A movement is on foot to try and secure a pardon or parole for Raymond Coates, the man sent to Jackson penitentiary for life for the murder of Enos Lawrence in this city several years ago. Attorney D. P. Sagendorph of Jackson has been engaged by Coates to investigate his case with a view of securing the convict's freedom.

Hallie Maize, back in town less than three days, was last Thursday night gathered into the fold, charged as usual with being drunk. He pleaded guilty as a matter of course and displayed transportation to Holland, where, the court ascertained, the man had been working for some time. On the promise that he would stay away from court for one year, Hallie was given another chance.—G. R. Press.

Commenting upon the plan of the Allegan board of trade to raise money to assist in building a gravel road from Allegan to the fruit belt near the lake shore the Fennville Herald says: "It is to be hoped that the proposed effort will be more successful than a previous one; when a county seat capitalist headed the subscription list with the munificent sum of fifty cents! No wonder that soap bubble exploded—for want of soap."

Domestic hostilities which kept the social circles of Marshall, Mich., supplied with abundance of gossip for many days have finally reached Detroit. Mrs. Amelia G. Lewis has selected the Wayne circuit court as a battleground for the final round with her husband, Arthur R. Lewis, formerly of this city. She has filed a bill for divorce and will thus endeavor to bring matters to a close. Contracts with her husband to cease hostilities have been ruthlessly broken, it is alleged, and the only solution of the trouble is to be found in legal separation.

Register of Deeds John J. Rutgers is certainly a success as a promoter of excursions to desirable farm lands in distant parts of the United States. Nearly every month he has taken a good crowd down to Baldwin county, Alabama, to inspect the opportunities for investment in farm lands in that fertile country. His latest excursion party left last Monday and in it were G. W. Mokma, Postmaster, G. Van Schelven, J. W. Bosman, John Vandersluis, John S. Dykstra, Attorney Geo. E. Kollen, Jacob Lokker and Albert Keppel of this city.

John F. Deadman and Samuel Pemberton, of the Soo, received a patent on a boat they claim will travel across the ocean at speed of sixty miles an hour. The inventors have kept the thing a secret until this week. The boat is shaped like a cigar, the outside section revolving around an inner hull that is stationary and holds the cargo, passengers and machinery. The model first made was run by a spring from an old clock and when placed in water attained a speed of nearly twenty miles an hour. The outer casting of the boat has a series of flanges or wings running round and round like threads on a screw, and when in motion it bores its way through the water without much resistance. Deadman will build a small craft, to cost about $4,000 for the St. Mary's river this year. He claims the scheme can be also utilized for submarine purposes.

L. Fris has been awarded the contract for supplying the public library with magazines and newspapers the coming year.

August Halter, organist of Grace church, Chicago, delighted the large audience that attended the organ recital given at Hope church last Thursday evening.

Orson Vander Hoef has received the appointment as janitor of the new Federal building at Grand Haven from the treasury department through the recommendation of Collector of Customs George A. Farr.

Rev. Wm. Wolvius, pastor of the Fourth Reformed church, has received word that his brother, D. Wolvius, was graduated from the University of Amsterdam, the Netherlands, Jan. 20, receiving the degree M. D.

Lena Kieft, who was arrested by Night Police Doornbos while she was occupying a room in the Bristol with Will Ossignac, an Indian, has been sent to the Industrial School for Girls at Adrian to remain until she is 21 years old. She is now nearly seventeen.

Johnston Bros., of Ferrysburg, are placing the plates on the frames of the new steel tug building at their yard for the Perry company of Sault Ste. Marie. They built the tug Frank Perry for the same interests last year. The new boiler has been placed in the steamer Christie at Ferrysburg.

Sad indeed were the circumstances surrounding the funeral of Mr. and Mrs. William Hulsman last Monday afternoon from the Reformed church at Overisel. Mr. Hulsman died Monday of last week and his wife, whose death was hastened by grief, passed away last Thursday afternoon. The old couple had lived together for 58 years.

Henry M. Van Kampen has been very careful in the handling of his hogs since they became afflicted with hog cholera and as a result the disease has been confined to his premises. Contrary to former reports the quarantine does not prevent Mr. Van Kampen or his family from leaving the premises nor does it prevent the neighbors from calling on them.

In the service of the railways of the United States today more than a million and a quarter of men are employed. Of this multitude 52,451 are engine men, 55,000 are firemen, 40,000 are conductors. The number of engines in active use is 47,000, the number of passenger cars 40,000, and of freight cars 1,760,000. These cars and engines, if placed in line, would half encircle the globe.

Here is an idea for those who are on R. F. D. routes. It is contained in the following letter to the Fennville Herald: "We have our U. S. mail box arranged different from other boxes. I have a large and powerful electric alarm bell in my office in our house. The bell is connected with the mail box with wires. One wire is fastened to the mail box and the other wire is fastened to a strip of brass on the bottom of the box. When the mail carrier opens the box the cover acts as an electric push button and the bell rings loudly and can be heard any place in the house. We are always able to tell just when mail is taken out or put in the box and should we desire to speak to the mail carrier we are always notified of his presence. If he desires to speak to us he calls us by ringing the bell three times. Our mail carrier is highly pleased with the arrangement and declares it is a benefit, and wishes that all the people on the route had their boxes arranged like ours."

Douglas has several dangerous cases of diphtheria.

The Sturgeon Bay Stone Co., of Sturgeon Bay, Wis., has been awarded the contract to furnish 6,790 cords of stone for the harbor work here. The delivery of stone will begin this spring.

Attorney Geo. A. Farr of Grand Haven, who has charge of the prosecution of the case of the People vs. John Fox, formerly of Zeeland, later of this city, now living at Grand Haven, was in the city Tuesday looking up evidence in the case.

Capt. Austin Harrington, Capt. Q. D. Poole of the U. S. L. S. S., Capt. Rogers and John Campbell, left Monday for Chicago, being summoned there by the Graham & Morton company as witnesses in the suit brought by the boat company against the Marine insurance company to collect the insurance on the Argo.

The Palace of Wonders at Allegan, a roller skating rink and dance hall, has been purchased of Bert Walters of Holland by a number of Allegan business men. They may convert it into an opera house later, but for the present it will be used solely for skating and dancing. Mr. Walters at present is devoting all his time to his skating rink in this city.

J. H. Davenport & Son have prepared plans for an addition to the factory building of the Michigan Tea Rusk company on East Eighth street. The new structure will be of brick, will be two stories high with basement, and 24x52 feet. Increased business makes the addition necessary and this necessity is abundant proof of the well deserved success of this company.

At the regular meeting of the board of public works last Monday evening Superintendent DeYoung reported that during the month of January 14,754,880 gallons of water were pumped and the output of the light plant was 73,610 kilowatts. Collector Westveer reported the collection of $2,980 in light rentals for December, and $4,945 in water rentals for the six months ending January 1, 1906.

The home of T. A. Hodge at Waverly was destroyed by fire last Friday morning about 3 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Hodge did not awaken until the apartments were filled with smoke. They seized their clothing quickly and ran from the burning building. Mr. and Mrs. Hodge intended to move to Holland and the night of the fire they worked until 11 o'clock getting the furniture ready to move. They saved very little of the household goods and the loss which is about $1,200 was only partially covered by insurance.

In the absence of all of the family excepting a little girl who was left in the house asleep while the mother and an older daughter were out calling on the neighbors, thieves entered the home of Mrs. A. H. Mattison at Virginia Park last Monday night and stole a small quantity of new clothing. Evidently the thieves were disturbed in their work by the return of Miss Mattison and it is thought that when she entered the front door they escaped through the back door without completing the rifling of the house. In the cupboard was a purse containing money, which was overlooked.

