Non-Profit Group Now in Control of Allegan Airport

25 Flying Fans Form Association After Uramkin Quits Post

ALLEGAN (Special) — Management of Allegan's city airport will be turned over to a newly formed non-profit corporation, under terms of an agreement approved by the city council Monday night.

The Allegan Aviation Association, which now numbers some 25 local flying enthusiasts with Don Wilbur as president, will succeed Michael Uramkin in managing the field. Uramkin notified the council by letter that he was now employed by a Kalamazoo flying service and desired to terminate his present lease which expires May 1.

Uramkin indicated he was in accord with the new program, is a charter member of the association and has offered his services on the airport committee.

According to Wilbur, primary purpose of the organization is to promote flying and improve facilities in Allegan. First major project will be a general improvement program at the airport. A telephone will be installed and radio receiver set up to obtain weather information.

Bert Person, who will serve as chairman of the airport committee, has agreed to lease land to the organization for $1 a year so that runways can be extended and the field designated as an open, commercial airport. The group plans to bring the airport under the federal aid program and an engineer from the Michigan Department of Aeronautics will be in Allegan Wednesday to survey the field and determine what must be done to win recognition as a commercial field.

A nine-member board of directors has been named including Wilbur, Earl F. Lewis, Ivan Goodwin, Person, Vernon Olcott, Al Dangremond, Jack Finn, Robert Swope and Gordon Dangremond. Finn was elected vice-president and Lewis secretary-treasurer.

Also at Monday night's session the council:

Agreed to contribute to a fund for the construction of a Ground Observers Corps station in Allegan which is being sponsored locally by the Junior Chamber of Commerce with the support already pledged by Blood Brothers Machine company, the Business and Professional Women's club, and the Civil Air Patrol.

Set next Monday night as the date for an informal meeting of the council with engineers who have been preparing plans for the proposed off-street parking area.

Approved SDM and tavern licenses for Buckley's Tavern, The Bovey, Banks' Tavern, South End Tavern and the City Hotel.

Asked City Attorney Rex Orton to prepare an opinion outlining the steps necessary for those living outside the city to annex their property to the city.

And learned that a recent statewide survey of power rates disclosed that Allegan and Zeeland shared the distinction of having the lowest 250-kilowatt hour rate in the state. Allegan's rate for this bracket is $5.75. Detroit's comparable rate of $7.74 is the highest in Michigan.

NEWS FROM "HOME"—Col. Allison W. Ind looks over news from the Far East, coming in over the wire in The Sentinel office. Col. Ind, father of Shirley Ind, a teacher at Holland Junior High School, has established an all-time record of duty with the Far East Command and finds the United States has changed a lot since he joined the Army in 1940. The Colonel stopped in at The Sentinel office on his way to Washington Wednesday. (Sentinel photo)

Colonel Stops in City For One of Rare Visits

Col. Allison W. Ind dropped in for a visit at the home of his daughter, Shirley, 139 East 14th St., Monday. The only unusual thing about such a fatherly visit was that the two had met only three times, then only briefly, in the last 14 years.

Ind was enroute to Washington after establishing an all-time record of duty with the Far East Command, Gen. MacArthur's old headquarters, which Ind helped set up. One month ago, he was still in the Tachens.

The Colonel, who was born in the Black Hills of South Dakota, was ordered to Manila before Pearl Harbor to set up Air Intelligence. Before the outbreak of World War II, he was in Malaya, Indonesia and Australia, making surveys. A week before the Japanese surprise attack, he returned to Clark Field, and was at the field on Dec. 7, 1941.

For Ind, the Christmas season of 1942 was spent retreating to Bataan and Corregidor. Then came secret orders to "somewhere, get to Mindanao," second largest island of the Philippines, and there await a "VIP."

The Colonel and his men fished an old commercial aircraft out of a bay, fixed it up and limped to Mindanao. The "VIP" was Gen. MacArthur and his party, coming down in PT boats from Corregidor. Col. Ind was then non-flying senior in charge of the third of the fortresses carrying the General and his party to Australia.

While on duty in Australia, he was involved in the air crash which took the life of Brig. Gen. H. H. George and two others. Ind was the only survivor of the crash. "I figured I wouldn't get killed in that one," he said. "After all, I got off from Bataan."

After rejoining the staff section of Gen. MacArthur's headquarters in Melbourne, he was made Deputy Controller of the Allied Intelligence Bureau, called the "OSS" of the Pacific, and responsible for re-establishing communication with all enemy occupied territory, including the Philippines, and conducting other "unusual" operations.

Ind was to go with combat forces to the Philippines, but before the Philippine assault, he passed out from operational fatigue and ended up aboard a hospital ship.

After recuperating in the states, he finally was given approval to return to his job in the Pacific. Since he was the only junior officer to have come out of Bataan, Ind said he "wanted to get back and help complete the job in the Pacific."

Although it was against usual Army procedure, Ind was re-ordered to the Pacific for a short tour of duty. That short tour ended last year, 10 years later.

Ind remained in the Far East during the remainder of World War II. Later, for Far Eastern Command headquarters in Tokyo, he worked on special assignments involving all southeast Asian countries. During the Korean war, the Colonel was in Japan and Korea. Ind's Army career has many sidelights. For instance, he has written a novel, soon to be published, called "The Fires of 'Tjopo'," backgrounded in Malaya and Indonesia. The book was written during the era of his Indonesian service. This was the period when the United Nations was trying to effect a cease-fire between the Dutch and the Indonesian Republicans, and brought about the Rendile Agreement, resulting in the establishment of Indonesia as a sovereign nation. Tjopo is an oil refining center in the mountains of Java.

Ten years ago he published a narrative called "Bataan: The Judgment Seat", relating the events occurring on Bataan and elsewhere in the Pacific during his tour of duty there.

Other writings include a series called "Australian Bride", done for the Australian Broadcasting Commission. The 93 episodes of the series were intended to show conditions in America that Australian brides might expect to find.

The serial reached many of the Pacific islands. One day, as Ind was walking through a thick jungle in New Caledonia, he heard a radio, speaking in English from a native hut. Curious, he stopped to listen and was amazed to hear the Australian short-wave announcer from Melbourne, 1,000 miles to the west, announce the beginning of the 37th episode of "Australian Bride".

Among the decorations Ind has received is the "Order of the Orange-Nassau", an ancient Dutch order, with appointments made on by the queen. He received the order for work and activities in connection with the operations in the Netherlands East Indies during the war and post-war periods. He also has two Legion of Merit awards, and a British "Mentioned in Dispatches" award, which was ordered by the late King George.

His unit received a Presidential Citation device and Ind was named among the few that may wear the device as an individual, with three oak leaf clusters as a permanent part.

Ind went into the Army on extended active duty in 1940. Prior to that, he was in newspaper work and writing, and has 80 short stories to his credit.

Ind lost track of his family while in the service. Two months ago, while on duty in Hong Kong, he received word that his daughter, Shirley, was teaching French in Holland Junior High School.

Ind was recently ordered to report to Washington on his activities with the Far Eastern Command, and stopped off in Holland Monday to visit his daughter. He left again Wednesday for Washington to make his report and from there he expects to be re-assigned to the Far East Command in the Pacific.

Zeeland Youth Killed in Crash This Afternoon

Gienn Allen Woodwyk, 17, of 247 Alpine Ave., Zeeland, was killed instantly at 1 p.m. this afternoon when the 1950 model convertible he was driving struck a pickup truck driven by Andrew Kammeraad, 46, of 460 West 18th St., Holland, at the intersection of Roosevelt and Franklin, just north of Zeeland City Limits.

Dr. A. C. Bloemendaal, medical examiner, was called and said death was caused by a broken neck and possible internal injuries. Kammeraad was taken to Zeeland Hospital and later transferred to Holland Hospital for x-rays of his back and shoulder. He suffered lacerations, bumps and bruises.

The convertible, going south on Roosevelt Rd., struck the pickup truck broadside and the two vehicles sort of "locked together" and traveled some 67 feet into the front yard of a nearby house before stopping. They remained upright, however, but knocked down several bushes in the path.

The impact knocked the transmission out of the truck and it was found some 10 feet from where the vehicle stopped. The truck was wrapped around a tree when it stopped and the car was spun around.

The truck was owned by John Blanksteyn. Sheriff's deputies assisted by Zeeland police, investigated.

Conglomeration of Stuff Left at Civic Center

"We've found everything but false teeth and we expect to find those."

With this facetious remark, Earl Price, Civic Center manager, pretty well summed up the articles left at the local auditorium this year. Primarily left behind by youngsters following a basketball game, janitors John Van Nul and Howard Van Order, have built up quite an accumulation of articles.

The usual materials left in "pile of stuff," now occupying a small box in one corner of a Civic Center store room. Much of material found earlier in the year has been discarded.

Right now, Price has a collection of brightly colored scarfs and plan scarfs, both neck and head ties. Another popular item is women's gloves. Single gloves have been left along with a few pairs of gloves. In the same category, pairs of mittens have been found.

Men's articles recently found are stocking caps, T-shirts, visor caps, nail clippers, single cut links and pairs, rings, and comb cases. Women have left compacts, combs, purses, scatter pins, earrings, and lipsticks.

