Hope Receives Jolt From Albion

Dutchmen Handed 2nd MIAA Defeat

ALBION — Hope College's basketball team received an awful shock here Wednesday night as a fired up Albion team upset the Flying Dutchmen, 66-65 in Kresge gymnasium.

With the defeat Hope gave arch-rival Calvin College a share of the MIAA title as the Knights breezed past Alma, 111-61 Wednesday night.

Hope plays at Calvin Saturday and must win to grab a share of the MIAA title. Calvin is 10-1 and Hope is 9-2 in MIAA play. The Britons are 5-6.

Coach Russ De Vette said his team wasn't "sharp mentally" and "we didn't adjust to offensive situations, made lots of errors and we didn't work together." He illustrated this by Albion's work on the offensive boards, especially in the first half.

"They got eight baskets in the first half on the offensive boards, more than any other team this season," De Vette said. Albion was getting two and three shots and were controlling the play.

The Britons jumped to an 8-0 lead and led 38-28 late in the first half before Hope cut the margin to 41-37 at half.

Gary Rypma's basket with 13 minutes to play gave Hope its first lead, 49-47. The Flying Dutchmen had two and four-point leads for the next five minutes until Larry Patrick's jumper tied the score at 55-55.

Hope's last lead was 59-57 on Bill Potter's rebound shot with 5:15 to play. Larry Downs tied the score at 63-63. A Brady dunk shot at 1:40 put Hope within two, 63-61 after Downs had given the Britons a four-point edge.

Brady grabbed a rebound on Patrick's missed shot and drove in to score with 1:09 to tie the score, 63-63. Neal Wannier, 6'9", 250-pound sophomore, made his only basket of the game, a layup, with 27 seconds to play to put Albion ahead, 65-63.

Hope missed a shot attempt and was called for a floor violation and then a foul. Ed Stephens made the free throw to put Albion three up with seven seconds to play. Van Wieren's final basket came at the buzzer.

De Vette complimented Albion's moving of the ball slowly on the outside. The Britons didn't lose their poise and continued to shoot from outside and in the corners. Downs and Patrick did the shooting in the second half while Stephens, who hit 13 in the first 20 minutes, was the first half spark.

"We weren't taking Albion seriously enough," De Vette concluded. It was Albion's eighth win in 20 games and Hope is 13-8.

The Britons made 31 baskets in 61 tries for 51 per cent on halves of 19 of 35 and 12 of 26. Hope shot 50 per cent with halves of 16 of 30 and 12 of 26. Hope made nine of 15 free throws and Albion, four of seven.

Capt. Downs led the Britons with 21 points while Stephens, 5'7" freshman, had 18 and Patrick had 12. Brady led Hope with 17 while Van Wieren had 16 and Anker, 12.

De Vette had six players score including five by Cal Beltman, Holland freshman. Tom Pelon played considerably but didn't score.

The Hope-Calvin game will be at the Knollcrest fieldhouse in Grand Rapids at 4 p.m.

In the county reorganization report, both Harrington and Federal districts are assigned to Holland district, whereas the greater share of tuition students from both districts attend West Ottawa schools.

MOVING SCENE — Sara Wright (at right) as Mrs. Frank comforts Nanalee Raphael as Anne in a scene from "The Diary of Anne Frank" as Rog Stam who portrays Mr. Frank stands by. The touching production by West Ottawa High School opened Thursday evening before a capacity audience and was repeated Friday and Saturday at 8:15 p.m. in the West Ottawa High School cafeteria. (Holland Photography photo)

Opening of 'Anne Frank' Charms Capacity Crowd

Frances Goodrich and Albert Hackett collaborated in transforming "The Diary of Anne Frank" into a warmly woven play, but it was the performing West Ottawa students who expertly impressed the opening night, fullhouse Thursday evening making the audience unaware the performance was being given by high school students.

Over 350 persons were touched by the excellent performance by the students under the direction of B. J. Berghorst. The cast intently held their audience from the opening sound cue of a passing ship to Anne's final speech, "People are really good at heart."

The entire play takes place in a warehouse attic in Amsterdam from 1942 until 1944, when the occupants are taken to a concentration camp along with other Jewish people.

Nanalee Raphael portraying the title lead 'captivates the audience with her genuine interpretation of the 13-year-old adolescent who becomes a 15-year-old woman.

As written, her actions and their effect as interpreted by the entire cast reveal warmth, wit, intelligence, tension and degradation of human spirit. The entire cast worked together acting and reacting for a smooth, winning performance.

The story opens as the Van Daans, Brian Hansen and Shelly Kolean, guests in the attic, argue while waiting for their hosts the Franks. Their bickering continues throughout the 2-year period and is softened only by moments of jubilation in religious celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Frank as portrayed by Rog Stam and Sara Wright are faced not only with the close living quarters but also the coping with their daughter Anne who is constantly being compared to their oldest daughter Margot as played by Colleen King.

The time in the attic home gives Anne an opportunity to learn more about herself and life as she comes to know the Van Daans' son, Peter, as done by Jack Kleinheksel. Added difficulties occur with the arrival of Mr. Dussell, the dentist, acted by Paul Hemmes, who joins the group later.

Completing the cast are Ken Peffers and Marita Haje who portray the warehouse owner, Mr. Kraler and his secretary, Miep.

Nancy Norling, faculty production staff member as technical director, properties mistress and stage carpenter, designed the intricate, split-level set furnished with simple versatile furniture adequate for a group of eight people while demonstrating the hardships suffered by the Jewish in Europe during World War II.

