Scout Units Earn Awards for Work On Crusade Goals

Explorer Post Gets Honor for Completing Its Entire Project

Scout units of the Chippewa district who have completed or partially completed their crusade projects were presented awards Tuesday night at the monthly round table meeting at Bosch's restaurant in Zeeland.

The first year of the two-year Boy Scout crusade to "strengthen the arm of liberty" has been completed.

Explorer post 6 was the lone unit in the district to complete its original goal set one year ago. Ben Mulder is leader of the post. Field Executive Jud Leonard announced the award at Tuesday's meeting. However, it will be presented to the post at formal ceremonies at a later date.

Three units received progress awards for recording an increased membership during the last year. They were Cub Scout pack 41, Sea Scout ship 28 and Boy Scout troop 7.

Six units received awards for completing three-quarters of their projects. They were packs 1, 5 and 6, and troops 6, 42 and 33.

Leonard made the presentations on behalf of the Grand Valley council at a general meeting of the scouts.

Leonard also led group singing.

Following the general meeting, the 51 assembled leaders adjourned into sectional meetings for "cubbers" and "scouters." The explorer scout leaders met with the scouts.

Leonard and Miner Meindertma outlined the program for the Grand Valley council circus to be held Friday and Saturday, April 21 and 22. It was pointed out that each participating unit will receive a floor plan of the Grand Rapids stadium and time schedules for the circus.

District scout units have been assigned specific acts for the event.

Dates for an Ottawa county Camp-O-Roe was definitely fixed for May 12 and 13. Scoutmasters of troops in the Holland and Grand Haven areas scheduled a meeting with the camping and activities committee to lay final plans. That session will be held March 29 on the second floor of the Holland police station.

Before adjournment, Leonard and Bill Swihart demonstrated the scouting theme for April—cooking. Leonard displayed cooking techniques, including the use of cans for a stove, frying pan and "double cooker."

At the Cub scout section, Pack 3 demonstrated an investiture ceremony showing how to receive new cubs into the pack. Also demonstrated were progressive games for keeping large numbers of boys playing games. And a closing ceremony showed how history of the American flag could be used in closing ceremonies. Packs also reported on enrollment increases.

Zeeland Boy Scouts were hosts for the dinner-meeting.

Dutch Headmaster Visits Holland

Kees Boeke, headmaster of Bilthoven school in the Netherlands, a private school which the daughters of Queen Juliana attended, included a brief visit to Holland this week in connection with a tour of the United States to study American education habits.

The Dutch school of which Boeke is headmaster is renowned for its progressive program in which elementary students of all ages mix in classes of all kinds. His American visit was primarily to study teacher training institutions with the idea of drawing a similar pattern for the Netherlands.

His tour was arranged by Chris A. De Young, Hope graduate and former superintendent of Zeeland schools, now associated with the National Education association. In arranging the tour, De Young felt the headmaster should not miss a visit to this Dutch community and planned for him to meet Dr. Irwin Lubbers of Hope college. Boeke also attended conferences, arranged by the Netherlands Information bureau.

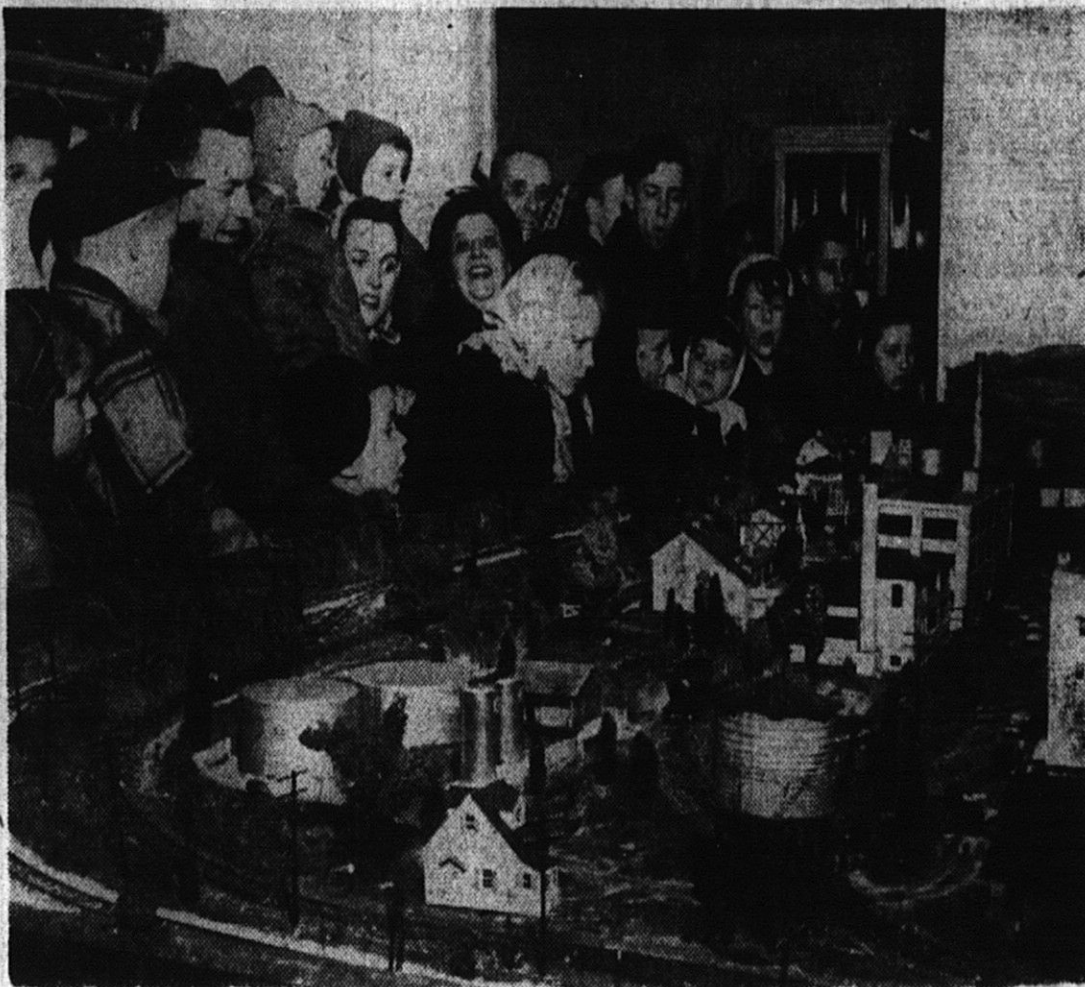

Dr. Lubbers arranged a luncheon Tuesday for the Dutch visitor. Among guests were Prof. Clarence De Graaf, John J. Ver Beek, Carolyn Hawes, J. J. Riemersma and William C. Wichers.