A gang of youngsters, all over sixteen years of age, has been in the habit for the last two years of obstructing the derailer at the point where the P. M. railway company switch to the Zeeland brick factory crosses the Interurban track. Not only was it annoying to the Interurban train crews but it was dangerous to the cars and passengers. Attorney Arthur Van Duren secured evidence against one of the gang this week and the lad confessed, implicating others. Tuesday morning the entire crowd reported in Justice Van Duren's court and were soundly lectured. The offense is one that carries a very severe penalty—the maximum life imprisonment and the minimum five years, and the railway officials hesitate to prefer formal charges. The last offense was committed a year ago New Years Day and as the boys have made earnest promises for the future they may not be prosecuted. But mercy will cease to be a virtue if the gang implicated or any others repeat the offense.

Regarding Artificial Teeth.

To most people a set of teeth means a piece of rubber, shaped like the palate, with fourteen teeth stuck on it.

To us they are the result of years of experience, combined with the highest grade of mechanical skill. In making a set of artificial teeth, the shape and condition of the mouth are studied; the form of the face—the lips—the complexion and facial movements are all considered.

The teeth are selected to look most natural and give the greatest strength.

The rubber we use—when vulcanized—has the proper density. It will not absorb the odors of the mouth. It is just the right hardness to stand the strain of mastication.

As for the making and fit, there positively cannot be a question.

Your eyes are the judges of the skillful and expert manner we do our work.

You will be convinced that they fit, because you feel an equal pressure on the palate, and they "stick."

His attorney claims that he is not guilty because his son was fifteen years old last December and the law specifies that only children between the ages of seven and fifteen inclusive are required to attend school. There is no supreme court decision covering the case, but the attorney general holds that a person is fifteen until he is sixteen.

Mrs. M. Shonaker, 256 West Fifteenth street, says: "I suffered from constant heavy aching pains across the small of my back so that I could not rest comfortably at night in any position, and in the day I felt tired and languid. The kidney secretions became badly affected, irregular, too frequent, scanty and were attended by a good deal of pain besides depositing a heavy sediment. I suffered also from headaches and spells of dizziness so that I either had to sit down or hold on to something from falling. I used a great many different remedies but without obtaining any benefit. Friends advised me to use Doan's Kidney Pills and I got a box at J. O. Doeburg's drug store and used them. They helped me from the very start. They are the best remedy I ever tried and I have no hesitation in recommending them.

Other buildings are now being planned by the Forward Movement. The buildings are being erected in a semi-circle facing the lake. A little east of south from Swift Cottage, and across a ravine over which a viaduct will probably be built next summer, is the foundations and frame work for two large tents which were used last season, then comes the Vesta Putnam cottage which is a substantial building and then the frame for another tent or Sanitary cottage. To reach the building now in course of construction one had to cross a viaduct although it is only 56 feet from the last mentioned sanitary tent. There is talk of building another cottage south west of this new one but this plan may not mature this year. A pavilion 36x60 will be built about 100 feet north of Swift cottage as soon as the weather permits. This building will be a very popular addition to the group as it will serve as a retreat on rainy days. Miss Dix will also build another cottage near the location of the one she now owns. —Saugatuck Commercial Record.

TRAINED NURSE.

Writes a Letter to the News.

To the Editor of the News:—"I am a trained nurse of nine years' experience in hospitals and private cases, and for the benefit of the people of Holland, I wish you would publish my experience with the cod liver oil preparation called Vinol.

I was completely prostrated from overwork. I had no appetite, could not sleep, my kidneys, liver and bowels became inactive, and as I grew weaker I could not retain either medicine or food on my stomach and raised blood. The doctors said my condition was critical, and I would probably die. As I had seen Vinol prescribed for my patients with such remarkable results, I decided to try it myself. After the first bottle I began to improve. I continued its use and soon began to sleep and eat well; every organ in my body was strengthened and became normal, until it seemed good to be alive and I was restored to perfect health and strength.

I believe Vinol is the most potent and delicious cod liver oil preparation in the world, and it is such a blessing to be able to take into the system all the body-building and medicinal elements of cod liver oil without the nauseating, greasy oil itself.

I advise all my patients who need strength for every organ in the body, rich, red blood, and flesh tissue, to take Vinol, as it is so far superior to old fashioned cod liver oil, emulsions, or other tonics." Elizabeth M. Cremond, Trained Nurse, Boston, Mass.

Our local druggist, Con De Pree sells Vinol on a positive guarantee to return money if it fails.

DROWNS CHILDREN THEN KILLS SELF

MOTHER FOLLOWS THREE LITTLE ONES TO A WATERY GRAVE ON SOUND.

FEAR OF INSANITY IS CAUSE FOR DEED

Woman Is Mrs. John W. Watters, Wife of New York Insurance Man—Husband Prostrated by News—Her Life Said to Be Unhappy.

Fall River, Mass., Feb. 20.—Mrs. John W. Watters, formerly of Chicago, where her husband has been in the insurance business, while a passenger on the steamer Plymouth, bound for this city from New York, Tuesday, threw her three children overboard and then leaped after them.

Mrs. Watters was 30 years of age. Her three children included Helen, four years of age; Dorothy, aged two years, and a boy baby of ten months.

A note announcing her intention to throw the children overboard and follow them herself was found in the stateroom. Other letters were also found, including one addressed to John W. Watters, 170 Broadway, New York. Asks Husband to Forgive.

The letters found apparently were intended for the woman's husband, one asking forgiveness and saying that she had worried so much that she feared insanity and could not leave the children. The other was in the nature of a will, as it disposed of the personal property of the writer. One of the missives was written on a part of an envelope, the other on a piece of wrapping paper. The note on the envelope read: "Dear Husband: Forgive this trouble. I have nearly broken my heart. Dear John, forgive me for causing you this sorrow, but I could not live and I could not leave our children. I have worried so much I fear insanity and I could not leave the children."

The letter which disposed of the woman's personal property contained the name of John W. Watters, 170 Broadway, New York. Various trinkets and articles of wearing apparel were disposed of in the hurriedly written will.

Heard Cry of Child.

Persons occupying staterooms near by heard one of the children crying at about midnight. From that time until about 3:30 a. m., when the fact was discovered that the stateroom was unoccupied, no other disturbance was heard.

Dwight Brady, son of Capt. James Brady, collector of the port of Fall River, identified the articles found in the stateroom as belonging to his sister, Mrs. John Watters, of Brooklyn, N. Y. Mr. Watters, he said, was an insurance agent with an office at 170 Broadway, New York city. He could give no reason, he said, for the woman's action beyond the fact that she had said that she was not happy.

For some time, Mr. Brady said, she had not appeared to be in good spirits, and on a visit to her father's home here a week ago, intimated that her home life had become unpleasant. She returned to her home in Brooklyn last Saturday. Nothing had been heard from her indicating that she contemplated making another visit so soon.

Mr. Brady said that his sister was married in this city five years ago, Mr. Watters having lived in Providence, R. I. After the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Watters went to Chicago, where Watters engaged in the insurance business, and recently they moved to Brooklyn.

Subject to Insanity Fits.

New York, Feb. 20.—John W. Watters is manager of the fire insurance bureau of the National Association of Manufacturers. He was prostrated when told of his wife's death, but later arranged to go to Fall River. To a business associate Mr. Watters said that his wife had been subject to short spells of insanity and that she spent some time in a sanatorium several years ago. Monday she left her home in Brooklyn with the children, telling a servant she was going to a photographer's. When she did not return home Monday night search was made and it was found there was no photographer at the address Mrs. Watters had given the servant. Mr. Watters said his wife's troubles were entirely imaginary and that their home life was always happy.

King Holds Levee.