Perfectly-timed sound and light cues along with carefully-planned and carried out blocking adds to the very fine performance.

No curtain was used during scene changes and the audience was informed of passing action by the tape-recorded diary messages during the scene and costume changes done under dim lights.

Thursday's audience included students from Spring Lake, Hamilton, Fennville, Saugatuck and Hudsonville Unity schools. Special sections have been reserved for school groups attending the repeat performances to night and Saturday.

In addition to Berghorst, director, and Miss Norling, the faculty production staff includes Norma Longstreet, costume mistress, and Sharon Meeuwse, make-up and publicity advisor. Carol Beekman was stage manager assisted by Bonnie Raphael and Joen Hudzik. Crew chairmen include Dale Jager, lights and sound; Carol Brand and Ron Strabbing, set construction; Dorothy Middlecamp, costumes; Mary Japenga, make-up; Linda Machiele and Vicki Zych, properties.

On the stage crew were Dave Bjorum, Lynda de Pree, Larry Diekema, Kris Hoving, Barb Huizenga, Gail Jager, Kathy Johnson, Sue Kievit, Jim Oonk, Joyce Prince, Frank Sawitzky, Arlon Slag and Carla Slag.

Mao Tse-Tung Book Review Giverrat AAUW

Mrs. Fred Winter, a member of the Holland Branch of the American Association of University Women, presented an interesting book review on "Mao Tse-Tung Emperor of the Blue Ants" by George Palocz Horvath, to the AAUW Thursday evening in Durfee Hall.

This political biography traces the lifetime of Mao Tse-Tung from his birth in 1893 to the present. Mrs. Winter interpreted Mao's early life as one of rebellion. He grew up hating his father and the close family life of the Chinese. Born into a peasant family he was determined to improve the station of the Chinese and determined to help his people repel foreign invasions.

Mao was one of the co-founders of the Chinese Communist Party, the speaker said. He organized the Red Army in China starting with 100 men in the mountains of China where so many fled. Mao was never the willing tool of Stalin and his associates, contrary to common western belief. He has maintained power only through a regime of terror.

Mrs. Winter went on to say that Mao is a self-styled remoulder of mankind who has used such methods as collective brain-washing, remoulding, thought exploration, and "speak bitter" campaigns to bring the Chinese people under his control. She said that nearly one-fourth of the world's population is under the absolute control of this man, who the people of Red China regard as a great prophet, and his writings are studied by all the people of China.

Mrs. Kenneth Leggett conducted a brief business meeting. The social committee serving were Mrs. W. Scott, Mrs. George Daily, Mrs. John Vander Meulen and Mrs. Zoe Murray.

YOUTHFUL LOVERS — Girls were more shy in 1910 than they are today, and Jill Beelen appears demure as Larry Schipper sings a song in "Take Me Along," the Holland community theatre play that opened Tuesday in Holland High School and continues all week. Schipper as juvenile lead captured the adolescent youth in Eugene O'Neill's "Ah Wilderness" on which the musical is based. (Holland Photography photo)

'Take Me Along' Has Good Start in Its Five-Day Run

"Take Me Along," the musical based on Eugene O'Neill's "Ah Wilderness," proved to be an enjoyable and entertaining treat for a first nighter audience Tuesday night in Holland High School, presented by Holland Community Theatre.

The play got off to a slow start but soon picked up, and by the time Mike Lucas and Dale Conklin did their celebrated soft shoe number on the theme "Take Me Along" the audience was theirs.

Larry Schipper, playing his first stage role with HCT after working lights in previous productions, had an excellent grasp of his role as juvenile lead, the adolescent Richard Miller, "facing life" in a Connecticut village in 1910. Schipper even looked like Robert Morse who created the role on Broadway a few years ago, and seemingly enjoyed his role on stage to the hilt. He is a student at Grand Rapids Junior College.

Although Mike Lucas was playing his first major stage role, his years of singing and emceeing for the Chord Counts, popular quartet, stood him in good stead, and he took to his role as the boy's father with ease.

Dale Conklin had the plummy role of Uncle Sid, the high living relative always proposing to Charlene Armstrong, the long suffering and somewhat aging girl friend. Conklin, always distinctive in his HCT roles, had a touch of Jackie Gleason's talent in his characterization. Gleason had created the role on Broadway, and his novel "Little Green Snake" song was one of the best in the musical.

Although it was the men who seemed to get most applause on stage much of the work behind the scene was handled by women. Barbara Greenwood, long associated with Community Theatre in playing leading roles and as director, served as production director for "Take Me Along," and her daughter, Marilyn Perry, served as choreographer, her usual assignment. Ruth Burkholder of Saugatuck, a music teacher at West Ottawa, was musical director.

Maroons End Regular Season Play

Holland Christian's basketball squad (7-11) ended the regular season play on a sour note Tuesday night in the Civic Center bowing to sharpshooting Grand Rapids Central Christian, 72-63 before 2,200 fans.

Actually the game was not as close as the final score would indicate with the Eagles building up a 20 point bulge at half-time and then finishing most of the second half with substitutes. The Grand Rapids starters scored only seven points in the last two periods as 12 players scored for Coach Ken Zandee's Eagles.

Coach Art Tuls also used substitutes a good share of the game but out of desperation as he tried to find a combination of players who could produce. The Maroons did give the Eagles some anxious moments in the last quarter as they whittled a 27 point deficit to 13 at the 2:19 mark and just nine points at the final buzzer.