"Oo, there it goes!" shouts one youngster as Art Sae's engine of his Grand Valley line chugs along the tiny HO gauge track in this elaborate layout at the hobby show in Netherlands Museum. Although hobby leaders chose the most open space in the entire museum for the layout, its great popularity causes traffic jams, and Sae and his two sons periodically suspend operations to keep the crowds moving. A stout rail keeps the crowds in place. (Penna-Sas photo)

Council Nullifies Old BPW Offer of Hospital Loan

Common Council has nullified an agreement made Dec. 17, 1947, with the Board of Public Works whereby the BPW agreed to a loan of an additional $30,000 to be used in building the addition to Holland hospital.

The loan was to be repaid in three annual installments of $10,000 each to be deducted from the city's half share in the net operating earnings of the electric department.

Council was informed Wednesday night that the loan had not been consummated, but that the hospital building fund had been allowed to operate at a deficit, thereby postponing the loan as long as possible.

City Clerk Clarence Greengood reported that the general fund of the city has a sufficient amount to allow the transfer of $30,000 from the general fund to the hospital building fund. He recommended the transfer which council approved.

On Jan. 23, 1947, Common Council appropriated $120,000 to finance construction of the hospital addition and new boiler room. Half of the amount, $60,000, was taken from the city's general fund reserve and the other $60,000 was to be a loan from reserve funds held by the Board of Public Works.

Need for additional funds developed the latter part of the year and an additional $60,000 was allocated, although the BPW's new $30,000 loan was not consummated.

Record Crowds Jam Holland's Hobby Show

A record crowd of 1,175 jammed Netherlands Museum Wednesday night on the third night of Holland's second annual hobby show which is open every day and evening this week.

A total of 278 persons visited the show in the afternoon. Particularly popular among the night crowd were the demonstrations by Dorothy Vander Bie, who did textile painting without hands, and Frank Bolhuis, Jr., who worked on a waffle weave rug.

Tonight, Mr. and Mrs. Claxton Helms of Allegan will demonstrate jewelry making. Local hobbyists will reciprocate with demonstrations, should Allegan stage a hobby show.

John White and John Vander Kolk of Big Rapids were in Holland Wednesday to study the hobby show with a view to staging one in Big Rapids under the auspices of the Rotary club. Local artists were asked to put on demonstrations there.

Most crowded spot was the popular model train layout where operators suspended operations periodically to allow traffic to move. The tiny scaled trains and intricate tracks fascinated young and old alike.

"After all, a man is just a grown-up boy when it comes to an electric train," one visitor commented.

The amateur radio sending station was moved to a new location in the east room to allow freer movement of traffic.

Willard C. Wichers, museum director, commended the people for their patience in waiting for crowds to move. At times, visitors were lined up to the corner of 12th and Central.

"We tried to keep accurate count, but there's probably a hundred who slipped through," Chairman Louis Mulder said.

Putting on demonstrations Friday night will be Mrs. Herbert Colton and Mrs. Harvey Krone-meyer who will paint ceramics. The hobby show "for fun and free" will remain open for the remainder of the week from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m.

He managed to walk to his son's home a quarter mile away but was unable to give much information. He said he remembered car lights from behind and thinks he was knocked unconscious.

Otto Harasta, a neighbor in the vicinity, said he saw a car stop and the driver get out, but thinking the driver may have lost something paid no further attention and was unable to give much description. The accident occurred in the half-light of dawn.

Dutchmen Enter Regional Finals With Upset Win

Brilliant First Half Produces Victory; Kazoo Central Tonight

Underdog Holland high vaulted into state basketball tournament regional No. 2 finals Friday night by dumping favored Benton Harbor 48-43 before a packed house at Western Michigan college gym.

Thus, the Dutch run smack dab into the biggest block that any class A team in the state is likely to meet—defending champion Kalamazoo Central. Holland plays the Maroon Giants tonight on the same floor at 8:30 p.m.

As was expected, Kazoo breezed past Muskegon Heights 46-27 in the other semi-final go Friday.

Coach Mal Mackay's victory Friday night bore shades of a similar upset against a Benton Harbor team just four years ago in regional play. Then, however, it was the finals and Holland went on to win the state title.

Holland is the decided underdog in tonight's game against Kazoo, a team that's been beaten only once this season. That defeat was by Benton Harbor.

The story of Friday's game can be boiled down by saying Holland started strong, lapsed during the third and early part of the fourth quarter, then finished strong.

Two tip-ins by Center Bob Armstrong and three good foul shots with the pressure on by Bob Tasma in the final minute dealt up the victory.

First-half play by Holland was one of its best showings of the season. When the horn sounded time for intermission, the Dutch led the floor with a 26-11 lead.

Aggressive Tom Maentz started things off with a lay-up and followed a few seconds later with a hook shot. Holland made three of its first five shots from the floor and went on to take an 11-7 first quarter lead.

During that first period the Dutch connected on four of 11 field goal tries, while the Tigers made three out of 14.

Seldom before has any Holland team put on an exhibition as Mackay's cagers did in the second quarter. The entire team of Roger Eggers, Willard Kramer, Armstrong, Maentz and Ken Schippers, was running the Tigers ragged as they broke in for close up shots.

At one time, the Dutch made five out of five shots. While the smoke was clearing during the halftime, statistics showed Holland made seven out of 17 field goal tries to just one out of 12 for the Tigers.

Holland went ahead 28-13 early in the third period, but at that point the Tigers started to whittle and with long-shot artist John Stevens and Bill Michael leading the way, they cut the score down to 26-28 as the quarter ended.

Benton Harbor started to tie up the Dutch back court during the last quarter and repeatedly stole the ball. With five minutes and six seconds left in the game the score was 38-32, and got as close as 40-37 with one minute and 55 seconds left before Armstrong and Tasma finished things off.

Eggers garnered high-scoring honors in the game with 13 points followed by Armstrong with 11. Stevens was high for the Tigers with 12 points.

Holland lost Kramer via the foul route with three minutes and 40 seconds left in the game and Benton Harbor lost Roger De Haven with a minute and a half to go.

The Dutch made 14 out of 22 foul tries to 11 out of 26 for Benton Harbor.

Two Mission Groups Meet in Zeeland

Zeeland (Special)—A group of women enjoyed a missionary gathering at the Second Reformed church on Tuesday evening when the regular monthly meetings of the Mubesheraat and Women's Missionary societies were held.

Mrs. David De Bruyn was in charge and Mrs. James Meyer conducted the devotional service on the topic, "Love," in harmony with the Lenten season.

Mrs. Ford Berghorst and Mrs. Willard Berghorst sang an appropriate hymn.

Mrs. Stanley De Pree was piano accompanist.

