Knapp's Petition Turned Down By Common Council

WAYS AND MEANS REPORTS LOCAL BANKERS ARE CO-OPERATING

The common council meeting last evening was of short duration and was opened with prayer by Alderman Veldman.

The ways and means committee gave notice that they had nearly finished and would soon submit the annual appropriation bill for 1933, which apparently will be cut considerably over other years, according to the chairman of the committee.

A communication from John Knapp who wishes to build a building on Fifteenth street and River avenue, asked for a re-zoning of River avenue by popular vote at the coming election. This matter has come up repeatedly covering a period of a year and a half and at a recent meeting of the council Mayor Bosch voted adversely and in favor of the zoning committee, breaking a tie vote. Last night the vote stood 8 to 4, those voting for the popular vote being Aldermen Habing, Steffens, Jonkman and Huyser. Those voting against it were Aldermen Kleis, Prins, Brieve, Hyma, Woltman, Van Zoeren, Van Lente and Veldman.

Bills for the welfare during the last two weeks footed up $6,621.13. Gas tests from the gas company were reported favorable by the board of public works.

A communication from the Christian Labor association relative to welfare was referred to the welfare committee. This committee is composed of Van Zoeren, Prins, Woltman, Veldman, Habing and Van Lente.

The communication covers several typewritten pages and disputes the legality of the questionnaire which those receiving welfare were asked to sign, especially dwelling upon the part where some of the money was to be refunded when those persons signing returned to their regular labors again.

Alderman Henry Prins, head of the ways and means committee, stated that the officials of both the Holland City State bank and the First State bank have taken a fine attitude in disbursing funds to alleviate welfare needs.

He stated that both Mr. Kramer and Mr. Vander Meulen as well as the boards of both banks, have shown the right attitude toward the city and what misunderstandings had been created have been ironed out. Mayor Nicodemus Bosch also voiced his approval referring to the meeting held by the city officials and the boards of both banks. Undoubtedly with a little patience a great many of these things will right themselves.

PEACHES ARE BAD AGAIN

And now comes a different story about peach prospects. Recent examinations of the peach buds by experienced fruit growers indicate that the Elberta crop will be next to nothing, while most other varieties have also a very poor showing. South Haven and a few other of the harder kinds look a little better, but it can be put down now that Michigan's peach crop will be the lightest in years. Some are inclined to think that, at last prices this will not be very much of a loss as growers have been getting too much "red ink" in the fruit game to make it very enjoyable. With so many peach trees being taken out because of disease this would seem to be a good time to set an orchard.—Allegan Gazette.

NEW TICKETS IN ZEELAND

A great deal of interest has been aroused among the voters in Zeeland township, since it was announced last week that a new ticket would be in the field. Several have already announced that they would be candidates on this new Citizens' ticket at the caucus to be held next Monday, March 6, at 2 p. m., fast time.—Zeeland Record.

Sheriff Fred W. Miller of Allegan county at a meeting with his vigilante committee decided on units for the following cities and towns: Allegan, Otsego, Plainville, Martin, Wayland, Hamilton, Saugatuck and Fennville and probably Douglas.

A. R. Morris, Allegan county superintendent of state highways, reports that there are many places in the macadam roadbeds that are damaged and heaving because of thaw followed by frost. They may be impassable roads as the highways become softer with coming of spring. There are restrictions on truck loads effective March 1 and these restrictions are being watched, especially on the following highways: Allegan county M-40 from Allegan to Holland; M-89 from Allegan to Fennville; US-31 from Saugatuck north to Allegan; Ottawa county line. Allegan and Kalamazoo counties, M-89 from Plainville southeasterly to Kalamazoo, Calhoun county line. On all other sections of road in the state it is requested that full legal truck loading be permitted until further notice. It is probable that further restrictions may be necessary as road conditions change.

George Schuiling, president of the Ottawa County Sunday School association will be the speaker at the public meeting of the young peoples forum in Ganpes M. E. church next Sunday evening, March 5. His subject will be "The Challenge of Christ to the Youth." Vesper hymns and dramatization will precede the address.

ALLEGAN INTERESTED IN SUGAR BEETS

Allegan is also endeavoring to help the sugar beet industry at Holland. County Agent A. Morley has scheduled several meetings and even Allegan city is taking an interest since they believe the opening of the sugar factory in this city would indirectly benefit Allegan.

It is understood that railroad rates to Holland on sugar beets per ton have been considerably reduced. It is stated that in parts of Allegan county 300 acres have been secured.

At Gunn swamp one man is to plant 100 acres.

William C. Vandenberg of Holland has been very active in this work.

highway commissioner, but it appears that this was all ironed out or fought out before the convention assembled.

Grover C. Dillman of East Lansing was easily at the convention. The Ottawa county delegation at Tuesday's convention was instructed for Mr. Dillman. The nominees placed on the Republican ticket are the following:

Supreme Court Justices—George M. Clark, Bad Axe; John S. McDonald, Grand Rapids.

University Regents—William L. Clements, Bay City; Donald E. Johnson, Flint.

Board of Agriculture—Melville B. McPherson, Lowell; A. J. Rogers, Beulah.

Board of Education—Fred A. Jeffers, Painsdale.

Highway Commissioner—Grover C. Dillman, East Lansing.

Superintendent of Public Instruction—Webster H. Pearce, Mt. Pleasant.

(*) Incumbent.

Chairman State Committee—Howard C. Lawrence, Ionia.

Vice Chairman State Committee—Mrs. C. L. Barber, Lansing.

(*) Re-elected.

Frank D. Fitzgerald, well known in Holland, was the principal speaker in the large new auditorium at Grand Rapids. He stated that the party in power when depression strikes the nation is the party to be blamed by the people, and they gave vent at the polls last fall. Other parties have suffered likewise. He prophesied that a large majority of the Republicans would turn back to the Republican party at the spring election and it was up to the Republicans to stand the greatest test of their lives. People at heart are still Republicans, he stated, but we must give them legislation that will warrant them to remain Republicans and one is an economic policy that will cut the cost of government.

Youths Held Series Of Armed Theft

MARVIN HAUCK AND HENRY SWIFTNEY OF GRAND HAVEN CONFESS HOLDUPS, POLICE REPORT.

Answering to a series of armed holdups in Holland, Zeeland, Muskegon and this city, Marvin Hauck, 19, and Henry Swiftney, 21, both of Grand Haven, Monday waived examination before Justice Marinus Barense, Zeeland, on a charge of robbery armed and were bound over to circuit. Bonds of $2,000 each were placed on the defendants which was not furnished, and they were returned to the county jail to await the court March 7.

They were arrested at Grand Haven Sunday morning by officers of the sheriff's office, city and Zeeland police officers following the hold-up of the Kroger and A. and P. stores in Zeeland after escaping with $89.75. Swiftney was found near the corner of Madison and Seventh streets about 3 a. m. and Hauck was found at Swiftney's home about 6:30 a. m. at Grand Haven.

Following their arrest they confessed, the officers said, to a series of armed robberies which began with the holdup at Webers' restaurant January 18 when Hauck, together with William Taucher, 17, living in Grand Haven, staged a holdup and got $16. Swiftney was not on this job, but Hauck and Swiftney both confessed to pulling the jobs at the Kroger store, Holland, where they got $90, and a Kroger store near Laketon, Muskegon county, when they got $90, and the job on Saturday at Zeeland.

Hauck confessed to getting $89.37 from the A. and P. store on Saturday, and Swiftney got $57 at the Kroger store. They used the same tactics employed on the other jobs, which included backing the clerks into the basement and locking them up.

The stores in Zeeland are on the main streets with only one building between. They were entered simultaneously. In the Kroger store manager Albert Diepenhorst and three clerks were ordered to the basement, while in the A. and P. store the bandit simply covered the manager and his assistants with a gun and ordered the money to be put in a bag held by the gunman.

The alarm was sent to the police. Swiftney escaped in his car which was parked near although several shots were fired by the Zeeland officers. Hauck, seeing Swiftney drive away, dodged in between the buildings and escaped, walking all the way back to Grand Haven. He went to the Swiftney home and got in without anyone there knowing he was there, the confession stated.

A bystander reported the number of the license plate on the Ford car which led to the identification of Swiftney, who confessed that he had driven back here on gravel roads, gone to Muskegon and then returned here early Sunday morning.

Hauck has been attending high school.

