Books Should be Audited

Following is the resolution adopted by the council last evening:

Whereas, the Board of Public Works has given notice that they are about to separate the offices of City Clerk and the clerk of the Board of Public works, and the books of account of the City haven't been thoroughly audited in years, and

Whereas private corporations have generally recognized the necessity of a thorough disinterested audit of their books of account, and

Whereas it is a matter of comment that it has always been difficult for a newly elected city clerk to take up the duties of his office, because the city has no system of bookkeeping worthy of the name;

Therefore Be it resolved That the Committee on Ways and Means be instructed to employ disinterested expert auditors to examine the city accounts, make a report of their findings to the Common Council, and install a modern system of bookkeeping.

E. P. Stephan.

Concerning this resolution Mr. Stephan said to a representative of the News this morning: "I think that this is a thing that ought to be done every two years. Not to have it done is contrary to all business principles. I have been dissatisfied for some time with the way the books have been audited. It is true that the committee on ways and means audit the books every year but they spend no more than an hour doing it. It is really no auditing at all. If I were city clerk I would insist upon having this done every two years for my own sake and for the peoples sake. I do not doubt the integrity of the city officials but better men than they have gone wrong."

Session is Warm

At last night's council meeting the City Hall committee composed of Aldermen Prakken, Damstra and Jellema reported progress. This committee was appointed six weeks ago to make plans and estimate the cost of building a city hall. Some of the other aldermen made an effort to take the matter out of this committee's hands. Alderman Van den Berg introduced a resolution asking that the committee be instructed to recommend that the cost of the city hall be not more than $50,000. This was turned down by the council because it would act to take the matter out of the hands of the committee. Aldermen Van Tongeren and Van den Berg were the only ones who voted in favor of the resolution. Unless something is done soon the matter cannot be put before the people in definite shape before the spring election.

Another stir was caused when Alderman Stephan introduced a resolution asking that disinterested expert auditors be employed by the city to examine the city accounts, make a report of their findings to the common council and install a modern system of book keeping. This resolution was adopted by the council.

In regard to the investigation of the books of the Gas Co., Chairman Bruss reported progress. Manager Patton of the gas company has asked that action be deferred by the committee until A. Cabode returns from California about the middle of the month.

Among the minor reports was progress by the public buildings committee on the fourth ward voting booth; the report of the committee that drains be established at the corner of College ave. and Fourteenth street and on the corner of Central ave. and Twenty-sixth street was adopted. The resignation of Patrolman Steketee as constable of the Fifth ward was accepted by the council; steps were taken to investigate the condition of the sidewalk between First and Third streets.

It was signed by 35 property holders along the street. On a resolution by Alderman Prakken the council unanimously adopted the change last night.

Judge Cleland Coming

Friday night Judge Cleland of Chicago will give an address under the auspices of the McKinley club in Price's auditorium.

Judge Cleland is the Chicago judge whose reforms have been so much talked of and whose jurisdiction has been changed from the criminal to the civil court because of his methods of dealing with criminal cases.

When the judge had tried the old method of sentencing prisoners he came to the conclusion that it was a failure. Then he started the probation system.

When a man came before him for sentence Judge Cleland gave the limit allowed by the law. Then with this sentence hanging over him the man was allowed to go about his business on condition that he live rightly and report on a certain evening each week. Soon the judge had to allow two evenings for this reporting. Then when the number grew he succeeded in interesting Chicago business men in his scheme so that before long there were over a hundred business men with one, two or three men under their charge.

It is of this system, its growth and its results, its workings and its benefits that Judge Cleland will lecture. A large audience should turn out to hear him. An admission of 25 cents will be charged to defray expenses. Paid up members of the McKinley club will be admitted free.

The interurban station was broken into Thursday evening and the change in the drawer and some tickets stolen. The thieves broke in the door. The loss is not heavy. Fire, presumably of incendiary origin, destroyed the large stock barn on the Calvin Whitney farm Saturday. It was discovered too late to save any of the contents of the barn and 26 cows and 2 horses and 40 tons of hay were burned. The insurance was $700, which will not cover more than a third of the loss.

The fire is thought to have been the work of an incendiary from the reason that within a short time another fire, starting from a mysterious origin, did damage to the extent of several thousand dollars. Another reason is that a wad of straw, saturated with kerosene, was found the morning after the fire near the barn of a neighbor of Mr. Whitney.

On Tuesday evening last the public met in the school house to hear the result of the deliberations and plans devised by the committee in charge of the "blast furnace" campaign. Their plans and work was approved and the signing of promissory notes was commenced, but the amount not being sufficient, owing to the conspicuous absence of some of our citizens, who ought to feel most interested, the committee commenced a personal canvas on Wednesday last. At this hour of writing about three thousand dollars has been subscribed, and the committee are still at work.

Among the social events that transpired during the week we can mention the marriage of Mr. J. Chapel, to Mrs. Mary A. Garrod of this city. Rev. Dr. Scott officiating.

Wherever we go on our railroads we can plainly see that a great many more logs have been hauled out of the woods than during the last two or three winters. Messrs. G. Vyn & D. B. K. Van Raalte have put in about 1,500,000 feet of hard wood logs, mostly ash, in some of our neighboring counties. Mr. Vyn's saw mill, up north, will start up in a few days. Mr. Vyn has been a heavy and successful operator in hard wood lumber, and he hopes to do more this year than ever before. We wish him success.

John Avery, a seventeen-year-old son of W. B. Avery, who resides a few miles north of this city, while chopping wood on his father's farm last Wednesday afternoon, met his death in a very unfortunate manner. He was felling a dead maple tree, and as it fell among other trees, a limb was knocked off which struck the young man on the head killing him instantly. His funeral was held yesterday afternoon at two o'clock in the Ventura school house and was attended by a large concourse of friends of the afflicted parents.