Mrs. James Wayer of Holland, who has served as vice president of the Reformed Church Women's Board of Foreign Missions for a period of 32 years was guest speaker.

She told of David Abel who started the world's first women's foreign missionary organization in London in 1834 and of Mrs. T. C. Doremus who was president of the first women's foreign missionary society in America.

The early days of the Women's Board, organized at Marble Collegiate church, New York, in January, 1875, were difficult but richly blessed, and work in many countries, including China, Japan, India and Arabia met with wonderful success.

Mrs. Wayer related several instances of deep devotion and loyalty of many missionary workers and of wonderful results benefiting natives who would have been without help if these women had not come to them.

Miss Jennie Brower offered prayer at the close of the program.

A social time followed with refreshments served by hostesses Mrs. C. Van Dyke and Mrs. H. Kuit.

Charter Revision Commission Begins Its Final Phases

The charter revision commission started down the home stretch at its 34th meeting Thursday night.

After going through redrafts of four chapters, the commission started its final reading and progressed through chapters one, two, three and part of four.

Following final reading, the nine-member commission will move from committee of the whole into formal session for final passage of the proposed new city law.

The commission finished off a chapter titled "Utility Franchises and Municipal Ownership."

Under this chapter, the BPW shall fix rates for public utilities under its control with approval of council. Council shall fix rates for all other public utilities.

The group cleared up wordings of sections in a chapter governing elections.

The commission rejected the idea presented by George Sidwell, charter consultant, for a "boiled down" chapter governing public improvements. Sidwell's concise form would leave special assessment procedures up to council.

Instead the commission approved an earlier chapter that outlines in detail the levy of special assessments.

The group discussed at length public hearings on special assessments and assessment rolls. The matter was left for further study.

In a letter to the commission, Randall C. Bosch, member of the Board of Public Works, took exception to the commission's report on the BPW issued at last week's meeting.

Bosch's letter was read and filed.

Chairman Vernon C. Ten Cate presided. Bruce Raymond, Alfred Joldersma and Herman Moore were absent.

Volleys From Ambush

Freezing Weather Due To Hit South Florida; Widespread Frost Seen

A copy of the masthead of this particular issue of The Miami Herald was first sent The Sentinel by Phil Brooks who was presumably backing in the warm zephyrs of the sunshine state.

Phil sent the chilly looking headline in connection with some other clippings of pictures of yachts taking off in the 17th Lipton cup sailing race, a 28-mile tuneup for the Miami-Nassau marathon later.

During one of those cold, cold mornings, Gary Decker had a little experience which still draws some good-natured kidding. Gary has one of those pint-sized autos—there are only a few of them around Holland. On the cold morning in question he drove to work at the IXL Machine shop and then found the car doors had frozen tight. Joe Shashaguan, the boss, had a good solution. He had Gary drive the car inside the shop and then applied a welding torch to the lock. It worked!

Before Mayor Harry Harrington took off on a little vacation to Florida, he left a little remembrance for the press corps at council meetings. It was a ball point pen for each reporter—in- scribed too. Recipients were Mrs. F. S. Bertsch, Cornie Van Voorst, Rip Collins and Bill Vande Water.

"Will they write only good news?" one reporter asked.

"Yeah, I guess so," the mayor replied.

City fathers are pondering another little situation which may be a good example of government waste at state levels.

A week or so ago City Clerk Clarence Greengrove received some blanks in a box 10 by 10 by 4 inches. It turned out to be hundreds and hundreds of blanks for still births.

One statistic-minded solon started calculating on the basis of an average of one such still birth a month.

It would take 100 years to use up the supply!

Have you noticed the big Red Cross sign in the Du Mez store show window? It's worth a second look. And if you haven't given your contribution yet this year, do it quickly.

We received a welcome letter from Junius Wood from Silver Spring, Md. And this time he well seasoned writer chose to comment on Peter Boggs' advice on dogs. It seemed to be something about exercise to keep a dog in good health.

Junius wrote: "Having three dogs whose favorite exercise is sleeping, I am interested in the backyard trolley line described by Boggs." (It seems Boggs had suggested a wire to keep the dogs moving.)

"The important thing is to trick a dog which wants to sleep or meditate into running madly back and forth along the wire. The calls of mailmen and others who always excite dogs are brief and a permanent stimulant is needed."

"Taking a suggestion from the cartoonist's favorite of a carrot in front of a plodding mule's nose, a sausage or pipe bone on a piece of fishing pole might be hung in front of the dog's nose. As this sure would be smashed on the anchor of the wire and the bait eaten, the idea is not so good."

"Improving on another oldtime of tying a tin can to a dog's tail, a paddle might be fastened to the wheels of an outdated kiddie car and hooked onto the south end of the animal. Once Fido is in motion, this would spank him and he might run. However, as the vehicle probably would tip over and tie up traffic at the end of the wire, this idea is even worse."

"If the dog owner is a Handy Andy with a couple of storage batteries and automobile horns, he can fix up noise makers at each end of the wire. A loose board will make a connection when the dog steps on it, the horn will blare forth and the terrified dog will dash wildly to the other end of the wire where the racket will be repeated. This may disturb the neighborhood and unless the dog is unusually dumb, it will soon catch on that nothing happens."

"Then there's a dog-sized tread mill which can be bought in any pet shop. That's also monotonous for the dog. So why not drive a stake in the ground, put the iron ring over that and attach one end of the wire to the ring and the other end to the dog's collar. The dog could then run in circles as so many humans do, even such great as a Secretary of State or a Chairman of a Republican National Committee."

"You could catch the neighbor's cat—the home cat will not be afraid of the dog—and tie it on the outer end of the wire with a short piece of cord. The cat will run and the dog will chase it. Perpetual motion at last! As cats tire quickly, it may be necessary to kidnap several for reserves. If neighbors will not co-operate by loaning their cats to make healthy dogs, chickens or other creatures which dogs enjoy chasing can be substituted."

Or by reversing the sequence of chased and chaser, a child can be staked out on another wire pivoted on the same stake. The child will try to maul the dog, the dog will keep going and the desired good health will follow for both. This child-dog combination is recommended by students of home economics as it also saves the cost of a baby sitter with the attendant strain on telephone tolls and loobox.

"Or, exercise your own legs by walking the dog!"

One of the serious losses in the Ferris institute fire a week or two ago was destruction of a list of 73,000 alumni all over the world. All Ferris alumni are urged to re-register immediately with school officials.

The escape of that leopard at the Oklahoma zoo last week was of grave concern to little Danny Ten Cate, as it was to all children and adults. Questioning his mother at length, young Danny was particularly concerned about the children who were in the zoo at the time the animal leaped to freedom.

"Isn't that too bad," he said. "Now they'll all have leprosy."