A dime store set of binoculars, overalls and pairs of glasses are a few of the other items left. Also gathering dust on a Civic Center store room shelf are library books and textbooks. A quick glance shows there were some unprepared Latin students this week.

Rites Wednesday For 89-Year-Old Retired Writer

M.G. Manting Regarded As Leading Historian; Pursued Many Hobbies

Funeral services were held Wednesday for M. G. Manting, 89, retired printer-writer-editor who died Monday in Mulder Convalescent Home. He had been in failing health for more than a year and had spent considerable time in Holland Hospital.

Services were held at 2 p.m. from Nibbelink-Notter Funeral Chapel with Dr. Simon Blocker officiating. Burial was in Pilgrim Home cemetery.

Surviving are two sons, George and Preston, and a daughter, Mrs. Duncan Weaver, all of Holland; three grandchildren, six great grandchildren, and a sister, Mrs. Ida Harekamp of Holland.

Manting was born in a log house just south of Holland on property his father, a pioneer physician, purchased from the government. The log house was replaced in 1869 by a red brick house, 40 by 180 feet, which still stands today. During the fire of 1871, sparks fell on the roof but slid off without igniting the house.

Manting was slated to follow the medical profession and attended Hope preparatory school and then Hope College for two years. He left school to engage in newspaper work and job printing, as well as drawing cartoons and writing for magazines.

In January, 1892, he started the Ottawa County Times in the old post office building just west of the McEllan store. Later he moved to the Waverly building, until recently Chamber of Commerce headquarters. Then he moved to the three-story building now occupied by the Owl restaurant on River Ave.

After 17 years in business, Manting sold out to Richard (Harry) Post who continued publication only a short time. Manting continued in job printing work in the Vander Veen block, now the Penny store, for 35 years.

During his newspaper career, he was an early promoter of resorts and published a special resort edition each year.

He followed many hobbies, among them painting in both oils and water colors; fishing, an interest in plant life, astronomy and hunting, as well as gardening and other pursuits. He maintained a keen interest in news of the day, and in later years read his many newspapers with the aid of a magnifying glass.

His interest in politics on all levels remained keen, and he took pride in being an old-line Democrat, a term he carefully qualified so as not to be confused with the New Deal. He often said he was a delegate to every Democratic convention on city, state and national level for 25 years.

His keen interest in local developments throughout the years led to an unofficial title of Holland's leading historian.

Sons, DAR Hold Joint Meeting

Sons of the Revolution and Elizabeth Schuyler Hamilton Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, observed George Washington's birthday Monday evening at their annual joint dinner meeting. The event was held in the Grace Episcopal Church parish hall.

Speaker for the occasion was Author Richard Morenus, who wrote "Crazy White Man," as the result of his experiences living in the wilds of northern Canada for six years.

Another highlight of the meeting was a tribute to Dr. A. C. Van Raalte Gilmore, read by Rex E. Chapman. Gilmore was a charter member of the Sons and had been secretary and an ardent member for many years. "The life of the local chapter has depended largely upon his efforts and influence," he has been the moving spirit behind its activities.

Harrison Hutchins, vice regent of the Sons, presided at the affair. Devotions were given by the Very Rev. William C. Warner, Grace Church rector. After the pledge of allegiance to the flag, the group sang the national anthem with Mrs. Martha C. Robbins accompanying.

Brief remarks were given by Mrs. Ralph W. Newland, state DAR regent from Benton Harbor. She told of recent works of the DAR and told of completion of the Michigan Room in the DAR Museum in Washington, D. C. The Michigan Room, a library, has been completely redecorated and refurbished.

Allegan Promised Lively Election

ALLEGAN (Special) — Four vacancies on the city council plus two proposed changes in the city charter are expected to result in heavy balloting at Allegan's municipal elections, April 4.

City Manager P.H. Beauvais said March 12 is the deadline for filing nomination petitions for candidates for the council posts.

Petitions already are being circulated by three present members of the council and a fourth candidate. Kenneth Andrews, Mayor Stewart Miller and Francis Hanson will seek re-election and Weldon Rumery will be a candidate for the fourth vacancy.

Hanson indicated he would be a candidate for the two-year unexpired term of Walter Kyes. Lloyd Lawson, Sr., appointed to fill the vacancy left when Kyes resigned last spring to accept a post with the right of way division of the state highway department, has indicated he will not seek election.

Two proposed charter amendments to be voted on call for allowing someone other than the mayor to serve as one of Allegan's four members on the board of supervisors and for changing the present 25 percent limitation on special assessments. Under the present charter, special assessments for improvements cannot exceed 25 percent of the property's assessed valuation. The proposal would raise this limitation to 100 percent.

Eunice De Jonge Wed To Gene Schrotenboer

Miss Eunice De Jonge and Gene Schrotenboer, both of Zeeland, were married Friday evening in a double ring ceremony at Wesleyan Methodist Church of Holland.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. John De Jonge of 237 Washington St., Zeeland, and the late Mr. De Jonge. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Schrotenboer, 1142 South State St., Zeeland.

The Rev. J. C. Heecocks, minister of the Free Methodist Church in Zeeland, read the marriage rites at 8 p.m. before a setting of ferns, candelabra, and baskets of flowers. White satin bows marked the pews.

Nuptial music was played by Miss Virginia Boonstra, organist. Soloist was Virgil Beld, who sang "I Love You Truly" and "Because" before the ceremony and "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt.

The bride chose a gown of white satin and lace designed with a fitted lace bodice and a full skirt. The winged collar matched the bodice and the lace overskirt featured a tuck that fell into nylon pleats. A matching hat held her fingertip veil of nylon illusion. She carried a white Bible with carnations and streamers.

Mrs. Wilbur Kraak, who attended her sister as matron of honor, wore a forest green gown styled with velvet strapless bodice and full taffeta skirt with overskirt of net cut in hanky points. The bodice, featuring an insert of matching net, was topped with a velvet bolero with elbow-length sleeves. She wore a matching velvet petal hat with a short veil. Miss Marilyn Kloet as maid of honor wore an identical ensemble in gold. They carried wedding ring bouquets to match their gowns.

The groom's attendants were Lester Hoogland and Dale Artz. Bob De Jonge and Roger Schrotenboer were ushers. At the reception in the church parlors for 150 guests, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Lemmen of Grand Rapids served as master and mistress of ceremonies. Mrs. Schrotenboer, a graduate of Zeeland High School, is employed in the Holland Evening Sentinel business office. Mr. Schrotenboer, a Holland Christian High graduate, attended Hope College and is employed in the budget department of the Goodyear Co.

Woman's Club Spends Afternoon on Broadway

Members of the Woman's Literary Club spent an exciting afternoon on Broadway Tuesday with Prof. Don Buell of Michigan State College.

Prof. Buell, who makes annual trips to New York for the sole purpose of seeing as many plays as possible, encourages going to the theater largely for entertainment. So he asked the audience to forget the large, cultural and literary aspects, and just have fun.

A perfectly charming speaker with his own special theatrical flair for putting across a play, Prof. Buell selected six current Broadway productions to "attend" during the club meeting. He gave an intimate glimpse of authors and actors and delighted his audiences with capsule plots of the plays. He titled his program "Broadway Passes in Review."

The first "matinee" was "Quadriple," by Noel Coward which Prof. Buell called a woman's play—a featherweight story, actually, but perfect for Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt, who have returned to Broadway after several years absence. Broadway is happy that the Lunts are back in a play that fits them, he said.

An especially "interesting" production is Maxwell Anderson's "The Bad Seed." Although psychologically "not sound"—the plot is based on the conception that homicide tendencies can be inherited—the play is most dramatic, with a surprise ending which Prof. Buell refused to reveal.

A "three-hanky" play with outstanding acting is "Anastasia," based on the legend that the Russian princess Anastasia escaped death when the rest of the czar's family was killed. This is a play which makes the audience "feel good," and it all comes out okay in the end, he said.

In discussing "Witness for Prosecution," Prof. Buell conveyed well the tense, dramatic courtroom story of a platonic friendship which leads to a murder charge. This Agatha Christie tale carries you right up to the last 30 seconds before you know the outcome—which again Prof. Buell wouldn't tell.

A play with "moments you like to remember" is Clifford Odets' "The Flowering Peach," a most unusual, interesting, and actually experimental play which is the story of Noah as the head of his difficult family during the flood. This, Prof. Buell said, is some of Odets' best writing. Relatively few religious plays are successful on Broadway, he said; although this one has the finest of actors and actresses and even the sets—with a rocking ark, for instance—are most unusual.

But most delightful of all the Broadway season is Mary Martin in the first musical version of the oft-produced "Peter Pan." "Peter Pan is flying again," and this is a hand-tooled role for Miss Martin, Prof. Buell said. He also commented on the sparkling performance by Miss Martin's 12-year-old daughter, Heller, who plays in the show.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Bruce van Leuwen, president. She announced that the Civic Health Committee will meet next Tuesday at 10 a.m. and will hold its annual luncheon at 12:30. The club will elect officers next week.