The winners presented a fast aggressive attack capable of taking advantage of every mis-play — and there were many on the part of the losers particularly in the first two periods. Added to the Maroon woes was a poor shooting percentage of 31 per cent on 24-77 tries. The shooting was particularly bad in the last quarter as Holland threw up 37 attempts and hit on eight for 22 per cent.

Grand Rapids which has been a good shooting club all season had another fine night at the hoop, connecting 29 out of 62 tries for 47 per cent. The winners were paced by Bruce De Boer, a forward with great moves, with 15 points and Guard Mike Phelps with 11 markers. Neither one played more than half of the game. Starting forward Tom Dykstra left the game in the second quarter with a nose injury.

Big 6'4" Bob Velthouse handled most of the board chores for the winners along with De Boer. Steve Bushouse and Don Hulst were the big rebounders for the Maroons. Forward John Lappinga picked up three quick fouls for Christian and sat out most of the first half and a good share of the second.

With soph guard Lloyd Dozeman leading the way in the opening period, Christian managed to stay within two to four points during much of the time.

The Maroons took a 4-1 bulge, but the Eagles soon shot ahead and never trailed again. The Holland quint trained 10-6 at the 3:03 mark before Dykstra spurted for seven quick points to give Grand Rapids an 18-12 first period lead.

The Maroons lost ground slowly in the opening minutes of the second period but still trailed by only 10 at the midway mark. Then came the clincher for the Eagles as some inept play by the Maroons permitted the opportunist invader outfit to out-score them 14-2 in the last three minutes. The winners scored eight straight final points to take a 40-20 halftime bulge.

Tuls started a substitute five in the second half which showed more spark but still couldn't cut into the big Eagle margin. Jack Berghoeft hit three from outcourt for Christian but they still trailed 57-30 with two minutes left. By now the Eagle reserves were also in the game and managed to hold a 60-37 count going into the last stanza.

Holland showed some scrap and determination in the final eight minutes and made good on several second and third efforts. Les Hulst started to hit from out and helped to cut the Eagle bulge to 64-50 with 5:20 left. Just when Zandee was toying with the idea of reinserting his regulars, the Eagles regained some momentum to withstand the final Maroon flurry. Holland outscored the winners 26-12 in the last quarter.

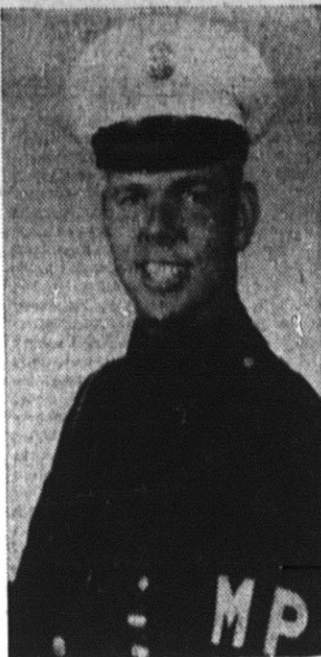

At the free throw lane, the Maroons hit on 15-26 and Grand Rapids, 14-18. Hulst led the Maroons with 14 points.

Maroons Hand Godwin 81-62 Loss

Holland Christian's basketball squad controlled the tempo of play in the Civic Center Friday night and defeated the Godwin Wolverines, 81-62 before 2,100 fans to take its seventh win in 17 starts.

Playing deliberate, conservative basketball to offset the racehorse tactics of coach Gene Nyenhuis' Wolves, the Maroons led practically the entire game and then pulled away for keeps in the final period.

The winners followed Coach Art Tuls' game plan well and forced the Godwin club to play the slow style of ball. Meanwhile Christian's man-for-man defense, with the exception of a few lapses, was outstanding and kept the Godwin shooters off balance on many occasions.

Christian's tight defense was reflected in the Godwin shooting statistics which showed the Wolves hitting on 25 out of 69 shots for 30 per cent, far below their average. The Maroons shot a good 41 per cent connecting on 30 out of 72 tries. All five Maroon starters scored in double figures, led by junior forward John Lappinga with 18 points as he played the best game of his high school career.

Tuls also got great performances out of the rest of his starters, Don Hulst, Les Hulst, Steve Bushouse and Lloyd Dozeman. Keith Disselkoen, reserve senior guard also filled in well and chipped in seven points at crucial times. Dozeman, Hulst and Disselkoen operated well against the pressure tactics of the losers and made the Wolves pay for the tight defense with several easy baskets.

Christian's win was also shown in the rebounding department as the Maroons, led by Don Hulst, Lappinga, Bushouse and Sub Ken Vander Kamp out-rebounded the smaller invaders, 45-32.

The Maroons stressed the "one on one" offensive play and forced the pressing Wolves into many fouls, particularly in the final period. For Godwin, it was clever guard Jay Buist and sub forward Dan Odell who kept them in the game with some fine moves and good outcourt shooting. Tom Dykema and center Jerry Stephan handled most of the board work for the scrappy Wolves.

Holland moved out to a 5-0 lead in the first two minutes of play before Godwin registered on a fielder by Dan Edwards. The Maroons maintained the lead until the losers led by one point on three different occasions. Christian then forged into a 13-11 bulge before the Wolverines knotted it at 13-13 just before the first horn.

Godwin got its fast break going on just two occasions in the second period and each time it was good for a two point bulge. After the losers led 26-24 midway in the second stanza, Christian took over behind Lappinga and Bushouse and never trailed again. The Maroons upped their margin to seven points twice before leading 36-31 at halftime.

Christian protected its five point lead during the early moments of the third period, before some fine shooting and rebounding by junior Don Hulst sent the Maroons out to 10 point leads on three different occasions. Finally with the score 51-40 and 2:50 left, the Wolves made their bid and scored eight quick points to narrow the gap. However the winners led 55-52 going into the finale.