On last Saturday morning a most distressing accident happened in East Saugatuck. Mr. Gerrit De Weert who owns a farm there was chopping wood near his home. He was felling a tree and as it was coming down one of the branches broke off and fell, striking him on the side and back of the head. He was picked up and taken home and medical aid summoned, but despite all skill died on Sunday night. His funeral was on last Wednesday and was largely attended. He was 43 years of age and leaves a wife and three children to mourn his untimely end. Mr. DeWeert formerly resided in this city and was in the employment of Mr. Jacob Van Putten.

The organ Concert at the Episcopal Church, on Friday evening of last week was well attended, although the weather was very unfavorable. An interesting program of music was given. The solos of Mrs. Diekema, Mrs. Yates and Mrs. Luce being a pleasing feature of it. The organ volunteers of Mr. Nourse were well received.

The concert and cantata, "The Pilgrim Fathers," which was given at the Opera House last week Wednesday evening for the benefit of Eagle Hose Co. No. 1, drew the largest audience that has ever been in the hall. It was a perfect jam, a large number standing, and a number were turned away at the door, being unable to gain admission. The entertainment itself was fine, and the expectations of those present were realized in a manner which they will long remember. Prof. J. B. Nykerk under whose direction the concert was given, performed his manifold duties in connection with the concert very creditably, and deserves praise for its success. Goodrich's orchestra rendered some very choice selections, which were well received.

Miss E. M. Caddon presided at the piano and Miss H. Te Roller at the organ. The singing of Mrs. G. J. Diekema, Mr. Phillip Soulen, and of the trio, Miss Rika Boone, Miss Minnie Caddon and Miss Maggie Pfanstiehl was very good. The chorus singing was also excellent.

Rev. H. E. Dosker was installed last Sunday morning as pastor of the Third Reformed Church of this city. A large congregation was present, the church being crowded. Rev. J. Vander Meulen of Ebenezer installed the new pastor, assisted by Rev. J. Kremers, of Zeeland. Rev. N. M. Steffens preached the morning sermon. The pastor H. E. ## Not Ready to Report.

At last night's meeting of the Council, the committee consisting of Ald. Prakken, Jellema and Damstra, appointed to devise plans, estimates and general information on the building of a new City Hall, reported progress. The News would like to know what the committee means by such a report? Six weeks have already been allowed them to make an intelligent report, and now with the election less than four weeks off and no other council meeting within two weeks, this committee comes in with this indefinite information.

The News would like to know if this committee thinks it is giving the voter and taxpayer, who are the most vitally interested, "a fair shake" by withholding information on a problem involving thousands of dollars, until within a few days of election. What chance has the voter to study this question thoroughly? How can he vote intelligently without this knowledge?

This committee should be compelled to report, and made to do so within a few days, or another committee appointed, who will report more than progress. It is the taxpayer's due.

Theodore Roosevelt

The change in the presidency today is an event of even more than usual importance and interest. When a president of the United States retires and his successor takes the oath of office, the whole country, if not the whole world, is an interested spectator. And that is natural, for we are still young as a country, having paid our respects to only twenty-seven presidents. But this inauguration marks the retirement from the presidency of one who has been during his term of office—seven years—before the world more prominently than any other president. It is too early yet to write of the influence of his administration or even to judge of him fully, but some facts stand out prominently.

He has changed in a few short years a conservative party into a radical party. He has dared to antagonize the special privilege class, and he has dared successfully.

He has changed the governing center of this country from the capitol to the White House and he has made that change seemingly in defiance of the constitution of the United States.

He has clashed with some of the strongest and most popular men in this county, and, while they have defended themselves vigorously and at times ably, he has at least proved his charges.

He has, like all other strong leaders, brought new men before the public, and, while some have failed, others have rendered our country valuable service. This certainly is of lasting benefit.

He has been as president an individual, not a tool of any set of men. He has strong friends and avowed enemies, which proves that he is a man of strength and force.

His strong influence helped choose his successor—that was the supreme evidence of his power—and he chose a man of demonstrated mental ability.

History will judge him a great man and will give him much of the credit for the political independence that we are beginning to feel.

We can without reserve quote the proverb, "Well done thou good and faithful servant."

Isn't it strange how a man who smokes "his head off" should try and reform a man who drinks "his head off"? So consistent isn't it?

Abe Stephan may not know how to spell precious. But he has saved the city and county many a precious dollars in Hobo money.

The Results of a Small Beginning in Navigation

Navigation has opened here early this spring. The coming of the steamer "City of Traverse" to take charge of the local business of the Graham & Morton transportation company brings to mind a little of the history of Holland harbor and the benefits that Holland receives from navigation. The "City of Traverse" is on only for the freight traffic and will give tri-weekly service and as soon as the business warrants the company will again send the fine modern passenger steamer "Puritan" to Holland harbor. Navigation for Holland is the result of a natural growth of industries here and a consequence of the expenditure of money, time and labor by our people and by the national government.

Years ago, fifty-one from all accounts, there was another opening of navigation. It was fitting that a colony from the land of dykes, a land whose fortunes in war and peace had ever been dependant on the sea, should choose a spot for their settlement upon the shores of a large body of water. Experience had taught the followers of Van Raaite that success would be more likely to follow such a settlement than one in which navigation could not play its important part. Their future trade and commerce needed it. The products of their farms and forests and the goods of the outside world could more easily be exchanged by means of ships.

After the building of their homes, their schools and churches, among the earlier efforts of the pioneers for the advancement and uplifting of the community was the improvement of their harbor. A narrow channel at the mouth of the lake, with scarcely water enough to float the little sailing boats of the fishermen, had to be made wider and deeper to accommodate larger craft. The original mouth of the channel was where the Ottawa Beach Hotel Annex now is and the outlet was where the Argo went ashore. Docks had to be provided to serve as landing places for the lumber vessels to load and unload their cargoes. All this work had to be done with funds raised by private subscriptions and by the labor of the pioneers themselves.

