C. C. DIRECTORS ASK CITY TO BUY TANNERY BLOCK

Option on Property Will Expire Here at End
of April

Site Would Be Held for Location of Proposed
Youth Center

Directors of the Holland Chamber of Commerce at their monthly meeting Monday night went on record as favoring the purchase of the so-called tannery property by the city of Holland. A committee was appointed to meet with common council in an effort to devise some means of arranging the purchase of the property, located in the block bounded by Eighth and Ninth Sts. and Maple and Pine Aves. Members of the committee are Dick Boter, Henry Carley and Alfred C. Joldersma.

On May 22, 1940, the Armour Leather Co., owners of the property, gave an option to a committee, composed of Charles R. Sligh, Jr., H. S. Covell, Mr. Boter and Andrew Klompars, to buy this piece of property at any time on or before April 30, 1941 for $10,400 in cash, the conveyance to be subject to real estate taxes for 1940.

It was pointed out in the discussions that if the city desires to purchase this property it will have to act before April 30 as private interests are considering the purchase of it for mercantile purposes.

Purchase of the property is desired as a site for the possible construction of a youth center and civic auditorium in Holland. The problem has been considered by the board of directors for more than a year.

About a year ago a special committee was named by Clarence J. Valving, Chamber of Commerce president, to work out the project.

Ald. Cornelius Kalkman, Sr., waged a prolonged fight in council several years ago for the city's purchase of the property.

Monday night's meeting featured a dinner of king fish which had been brought from Florida by John Cooper.

Directors voted $250 to the West Michigan Tourist and Resort association to advertise Michigan as a resort state, inviting tourists to spend their vacations in this vicinity.

The secretary-manager was authorized to attend the state convention of the Michigan Commercial Secretaries association at Lansing, March 28 and 29.

He also was instructed to contact proper authorities to have life lines placed at the Ottawa beach oval and Tunnel park for the protection of bathers against the danger of lake undercurrents.

TO TEST TULIP ESSAY PROJECT

Bureau Also Votes Against Sending Delegation to Washington

The Tulip Time bureau held a meeting Wednesday night at the Warm Friend tavern to discuss and dispose of matters pertaining to the 1941 festival to be held May 17 to 24.

Due to the many requests from various schools for material on the festival, the committee decided to try out a plan among the rural schools of one county, yet to be selected, whereby any child who mails an essay from 100 to 200 words on any angle of the festival will receive one set of the 32 four-colored poster stamps.

Clyde Geerlings and S. H. Houtman, festival general manager, were appointed as a committee to investigate the cost of taking 16 mm. colored movies of the festival for distribution among schools and horticultural groups.

The bureau voted not to send a delegation of wooden shoe dancers to the national folk festival in Washington, D.C., after an invitation had been received. Wooden shoe dancers participated in last year's event.

A constitution and by-laws for the operation of the Tulip Time bureau was accepted. They were submitted by Vernon D. Ten Cate. It will be forwarded to the board of directors of the Holland Chamber of Commerce for final acceptance. A special meeting of the board will be arranged for next week to consider this matter.

COURT REVENUE SO FAR IS OVER FIVE THOUSAND

Ten-Month Total Does Not Include Thousand in State Fines

Twelve Hundred and Fifty
Two Cases Heard by City Judge

Reporting on activities of the municipal court for the first 10 months of its existence, Municipal Judge Raymond L. Smith today said the cash receipts for the city from April 6, 1940, to Feb. 28, 1941, totaled $5,159.80.

This does not include approximately $1,000 which was paid as state fines to Ottawa county, Judge Smith reported.

Total number of cases heard in by the court through March 11 was 1,252. This includes 938 criminal cases, 304 civil cases and 109 civil garnishment cases. This number does not include criminal cases where juveniles were arrested or where mere warning was given, the court said.

Holland's municipal court is nearing its first birthday, having been established April 6, 1940, after voters had approved a charter amendment to abolish the justice of the peace system. Council appointed Judge Smith to fill the office until a judge could be elected. At the February primary, Smith was elected to a six-year term and will assume office Jan. 1, 1942.

The salary of a judge is $2,400 a year.

SMITH DEFENDS LOCAL COUNCIL IN HOTEL PROBE

Replies to Straatsma Who Asked for Hearing to Clear Self

Judge Declares Denial of Beer and Wine License
Was Justified

Replying to John Straatsma who has "questioned the courage of the prosecutor and court to face the music" relative to a one-man grand jury investigation into the "Hotel Marquette" case of a year ago, Municipal Judge Raymond L. Smith, in a statement on Friday, said "that the record of the recent grand jury proceedings discloses beyond any doubt that the common council reached a just decision when it denied a beer license to Mr. Straatsma."

"No further proceedings were taken following the grand jury hearing because the court and prosecutor felt that there was sufficient punishment in the denial of a liquor license," Judge Smith, before whom the grand jury investigation was conducted, stated.

Straatsma appeared before common council last Wednesday to renew his request for a public hearing on the charges made against him which prompted council to recommend to the state liquor control commission that his retail beer and wine license be revoked. Straatsma, in his remarks, inquired about the findings of the grand jury investigation and why he was not prosecuted if guilty of the charges made against him.

He said he was not afraid "to face the music" and would like a hearing to clear up his reputation and character which he said had been ruined, causing him extreme difficulty in obtaining employment.

The statement of Judge Smith's said: "Comments made on the failure of the grand jury and prosecutor to report concerning their findings in respect to the Marquette hotel case are based on a lack of knowledge of the law in those matters."

"Grand jury proceedings are secret hearings, made so by law, and it follows that the findings also are secret. All the witnesses who testified in this proceedings were sworn to secrecy as provided by law. The court and prosecutor have no greater privileges than the witnesses."

"I have said more than the law allows me to say but continued reference to the failure of the grand jury to report its findings has prompted the above."