Baskets by Dozeman, Vander Kamp and Lappinga gave the Maroons eight quick points in the first 55 seconds of the last quarter, and from this point on, it was all over. Holland upped the count to 69-54 at the five-minute mark and began its modified "freeze." Taking only the good percentage shot and setting up many foul situations, the Maroons were never headed. Christian's margin never went over 19 points in the last period.

At the charity stripe, the winners hit on 21 out of 30, while Godwin connected on 12-15.

WASHINGTON AND LINCOLN

The two universally recognized twin peaks in the mountain range of our national heroes are Washington and Lincoln. Both have many qualities in common — their honesty, their sterling character.

Both have enduring monuments erected to their memory in the nation's Capitol. One presided over the Constitutional Convention which established our country. Lincoln was the Savior of the Union who kept it from being divided.

Both subjected themselves to a life of discipline. Both no doubt had their minor imperfections for, as the late Senator William Edgar Borah of Idaho once put it: "We rear monuments to men, not deities."

But primarily they represent a study in contrasts. It is sometimes said that comparisons are odious. Not always. Washington was wealthy and accustomed to luxury; Lincoln was reared in poverty. Washington was austere and aloof — he had a few intimates and few who addressed him as George.

Lincoln was more approachable, was often referred to as "Abe." Washington, from the age of 19, was in command of men and a leader in the affairs of his time. Lincoln attained his stature only gradually after many continuous defeats and discouragement.

Of Washington, it is said, according to Quote magazine, "He was the first individual in America whose birthdate was celebrated quite generally and generously during the period of his lifetime." The assessment of Lincoln's true worth and claim to immortality was not fully realized until after his tragic death.

Although having much in common and much in contrast, both hold an honored place in every American's heart. We conclude this tribute to Washington to recall the tribute which Lincoln, with his immortal gift of phrase, used in eulogizing the Father of his country whose birthday we celebrate today:
"Washington is the mightiest name on earth. On that name no eulogy is expected. It cannot be.
To add brightness to the sun or glory to the name of Washington is alike impossible. Let none attempt it. In solemn awe pronounce the name, and in its naked, deathless splendor, leave it shining on."

Man Redeemed
Romans 8:1-4; I Peter 1:18-21;
Ephesians 2:4-10
By C. P. Dame

Does a man need redemption? Not all think so. Many think that he needs education, time, and a good environment,
and eventually man will arrive.
Christianity teaches that man needs redemption.

I. Christ is man's only Redeemer. The lesson text is composed of three passages of the Bible, two were written by Paul, one by Peter. All writers of the Bible teach that man needs redemption. In Romans 7, Paul tells about his own personal struggle with sin under the Mosaic law. The first verse of Romans 8 says,
"There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus" although once they were condemned because of their guilt due to transgressing God's law.

The law which man cannot keep Christ kept — the human nature which violated the law that nature in Christ kept the moral law of God. Christ came in the likeness of sinful flesh and so He was troubled by man's infirmities and temptations but remained sinless.
Christ kept the moral law and paid the penalty which man's transgression brought upon himself. Faith in Christ frees a man from God's condemnation.

II. Man's redemption is costly. Many people think that anything connected with religion is cheap. This is a mistaken notion. Peter writing to early Christians reminds them that they were redeemed, that is rescued from sin and death through the blood, that is the death of Christ. Peter calls Christ the Lamb. All the lamb's sacrificed in the Old Testament times pointed to Him. Peter also tells us that the death of Christ was not an afterthought of God but that it was planned in eternity.
This is a mystery we marvel at but accept on faith.

III. We are saved by faith.
The Ephesian Christians to whom a part of the lesson text was written were at one time "by nature the children of wrath even as others" according to Paul. There was a difference between their past and present condition. God had shown them mercy.
Through Christ they had become God's children in the spiritual sense. God's mercy is an expression of His love.
We are not worthy of His love.

All honor belongs to God. As God raised Jesus from the dead so He raises believers from the death of sin and puts them in the kingdom glory. The believer's status and all his benefits are due to God's grace — not to anything that he has done or possesses. But the believer is here to do good works in gratitude for his salvation for which he will praise God in all eternity.

Views From The Campus

(Dr. D. Ivan Dykstra joined Hope's faculty in 1947 as Professor of Greek and Philosophy and head of the Department of Greek. Since 1950 he has been Professor of Philosophy and chairman of that department. He attended Northwestern Junior College and received his A. B. degree from Hope. He also holds the Th. B. degree from Western Theological Seminary and the Ph. D. from Yale University. Editor's note.)

By Dr. D. Ivan Dykstra

Christian churches and liberal arts colleges have long been in business together in western culture. And to anyone standing inside either the church or the college (or both) it is obvious that each has gained, and stands still to gain, greatly by its associations with the other. Why, then, do relations between the two become so difficult so often, with both colleges and churches so easily touched by suspiciousness of each other?

To understand why this is so is not hard. What to do about these unkind feelings toward each other is a harder problem; maybe we can do nothing more than understand each other's missions more clearly, and learn to turn whatever tensions there are to creative channels.

To understand the tensions we must begin where both do begin: churches and colleges are alike concerned that education be Christian and that Christianity be more than a superstition. But from the point of that agreement, they move quickly and plausibly into important differences of emphasis.

In the nature of the case, the churches, with the Christianization of life in mind, tend to put first the concern that education be Christian and that Christianity be more than a superstition. But from the point of that agreement, they move quickly and plausibly into important differences of emphasis.