Chalk Artist Appears At Local CPH Meeting

The gospel in music and art was presented by Mr. and Mrs. J. Dalman and Miss Myra Wiersma at a meeting of Christian Psychopathic Hospital Circle No. 10 Monday evening at Maple Avenue Christian Reformed Church. Mrs. Dalman drew two pictures while her husband played piano accompaniment and Miss Wiersma sang. About 80 members and friends attended the meeting.

During the business meeting in charge of Mrs. D. Zwier announcement was made that another $500 has been sent to Cutler-Pine Rest Sanitarium to apply on the Nurses' Home which the CPH Circles are financing.

Members of Bethany Christian Reformed Church served lunch. They were the Mesdames G. Kulper, H. Volkers, J. Otten, J. Den Bleyker and R. Dokter.

The last time a person was branded with a hot iron for a crime in the United States was in 1844 in Pensacola, territory of Florida.

Speakers Bureau Will Be Set Up By Local Chamber

Chamber of Commerce directors at their regular meeting Monday night approved a plan to establish a speakers bureau in Holland. According to Henry Weyenberg, chairman of the Community Service Committee that submitted the recommendation, it is hoped the program can be completed and ready to function by early spring.

Progress was reported in the Youth Achievement program.

Chairman W.W. Scott of the Education Committee reported plans are progressing for a Business, Industry and Education day for public and parochial school teachers along with students and teachers from Hope College. Tentative date is April 28. Chairman George Heeringa of the Industrial Committee reported his group is cooperating in the venture.

Chairman Marvin C. Lindeman of the Planning and Economic Committee reported his group is studying facts about parking problems in industrial areas along with the Industrial Committee.

For the Legislative and National Affairs Committee, Chairman James Townsend reported on several national legislative measures the committee is studying so that a report will be available for directors should action be required from the national chamber.

Neal Steketee reported the membership campaign is ready to roll and will get underway soon.

The Public Relations Committee with Oscar Vanden Doorn as chairman, revealed that the Chamber has secured the state convention of county supervisors and welfare directors. Meetings will be held at the Civic Center and convention headquarters will be in the Warm Friends Tavern. About 500 are expected to attend.

Chairman Bernard Arendshorst of the Rural Relations Committee said a survey regarding wants and needs for a cooperative market in Holland is being completed.

In a joint report, Chairman Charles Cooper of the Transportation Committee and Jack Plewes of the Retail Merchants Committee, told of findings regarding signs on the bypass. The combined committees will make a further study before erecting signs. The matter of information booths was discussed but no action taken.

Randall C. Bosch of the Harbor and Lakes Committee said letters have been received from more than 10 congressmen expressing thanks for the resolution from the Chamber supporting the St. Lawrence Seaway program.

A.G. Sall said his Safety Committee is setting the month of April for a bicycle and child safety program and the month of May for auto, brake light, windshield wiper and horn tests. Robert DeNooyer has been named chairman of the group working on the project. His aides are Robert Wolbrink, Sandy Meek and Police Chief Jacob Van Hoff.

In other action the directors re-named W.A. Butler as chamber representative on the Greater Holland Community Foundation. Directors also voted to continue support of the Community Ambassador Plan.

Use Insecticides To Control Pests

ALLEGAN (Special) — Allegan county farmers can now put on fertilizer and control wire-worms at the same time. The new combination is a fertilizer-insecticide mixture, containing aldrin.

The plant food-worm killer is relatively new to farmers here, and this year it will be generally available, according to Agricultural Agent A.D. Morley.

The agent passes along some information on the material from Ray Jones, Michigan State College entomologist.

Jones says the fertilizer-insecticides are being custom mixed by a number of manufacturers. To know what kind to order depends on the crop and soil texture.

Soil tests will tell how much fertilizer the land requires. The fertilizer, which contains aldrin, may be used on corn, potatoes, mint and strawberries. Agent Morley has information on where to get the fertilizer and how to use it. He suggests that farmers read the label for instructions and dosage.

A good dosage range is from two to five pounds of actual aldrin per acre for wireworm control. The lower limit 2-3 pounds will handle sandy soils, but five pounds will be needed on heavy muck.

He emphasizes that for a good wireworm kill when broadcasting the fertilizer, it should be worked 4-6 inches into the soil. He says the mixture is just as effective in controlling wireworms as spray or dust and requires no special equipment or operations.

Mrs. Nelson Kragt of 167 Highland Ave. announces the engagement of her daughter, Norma Gayle, to Corrie Van Loo, son of Mrs. Helen Van Loo of 24 West 22nd St.

Rookie Officer Captures Burglar

The alertness of a Holland police officer, on the force less than one week, resulted in the arrest of a Fennville man early Tuesday who has admitted breaking into a gasoline station on North River Ave., next to the Moose clubhouse.

Officer William Slagh noticed a man running near the station shortly after 2:15 a.m. At the same time a car raced from the station at high speed and headed south on River Ave.

Slagh gave chase on foot and picked up the running man who was identified as Eugene Maynard, 19, route 3, Fennville. A radio pickup notice was immediately sent out for the car.

South Haven State Police stopped the car a short time later. Since no positive identification was possible at the time, he was released after his name and address were taken.

Holland police accompanied by a state trooper planned to pick up the man for questioning today. A window in the gas station had been broken and several dollars in bills taken.

Ottawa Farm News

Richard Machlele

County Agricultural Agent

A report from the West Ottawa Nursery made by Herbert Krumpke, nursery manager, showed practically all species of evergreen trees in good supply for spring planting. Trees are also in excellent conditions but some will have to be moved this year.

The district directors would like to encourage as much spring planting as possible. There is still land which can be planted. This spring would be the time to do it.

All district cooperators are eligible to get their trees. However, if you are not a cooperator and wish to plant some trees you can become one easily by contacting one of your local directors or writing William Miller, Soil Conservation Service, Post office Bldg., Grand Haven.

A new extension folder is available at the County Extension Office. The title "Potato Grader's Manual." It gives the grading provisions of the Michigan Potato Marketing law and interprets the United States grades for potatoes.

Every spring some pig raisers have trouble with anemia in baby pigs. This is especially true when pigs have to be confined because of cold weather.

A solution of ferrous sulfate painted on the sow's udder will give baby pigs enough iron and copper to prevent anemia. Putting a good soil or black dirt into the pen each day will also help.

A recent report shows that the outlook for vegetable production in the U.S. looks encouraging. Quote: "1955 is expected to be a period of general stability for the vegetable producer." Two reasons for this statement are: (1) Carry-over of canned and frozen vegetables is expected to be smaller at the end of 1954-55 marketing year than it was a year earlier; (2) Per capita consumption of frozen vegetables is increasing each year with canned vegetable consumption remaining rather stable.

Author to Speak at Rotary Ladies Night

Rotary Club will entertain at a Ladies Night dinner meeting Thursday evening at Durfee Hall, Hope College. Dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m.

Speaker for the occasion will be Richard Morenus, author of "Crazy White Man," who will speak on "How Radio Script and Books Are Planned and Written."

Morenus, an entertaining, witty speaker, was a radio script writer for such programs as "First Night," "Curtain Time," "Hollywood Theatre," "Grand Hotel" and numerous other daily serials. In 1940, he quit the busy city life to get out into the open and live simply and quietly.

The spot he chose—an island in northern Canada—was a rugged one and he lived six strenuous years there, battling the wilderness in real pioneer fashion. That story is told in "Crazy White Man."

Guest reservations for the dinner can be made with Don Vink.

Dutch Fast Break Operates at Best To Take MIAA Win

A smooth running fast break, "the best executed this season," gave Hope College a 98-92 home finale win over Kalamazoo College before 1,500 fans Tuesday night at the Civic Center. The point total was the highest tallied so far this season and avenged an earlier season's trouncing at the hands of the Hornets.

The victory moved Hope into a third place tie with Albion. Both have an 8-5 MIAA record. The Dutch have now defeated at last once every team in the MIAA that they have met twice. A contest at Adrian, MIAA co-leaders concludes the season Saturday.

"This is the best our fast break has been executed this season," Coach John Visser said after the game. Many times the Dutch were able to get two-on-one and three-on-one situations to score. Hope sank 42 baskets, the most this season.

Whitey Riemersma and John Adams, junior forwards, both had good nights. Working on the end of the fast break, Riemersma threw in 12 baskets while Adams countered with 11 two-pointers.

A fast spurge at the end of the first half turned a nip-and-tuck game into a 46-36 Hope advantage. The teams were tied 36-all with 3:20 remaining.

Hope, using a zone defense throughout, kept the Hornets shooting from outcourt and built up a one sided margin in the second half. The Dutch led 83-68, for the largest margin of the contest, with about 6:35 left. The 10 minute score was 74-62.

Kalamazoo succeeded in piercing the zone in the last minutes and rattled the score. The six point margin at the buzzer was the closest the Hornets were able to come in the second half.

Adams scored Hope's first basket after 13 seconds had elapsed. Charlie Tucker, Kalamazoo center, tied the score seconds later. The Hornets hit five straight shots, including two by Dave Moran of Holland, and pulled to a 12-6 lead with 17 minutes to go in the first half.