London, Feb. 20.—King Edward held the first levee of the season at Buckingham palace at noon Tuesday, thus avoiding the state procession to St. James' palace, where the levees are usually held. The occasion, however, was not robbed of its picturesque quality, there being large attendance of cabinet ministers, the leading members of the opposition and the foreign diplomats, among whom was Ambassador Reid and members of the American embassy, including Delancy Jay, Ambassador Reid's private secretary, and Lieutenant Commander John B. Gibbons, naval attaché to the embassy, who on this occasion attended his first levee.

Truths that Strike Home

Your grocer is honest and—if he cares to do so—can tell you that he knows very little about the bulk coffee he sells you. How can he know, where it originally came from, how it was blended—or with what—or when roasted? If you buy your coffee loose by the pound, how can you expect purity and uniform quality?

LION COFFEE, the LEADER OF ALL PACKAGE COFFEES, is of necessity uniform in quality, strength and flavor. For OVER A QUARTER OF A CENTURY, LION COFFEE has been the standard coffee in millions of homes.

LION COFFEE is carefully packed at our factories, and until opened in your home, has no chance of being adulterated, or of coming in contact with dust, dirt, germs, or unclean hands.

In each package of LION COFFEE you get one full pound of Pure Coffee. Insist upon getting the genuine. (Lion head on every package.)

(Save the Lion-heads for valuable premiums.)

To find out for a certainty whether or not your heart is affected. One person in four has a weak heart; it may be you. If so, you should know it now, and save serious consequences. If you have short breath, fluttering, palpitation, hungry spells, hot flushes; if you cannot lie on left side; if you have fainting or smothering spells, pain around heart, in side and arms, your heart is weak, and perhaps diseased. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure will relieve you. Try a bottle, and see how quickly your condition will improve.

"About a year ago I wrote to the Miles Medical Co. asking advice, as I was suffering with heart trouble, and had been for two years. I had pain in my heart, back and left side, and had not been able to draw a deep breath for two years. Any little exertion would cause palpitation, and I could not lie on my left side without suffering. They advised me to try Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nerveine, which I did with the result that I am in better health than I ever was before, having gained 14 pounds since I commenced taking it. I took about thirteen bottles of the two medicines, and haven't been bothered with my heart since."

Ordinance Preventing Distribution of Harmful Samples Of Medicines

Holland and in fact every village, town and city in Michigan may with good results follow the example of the common council of Grand Rapids in its action in adopting an ordinance last Monday night aiming at the regulation of the distribution of samples of medicines in Grand Rapids and the prohibition of the distribution of fraudulent patent medicines.

The Grand Rapids ordinance provides that before any samples of medicine shall be distributed in that city, sanction shall be secured from the health office where the formula for the nostrum shall be disclosed and where there shall be consideration of whether the remedy be harmless or otherwise. Distributors shall file a bond to protect the city against trouble from any remedies which shall be distributed. Distributors shall pay a fee of $1.00 a piece per day.

This ordinance is simply nothing more or less than common justice. It works no hardship on those who distribute good medicines, but rather protects them. It shuts down like a steel trap, however, on those who distribute harmful samples, and experience has shown that the shutting down is deserved, for more than once the health and the lives of children have been endangered by these harmful mixtures.

Children are as a rule attracted by anything of novel shape or bright coloring and not being able to read the directions as to the amount of the dose they are likely to get away with the whole package. Then comes trouble.

Governor Warner Scores Success On Taxation Question

Horton's Lansing despatch summarizes the recent tax commission agitation as follows:

"Governor Warner, ably supported by Attorney General Bird and his associates of the executive departments of the state government, has scored a striking success in the contest before the tax commission sitting as a state board of assessors in review of their adjustments of railway values under the Galbraith law. The showing that was made before the board convinced the commissioners that they should recede from their action in which they had added three hundred millions of dollars to the assessment of general property in the state for the sake of finding a rate to be applied to the railroads. They have consequently done that, and applied the rate which the aggregate valuations returned by the supervisors yields, or $17.40 on the thousand, instead of $14.61, which was the rate they had found by adding the three hundred millions to the general assessment. The effect of this is to levy upon the railroads and related corporations a tax of $3,584,000, instead of $3,026,000 which the $14.61 rate yielded. That is over two hundred thousand dollars more than the companies paid last year. The present result is highly satisfactory to the state, officially and as a tax paying community."

Description And Social Usages Of Home Where Alice And Nicholas Were Married.

By Frank E. Doeburg

The home of the President which is familiarly known as the White House, is one of the most beautiful places in Washington. Whether from Pennsylvania Avenue one sees the White House, but partially revealed through the foliage of noble trees, or from the lawns embowered in vines, the air is one of dignity and repose and always looks cool, restful and beautiful. The White House is constructed of Virginia freestone, it is 170 feet in length, 95 feet in depth, and consists of a rustic basement, two stories and an attic, the whole surrounded by an ornamental balustrade. The style of architecture is Grecian. The architect was James Hoban, who drew his plans closely after those of the seat of Dukes of Leinster, near Dublin. Washington selected the site, laid the corner stone (Oct. 13, 1792) and lived to see the building completed, and before his death, in 1799, John Adams was the first occupant, in 1800. In 1814, in John Quincy Adams term, the house was fired by the British troops, and only the walls were left standing. With the restoration, the stone was painted white to hide the marks of the fire, and since then it has been known throughout the world as the White House, although officially it is called the Executive Mansion.

Alterations and additions to the building were made in 1902-3. The conservatory, so long a familiar feature of the west side has given place to an esplanade leading to the new Executive Office; and the public entrance is now through a colonnade on the East. Broad stairways lead up to the main corridor, from which access is had to the East Room, and the Blue, Green and Red Rooms, which take their name from the predominating color of the decorations and furnishings. The East Room, or State parlor, used for receptions, is a magnificent apartment and richly furnished. The decorations of walls and ceiling are in white and gold, and window draperies of old gold. From the ceiling hangs three massive crystal chandeliers. The four carved mantels are surmounted by mirrors. It contains a richly decorated piano which was made at a cost of $15,000. The two royal blue vases were presented to President McKinley by the President of the French Republic, in commemoration of the laying of the French-American cable. The Blue Room, oval in shape, is the President's reception room. The walls are covered with rich blue corded silk, and the window hangings are blue with golden stars in the upper folds. On the mantel is the clock of gold presented by Napoleon I. to Lafayette and by him to Washington. The Green Room has on the wall green velvet with white enamel wainscoting. In front of the white marble is a screen of old Gobelin tapestry in a frame of gold, surmounted by a spread eagle. The screen was presented to Mrs. Grant by the Emperor of Austria. The lacquer cabinet was presented by Japan in 1858 when American ships first entered Japanese ports. The Red Room walls and window draperies are of Red velvet. A Cabinet of mahogany and gold contains seven dressed Japanese dolls presented to Mrs. Roosevelt by the Japanese Minister. The State Dining Room is paneled in dark English oak, and decorated with heads of American big game. The massive mahogany table will seat one hundred guests. The President's Room and the Cabinet Room are in the Executive Office, west of the White House. The White House is set amid the grounds, with trees and flower beds and fountains and sloping lawns. Concerts, open to the public, are given on the east grounds by the Marine Band on Saturday afternoons, from June to October. The social functions that take place in the White House are as much a part of the official duties as are the signing of bills and the making of appointments. The official social season begins New Year's Day and lasts until the first day of Lent.

Blood Poisoning Causes Death of Louis Smith

Blood poisoning caused the death of Louis Smith, who passed away at his home, 45 West Tenth street, last Friday evening after an illness of a week at the age of 54 years. A slight injury to his hand received while working at C. L. King & Co.'s factory started an inflammation that finally spread throughout his system. He worked a few days after receiving the scratch not thinking there was reason to fear serious results; but soon his hand and wrist began to swell and he quit work and went home. In a short time he became delirious and finally died after enduring much suffering.