Survey Reveals Holland Tax Rate Is Low in State

Supt. Crawford Compiles

Dorothy Vander Bie, local 24-year-old artist who paints without the use of hands, will demonstrate textile painting at Holland's second annual hobby show tonight in Netherlands Museum. Dot has many exhibits in the hobby show. She has been working in oils for five years and last year turned to textile painting, a new art in which special textile lacquer is used. She has turned out many scarves, ties, luncheon cloths and blouses. She also is displaying oil paintings in the basement. (Penna-Sas photo)

No Hands, But Dot Does Right Well in Painting

Dorothy Vander Bie, who has several entries in the arts and crafts divisions of Holland's second annual hobby show, has no hands but she can do more with a paintbrush than most stubby wrists than 95 per cent of the people can with 10 fingers.

Dot has always been interested in art, and she pursued this interest early while attending orthopedic school in the Washington building. Later she took what art was available in Holland high school, but it wasn't until she took a summer art course at Hope college that she really started on oils.

Since then, she has turned out dozens of oil canvases. Her choices run to landscapes rather than people, and she gets many of her ideas from other pictures. Sometimes she paints on location. Her canvases show good taste in color, composition and perspective.

About a year ago, Dot learned about textile painting and since then has "gone to town" on scarves, ties, luncheon sets and blouses. She uses a special kind of textile lacquer which comes in small jars. She removes and replaces the screw covers easily.

She will demonstrate the art of textile painting at the hobby show in Netherlands Museum this evening.

It is only the past year that Dot has devoted full time to her art. Previously she was employed for five years in the office of the Home Furnace Co. doing general office work, operating business machines and even typing a bit.

She took a course in bookkeeping at Holland high and took further business training at Holland Business Institute.

For a change of pace, she occasionally takes to needle work and her work displays the same fine artistic touch seen in her painting.

A prolific artist, Dot can turn out work in surprising amounts. Several of her paintings adorn the walls of the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George J. Vander Bie, 334 West 16th St.

Last summer, Dot spent three weeks painting at Waukazoo Inn doing oils, which she says is one of the easiest forms of art. She has the proper kind of ease, but mostly finds propping a canvas on a card table is just a bit easier.

Coach Stupka Starts Baseballers Working Out in Holland High Gym

In an effort to work up some semblance of a baseball team before spring vacation, Coach Bob Stupka of Holland high has started his pitchers and catchers working out in the gym.

High school classes end March 31 and begin again April 10. The baseball team opens its season April 11th against the Zeeland Chix.

Because of the weather, that means the preppers won't get much chance to work outdoors before opening game. And the vacation sandwiched between now and opening date, means the squad won't be able to workout much.

Stupka, however, has two veteran hurlers back this season along with five other lettermen from last year's squad.

The mound staff will be headed by Roger Eggers and outspaw Glenn Kamper. Eggers turned in some outstanding performances last season and Kamper was coming along fast when the season ended. Both pitched in the Wooden Shoe league during the summer months.

Kamper has added a lot of left since last season and is "burning em in" according to word from the local gym.

Other lettermen include Outfielders Merrill Human and Rex Young along with Second Baseman Morris Witteveen, Third Baseman Max Doolittle and Shortstop Ron Bekius.

Stupka is considering switching Human from the outfield to first base to replace Whitely Witteveen, who was graduated last June. He must also find some hitters to replace such powerhouse as Frank Wlodarczyk and Dave Kamper.

Others who have indicated they will tryout for positions are Bob Tasma, John Kruid, Art Arenas and Bob Nykamp.

Stupka expects additional candidates to report when the weather allows outside drills.

The schedule:

April 11, Zeeland, there; April 20, Zeeland, home; April 28, Grand Haven, home; May 5, Muskegon, away; May 9, Muskegon Heights, home; May 11, Kalamazoo Central, there; May 16, Muskegon, home; May 19, Muskegon Heights, away; May 23, Grand Haven, there; May 26, Benton Harbor, there.

Camp Fire Box Supper Highlighted by Contest

More than 200 Holland elementary Camp Fire girls and leaders gathered at the Woman's Literary club house Monday evening to continue their observance of Camp Fire's 40th National Birthday week. The national observance began Sunday.

The party was a box supper event, and each Camp Fire girl brought her lunch in a container decorated in keeping with the St. Patrick Day or the Birthday theme, "Discovery Unlimited." Prizes were awarded in both divisions. The contest brought out an array of original ideas from giant birthday cakes to scenes of St. Patrick chasing the snakes from Ireland.

Winners in the Irish theme division were Delores Teske, first; Joanne Kujala, second; Jean and Joyce Disbrow, third, and Carol Dulyea, Sarah Beth Brown and Judy Kohn, honorable mention. In the birthday project division, Dorothy Larson won first; Eleanor De Fouw, second; Gail Hamm, third; Linda Nyhof, Karen Damson and Judy Fisher, honorable mention.

Judges were Mrs. Joseph Borgman, Jr., Mrs. James F. White and Mrs. H. M. Summers. The boxes were judged on ingenuity, neatness, originality and appropriateness.

After supper, a variety show was presented with each of the 19 groups present participating. Mrs. Clarence Becker was toastmistress and introduced each act. Group singing was led by Mrs. Keith Soderberg, whose group members acted as hostesses during the evening.

Lincoln school groups presented a magic and hypnotism show, featuring a hypnotized band and music "out of this world." Van Raalte school presented an original play, based on the life story of Mrs. Albert Timmer, local Camp Fire executive director.

Federal school girls appeared as a singing group to present "I Said My Pajamas and Put on My Prayers." Beechwood presented a humorous skit of a girl and her many suitors. A shadow play of "The Three Bears" was given by Montello Park groups.

A Mother Goose party on record was pantomimed by girls from Washington school who appeared as a variety of nursery rhyme characters. Froebel groups presented a one-act play, "The Seven Roads to Happiness." Girls from Lakeview school re-enacted a picture as a fitting conclusion to the program. A real-life picture, complete with frame, duplicated the painting, "Now I Lay Me Down to Sleep."

Adult members of the committee in charge were Mrs. Becker, Mrs. Soderberg and Mrs. Neal Houtman. Milk and coffee were served by Mrs. Joe Koning and Mrs. Marinus Kole.

The hearing was called on petition of Prosecutor Wendell A. Miles.

O. S. Cross Views Work Of Charter Commission

Four areas in the proposed city charter may determine whether the charter will pass or fail when it is presented to voters.

This is the opinion of Orien S. Cross, who read a paper on the "Proposed City Charter" before the Social Progress club Tuesday night at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Marion de Velder, 79 West 11th St.

Without taking sides on the matters discussed, the speaker analyzed work of the commission to date. He pointed up the following as most controversial: (1) reduction in the number of aldermen on common council, (2) institution of the office of city auditor, (3) adoption of city manager, and (4) changes in the Board of Public Works functions.