The Hornets held the upper hand for the next four minutes, shooting outcourt shots over the zone. Hope, behind 8-10, suddenly got hot and drove for five straight baskets. Bob Hendrickson, playing his final home game, and Adams each had two and Riemersma notched one basket.

The game was tied three times in the next six minutes before Hope rolled for the final half spurt. The Dutch were ahead 24-22 at the 10 minute mark.

Hope got most of the rebounds, with freshman Jim Hilmet, again turning in a strong defensive contest. Hendrickson also got a share of rebounds. Doug Steward, following favorable treatment of an ankle injury, was able to play part of the game and proved to be strong periodically on the boards. Often, the 6'7" center, was used as a decoy around the pivot.

"The loss of Moran on fouls certainly hurt our offense," Coach Rolla Anderson said after the game. "We needed his corner shooting." Moran committed his fifth personal about three minutes after the second half started. He made nine points.

Hope made 42 out of 109 shots in the contest for 38 percent. The Hornets cashed in on 32 out of 190 for 32 percent. In the first half Hope hit on 19 out of 56 and in the second half 23 out of 53. Kalamazoo tallied 13 out of 41 in the first half and 19 out of 59 in the second half.

Riemersma led Hope with 28 points followed by Adams with 26. Hendrickson was third with 17. Willie Rink, senior guard and Hendrickson, were given standing ovations when removed from the lineup in the closing minutes. Riemersma's 28 points was the highest one-game total made by a Hope player this season.

Gary Morrison, the MIAA's top scorer, after a shaky first half, recovered and led the Hornets with 25 points. Wayne Shell, his companion at guard had 23.

Coach John Visser was again pleased with the Hope reserve strength. Part of the game, the Hope coach used four freshmen in the lineup. They were Mert Vander Lind, Don Schreuer, John Jeltjes and Hilmet.

It was the second largest Hope home crowd this season. The Calvin game drew capacity, 2,500.

As yet, the housing bureau operates on only a part-time basis and is not available for telephone calls.

Dates for Tulip Time this year are May 11 through 14. The housing bureau does not set rates for rooms in private homes, but experience has shown that the majority of rooms with double beds rent for $4 to $4.50 a night; single beds, $2.50 to $3 and twin beds, $5 to $6. Rooms with private bath have a slightly higher rate.

A $2 per person room deposit is required from the visitor to reserve a room, plus a registration fee to help defray office expense. The balance, if any, is collected from the guests by the renter.

Large Audience Hears Dr. Crane

Members of the Methodist Men's Club entertained at their annual Ladies Night dinner Thursday evening in the church social room. The public was invited to the after-dinner program which featured as speaker Dr. Henry Hitt Crane of Detroit, well known Methodist minister.

"Our major problem," Dr. Crane said, "is are we going to be here long or are we going to blow ourselves to pieces? The only answer is Christianity, a personal commitment to Jesus who said 'I am the way.'"

In a powerful, dramatic and effective way, Dr. Crane showed his audience the futility of fighting communism with communistic tactics if we hope to have peace. He said "The end is determined by the means."

Methodist Men and their wives were served a steak dinner, prepared by women of the church. Devotions were given by Lloyd Van Lente who told of the "light" which led him into the ministry.

The Rev. John O. Hagans opened and closed the meeting with A membership drive will start officially on March 3, following a kick-off fish fry at the club house. Also planned for the year is a series of meetings at Washington School and a picnic to be held in June at the club's 20 acres on M-21, between Holland and Zeeland.

A committee was appointed for preliminary arrangements for the 1955 banquet to be held at a time and place yet to be named.

Nearly 300 children are expected to attend the third annual Fish Rodeo, planned by club members for July or August.

Audience of 1,500 Sees 'Fashions for Spring'

An estimated crowd of 1,500 enjoyed an early touch of spring Thursday evening when Holland Hospital Auxiliary presented "Fashions for Spring" at the Civic Center.

It was the first such affair presented in the new civic building and the large attendance was indicative of its success. The parade of fashions, provided by Penney's of Holland, ranged from outfits for the tiniest tots to smart women's fashions and men's wear.

Models appeared on stage through a flower-bedecked trelis, flanked by potted shrubbery, then proceeded down a long ramp which extended far down center of the auditorium.

Mrs. Robert Kow wrote and narrated the script for the entire show, pointing out fashion features and emphases. Coordinates, cottons, ensembles and accessories, including exquisite copies of French chapeaux, were among the show highlights. The children were especially appealing in their outfits patterned after the grown-ups.

Mrs. Don Lievesee, who was general chairman for the show, welcomed the audience and introduced the narrator. She also thanked her committee, the models, merchants and others who helped to make the show a success.

Adding much to the performance was the organ music of John Swierenga. During intermission, the Arcadian Quartet of Hope College entertained with several numbers.

Models included Susan Mikula, Jimmy Lievesee, Susan Beebe, Barbara Klaasen, Donald Heeringa, Barbara Kow, Linda Davis, Ellen Scott, Mary Lou Van Putten, Jane Klaasen, Mrs. Jay C. Pette, Mrs. William Beebe, Mrs. Warren Westrate, Mrs. Herb Childress, Mrs. Walter Finninger, Mrs. James Brooks, Mrs. Kenneth Kooiker, George Michmerhuizen, Brian Taber, Dick Blouin, Robert Boyle, Mrs. Preston Luidens, Mrs. Clarence Jolvin, Mrs. Jack Leenhouts, Mrs. John Van Putten, Garnet Harrington and Shirley Wyngarden.

Roadway Case Under Advisement

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — After a two-day hearing here, Judge Noel P. Fox of Muskegon Circuit Court has taken under advisement a road case in Spring Lake Township and will render a decision sometime after April 1.

The action was brought by Don Stone, Jack Rozelle and Mrs. Jennie Tuin against Ottawa County, the Ottawa Road Commission and Spring Lake Township, concerning Beach Drive, a roadway which was built along the lake shore in front of plaintiffs' property. The suit was brought at the request of the township.

The suit involves the question of whether plats drawn in 1901 provide for Beach Dr. which was built two years ago. Plaintiffs contend there never was any clearly defined roadway. Judge Fox stated that the record shows there was no formal acceptance of the north-south portion of Beach Dr. either by the township or the road commission, and the question is whether the original platting amounts to a dedication.

The judge viewed the area during the noon recess together with attorneys, the township supervisors, representatives of the road commission, and Stone and Rozelle.

The judge said if he rules in favor of the plaintiffs, the defendant would be guilty of trespassing and would have to put the property in the same shape it was before the road was built. A ruling in favor of the defendants would constitute public acceptance of the road.

Plaintiffs were allowed 30 days to file and counsel for defendants requested until April 1 to answer.

About two years ago plaintiffs started action to quiet title, but were persuaded to withdraw that action. It was the following day that the road commission started building the road on the lakeshore in front of the three homes.

Canvass to Help Health Center

ALLEGAN (Special) — When Michigan voters indicated, by substantial majorities last fall, that they were not in favor of charity lotteries, it meant more work in February for members of the Women's Hospital Service League of Allegan.

The organization, pledged to help support the Allegan Health Center, has long raised the greatest share of its funds through a car donation drive. This year, however, in the light of November voting, the service league agreed to discontinue the raffle and center their efforts on a membership drive.

Thursday, Feb. 24, is the date set for a complete canvass of the area served by the Allegan Health Center for contributions to the league's funds. Homes, businesses and industries will be approached by groups of women offering two types of memberships — active and inactive, the latter for those who wish to contribute only money.

The active group includes nearly 300 area women, working in neighborhood units on special projects as well as work undertaken by the league as a complete organization.

THE POLITICS OF COFFEE

The price of coffee has become, politically speaking, a kind of economic A-bomb that may yet blast governments out of office.
And the American housewives, rejoicing over the drops in price already achieved and those hoped for in the future, may find that it is only a case of robbing Peter to pay Paul.

For coffee has become politics on the international scene. The coffee-producing countries have had to bow to the American housewife. Because enough housewives refused to pay the price, Brazilian warehouses, like our own, are bulging with unsaleable coffee, and reductions in price have resulted.
Also, other coffee-producing countries have taken advantage of the opportunity to grab off some of the business, and as a result the economies of those lands that depended primarily on the coffee industry have run into serious trouble.

And when there is trouble in South America or Central America
there is anxiety in Washington.
Political economists are confidently predicting that we will not allow our friends to the south to be drowned in unsold coffee. Rather than let governments like friendly Brazil fall, such analysts predict, we will support them with American handouts.

If that comes true, it will mean that instead of bolstering up such governments with funds supplied by the American housewives in top-level coffee prices, we will be doing the same thing directly and charge it to the American taxpayer. Since the housewife is one of those tax payers she will be shelling out the money she saved on her coffee purchases, in her family's tax bill.

For the most part she won't know of course that she is doing so. The situation will not be presented in so crude a form; it will be wrapped up in high-sounding phraseology full of terms like "good neighbors" and so on. But the net effect will probably be something like that.

International free enterprise is far from being such today. We the American tax payers have become international milk cows. If we don't produce enough milk one way, we'll be squeezed to do it in another manner. We no longer pay taxes for America only, we are expected to do so for much of the rest of the world.