CUTTER LEAVES ON ICE BREAKING TRIP

Grand Haven, March 13—The U.S. coast guard cutter Escanaba was scheduled to leave here today on its annual ice-breaking expedition to the Straits of Mackinac.

Ice reports at the straits say there is from 10 to 12 inches of solid ice extending into a field from the straits to Beaver island. On the southern and western parts of the field, reports state, there are heavy windrows. The trip will be a dual investigation to observe general conditions and to break ice, said Lieut. Comdr. J. P. Murray.

Due to the immense amount of shipping expected on the Lakes this summer, shippers are eager to begin lake traffic as early as possible. Mr. Murray said Wednesday that while searching for the lost tug Mistress last week he observed heavy fields in Lake Michigan proper.

WILL FACE CHARGE FOLLOWING CRASH

Two automobile accidents occurred in Holland this forenoon. One driver was issued a traffic violation summons as the result of one of the mishaps, local police reported.

Automobiles driven by Henry A. Schaap, 18, route 5, Holland, and John Henry Koeman, 31, route 6, Holland, collided at 22nd and State Sts. at 6:35 a.m.

Schaap who was driving northwest on State St. told police that Koeman was driving east on 22nd St. failed to stop for the intersection. James Haverdink, route 1, Holland, was listed as a witness.

Koeman was given a traffic summons for failing to yield the right of way.

A collision at 8:05 a.m. today at 18th St. and College Ave. involved cars driven by Albert Gogolin, 19, 123 East 26th St., and Howard Dyke, 17, 188 West 18th St. Gogolin was driving north on College Ave. and Dyke was traveling east on 18th St. Police said Gogolin's car skidded 73 feet to the point of the impact and the windshield of Dyke's car was covered with frost except for a spot on the left side.

COLLECTION OF TAXES IS GOOD

City Treasurer of Holland Reveals High Return
on Levies

City Treasurer Henry J. Beckers has released figures on the collection of county taxes, special assessments and city and school taxes and personal property taxes.

Collection of county taxes totaled $45,886.97, he reported, while the tax levy was $48,360.33, leaving a delinquency of $2,473.36. The percentage of collections was 94.9 per cent.

Of the special assessment levy of $7,754.98, collections totaled $6,587.25, leaving a balance of $1,167.75 or a percentage collected of 85 per cent.

The total city and school levy was $376,844.81 and total summer collections were $354,699.33. However, $8,003.69 were collected during the fall and winter to boost the total collections to $362,703.02. This leaves a delinquency of $14,141.79. The percentage of collections was 96.25 per cent.

Personal property taxes produced the small amount of delinquency. From a tax levy of $63,722.79, collections totaled $62,856.02, leaving a delinquency of $866.77. The percentage of collections was 98.7 per cent.

Mr. Beckers reported that the delinquent personal property taxes are payable at the treasurer's office by adding 4 per cent collection charges and one-half of 1 per cent each month interest to the original amount of the taxes.

Real estate taxes are payable after March 20 at the county's treasurer's office in Grand Haven.

CAUTIONS AGAINST DAMAGE TO TULIPS

A sign of spring—much more authentic than the robin—was shown today when Park Supt. John Van Bragt issued his annual reminder that residents use care when walking or driving along the tulip lanes.

The soil of the plantings along the lanes is becoming soft, he said, and bulbs are sprouting under the ground. Persons who step on or back their cars on the beds will damage the sprouts.

The sprouts should break through the ground soon. In some private beds on the south sides of homes, he said, the sprouts already are an inch above ground.

Says Nazis Will Invade Russia If Oil Is Needed

Rabbi Cohen Tells Local Club Soviet Pays for Hitler's Gains

"Germany will invade Russia within six months if she needs Russian oil badly enough," Rabbi Aaron Cohen of Muskegon told members of the local Exchange club at their regular meeting held in the Warm Friend tavern Monday noon.

In analyzing the situation in Europe, Rabbi Cohen pointed out that the whole affair centers around the cooperation of Germany and Russia, and that Russia is paying the bill for most of the German success at present.

"Despite the fact that Russia and Germany signed an agreement in September, 1939, they both still live by the maxim, 'Do unto the other what he might do unto you—but do it first,'" Rabbi Cohen stated.

"Stalin has been paying heavily under this maxim. He has been supplying Hitler with wheat and oil, and has also eliminated an eastern front from the present war. The wheat and oil has been supplied to Germany at the expense of the very life bread of the Russian people, and the conditions under which they are attempting to live are almost indescribable."

OBJECTIONS TO SEAWAY PLANS MET BY TAYLOR

Washington, March 13 (Special)—Three objections to the St. Lawrence seaway are knocked down by Wayne C. Taylor, undersecretary of commerce, and special appointee of President Roosevelt to prepare a St. Lawrence survey.

The three objections are:
1. Seaway could be used only a few months a year because navigation is limited due to climatic conditions.

2. Such a restricted channel would make navigation and ship operations slow and hazardous.

3. The proposed 27-foot canal would not admit a large part of world shipping.

The respective answers are:
1. Shipping lines could engage in St. Lawrence trade eight to 10 months a year.

2. Dangers of navigation would be less, not more, since less foggy weather is found in the St. Lawrence than in New York harbor. As to speed, Great Lakes regulations reveal the delays would be slight.

3. A 27-foot canal would handle plenty of shipping, since 71 per cent of the American vessels and 59 per cent of our freighter gross tonnage would find safe and convenient navigation on this size canal.

In considering national defense, Secretary Taylor reaches the conclusion that the St. Lawrence seaway would make possible naval construction in the Great Lakes, due to the fact that "all classes of cruisers, destroyers, and submarines can easily navigate the St. Lawrence seaway in ample safety. Only battleships and aircraft-carriers could not be accommodated in the locks because of limitations of width and depth."

Swan A. Miller, Civil War Veteran, Dies at Age of 98

Resort Hotel Owner to Be Buried in West Where He Succumbed

Swan A. Miller, last of the Civil war veterans of this community and owner and operator of the Macatawa hotel at Macatawa park, for 34 years, died Tuesday at 4:30 p.m. in San Diego, Cal., according to word received today from his niece and companion, Miss Georgia E. Miller.