The settlers had set apart a separate amount known as the harbor fund. The money for this fund was raised by Holland and Zeeland townships through taxation and subscription. In 1858 the work which had been carried on mostly by a few individuals received an added impetus. The late Hon. John Roest was sent to New York by the citizens in that year to negotiate a loan for the harbor work. He succeeded in borrowing $12,000 in behalf of Zeeland and Holland townships, every dollar of which was paid on the day it fell due, although the Eastern capitalists, prominent among whom was Gerrit Smith, the noted philanthropist and abolitionist, did not expect that these bonds would ever be redeemed. They had entered into the spirit of the movement through a desire to assist in the development of the West. With this loan together with the harbor fund and money derived from the sale of so-called swamp lands in Blendon and Olive townships which had been donated by the state (these swamps being now among the finest farms in Ottawa County) the work progressed rapidly.

In 1866 after the close of the Civil War the government stepped in and took control. The improvement still went on but now it was carried forward by Congress. The harbor was made fairly good and Black Lake from that time was dotted with the white sails of small ships and many sailing vessels and lumber barges, with an occasional steamer passed through the harbor daily. The little harbor at Holland was a busy place. At this time a fleet of ferry boats made the rounds of the resorts stopping at every landing. Sometimes there were two or three of these, sometimes there were more. Capt. Peter Pfanstiehl deserves much credit for this ferry system. It was through his efforts that boats came to Black Lake to engage in this business. One of the main docks at the head of the lake was known as Pfanstiehl's dock.

With the clearing away of the forests the railroad came. The fever for railroad building swept over the country and Michigan and Holland were caught in its grasp. The slow going ships could not compete with the lower prices of the fast overland companies and traffic through the seaports decreased. The smaller ships and pleasure yachts continued to sail the bay and steam ferries plied their trade stopping at every dock along the lake. Then congress passed a law prohibiting discriminations in rates by railroads in districts where competition existed and lake traffic was revived.

The first passenger steamer connecting Holland with Chicago directly was the "Mabel Bradshaw." She was built in the winter and spring of '18.9 expressly for the Holland service. In that year the government dredge came and started work. The plans called for an eight-foot channel between Black lake and Lake Michigan. This work was only partially completed by the government and was finished with money raised by subscription. Previous to the year 1889 the only connection between Holland and Chicago was through Saugatuck. A small steamer carried the Holland passengers and freight to Saugatuck and from there they were carried on to Chicago by the "Kalamazoo," a steamerboat owned by W. B. Griffin and captained by D. Cummings. When the "Mabel Bradshaw" made her first entry into this port crowds flocked upon the hillsides surrounding the lake to see Holland's first steamboat come in, and great was the cheer that went up from the throng on that warm July afternoon when the "Mabel Bradshaw" came steaming up the bay. She was owned by Messrs. Bradshaw and Waters. She was not a very large craft and could only make about 14 miles an hour. The chronicler of that time says, however, "no effort or expense has been spared to give her speed." Everyone was proud of the Holland boat and when the first excursion to Chicago was given nearly all the citizens of the town gathered to witness her departure. The first crew of the "Mabel Bradshaw" was as follows: Master, Thomas Waters; clerk, E. P. Waters; first mate, J. C. Ackerman; chief engineer, Perry Knaggs; second engineer, Ralph Peterson; steward, George Cummings. The "Bradshaw" was taken off the run after the second season.

The company that succeeded the first steamboat line was one from Saugatuck. For one season, 1891, the "Kalamazoo" made trips directly between Holland and Chicago. The next season the "Kalamazoo" and "Mc Vea" gave this city daily service. Later in the season the "Kalamazoo" was taken off and the "Pilgrim" substituted. The latter boat was sold before the end of the season and the "Mc Vea" gave tri-weekly service. This brand of service was not pleasing to the citizens of Holland and plans were formed by the Holland improvement association to build a boat of their own. These plans bore fruit and the Holland & Chicago Transportation Co. was organized. This company was composed of the following men: President, W. H. Beach; vice president, W. B. Griffin; treasurer, C. J. DeRoo; with the above the following were directors: J. C. Post, I. Cappon, J. F. Hanchett, Geo. P. Hummer, H. H. Pope and J. F. Henry. The "City of Holland" was built by this company in the winter of 1892 and 1893 and launched in the spring. Miss Myrtle Beach, daughter of the president of the company, broke the baptismal bottle over the bow. People flocked to Saugatuck to see the new steamer launched from all over the surrounding country and the citizens of Holland presented the new boat with a handsome set of colors.

After the withdrawal of the "Mc Vea" from the Holland-Chicago run the local boat company added the "Soo City", she running in connection with the "city of Holland" gave the best service up to that time between this city and Chicago. For years the transportation business was carried on by this company with great success. Finally in the year 1900 the Graham & Morton Co. assumed control and from that date the local boat service has been marked by its efficiency. The service has gradually been getting better. The seasons of service have been lengthened. As the business has increased better and faster steamers have been added so that now some of the finest ships that sail the great lakes are sent to Holland harbor. With the new steel steamer "Puritan" running in connection with one of their other large fast boats, the Graham & Morton boat company is giving us all that we can desire at the present time in the way of lake connections with the West. Holland is no longer regarded by the boat company as a branch of its main business. The Holland-Chicago line is its main business, and Holland is regarded as the logical port for western commerce.