What do you think the answer will be? The world seems to grow smaller as our transportation becomes better and faster. Right now coffee seems to be a top issue.
There are many other products.
Just look at the oil question.

Sunday School
Lesson

February 27, 1955
The Church Proclaims the Gospel
Romans 10:15; 1 Corinthians 2:1-5

By Henry Geerlings

It is perhaps not natural that we should think of our own people and more of our own nation than of any others. God has set boundaries between us, and sometimes these boundaries are high mountains and broad oceans.

The time was when people rarely crossed either of them. They lived to themselves. They planned for their own comfort and prosperity alone. Each nation would get all it could, and that means they would withhold from others all they could. Patriotism and love of family would serve to foster that spirit. Out of this spirit wars would arise and victory and defeat would succeed each other. If one nation was fortunate enough to have a good thing it was loathe to share it with any other nation. It is easy to see how barriers between them came into being it was almost impossible to remove.

For nineteen hundred years the gospel has been blasting away at these racial and national boundaries, and with some success, but not with what we might expect.
Say what one will about it the rank and file of the people of every nation entertains an awful prejudice against every other nation, and there is little hope that any other power than the gospel will succeed in leveling it to the ground.

It has been said that Jesus did not carry the gospel to the Gentiles.
That is true. He limited His efforts to the Jews in order to train them to become missionaries to carry the gospel to all nations.

If the religion of Jesus is best for us, it will be the best for all other peoples. If Christianity is given half a chance it will produce personal life, community life, and national life of a quality that will not be duplicated through adoption of any other form of religion.

We have not done all we should until we have put forth our worthiest efforts to give to others what we feel is the best for ourselves.
When we learn of the beliefs and practices of people holding other faiths we are shocked, but we seem to be unwilling to interfere to the extent of suggesting that they accept ours instead of their own. What we Christians ought to do is to wish deep down in our hearts that people all around the world learn of Jesus and of the pure, simple, vitalizing faith He has given to us.

It is impossible for us to think of the church getting started without remembering that it was in touch with the power of God. These few humble men who began the work had very little in themselves with which to begin a movement of that character. They confessed their weakness and said many times that they would be unable to give the gospel to the people around them unless God would be with them. In this respect the church of today is not at all different from the church that started to work 1900 years ago.

We fail to picture the real church that took this work from the hands of Christ to carry it on unless we think of them not only as weak men in whose lives sin was yet a great factor. The church at Corinth is a typical church because it represents both the strength and the weakness of the average congregation.

The early church was missionary minded. The apostle Paul had come to Corinth and begun the work there. After a few months he felt that he ought to go to some other city and do the same type of work there. His mind was the mind of a missionary. He was always reaching out to help some one else. We are not asked to make the world Christian. We are only asked to help. The reason the end is not accomplished is because not enough of us help. Some persons work hard at it. Some are different about it. Others are opposed to doing anything. God's plan is for each one to do his part.
The gospel is to be spread. It should go out among our neighbors and among our countrymen. It should be carried throughout the world. What reason have we for making the gospel known? Certainly to carry it to others helps to meet their needs. It ministers to their good. It brings glory to God.
If we who believe do not make it known who shall? It is not so much a question as to where we shall start. The deeper need is that we shall start somewhere. Salvation is intended for all. We may not know how many people there are in the world. We do know that if we send out the gospel it will be effective.

Equally evident is the fact that India's leaders realize that the land they love cannot become truly great until the pitiful poverty of her millions is relieved. Food, decent homes, and in short a higher standard of living must be achieved if India is to take its place as the leading nation of Asia, and what is just as important, if Communist infiltration is not only to be resisted but pushed back.

Hence the emphasis on vast irrigation projects, mighty dams thrown across her rivers acting as sources of electric power to turn the wheels of industry, and from the turbine channelled off to fertilize the country side. That is why India welcomes our Point
Four agricultural technicians.

It was my good fortune in Delhi to have lunch with one of our Point Four leaders, Dr. F. W.
Parker. He outlined in fine detail just what our program is and, believe me, it makes sense. We are in partnership with the best of Indian agricultural leaders, and so have no fear, India's hunger days and years will soon be a memory. Nor must the new land policy be overlooked.

The Government of India is taking heroic steps to undo the evils of land tenure. Actually thousands of once landless peasants now farm plots of land that are their own. This program is being pushed at an ever increasing speed. Though it seems like a contradiction for one hears so much of India's illiteracy, the truth is that it would be hard to find more avid readers anywhere. The book publishing business flourishes everywhere. Huge housing developments, particularly on the outskirts of the larger cities, prove that a lowly hut no longer satisfies the modern Indian.

The first quonset huts in America were erected by Pilgrims in Massachusetts who wove straw reeds over an arched framework of poles.

TAJ MAHAL — The Taj Mahal at Agra, India, the most beautiful tomb in the world is shown above. It was finished in 1632. It required 30,000 workmen under the direction of architects who came from 11 different countries. It was built by the Emperor Shah Jehan as a mausoleum for himself and his favorite wife, Mumtaz Mahal.

Progress Rubs Shoulders With Aged Customs in Pushing to Fore in India

(This is the second in a series of articles on India and Lebanon by Dr. Milton J. Hoffman. — Editor)

India Tomorrow
One cannot travel a mile in India without becoming aware of how much the past still lives on in that wonderful land. Village life goes on as it has done for centuries. Primitive methods of agriculture resist stubbornly modern techniques. Her vast archeological treasures, magnificent ruins of ancient fortifications, thousands of age old shrines and temples, tombs of the great, like the incomparable Taj Mahal, huge memorial towers like the Kutab Minar just outside of Delhi, an unchanging Hindu religion, constant pilgrimages to sacred shrines or to the holy Ganges at Benares—all these speak of the past.

By the same token one cannot travel a mile in India without becoming aware of the new spirit that is abroad in the land. In city streets and rural highways are the thousands of heavy two wheeled carts bullock drawn. Everywhere men and bullocks laboriously draw water from wells to flood the rice paddies. Cows and still more cows roam everywhere unconcerned. But just as prominent are the automobiles, taxicabs and large trailer trucks. From the tumbled down mud walled hut comes radio music, and what is more important, addresses and news broad-casts. So far India is not plagued with television. Overhead are the airplanes which cover the land like a vast network. The major American and European airlines cross India but more important are the Indian Airways which link all the major cities with stops at smaller cities all over the land.

But that is on the surface. Vastly deeper is the driving force beneath it all. No doubt England's rule was on the whole just and beneficent. But a land must be free if it is to express its own spirit and its own genius. This is what the new spirit of Independence is doing.

This is so obvious in the realm of education. New schools are rising everywhere. Old and new teacher training colleges though crowded with students, cannot supply the demand for trained teachers. India knows what a curse illiteracy is, and she wants no more of it.

Equally evident is the fact that India's leaders realize that the land they love cannot become truly great until the pitiful poverty of her millions is relieved. Food, decent homes, and in short a high-er standard of living must be achieved if India is to take its place as the leading nation of Asia, and what is just as im-portant, if Communist infiltration is not only to be resisted but pushed back.

Hence the emphasis on vast ir-rigation projects, mighty dams thrown across her rivers acting as sources of electric power to turn the wheels of industry, and from the turbine channelled off to fertilize the country side. That is why India welcomes our Point Four agricultural technicians.

It was my good fortune in Delhi to have lunch with one of our Point Four leaders, Dr. F. W. Parker. He outlined in fine detail just what our program is and, believe me, it makes sense. We are in partnership with the best of Indian agricultural leaders, and so have no fear, India's hunger days and years will soon be a memory. Nor must the new land policy be overlooked.

The Government of India is tak-ing heroic steps to undo the evils of land tenure. Actually thousands of once landless peas-ants now farm plots of land that are their own. This program is being pushed at an ever increas-ing speed. Though it seems like a contradiction for one hears so much of India's illiteracy, the truth is that it would be hard to find more avid readers anywhere. The book publishing business flourishes everywhere. Huge housing devel-opments, particularly on the out-skirts of the larger cities, prove that a lowly hut no longer satisfies the modern Indian.

Court Will Have Busy Day Friday

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — Friday, Feb. 25, will be a busy day in Ottawa Circuit Court.

In the morning, at least nine persons are scheduled to appear for disposition of their cases, and three more for arraignment.

In the afternoon, two hearings are scheduled in the cases of Russell Van Koeveing, 50, Grand Rapids disbarred attorney, and Norman A. Zimmerman, 47, of 97 West 12th St. Holland, to determine if each is a sexual psycho-pathic criminal.

Van Koeveing was convicted of gross indecency by a Circuit Court jury, Oct. 25, and Zimmer-man has been confined in the coun-ty jail for several months await-ing a psychiatric hearing. Zimmer-man is being held on a charge of incest, which allegedly occurred in Holland city Feb. 1, 1954. He stood mute when arraigned in Cir-cuit Court last Oct. 11.

The last offense against Van Koeveing occurred in Holland city last July 31. On April 4, 1950, Van Koeveing pleaded guilty to a similar offense in Circuit Court and served nearly two years of a six months to five-year prison term at Southern Michigan Prison.