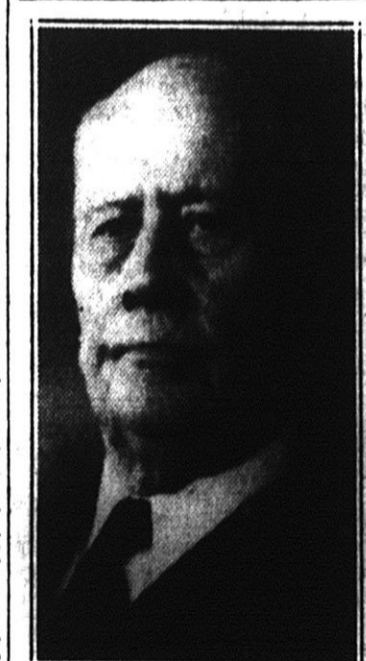

As had been his custom for years, Mr. Miller, in company with Miss Miller, left Holland after the close of the 1940 resort season for California to spend the winter. He had been in failing health the past few years.

Miss Miller advised that funeral services for Mr. Miller will be held Saturday at 2:30 p.m., with burial in California. Other survivors besides Miss Miller are two nephews, residing in California.

Mr. Miller would have been 99 years old on his next birthday, Dec. 6, 1941. He was born Dec. 6, 1842, in Bokeskog, Sweden, and came to this country with a brother when he was seven years old.

He found employment on a farm at Galesburg, Ill., and set about to learn the English language. Later, he left the farm to enlist with the northern forces in the Civil war in 1862 by "stretching" his age. At the close of the war, he was in the government secret service for three years.

In 1870, Mr. Miller married Eda M. Nelson who died shortly after they had observed their golden wedding anniversary in 1920.

Swan A. Miller

In 1891, Mr. Miller retired and came to Macatawa park where he built a house known as "Swans Roost." Several years later he loaned money to the owners of Macatawa park and acquired stock in the company in payment. From time to time, he increased his holdings in the resort corporation.

He took over active management of Macatawa park in 1906 at which time he installed concrete drives and made other improvements. Throughout the intervening years, he supervised the operation of the resort area.

He was a member of Two Old Fellow lodges. He possessed a 50-year jewel from one lodge and a 50-year pin from the other.

He held membership in Post No. 28, G.A.R., of Chicago. He took part in the Civil war as a member of the 33rd Illinois volunteer infantry for three years.

TWO CAR ACCIDENTS EAST OF HOLLAND

Deputy Sheriff Edward Brouwer has reported having investigated two automobile accidents Tuesday night on M-21, east of Holland.

Skidding on the highway after the driver had applied the brakes to avoid striking another car, an automobile driven by Mervin Aylworth, 17, route 1, Hudsonville, made a complete turn and crashed into the front of the Swift and Co. truck driven by Ralph Anderson.

Brouwer said Aylworth was driving west on M-21 between .55 and 60 miles per hour in the vicinity of the Arie De Visser place of business. Fearing that the car would crash into the rear of one ahead of him, Aylworth applied the brakes, causing it to skid and turn completely around into the truck traveling in the opposite direction.

Aylworth pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to have his car under control on arraignment this forenoon before Municipal Judge Raymond L. Smith and was assessed a fine and costs of $5 which he paid.

The second crash occurred about 10:30 p.m. on M-21 in front of Russ' Lunch. Cars driven by John Aalderink, 23, route 6, Holland, and Elmer Hoes, route 2, Zeeland, both east bound on M-21, collided when Hoes tried to pass Aalderink's car and the latter made a left turn.

WAR REPORTER WILL SPEAK AT HOLLAND MEET

Veteran Writer Is Booked
for Banquet Arranged
by Legion

Six hundred persons are expected to attend a banquet in Holland Armory Monday, March 31, arranged by the American Legion posts and their units of the fifth district.

Principal speaker will be Bernhard Ragner who has returned to America after 19 years of newspaper work in France where he witnessed and reported the great events of the past two decades. While abroad, he was received by Adolf Hitler, Benito Mussolini, Pope Pius XI, Marshal Philippe Petain and King Edward VIII (now the Duke of Windsor).

During June, 1940, as Chicago Tribune correspondent, Ragner followed the French government to Tours, Bordeaux and Vichy. He saw the debacle of France and for a while was both a spectator and participant. Later he spent five weeks in Nazi-occupied Paris. Because of his newspaper work and other activities in Paris, Mr. Ragner has a wide acquaintance among Frenchmen, officials and private citizens. On one occasion he served as "literary partner" with Marshal Petain, present chief of the French state, in writing a magazine article on "They Shall Not Pass."

Ragner has spoken from the same platform with Edouard Daladier, General Bonnet, General Gamelin, Cardinal Suhard, Champetier de Ribes, Albert Lebrun, Alexandre Millerand, General Weygand and others. He is a personal friend of the Duke of Windsor and of Ambassador William C. Bullitt.

Americanism will be emphasized at the banquet. All posts and units in the district will take their colors which will form a colorful background. Among the state officers expected are State Commander Al Puttbreese and State Department President Mrs. Norton Pearl, both of Detroit.

General chairman for the event is Mrs. N. J. Danhof of Zeeland, past department president and now serving on the national executive board. The banquet is scheduled for 6:30 p.m.

In Hatchery Business 31 Years

Starting in the hatching business 31 years ago at 17 years of age upon completion of a course in poultry husbandry, Henry P. Wierama has developed the Wolverine hatchery at Zeeland to such an extent that today it is one of the largest in that community.

The hatchery is now managed and supervised entirely by the Wierama family. Three of Mr. and Mrs. Wierama's children are employed the year round in its operation.