Cross briefly described contents of each of the 17 chapters of the proposed code, but he indicated that most of the chapters are non-controversial.

In discussing the four chapters most likely to succeed in arousing public interest, Cross pointed to strong and weak points, raising questions for later discussion.

Cross said the charter revision commission would be faced with a problem of educating the voters to the need for changes in the charter and would likely be called on to defend themselves on many issues.

In discussion afterward, members agreed no formal action would be taken as an organization, but members indicated they would study the charter in order to vote intelligently when the time came.

The hosts served a luncheon during the discussion period.

LETTING THEM OFF EASY

The state parole board is in receipt of a recommendation from Judge John Simpson, of Jackson, that two former members of the state legislature be released from prison after serving considerably less than their full terms. The men involved are former Senator Charles C. Diggs and former Representative Edward J. Walsh, both of Detroit. Diggs is serving two sentences concurrently, one of three to five years for conspiracy in connection with finance legislation and another of four to five years in connection with horse racing legislation. Walsh is also serving two concurrent sentences as a result of grand jury convictions.

The people of the state may be pardoned for registering a question mark on the Jackson judge's recommendations. There may be very good reasons that justify leniency in these two cases. The parole board however might well think twice before following the recommendation.

Here are two state officials who, by virtue of their office, had sworn to uphold the laws of the state. They were under greater obligation to observe those laws than the average citizen. By virtue to the trust reposed in them they were supposed to set an example of rectitude.

They were convicted, after a fair trial of crimes that tend to undermine the government of the state of Michigan. It is always extremely difficult for the people of the state to get convictions in such cases, and Michigan spent a vast amount of money and great effort to put the legislative law breakers behind the bars. On the surface of things at least it does not appear that the state was too harsh or that the sentences were unreasonable.

If these law-breaking members of the state house and senate had been common citizens, would they be given the same privilege at parole as that now recommended? And after the people of Michigan, through their machinery of justice, have exerted themselves to the utmost to convict at least a few of the people involved in legislative scandals that smelled to high heaven, is it good sense to reduce the sentences of those who were convicted?

Faith that Sustained the Church Acts 26:19-23; Romans 5:1-8

By Henry Geerlings

When we think of the early church as it faces its world, we need to remember that the fundamental thing about this early church was the conviction which was at the heart of its life. When there are things that men greatly believe, they are willing to live for them and to die for them. When men have great and burning convictions they will find ways of translating their convictions into action. And a mastery of method is not important unless we have content. In our own generation, the power of communion to spread through large portions of the world is rooted in the deep and passionate convictions held by many of those who have spread it.

The apostles and those who followed them dealt in great religious certainties. They were confident that God had revealed Himself in Christ. They felt they had received their message from God and that they were responsible to Him for bearing it to the world. They felt that they had received a deposit of faith which they were called upon to preserve in its purity and to proclaim in its power.

The apostle Paul was more hated and persecuted than any other Christian of his day. This can easily be accounted for. In the first place he was the apostle to the Gentiles. That brought upon him the unfriendliness of the entire Jewish population. Even the Jewish Christians were lukewarm if not hostile to his efforts.

While the council at Jerusalem voted their confidence in him and rendered their decision that Gentiles need not observe the Jewish ritual to become Christians, that did not settle the matter. Even some of those voting acted differently. In the second place Paul was such an aggressive Christian that he aroused widespread hatred. Had he sat down and taken things easy he would not have been molested. But he was spirited and energetic, driven by a great impulse, and he stirred up the bad blood of all who differed from him. Any man who is willing to show his colors will find opposition ahead of him.

There is much to be said in favor of the old Roman government. It did not seek arbitrarily to promote any particular religion, especially among the provinces. Jews and Christians alike were free to worship as they desired. But Rome was jealously interested in the prevention of riots and revolutionary tendencies. Sometimes she would employ drastic methods to quell disturbances and eliminate leaders of sedition.

It is rather surprising how good men must suffer at the hands of stupid men in power. Paul was brought before three judges not one of whom had any courage or any real sense of justice or any understanding of ultimate truth. They were all opportunists. They had power and they did not know how to use it. There is no more dangerous man in the world than the one who has power and does not understand it.

Paul had tremendous power and he used it for righteous ends. He was a defender of the truth. His judges recognized in him an extraordinary prisoner. He compelled them to a great man cannot conceal his greatness. It is bound to come out. His speech revealed his mind to Agrippa and others who heard him. His defense before King Agrippa belongs to the few great speeches of the world. It was eloquent and elegant and masterful.

Paul likewise had a marvellous faith. He had learned that justification does not come through works but through faith in Christ. He had tried keeping the Jewish law. If any man could be justified before God because of a devotion to good works, certainly he could have that assurance. But he did not have it. He had not found the peace of justification before God even though he kept the law with Pharisaical strictness. Then he found that justification for him came when he believed in Christ.

This fact meant so much to him that he preached it to others. He wanted everybody to share with him in the peace-giving doctrine of justification by faith in Christ. But because he was justified before God, he was not immune from sin. He felt that he was the chief of sinners. It seems the closer he got to Christ the worse he felt about his sins.

Christians seem to be more conscious of their sinfulness before God, more convinced of their need of Christ, in proportion as they grow firmer in their belief in justification by faith. They busy themselves in good works to keep their faith keen and active. Faith increases in strength as it is used in stimulating the Christian to larger service in Christ's name. The Christian is not serving God to be justified before him. He is serving God because he is justified by his faith in Christ.

The Old Testament believers witness to us of the faithfulness of God, as well as of the victory and triumph of faith. The effect of that upon us should be to stimulate us to run in the same path. Since we are encompassed with a great cloud of witnesses we ought to run with patience the race that is set before us. Patience is endurance, and it is that which characterized the faith of all the Old Testament heroes. We too are to look to Christ who is the perfect example of faith. He is to be constantly before our vision and we are to follow him in the path of faith.

In the Good Old Days

The thunder storm of Monday night was quite severe in this vicinity, according to a story in the Aug. 19 issue of the Ottawa County Times published in 1904 by M. G. Manting. The barn of Johannes Heerspink, southwest of Graafschap, was struck by lightning and was burned with all the hay, grain, implements, three buggies, etc. A boy milking a cow next to the ones killed was not injured. Lightning also destroyed the barn of Julius Smith at West Olive with all its contents, including a horse and calf. The storm on Tuesday night did considerable damage. The West Michigan furniture factory, No. 1, was struck. The automatic sprinkler system, however, promptly put out any blaze and, though the fire department was on hand without delay, its services were not needed.