Mr. Smith was one of the best known marine engineers of this city. He formerly lived in Saugatuck and his friends there and in this city were deeply grieved at the misfortune that caused his unexpected death.

A wife and two daughters, Mrs. O. D. Wiley of Chicago and Mrs. Leo Wise of this city survive. His mother, who is 78 years old lives here, a brother, Wallace lives at Saugatuck, one sister, Mrs. D. Barry lives in Grand Rapids, and another, Mrs. M. Perruse lives in Chicago.

The funeral services were held Monday at 10 o'clock from the home, Rev. A. T. Luther officiating, and the body was taken to Saugatuck for burial.

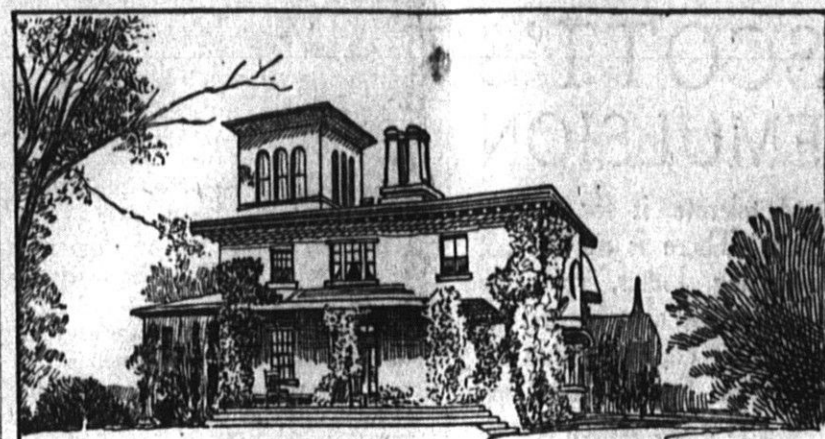

Rev. Adam Clark, of Marshall, formerly pastor of the M. E. church of this city also took part in the funeral services. The pall bearers were Capt. Frank Van Ry, Capt. Oliver Deto, Engineer Will Hattersly, Capt. Edward Risto, J. Bos and Fred Zalsman.

The beautiful old home over which the daughter of President Roosevelt will preside was one of the first of the now many fine residences to grace Grandin road, the center of the aristocratic section of Cincinnati. The house is not particularly imposing, but it is surrounded by beautiful grounds, and the building itself has that desired air—a home where time has mellowed the combination of good things with rare taste. Here Congressman Longworth has lived with his mother who is counted one of the most gracious of the hostesses of Cincinnati.

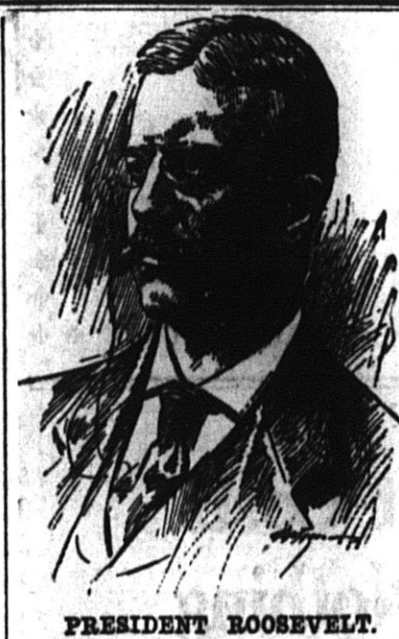

MAGNIFICENT EAST ROOM OF THE WHITE HOUSE. In Which the Longworth-Roosevelt Marriage Ceremony Occurs.

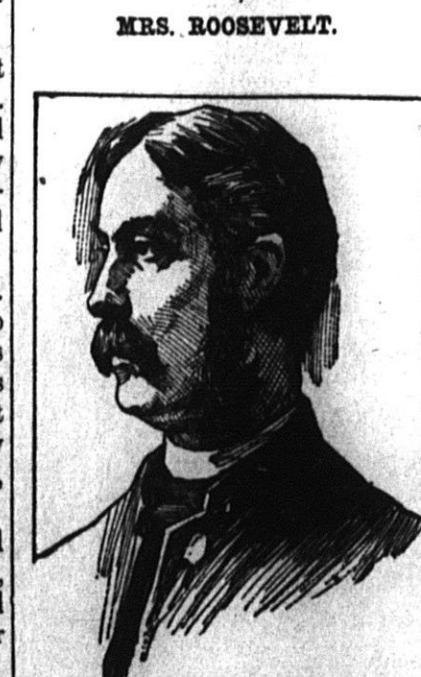

This magnificent room has been the scene of many brilliant social functions extending over a period of many years since the rebuilding of the White House in 1818. It is here the president's receptions are held, and it is in this room that several of the previous White House weddings have occurred, the room being handsomely decorated for those occasions, and especially was this true at the time of the marriage of the daughter of President Grant. It is magnificent in proportions, as well as in decoration, being 40 by 80 feet.

Brethren of the Burning Thirst

By OWEN KILDARE

(Copyright, 1905, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

We were in Nick's, on Bayard street. Those who know the least about it or its like, would call it a "low drinking place," or "common resort."

"Nick's Dead House," and "The Morgue" were our names for the place—and we knew it pretty well.

We were there, not because we had to be there. There were fires within us, and wherever the most for the least was given, there we—and all the brethren of the burning thirst—could be found.

We were not old acquaintances. For the last two hours we had been neighbors in the lodging house, occupying adjoining bunks. The common motive made us meet in Nick's, and, as customary among the sodden, we sat together to travel jointly into forgetfulness.

Receiving our "tubs" from the greasy bartender, we chose a table near the door.

We drank our first "tub" in silence. Ordering another, our finances were examined. The prospect was horrible—only the price of one more.

We drank slowly and smoked, and then the other spoke.

"I don't mind carrying the banner and walking the streets for a night. If it wasn't for the things a fellow thinks about, tramping from one end of the town to the other."

I knew he was about to tell me a few chapters from his life, and, not wishing to encourage him too much—for we all have troubles of our own—I made no reply.

"Only to think that less than two years ago I didn't know there were such places and such stuff as this," he continued. "And now I'm kicking because I can't get enough of it. It's fierce!"

"Are you only two years on the bum?" I asked, simulating interest.

"That's all, and don't you think it's long enough to be carrying the banner, or sleeping in them ten-cent bunks, and getting your quack either in a five-cent beany or at some basement door? And nothing to drink only 'tubs'?"

"Well, if you feel that bad about it, why don't you quit being on the bum?"

"Yes, why don't I? Why don't you or any of us?" he sneered. "None of us knows what it is, but once we get down this far, something goes out o' you, and you're stuck for good. And then they holler: 'It's drink, the demon of rum,' that's the cause of it."

"Well, if it ain't rum, what is the cause of it?"

Then I knew that he intended to tell me his story.

He half-carried the "tub" to his lips, but put it down again, and stared at some flies, flirting with a pool of the stuff in the center of the table.

"I was making good wages, and thought I'd get married. One day, three years later, I got caught in the belt of my machine and this old arm o' mine got twisted out o' joint." He held up his palsied limb with a movement typical of mendicants. "Some o' them wanted me to sue the company; but the super came 'round to see me, and, when I got well again, he gave me a job as night watchman. There was less money in that than working at the bench, but it was easy, and I had mostly all day to myself."

I nodded comprehendingly.

"Well, everything was lovely till the wife began to kick about having less money to keep the house than when I was at the machine, and the first thing I knew, we had a boarder, a fellow that was working over at the shop. It's a funny game, this keeping boarders."

"What do you mean?"

"I don't know how smart you are," he remarked, somewhat disdainfully, "but I guess you'll understand this all right. One night I had a worse touch of the rheumatism than ever before, and the super, happening to be still in the office, put a man in my place and let me go home." The mask of indifference fell, and the fend was disclosed. "And they didn't expect me at home!"