The holdup of two chain stores in Zeeland over the week-end had as one of its motives apparently the raising of fine money levied on a speeding charge in Muskegon last Thursday. Henry Swiftney of Grand Haven, one of the two Zeeland suspects who has confessed to a Kroger store robbery recently in Muskegon, was ordered Thursday to appear at traffic court here today with money to pay a fine for speeding.—Grand Haven Tribune.

The Zeeland Record gives the following details of the robbery: Both stores were entered at the same time about 10 o'clock, just before closing time last Saturday night. One bandit, supposed to be Swiftney, entered the Kroger store of which Albert Diepenhorst is the manager, and forced him and A. Gebben, B. Schout and Harriet Kapenga, clerks, into the basement after compelling the manager to place all the money in a bag. After latching the basement door he calmly walked out and down the street to where his car was parked on Church street, near M-21, from where he sped toward Grand Rapids deserting his partner who, he learned had not fared so well.

At the same time Hauck entered the A. and P. place of business and forced Gilbert Altana, manager, and Henry Zwiers, E. Boes and Jacob Wildschut, clerks, to face the wall at the point of a gun. While he was maneuvering Mrs. T. Buike, a customer, slipped out of the store unobserved and turned in the alarm by running to the city hall a few rods distant where she found Officer Glurum and Deputy H. De Kleine of Jamestown township.

The bandits had already left the stores which are only two doors apart, but Officer Glurum spied one of them running across the street toward Church street. The bandit failed to stop at the officer's command and shots fired to intimidate him were futile. However, he was closely pursued by De Kleine, who is a good runner, but the bandit ducked into a dark alley and got away. But he was caught by a low wire on an old fence and thrown to the ground. He was again up and away before his pursuers could overtake him but he was compelled to desert his cap, a tell-tale piece of evidence.

In all about ten shots were fired the last half dozen with special intent to hit the robber, but none took the intended effect, going wild but injuring no one though many people were on the street at the time. One bullet clipped a hole through one city hall front window while another penetrated the large plate glass in Barense's store. Although fired at many times, the bandit did not return any shots but devoted all his time and energy in gaining distance.

After eluding the police he made his way toward the west and north along deserted roads afoot, arriving at his home in Grand Haven at about daylight. He managed to elude police vigilance there and got inside undetected. When inquiry was made for him an hour later the reply was he was not at home. A guard was then placed to cover his escape and when he sauntered down the street at about 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon he became enfolded in the arms of the local police.

Fortunately when Swiftney thought he could safely escape detection he became over anxious and aroused the suspicions of five young boys who secured his license plate number and the description of his car.

Acting Chief of Police Fred Bosma, who had only a little while before been relieved from duty, was called to take charge of the situation. He investigated the auto license number and found it belonged to a Grand Haven party, this coupled with the Grand Haven dealer's tag found in the car strongly suggested Grand Haven talent. This information was telephoned to Sheriff Ben Rosema who immediately covered every approach into Grand Haven. Further investigation showed the car had been repeatedly sold and now was the property of Swiftney.

According to his own story, Mr. Swiftney deserted his partner, and drove east as far as Fairview road, turned north and crossed the Pere Marquette railroad tracks, put out his lights to escape pursuit, backed across the track onto M-21 and then drove east to Ossewaughe road without lights, then drove south to Vriesland road and calmly drove through town before heading for Muskegon on less frequented roads. There he called on his girl friend after midnight. He brought her to Grand Haven in order to escape suspicion in case he should be stopped.

After furnishing the sheriff's department all the available information by telephone, Bosma drove there rapidly, accompanied by M. Barense and William Hietje, but upon arrival Swiftney had not made an appearance. His garage was empty and a patrol of the city showed his car had not returned.

After parking along the street approaching the home more than an hour, at about 4 a. m., the Swiftney couple here into sight leisurely passing the officers' car. Barely had he passed before Officer Bosma had spotted the plate numbers. It was but a moment to force him to the curb, but before that was accomplished Under Sheriff Ed Ryenga suddenly appearing was also crowding him from the outside, making an attempt to escape impossible.

When Swiftney pulled from the car innocence bristled forth and his lady friend was there to affirm its veracity, but on his person were found the sum taken from the Kroger store, and the revolver he had displayed, and in his car was an extra overcoat belonging to his deserted friend.

He was taken to the county jail where Sheriff Rosema and his force soon convinced him that he might as well confess the job, which he did, but he refused to identify his accomplice who was already known.

JURY DECREES A VERDICT OF $1,200

On Wednesday afternoon a jury in circuit court brought in a verdict in the breach of promise action tried between Mrs. Anna Brice of Grand Haven and C. Blom of Holland, awarding $1,200 to the plaintiff.

Mrs. Brice, through her attorney, Charles E. Misner, sought $25,000 damages against Mr. Blom arising out of their contemplated marriage which did not take place. She claimed that although she had received an engagement ring in October, 1931, from Mr. Blom, that he applied for a marriage license in May, 1932, and a definite date had been set for the wedding, that Mr. Blom had not appeared for the ceremony on that date. Mr. Blom claimed that his absence was due to the action of the plaintiff herself who had informed him a few days before the date set for the wedding that she desired to call the wedding off and that she would not marry him.

The case, which occupied most of the time of the court on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, attracted wide attention. Witnesses supporting the plaintiff were her son, Francis, and her daughter-in-law, the wife of Francis.

Witnesses supporting Mr. Blom were his sister, Lucy Bertsch; his son, Neal Blom; and Miss Jennie De Pree of Zeeland, Michigan, who had at one time been a roomer in the Brice home at Grand Haven.

The testimony showed that Mrs. Brice and Mr. Blom had been casual acquaintances before the spring of 1931, at which time they began meeting frequently at the home of Mr. Blom's mother in Holland; that sometime in May, 1931, they definitely became engaged to be married, and that thereafter Mr. Blom called on Mrs. Brice on an average of twice a week at her home in Grand Haven; that in October he received from Mr. Blom an engagement ring, that twice during the time intervening between then and the month of May, 1932, once in October and once in January, Mr. Blom had requested postponements of the wedding to which Mrs. Brice had consented.

The sharpest conflict in the testimony of the parties arose out of the events in the month of May, 1932, after the marriage license had been applied for and up to the time of the breaking off of the engagement. There was much testimony during the trial hearing on the conduct and relationships of the respective sons of each party, Mrs. Brice contending that Neal Blom, son of the defendant, was responsible for the breaking up of the engagement, and Mr. Blom contending that Francis Brice, son of the plaintiff, had also contributed to the differences that arose between the parties.

Mr. Blom was defended by former Judge Oren S. Cross of Holland and Attorney Thomas W. Robinson of Benton Harbor.

Mrs. G. J. Diekema of Ann Arbor, a former president of the club, spoke a few words.

Following the program, refreshments were served by Mrs. J. F. Donnelly, assisted by Mrs. Albert Diekema and their committee.

Blaze Destroys Grandview Chick House

AT LEAST 150 CHICKENS SUF- FOCATE FROM SMOKE AT ZEELAND HATCHERY

Three hundred fifty chickens were lost in a fire that razed the large pedigree house on the Grand View Poultry farm Wednesday night.

Loss to the building and equipment could not be determined. The Grand View Poultry farm is one of the largest hatcheries in Ottawa county.

The fire was discovered by a passerby who detected the smoke, and the alarm brought out the fire department in time to save their large hatchery building.

The fire, it appears, was confined to the large pedigree breeding house housing ten pens of fine hens—150 hens in all—and by the time the firemen arrived the whole structure was ablaze and all the birds had already suffocated from the dense smoke.

The building was about 20x80 feet and 10 feet high, containing a considerable amount of straw litter along which the fire progressed very rapidly. The lighting system was electric with automatic control to give the hens sufficient "day-light" during the breeding season, and it is thought there must have been a defective wire somewhere in the system that caused the blaze. No one had been near the breeding house for more than two hours when the fire was discovered.

The building and the birds and the other contents are a total loss that must be considerable because the birds are valued from $5 up to $10 each for breeding purposes.

A second poultry house fire is reported in Zeeland when fire was discovered in the roof of the hatchery belonging to W. J. Bos, located at the intersection of Lincoln street and Fairview road, probably caused by sparks from a chimney.

The fire had gained considerable headway and burned a hole in the roof before the firemen arrived, but it had not yet worked down into the building.

The Zeeland firemen in both poultry house fires were on the job quickly and did fine work.

HOMES AND WHAT IS BACK OF THEM

Without doubt banks in every community hold mortgages that are slow assets at the present time and this is especially true in the larger cities and undoubtedly that is one of the reasons for the sudden deflection in the City of Detroit and that is why these institutions found themselves lacking in liquidity although that condition is fast being remedied.