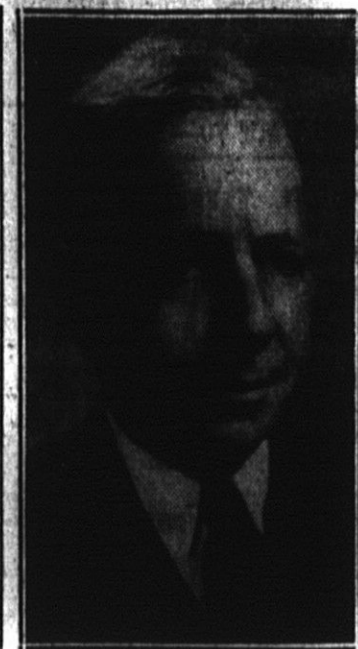

Mr. Wierama's first hatchery had a capacity of 180 eggs. In those days all incubators were heated by kerosene lamps and five years later he was operating 55 machines with a capacity of 22,000 eggs or 400 eggs each.

When 23 years old, the Zeeland hatcheryman married Miss Emma Van Dyke, a Zeeland girl. At this time, six long type water heated machines were installed in the hatchery, each holding 12,000 eggs. During the last 10 years electrically operated incubators have been installed, each with a capacity of 32,000 eggs.

Hatching continues at the hatchery practically the year round but during the spring season, 50,000 chicks are hatched weekly. Three pure bred chicks and two cross breeds are now being hatched.

It was about six years ago that the grading of eggs came into practice. This called for chickens that would lay large white eggs, especially of pullets of fall production.

With this in mind and after careful consideration, the hatchery mated its White Leghorns to Black Minorca males, the result being the development of a layer of eggs which brought better prices. At the same time, the hatchery also started with a New Hampshire Red and Barred Rock cross. This mating made good for fast growers, hardy and very heavy layers of brown eggs.

The hatchery was the first to introduce the Minorca Leghorn cross in this state and also the new sexing method. For four years, White Leghorns have been bred with the Minorca Leghorn cross with certain wing features characteristics so that when they are just hatched, the pullets can be told from the cockerels by glancing at the wing.

Arnold Mulder Upholds Role of Former Dutch Paper in Holland

Under the title, "Life and Death of a Newspaper," an article appears in the March issue of "Common Ground," a New York magazine edited by Louis Adamic, that has local interest for the people of this community. For the newspaper referred to in the title is none other than "De Grondwet," the Holland-American weekly that was published in this city for many years. The article was written by Dr. Arnold Mulder, former Sentinel editor, now professor of English at Kalamazoo college.

The purpose of the article is to defend the foreign-language press of America against the charge sometimes made that it retards the process of Americanization. The author insists that those who make such charges are often wrong. To make this point he tells the story of the local weekly from its early beginnings when most of the people in Holland still spoke Dutch, through the decades while the Hollanders were yielding to the process of Americanization, to the time when the process had been completed and the paper was no longer needed. The paper, according to Dr. Mulder's article, played an important part in that transition not merely in this community but in all those sections in America where Hollanders settled.

Incidentally there are a good many glimpses in the article of community life in Holland. One section, for instance, is devoted to a description of the Tulip Festival with its folk dances and its pavement-sweeping rites. There is a

SCHOOL BUDGET FOR NEXT YEAR APPROVED HERE

Taxation Total Reduced by State Aid Boost, Cut in Debt Service

Adopted Monday night by the board of education, the 1941-42 budget for the Holland public schools calls for a total tax levy of $170,600, a decrease of $18,200 over the 1940-41 tax levy. Total amount raised last year by taxation was $188,800.

The amount set aside for operation is $285,600, the same as for last year. The debt service this year is $43,000, a decrease of $17,000 under the 1940-41 amount of $60,000.

Anticipated state aid for next year is $150,000, an increase of $1,200 over last year's $148,800.

The total amount for operation and debt for next year is $328,600 or $17,000 less than this year's $345,600.

The anticipated delinquent tax is $8,000, the same as for the 1940-41 school year.

School trustees, upon motion of Trustee John Olt, also adopted the 1941-42 school calendar which follows: Sept. 3, fall term opens; Nov. 20 and 21, Thanksgiving recess; Dec. 19, fall term closes; Jan. 6, winter term opens; March 20, first semester closes; Feb. 2, second semester begins; March 27, winter term closes; April 7, spring term begins; June 14, semester graduates; Jan. 18, high school commencement; June 19, school closes.

The request of the playground commission for permission to use the ground inside the high school track field in the southwest part of the city for a lighted softball court was referred to the board's committee on buildings and grounds and the playground commission upon motion of Mayor Henry George, supported by Trustee C. J. De Koster.

William Vande Water and Harry Koop represented the delegation also suggested that if permission is given, the board should consider the erection of some sort of a fence around the track to protect it from automobiles.

Mr. Vande Water informed the board members that the commission is considering spending about $1,000 to install lights and to provide a hard surfaced clay court if the board will grant its approval to the commission to use the ground. The commission feels, Vande Water said, that this is the only suitable location for the softball court.

Upon motion of Mayor George, seconded by Trustee A. E. Van Lente, the board went on record as "morally supporting" the approaching drive of the Christian school society to raise $30,000 to liquidate the school's present debt.

Supt. E. E. Fell presented a letter from Miss Ruth Keppel which advised that the family will present two prizes to Holland high school again this year to be known as the "Albert C. Keppel Memorial prizes." Amounting to $10 and $5, the prizes will be awarded at commencement to the two high school students who have shown the most outstanding service at the Albert C. Keppel school forest.

Willard C. Wichers, secretary of The Netherlands Pioneer and Historical foundation, extended his thanks to the school board for use of the high school building for the recent benefit staged by the South Ottawa-North Allegan chapter of the Queen Wilhelmina Fund, Inc.