Three psychiatrists will testify in each of the above cases. Drs. David B. Davis and Leonard Rosenzweig, both of Grand Rapids, are to appear in the Zimmerman case, and Drs. Daslerand Rosen-zweig, and Dr. Kenneth C. Nickel, also of Grand Rapids, are to tes-tify in the Van Koeveing case. Dr. Nickel was substituted for Dr. Davis, because of the fact Van Koeveing had consulted Dr. Davis in a private capacity.

Stielstra, Nieuwsma And Sybesma Win Contested Races

Holland Township Has Meager Turnout; Van Appledorn Wins

All incumbents were returned to office in Monday's primary election in Park township, the township in Holland area which attracted the most attention.

Township Clerk Nick Stielstra, who has served since 1939, said it was the busiest primary ever held in the township, and said more than 50 percent of the registered voters went to the polls.

In the contested cases Supervisor Dick Nieuwsma defeated Herman Windemuller, 568 to 476; Clerk Stielstra defeated Peter Hoving, 594 to 430; Treasurer Simon Sybesma defeated Benjamin Bowmaster, 538 to 494. Incumbents Harvey Tinnholt with 764 votes and Albert Brinkman with 715 votes were nominated trustees. Herman Atman received 340 votes.

The matter of establishing a community center on the south side of Lake Macatawa was decisively defeated in both precincts. On the proposition of establishing a community center, the south side (precinct No. 2) voted 258 to 243 against it, while the north side voted 224 to 108, giving a total vote of 482 against and 351 in favor.

On the proposition of transferring accumulated funds of $17,461.49 for building such a center, the south side voted 288 to 244 against the proposition and the north side voted 225 to 108 against the proposition. The total vote was 513 to 352 yes.

In Holland township, there also was some opposition, but Township Clerk Walter Vander Haar who is retiring after about 25 years of service said only 18 1/2 percent of the registered voters visited the polls Monday.

John L. Van Appledorn emerged ahead of the race for township clerk to succeed Vander Haar who did not seek reelection. Van Appledorn polled 376 votes while Ties J. Pruus polled 255 and Leonard Buursma 124.

Supervisor John H. Helder ran up a big lead against his opponent, Russell M. Tague, 645 to 114. Treasurer John Maat also was nominated by a big majority, polling 692 votes to 118 for Bartel Mulder.

Nominated in the race for four trustees were John Russell Bouws, 555; Harold Kragt, 597; Peter Pyle, 543; Oliver Schaap, 563. The latter three are incumbents. Eliminated was R. Rufus Cramer who polled 347 votes.

Raymond Kootstra, unopposed for the board of review, polled 601 votes. Henry Maatman received 40 write-in votes for trustee. All candidates in both townships were listed under the Republican ticket. There were no races among the Democrats and few, if any, candidates.

A total of 165 votes were cast in Fillmore township, an extremely light vote but understandable in view of the fact there was no position. A total of 58 votes were cast in precinct No. 2 and 107 in precinct No. 1. Listed on the Republican ticket were John Tien, supervisor; William Bouman, clerk; Henry Boeve, treasurer; George Kleinheksel, Chester L. Boumann and Henry W. Timmer, trustees; Henry W. Mulder, highway commissioner; Jacob Boven, board of review.

Olive township residents voted Monday in favor of spending $6,000 for improved fire fighting equipment by a vote of 107 to 63. The system is operated currently with Blenden township. On another proposition to sever relations with Blenden township, the issue lost 133 to 40. All candidates for township officers were unopposed.

There was no primary election in Holland city since the new charter provides that in case candidates do not exceed double the number of positions, no primary is held and all names are put on the spring ballot in April.

The stove had been placed against the partition and the wood work was set afire. The annual meeting of the State Teachers' Association will be held at Saginaw Dec. 29 to 31.

The fine new summer home of Hugo Thum on Spring Lake was destroyed by fire early Sunday morning. The building although nearly completed, was still in the hands of Contractor Davenport of Grand Rapids. ## Cage Career Ends For Local Youths

A desire by a group of Holland youths aged 12 to 15 to play basketball led them into the hands of the police early this week.

The boys had picked Longfellow School's gym for their practice court, but at times when the school was closed—Saturday and Sunday. One of the youngsters told police they wanted to play on week nights too but rightly figured that the lights would arouse neighbors.

So one of the boys would leave a door or window open during the week and would sneak back into the gym only during daylight hours.

It was one of those occasions that a neighbor spotted one of the boys climbing through a window and called officers.

Officers were in sympathy with the boys but gave them a stern warning that breaking into a building even if it is a school is wrong. The boys agreed and promised to look elsewhere for a basketball court.

College Dramatic Group To Stage 'Pygmalion'

Rehearsals are currently being held by Palette and Masque, Hope College's dramatic group, for the first of the second semester productions, Bernard Shaw's five act romance, "Pygmalion," to be presented in the college Little Theatre March 11, 12, 14 and 15.

The story is familiar, based upon the Pygmalion - Galatea experiment. An egotistical teacher of phonetics in one of his frequent searches for new sounds, stumbles upon the cockney Eliza Doolittle. In the ensuing conversation, arrangements are made for Eliza to be taught to "speak like a lady in a flower shop." The decision by Higgins to undertake this project leading to the keen delineation of the character change which results, with the problem presented by a certain affinity each feels for the other, constitutes a provocative play for an evening of light theater.

Characters for the production include Janet Baird, Ridgefield Park, N.J., as Eliza Doolittle, Pete de Moya, North Swaney, N. H., as Professor Higgins; Jerry Kruffy, Chicago as Colonel Pickering; Joyce Vanderburgh, Sayville, L.I., N.Y., as Mrs. Pearce the housekeeper, and Don Baird, Holland as Alfred Doolittle, Eliza's father. Jerry Dekker, Waupun, Wis. as Freddy Eynford Hill, a young romantic; Donna Raymer, Belding, as Mrs. Eynford Hill, a would be aristocrat; Connie Miller, Zeeland, as Miss Eynford Hill, who is like her mother, Darlene DeTunc, West Bend, Wis., as Mrs. Higgins, mother of the professor, and Judy Ryppa Holland, as the parlor maid.

The play is under the direction of Miss Elva Van Haisma.

Zeeland

(From Saturday's Sentinel)

The faculty of Zeeland High School will hold a party next Tuesday evening Feb. 22 at 7:30 in the elementary school. This will be in the form of a travelogue and an imaginary trip will be made to Europe and the Holy Land. Slides will be shown by Misses Cecelia Ver Hage and Cathryn Janssen, both local teachers, who visited several European countries and spent some time in the Holy Land the past summer. They made the entire trip by plane. The planning committee consists of Mr. Hoedema, Mr. Louis, Mr. Flaherty, Miss Hagar, Miss Whitnell and Miss Veneklasen.

There will be a meeting of the Mothers' Club of Zeeland Christian School at Central Avenue school Wednesday at 7:45 p.m. The speaker will be Mrs. Alex Toxapue, an ex-Catholic and her subject will be "Why I became a Protestant." The male quartet of North Street Christian Reformed Church and First Christian Reformed Church will furnish music. Husbands will be invited guests and the meeting is open to all interested persons.

On Friday afternoon children of Second Reformed Church three years of age and under together with their mothers met at the church for a nursery roll party. The Rev. W. J. Hilbert, of Hope College and former pastor of this church spoke briefly and Mrs. Dorothy Van Dort, of Zeeland, favored with vocal solos.

The regular monthly baby clinic sponsored by Zeeland Library Club will be held at the city hall on Wednesday, Feb. 23, from 1:30 to 4 p.m. A local physician will be in charge.

Plans have been formulated to organize a Hospital Auxiliary to serve in various ways in aiding the new Zeeland hospital now under construction. A meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Henry Lokers, Lincoln Avenue to discuss plans. Mrs. Lokers is a member of the board of directors of the Dr. Thomas G. Huizinga Memorial Hospital and she was hostess to five other local women and the speaker, Mrs. A. W. Tahaney of Holland who is president of the Holland Hospital Auxiliary.

Mrs. Tahaney pointed out many ways of service for the women of the community including the handling of the desk in the waiting room during busy periods, mending hospital linens, securing needed small items in equipment and many others.

Temporary officers were named as follows: Mrs. Lokers, chairman; Mrs. G. J. Kemme of Drenthe, vice chairman; Mrs. J. H. Yff, corresponding; Mrs. K. J. Folkertsma, recording secretary; Mrs. C. Faber, treasurer; Mrs. H. C. Dickman, publicity director.

There will be a meeting at Zeeland city hall on March 21 at 8 p.m. for key women in the several communities in Zeeland area which the hospital serves. The new hospital is expected to draw patients from this area. These women are being contacted and much can be done to create interest in this matter. At this meeting, it is expected the Auxiliary will be formally organized.

Gobles Chalks Up Ninth Loop Win at Fennville

FENNVILLE (Special) — Gobles rang up its ninth Al-Van league win here Friday night against Fennville, 47-40. The winners, now sporting a 9-2 conference mark, led the entire game. The Blackhaws have a 4-7 league record.

Gobles led 8-7 at the end of the first quarter and 24-20 at halftime. Fennville crept within a point at the third period's close, 36-35. Levesee paced the winners with 14 points while Art Coxford had 18 for Fennville.