But there is another side to the picture and this might be applied right in Holland. The loans we speak of are on our homes and these constitute 75 per cent of all the loans placed by the local banks.

Outside of actual cash, these mortgages are, in the long run, the surest, most dependable assets any banking institution can possess. In comparison only a small percentage is invested in industrial mortgages—while the bulk of the assets are chiefly security for small loans made on the very homes we live in right here in our beautiful city.

The banks of Holland today hold nearly $2,000,000 of such mortgages, averaging less than $2,500 a piece, and even in these troublesome times nearly all of them are being well serviced, with interest and principal payments being made regularly and taxes being kept up.

The amounts of these mortgages do not exceed 50 per cent of the appraised values of the properties behind them, and incidentally the appraised value of a house and lot has no relationship with what may have been the selling price in the recent boom times. The appraised value is the actual value.

There is no doubt about the entirely substantial nature of the values by which the loans of banks to the home owners of Holland are secured. The real estate is there and is worth the money and more; and behind that is the determination of owners to keep for themselves the houses where they live, where they are bringing up their children, and where their savings have been invested. This undoubtedly can be said of Holland in a larger measure than any city in the state.

Today these home mortgages unquestionably are better than any other collateral except government bonds. If they are slow they are safe investments.

Poor Outlook

An anonymous English poet doesn't take very kindly to the life that our longevity is increasing.

"So we're all getting stronger, are bound to live longer? There's nothing consoling in that! It's really no blessing; in fact, it's distressing to think we may rival the cat."

"The chap who has married will wish he had tarried: Nine lives with one wife, in a bog of credits for dresses and crimps in her tresses would equal nine lives of a dog."

"Whoever's elated to learn we are slated for ancient Methuselah's role, is perfectly sappy—or maybe he's happy at thought of nine lives on the dole."—Boston Transcript.

How Shoes Are Measured

The difference in the width sizes of shoes is one-twelfth of an inch, according to the standard system of measurement, explains Pathfinder Magazine. Widths are indicated alphabetically by letters; as, AAA, AA, A, B, C, D, E. The first letter stands for the narrowest widths, and the greater widths are indicated progressively to E. By width is meant the amount of ball room in the shoes, that is, the widest part of the front section of the shoe. Combination lasts are often used. An A width may be used for the heel and a B width for the ball. This gives a snug fit to persons having small boned ankles.

Fishes Do Not Drink

When you say a man "drinks like a fish," you really imply that he does not drink. For fishes swallow no water for refreshment. When you see a fish opening and closing its mouth it is merely breathing. Water is taken in, but it does not pass down the throat to the body. While the fish breathes, its gullet is tightly constricted at the back by means of muscles encircling the throat, and the water flows away over the gills. While water does not pass the closed gullet, solid food can force an entrance. When it presses against the back of the gullet, the muscles relax enough to allow it to force a way down into the stomach. Fishes require fresh air as much as humans do.

Twain's Famous Advice

Then there is Mark Twain's advice to young authors. You remember he said:

"Yes, Agassiz does recommend authors to eat fish, because the phosphorus in it makes brains. So far you are correct. But I cannot help you to a decision about the amount you need to eat—at least, not with certainty. If the specimen composition you send is about your fair usual average, I should judge that perhaps a couple of whales would be all you would want for the present. Not the largest kind, but simply good, middling-sized whales."—W. Orton Twison, in the Detroit News.

Famous Literary Group

The name "Hartford Wits" was given by the cultivated circles of the United States to a group of Connecticut professional men and literary aspirants, who lived in Hartford or met there for conversation and collaboration from shortly after the Revolution till toward 1800. The exact composition of the group is not uniformly agreed upon, but the unquestioned members were Richard Alsop, Joel Barlow, Theodore Dwight, Lemuel Hopkins and David Humphreys. Benjamin Trumbull, the historian, is sometimes added.

CENTRAL PARK

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob H. De Pree were recent visitors at the home of Maurice Hendrickson of Grand Rapids.

The Willing Workers aid met at the church Thursday afternoon. Mrs. John L. Van Huis and Mrs. Justin Kronmeyer were the hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Van Der Meer called on Mr. and Mrs. William Vogel of Grand Rapids last Saturday.

A large group of children from the Lakeview school were taken to Holland Tuesday afternoon to attend the matinee of the operetta, "Cinderella." Among those furnishing transportation were Ben H. Williams, Neil Stroop and F. J. Van Dyk.

Ben H. Williams was in Chicago on business this week. Miss Martha Van Dyk of Chicago visited at the parsonage on Monday.

Mrs. D. Van Der Meer is in charge of the transportation of those ladies of the church who wish to attend the World Day of Prayer meeting at the Methodist church Friday afternoon at 2:30. Clayton St. John has been attending the session of the circuit court.

Richard St. John entertained a group of friends at an informal party at his home Wednesday evening. Among those present were Edna Berkompas, Betty Nieuwma, Alfred Berkompas and Harris Nieuwma.

There was a good attendance at the Christian Endeavor meeting in the church last Sunday evening. Jean Helmink spoke on the topic "How We Can Make Christ Attractive to New Americans."

Too Exacting

One day a fashionably dressed man entered Howell's music store in Bristol and asked to see some piano music. Howell put before him the latest sonatas, just published. The stranger looked at them, then said:

"I do not care for these. I do not like them, show me something better."

"Something better?" Howell exclaimed rather impatiently. "There is nothing better! I am sorry not to be able to serve you. Good day sir."

The stranger smilingly replied: "I have written these myself. I am Haydn."

At which Howell fell on his neck overjoyed to make the acquaintance of the great composer. They became fast friends.—Kansas City Star.

Hope College News

7734 week! That was the reason for the shiny noses, black cotton stockings and Frosh tams blossoming forth.

Tuesday morning the Frosh Sorosites passed candy around and if the professors found some students unable to answer questions this was the solution of the mystery—candy (especially caramels) makes students dumb.

Wednesday the Frosh kept silence for the day. At the basketball game on Thursday night they sang "Smiles," accompanied by trombones. And on Friday night came the initiation.

Fourteen Pledges draped in sackcloth and ashes entered the tribunal one by one. When the proceedings were all finished, Frosh and Soph laid aside all animosities and over ice cream and wafers again became the best of friends.

Last Sunday, February 12, Sorosites held a Valentine tea at the home of Jean Bosman. Around a cheerful fire the Sorosites gathered, sipping tea and eating dainty sandwiches, heart-shaped cookies, and motto candies.

A sextet sang several nursery rhymes and the well known "Trees." Margaret and Cornelia Stryker and Ruth Mullenberg played several numbers. The climax of the afternoon was the old fashioned Valentine box in which was something for everyone.

On February 17th the new Dorians brought us "The Book Shelf." Lois Van Zommeren read from the Good Book. Resumes on several new books were given by Pauline Bush. Leona Pulen related to us a fascinating fairy tale, "Modern Cinderella." The music book was opened by Leona Schipper and Lois Van Zommeren. An interesting biography of George Washington was given by Janet Derks. Melodies from the song book were rendered by Doris Van Lente, Leona Peelen and Leona Schipper. The novel took the part of a one-act play. Book of Magic revealed pleasant surprises for us all. A new rug which will add much cheer to the room was presented by the new girls. The cook book gave us our dainty luncheon and everyone had a happy time visiting and working jig saws.

Alethea

While the snow was blowing in flurries outside, the Aletheans gathered about a cozy fireplace for an informal tea and election of officers February 8. Those elected were Josephine Kaper, president; Josephine Ayers, vice president; Maggie Kole, secretary; Margaret Repic, treasurer; keeper of the archives, Gertrude Zonnebelt; and sergeant-at-arms, Sally Sterken. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, Anne Frissel.

Last Friday evening the various anniversaries which occur in February were observed. An interesting news report was given by S. Sterken and a piano solo was rendered by M. Audemool as a tribute to Wagner. The life of Thomas Edison was reviewed by G. Zonnebelt and several readings on Lincoln were given by E. Boschker. The remainder of the evening was delightfully spent in playing games, directed by A. Witaneke.

The weekly meeting of the Delphi Literary Society was held Friday evening, Feb. 17. But this time the meeting was anticipated with fear and trembling—by the Frosh, and rightly so, for on that night the society "celebrated" informal initiation.

The initiation was held in the form of a court trial and Judge M. Scholten held court with the aid of the Sophomore lawyers, the Seniors and Juniors acting as the unprejudiced jury.