Dutch ECA Envoy Wins U.S. Acclaim

By Esther Van Wagoner Tutty

Washington — The Netherlands Foreign Minister, Dr. Dirk Stikker, has been called a "peace-time civilian Eisenhower" by Rep. Gerald Ford, who represents the large Dutch-American district in the House of Representatives.

Like "Ike," this Dutchman must be a generalissimo of integration. As political co-ordinator for Organization of European Co-operation, he must get people to work together in Europe.

In Washington for conferences, Dr. Stikker made a strong favorable impression on the White House, the Congress, the diplomatic corps and the press. His American counterpart is ECA administrator Paul Hoffman.

Typical was the reaction of Ford: His forthrightness and definite determination to make European integration a reality was reassuring. I have considerably greater confidence in the OEEC countries chances for freedom and recovery, by their choice of Dr. Stikker. I was cheered by his report of progress of the Marshall plan.

Snow Removal Fund in the Red

Allegan (Special) — Allegan county roads are being cleared of snow on deficit financing, with the department already $20,000 in the red, Homer Ward, highway engineer, said today.

But the commission will continue its policy of maintaining snow removal by deferring payment of invoices for materials, and keeping cash in the operating account.

A total of $50,000 indebtedness probably will be on the books by the time an expected $200,000 in weight and gas tax is received in the spring, Ward said. The first quarterly payment is expected to put the department on its feet, at least temporarily.

Earlier, the department had predicted that townships might have to assist with snow removal costs, if secondary roads were to remain open. The open winter until the past weeks, however, has resulted in the county's assuming the load.

Ward said the work is being done with a skeleton crew of 85 men. A third of the usual crew was laid off last summer and has not been replaced.

Hope Orchestra To Give Concert

The Hope college orchestra will give a concert Thursday at 8:15 p.m. in Hope Memorial chapel. Morrett Rider is the conductor.

The concert will open with William Bergsma's "Paul Bunyan Suite," including three movements, "The Dance of the Blue Ox," "Country Dance" and "Night"—Paul's Work Completed." The suite tells of the legendary giant, Paul Bunyan, who symbolizes the opening of the Northwest Territory frontier. The first movement depicts Paul's pet, Babe, who "stood 40 ax handles high" and whose "footprints made the Great Lakes." Other movements are of a country dance, night over the logging camps and fulfillment of Paul's work.

Students of the college art classes, under direction of Dirk Gringhuis, have made original illustrations of portions of the suite. The paintings will be on exhibit on the ground floor of the chapel during intermission and following the concert.

A choral prelude, "There is a Rose in Flower" by Brahms-Leinsdorf, and "Five Russian Melodies," Louis Gesensway, will also be included in the first portion of the program.

After intermission the orchestra will present Mendelssohn's "Symphony No. 5 in D Minor (The Reformation)." They will play the following movements: "Andante. Allegro con fuoco," "Allegro vivace" and "Andante-Choral: Ein feste Burg ist unser Gott."

Mendelssohn wrote his fifth symphony when the 300th anniversary of the Augsburg Confession was scheduled to be celebrated throughout Germany in 1830. He based the work on hymn tunes associated with the movement. "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God," written by Luther, was chosen as the theme for the fourth movement. Although widespread political disturbances in Germany prevented the carrying out of festival plans, Mendelssohn's symphony remains, dedicated to the memory of those times.

The public is invited to the orchestra concert and to future concerts scheduled by Hope students at Memorial chapel, Rider said.

Holland Christian Bows to Charlotte In Regional Play

Fans See Low-Scorer At Kalamazoo Gym; Ends Maroon Season

Kalamazoo college's Treadway gymnasium continued to cast its spell over Holland Christian's cagers March 8 as the Maroons bowed to Charlotte in the first round of the state regional tourney. The score was 26-16 and marked the third successive time that the Dutch have failed to get 30 points on the K-college court.

Christian was never as cold on the basket as they were Wednesday night. Coach Arthur Tuls' club took 44 shots from the field while hitting but seven. In the second half the Dutch connected only twice in 27 attempts. Many of these shots were of the "dog shot" variety.

The contest closed the season for the Hollanders with a record of eight won and 12 lost. It marked the last game for Henry Holstede, Joe Kramer and Ken Marlink. Charlotte now advances to the regional finals, playing the winner of the St. Joseph-Sturgis tilt for the championship.

It was a weird, actionless game Wednesday night. Both clubs played a slow setup offense and spent the greater part of the first quarter feeling each other out. Although Charlotte has four men well over the six foot mark, the Orioles failed to take advantage of the height. A tight man-to-man Christian defense limited Charlotte to just nine baskets—eight coming from outcourt.

The first quarter was anything but a tournament game with the clubs maneuvering the ball in the backcourt and taking few shots. It finally ended, at 3-3.

A "hot" second period spelled victory for the Orioles, coached by Elkin Isaac. Hitting from near midcourt, Dan Brown and Jim Gammage gave the crowd its only thrill. Each boy contributed two baskets to raise the Charlotte total. Meanwhile Ed Altena kept the Maroons in the game with

Holland Area Students To Get MSC Degrees

Those in Allegan county are Norman Burch, Fennville; Virgil Clay, Wayland; Lawrence Gearhart, Hamilton; Harvey Hicks, Allegan; Don Sherburne, and Donald Shields, Plainwell.

Three layup shots, at scattered intervals. At halftime, Charlotte led 15-11.

The Dutch outscored the winners 3-2 in the third period, with the Orioles failing to hit a field goal. Christian narrowed the count to just one point, but two successful free throws gave the Charlotte club a 17-14 margin at the third quarter's end.

Oddly enough, the Hollanders controlled the ball throughout the last quarter against the rangy Orioles, but connected on only one field goal. Several easy layup shots missed their mark for the Dutch. Meanwhile Charlotte combined three baskets with five foul shots to clinch the victory in the closing minutes. The score at the automatic was 22-16.

A total of seven fouls were called against Charlotte, while Holland was guilty of 14. Both Ralph Bouwman and Ed Altena left the game on personals late in the last quarter. Christian connected on two out of eight attempts, while the winners hit eight out of 17.

Gammage led both teams with 10 tallies while Altena of Christian followed closely with nine markers.

Spring Flowers Now on Display

At the Warm Friend Flower shop you will find the answer to your flower needs. There is an array of spring flowers now on display, according to George Minnema, who owns and manages the shop on Washington Square.

Daffodils, hyacinths, tulips, azaleas and novelty plants are at their prettiest. Arrangements of cut flowers includes snapdragons, stock, gladioli, tulips, daffodils, carnations, roses, sweet peas, daisies, iris and acacia.

With Easter just around the corner, you'll want to get your order for your corsage or cut flowers and plants in early to be assured of the pick of the crop, according to Minnema. Out-of-town orders should be placed early to avoid the last minute rush and to have a better choice.