He almost emptied his glass.

"What did you—?"

"I had the rheumatiz, he didn't, and he got away before I could choke him like a rat. I wanted to kill him and her, but she, too, got away on me before—but, wait."

The last drops of the beer were fairly sucked from the bottom of the "tub."

"Then everything went to the dogs. I didn't care what happened, and—"

"Ever seen either of them again?"

"No, and her I don't want to see again—what's the use?" he spoke, growlingly. "And him—him?—I been following that hound all these years. Wherever I heard he was, I went. I tramped and begged from town to town, and sometimes was so close to him that I only missed him by a few hours. And now I been hanging 'round here, because I know he's here, and, sooner or later, I'll meet him, and then—then—"

He paused so long that I felt constrained to ask: "What would you do to him?"

"What would I do to him?" he bowed. "What would I do to him? Look at me! I'm dirty and filthy, a bum and a tramp, and that sneaking cur helped to make me that! What would I do to him? I ain't as strong as I used to be, but if that skunk was to come here this minute, I'd kill him! I'd tear him! I'd—I'd—I'd kill him! and, after, they can hang me or do what they like with me."

Just then the door opened to admit another brother of the burning thirst, and I hoped he would prove to be the villain come to receive his just deserts.

The newcomer was of a shifty look. His roving eyes examined every face in the room, as he slouchingly passed our table on his way to the bar.

Unsteadily my companion had risen from his chair and slunk to the bar.

The newcomer watched the ex-night watchman with catlike attention. Now, as he saw my companion approach the bar, against which he was still leaning, he made as if to move away. But the temporary impulse was checked and drunken bravado made him hold his post. And so he heard the other's whining appeal for "just one more beer, Nick, just one—trust until to-morrow."

"Sure I trust," said Nick, who had a reputation as a humorist, and pointed at the sign behind him, which bore this facetious legend:

"WE TRUST—TO-MORROW."

My companion, like a whipped mongrel, returned to the table.

"What do you think o' that?" he challenged me. "I ain't even good enough for a 'tub' o' this dirty, rotten stuff no more! And I must have another drink, pal, I must. It's all burning inside of me. Don't you know of any way? I ain't got nothing; I couldn't even get a nickel for all the rags on my back. And I'd sell my soul for a drink just now, honest I would. I'd do anything on the calendar for a—"

"What's the matter?"

The newcomer had made his way to our table.

"What you kickin' about?" he asked the ex-night watchman. "If you want a beer, why don't you go and get it?"

"I ain't got the price," answered the other, despondently, "and I don't think you got it, either."

"What, I ain't got it?" the newcomer laughed, cynically, and pulled his hand, filled with small coin, from his pocket. "D'you think there's the price of a couple o' beers in this handful?"

The eyes of the ex-night watchman shone with the fire of rapacity.

"Would you?—do you?" he stammered.

"Sure, I will," affirmed the newcomer; "here's a nickel, go and get yourself a 'tub.'"

Like a conquering hero, my companion went to the bar and ordered his drink with elaborate haughtiness. I took this opportunity to ask the newcomer my question. Yes, he was the man.

The ex-watchman returned with his foaming "tub," and, hoping for more to follow, wanted to seat himself beside his new friend. But I felt an approaching crisis, and, wishing to postpone it, if not able to prevent it, I moved my chair between the two men.

They gave the customary toast, and then the newcomer leaned over the table, after slyly winking at me.

"Don't you know me no more?" he asked the ex-watchman.

A pair of bleary eyes peeped at the questioner from an approaching ecstasy of stupefaction.

"No," answered the other, fast giving in to the influence of the stuff.

"Where was it we met?"

The stranger stretched across the table, bringing his face within a few inches of the other's.

"Now, look at me close."

The sudden thing struggled to come to the border of intelligence. The ex-watchman stared and scowled into every line and crevice of the face before him, and, at last, he knew.

It was my cue for action. I threw myself on the outraged man, and, twining my arms around him, braced myself to restrain him. Had I not been there, I reasoned, the stranger's life would have been in direct jeopardy. But, strangely, my muscles were not taxed to the utmost. Instead, I felt a relaxing of balance, then I felt a dead weight hanging on me. I released the bloodthirsty revenger. He fell back into his chair. His gaze just met the coins, still jingling in the stranger's palm. Yet there is much trickery in browsing, and, as a matter of safety, I kept my hands on his arms for a case of emergency.

The ex-watchman was the first to speak.

"I ought to kill you," he hissed to him who had betrayed his hospitality.

And then I let my hands fall from his arms, for a safeguard was necessary no longer.

"What, kill me for a woman?" the newcomer laughed right merrily.

"Don't talk like a fool. Drink up and have another one."

"I ought to kill you—I ought to kill you—I ought—" murmured the ex-watchman. Then he passed his glass to the waiting Nick to have it refilled at the expense of the ex-boarder.

"WE TRUST—TO-MORROW."

Just then the door opened to admit another brother of the burning thirst, and I hoped he would prove to be the villain come to receive his just deserts.

The newcomer was of a shifty look. His roving eyes examined every face in the room, as he slouchingly passed our table on his way to the bar.

"Sure, I will," affirmed the newcomer; "here's a nickel, go and get yourself a 'tub.'"

Like a conquering hero, my companion went to the bar and ordered his drink with elaborate haughtiness. I took this opportunity to ask the newcomer my question. Yes, he was the man.

The ex-watchman returned with his foaming "tub," and, hoping for more to follow, wanted to seat himself beside his new friend. But I felt an approaching crisis, and, wishing to postpone it, if not able to prevent it, I moved my chair between the two men.

They gave the customary toast, and then the newcomer leaned over the table, after slyly winking at me.

"Don't you know me no more?" he asked the ex-watchman.

A pair of bleary eyes peeped at the questioner from an approaching ecstasy of stupefaction.

"No," answered the other, fast giving in to the influence of the stuff.

"Where was it we met?"

The stranger stretched across the table, bringing his face within a few inches of the other's.

"Now, look at me close."

The sudden thing struggled to come to the border of intelligence. The ex-watchman stared and scowled into every line and crevice of the face before him, and, at last, he knew.

It was my cue for action. I threw myself on the outraged man, and, twining my arms around him, braced myself to restrain him. Had I not been there, I reasoned, the stranger's life would have been in direct jeopardy. But, strangely, my muscles were not taxed to the utmost. Instead, I felt a relaxing of balance, then I felt a dead weight hanging on me. I released the bloodthirsty revenger. He fell back into his chair. His gaze just met the coins, still jingling in the stranger's palm. Yet there is much trickery in browsing, and, as a matter of safety, I kept my hands on his arms for a case of emergency.

The ex-watchman was the first to speak.

"I ought to kill you," he hissed to him who had betrayed his hospitality.

And then I let my hands fall from his arms, for a safeguard was necessary no longer.

"What, kill me for a woman?" the newcomer laughed right merrily.

"Don't talk like a fool. Drink up and have another one."

"I ought to kill you—I ought to kill you—I ought—" murmured the ex-watchman. Then he passed his glass to the waiting Nick to have it refilled at the expense of the ex-boarder.

A reception was given at Senator Alger's residence in honor of the visitors and while the reception line was slowly winding through the spacious mansion one of the lumbermen brushed against a vase costing $2,500 and it crashed to the floor and broke. The silence was very oppressive for a time and it did not take some of the visitors long to find out that they had urgent business elsewhere.