The offending Freshmen were brought to trial, one by one, and pronounced guilty unanimously by the jury. The honorable judge then pronounced the sentences and the bewildered culprits were given the "death walk."

After further reprimanding the court was adjourned with the singing of the Delphia songs.

The Knick meeting of February 24th opened with a rousing song fest under the direction of the blond maestro, Lloyd Chapman. The meeting was then called to order by President Bruce Van Leeuwen.

Deon Dekker read the Current Events number of the evening. Herbert Marsilje then read a serious number entitled, "Capitalism and War." Turning to a lighter subject, Bob Dorian read a play which he had written on "College Life."

Monday, "Initiation Week" began for incoming members of the

Holland High School
NewsNotable Speakers Address
Teachers on Problems of School Life

According to a yearly custom, a South Ottawa County Teachers' Institute was held in Holland High school Thursday, February 16. School work was suspended for the day while the instructors, under the leadership of Superintendent E. E. Fell, listened to a number of inspiring talks.

"Seasoned" educators were present, including F. E. Ellsworth, superintendent of the training school at Western State Teachers' college, who addressed the audience with two excellent speeches.

The first was "A Teacher's Philosophy," in which he stressed the qualities of a good teacher; the second, "Current Teacher Problems." There are three kinds of citizens who are causing school problems, asserted Mr. Ellsworth. The tax delinquent, or the citizen who cannot pay his taxes; the tax dodger, and the "fad eliminator." The tax question has become a serious one in the education of Michigan boys and girls, according to Mr. Ellsworth.

A history of education in Michigan and an address on "Marginal Teaching" was given by L. L. Tyler, professor of education at Alma college. He made an appeal for the teaching of pupils instead of books. Mr. Clifford spoke on the Michigan state teachers' retirement fund.

Music for the institute meetings was supplied by the Holland Junior High school band, the fifth and sixth grade chorus of Washington school, and a group of songs by the Holland Senior High school Girls' Glee club.

The cast and chorus of the opera "Cinderella," which is to be presented February 28 and March 2 and 3, are holding practices regularly, and the characters are mastering the catchy lines of conversation and music. The twelve hours, a chorus of fifth and sixth graders from Froebel and Lincoln schools, are to appear on the stage in the form of a clock. There is a chorus of fairies, selected from the fifth and sixth grades of Washington school. The group of house maids and servants, the merry venders and court attendants are from high school.

The characters are to be costumed like the children in the Nursery Rhyme stories. The children will wear simple dresses with pantalettes, aprons and caps; the court and attendants will wear colonial costumes. This opera is being presented under the auspices of the Holland Teachers' club. There will be representatives from every school in the city.

Principal J. J. Riemersma called a meeting of the senior and junior classes, asking for their aid in the assembly room during devotions.

Features Musical Numbers
by Miss Nella Meyer,
Girls' Sextette

The first assembly program this semester was given February 15 by the Home Economics Department. The program was announced by Angelyn Van Lente and consisted of musical numbers. Miss Nella Meyer, instructor at Hope college, played two groups of piano solos.

The girls sextet, consisting of Marianne Bocks, Adelaide Kooiker, Angelyn Van Lente, Edna Dalman and Dorothy Steketee, accompanied by Barbara Lampen, sang "By the Bend of the River" and "The Italian Street Singer."

Miss Anna Dehn, penmanship instructor, has announced that among the junior high students who have been awarded their advanced diplomas for business forms are Ellen Rhea, Gertrude Beyer, Claribel Stoltz and Donald Poppena.

Those receiving their Student

Certificates are Ruth Woldring, Ann Klaver, Donald Van Ark, Thelma Harmen, Virginia Van Kampen, Catherine Hoeksema, Angeline Van Heuvelen, Anna Van Ingel, Alberta Alderink, Anna Botis, Alice Achterhof, Ruth Ploegsma, Hilda Anderson, Laurine Sybesma, Beth Marcus, Marjorie Combs, Florence Nienhuis, Eunice Bennett, Dorothy Van Langeveld, Cornelia Keen and Mildred Bos.

Those receiving their Improvement Certificates include Vearle Baldus, Donald Wierda, Myra Grover, Jane Serier, Marjorie Wenzel, Vivian Mae Benjamin, Ruth Mitchell, Clarence Hopkins, Rose Vander Schel.

Geerlings Urges Schools to Continue High Standards,
Ideals and Work

Henry Geerlings, secretary of the board of education, spoke before the student body during the morning devotional period February 7. In his speech he carefully explained the necessity of the present rate of taxes.

The school situation, he explained, would be serious next year for, although the schools had wonderful teachers, how could all of the obligations be met if taxes were not paid? Because more pupils attend school, new buildings have to be erected and new teachers engaged. These cost money.

The percentage of those attending high school has increased 195 per cent; Junior high, 68 per cent; and grammar school, 52 per cent. Pioneer schools lacked the advantages the schools of today possess, but somehow the present-day students do not make the most of them.

"You have strong minds and strong souls, but they cost money. They are worth it, but be careful to develop them properly. Take all of your opportunities and make the most of them," the speaker said.

Mr. Geerlings also stressed the responsibility of the students, for, he explained, "You are the real asset of the town. Upon you rests the burden of the town. If you do not do your part what will become of the town?"

The students were told to tell their parents "to stand behind our government and push it."

"If everyone does this," Mr. Geerlings explained, "we will win out because our country is built on a good foundation."

Of Holland High school and has done all he could to improve its conditions during the many years that he has served as a member of the school board of the Holland public schools.

Forty-Acre Tract Presented for Biologists to Start Planting

For several years Miss Lida Rogers of the biology department of high school has hoped there might be purchased a tract of land for a school forest on which experiments in forestry, landscaping and gardening could be carried out.

The past month Albert Keppel of this city has offered a plot of forty acres of land to the school for this sort of work. The land, which is situated on the Getz farm road directly east of Tower park, was bought by Mr. Keppel several years ago with the idea of planting it in trees, but he has not been able to carry out his plan.

Mr. E. V. Hartman, chairman of the nut planting committee of the Exchange club, made the offer to the board of education at its regular monthly meeting Monday, February 13, and promised that the Exchange club would co-operate with the school in the tree planting.

A committee, consisting of Andrew Klomparsen, Mrs. Martha D. Kollen and Cornelius De Kraker, was named by the president of the board of education to consider details in connection with the reforestation program.

A project of this sort would be of very little expense to the board as the boys in the biology department would plant the trees, which could be obtained without cost, either from Michigan State college or from the state forestry department. The University of Michigan and the county agent would assist.

Since property which is donated to an organization for such work is tax free, the only expenses would be a small amount for labor and tools.

Edison's Wonder Work

When Edison entered the Jungle of earth's elemental forces, the carbon arc-light of Sir Humphrey Davy and Faraday was sending its first uncertain blue flashes across the world's night. It sputtered like a short circuit and sometimes behaved as temperamental as lightning. The night of the world, except for this crude device, was lighted by tallow, oil and gas. All of earth's illuminants, compared with sunlight, were no more than a burning match. —Exchange.

Spelling of "Hare-Brained" The original and correct form of the word is "hare-brained." It means flighty, skittish or reckless and refers to the characteristics of a hare. "Mad as a March hare" had a somewhat similar origin. A wild, heedless, foolish, volatile or giddy person is said to be hare-brained because he has or shows no more brains or sense than a hare or rabbit. The word is sometimes incorrectly written "hair-brained," even by reputable writers, and that spelling, which began to occur before the year 1800, has led many to seek a different origin of the term.

Elephant Made History in Conquest of India

If, in 1700 B. C., numbers had decided the conflict between Alexander the Great and the Indian prince, Porus, on the battlefield of Jellum, the Greek influence in India would have been unknown, but it was for the elephant to make history. In the forefront of the great Indian army was a vanguard of elephants which were expected to trample beneath their feet and to terrorize the insolent foe. Behind the elephants were the cavalry and the charioteers, and behind the cavalry and the charioteers were the infantry. Alexander ordered his men to direct all their arrows against and to throw lighted torches in the faces of the elephants. The frightened pachyderms turned swiftly around and stamped the cavalry and the charioteers behind them; these in turn stampeded the infantry, and in a few moments the fate of western India was decided. If, indeed, there had been no elephants, there would have been no Patalla and no Hyderabad.

Museum Exhibit Recalls

The Museum of Science and Industry, Chicago, has among its exhibits several cans of soup which were carried by the major relief expedition sent to Third General A. W. Greeley, United States soldier and explorer, more than a half century ago.