And how do we keep education Christian? From the church's point of view, the question whether a college is Christian is determined by whether it accepts Christian "truth"; and Christian "truth" tends to be determined by what has been believed by all men everywhere from the beginning as constituting a part of the corpus of the faith. A college in the church's eyes, remains Christian by adhering to a creed, which is accepted on Biblical or on church authority and-or on the authority of a tradition.

But equally in the nature of the case, the colleges tend to put first the concern that the Christian faith be preserved from being blind superstition. The liberal arts colleges—and none of them more explicitly than Van Raalte's Hope—stand in the tradition of the medieval universities, which grew out of an anxiety not that education would become un-Christian but that piety would become ignorant and therefore superstitious.

And how, from a college's point of view, do we keep Christian faith from becoming superstition? Precisely not by imposing a dogma or a fixed tradition or by giving all the answers. It is rather by setting what the churches say in the midst of the familiar disciplines—the sciences, the arts or philosophy. It is by establishing a living "dialogue" between the key commitments of Christian faith and life on the one hand and on the other the identifiable disciplines of the mind, each free to raise what challenge it must raise by virtue of its being what it is.

Is it too much to argue that the West has been saved from at least some of the dangerous possibilities in the life of pure intellect because its intellect has been touched by some Christian graces almost from the beginning? Or that a Christian faith can continue in the modern world as a live option because that faith has been kept from gross superstition by the presence in the West of a living and free intellectual tradition?

From where the liberal arts colleges see things, this touch of the holy on the intellect is

MEET THE PRESS — These three Republican leaders exuded confidence in GOP gains on all fronts in the 1966 elections at a press conference in Grand Rapids Friday. Left to right are Robert Taft Jr. of Ohio, U.S. Rep. Robert P. Griffin of Traverse City and Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton.

Taft, a candidate for U.S. Representative in Ohio, addressed the Ottawa county Lincoln Day dinner at Grand Valley State College and Gov. Scranton addressed the Kent county Lincoln Day dinner. Griffin introduced Taft at the Ottawa county event.

Freedom of Individual Seen at Stake by Taft

ALLEDALE — Calling for all Republicans to stand firm in defense of individual liberty against the encroachment of big government, Robert Taft Jr. of Cincinnati, Ohio, son of the late Sen. Taft, addressed Ottawa county Republicans at their annual Lincoln Day dinner Friday night at Grand Valley State College here.

Taft, a candidate for Congress from the 1st district in Ohio, warned that individual freedom can erode away on the home front while American freedom is being defended abroad.

He was introduced by U. S. Rep. Robert P. Griffin who has announced his candidacy for the U.S. Senate. Also present at the sell-out dinner for 360 guests were three candidates seeking Griffin's post, Edward Meany of Grand Haven, Wesley B. Tebeau of Muskegon and Guy Vander Jagt of Cadillac.

Referring to Republican losses in 1964, Taft characterized Abraham Lincoln as "one who ever responded to defeat with renewed and more effective effort."

"Happily we are maintaining that tradition. And it isn't just luck or a swing to the public opinion pendulum. There is a unity in Republican circles today that we have not always had. In creating better understanding it is deeply concerned with individual freedom and opportunity."

"We assert that the federal government is not the only instrumentality for solving problems. State and local government and stimulated private effort can often do more and better. This is true of many aspects of such problems as education, health care, housing, poverty and transportation."

"Federal involvement may be necessary as with civil rights or with interstate highways, but to each federal program we would apply the standard whether the proposal is needed to build liberty and opportunity for the individual American. He is the one who should be the primary concern of society."

Speaking of Viet Nam, Taft said to date the position of Republicans on the Viet Nam war has been responsible, and every effort must be made to keep it so. "It would be easy to jump on a popular band wagon calling for withdrawal, and it would be almost as easy to fall into the simple answer that all-out war is the only answer. Party leadership has done neither. Nor have Republicans simply underwritten policies of the Johnson administration. We welcome senate hearings on the problems. To discuss them with restraint should be helpful."

a saving touch for the mind, and it is good intellectualism. But so is the examination of the claims of faith by the mind a saving touch for the faith, and it is good religion.

For such critical examination is a college's particular way of establishing a person in a faith that is "personal"—precisely because it is not imposed by law or by fiat, or accepted as blind tradition, or achieved by repeating the same things so often we become conditioned to repeat them, or gotten by the persuasions of dim lights and soft music or bright lights and loud music. It is "personal" by so much as it comes by a man's honest exploration of all options that can be thought of as open; and in that process by the asking of some questions, in the asking of which the soul finally discovers that it is restless until it rests in God.

Taft questioned the possibility of a Kennedy-type quarantine on the port of Haiphong in preference to a buildup of military equipment, and asked why the U.S. should cooperate with Britain on the Rhodesian embargo if England will not reciprocate in the Far East.

State Rep. Melvin De Stigter of Hudsonville served as toastmaster. Dr. James Zumbege, president of Grand Valley State College, welcomed the guests, many of them paying their first visit to the newly developed campus. Dr. Zumbege said the college has a present enrollment of 1,000 students and expects 5,000 to 6,000 by 1971.

The Rev. Milton Dornbos of Hudsonville gave the invocation and Gil Scott, president of the GVSC Republican Club, led the flag salute. Mrs. Julian Hatt of Grand Haven, county Republican chairman, introduced guests. Dave Pushaw of Grand Haven, county Michigan Week chairman, presented Taft with a gift.