Since the interurban came two great changes have taken place in Holland navigation. The ferry boat system has lost out through the competition of the electric car and ferrying is now confined chiefly to a few boats at Macatawa park. Besides this effect the interurban has had a consequence still more noteworthy. Since its advent Holland has become a commercial center. It has stretched out into newer industrial fields eastward and westward. Passengers from Chicago are unloaded from the boats at Macatawa park and Holland and hustled on to Grand Rapids by Interurban. From there fast service can be had to any eastern point. Each year this traffic grows. This increase points to a time not far distant when the boat line and the railroads must increase their facilities to meet the demand.

Thousands of dollars have been spent by the government on the harbor in a comparatively short time. The lighthouse was established in 1867 and the life saving station in 1886. It costs hundreds of dollars every year to maintain these two powerful aids to navigation. Our congressmen have always with a few exceptions worked industriously for Holland's harbor interests. In 1892, however, a great storm of indignation went up from the people and press of Holland city because a paltry $5,000 had been appropriated by congress for our harbor, while Grand Haven, South Haven, Saugatuck and other ports had been granted four, five and six times as much. This agitation bore fruit and later appropriations have made up for the small one of the year 1892. Our newspapers have always zealously guarded our harbor rights and in this connection it is well to mention the influence of our harbor committee. This committee has left no stone unturned to build up the harbor. Many of Holland's most progressive business men have served on this committee. It is at present made up of the following representative citizens: G. J. Diekema, W. H. Beach, G. Van Scheiven and Austin Harrington, the latter being the successor of the late Jacob G. VanPutten. Thus we see that Holland's interests are well guarded. We have little cause for complaint. The great work has progressed steadily and from little things great things have resulted.

Efforts have been made from time to time to get connections with Milwaukee and to establish a shore line. The first effort of this kind was made by a company known as the Milwaukee and Eastern. They ran two steamers for a time on the Holland-Milwaukee run and finally abandoned the effort. Later the Pere Marquette railway company tried the scheme with like success. If these steamers could have secured a suitable dock at this end of the end instead of being compelled to land at the park the lines might have been successful. But there is still a chance to see what Holland thrift and energy can accomplish. It must be remembered that it was a company of Holland citizens that established the first permanent Holland-Chicago line. When the time comes, and it surely will, Holland herself can be depended upon to furnish the money and the brains necessary for the enterprise.

Ice Bound on Lake Michigan

In these days of mild winters and powerful steel carferries but little heed is given to the dangers incident to winter navigation on Lake Michigan. We see the great carteries come and go each day through summer calm and winter storm alike and we accept their movements as a matter of course. Little do we appreciate the dangers and hardships which even these leviathans of the lake experience.

But what of the early day wooden boats that traversed these waters? Here lies a story of hardship, suffering, privation and endurance that shames fiction. Winter navigation in those days was no sinecure. It was an occupation fraught with great danger. Men risked their lives every day, happily ignorant of such modern comforts as steel boats electrically lighted and steam heated, auxiliary ice tugs, wireless messages, fog signals and many other modern aids to navigation.

Among the hardy early day navigators perhaps none are better known than Capt. David Cochrane who commanded the steamer Messenger and was well known at this port. Capt. Cochrane's story of being marooned in the ice for 57 days is one that will be given a conspicuous place in the annals of Lake Michigan marine.

"I commanded the steamer Messenger," said Capt. David Cochrane, "in the winter of 1872-73. While enroute from Grand Haven to Milwaukee January 26 we caught in the ice and remained there for no less than fifty-seven long days. We had a small jag of freight at the time, including a tierce of rice and ten barrels of flour consigned to Chas. F. Freeman at Milwaukee. After being caught we remained there ten days, then broke out and worked to within five miles to Muskegon. Here the ice 'nipped' us so badly that it stove a hole in the starboard bow, breaking three frames. I got some canvas over the hole, jammed some bedding into it, and then transferred several hundred barrels of plaster over to the port side.

"This had the effect of giving the miles of the Manistee, which was vessel such a list to port that the hole on the starboard bow was lifted out of water. Then the ice forming under the high side forced the vessel still further over until we could plank the hole up without any difficulty. From that time on until the 24th of March we stayed in the ice field, making the period of imprisonment fifty seven days.

During thirty five days of this period I blew off the boiler as the fuel was running out. The only heating apparatus at this time consisted of a little coal stove in the washroom and a cookstove in the galley which was fired three times a day for meals. We were out of meat fourteen days before the men got ashore and secured some. This was at Black Lake where a farmer by the name of Clarkson killed an ox for us and the boys brought it over the ice in pillow slips. Off Whitehall I sent half the crew ashore, leaving about fifteen of us on board. We had then been imprisoned about a month and provisions were running mighty short, I can tell you. In fact we finally ran so short of grub that for fourteen days we lived on nothing but rice boiled and pancakes made of flour and rice. All this time we were drifting to and from the shore from Grand Haven to Ludington. Sometimes we were less than five miles from shore, and sometimes more than fourteen miles away.

"When open water was at last reached we had left only three and a half barrels of coal and a cord of slabs. One time I walked ashore fourteen miles with the mercury ten degrees below zero and landed at White Lake harbor. There I heard that the steamer Manistee was also stuck in the ice. She had been there ten days. Then I went around to Milwaukee by rail and told Mr. Engleman it was impossible for any of the steamers which were being held in readiness to get at either the Messenger or Manistee.

There was not the slightest difficulty in rejoining my boat. The Messenger was at times within eight commanded by Capt. 'Shanty' Morgan. The crews exchanged visits, and once we supplied the Manistee with flour. Some of the ice was level for miles and some was piled up in every kind of shape. A peculiar thing I remember in this connection was the number of ducks which could be seen under the smooth ice, which had apparently run over them after they were starved to death. We drilled a hole in the ice and got our fresh water that way. We got out of the ice April 6 and made Stony Creek, where we took on fifteen cords of wood. We reached Manistee April 7."