Greeley's famous expedition to the Arctic regions was undertaken in 1881. The party reached Discovery Harbor on Lady Franklin bay, Grinnell land, during the summer. There they established a permanent station, where they remained until the late summer of 1883, when they retreated southward, finally reaching Cape Sabine after a journey of 400 miles. There they expected to meet relief ships, or at least to find supplies cached at designated points. Failing in this, they were obliged to spend the winter at Cape Sabine, where all but seven of the party lost their lives as a result of starvation and exposure.

Luminous Paints

The luminous constituent of paints is usually the sulphide or sulphate of calcium, barium or strontium; when these are exposed to very strong light they become luminous. The luminous paint on some watch dials is made from zinc sulphide, which has been exposed to rays emanating from radium. An example of a luminous paint giving a violet light is as follows: 100 parts each of sulphur and a strontium carbonate, .5 parts each of potassium chloride and sodium chloride, 4 parts of manganese chloride. These materials are heated together to a very high temperature for some time.

Army of Women

Chinese women formed an army to save their country and turned defeat into victory, in 1853 during the Taiping rebellion, which broke out three years before. At Nanking, an army of 600,000 women recruited from various parts of the Chinese empire, was organized and divided into brigades of 33,000 each, under female officers. For garrison duty in the city, 10,000 were selected and the rest performed the ordinary routine of a soldier's life. Though they were a great help they did not bring immediate victory to the cause. The rebellion was not finally suppressed until 1864.

Rare Types of Mammals in Smithsonian Exhibit

Many kinds of mammals as yet unknown to science may be hiding away in obscure corners of the earth. They lurk in the spots unvisited by man—dense jungles, high mountains, isolated islands, or in burrows under the ground. Only when they come into collections do they attract the attention of systematic biologists. Several new types of mammals have been placed in the collections of the Smithsonian institution. In most cases they are close relatives of known animals, yet differing sufficiently to merit independent classification. One of the most striking new discoveries is a black ape described by Gerrit S. Miller, Jr., Smithsonian curator of mammals. It was discovered in a collection from the island of Celebes. While it belongs to the baboon family it is a smaller relative of the big Celebes ape that we commonly see in the zoos. Another new creature is a hitherto unknown type of vole, a tiny ratlike rodent, which lives mostly in burrows above the timber line high up in the Endicott mountains of Alaska. Still others are two new members of the cat family—"long-tailed tiger cats," closely related to the Central American ocelot, from Mexico, a new fox from Trinidad valley, lower California, and an unknown variety of the Peromyscus from the Coronado Islands.

Sawfish Probably Most Terrible of Ocean Fish

The whole scheme of nature is unspeakably cruel, and far more so among marine animals than among the beasts of the land jungles, John Edwin Hogg asserts, in the Los Angeles Times. The acme of this cruelty seems to be represented in the food habits of the sawfish. These terrible creatures belong to the shark family. They are common throughout the Gulf of California. Specimens of them have been taken 20 feet in length and weighing a ton.

In general they are somewhat similar to the swordfish, but instead of being equipped with a sword, the sawfish has an elongated nasal appendage armed with a double row of saber-pointed saw teeth. He's a specialist in food, and while not averse to an occasional meal of marine carrion, he has a pleasant little habit of slashing his food off of living prey. He will slip up under any large marine creature he may come upon and with a terrific lunge tear into his victim with his saw. He usually manages to disembowel them. Then he feasts.

Ball Games in History

Football as a game was the subject of stern repressive laws as far back as the time of the Black Prince—aye, and even earlier, in the days of which Homer wrote. The people of Israel as far back as the year 750 B. C. played a game with a ball to be thrown, kicked or otherwise propelled by players, as witness the twenty-second chapter of Isaiah, in which the prophet said: "He will turn and toss thee like a ball." That this game of ball was brought by the children of Israel from the land of Egypt is indicated by inscriptions carved on monuments beside the Nile. And this written word of Isaiah takes the beginning of the game back about 3,000 years ago.

Miraculous Thorn

The Glastonbury Thorn is the hawthorn tree which sprang from the spot on Wearyall hill, at Glastonbury in England, where Joseph of Arimathea set his pilgrim's staff while on his mission to convert Britain. As the result of its holy origin, this hawthorn bloomed miraculously at Christmas, the natural blossoming season of the hawthorn being in May and June. During the Cromwellian civil war the thorn tree was destroyed by a fanatical Puritan, but grafts from it were saved, replanted, and persisted in their miraculous Christmas blooming in defiance of botanical laws. A stone now marks the spot of the original tree.

Blindfolded Judge

James Hawkins Peck, Missouri's first United States judge, dispensed justice literally blindfolded like the allegorical figure of the goddess of Justice, in the days when St. Louis was a mere trading-post of only 5,000 population.

Judge Peck always sat on the bench blindfolded, affecting this covering because of fear that light would cause him to lose his sight. Whenever he left his home he donned the blindfold. A servant led him to his carriage and assisted him to his place in the courtroom. The clerk of the court and attorneys appearing before him were forced to read all essential documents to him.

"Amerind"

In general use the term American Indian was frequently abbreviated to Indian and this led to confusion with the Indian who is inhabitant of the East Indies. So to designate the American Indian the bureau of American ethnology authorized the word Amerind or Amerindian which is a combination of the two words American and Indian.

The last resting place of a Roman or fossil elephant that died perhaps 25,000 years before the Christian era was believed to have been found recently at the foot of a small hill between the Coliseum and the Constantine Basilica. A molar tooth three meters (about 117 inches) and 75 centimeters wide was unearthed at the foot of the hill. It was at a depth of about 45 feet in ground formed by alluvial sand. It is believed the carcass was transported to Italy by floods, as prehistoric mammoths have never been traced near Rome before.

Man's "Allotted Years"

Disputed by Scientist
Deterioration in old people is not due chiefly to any inevitable defect in the bodily machinery; it appears more in feeling than it exists in fact. This was the conclusion of Prof. Walter R. Miles, of Stanford university, published in a report of the National Academy of Sciences.

The statement was based on a series of mental and physical tests of more than 800 persons which proved that many individuals of seventy years and over responded as readily and accurately to tests as did many not over fifty. The slowing down of the activities of aged persons, Professor Miles concluded, was attributable to a psychological defensive measure.

In large part, doubtless, it is a concession to opinion and an effect of tradition. The aging person so frequently is told he is "getting old" and must slow down, that he obeys as bowing to the inevitable. In like manner probably many succumb to ailments which they might resist were they not induced by their frame of mind to accept them as necessary and invincible enemies. It is quite possible that the age limit might be considerably extended were it not for the age-old tradition that man's allotted span is three-score years and ten.

Professor Miles' studies should encourage those worthy enthusiasts who set their stake at attaining the century mark.—Detroit News.

Mendel Now Recognized as Leader in Genetics

Genetics, or the study of heredity and hereditary changes, was first recognized in 1900 when Hugo DeVries, the Dutch scientist, discovered a published study made by the Austrian monk Gregor Johann Mendel of his experiments in breeding peas, in 1865. But the study, now recognized as one of the most thorough scientific experiments ever made and recorded, was published in an obscure journal and lost to the world until Professor DeVries found and recognized its worth. The wide recognition of Mendel's law, which still guides the profession, led to the first international congress in London in 1905. The meeting was held to discuss hybrids and hybridizing; the term genetics was not accepted until the next congress in Paris in 1910; since that time other conferences have been held in London, Berlin and New York city.

First Railroad Tickets

In 1836 Thomas Edmondson of Lancaster, England, was station master and booking clerk in the little station of Milton, on the then Newcastle & Carlisle railway. Feeling the need for a systematic check on the issuance of tickets, he first wrote with pen and ink upon pieces of cardboard the names of the issuing and collecting stations, the number of the ticket and fare for the journey. He next evolved a case in which the various descriptions of tickets could be safely kept and at the same time conveniently issued. This resulted in the Edmondson ticket case, which remained in use, without improvement, until the invention of an American ticket case in 1874.

Good Word for Starling

The starling's habit of flying in great flocks has been subject to comment by writers even as far back as Pliny. The extraordinary precision with which the flock of hundreds, or even thousands, whelps, closes, opens up, rises and descends, as if the whole body were a single living thing, all these movements being executed without a note or cry being uttered, must be seen to be appreciated, and may be seen repeatedly with pleasure. This same flocking habit, which gives starlings much blame, may also be an asset, in the case of extreme insect plagues, when the huge flocks may descend upon a stricken area and "clean up" the insects in short order.