The Fennville reserves stopped the Gobles seconds, 35-30. Doug Allen led the Blackhaws with 13 while Wesler had 11 for Gobles.

Holland Controls Boards to Grab Second Victory

Holland High's eagles didn't let the No. 13 jinx prolong a dismal 1-11 record and a seven game losing streak but rather used the 13th game as a springboard to snap it and scored a smashing 70-40 victory over Grand Haven Friday night at the Civic Center.

The Dutch took the lead from the opening basket and after leading 10-7 at the end of the first period, almost doubled the score in the second and third quarters in coasting to victory. Holland held a 29-15 halftime margin and 51-27 third quarter advantage.

It was a two-man scoring show for Holland in the first three quarters as Bill Japiga and Tom Overbeek, close friends on and off the basketball court, combined to pour 37 of Holland's 51 points through the basket. Both juniors with a lot of potential, the lads have had trouble connecting.

Japiga, high scorer earlier in the season, has had trouble hitting field goals in recent games. Overbeek, top scorer on the reserve team last season and predicted to "really roll" this season had been a disappointment until Friday night. Japiga scored nine baskets and Overbeek tallied seven two pointers.

Japiga and Overbeek accounted for all but two points of Holland's total in the first half. Ron Van Dyke, playing a stellar game on the boards, sank two foul shots.

Holland gathered 30 defensive rebounds and 15 offensive loose balls in controlling the boards. This was the first game this season the Dutch have dominated the boards. The winners were able to grab the rebounds because of the Bucs decision to shoot out court shots. Grand Haven seldom drove in for a layup.

Van Dyke and Carl (Buck) Simson, who replaced Chuck Gouloze at center, each grabbed eight defensive rebounds. Gouloze started the contest but a combination of three fouls in the first quarter and a touch of the flu prevented the senior center from returning to the game.

Eight straight Holland points at the start of the second quarter proved the turning point. Don Boyink, Grand Haven forward, sank a two - pointer at 4:15 of the period for the Bucs first tally of the quarter. Holland held the upper hand the rest of the game.

The Holland reserves, led by Phil Boersma with nine points, played the fourth period and pushed the Dutch lead to the final 30 points. Coach Fred Weiss emphasized the "ability to cut, screen and pass properly as important factors in the win along with the good shooting and rebounding." Holland made only two bad passes in the contest.

Holland collected 25 out of 61 shots in the game for 41 percent while the Bucs had 15 out of 50 for 30 percent. Broken down into quarters Holland made five out of 14 and seven out of 19 in the first half and seven out of 12 and six out of 16 in the second half. Grand Haven had totals of three out of 13 and three out of seven in the opening half and three out of 15 and six out of 15 in the final two periods.

The Dutch also had a strong night at the foul line hitting 20 out of 27 free throws. The Bucs collected 10 out of 29.

Grand Haven, winner of the first contest this season, 50-42, now has a 3-11 record. A crowd of 1,000 watched the game. Holland will play Muskegon Catholic at the Civic Center next Friday night.

VISION TEST AT JUNIOR HIGH — Junior High School students in seventh and ninth grades had their vision tested last week by Mrs. Catherine Van Andel, (second from right), vision technician from the Ottawa County Health Department. Massachusetts Vision Tests are being given to 577 in Junior High at the rate of about 80 a day. Mrs. Van Andel has completed testing children in the odd grades in elementary schools and Catholic school. The screen at the far left is used for the testing and is usually placed about 20 feet from the subject. Four minutes is spent testing each individual. If a correction is needed, the child is referred to an eye specialist. Records and follow-ups are kept on each case. The test is given every year to the odd numbered grades, thus providing students with a free eye test every two years. Students help Mrs. Van Andel in testing and keeping records. Pictured above are Esther De Weerd, ninth grade; Miss Bernice Bishop, Junior High principal; David Van Eerden, seventh grade; Leon Hardy, ninth grade; Mrs. Van Andel, and Terry Alverson, ninth grade. ## Newspapers Will Merge in Allegan; Leo Hoffman Sells ALLEGAN (Special) — Allegan will join the growing list of "one newspaper towns" next week when subscribers to The Allegan News and The Allegan Gazette will receive the same paper "The Allegan News-Gazette."

Sale of the 73-year-old Allegan Gazette to John J. Axe, publisher of The News, was announced today by Leo W. Hoffman, Gazette publisher for the past nine years. The two papers will become one with next Thursday's edition, according to the new publisher. Equipment of the two plants will be combined in the present Gazette building and moving will get underway Friday as soon as the current issues are completed.

Hoffman, who will devote full time to his law business, plans to move his offices to the main floor in space now occupied by The News in the Hoffman building. Joe Armstrong, who has served as managing editor of the Gazette for the past nine years, will not be connected with the merged paper, but will devote full time to freelance newspaper and magazine writing and photographic work. He will continue as the Sentinel's Allegan correspondent.

In its 73-year history, The Gazette has had only three editors; Edwy C. Reid, the founder who was active until 1931. Douglas Aleck, who served from 1931 until 1946 when he was succeeded by Armstrong. The paper has always had a state-wide reputation for strong editorial policies. In 1939 it was awarded Michigan Press Association's general excellence plaque for weeklies with more than 1500 circulation.

The News, under Axe's management has also been a prize-winning paper. In 1937 it received MPA's "best front page" award. In 1938 it was honored for its farm page and in 1939 for community service.

A native of Terre Haute, Ind., Axe graduated from high school in Spencer, Iowa, where his father was manager of the J. C. Penney Co. store. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Axe, now make their home in Allegan, and the senior Axe takes some part in the management of The News.

As a journalist student at Kake University, Axe studied under Dr. George Gallup and took part in the first public opinion poll conducted by Gallup. This activity later grew into a nationwide institute of public opinion.

In 1933, in the depths of the depression, Axe became Michigan's youngest newspaper editor when he purchased The Allegan News from Fred Gallagher who had operated the paper for 12 years. The paper was founded in 1902 by John J. Firestone, well known Michigan newspaperman, who sold to Gallagher.

In his 22 years in Allegan, Axe has been active in virtually every phase of community service. He is a member of the library board, has served on the selective service board, the county Red Cross chapter, as secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, is active in Rotary and has long held the secretaryship of the county Republican committee.

Axe said he contemplated no changes in the policies of either paper when the two are merged. He plans to continue the weekly Shopper's Guide now being published by The Gazette and most of the Gazette's mechanical staff will be absorbed by the new firm.

About 3,000 Holland area residents rode out to Holland State Park Sunday to take a look at the icebergs on Lake Michigan. This was the busiest weekend thus far this year, according to Park Manager Clare Broad.

Last Sunday about 1,600 carloads of visitors rode through the area to look at Lake Michigan and the heavy snow that fell just prior to the weekend. In 1954, Holland was the most popular park in the state and counted more than 1,261,000 visitors during the year.

Grass Institute Set for March 3

How can you boost that low point in milk production?

Dairy Herd Improvement Association records show that daily milk production falls from a high of 30 pounds per cow in June to 23 pounds in November.

Most of this decrease is due to a shortage of pasture and lower quality feed, says George Parsons, extension dairyman at Michigan State College. He will speak on the need for better roughage at the Winter Grass Institute program at Allendale Town Hall on March 3, beginning at 11 a.m. according to R. Machiele, county agricultural agent.

The committee in charge of arrangements made up of Sam Rymer of Spring Lake, Tony Miedema of Hudsonville and Russell Hercherberger of Coopersville reports an all-day program covering not only dairying but also soil management for higher yields, managing forage crops for high quality, harvesting and storing forage for high quality and feeding forage crops for higher profits in dairy and beef.

Arrangement to have a machinery exhibit by local machinery dealers showing some new forage equipment have been made by the committee.

Vast Changes Since Independence Are Overhauling India's Economy

(This is the first in a series of five articles prepared by Dr. Milton J. Hoffman, Rhodes scholar and professor of church history at New Brunswick Theological Seminary. ### India

India is an old country whose recorded history goes back 3,000 years. In the sixth century B.C. there was a vast invasion of Aryan peoples from the north. Aryans were white, and so India has always differed from the black continent of Africa. Two thousand years later there was another invasion, this time by Mohammedan Moguls as a result Mohammedanism soon became the second largest religious group. In the sixteenth century European nations began trading conquests in India, causing no end of bad feeling, strife and turmoil. By 1750 England had established herself as the ruling country, and remained so until 1947 when India achieved her independence.

India is a large country, about the size of the U.S. east of the Mississippi. It juts like an arrowhead into the Indian ocean. From the southern tip to the northern frontier is about 1,900 miles. The widest part from east to west measures about 900 miles. The southern tip is in the same latitude as Panama, while the northern frontier is as far north as Washington, D.C. This means that India has great variety of climate.

India is an agricultural country. Obviously there are large cities like Bombay with nearly three million inhabitants, Calcutta with more than two and one half million, Madras with one and one half million, Hyderabad, with one million, but 85 percent of the people live in small villages of which there are some 700,000. More than 75 percent of the people are engaged in farming, but they do not live on the farm, but in villages. That is perhaps the most distinctive feature of Indian life. Rice is the bread of life. In 1953 India produced 34 million tons of rice. Wherever there is water there are rice paddies, miles of them. India depends on man power and bullock power. Planting, weeding and harvesting, as also threshing and storing of grain is done by hand. Besides rice India produces wheat, oats, barley, soy beans, cotton, pulses, grasses, vegetables and fruit. Drought is the chief enemy.