Captain Cochrane resides in Chicago, and is still hale and hearty, despite the cold weather which he has gone through on the lake. Every word of his narrative may be relied on. There were cold winters before 1909.—Ludington Chronicle.

Monday evening the McKinley Club rooms were filled to overflowing with the audience that gathered there to hear Rev. Van der Meulen's lecture on Joan of Arc, "the Maid of Orleans." It was the largest gathering that attended a McKinley club entertainment and every person in the crowd was highly pleased with the quality of the entertainment given him.

Rev. Vander Meulen traced the career of this remarkable maid from her childhood in her native village of Domremy, of which her religious habits and gentle maidenly qualities had made her the pride, to her tragic death at the stake at the hands of the English by whom she had been taken captive.

He told, in a way that will make the story live in the minds of those who heard him, how the girl, even at the age of 13, heard voices calling her to lead the armies of France to victory and to place the crown of France upon the head of the rightful sovereign. The speaker dwelt upon the trouble Joan had in being believed by the governor, how at last her time came and she was brought into the presence of the king. The remarkable answers of this uneducated peasant girl to questions asked by those who doubted and her wonderful prophecies concerning her victories, her triumphs and even her fate, prove that she was indeed inspired.

Mr. Vander Meulen held the closest attention of his audience throughout, now and then illustrating his points by clever stories. He handled his subject in a masterful way and it was all too soon that the pathetic end of the story came.

AND THEN DECIDE TO BURN OUR GENUINE GAS COKE

DIRECTIONS FOR USING COKE

Kindle the fire in the usual way, and when fairly burning fill up with plenty of Coke. Keep a large body of Coke under a low fire rather than a little Coke under a strong fire. To keep a low fire, close the draft openings in the lower part of the front of the furnace, keep the slide in the feed door open and the damper in the chimney pipe almost entirely closed. The damper should be opened only when kindling a new fire. Keep a layer of ashes on the grate and when shaking stop before hot coals appear. This helps to keep the Coke burning slower.

Do not allow ashes to pile up under the grate so as to touch it.

To bank a fire for the night, fill up full with Coke and if necessary, throw on coke screenings or ashes to fill up open spaces.

Three tugs could not pull the big Grand Trunk car ferry Milwaukee off the rocks at North point last week so the "Grand Haven" came to her rescue. The cars which were on the Milwaukee were run across a track placed over the water between the two ships, and transferred to the Grand Haven. It took several hours to do the job. There the cars which were in the fore part of the Milwaukee were brought to the stern, which was in deep water. Thus weighted the big boat so that the rest was easy for the tugs. The whole affair was a clever piece of work.

Immediate rebuilding of the steamer Naomi of the Crosby line was planned at a conference in Manitowoc of President Crosby of the company and officials of the Manitowoc Dry Dock company, and it is proposed to have the boat in commission early this summer. The contracts, which will cost about $8,000, will probably be awarded to the Manitowoc company and work will be started at once. The Naomi was burned two years ago while crossing the lake from Milwaukee to Grand Haven and for some time has laid at the docks a wreck. The delay in rebuilding the boat was caused by some trouble over the adjustment of the insurance.

Decidedly the handsomest sail craft that had up to that time visited these waters was the barque City of Chicago, which came here in the summer of 1868, and took cargoes of wood and other products of that kind. She was a full rigged ship, with yards on all three of the spars, and being painted black with harmonious trimmings was one of the finest specimens of marine architecture on the Great Lakes. Unless she received a stiff freight it is difficult to see how such a ship as she could be made to pay in the trade in which she was engaged at that time, as the delays in moving from place to place while loading without the aid of a tug must have been considerable. The only means for doing this in case of head winds was by using the kedge—a slow and most expensive process. —Sturgeon Bag Advocate.

Standing on the bridge of car ferry No. 18 from Ludington one dark night last week, Capt. Peter Kielty witnessed a strange phenomenon. The night was intensely black and the wind very high with a heavy sea running and a light snow falling. Suddenly the captain's attention was attracted by the appearance of a peculiarly shaped streak of fire apparently only a few hundred feet off his port bow. The strange manifestation was plainly visible for fully two minutes and then disappeared fading gradually away after the manner of a vanishing light. The captain's first thought was of a vessel's searchlight but he soon became convinced that this could not be the case. It would require a scientist to give anything like a satisfactory explanation of the manifestation which was undoubtedly due to some form of electrical action.

EASY TO MIX

What will appear very interesting to many people here is the article taken from a New York daily paper, giving a simple prescription which is said to be a positive remedy for backache or kidney or bladder derangement, if taken before the stage of Bright's disease.

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

A well known druggist here at home, when asked regarding this prescription, stated that the ingredients are all harmless, and can be obtained at a small cost, from any good prescription pharmacy, or the mixture would be put up if asked to do so. He further stated that while this prescription is often prescribed in rheumatic afflictions with splendid results, he could not see no reason why it would not be a splendid remedy for kidney and urinary troubles and backache as it has a peculiar action upon the kidney structure, cleansing, these most important organs and helping them to sift and filter from the blood the foul acids and waste matter which cause sickness and suffering. Those of our readers who suffer can make no mistake in giving it a trial.

PECULIAR APPEAL TO HEAVEN.

Ceremonial Observed by Chinese When Rain Is Desired.

Prayers for rain are a common feature of religious observance in China, and the attendant ceremonial sometimes takes strange forms. A correspondent of the North China Herald reports a curious celebration which recently took place in Chenyuan. The orthodox three days' fast was proclaimed, and the officials went to the temples to present incense, while the people organized a procession with a plentitude of gongs and drums. As the processionists passed along the street they were drenched with water by the residents, who had tubs in readiness. "But the great peculiarity of the occasion was a dog. He was tied sitting up in a common chair with an old garment round his shoulders and an old 'big man's hat' on his head. He got a double share of the water along the route and seemed to have entirely exhausted the glory and the fun of his position. The explanation of the ceremony was this. Among the domestic animals the dog is placed lowest. But the people in their attempt to move the pity of heaven said in effect: 'We will put ourselves lower than the dog, we will give him the honor of riding in state as our master, if only you will give us rain.' The correspondent adds that rain fell before sunset.