Plaintive "Love Song"

When you hear the plaintive drawn-out wail that is the note of the screech owl, you will wonder where the tufted little fellow ever got his name. If you are melancholy yourself you may vibrate in sympathy to the note of sadness in his voice. If you are superstitious, you will think of evil things to happen. To many folks the harmless little owl, smallest of all the "creed" owls, is regarded as a bird of ill omen. But if you are a lover of the wild, and interested in living things for their own sakes, you will probably say that the screech owl is only uttering his love song—appreciated by none except the one for whose ears it is intended.—Exchange.

Refrigeration Idea

With the aid of a gas flame, which he used to heat a few simple elements enclosed in a bent and sealed glass tube, Michael Faraday discovered the absorption principle of refrigeration in 1823, according to a manufacturer. "This discovery was the real foundation of the modern refrigeration industry, and refrigerators of today follow the original idea uncovered by the English scientist," he says.

One of Harriest Trials

To have produced works of genius and to find them neglected or treated with scorn is one of the heaviest trials of human patience. We exaggerate our own merits when they are denied by others and are apt to grudge and cavil at every particle of praise bestowed on those to whom we feel a conscious superiority. In mere self-defense we turn against the world when it turns against us; brood over the undeserved slights we have received and thus the genial current of the soul is stopped.—Hallitt: The Spirit of the Age.

What Will She Do About It?

H. L. CRAWFORD is one of the most successful merchants in the Middle West. He has built a business in his town that has made him famous—and a mighty substantial citizen!

How did he do it? Well, Crawford is a "born salesman." He knows that if he wants to sell goods he's got to find buyers. And he must persuade folks to come back, again and again.

One of the most forceful things he does is to place in every parcel that leaves his store, a folder or booklet offering an attractive bargain. This enclosure is always an effective piece of advertising, and it gets results.

The publishers of this paper are eager to produce that kind of printed matter for the merchants of this community. We want to serve you in that way. Please ask us to call and we'll discuss a plan.

A large Michigan home recently was saved from extensive fire damage because aid could be summoned instantly... by telephone. Following is an excerpt from the newspaper account of the fire:

"Will Keep His Telephone"

"Mr. T. said that he had expected to take out his telephone as an economy measure, but this experience has settled the policy of his household, on this question, for all time. Without the use of the telephone, his damage would have been much greater. He complimented the telephone service and the work of the firemen."

Gunman Holds Up Gr. Haven Man Takes His Car

ORVILLE BEERS RELIEVED OF AUTO BY SUPPOSED CUSTOMER WHO CARRIES GUN

A hold-up was staged on US-31 today at 11 a. m. when Orville Beers of the Beers Motor company, Grand Haven, was forced out of his car at the point of a gun and the driver, a supposed customer to whom the car was being demonstrated, disappeared south, leaving Mr. Beers stranded on the roadside.

A well-dressed man about 25 years old, came into the garage about 10:30 a. m. today, presumably to purchase a used car. He said he wanted a demonstration to see what the car would do, and Mr. Beers offered to take him out. They drove to US-31 with the stranger at wheel. When at the Stone school house the driver turned around, slowed down and ordered Mr. Beers to get out and to make it snappy.

Mr. Beers complied and the man drove on about forty rods until he found a driveway to turn around in and then disappeared down US-31.

The car was a used Chevrolet coach, 1930 model. The license plate was 595-361, 1932 plate. A tire cover bore the name of Beers Motor company. The car was dark blue. The man was described by Mr. Beers as being about 25, 5 feet 11 inches tall. He wore a dark overcoat, light gray cap and high cut shoes.

Mr. Beers walked to the first farm house on the highway and telephoned to the state police. Broadcasts were sent out by radio and the southern part of the state is being watched. Mr. Beers then telephoned to the garage and a car was quickly dispatched to bring him back to the city.

HOPE COLLEGE HEAD SAYS CHURCH MUST REGAIN SPIRITUALITY

The church must regain its spirituality, which has been below par, before it can go forward with new zeal, Professor Wynand Wichers, president of Hope college, Holland, told the Consistory Union of the Reformed Churches of this city at a meeting at Trinity Reformed church Monday night.

Urging the consistory members to work together for a return of spirituality to the church, Professor Wichers said that a life of spiritual culture is not abnormal, but is natural. Affiliation with a religious denomination, he said, was an avenue of opportunity and, contrary to the opinion of some persons, broadened the vision. The purpose of the church should be "to win, to educate and to minister," he said.

Dr. John O. Stryker presided. Rev. Lester Kuiper gave the benediction and Rev. John TerLouw read scripture and offered prayer. John Van Brook led singing and Maurice Hendrickson was soloist.

Farmers Will Raise Beets Says Milham

Ottawa County Will Engage In This Industry—57 Sign Contracts

Ottawa county farmers are interested in growing sugar beets this year as evidenced in a recent meeting held in the Holland town hall when 96 farmers were present and 57 signed contracts to grow beets this year.

William Vanden Berg representing the Holland Sugar company, explained the fifty-fifty contract which has proved satisfactory this year in other sections and explained the plans which have been made to open the sugar factory providing sufficient contracts are signed. A total of 6,500 acres must be certain to assure the factory of sufficient beets to operate to the advantage of producers and the manufacturers.

C. P. Milham, agricultural agent who is co-operating in the plans, told of the advantages to the farmers of growing beets. He explained that only 15 per cent of the sugar consumed in this country is produced in this country. He pointed out the income possible from growing the crop. In a short time, he stated, a new soil testing method will be received which will make possible the testing of soil for nitrogen, phosphorus and potash in addition to lime. This will enable him to recommend to the growers the analysis of fertilizer that give the greatest returns on the investment. Other meetings have already been scheduled in the News.

HOLLAND OFFICIALS TO SCAN PROSPECTS OF LIMITED BUDGET

A joint session of the various city boards, the ways and means committee and Mayor Nicodemus Bosch is scheduled for next week, when the proposed appropriations of the various departments of the city will be studied to determine whether the total reductions, under the 15-mill tax limitation law, are sufficient to operate the city.

At a preliminary meeting no definite action was taken other than to adopt the suggestion of Alderman Henry Prins, chairman of the ways and means committee, that the boards prepare budgets reduced 30 per cent under those of the present fiscal year and that the results be compared next week. According to City Clerk Oscar Peterson the total city appropriation a year ago was approximately $200,000. Of this sum, Mr. Peterson stated that about $85,000 was for debt service and would not have been included under the tax limit rule.

The welfare budget is one that has been greatly overdrawn. Approximately $86,000 has been spent in relief to needy persons for the eleven months of the fiscal year, he stated.

A program has been prepared for the occasion. The regular afternoon meeting of the Eunice Aid society will be postponed this month.

Pheasants Are Poor Travelers, Hunters Say

MOST OF THOSE KILLED DROP NEAR SPOT WHERE THEY WERE LIBERATED

It would appear that the ring-necked pheasant isn't given much to aimless wandering but likes to stick pretty close to home. A total of 5,098 cock birds banded at the state game farm at Mason were released by conservation officers in pheasant territory between the close of the 1931 pheasant hunting season and the opening of the 1932 season. One hundred ninety-two of these birds were reported to have been killed during the 1932 season and of these 55 were shot in approximately the same location at which they had been released. Forty-four were shot within one mile of the point at which they had been released; 41 within one to five miles; 20 within five to 11 miles, and one 21 miles away and two 22 miles away. Apparently but three of the number disagreed markedly with the conservation officers that released them as to what constituted "good pheasant cover."

In addition to giving some idea of the extent of traveling done by released birds information gathered through returned bands seems to indicate that the earlier the birds were released the better fitted they were to take care of themselves and to evade the guns of the hunters. Nine per cent of the birds released one month before the open season and 6.8 per cent of those released four months before were reported killed during the 1932 season as against 4 per cent of the birds released six months earlier and 1.1 per cent of those released 11 months before but after the close of the 1931 season.

The Problem of the Railroads

THE difficulty of solving the railroad problem has been greatly increased by the development of competing means of transportation by highway, waterway and airway, which are aided by subsidies by our national and state governments, and by exemption from such regulation as is applied to the railroads. The importance of the railroads to the economic welfare of the country is such that constructive efforts to solve the problem must be made at once, confronted as we are by evidence of the effects produced upon the entire industry and commerce of the country by the decline in railroad earnings.

THE SERVICE OF THE RAILWAYS IS INDISPENSABLE FOR HANDLING THE GREAT BULK OF OUR COMMERCE.