Rainfall is decidedly seasonal. The heaviest rainfall is in October and November, called monsoons, when torrents of rain come down. There are lesser monsoons in February and March. The rest of the year has little or no rain. All over the country are reservoirs called tanks, some an acre in size, others far larger depending on the lay of the land. These provide water for irrigation. Then, there are thousands of wells, some very deep. Water is drawn by an old oaken chain bucket arrangement, or by a leather tub hauled up by a team of bullocks. The energy consumed in drawing water is simply tremendous. Now vast projects on our TVA model are under construction, some already completed.

Industry, however, is by no means a negligible factor in India's life. In 1953 she processed 1,288,000 tons of cotton seed. Her textile mills produced 700,000 tons of cotton yarn, and 5,000,000 yards of cotton cloth. Jute production stood at 4,700,000 bales of 4 pounds each. In fact 9 percent of the world's jute is grown and processed in India. It is her chief item of export. The material for our burlap sacks comes from there. There were 4,000,000 tons of iron and steel, with larger factories in process of construction. Also important, is the production of silk and woolen goods, vegetable oils, paper, matches, salt, cement, shoes, heavy chemicals, and now her own automobiles. Railroads are government owned, and have 34,000 miles of track. There are about 400,000 miles of highways.

What impressed me most was to see and feel what independence is doing for and in India. I have before me a supplement which was published on Dec. 29 last by one of the leading newspapers. The 12 pages make fascinating reading. Here are a few headings to rather lengthy articles: "Economic Lessons of The First Five Year Plan," "Background of the Second Five Year Plan," "Jute Industry on the High Road to Progress," "India Makes Her Own Carbide," "Bicycle Industry's Progress," "Heavy Chemical Industry's Hurdles," "India's Sugar Demand Crosses Industry's Rated Capacity," "India Reaches Self-Sufficiency in Cement," "Vast Irrigation Projects." These articles are accompanied by pictures of huge irrigation dams, machinery, factories, etc. The second article will deal with this new India.

Holland Reserves Stop Little Bucs

An uphill fourth quarter battle was rewarded Friday night as the Holland High reserves overtook the Grand Haven seconds and scored 17-12 victory. The Dutch had trailed for three quarters.

The Little Bucs took a 15-12 first quarter lead and maintained the same margin in the second quarter working the score to 26-23. The third period score favored Grand Haven, 33-31.

Holland sank 38 percent of its shots in making 18 out of 48 attempts while Grand Haven countered with 14 out of 46 for 25 percent.

Coach Bob Jonnell reported Holland "hadn't had a good practice all week" because of illness and injury. He was pleased with the team's performance.

Dave Hilbink led Holland with 12 points while Les Overway followed with nine. Terry Otting gathered eight, Dick Vander Yacht, 6; and Rog Plagenhoef, 5. Other scorers included Jack Van Tubbergen, 3 and Tom Aye and Tom Stoel, 2 each.

Larry Lietzke paced Grand Haven with 11. Felix Leicenger followed with 10 and John Boyd had nine.

Harrington PT Club To Stage Showboat

Harrington School pupils were special guests at a preview performance of "Here Comes the Showboat," staged by the Parent Teachers Club Friday night. The capacity crowd witnessed music, drama and nonsense provided by the blackface cast. The preview served as a dress rehearsal for Tuesday night.

Edwin Raphael as interactor was aided in the entertainment by endmen Fred Wise, and Ben Vandenberg as "Leviticus" and "Moses." John Ter Vree directed the supporting chorus in the old Showboat favorites.

Mrs. Ed Huevelhorst and Mrs. Judson Davis, the co-authors, filled the hour - long performance with acts and musical highlights including "The Lighthouse Keeper's Daughter," and a young dance chorus led by Lois Dirkse and Patty Jesiek.

Certain time for the performance Five Latin American countries celebrate their independence on the same day, Sept. 15. They are Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras and Nicaragua.

Adams Sinks Goal To Give Dutch 91-89 MIAA Wm

GRAND RAPIDS (Special) — Johnny Adams, Hope College junior forward, got the sweet taste of victory here, Saturday afternoon on the Civic Auditorium court after having to swallow the bitter pill of defeat one year ago.

The Hope cager's winning layup in the final three seconds erased an unpleasant memory and gave Hope College a 91-89 win over Calvin College before 4,200 screaming fans. A year ago, Adams missed a similar shot in the waning seconds that allowed Calvin to score a one-point 66-65 victory.

The Hope victory, gained under some of the most hectic situations seen this season, split the traditional rivalry once again. Calvin won the Civic Center contest here a month ago, 93-82. For the past four years the two clubs have split annually.

Hope's upset win threw Calvin's chances for the MIAA crown into a cocked hat. The Knights are tied with Adrian for first place both listing 10-2 league records. Hope is tied with Albion for third with a 7-5 mark.

Although outscored from the floor, 35 field goals to 29, the Dutch again benefited from the bonus rule. Hope cashed in on 33 out of 52 foul tosses. Calvin collected 19 out of 29 free throws.

The regulation game ended at 78-41. In the five-minute overtime Willie Rink, again engineering the Hope attack with a master's finesse, sank a quick basket to put Hope two points ahead. A minute later, Ed Start, Calvin newcomer, tied the score.

Rink and Bob Hendrickson sank four consecutive foul tosses to run the score to 84-80 with 2:39 remaining. Calvin's Don Vroon and Start each hit baskets after Ren Knighuizen's foul toss and the Knights took an 85-84 lead with 1:50 left. A Rink foul toss soon bettered by two throws by Tony Diekema, former Holland Christian player, and Calvin held an 87-86 lead with 45 seconds to go.

Steady Harold Molenaar countered with a basket and Rink sank another foul shot in the next 25 seconds to put Hope two points up, 89-87, with 20 seconds to go. Start sank the tying basket with nine seconds left. After Start missed a foul shot, Rink took the rebound and set the ball in motion with a pass to Molenaar who threw a cross court pass to Adams who in turn made the winning basket.

The overtime action had been caused by a determined Calvin drive that overcame a one-time 20-point Hope second half lead. The Dutch were leading 53-33 with 16 minutes left and at the 10 minute mark held a 61-46 advantage.

Led by All-MIAA Vroon and Jim Kok on outcourt shooting and Paul Newhof, 6'7" center under the baskets, the Knights whittled the score. The MIAA co-leaders, using a full-court press cut the margin to eight points at the 6:35 mark. At the three minute mark the gap had been narrowed to 71-69. Hendrickson added a basket and Rink and Molenaar collected three foul shots to give winners a 76-71 advantage with 1:18 left. The Knights added the points to tie in the next 43 seconds.

Two foul shots by Whitey Riemersma and Molenaar gave Hope a 76-76 lead with 14 seconds remaining but Vroon, invaluable Knight floorleader, tied the count with a two-hand set shot at the three second spot sending the game into an overtime.

Hope sank three out of seven shots in the overtime and made seven free throws. Calvin made four out of 11 field goals attempts in the overtime and three foul tosses.

Calvin scored the first three points of the game. Leading 7-2, the Knights fell victim to the Hope zone defense, used throughout the game, and Hope, working the fast break pushed ahead 11-7 with 14 minutes left in the first half. The score was tied 13-13 and 15-15 in the next three minutes.

Hope pulled away just before the midway point of the first half. The Dutch boosted the lead from five points, at the midway point, to a 45-29 halftime advantage. The Dutch hit 16 out of 39 shots in the first half and connected on 12.

The winners sank only nine baskets out of 24 tries in the second half while the Knights, getting 52 tries, made 19 shots. Hope's overall percentage was 42 while the Knights made 33 percent.

Molenaar led Hope with 25 points followed by Rink with 25. Riemersma was third with 17. Special plaudits must be given Hendrickson and Jim Hilbert for their work on the boards. Hilbert, a freshman, found himself and was a valuable asset. Two other substitutes, Mert Vander Lind and Don Schreuer, came through during short stays.

Newhof, playing a "terrific" game under both boards, led Calvin with 26 points. Kok, former Holland Christian athlete, out all week with the flu followed with 22. Vroon was third with 17.

It Never Pays To Run Away

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — George T. Shields, 17, of Muskegon, found out it doesn't pay to leave without paying a service charge as a result of an accident at 1:30 a.m. Saturday.

A car owned by Shields and driven by a friend home on furlough, went off the road in Talmadge Township.

Shields called for the service of Cecil Lumsden, garageman at Marne, who pulled the car back on the road with his wrecker. Lumsden told Shields the fee was $4, and drove to the corner to turn around. Before he could get back to the scene, Shields had taken off but not before Lumsden got his license number.

Later, State Police took Shields into custody and brought him before Justice F.J. Workman of Spring Lake. He was ticketed for failure to stop and pay for services rendered. He was also ordered to pay $10 for services, $20 fine and $4.30 costs.