Boy Injured At Warehouse

An eight-year old Holland boy was hospitalized after being pinned for 45 minutes under a steel die weighing more than 1,200 pounds at a warehouse on Ottawa Ave. north of 20th St. about noon Sunday.

Jimmy O'Connor, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. George O'Connor, 330 West 20th St., was in good condition at Holland Hospital today with a fractured lower left leg and a severe bruise of the left foot.

Holland police said the boy and his brother were playing in the warehouse owned by Cramp-ton Manufacturing Co. when the die fell pinning him between the die and a wall of the building.

The brother ran for help, and brought several residents from the area who tried unsuccessfully to free the boy.

Holland police were notified and they got a high-low lift truck from the Holland Hitch Co. to remove the die.

Police said a wooden skid under the die and a beam of the building held up the die preventing more serious injury to the boy.

Scranton Sees Good GOP Gains

GRAND RAPIDS — Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton said Friday a resurgence on Republican sentiment will lead to Republican gains in Congress and governorships in 1966.

Here for a Lincoln Day dinner, Scranton predicted that not only would the 15 Republican governors up for election this year be reelected but that there would be other gubernatorial gains. At the same time, the GOP would pick up strength in the House and Senate, he said.

Asked whether he would be a Presidential candidate in 1968, the governor who cannot seek re-election in his home state, said, "Presidential polls for 1968 today do not interest me. I'm interested only in Republicans winning in 1966 and winning overwhelmingly."

But while the articulate governor refused to commit himself as a Presidential hopeful for 1968, there was no indication he would refuse to be the GOP standard bearer if it were offered.

He heaped praise on Michigan Governor George Romney, pointing to his outstanding record. "I hope the Michigan people have the good sense not only to reelect Gov. Romney but to reelect him by the biggest majority ever."

"I would be delighted to give George Romney an all-out endorsement for President in 1968 if the political picture shapes up that way," Gov. Scranton said. He spoke highly of the Republican Coordinating Committee as a vehicle for creating better understanding and unifying thinking on important issues.

"The coordinating committee is not interested in 1968. It is interested in the 1966 elections. It also has a general agreement on Viet Nam policy, one that does not call for super-escalation but one that supports the South Vietnamese in seeking their own freedom. The committee made this clear last December. It also made it clear that there should be greater emphasis on bombing significant military targets in North Viet Nam."

The Pennsylvania governor said the John Birch Society is not a problem in Pennsylvania, "but we have made it clear we don't want anything to do with them." He added, "The Republican party in Pennsylvania is a highly unified party. We welcome all groups except radicals and those who want to overthrow the government."

Stated to appear with Scranton at a press conference in Pantlind Hotel were U. S. Rep. Robert P. Griffin who has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for U.S. senator in Michigan, and Robert Taft Jr. of Ohio, candidate for U.S. Representative from the first district of Ohio. But Taft's plane was late and the two arrived after Scranton had talked with the press for 45 minutes.

Taft predicted a Republican gain in the U. S. House of Representatives next fall of 30 to 50 members, pointing to a resurgence of interest in the Republican party and a growing unity among party members.

Griffin, who declined to endorse any candidate seeking his seat in the House, was asked how much a senate campaign would cost. "A first class campaign might run $400,000 to $500,000," he said. "That's not money in the bank, but the signs are good and we've had lots of encouragement and support so far."

Scranton quipped, "If you have any money left, send it to Pennsylvania!"

Scranton felt it was not up to him to endorse Michigan candidates, "but I think so highly of Bob Griffin and Jerry Ford that I would do anything I could to help them. I worked with both of them when I was in Congress a few years ago. I attended law school with Jerry Ford. He is doing an excellent job as minority leader in Washington."

On Pennsylvania's compulsory motor vehicle inspection program, the governor said the plan has worked reasonably well. "It is not perfect, but I certainly would recommend it. All states could and should do more on traffic safety programs, but a good number have needed to be goaded into it."

As for cutbacks and government waste, no cuts can be made in the military, so the only thing to cut is the economical program. "Some cuts have been made but not to the degree cuts could be made. We all know a lot of money is being wasted in the poverty program, but when we speak in generalities we proliferate with a broad brush."

Suit Names Pipeline Contractor

GRAND HAVEN — Two damage suits in which parties seek $15,400 from Charles F. Smith and Sons of Ohio, contractors installing the Lake Michigan pipeline for the city of Wyoming, were filed in Ottawa Circuit Court Friday.

Plaintiffs claim that the ditch on the north side of New Holland St. last July and August resulted in lowering the water table eight feet and causing extensive damage to blueberry crops.

One suit for $9,000 was filed by Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Bosma of Port Sheldon township. The other for $6,400 was filed by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Palm-bos of Port Sheldon seeking $3,000, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hassevoort of Park township seeking $3,000 and Mrs. Bertha Isaacs of Park township seeking $400.

Blueberry farms of plaintiffs are adjacent to the pipeline. Digging operations last summer occurred during the height of the blueberry harvest, the complaint stated.

ICEBERGS FORM IN LAKE — A strong west wind Wednesday and Thursday piled chunks of ice into a giant iceberg offshore from Holland State Park last week. Here assistant park supervisor Gordon Archer watches the iceberg from a vantage point atop a large mound of drifted sand. Archer said the lake had been clear of ice at the state park prior to last week's high west winds and that the iceberg had formed in less than 48 hours. Many residents of the Holland area visit the state park to watch icebergs, and Archer reported that annual park permit sales so far this year were up about 350 over the same time last year. Park crews will begin to get the popular beach ready for the summer season about middle to late April.