HERE are the facts as to the decline in railway earnings during this depression. The gross earnings in 1929 were $6,360,000,000 while in 1932 they will approximate only $3,200,000,000. Railroad operating expenses are 45 per cent less than they were in 1929, a decline of $2,052,000,000. This was effected by the reduction in the number of employees by about 620,000 and in the total wages paid them about $1,325,000,000. Purchases of fuel, materials and equipment have been cut about $1,430,000,000. The total reduction in wages paid, and purchases, exceeds $2,750,000,000.

THE recovery of the railways is essential to the recovery of national prosperity and they cannot recover under government policies that promote every kind of competition with them and at the same time impose every kind of restriction upon the steam lines to prevent them from meeting this competition.

EXPERIENCE AND COMMON SENSE DICTATE THAT EQUALIZATION OF TAXATION AND EQUITABLE REGULATION ARE NEEDED IN ALL BRANCHES OF TRANSPORTATION.

IMMEDIATE, vigorous action by national, state and local executives and legislators is required. They alone have the opportunity and the power to enact and enforce the remedial legislation on taxation and regulation so necessary in this extreme exigency.

THROUGH forthright action the tide can be turned, and by bringing back the railroads' purchasing power, and by their larger employment of labor, all industry will be quickened simultaneously. Every man, woman and child in the country would be benefited by this correction of basic causes.

Sun and Moon Legends

of Primitive Peoples

The natives of the Malay peninsula have an interesting myth which seeks to account for the differences between the day and night sky and also the motions of the sun and moon.

According to this legend, both the sun and the moon are regarded as women, while the stars are the children of the moon. The legend tells that the sun once had as many children as the moon. The children of the sun were bright like the sun itself.

Fearing that the earth could not stand so much light and heat, the sun and moon made an agreement to eat their children. The sun carried out her part of the agreement, but the moon only hid her children.

When the moon's children, the stars, came out at night, the sun was very angry and began to pursue the moon. This accounts for the motions of the sun and moon through the heavens, which the Malay natives regarded as a pursuit of the moon by the sun.

The stars go out as the sun rises. This, the natives say, is because the sun is still devouring her children during the daytime and brings them out at night.

Among the American Indians we find the sun and moon generally regarded as brother and sister.

One legend of the Ottawa Indians tells of two Indians who "sprang through a chasm in the sky and found themselves in a pleasant moonlit land." There they met the moon, who was "an aged woman with white face and pleasing air." She introduced them to her brother, who was the sun—David Dietz, in the New York World-Telegram.

Even Ordinary Mortal Is Rich in Ancestors

"A pedigree like this is, of course, such as few can claim," says the Canadian Mining Journal, commenting on an article on the subject of heredity. But, with reference to the pedigrees of very ordinary mortals like ourselves, it is interesting to recall that a distinguished legal commentator has estimated that at the fortieth genealogical remove—that is to say, in the course of sixteen or seventeen centuries—the total number of a man's progenitors is more than 1,000,000,000,000.

"All of us have now subsisting," wrote the great Blackstone, "nearly 270,000,000 of cousins in the fifteenth degree; and if this calculation should appear incompatible with the number of inhabitants on the earth, it is because, by intermarriages among the descendants, a hundred or a thousand different relations may be consolidated in one person, or he may be related to us in a hundred or a thousand different ways."

"What a field of speculation this train of thought opens up! Small wonder that each of us is supposed to have a 'double.'"

The "Discharge Bible," printed in 1806, received its name from a typographical error whereby the phrase "I charge thee before God" was rendered "I discharge thee before God," says an article in the Syracuse Post-Standard. The "Wife-Hater Bible" spelled "life" with a "w" in the book of Luke, with the following result: "If any man come to me, and hate not his father... yes, and his own wife also, he cannot be my disciple."

Materials Evolved by Acids Drawn From Air

Silk stockings have actually been made from air! They look very well indeed, but they have one drawback: they melt in hot weather. Still, that is a disadvantage which will doubtless be overcome in time, for the science of making silk from air is still in its infancy. Wonderful work has been done by Mr. Wallace Carothers, who has discovered that about twenty substances can be extracted from the air, each of which can be turned into a material very like flax silk in appearance. A synthetic cloth has even been evolved by treating various acids drawn from the air with a waste product of ordinary petrol.

Air plays a very important part, for we could not live for an instant without it. In the future, though, it is likely to provide things besides breath. Salt-peter, one of the most valuable fertilizers known, is already manufactured from air, and the neon gas used for filling certain kinds of electric lamp bulbs can be obtained in the same way.

Not long ago a method of extracting carbon from air was discovered, and from this it was predicted might be developed methods of obtaining both fuel and food from the atmosphere.—London Tit-Bits.

Through France By Canal

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

ONE may see France either through its front doors or its back doors. The first includes trains de luxe, bustling cities, big hotels, and personally conducting guides; and the national front-door steps are scrubbed to a whiteness for your anticipated arrival.

The second leads you, by unrequented paths, past the back doors of family life and native customs. Nobody knows you're coming, so you get the pollack and warm welcome accorded to an unexpected guest.

The back-door voyager, whose patron saint is Robert Louis Stevenson, has a confirmed preference for doing it afoot or astride a donkey or a bicycle; but a newer way is by canoe.

Such a recent voyage began at St. Malo, Brittany. Wide, wet sands where red-capped fishermen mend their nets, a tangle of narrow streets atop a fortified rock whose turreted ramparts are grim with an age-long beating back of the sea and sea-borne invaders—that is St. Malo.

La Rance, an inlet of the sea at St. Malo, was the starting point. It is a placid-appearing channel when the tide is in, but when the tide turns the very bottom seems to drop out. The tidal rise in La Rance is between 25 and 50 feet according to the season. So rapid is the rise that Breton farmer-fishermen declare that a horseman on the flats as the water starts in cannot escape it.

At Le Chatelet is the first lock which separates the turbulent Rance from the Ile-et-Rance canal. "Canal" seems almost a libelous description of those idyllic streams. Instead of some indelibly straight cut, imprisoned between stone embankments and suggestive of sewage, imagine sylvan windings innumerable, water lilies afloat, bank-bordering poplars a-march against the sky, and far ahead the subaqueous ghost of some woodland-embowered bridge dipped in the mirroring vista.

Dinan and Beyond.

Dinan is the first town of importance to be reached on the Ile-et-Rance canal. The clasp of sabots resounds through the quaint streets whose fifteenth century house walls and carved arcades befittingly frame a scene of snowy-capped old women and shovel-hatted old men, with their shrewd, kind faces of apple-red freshness. Never were such old folk as these Breton peasants—old, merely, like some seasoned vintage of "imprisoned sunshine."

Beyond Dinan all is "little country," as the French say, with here and there a cluster of red roofs, or a distant spire, or lock-keeper's house, to add their charm to that canoe-tempting stream. Everywhere there are locks. At one stretch there are 13 within four miles.

Locks are constructed for sizable boats, not for canoes. But the good-natured lock-keepers moderate the water's rush by opening the sluice-gradually. In fact, locking through—and especially in "descending" locks, where the water sinks to the level of the stream ahead—becomes even an absorbing, picture-book experience. Down you go, gradually losing sight of the world, as the lock walls rise towering about you. The ponderous gates ahead of you, closed like some big, black book cover, set you to wondering what lies behind them. Then slowly they open—the book covers part—and some new and charming picture, a Corot or perhaps a Cazin, is disclosed.

At Rennes one leaves the canal and enters the Vilaine river. It is another lovely stream, which winds its way through a flexuous, closely shorn land of, one might almost say, natural golf links. Perhaps it is an indirect compliment to the beauty of French waterways that this one should be called Ugly river.

At Redon the Paris-bound canoeist enters the Nantes-Brest canal which stretches to the Elbe river, a tributary of the Loire. This latter river is entered at Nantes and is followed upstream for nearly 200 miles to Orleans.

The Loire is loved for its sand. Though the French glass and cement industries work overtime and the dredges do their best, their united efforts at exhausting the sand of the Loire are about as effective as "seven maids with seven mops" sweeping up a sea beach. It is hopeless, even for a canoe; the best plan is to ship the craft to the middle Loire, where the chateaux are many and the sand shoals are fewer.

Langais, Luynes, Amboise, Chaumont, Blois—outstrung jewels on the river bank of the Loire! Yet they are jewels which were fashioned and set on their river-commanding heights at different periods and with different aims. Nevertheless they have an historical bond, since most of them occupy the sites of Roman camps, from which they derive their names.