Montello Park Primary Pupils Study Railroad Project

Shown here is a group of Montello Park primary students riding on a train which was constructed by the school janitor, John Steketee, who devoted a couple of months of his spare time assisting in this travel project. Those in the picture are, left to right, Marion Van Dyke, Henry Connor, Lily Sherman, Arlene Venstra, Elaine Bleeker, Lucille Dryer, Jack Bronson, Ruth Bosma, Charles Dyke and Yvonne Pas.

The purpose of the railroad project is to make the children familiar with engines, coaches, buses, etc. When the children purchase tickets, they learn the different values of money and the amounts needed to travel long and short distances. Children are shown how and when to get on the trains, and to stop, look and listen before going over the tracks, etc.

There are 24 children in the primary room, 12 of whom can ride on the train at one time. Some sell tickets, some use the microphone to telegraph ahead to see if tracks are clear, others make the noises of the train. Miss Mary Kossen is the teacher. Different pictures of trains, engines, coaches, etc., are studied by the children.

The coaches of the train are made of cardboard with wooden frames. Seats are made of orange boxes, cut down and covered with cretonne. The engine resembles a real locomotive. The wheels are made of tin cans, the body from a large tin drum and different shapes of wood. The coal car carries real coal. The engine has a bell and whistle and a doll engineer. Virtually the only cost to the project was the paint.

Travel on the railroad project is carried on two or three times a week and each time different cities are located on the map by ribbons. Other children of the class room who appeared on another picture are Charlotte Dyke, Arlene Kiekintveld, Maurice Minnema, Joan Bruzeman, Kenneth De Neff, Jack Kammeraad, Glenn Wiegert, Joan De Maat, Norma Taylor, Roger Van Dyke, Kenneth John and Marcia Wolbert. Dorothy Moomey and Jackie Moeller were absent that day.

Club Hears Discussion of Washington Affairs

Mrs. Caroline Judkins Longyear, current affairs commentator of Lansing, told members of the Woman's Literary club Tuesday afternoon, that on her recent trip to Washington, she was "caught up in the tremendous drive of the capital." Though outwardly calm, officialdom was described as a "boiling cauldron," statesmen nervous and harried, the war department employing 12,000 persons.

With the president holding more power than ever before given to a chief executive of this country, a spirit of "tense resignation" was noticed as the character of congress. Congress has but little chance but to follow the aims of the president and to make this country impregnable, she said.

Discussing the views of the interventionists and the so-called isolationists, Mrs. Longyear stated that the president believes that the war is one in which this country has a powerful stake, having based his views on the best opinions of the army, navy and state departments.

Questions which naturally arise, Mrs. Longyear said, are: Can America defend herself against the world? Could the United States get along economically within the limits of the Western Hemisphere? Could the United States establish a Western Hemisphere bloc?

Many who oppose the president's policy urge an early peace in Europe, but both the British and United States government wish to unite and rebuild a capitalist system, the speaker asserted. "All aid must be given to England," is heard everywhere in Washington, she said, but the qualifying phrase, "short of war," is more apt now to be, "even at the risk of war."

Mrs. J. J. Brower, club president, announced that at a recent board of directors meeting it was decided to relinquish membership in the Michigan State Federation of Women's clubs. She also stated that a new club committee is being organized to work in connection with the Netherlands museum.

A report on the Red Cross activities carried out by the Civic Health committee, was given, and volunteers to serve as chairmen of sewing and layette groups were asked to contact Mrs. J. E. Telling or Mrs. Brower. A display of Red Cross garments made by the Civic Health group was arranged in the club library.

At a dessert-meeting of the Public Affairs committee, Mrs. Nick Stielstra who operates the American Youth hostel on Lakewood Blvd., told of the extent and needs of the project. Arrangements for the meeting were in charge of Mrs. John Dethmers and Mrs. E. V. Hartman.

Arnold, county agricultural agent, and was presided over by Russell Hill of the game division of Michigan State College. Conservation Officer Forrest Layoy of Holland was sent.

TULIPS AT THE SOURCE

It was almost inevitable that a tulip bulb growers' association would be formed here sooner or later. If the war had not come, thus shutting off nine tenths of the supply of bulbs, the development of such an industry in this country might have been delayed for several years; for it would probably have been cheaper to import the bulbs than to produce them, and those Dutch growers had centuries of experience behind them.

But in time such an industry
would probably have grown up gradually here. A start had already been made, not only in the vicinity of Holland but in other communities as well—even in some other states. As the demand for bulbs increased attempts would have been made to supply those demands at home.

But the seizure of The Netherlands by the Germans, together with the British blockade, has turned a gradual evolution into a revolution. And the tulip-minded people of this community are wise
in getting ready for the future.
The formation therefore of the Dutch Tulip Growers association has a significance that is not merely commercial. It will be a business enterprise in its nature but Holland as a community will feel that it has a stake in such a project.

For Holland would not willingly
let anything menace its Tulip
Time Festival. That annual celebration has become much more than a mere community advertising project. It has become identified with the spirit of the city itself, something in which Holland
as a community expresses itself.
The people of this community would want to continue it even if it never netted a nickel for anybody.

But there can be no Tulip Time
Festival as a permanent institution without a sure supply of bulbs. And that is what the new association will try to ensure. With nine tenths of the imports of bulbs withdrawn, much time may be required to make this country self-sufficient in this line. Some-may feel that by the time self-sufficiency has come the war will be over. But in the present political and economic chaos in Europe
there is no telling what will happen to the Dutch tulip industry, even if Germany is defeated. Besides, such a new industry would be of benefit to Americans, absorbing a certain amount of American labor and bringing American profits. The industry is a very tiny item in the whole volume of American business but it is an item that is of direct interest to this community.

Memorial Service Held
for Hermina Maassen

An impressive memorial service was held Monday, March 3, during the devotion period at the regular North Holland Girls' League for Service meeting in honor of their president, the late Hermina Maassen.

The picture of the boy "Jesus"
was used as the background having two lighted candles, with a rosebud and an open Bible in the foreground. "For me to live as Christ, and to die is gain" was read besides a poem and prayer offered by Gertrude Lieveense who was in charge of the service.