STRONG TOMB RENT BY TREE.

Striking Instance of the Great Power of Vegetation.

A correspondence calls attention to a curious instance of the mechanical power of vegetation in the out-of-the-way churchyard of Tewin, in Hertfordshire.

A tree, which has been divided into two or three main stems grows straight out of the tomb of a noble dame who departed this life over two centuries ago, and has rent her gloomy home into pieces. Strangest sight of all, it has wrapped itself round the iron railing which used to guard the grave, and which is thus now almost entirely concealed inside the tree.

People come from far and near to see the wonderful sight: and to them is told a story that the quiet inhabitant of this deserted sepulcher was in her day a lady of very free thinking opinions, and had said she would have placed above her remains a tomb that no person could read.—The Scotsman.

Private Forestry in England.

Everywhere in England you see private forests planted for profit. England first won her naval supremacy in ships built of English oak trees which were practically planted for the purpose on private estates. Public or state forestry hardly exists in England. Here we commonly think that forestry concerns the government only. A few Americans will plant catalpa, locust, or some other tree crop that matures in seven to fifteen years, but when the passion for enduring things becomes a national trait with us we will plant oaks and other species that require a hundred years or more to mature. Meanwhile, the bureau of forestry at Washington has a plan for co-operating with anyone who has a forest in which profit is the chief consideration.—Garden Magazine.

Where to Pat a Horse.

A horse lover, who is also learned in the ways of horses, has been trying to induce kindly disposed persons who pet horses to do so in a manner that will give the animals pleasure. Most persons stroke the horse's nose, an operation which only a well behaved animal will tolerate, and even he cannot be said to get satisfaction out of such caressing. Gentle rubbing over his eyes or up between his ears gives him great pleasure, because here are certain nerve centers that are stimulated by this friction. Most of those who know how to pet a horse properly were brought up in the country and thus learned to know the horse as city boys can never do.

Abjuring His Allegiance.

Judge Lowell of the United States circuit court in speaking before the Channing club the other night on naturalization cited many numerous instances of would-be citizens who had been coached for the examination before the court, but who fell down when an unexpected question was asked. "I asked a Turk," said Judge Lowell, "as to whether he understood what was meant when he swore to abjure all allegiance to the sultan."

"Sure," was the answer.

"What is meant?"

"To — with Turkey."—Boston Record.

Wearisome Words.

There is nothing tiresome more than words, when they clatter like a loose window shaken by the winds. A talkative fellow may be compared to an unbraced drum, which beats a wise man out of his wits. Surely nature did not guard the tongue with the double fence of teeth and lips, without meaning that it should not move too nimbly. When a scholar full of words applied to Socrates for instruction, the latter demanded of him a double fee: one to teach him to speak well; another to teach him to hold his peace.—Owen Feltham.

Nothing Doing.

"Scuse me, boss," said the unlauded hobo who had drifted into the private office, "but dey iz tree us. Can't youse give eay ev us a dime fer a night's lodgin'?"

"Get out of here!" yelled the man behind the desk. "Do you mean to insinuate that I look like 30 cents? Fade away!"

Rheumatic Folks.

Are You Sure Your Kidneys Are Well?

Many rheumatic attacks are due to uric acid in the blood. But the duty of the kidneys is to remove all uric acid from the blood. Its presence there shows the kidneys are inactive.

Don't dally with "uric acid solvents." You might go on till doomsday with them, but until you cure the kidneys you will never get well. Doan's Kidney Pills not only remove uric acid, but cure the kidneys and then all danger from uric acid is ended. The following testimony will convince the most skeptical Holland citizen.

Max Grimm, farmer, two miles south of Muskegon, Mich., says: "I was subject to attacks of rheumatism for some time but I never had any severe trouble until last fall. At that time the pains extended all over my body being most severe, however, across my kidneys and through my loins. I grew so bad that I could not walk and was confined to the house for three weeks. Finally I read of Doan's Kidney Pills and had my sister get a supply for me. I began using them and was relieved immediately and by the time I had finished the contents of one box I was completely cured and able to work. I cannot find words strong enough to express my appreciation of Doan's Kidney Pills. I will recommend them to any person I know to be suffering from kidney trouble."

"Heavy work, severe straining and indiscretions in youth brought on Varicose Veins. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look up all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy and I did. I had an operation from them and I knew they were square and honest. I wrote them and got The New Method Treatment. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $24 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment."

Misery In Stomach.

Why not start now—today, and forever rid yourself of Stomach trouble and indigestion? A dieted stomach gets the blues and grumbles. Give it a good eat, then take Pape's Diapepsin to start the digestive juices working. There will be no dyspepsia or belching of Gas or eructations of undigested food; no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach or heartburn, sick headache and Dizziness and your food will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin costs only 50 cents for a large case at any drug store here, and will relieve the most obstinate case of Indigestion and Upset Stomach in five minutes.

There is nothing else better to take Gas from Stomach and cleanse the stomach and intestines, and besides, one triangle will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all your food the same as a sound, healthy stomach would do it.

When Diapepsin works, your stomach rests—gets itself in order, cleans up—and then you feel like eating when you come to the table and what you eat will do you good.

Absolute relief from all Stomach Misery is waiting for you as soon as you decide to begin taking Diapepsin. Tell your druggist that you want Pape's Diapepsin, because you want to be thoroughly cured of Indigestion.

A Hurry Up Call.