"We will be glad to talk with you about your flower gifts anytime and we'll give you our personal attention," the owner says.

Before moving to his present location, Minnema operated a flower shop in the Warm Friend Tavern for a year.

Allegan May Deny Outsiders Grade School Next Year

Allegan (Special)—A warning that Allegan's city schools may be closing next year to elementary students from outside the city district was made by the school board Friday.

The influx of some 30 grammar school pupils upon Allegan's overcrowded school condition was discussed at a meeting of the board Wednesday night.

While it was determined the outside students were scattered among the ward schools so that they caused no congestion in any one place, the board said it would consider the matter again for a definite decision.

Most seriously affected would be students of the King school on M-118, which has been closed 12 years. Other pupils come in from the state forest area, and some who live on the edge of town belong to the Blackman, Babylon, and Hudson Corners districts.

Meanwhile, south side residents met Wednesday night to agree on a proposal for a new school building program, following closely the decision of northsiders the night before that ward schools are desired over a new central building. Mrs. Paul Perigo, PTA president, will appoint a committee this week to work with one from North Ward and Dawson toward drawing up a concrete proposal to prepare for an election.

Kalamazoo Giants Knock Dutch Out Of State Tourney

Holland Fights Back To Within Two Points Of Tying Lead Once

By Dick Collins

Kalamazoo—Power-packed Kalamazoo Central brushed Holland out of its path to a second consecutive state basketball tournament title by a 63-41 score Saturday night to enter the select circle of quarter finalists.

A partisan Kalamazoo crowd jammed Western Michigan college gym to watch the fracas in which the rangy Maroon Giants were ahead all the way.

Kazoo plays Grand Rapids Central Wednesday night.

Thus, Holland's season comes to a close with the record book showing eight wins and 11 defeats for the 1948-49 season and a tie for fourth place in final Southwest conference standings.

Saturday's game was the final of regional No. 2. Holland had upset Benton Harbor in a semi-final so Friday night and Kazoo overpowered Muskegon Heights the same night.

Kalamazoo was presented the trophy following the game.

It was the third and most decisive victory for the Maroon Giants over Holland this season.

However, the win wasn't quite as easy as the final score might indicate. Although the defending champs led all the way, Holland rallied to within two points of tying the lead after trailing by 11 points during the second quarter.

Again in the third quarter, the Dutch indicated they were still in the game when they whittled the score from 36-23 to 36-31, but that's as close as the Dutch could get the rest of the game.

Coach Bob Quiring's team grabbed a 7-1 lead at the outset and went ahead 2-1 as the first quarter ended. Paced by Dick Noble's four one-handers from side court, the Maroons connected on eight out of 17 shots from the floor during that time. Holland, meanwhile, was held to just two field goals as the Giants picked the Dutch up in back court and didn't allow close in shots.

Holland stayed in the game during that first eight minutes by making seven out of 11 foul shots.

Coach Mal Mackay's team out-scored Kazoo 11-8 in the second quarter and came to within two points at one time before Tom Brennan and George Heinrich put the Giants ahead 29-22 at halftime.

The Dutch didn't quit in the third quarter and kept pecking at the Kazoo lead with foul shots, making six for six, including four for four by Ken Schippers. Holland made three out of 11 shots from the floor to six out of 14 for Kalamazoo.

With the score standing at 43-24, the teams entered the final stanza. Center Ron Jackson of Kazoo, who was held scoreless for three previous quarters by Holland's scrappy Bob Armstrong, started to hit. He made 12 points on four field goals and four out of four foul shots during the last quarter. When the score got to 49-39, Mackay started to send in his reserves and before the game was finished, Holland had an all-sophomore team on the floor.

It must be said that the Maroons were definitely "hot" Saturday night. They made many shots from out court. Holland, on the other hand, was constantly bothered by Kazoo's pressing defense.

Heinrich was high scorer in the game with 14 points. Jackson's 12 points in the last quarter, tied him with Schippers and Tom Maentz for runner up honors. All had 12.

Schools Request Evaluation of HHS Follow-up Study

Summary Compiled Of Questionnaires Sent to Graduates

A recently published item about the follow-up study of Holland high graduates which appeared in the Guidance Service Newsletter has resulted in a big demand for questionnaires and evaluation of the study, according to Gerrit Wierink, director of co-operative training at Holland high school.

The article read: "A follow-up study of 1942 and 1946 graduates of Holland high school has recently been completed. Graduates of 1942 returned 69 per cent of the questionnaires mailed and the 1946 class returned 67 per cent. The purposes of the study were to evaluate the high school curriculum and guidance program. A summary of the suggestions of former pupils is made in the areas of guidance services, new subjects needed, suggestions for improving present subjects, and suggestions concerning activities of pupils. If your school is planning a follow-up study, you might like to write J. J. Riemersma, high school principal, for a copy of the results of the study."

The concluding statement brought more than 30 requests from high schools and colleges in Michigan as well as other states. The latest request came from the Federal Security agency, Office of Education, at Washington, D.C.

More and more high schools are making follow-up studies of graduates. Many fine contributions to schools today have come from former graduates through these studies. Schools are looking at these questionnaires for future plans in curriculum study.

Holland high has conducted this survey for two summers. Graduates of 1941, 1942 1945 and 1946 have received questionnaires and plans are now under way to continue the study this summer. Results are discussed at departmental meetings.

Evaluation of the local program has been made in the following 10 points:

1. The percentage of return would warrant the continuance of this follow-up to other graduating classes.

2. The graduates were glad to be able to pass on information to the school. Many thanked us for giving them an opportunity to express themselves.

3. It became definitely clear that individual guidance was lacking when they attended school.

4. Courses in Home and Family Living, such as Sex Relations, Marriage, Human Relations, should be carefully considered in our school curriculum.

5. More grammar and less emphasis on literature was mentioned many times in the reports.

6. A course in speech should be included in a student's four year plan. This could be given along with English or a special course could be added for those students needing more help than the above average student.

7. Typing should be offered in the 10th grade. (This has already been done).

8. More social activities. (Some mentioned dancing in the school, and more supervised recreational activities).

9. Better study habits of students should be encouraged, especially for the college preparatory group.

10. Many praised the student government of Holland high school.

VandeWege Paced Hope Cage Squad In Scoring During 1949-50 Season

Bud VandeWege of Holland was the highest point maker on the 1949-50 Hope college basketball team, according to statistics.

However, VandeWege started slow this season and had to rely on a strong finish to give him high-scoring honors for the second consecutive season.

His total shows 22 field goals and 44 free throws for a total 228 points. VandeWege is a junior and entered Hope college after playing on Holland high's 1946 state champion team. He plays forward for Hope and is the first man down the floor on Coach Russ DeVette's fast-break offense.