A memorial gift was given in memory of Miss Maassen. The choice of place and purpose for the gift will be decided by Rev. and Mrs. Herman Maassen.

The program consisted of articles which were read by different members which had been received from the Board of Foreign Missions about the conditions existing in foreign countries and "our responsibilities as Christians." The program was in charge of Mildred Tenchick and Alma Jane Slagh. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served.

In 1929 there was one incorporated bank operating in the United States for each 5,000 persons. At the same time England had one bank in operation for each 1,393,000 persons.

The Lord's Supper
Luke 22: 14-30

By Henry Geerlings

This lesson really starts back in Egypt, and even before that. A nation was in bondage, and it was hard, cruel bondage. The people who had been made unwilling slaves were God's people. He was not unmindful of their cry. Their suffering was His suffering. Having all power He was not limited to the ordinary means of bringing about their freedom. He called Moses and Aaron and sent them to prepare them to await God's word for action, and to impress on Pharo-ah the inhuman conditions he had forced on a considerable portion of his subjects.

The king was on the point of yielding several times, but, recounting his possible loss, he hardened his heart against mercy. The climax of it all was the institution of the Passover and the sorrowful visit of the destroying angel. Through thirteen or fourteen centuries that festival was solemnly observed. Parents taught their children its significance. It was talked about when men rose up and when they sat down. There was no greater event in all the history of the Jews prior to the birth of Jesus.

Of necessity the Passover was temporary. It belonged to the temporary dispensation. Just when it would be superseded by a worthier festival no one knew. But it had nothing final to offer. Even the closest friends of Jesus did not know that they were eating the Passover for the last time when they sat down to the meal that evening. Without any hint that a new order was to be inaugurated
He took the bread and cup, and blessing them, made them a means of grace, commanding at the same time that this sacrament was to be observed until He should come again. The old gave way to the new; the shadow to the substance;
the temporary to the permanent.
There is no more the slaying of lamb, for Christ the Lamb of God has been slain for us.

The Lord's Supper is a memorial feast. Christ urged that it be observed in His remembrance. But taking the setting of the Supper and the whole of His conversation it is evident that He meant it to be a memorial of His death on the cross. Likening the bread to the breaking of His body and the cup to the shedding of His blood leaves no doubt as to the episode in His life which He would lift above all else.
While this sacrament endures atonement by the cross must occupy the central place in our religious thinking. The Lord's Supper was instituted hard by Calvary and it can never be transplanted.

The Lord's Supper is a sacred pledge. Here is the perpetual guarantee that the Son of God will remain with His church. Wherever the Christian fellowship of this community is preserved in its purity, there will we find also Jesus, and against Him not even the gates of hell shall prevail. The Christian need not fear. However small the flock, the church possesses a sure pledge of perpetuity.
The individual communicant, also receiving the sacrament possesses the individual assurance that he is God's blood-bought child. So long as he believes, God's grace and God's forgiveness remain unbroken until He comes to receive him to Himself.

This participation together in the one bread and one cup forms
the sacred society of the believers.
Kindred souls come into contact at the supper. Judas was probably gone out into the night before the Lord instituted His supper. It is a meal sacred only to the true-hearted. The early church took special pains to preserve the sacredness of the communion, so that none but the understanding and sincere partook. A real foundation exists for belief in close communion. Only those with certain fellowship in the one Christ, who possesses the realities, have a right to come to the sacred feast.
The blessedness of the Christian fellowship exists only with the painstaking concern that Christ's wishes be realized in a true communion. Hence the necessity for careful preparation and thorough examination of those who approach the altar.

Surely the doctrine of Christ's true presence forms the only explanation for the continuance of the sacrament. Stripped of the deep significance which we firmly believe attaches to it, this act becomes flatter than a thread. Nevertheless we know that it has survived through all the revolutions of nineteen centuries, that it has outlasted a myriad human institutions. Its vitality is divine.
It cannot die. Until the last triumph sounds it shall remain as it is, the true communion of Christ
with His people.

The conclusion to the evening in the upper room suggests the spirit in which the Christian turns away from the altar on the communion Sunday and faces His tasks. Though it was the darkest hour the Lord rejoiced and had a song of joy to show us in what sense of gratification we should thank Him
when we have received His gift.
Then straight from the supper He went to His agony and trial and passion. If we appreciate the sacrament of His body and blood we shall also sing hymns of praise and faith, and then go out to render our service for Him, even if that service be passing into the night
to bear our cross.

Mississippi are elected for four-year terms and cannot succeed
themselves in office.

WINDIGO RUNS
CLOSE SECOND

Windigo, the 72-foot yawl under charter of Howard Baxter, Grand Rapids, made one of the quickest crossings on record Saturday when it finished first, but placed a close second on corrected time in the annual Havana-Key West sailing race.

The Windigo was scheduled to leave Sunday for Nassau, following the race which was the final event of the winter racing season in southern waters, according to a telegram to The Sentinel from Hollis Baker, Grand Rapids, a member of the Windigo crew.

In the 90-mile overnight dash through high running seas and heavy winds, Gulf Stream, owned by Dudley Sharp of the Texas Corinthian Yacht club, won the Havana-Key West race on corrected time of nine-hours, 56 minutes and six seconds. Windigo the scratch boat—given no time allowance—made the run in nine hours, 57 minutes and 59 seconds.
Gulf Stream's actual running time was ten hours, 21 minutes and 24 seconds but she defeated Windigo on corrected time by only one minute, 53 seconds.

Because of weather conditions,
only the two yachts entered the race.

SERIES OF SAFE THEFTS AT G.H. CHURCH SOLVED

Grand Haven Youth Held in Jail While Case Is Probed

Grand Haven, March 13 (Special)—William Jackson, 22, of Grand Haven, was held in the Ottawa county jail here while Judge Fred T. Miles studied the youth's admission that he entered First Reformed church here five times in quest of money from the church safe.