Quick! Mr. Druggist—Quick! A box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve—Hire's a quarter—For the love of Moses, hurry! Baby's burned him self, terribly—Johnnie cut his foot with the axe—Mamie's scalded—Pa can't walk from pili—Billie has boils—and my corns ache. She got it and soon cured all the family. Its the greatest healer on earth. Sold by Walsh Drug Co.

HIGH-O-ME

That's The Way to Pronounce Hyomei, the Money-Back Catarrh Cure

As doubt exists in the minds of many readers of the Holland City News let us say that the above is the proper pronunciation of America's most wonderful catarrh cure. Walsh Drug Co. is the agent for Hyomei in Holland and he will sell you an inhaler, a bottle of Hyomei, and full instructions for use, for only $1.00.

And if it fails to cure acute or chronic catarrh, asthma, bronchitis, croup, hay fever or coughs and colds, he will give you your money back. The person who suffers from catarrh after such an offer as that, must like to snuff, spit and wheeze, and be generally disgusting.

Read what Mr. G. F. Lowe says: "I have used Hyomei for a case of nasal catarrh which had bothered me for a long time. I can say that Hyomei killed the germs of the disease and gave me the much sought and needed relief. From this experience I know Hyomei to be a reliable remedy, and I give it the praise and recommendation that it deserves."—G. F. Lowe R. F. D. No. 7, Allegan, Mich., September 19, 1908.

STRANGE, YET HAPPY FAMILY.

Extraordinary Happening Vouched For by Truthful Sailor.

"Happy families!" said the sailor. "There ain't no man livin' ever seen the happy family I once saw—seed, rather."

"It was at La Barre, the port o' Bayonne, where the bayonets come from. I was strollin' across one o' them there salt medders full o' small white snails, when all of a sudden I gasped and cast anchor."

"A cow on a hilltop was bein' milked simultaneously by a pig, a snake and a dog."

"I watched that milkin' several minutes. The cow enjoyed it—cows allus do, you know—and the happy family milked away ravenously."

"Miss Snake got uneasy first. She let go her holt, and droppin' to the grass, slid off."

"Then Mr. Pig got enough and trotted away with a satisfied grunt. Last to go was the dog."

"I've saw queer sights all over the world," the sailor concluded, "but the queerest of 'em all was that there happy family takin' its milk at La Barre."

The druggist laughed coldly. "It wasn't milk," he said, "that you'd been taking at the bar, I'll wager."

COMPENSATION FOUND IN COLD.

Has Stimulating Effect on the Brain, According to Writer.

I have often asked to be told why it is that a man with a cold in the head feels himself to be a superior sort of being to the man with no cold. You must have observed for yourself that this is the case. Take indeed, your own cold. You refer to it, thirty or forty times a day, as "My cold." You feel quite sure that everybody you meet will know that you have a cold, and that everybody will be interested in its progress. You will find yourself, when in the full enjoyment of a cold, airing opinions that you would certainly keep to yourself under normal conditions, and casually contradicting the statements of those for whom, as a matter of fact, you cherish a very sincere respect. There must be some simple physiological explanation for this, and I should be greatly obliged if some medical reader would put me in the way of understanding it. Is it that the cold acts in some soothing way upon the nerves, thus freeing the self-conscious man, temporarily, from his timidity? Or is it that the fever accompanying a cold has a stimulating effect upon an otherwise slightly torpid brain?

Moistening the Air.

"Why, whatever is that for?" asked a caller of a Harlem housewife, as she sighted a deep pan, holding about two quarts of water, which was steaming merrily on top of the steam radiator in the parlor.

"That is to keep the furniture from falling apart and the piano from going to rack and ruin," replied the housewife. "It is something I learned in the natural gas country, and if other people did the same they would not suffer so much with headaches when they are shut in hot, steam-heated apartments these cold days, nor would their furniture warp and crack or the glue dry up and fall out of the joints. Steam heat is as dry almost as natural gas heat, and where natural gas is used a pot or pan of water must be kept on the stove or fireplace, the steam arising from it keeping the air moist."

Poorly Paid for Great Work.

Oliver Goldsmith was an underpaid man from start to finish. Fifty pounds ($250) for "The Vicar of Wakefield" was bad enough, yet for "The Traveller" he got but £20 ($100) and £5 ($25) for his "English Grammar." For "The Deserted Village," however, his publisher sent him 100 guineas ($500). This he at once returned, with the message: "It is too much; it is near five shillings a couplet, which is more than any bookseller can afford or, indeed, any modern poetry is worth." So he died with $10,000 worth of debts. "Was ever poet so trusted before?" said Dr. Johnson.

How We Learn.

Art is long, life short, judgment difficult, occasion transient. To act is easy, to think is hard; to act according to our thought is troublesome. Every beginning is cheerful; the threshold is the place of expectation. The boy stands astounded, his impressions guide him; he learns sportfully, seriousness come on him by surprise. Imitation is born with us; what should he imitate is not easy to discover. The excellent is rarely found, more rarely valued. The height charms us, the steps to it do not; with the summit in our eye, we love to walk along the plain.—Goethe.

Novel Kite Game.

The manner in which kites can be manipulated is well illustrated by the game of Yakata. This game is best played with squads of ten or less a side equipped with ordinary Indian kites of tissue paper and reels like dumbbells.

The game is to fly your kite so that it cuts the string of an opponent's kite by sawing it, rescues being effected by Red Cross kites so manipulated that they get underneath and pick up the falling kite.