The regular annual business meetings of the College Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. were held Tuesday evening. The reports of the committees show that the associations are in a prosperous condition and that much work has been done along religious lines. The officers of the Y. M. C. A. for the coming year are: Pres. J. Sizoo; vice president, P. E. Hinkamp; secretary, H. Renskers; treasurer, B. DeYoung. The following are the officers of the Y. W. C. A. for the ensuing year: President, Miss E. Grotemat; vice president, Olive Barnaby; secretary, Alida De Pree; treasurer, Dora Albers. Instead of six the associations will send but three delegates to the convention at Nashville. The change is due to the fact that a greater number of delegates than was first expected, will be present, so that if the full quota were sent, there would be lack of room. The delegation, consisting of J. Sizoo, D. Dykstra and Miss E. Grotemat, will leave next Tuesday. The convention is held from Feb. 28 to March 4, '06.

ANNUAL TAX SALE.

STATE OF MICHIGAN,
County of Ottawa.

The Circuit Court for the County of Ottawa, in Chancery.
In the matter of the petition of James B. Bradley, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.
On reading and filing the petition of the Auditor General of the State of Michigan, praying for a decree in favor of the State of Michigan, against each parcel of land therein described, for the amounts therein specified, claimed to be due for taxes, interest and charges on each such parcel of land, and that such lands be sold for the amounts so claimed by the State of Michigan, the Court is of the opinion that the petition should be granted, and it is ordered that the said petition be brought on for hearing and decree at the March term of this Court, to be held at Grand Haven, in the County of Ottawa, State of Michigan, on the 19th day of March, A. D. 1906, at the opening of the Court on that day, and that all persons interested in such lands or any part thereof, desiring to contest the lien claimed thereon by the State of Michigan, for such taxes, interest and charges, or any part thereof, shall appear in said Court, and file with the clerk thereof, acting as register in chancery, their objections thereto, on or before the first day of the term of this Court above mentioned, and that in default thereof the same will be taken as confessed and a decree will be taken and entered as prayed for in said petition. And it is further ordered that in pursuance of said decree the lands described in said petition for which a decree of sale shall be made, will be sold for the several taxes, interest and charges thereon as determined by such decree, on the first Tuesday in May thereafter, beginning at 10 o'clock a. m. on said day, or on the day or days subsequent thereto as may be necessary to complete the sale of said lands and of each and every parcel thereof, at the office of the County Treasurer, or at such convenient place as shall be selected by him at the county seat of the County of Ottawa, State of Michigan; and that the sale and there made will be a public sale, and each parcel described in the decree shall be separately exposed for sale for the total taxes, interest and charges, and the sale shall be made to the person paying the full amount charged against such parcel, and accepting a conveyance of the smallest undivided fee simple interest therein; or, if no person will pay the taxes and charges and take a conveyance of less than the entire thereof, then the whole parcel shall be offered and sold. If any parcel of land cannot be sold for taxes, interest and charges, such parcel shall be passed over for the time being, and shall, on the succeeding day, or before the close of the sale, be reoffered, and if, on such second offer, or during such sale, the same cannot be sold for the amount aforesaid, the County Treasurer shall bid the same in the name of the State. Witness the Hon. Philip Padgham, Circuit Judge, and the seal of said Circuit Court of Ottawa County, this 23rd day of January, A. D. 1906.
[Seal] PHILIP PADGHAM, Circuit Judge.
FRED F. McEACHRON, Dep. Register.

STATE OF MICHIGAN.

To the Circuit Court for the County of Ottawa, in Chancery:
The petition of James B. Bradley, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State, respectfully shows that the list of lands hereinafter set forth and marked "Schedule A" contains a description of all the lands in said County of Ottawa, upon which taxes were assessed for the years mentioned therein, and which were returned as delinquent for non-payment of taxes, and which taxes have not been paid; together with the total amount of such taxes, with interest computed thereon to the time fixed for sale, and collection fee and expenses, as provided by law, extended against each of said parcels of land.
Your petitioner further shows to the Court that said lands were returned to the Auditor General under the provisions of act 206 of the Public Acts of 1893, as delinquent for non-payment of said taxes for said years respectively, and that said taxes remain unpaid; except that lands included in said "Schedule A" for taxes of 1890 or prior years were returned to the Auditor General as delinquent for said taxes under the provisions of the general tax laws in force prior to the passage of act 206 of the Public Acts of 1891, and which taxes remain unpaid.
Your petitioner further shows that in all cases where lands are included in "Schedule A" as aforesaid for taxes of 1890 or of any prior year, said lands have not been sold for said taxes or have been heretofore sold for said delinquent taxes and the sale so made has not been set aside by a Court of competent jurisdiction, or have been cancelled as provided by law.
Your petitioner further shows and avers that the taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses, as set forth in said "Schedule A," are a valid lien on the several parcels of lands described in said schedule.
Your petitioner further shows that the said taxes on said described lands have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent; and the said taxes not having been paid, and the same being now due and remaining unpaid as above set forth, your petitioner prays a decree in favor of the State of Michigan against each parcel of said lands, for the payment of the several amounts of taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses, as computed and extended in said schedule against the several parcels of land contained therein, and in default of payment of the said several sums computed and extended against said lands, that each of said parcels of land may be sold for the amounts due thereon, as provided by law, to pay the lien aforesaid.
And your petitioner will ever pray, etc.
Dated January 2nd, 1906.
JAMES B. BRADLEY,
Auditor General of the State of Michigan,
for and in behalf of said State.

PARLIAMENT OPENED.

King Edward Apparently Favors Modified Form of Home Rule for Ireland.

London, Feb. 20.—King Edward opened the second parliament of his reign Monday afternoon with the customary ceremonial. The pointed reference to Ireland contained in King Edward's speech to the house of parliament, coupled with the announcement of the determination to grant constitutional government to the Transvaal, brought these two questions immediately to the forefront in the debate in the house of lords and the house of commons. In the latter body Joseph Chamberlain attacked the government on all points and especially on its South African policy. He threw down the gauntlet regarding home rule for Ireland.

The reference to Ireland in the king's speech is received with mingled feelings and some degree of doubt. Some of the less radical Irish members do not hesitate to say that the clause in the king's speech means a modified form of home rule and intimated that Mr. Redmond would be satisfied with such a step, as it would surely guarantee home rule in the future.

VICTIMS OF FIRE.

Four Members of a Family Perish in the Flames Which Destroy Their Homes.

Johnstown, Pa., Feb. 20.—Four people were burned to death and three seriously hurt, in a fire which destroyed the home of Patrick Grogan at Tunnell Hill, about 27 miles east of this city, early this morning. The dead are: Mrs. Mary Grogan, aged 63 years; Patrick Grogan, aged 11 years; Willie Grogan, aged eight years; Katie Grogan, aged ten years. Part of the Grogan family slept on the second floor and part on the first. Grogan was awakened by the flames and made an effort to rescue those on the second floor, but was unable to do so. Three members of the family escaped by jumping from the second floor. The house of Thomas Gregory, adjoining that of the Grogans, was burned to the ground, as were those of Mrs. Annie Mills and Charles Anthony. There were several narrow escapes from death by inmates of those houses. There is no water supply at Tunnell Hill, which is a mile above Gallitzien, and miners from the mines at that point formed a bucket brigade.

JURY'S VERDICT CLEARS PAT CROWE

RESULT OF HIS TRIAL IN THE FAMOUS CUDAHY KIDNAPING CASE.

Failure to Identify Him As Having Received Ransom Money Brings His Acquittal—Could Not Be Prosecuted for Kidnaping Cudahy.

Omaha, Neb., Feb. 17.—The jury in the trial of Pat Crowe, charged with the robbery of Edward A. Cudahy, the Omaha packer, of $25,000 in connection with the kidnaping of the latter's son five years ago, after 15 hours' deliberation, brought in a verdict of not guilty.

Court Indignant.

When the verdict of not guilty was read a great part of the crowd, which had thronged the courtroom through the nine days of the trial, arose in a body cheering. An attempt was made to press forward to where the defendant sat to congratulate him. The demonstration, however, was quelled by Judge Sutton, who proclaimed: "The court is amazed that an intelligent looking body of men and women should applaud such a disgraceful verdict, which sets at liberty a notorious criminal. I request the bailiffs immediately to clear the room."

