Full Story of Art Told In Artrain's State Tour

When the Michigan Council for the Arts Artrain comes to Holland May 31-June 6, it is anticipated that scheduled school groups will take up daytime hours during school days and the train of art will be open to the public from 5 to 9 p.m. Saturday hours will be 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Sunday 1 to 5 p.m. This was decided at a meeting of the local Artrain committee Monday afternoon in City Hall presided over by former Mayor Nelson Bosman, local chairman.

Meeting with the committee was Dar Davis of Saugatuck, coordinator for the state project which saw the opening of Artrain last May in Traverse City followed by a swing through the upper peninsula and down to Detroit and Kalamazoo late in the year. Artrain currently is in Lansing and will go to Flint early in March.

Artrain has a new director, Davis said, in the person of Peter Stoughton who had used Artrain for a project about two years ago when he was an architectural student at Michigan State University. Stoughton and another student had surveyed sites in Holland when Artrain was yet a dream of the Michigan Council for the Arts. Kollen Park, where Artrain will be stationed in Holland, was one of the sites surveyed by the two students two years ago, and their presentation in City Hall before a group of interested persons led to local determination to bring Artrain to Holland if and when the dream became reality.

There were many developments and even more changes from the dream to the working project, but Artrain today is a five-car touring art exhibit 335 feet long which tells the story of art from cave man sketches to modern contemporary art. Artrain's theme of "A Vision of Art" takes the visitor through eight areas including four audio-visual presentations related to the creative partnership existing between man and his cultural environment.

Serving with Stoughton on the staff that travels with Artrain are Dolores Slowinski, assistant director, two technicians, Ken Allison and Ted Shumaker, and three artist-guide coordinators, Mr. and Mrs. Kevin Radu and Jane Ardappel, a Hope college graduate. The staff will be housed on campus. Local artists will join staff artists in the baggage car for art demonstrations, during tours which last approximately 45 minutes.

Davis told the local committee that not everybody will like everything on Artrain. The history of art has many chapters and the person geared to a Rembrandt portrait probably will not fully appreciate pop art. "There's something for everybody," Davis said.

Bosman's committee consists of Wendell Rooks, educational coordinator who will schedule school visits; Gerrit Van Ravenswaay, who will schedule auxiliary programs in the Kollen Park bandshell; Larry Zuidema who will schedule local artists in the exhibit area; Jacob De Graaf, site; Cornie Van Voorst, publicity; Dick Petzak, C and O liaison; Mrs. Leonard Dick and Mrs. Robert Palma, guides and reception; and Terry Hofmeyer, executive.

Federal Grant For Police Generator

A federal grant of $4,585.75 to cover 50 per cent of the cost of a 60 kw. emergency generator in the basement of Holland's new police building was announced Tuesday by City Manager William L. Bopf.

The generator is designed to operate critical functions in police operations in case of natural or man-made disasters. The setup was reviewed by Police Chief Charles Lindstrom and all processing was done by Glenn Timmer, Ottawa county Civil Defense director.

For instance in the case of nuclear attack requiring a two-week stay of key persons in the basement area, the generator could operate all radio equipment, telephone and telegraph networks, fire, BPW and street department networks. It also would operate air conditioners and heating systems. The installation has a 2,000-gallon tank for diesel oil. Provision also is made for a hand operated water pump.

The 50 per cent of the city's share has mostly been cared for in budgeting for the new police station. The new police station is financed by a $660,000 revenue bond issue and the accompanying court building of approximately a quarter million dollars is financed by the Ottawa County Board of Commissioners.