Jackson, unable to provide bond of $2,500, was returned to jail Friday afternoon following his plea of guilty in circuit court. Judge Miles said he would impose sentence after he had investigated the case.

Jackson, who stole the combination to the safe from Franklin Kieft, a church official with whom Jackson made his home, told the court he had been drinking during the past year, his mother was dead and his father had disappeared.

Apprehension of Jackson climaxed a long investigation by Police Chief Lawrence DeWitt, Sergeant Earl E. Sechrist of the state police post here and State Police Detective Floyd Peters of Rockford.

Since December sums of money had been missing from the church safe and no trace could be found of the person or persons taking the money. In one instance $13 in marked bills was placed in the safe but in this instance money was taken from the middle of a pack of bills and the $13 in marked money was left in the safe.

However, this money was taken later along with another haul when the markings were not detected.

For over an hour Detective Peters, together with Sergeant Sechrist and Chief DeWitt, questioned Jackson, who denied taking any part in the theft. Peters, then deciding to search Jackson's car, found some of the money in two socks under the back seat of the car. Peters went back into the state police post, confronted Jackson with the money, and Jackson confessed. He then was willing to tell his story and a reporter was called to take his statement in the presence of the three officers.

The officers of the church claim that during the last robbery nearly $600 was taken, the result of two weeks' collection, but officers had recovered only $340.53, consisting of $173.78 in silver, $100 in bills, $15 which Jackson deposited in one Grand Haven bank and $51.75 deposited in another Grand Haven bank.

Jackson admitted he spent some money but could not recollect how much he spent nor what he spent it for. He said he wanted the money to buy a new car and wanted to save money faster than he was earning it. For a time, police said, Jackson had been employed at the Peerless Novelty Co. where he was earning $16.50 per week and later became employed by the Screw Specialties Co. at a wage of $27 per week. Franklin Kieft, who is guardian of Jackson, and with whom Jackson has resided for the past seven or eight years, is one of the owners of the specialties company.

Kieft, together with Ben Mellem, are the only two officers of the church who had the combination of the safe and the officers worked from that angle to find the person who committed the robberies. Kieft and Mellem, whose reputations are beyond reproach, were at no time suspected by the officials. For several nights members of the consistory lay in wait trying to catch the robber but to no avail. After the safe had been robbed several times the combination on the safe was changed.

Jackson, in his statement to the officers, said he first had an idea as to the combination of the safe when he went to search for a pen in Kieft's coat with which to write a letter. While searching for the pen he noticed a notebook in Kieft's pocket on which were some numbers. Jackson said he did not think so much of the numbers at that time, but imagined they must be a combination for a safe.

Later, when he felt he was in need of money, he again went to the coat, transferred the numbers to a slip of paper and, the latter part of December, gained entrance to the church through a door on the east side and took between $30 and $35. On the second occasion he got about $40 and on the third occasion $13.

He stated that about Feb. 17, 1941, he entered the church and was unable to open the safe because the combination had been changed. He later went to the coat of his guardian and found a new set of numbers, of which he made a memorandum and again, on Feb. 24, entered the church through the east door while the consistory was in session.

He stated that on February 24, he got $156 in bills, $86 in half dollars and some silver and pennies which he did not count. Jackson told officers he had $100 in bills in an envelope in his dresser at the Kieft home. This was later taken by the officers. The stolen money was in envelopes which had been deposited in the collection plates by the congregation.

He stated he went into the church each time before members of the consistory left so that the doors would not be locked.

Local AAUW Hears Talk by Attorney Van Duren

An interesting and informative talk on the city charter was presented by Attorney Arthur Van Duren before members of Holland branch, American Association of University Women, in the home of Miss Evelyn Steketee Thursday night. Miss Steketee was program chairman.

In introducing his explanation of the present Holland city charter, Mr. Van Duren gave a brief history of the struggle which led to home rule by the cities of the state. There are three forms of city government now possible—Commission, Manager, and Board or Aldermanic, he said, and Holland chose the latter, which the speaker believes is the best form for cities under 50,000 population.

The charter provides that there shall be a mayor, a legislative body, territory limits, wards (which now number six), a system of taxation, health and safety. City elections are non-partisan, and in the non-partisan primary, any candidate receiving 25 per cent of the vote must be placed on the ballot. Only 25 signatures are needed to place a name on the primary ticket, he said.

Going into considerable detail, Mr. Van Duren carefully explained the working of the charter, the council's powers, its various boards and committees, giving his listeners a better understanding of their local government. In regard to a recent matter which has come to the attention of the council, Mr. Van Duren stated that under the charter, council has the authority to handle the problem of city garbage disposal.

Mrs. Charles K. Van Duren, vice-president, presided at the meeting. A nominating committee composed of Mrs. Peter Prima, chairman, Miss Lavina Cappel and Mrs. Orle Bishop, presented the names of Mrs. James Brierley for president, and Miss Hazel De Meyer for secretary. Election will take place at the next meeting. The present vice-president, Mrs. Van Duren, and treasurer, Mrs. Ralph East, were elected last year for two-year terms.

Reports were heard by the various committees. Mrs. Bishop reported on the tea given in the Woman's club for high school girls of the city; Mrs. Edward Donivan announced that the drama group will meet Wednesday, March 20; Miss Steketee gave recent news flashes; and Miss Gertrude Wickes reported on the National convention and Fellowship awards.

Because of the next regular meeting date falling in spring vacation, the revised date is April 17, when a membership meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Peter Prima. Miss Marian Shadlock will be in charge of the program, and each member is urged to invite a person who is eligible to membership in A.A. U.W.

CHEST TIES OF R.C. ARE ENDED

The board of directors of the Ottawa county Red Cross chapter at a meeting here Friday night decided that the chapter would withdraw from participation in the Grand Haven Community chest and make an independent drive in that community.

Mr. Swigart of the St. Louis branch office explained why the needs of the Red Cross both nationally and locally can no longer be financed through Community chest affiliations.

