that seemed to the bachelor very beautiful. He bent over his companion and whispered:

"How lovely that is! What is it do you know?"

She smiled demurely and replied in a low thrilling voice:

"It is the 'Maiden's Prayer.'" he repeated in astonishment. "Why—"

But she handed him her programme pointing to No. 6 with her finger.

He read and started, for the real name of the selection was "Mendelssohn's Wedding March." He bought the ring the next day.