Langais is a corrupted form of Allingavia, and Maille (the older name of Luynes) is but a slight modification of Malleum. But Gallia declined to remain a Roman colony, and by degrees these sites fell into the hands of the early Frenchmen. Thereupon they erected fortresses, and the Romans being out of the way, proceeded to battle among themselves.

Langais' grim walls and unornamented towers give us a fair idea of what this military fortress was in the Twelfth century, when the powerful nobles warred against each other and even against the king.

Around Langais centered the great battles between the counts of Anjou and the barons of Touraine. From behind its walls Richard of England (who was also a count of Anjou) defied the crown, and for centuries the English continued to use the castle as a base for gentlemanly brigandage, until the unhappy neighborhood bought them off with 2,000 gold crowns, stipulating that the fortress be destroyed. Thereafter hard-fisted Louis XI, having quelled his unruly vassals and unified France, rebuilt for himself a modified Langais—the castle as it stands today.

Some Lovely Chateaux.

Amboise and Chaumont belong to the same century as Langais and show the same tendencies. They are military strongholds, softening under ornamentation of pinnacles and carving toward a purpose which became always less warlike and always more luxurious.

Of this gradual transition the final stage is seen in the chateaux of Blois and Azay-le-Rideau, where not a ghost of the somber feudal fortress remains; where windows, and not loopholes, look out upon parks instead of drawbridges, and where ornament expends into the embroidery of a pleasure palace in which the rustle of silks has replaced the clang of mail. Blois is for the traveler who prefers to hobnob with the ghosts of gorgeous cardinals and queens and satin-doubled courtiers.

At Orleans the canal is regained and stretches off 125 kilometers to the Seine. At Buges, still on the canal—at the intersection of three, in fact—begins the press of canal traffic that mounts by the mile as Paris is approached.

The French canal system dates back to 1638, when the Canal de Briare was constructed. Since then it has welled into a vast complexity of routes which total more than 8,000 miles of canals and nearly 7,000 miles of navigable rivers, canalized and non-canalized.

It is no exaggeration to say that traffic may be moved from any one to any other part of France over this remarkable system, which entails an annual upkeep expenditure of 30,000,000 francs. Its longest link is the Canal du Midi, which extends 380 miles across southern France, connecting the Rhone with the Atlantic ocean.

The maximum of traffic is found on the Marne-au-Rhin canal, which in 1919 carried 110,000,000 K. T. or kilometric tons. A K. T. is one ton which has been transported one kilometer. Multiplying thus the tonnage carried by the distance it moved, we find in the same year a grand total of 773,000,000 K. T. as the canal traffic of all France.

STATE OF MICHIGAN

To the Circuit Court for the County of Ottawa in Chambers:
The petition of Oramel B. Fuller, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State, respectfully shows that the list of lands hereinafter set forth and marked "Schedule A," contains a description of all lands in said County of Ottawa upon which taxes were assessed for the years mentioned therein, and which were returned as delinquent for non-payment of taxes, and which taxes have not been paid together with the total amount of such taxes, with interest computed thereon to the time fixed for sale, and collection fee and expenses, as provided by law, extended against each of said parcels of land.

Your petitioner further shows to the Court that said lands were returned to the Auditor General under the provisions of Act 266 of the Public Acts of 1929, as delinquent for non-payment of said taxes for said years respectively, and that said taxes remain unpaid; except that lands included in said "Schedule A" for taxes of 1929 or prior years were returned to the Auditor General as delinquent for said taxes under the provisions of the general tax laws in force prior to the passage of Act 300 of the Public Acts of 1931, and which taxes remain unpaid.

Your petitioner further shows that in all cases where lands are included in "Schedule A" as aforesaid for taxes of 1930 or of any prior year, said lands have not been sold for said taxes or have been heretofore sold for said delinquent taxes and the sale or sales so made have been set aside by a court of competent jurisdiction, or have been cancelled as provided by law.

Your petitioner further shows and avers that the taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses as set forth in said "Schedule A," are a valid lien on the several parcels of lands described in said schedule.

Your petitioner further shows that the said taxes on the said described lands have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent; and the said taxes not having been paid, and the same being now due and remaining unpaid as above set forth, your petitioner prays a decree in favor of the State of Michigan against each parcel of said lands, for the payment of the several amounts of taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses, as computed and extended in said schedule against the several parcels of land contained therein, and in default of payment of the said several sums computed and extended against said lands, that each of said parcels of land may be sold for the amounts due thereon, as provided by law, to pay the lien aforesaid. And your petitioner will ever pray, etc.

Dated December 5, 1932.

"Give Him One of Your Cards, Bob!"

Two men in a sedan and a farmer and his boy in a smaller car had stopped on a country road for a short discussion of business in general. The farmer and one of the men from town were old friends. The other was unknown to him.

"Give Mr. Hartley one of your cards, Bob," suggested the farmer's friend. "You ought to do some business with him before long."

Now, if Bob had presented his card to Mr. Hartley, there would be little of interest to us in the transaction. But Bob did not have a card to give him!

Whatever your business or profession may be, you can't afford to be without a supply of personal cards. Your business is built by making yourself known favorably to a lot of people. ## TREASURE LURE DRAWING

Cocos Island, in the South Pacific, is again luring gold hunters, notes the Atlanta Journal, referring to expeditions to "that olden haunt of pirates in the South Pacific." In search of "treasure fabled to be worth between $25,000,000 and $75,000,000—a treasure that has long proved a will-o'-the-wisp," according to the Journal. "But," comments this paper, analyzing the persistence of the search, "it isn't the gold merely that these smitten hearts desire; it's the sea wind, the lonely beach, the forest tangle, the very hardship and danger that lift life above humdrum in their foretaste if not in reality. Men will ever be hunters and sailors; and the wilder the chase, the more perilous the voyage, the better they will fancy it."

Future Domestic Fowls

How long will it be, one wonders, before our domestic fowls will come to depend upon man's incubating systems, and conclude their parental duties with the laying of their eggs as do the ostriches? Darwin taught us how imitative birds and beasts are, and how quick to learn and progress along paths of improvement. Ostriches do not hatch their eggs, nor tend their chicks after they leave their shells, because it is unnecessary for them so to do. Will men teach their fowls to follow their example?

His Promise Fulfilled

By EWART PARRETT

THE long freight slowed to a stop at the small station on the outskirts of St. Albans. Bob Jefferies swung himself from the engine cab and for a moment gazed ahead, where directly in his path, vast sections of the forest burned fiercely.

The night agent stood on the platform, a slip of paper in his left hand, a revolver in his right. "Bad news, Bob," he called warily as Jefferies approached.

The engine driver sprang up beside him. "Yes? But how's the track? Can I get through tonight?" Then noting the revolver he demanded: "What's the trouble?"

The night agent's face was fraught with anxiety. "This wire is from the chief," he replied. "You are to put No. 13 on the siding here. It is impossible to proceed further. And say!"—he stepped closer, his low voice harsh with anger—"Two bandits held up the State bank at Barton this afternoon and one of the murderous devils shot down a little girl in cold blood! They were seen to jump your train as you passed through Barton."

Jefferies muttered a fierce oath. "Well, one thing is certain," he growled. "If I brought them this far, they won't travel much further tonight!"

"I'm going to find out if they came," declared the agent. Jefferies leaped down to the rails. "Wait a moment!" he cried. "I'll put the old bus on the siding, then I'll join you."

Some five minutes later, two men slunk from the shadows across the tracks and under cover of the noise made by the shunting train hastened up the road leading to the village.

The elder man, Tom Guthrie, had been wounded in fighting off their pursuers at Barton. He turned weakly to his companion and asked, "Where are we, Bill?"

"In Canada, I believe," replied Ryerson. "Let's move," muttered Guthrie. "I'm getting worse." Without warning, he fell heavily to the road.

As Ryerson lifted up the wounded man, a shout rang out from the station.

Guthrie stirred painfully. "They've seen us! Hide me somewhere! They must not take me alive!"

Ryerson perceived the dim outlines of an isolated barn just ahead and close to the road. With a grunt, he threw the other across his shoulder, and trudged toward the structure.

After a silence that seemed interminable, Guthrie opened his eyes.

Death by Electricity
It usually takes a tenth of an ampere through the vital organs to kill a man, but under some conditions a current of electricity only one-quarter as strong will do so. There is a wide variation in the amount of current necessary to kill for different individuals. To electrocute criminals 4,000 volts are used. If the skin is wet, a much lower voltage may have this effect. Many cases are known in which 110 volts applied to the wet skin, so as to produce a current through the vital organs, have caused death.