To forecast the extent to which Red Cross will ask the public for support is an impossibility and it would be unfair to request the Community chests to anticipate any stated amount for Red Cross support in its budget for the coming year, he said. Likewise, it would be unfair to the other agencies in the community depending upon the chest for their financial problems.

The Ottawa county chapter had previously been instructed by the national organization to withdraw from the Grand Haven chest, which includes Grand Haven, Spring Lake and Ferrysburg. The board voted to comply with the by-laws of the national body that all chapters conduct their roll calls without chest affiliations.

Grand Haven, March 10 (Special)—The Red Cross received $1,500 annually from the Grand Haven chest. An effort last year for its withdrawal was defeated.

Homer Fisher, vice-chairman of the chapter, disapproved the action and submitted his resignation. He said the chapter should appoint some one who is in sympathy with the withdrawal from the chest. Until the time of Mr. Fisher's resignation, those from this district who are members of the board were Fisher, Ray Fox and Madge Bresnahan. The withdrawal does not become effective until October.

BULB GROWERS TO TRY TO FILL DEMAND IN U.S.

Output Must Be Multiplied With Dutch Exports Cut Off

United States tulip bulb growers today faced the challenge of supplying one hundred million bulbs annually to Americans.

S. H. Houtman, tulip festival manager who is in close touch with bulb authorities, said he believed it could be done, even though the present output of bulbs in this country is estimated at only 12 million.

Flower gardeners still like tulips—just as much as they did when 90 million of their bulbs came from The Netherlands and only 10 million came from the United States.

If the Dutch market—cut off entirely after the German invasion of the lowlands last May—remains closed several years, he predicted, Americans will lose their preference for The Netherlands product. Then, he said, their demand for American bulbs will create a new, major industry in this country.

Virtually all American bulbs, grown by Hollanders who hold horticultural secrets handed down from father to son, are equal to Dutch bulbs, Houtman said. It takes such a Hollander to make a bulb increase in size each year, he explained. A novice finds his bulbs shrinking with each planting.

Before the war, American growers found it easier to take part of the huge Netherlands bulb supply and wholesale 12 centimeter bulbs as low as three cents each than attempt to build up a demand for American bulbs to a point where they could meet the Dutch competition.

Expansion of American production to meet the full domestic demand, would result in tulips as low priced as the Dutch bulb and sales of at least $3,000,000 annually, Houtman pointed out.

"That," he said, "would be but the beginning. New demands would stipulate growers to produce better and better tulips. It took an embargo several years ago to make America's west coast daffodils the standard for the world. This war may do the same for American tulips."

But until an adjustment is reached, a bulb shortage will exist in some parts of the country, he said. Holland's local supply will provide amply for its Tulip Time festival in May.

Growers are studying ways to meet part of the demand for next year. Last spring, when bulbs were ordered for fall planting, growers accept orders hoping The Netherlands crisis would be settled. Not until fall when deliveries were due did they fully realize that they could not get Dutch bulbs.

The shortage, Houtman said, should be lessened each year.

"There are enough trained Hollanders of good reputation and enough localities where growing conditions are favorable over the nation to assure the development of tulips in America."

For the present, however, he said, southwestern Michigan apparently has the "inside track."

Reports from Harry Nelis, president of the recently-organized Dutch Tulip Growers association, who recently returned from a second trek through the nation's experimental and permanent tulip cultivation centers, indicate that southwestern Michigan can supply at least half of the estimated output of 12 million bulbs for 1941.

In a report to Houtman, Nelis said Long Island had probably one million bulbs to market; the output of the border area between Washington and Oregon could not be learned but was believed to be well below that of Michigan; tulip culture in Florida had not been successful thus far; North Carolina had long supplied the east coast metropolitan area with cut flowers, but growers had imported a yearly supply of bulbs and now found themselves short of growing stock for their own use.

On the other hand, farms near Holland, Benton Harbor, Galesburg, Kalamazoo, Marshall and Plainwell, with investments totaling an estimated $4,000,000, will have between five and six million tulip bulbs available for the 1941 market, Houtman said. Considerable acreage in this section also is devoted to hyacinths, narcissi, crocuses and daffodils.

Bulb raising in quantity in America began shortly after the turn of the century as Dutch-trained growers filtered into the country. But as far back as 94 years ago Hollanders on their arrival here realized that the soil of the dune-lined shores of Lake Michigan was similar to that of The Netherlands. These immigrants were largely horticulturalists as had been their fathers, grandfathers and neighbors. Their baggage may have been scant, but most of them included a few cases of bulbs. The bulbs flourished here as they had in the homeland.

Names of southwestern tulip growers are sufficient to show they are either native Dutchmen or descendants of true Hollanders, Houtman said. These men who know every trick used by growers in The Netherlands include U. Nagel, Kalamazoo; Harry Nelis and William Van Bragt, Holland; A. M. Groenendijk, Benton Harbor; the Nieuwenhuis family, Plainwell; the Knecht, Galesburg; and Harvey Lear, Marshall. At Mt. Clemens are Theodore De Groot and his partner, Albertsberg, who make their headquarters in Michigan, but grow most of their stock on the west coast.

A need for domestic bulbs was felt even before the war cut off exports, Houtman said.

"The Netherlands suffered as did the rest of the world from the disrupted economic conditions of the post-war period. The Dutch government took a hand in the bulb situation to the extent of limiting acreage. The winter of 1939 and 1940 proved the most severe in a generation and the following spring brought periods of extreme and unseasonable heat. As a result, the Dutch bulb crop of 1940 was reported the poorest and smallest in years."

"In fear of invasion, several tulip producing polders were inundated, still further reducing the future production. This news has come to us directly from Holland, although the German-controlled releases deny it. Other Nazi-released news stories state that the oversupply of bulbs has been absorbed by the German nation. Information coming in a roundabout manner says the bulbs of the Dutch are being made into German ersatz."