Recommendation Lists Additional Judge in Allegan

LANSING — Michigan's 20th judicial district comprising Allegan and Ottawa counties is included in a Supreme Court recommendation to the legislature to permit seven additional Circuit Court judges to help cope with the soaring caseloads in the state.

Under this plan, a new judge would be elected for Allegan while Judge Raymond L. Smith would remain in Ottawa.

Others list a third judge for Jackson county, a ninth judge for Oakland county, a sixth judge for Genesee county, a fifth for Kent county, a second judge for Washtenaw and a second judge for Monroe.

The 43-page report issued by Chief Justice Thomas M. Kavanagh suggested legislative action which would permit new judges to be on the job by Jan. 1, 1967. This presumably would mean election of extra judges in November.

Leo Hoffman Files Appeal On Contempt

ALLEGAN — Leo Hoffman, an Allegan attorney, Monday appealed a contempt penalty imposed last month after he refused to defend a convicted slayer seeking a new trial.

Hoffman's appeal was mailed to the Michigan Court of Appeals in Lansing.

He was fined $25 by Circuit Judge Raymond L. Smith Jan. 25 for refusing to represent Ernest Sandefur, serving a 20-year prison term for the slaying of his son, Gaylon, 21, in 1962.

Hoffman said he didn't think, after reviewing the case, that Sandefur was entitled to a new trial.

Sandefur appealed under a provision in the Michigan Constitution which gives certain felons the automatic right of appeal.

Smith said he found "disciplinary measures to be mandatory since the right of an attorney to resist court appointment to assist indigent respondents charged with a crime is of utmost importance to the administration of law in the state of Michigan."

Smith held the alternative would be amending the new constitution.

Dutchmen Hand Alma 109-55 Loss

A perfection plus performance put Hope College's basketball team into a share of first place in the MIAA here Saturday night as the Flying Dutchmen crushed Alma, 109-55 before 2,300 fans in the Civic Center.

The victory was Hope's ninth in 10 MIAA games and tied the Flying Dutchmen with Calvin for the league lead.

Coach Russ De Vette's team had its finest display of the season in chalking up its 13th win in 20 games. The Flying Dutchmen hit an unbelievable 67 per cent of their shots with 52 baskets in 77 tries.

In the first half Hope sank 24 baskets in 35 attempts for 69 per cent and led at half, 50-27, and continued the onslaught in the second half with 28 baskets in 42 tries for 65 per cent. Hope scored 59 points in the last 20 minutes.

Although Alma doesn't have much this season (the Scots are 4-17), Hope's shooting and overall play Saturday was far superior to any showing they have made this season.

De Vette confirmed that, "It was a real well played game," he said, "and it was the best ball handling and passing we've had this season. It was real encouraging."

He felt his club "reached its peak" since it began playing as a group a month ago. Besides its fine shooting and excellent defense, Hope's passing was superb and many baskets were made on assists.

"We were looking for open guys," the Hope coach continued, "and we were getting the easier shots. De Vette was also pleased that the subs kept the pace set by the regulars."

Capt. Clare Van Wieren, Roy Anker and Bill Potter bowed out with their final home appearances. And they all had a field day. After Alma hit the game's first basket, Van Wieren sank the next three.

Van Wieren, who started his 86th consecutive game for Hope, hit his next two shots before missing a long jumper from the side.

Van Wieren made nine of 13 in the first half (eight of his first nine) and added six of seven in the second half. He also made one of Hope's five free throws and left with 6:18 to play and 31 points. He has scored 460 points this season for a 23-point average and 1,491 in four seasons.

His uncanny shooting underneath and his turnabout jumpers, plus his defensive rebounding (six in the first half) was outstanding. On hand to watch his father's final home game, was Van Wieren's 17-month-old son Christopher.

Anker was also at his best, hitting 11 baskets in 13 tries (six of seven in the first half and five of six in the second half) and 22 points. It was his first 20-point performance in four seasons.

Five of his baskets were baseline jumpers and the others came on feeds by Gary Rypma, Potter and Floyd Brady. Potter made four baskets in six tries (three of five in the second half) and Anker and Potter sat down with 8:05 to play.

Tom Pelon, with four baskets, Bruce Van Huis, with three, and Jim Thomas, with two, kept up the fine scoring effort in the final minutes. Pelon's driving layup at 3:33 gave Hope 101 points.

It was Hope's highest point total this season. Brady was Hope's other double-figure scorer with 17. Hope won the rebounding, 46-30, including 26-10 on the defensive boards.

Alma hit 35 per cent from the floor on 23 of 66 and halves of 12 out of 38 and 11 of 28. The Scots made nine of 12 free throws and Hope five of nine.

'Mr. Popper's Penguins' Presented at Longfellow

Longfellow School sixth graders had lots of fun presenting the play "Mr. Popper's Penguins" Monday night and the capacity crowd of more than 250 persons thoroughly enjoyed it.

The youngsters will present the play again tonight at 7 p.m. in the Longfellow School gym. The play is directed by Mrs. Ernest F. Penna and Miss Della Bouman and they have succeeded in getting every laugh out of the rib-tickling comedy.

It is a delightful presentation and the sixth graders glide through their roles with proficiency. Leslie Skinner and Melissa Hadden handled their roles smoothly as Mr. and Mrs. Popper and tonight Dick Beedon and Jan Weller will be in the lead parts.

Their children were ably played by Steve Mills and Joyce Grant while Mark Williams and Debby Smith take these parts tonight. Kathy Dalman played the daughter's friend opening night and Nancy Howard has the role tonight.