Story of the Crime.

The kidnaping of Eddie Cudahy, December 19, 1900, and his release upon the payment by his father of $25,000 ransom, created a great sensation, and the search for the kidnapers was stimulated at the time by the offer of a reward of $50,000 by Mr. Cudahy. It was the belief of the authorities that Crowe and James Callahan were the guilty parties, but no trace of them could be found until about a year ago, when Callahan was arrested. He was identified by young Cudahy as one of his captors, but released on trial, as it could not be shown that he received any of the money, and there was at that time no law making the kidnaping of a person over ten years of age a crime. Last October Crowe was arrested in Butte, Mont., and was put on trial February 7. There was no evidence to positively identify Crowe as one of the kidnapers. Crowe was recently indicted in Council Bluffs with others on a charge of holding up a street car. He will be placed on trial at once.

Protest Against the Verdict.

Omaha, Neb., Feb. 20.—More than 400 of the most prominent women in Omaha, at a meeting Monday afternoon, adopted resolutions protesting against the verdict in the case of Pat Crowe, who was last week acquitted of the charge of robbing E. A. Cudahy of the latter's son five years ago. This is said to be the preliminary to a general mass meeting of citizens to take similar action.

THE LAST RITES.

Final Ceremonies Over the Remains of the Late King Christian of Denmark.

Roskilde, Denmark, Feb. 19.—The magnificent old Gothic church here presented a brilliant spectacle Sunday afternoon when King Christian IX., amid the thunder of guns, the sonorous tones of the organ and the blare of trumpets, was laid to rest with the long line of his predecessors on the Danish throne whose remains repose in the side of the chapels in Roskilde's redstone fane. The ceremony was simple, but impressive. Among the mourners were King Frederick of Denmark and Queen Louisa, Queen Alexandra, the dowager empress of Russia, Emperor William of Germany, King George of Greece, King Haakon of Sweden, and other royal personages and representatives of foreign sovereigns.

Henderson Near Death.

Dubuque, Ia., Feb. 20.—Former Speaker David B. Henderson has suffered another paralytic stroke which has deprived him of his sight. His wife is the only person he recognizes. His general condition is worse. It is believed the end is near.

WEDDING BELLS RING FOR ALICE

CONGRESSMAN LONGWORTH AND DAUGHTER OF PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT MARRIED.

Famous East Room in the White House Is Scene of the Brilliant Event—A Thousand Guests Present—The Ceremony Described.

Washington, Feb. 19.—With a plain circlet of virgin gold, in the historic East room of the White House, at 13 minutes after 12 o'clock Saturday, Alice Lee Roosevelt, eldest daughter of the president of the United States, and Nicholas Longworth, the representative in congress from the First district of Ohio, were united in marriage. The ceremony was one of the most impressive ever performed in the executive mansion—was according to the rites of the Protestant Episcopal church, of which the bride is a member. It was solemnized by Rt. Rev. Henry Y. Satterlee, bishop of Washington, and was attended by all the solemn state of a grand official function and by the devotional beauty of a cathedral service. No ceremony of a similar kind ever was witnessed by a more distinguished assemblage. There were present as guests, not only the most eminent representatives of the American government, but the personal commissioners of the kings and potentates of the powers of the civilized world, constituting an assemblage not only one of the largest, but the most distinguished that ever was gathered at one time in the White House.

While the bride, herself, and the president and Mrs. Roosevelt had desired that the ceremony of the marriage should be as quiet and simple as possible, it was found impracticable to limit the function, as was intended at first, to the immediate relatives of the bride and bridegroom. It became necessary to include among the guests invited certain official classes and personal friends of Miss Roosevelt and Mr. Longworth and, in all, the people bidden to the ceremony numbered a thousand.

White House Decorated.

For days the White House, ordinarily open to visitors during specified hours of each day, had been closed pending arrangements for Saturday's ceremony. The east room, in which the ceremony occurred, was decorated most elaborately. Not since the incoming of the administration of President Roosevelt have the White House apartments been so exquisitely graced with flowers as they were on this occasion.

Stationed in the vestibule was the magnificent marine band orchestra, under the personal leadership of Lieut. William H. Santelman, the director of the band. A special programme had been prepared for the wedding. The music was selected for the most part by Miss Roosevelt herself.

At four minutes after 12 o'clock, Mrs. Roosevelt, on the arm of her eldest son, Theodore, Jr., descended the main staircase and entered the east room by the west doors.

The Groom Takes His Place.

Following her almost immediately came the bridegroom, Hon. Nicholas Longworth, accompanied by his best man, Mr. Thomas Nelson Perkins, of Boston, one of the members of the corporation of Harvard college and a classmate at college of Mr. Longworth. They descended the main staircase and entered the east room under the escort of the military aids. The groom and his best man took their places at the foot of the embroidered platform to await the coming of the bride. Already Bishop Satterlee had taken his place on the platform, attired in the purple and ivory robes of his clerical office.

The Bridal Procession.

Scarcely had the bridegroom entered the east room when the doors of the state dining room were flung open and the bridal procession started for the extemporized altar. Following the ushers came President Roosevelt and the bride of Mr. Longworth, her hand resting lightly within the right arm of her father. As the procession moved through the main corridor and into the east room, the marine band rendered effectively the grand march from Wagner's Tannhauser. Miss Roosevelt never appeared to better advantage. Perfectly self-possessed and thoroughly appreciative of the situation, she gracefully recognized and bowed to personal friends who lined the way to the altar.

The Ceremony.

As the ushers reached the platform they separated and the president and the bride passed through the two lines. Mr. Longworth stepped forward and received Miss Roosevelt from the arm of the president, and together the bride and bridegroom ascended the two steps of the platform. Miss Ethel Roosevelt relieved the bride of her bouquet and held it throughout the ceremony. As Miss Roosevelt and Mr. Longworth faced Bishop Satterlee, a hush fell over the assemblage. Every one of the thousand present wished to catch every syllable of the ceremony which was to follow. In distinct, resonant voice the bishop began the beautiful marriage service of the Episcopal church. The responses of both the bride and bridegroom were audible distinctly throughout the great apartment.

When the venerable Bishop Satterlee asked the question prescribed in the ritual: "Who giveth this woman to be married to this man?" President Roosevelt ascended the platform and bowed to the distinguished prelate. Then taking his daughter's hand he placed it in that of the bridegroom. Having performed this function, the president took a position at the right of Mrs. Roosevelt. The best man, Mr. Perkins, then produced from a pocket of his waistcoat the gold circlet with which the couple was wedded, and handed it to Mr. Longworth. When he had placed it on the fourth finger of the bride's left hand the bishop pronounced that they were "man and wife."

Congratulations Offered.

At the conclusion of the service, which occupied less than ten minutes, Mr. and Mrs. Longworth held an informal reception of the guests attendant upon the ceremony. President Roosevelt was the first to greet and to offer his best wishes to the bride and groom. He was followed by Mrs. Roosevelt and then by the bride's brothers and sister in the order of their ages. Mrs. Longworth and the sisters of the bridegroom then extended their congratulations. They were followed by the distinguished personages present, the Austrian ambassador and Mme. Hengelmüller leading the diplomatic corps as the acting dean of the corps. Immediately after extending their greetings to the bride and bridegroom, the president and Mrs. Roosevelt passed through the main corridor into the blue room. There they received the guests at the wedding after they had offered their congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Longworth. Passing from the blue room the guests entered, through the red room and main corridor, the state dining room, where an elaborate buffet wedding breakfast was served.

Leave the White House.