Notes of Sport

Hope College added another victory to its string Saturday night by defeating the Armour Institute of Chicago 40 to 24. The game was listless and the second half particularly was loosely played. The game was rough, 39 fouls being called. Twenty were marked up against Hope and 19 against the visitors. Both teams seemed to be tired. The visitors had been having a hard trip and the locals have been practicing but little since the game with Detroit. Captain Veenker and Johnnie Vruwink started in the scoring. Angie Veenker broke his nose in the first half and gamely played to the finish, although Roggen might have been substituted without endangering Hope's chances for a victory. An excellent game is to be played here on March 10 when Detroit will come again to try to win back their laurels.

The Lyceum indoor base ball team lost again to Zealand in an extra inning contest Thursday night. The game went ten innings and the score was 11 to 10.

A plan is under way among some of the young men of this city to organize an Athletic Club. Such an organization will fill a long felt want and may be the means of interesting many young men in the various branches of sports. The boys are making an effort to secure the old Princess rink for a starter.

"Jesse James," the good old reliable, with a mark of 2:04½, has been sold by the Boone brothers at a big horse auction in Chicago, for $850. The horse was bought by the man who raised him in Carthage, Missouri, and will be taken back to the old stables.

Captain Corbin of the Grand Rapids Star Clothier indoor team showed a decidedly unsportsmanlike action in taking his team off the floor before the end of the first inning of Friday night's indoor base ball game. The Interurbans had retired the Clothiers in one, two, three order, and were batting. Two men were on base. Schouten reached first on a third strike that hit the floor before it was caught. Umpire Rowan gave the decision; pitcher Corbin kicked; neither side gave in,—and the Clothier's captain quit. The championship of Western Michigan hinged on this game. An effort is being made by manager Schouten to arrange another.

Hope College News.

The new staff of the Anchor is as follows: Editor, Henry K. Pasma; Associate Editors, John Wichers and John Warnshuis; Business Manager, Jean Vis; Assistant business manager, J. Abbink; Sub. manager, Harry Anker; Local editors, Miss Bata Bemis and Frank Hoppers; Alumni editor, Jennie Pikaart; Athletic editor, W. Stronks; Exchange editor, E. Schmitters; Society editor, J. Hemstra.

The Hope College students have chartered a special train to take them and others who wish to go, to Kalamazoo to attend the State inter-collegiate oratorical contest which will be held there on the evening of March fifth. The students have high hopes of landing the contest this year as Peter H. Pleune, their representative, is regarded as especially strong. He will deliver his oration on "Father Damien," the same one that won the local contest here a month ago. Hope has secured first place in the State contest but once, and that was five years ago. The college has always ranked in the first division of the ten colleges represented in the State association. The special will leave at 11 o'clock Friday morning and will return after the contest. Fare for the round trip is $1.00.

Seminary Notes.

An excellent paper was read by Prof. E. Dimment at the Adelphic meeting last Tuesday evening. His subject was "Greek in its Relation to the Ministry."

W. P. Van der Laan of the Senior, and F. D. White of the Middle Class, were indisposed to attend to their duties at the Seminary.

Andrew Stegenga of the Senior Class has received the promise of a call from the Reformed church at Clymer Hill, New York.

The West. Theo. Seminary will next Sunday be represented as given: Z. Roetman, Harlem; A. Stegenga, Oakdale Park, Grand Rapids; M. A. Stegeman, North Holland; H. B. Mollema, Beverly, morning, and Fifth, Grand Rapids, afternoon; C. Muller, Beaverdam; W. Rottschaefer Coopersville; M. D. Van der Meer, Grant.

Deaths.

Lawrence Sears Hamlin, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Seth Hamlin of 48 First avenue, died Sunday evening after a short illness. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon from the home.

Henry Barnard, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Rottschaefer of 17 E. Eighteenth street, died Thursday morning. Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon, Rev. J. Bolt officiating.

Alfred H. Finch received word Thursday morning of the death at St. James, Mo., of his brother-in-law James H. Hoadley, a former resident of this city. Deceased was 67 years old and is survived by his widow and several children. He was a veteran of the civil war, a member of Co. I, Twenty-fifth Michigan Infantry and enlisted from Holland.

PORTLAND, MAINE, CHILD

Ill, Weak and Emaciated, Restored to Health by Vinol.

"Our little daughter, six years of age, after a severe attack of the measles, which developed into pneumonia, was left pitifully thin, weak and emaciated. She had no appetite, and her stomach was so weak it could not retain her food. She lay in this condition for weeks, nothing the doctors prescribed did a bit of good, and we were beginning to think she would never recover.

"At this time we commenced to give her Vinol, and the effect was marvelous. The doctor was amazed at her progress and when we told him we were giving her Vinol, he replied, 'It is a fine remedy, keep it up.' We did so, and she recovered her health and strength months before the doctor said she would."—Mrs. J. W. Flagg, Portland, Me.

Vinol is a real cod liver preparation, containing in a highly concentrated form all of the body-building, strength-creating and curative elements of cod liver oil and tonic iron added. It is delicious to take and children love it.

Every mother who has a weak delicate or ailing child, should try Vinol on our offer to return money if it fails to give satisfaction. R. M. De Pree & Co. Druggists, Holland.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites should always be kept in the house for the following reasons:

First—Because, if any member of the family has a hard cold, it will cure it.

Second—Because, if the children are delicate and sickly, it will make them strong and well.

Third—Because, if the father, or mother is losing flesh and becoming thin and emaciated, it will build them up and give them flesh and strength.

Fourth—Because it is the standard remedy in all throat and lung affections.

No household should be without it.

Send this advertisement, together with name of paper in which it appears, your address and four cents to cover postage, and we will send you a "Complete Handy Atlas of the World."

PREVENTS PNEUMONIA

I had the most debilitating cough a mortal was ever afflicted with, and my friends expected that when I left my bed it would surely be for my grave. Our doctor pronounced my case incurable, but thanks be to God, four bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery cured me so completely that I am all sound and well.—MRS. EVA UNCAPHER, Grovertown, Ind.