And the real "stars" of the show, the penguins, provided most of the laughs. The penguins were Brian Ritterby and Mavis Van Oostenburg assisted later by Pam Ebel, Sue Sybesma, Lon Rupp, John Lievesse, Craig Kleinheksel and Julie Van Antwerp.

These youngsters had practiced long to get the stiff gate of the penguin. They concluded the show with some fine dance routines.

Also performing were some "baby" penguins, younger children John Van Duren, Bobby Boersma, Philip Van Oostenburg, Jimmy Swieringa, Tommy Nichols and Doug E. Grotler.

Turning in fine character roles were Mary Townsend as an elderly woman, Kevin Cunihan as the theater owner and Doug Padnos as the bill collector.

Others who did a fine job in their roles were Mark Bosch, serviceman, Mark Baron, Rob Ridenour and Mike Vande Bunte, policeman; Hans Vanderhill, expressman; Bill Padnos, a friend; Mike Nienhuis and Mike Westenbroek, movers; Jim De Vries, veterinarian, Mary Fraam, reporter and Nancy Ridder, camera girl.

In a scene in which Popper attempts to secure a penguin license, the voices are handled by Joe Borgman, Sandra Wisely, Janet Glover, Dawn Kapenga, Paula Carpenter, Shirley Deckard, Fred Johnson, Lori Nyhof, Kathy Godshalk, Sara Bamboorough, Kris De Jong and Mary Ellen Vander Kolk. Bob Eaton and Karen Lohman handled the sound.

The youngsters built their own sets which included the interior of a home, a series of storefronts and the interior of a theater complete with mobiles made of straws.

Baron was the show's announcer and runners were Sara Bamboorough and Sue Stejskal. Serving on the business staff were D. Padnos, Ridenour, Stejskal, B. Padnos, Glover, Sybesma, Sue Lievesse and Mike Nienhuis.

Properties were in charge of Cunihan, Vanderhill, Rose George, Bosch, Rebecca Castor, Deckard, Mills and Glover while publicity was handled by Fraam, Debbie Sundberg, Vander Kolk, Nyhof, Vande Bunte, Prins, Hakken and Howard.

Working on costumes were Kathy Veurink, Maryanne Burma, Weller, Sally Dills, Carpenter, Townsend, Van Antwerp, Westenbroek and John Lugten while the stage crew was Lynn Kobes, Godshalk, Baron, De Jong, Kapenga, Kleinheksel, Stejskal, Fred Arispe and John Lievesse.

Ushers included Carpenter, Nyhof, Jackie Therber, Castor, Stejskal, Wisely, Bamboorough, Deckard and Kapenga.

The play was produced under arrangements with the Children's Theatre in Anchorage, Ky.

Dutch Lose 67-66 Game; Fifth Defeat

Holland High's basketball team blew an 11-point lead in the last two-and-a-half minutes here Friday night and lost a 67-66 decision to Muskegon before 1,150 surprised fans in the Holland High fieldhouse.

Muskegon deserved the win as they put on a fine man-for-man defense and good shooting mixed with plenty of scrappiness and second effort. The Big Reds just didn't quit and Willie Harris scored the winning basket with three seconds to play.

They were down by 11 points, 64-53 as Steve Millard hit two free throws with three minutes to play and it appeared Holland was headed for its tenth win and second over Muskegon.

But Coach Ed Hager's boys didn't concede. Instead they got tougher and their full court press caused Holland to panic and Muskegon cashed in. First, it was six straight free throws, four by Mark Buckley and two by Willie Petty. Petty then hit a basket on a steal.

This made it 64-61 with :52 to go. Eight seconds later Millard added another two free shots and it appeared over. But John Lang hit a jumper 12 seconds later and Harris put in a layup. With :24 to play the Muskegon was within one, 66-65.

Buckley, who had seven points in the final period, committed his fifth foul (he has four out of every LMCA game this season) and Larry Pete had a shot with 14 seconds to play. He missed.

Harris got the rebound, fired to Cliff Hawkins who shot and missed and Harris worked underneath, got the rebound, and fired the winning basket.

Holland had the ball knocked out of bounds on its try to get a shot and its final desperation shot was short. The Big Reds, trailing 48-44 at the end of the third quarter, had succeeded in outscoring the Dutch, 23-18 in the last eight minutes and 14-2 in the last two-and-a-half.

Millard turned in a sparkling performance and didn't deserve the fate. His play was outstanding as he scored nine baskets, hit eight out of 10 free throws and had several assists.

The smallest man on Holland's starting team (5'10"), Millard scored 26 points, including nine in the fourth period and nine in the first quarter. He also had had a fine game at Muskegon, scoring 29 as the Dutch won, 83-74.

Pete had 14 and Mike Lawson made 10. Harris sank 16, including four fourth period baskets, while Buckley had 15. Lang had 11 and Petty, 10.

Holland hit 38 per cent of its shots with 23 of 60 while the Big Reds made 29 of 66 for 46 per cent. The Dutch had periods of 7-18, 5-14, 4-17 and 7-13 while Muskegon was 7-13, 7-16, 7-19 and 8-18.

Muskegon made nine of 15 free throws and Holland, 25 of 29.

Dan Colenbrander took an elbow in the stomach in the first quarter that almost knocked him out of wind and later lost his glasses as the aggressive Big Reds went after the ball. Bob Venhuizen and Jim Fortney looked good in reserve roles.

The game ended Holland's home season and the Dutch are assured of second place in the LMCA. They play at Benton Harbor next Friday and at Muskegon Orchard View next Saturday. Holland is 9-5 and 6-3 in the LMCA and Muskegon is 10-5 and 5-4 in the LMCA.