Shortly after four o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Longworth left the White House by the south entrance, thereby avoiding a large and curious throng which had assembled in front of the mansion. Alone they entered a large automobile and were driven rapidly away. They went to the country home of John R. McLean, "Friendship," a few miles from the heart of Washington on the Tenallytown road. As the bridal couple entered the automobile they were showered with dainty slippers of rice.

Off for Cuba.

Washington, Feb. 20.—Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth started on their honeymoon from Alexandria, Va., at 11:18 a. m., Monday over the Southern railway. They will go to Tampa and from there take a boat for Havana, Cuba, which point they expect to reach Thursday morning.

STORMS RESIGNS

Indiana Secretary of State to Quit Office April 1—Fred Sims Appointed Successor.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 20.—Daniel E. Storms resigned his position as secretary of state Monday morning, after a ten minutes conversation with Gov. Hanly. The resignation was accepted immediately. Fred Sims, Republican candidate for the nomination of secretary of state before the next state convention has been appointed to succeed Storms to fill out the unexpired term. Storms' resignation becomes effective April 1, according to its terms, and Sims will take his place on that date. Before that time, according to Gov. Hanly, Storms has promised to make up certain sums alleged to be due the state aggregating $6,130.41. The payment of this money was the condition under which the governor permitted Storms to remain until April 1. It is understood that this money is to be raised among certain railroad interests with the hopes that the resignation of Storms will avert the probability of a special session, at which there might be the consideration of a two-cent war law. This resignation, however, affects the calling of a special session only in that one cause is removed. Other causes still exist, however, and the governor says the matter has not been determined definitely.

DEADLY EXPLOSION.

Thirteen Men Are Killed in a Disaster in a Mine in Colorado.

Walsenburg, Col., Feb. 20.—An explosion in the Victor Fuel company's Maitland mine caused the death of at least 13 miners, and perhaps 16. Shortly before eight o'clock there was an explosion in the part of the Maitland known as the Sunshine, which caused the earth to tremble for miles around. Soon afterward a man ran out and reported that the mine was on fire. The explosion caused a fall of rock from the roof and until this is cleared away it will not be known positively just how many more are yet in the mine. It is certain, however, that any found there will be past help. The explosion was caused by gas and the deaths were caused by the gas and afterdamp.

Maysville, Ky., Feb. 20.—Mrs. William Conley and her young son were burned to death at their home at Burka, Robertson county, Monday. The child was playing with a box of matches, which ignited, and before the mother reached him he was burned to a crisp. The creameries of Holland and vicinity will very likely be represented at the February educational scoring test, which will be held under the auspices of the state dairy and food department, in the county building, Grand Rapids, Wednesday, February 28. Butter and cheese should be shipped to arrive not later than February 27. No samples will be accepted for scoring that arrive later than this. There is only one test besides the February test to complete the first year, when awards of medals and diplomas will be made. This test is doing very much to advertise Michigan butter and cheese and no manufacturer of these products can afford to neglect this means of trying to better the quality and increase the uniformity of dairy products.

Residents from the vicinity where such improvements are to be made are circulating a petition for the opening of a highway the entire distance between sections nine and ten, beginning at a point three miles directly east and one mile north of the village thence north three fourths of a mile. The proposed improvement will necessitate considerable expense, inasmuch that a big fill must be made, besides the new road will cross the Pere Marquette railway and the Black Creek drain, creating a railway crossing and requiring the purchase of a steel bridge. However the opening of this thoroughfare is badly needed and there is a great deal of speculation as to what returns the highway commissioner will make. — Zeeland Record.

Attempts are being made to come to a settlement with the Holland government in regard to the settlement of the vast Metzger estate, which is now in the hands of that government. The estate amounts to about $200,000,000 and the attempts to recover it are being made by Toledo people. The history of the famous case goes back over hundreds of years to the time when William I I was king of Holland. Then Theobald Metzger, a favorite of the king loaned the crown vast sums of money. When Metzger died his will was secreted by order of the king but it has recently been secured and C. Z. Kork of Toledo has a type written copy of it in his possession. Demands have been made and the government of Holland has offered to settle for the face value and without interest. This offer was refused however and the fight for the rights goes on. Some of the passengers Holland bound on the late car from Grand Rapids last Friday night had a pretty heavy deckload of stimulants aboard and one of them tried to treat a young lad who got on the car a short distance from Grand Rapids to a beer shompoo. This was resented by the lad as well as by a resident of Jamestown who was on the car and the shampoer and the Jamestownite got mixed up in a fist fight. Others of the deckload crowd got into the fray and the contest was a fierce one until quelled by the train crew and the peace loving passengers. The Hollandite paid a fine in Justice Van Duren's court for his fun; the Jamestownite will appear before the Justice tonight.

Near the Pere Marquette freight dock at Ottawa Beach, where it had been laid up for the winter after assisting in the work of releasing the steamer Argo, the tug Salvor is sunk in about twenty feet of water and nothing but the smoke stack, the bow of the boat and part of the wheelhouse remain above the surface. The Salvor sunk about 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon. What caused it will remain a mystery until a diver looks over the hull but it is thought that a damaged seacock was to blame. Opinions have been expressed that some enemy of the Reid Wrecking Co. is responsible for the sinking but the chances are against that theory. It will cost the wrecking company nearly as much to raise the Salvor as it did to release the Argo.

Progress In Plan To Get New Fair Grounds

A. B. Bosman, Jacob Lokker, Albert Hidding, H. Kooiker and N. J. Whelan, the committee appointed by the board of directors of the S. O. & W. A. A. S. to investigate and report upon the matter of changing the place for the holding of the Holland fair have spent considerable time looking for a suitable location upon the line of the Interurban railway, but have found it very difficult to get an available site.

They met last Saturday and accompanied by Charles A. Floyd, traffic manager of the Interurban, drove to land owned by Paul Berg huis on the east side of the city and after a long session with Mr. Berg huis obtained an option on the land for 72 days. This land is nearer to the center of population of the city than is the present site. It borders on Eighth street and is a short distance from the bridge east of the railroad track on the Allegan branch. The north side borders on the Interurban railway.

Of course a great many things must be considered before the association decides to close the deal. There must be a certainty that the old site can be disposed of at a good figure, not at a sacrifice. The cost of getting the new grounds ready for occupancy, of making a racetrack thereon and of placing suitable new stables and buildings must also be ascertained. Provision must be made to dispose of the old buildings and fences etc. Last but not least the committee must find out what aid can be expected from the street railway company.

If all figures and plans come out satisfactory and it is discovered that the finances of the association can stand the removal, and that such removal will be profitable the fair will probably be shifted. Should the reverse be the case the old grounds will have to do for a while longer.

Both Want Normal Class. Holland and Grand Haven were visited this week by Deputy Superintendent of Public Instruction French who investigated the advantages of both cities with a view of establishing a county normal class in one of them.

Mr. French came here Wednesday and met with the school board and Superintendent of Schools Bishop in the evening. Tuesday morning he drove around the city in company with members of the board and other citizens and later visited the schools.

He expressed himself as greatly pleased with the schools, with Holland and its environments, but was non-committal when it came to telling where the class would be established.

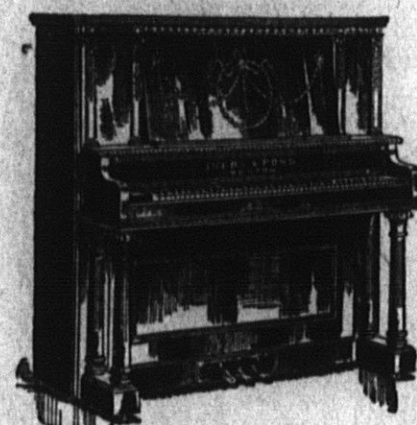

He is expected to announce his decision in a day or two, and in the meantime Holland and Grand Haven are on the ragged edge of uncertainty.