Runner up honors in the scoring column go to Nick Yonker with 195 points, just 13 more than Center Paul Muyskens who ran up 182 points during the season. Yonker, a senior who hails from Muskegon, made 75 field goals and 45 free throws for his total. Muyskens scored 70 times from the floor and made good on 42 charity tosses. Muyskens also is a senior.

Co-captain Moose Holwerda compiled the next highest number of points with 117. Big Moose, a senior from Grand Rapids, had 42 field goals and 33 free throws for his total.

Hope's brilliant freshman sensation from Muskegon Heights, Jerry Jacobson, who played in just seven games because of a knee injury and eligibility the second semester, edged out Jun Bremer for fifth place by the scant margin of three points.

Jacobson made 30 field goals and 18 free throws in those seven games for a 78-point total.

Bremer, who joined the team at the second semester and played in just eight games, racked up 75 points on 25 two-pointers and the same number of foul shots.

Others down the line in order are: Bill Hinga, 41; Bob "Stretch" Wagner, 39; Jack Marema, 36; Duane Peekstok, 33; Ken Van Regenmorter, 26; Zeka Piersma, 17; Frank Breen, 6, and Bob Dennison, 3.

In winning 11 games while losing nine during the season, the Dutch totaled 405 field goals and 267 free throws for 1,077 points. Their opponents made 426 field goals, but only 235 free throws.

Christian Society Awards Contracts

Contracts for construction of the West Side Christian school were approved by the Christian school board of trustees at its monthly meeting Tuesday night. The contracts on various phases of the project were awarded to three local concerns.

General contractors for the new building will be the firm of Honkes and Mulder. Lowest bidder on the plumbing, heating and ventilating was Fred Bouwman. The electrical work will be done by Parkway Electric. The entire project including all phases will cost $88,161, board officials said. This compares with $94,887 for the South Side school construction, it was reported.

A total of 10 bids were received on the job—five on the architectural trades, three on plumbing and two on electrical work, Bos reported.

The new school will be erected on Cleveland Ave. between 19th and 20th streets. It will be similar to the South Side school of modified colonial style. It will include an oil heating system with classroom unit ventilators at an approximate cost of $1,500. This was omitted in the South Side building, officials said. Work is scheduled to begin as soon as the weather permits, Bos announced. The society authorized $100,000 to finance construction and equipment last December.

Other officers elected were Watson Lundie, senior vice commander; Paul Kouw, junior vice commander, and Hubert Knapp, quartermaster.

Dr. Nelson H. Clark was elected post surgeon and Harry Glatz was named trustee.

Vander Hill will appoint his committees for the coming year. The new commander served in the Navy during World War II.

Expert Explains Problems Faced In City Planning

Members of Holland's newly-appointed area planning commission were given an insight into the problems of city and area planning at an informal meeting with common council Tuesday night. Scott Bagby, Grand Rapids planner, was guest speaker.

Bagby, who has been working on Grand Rapids planning for five months, described factors and trends which tend to change the entire pattern of city development. What was true in 1925 no longer holds in 1950, and persons interested in city development must recognize all trends, influences, and keep their eye on the No. 1 aim of making a good livable community, Bagby said.

He said the first duty is to study the trends and influences, next to draw the workable plan, and third, and most important, carry out the plan. "No plan is static because of constant changes, but if a city doesn't plan at all, it will be completely out of luck," Bagby emphasized.

He confined most of his remarks to the general theory of planning rather than specific recommendations for the local situation. He said the city should not plunge into annexation projects, but should keep a careful eye on outside development, working in conjunction with the townships.

"When and if property outside of the city wishes to become part of the city, the city leaders should be familiar with the total picture and not end up with an economic liability. Annexation can have as many headaches as assets," he emphasized.

News of Interest to Western Michigan Farm Operators

Ottawa Farmer Has Multiflora Rose Seedbed

Planting Seedlings on Blueberry Farm Aid In Current Shortage

Farmer seedbeds, while not an uncommon thing in this day of reforestation, are unusual when the plant being grown is thorny Multiflora rose and not pine. Such a bed can be found on the John Hoogerhyde farm located three miles northwest of Nunica, it is reported by Paul E. Slabaugh, forester with the Soil Conservation service at Grand Haven. Hoogerhyde, a co-operator of the West Ottawa district has solved, for himself at least, the current shortage of this popular shrub.

Last May he purchased a pound of seed and handseeded it in a bed 120 feet long and 10 feet wide. Prompt germination was secured and the seedlings made a rapid growth some reaching a height of 10 inches. The thorns, for which this plant is justly famous, appeared early allowing only one hand weeding. No watering was necessary. The production of this bed was estimated at around 15,000 plants by Slabaugh.

During the summer while the rose was growing, Hoogerhyde plowed and kept clean a strip of ground 22 feet wide where the rose is to be planted next spring in a single row. This preparation should insure not only a higher survival but greater growth since the shrubs can be cultivated. A live fence around the blueberry land is the eventual aim serving as a fence useful for wildlife cover.

On his 80 acre farm, Hoogerhyde now has 22 acres of cultivated blueberries and plans to expand this acreage to 45. The bushes are spaced eight to 10 feet and planted in holes drilled down through the hardpan. A cubic foot of peat is put in the bottom of each hole. The grower believes that this precaution in planting allows moisture from below to reach the roots. Excess surface water is slowed to a walk in its runoff through shallow surface drains. These waterways can be crossed with machinery and are seeded to rye to reduce soil washing. A cover crop of oats is planted in the blueberries for winter protection of the soil.

A sandy ridge has been planted to trees, mainly red pine. Altogether, 12,000 have been set with the plantings located in such a way that vital air drainage is not impeded from the blueberries. Frost pockets which can result from uneven placing of trees are thus avoided.

The farm was originally in native grass with the hay being sold in Muskegon. Yields declined as did the use of horses so the land was allowed to grow up to a rank growth of spirea and grass. Woody growth was beginning to invade when the present owner took over three years ago.

L. R. Arnold Advises on Use of Oats in County

L. R. Arnold, Ottawa county agricultural agent, has received inquiries from farmers in regard to the kind of oats to plant in Ottawa county. Arnold states that Michigan State college crops department believes Eaton, Kent, and Clinton are the most adapted for southern Michigan.

The department recommends Eaton and Clinton for the more fertile soils because they have stiff straw. Mr. Frey, crops department thinks farmers using Clinton will like Clinton 59 or Clinton Reselection instead of the original variety because of uniform height and maturity of crop. Kent is recommended where lodging is not likely to occur. It has a better test weight than Eaton and can well replace Eaton when there is little danger of serious lodging.

January Tests Told By No. 2 Association

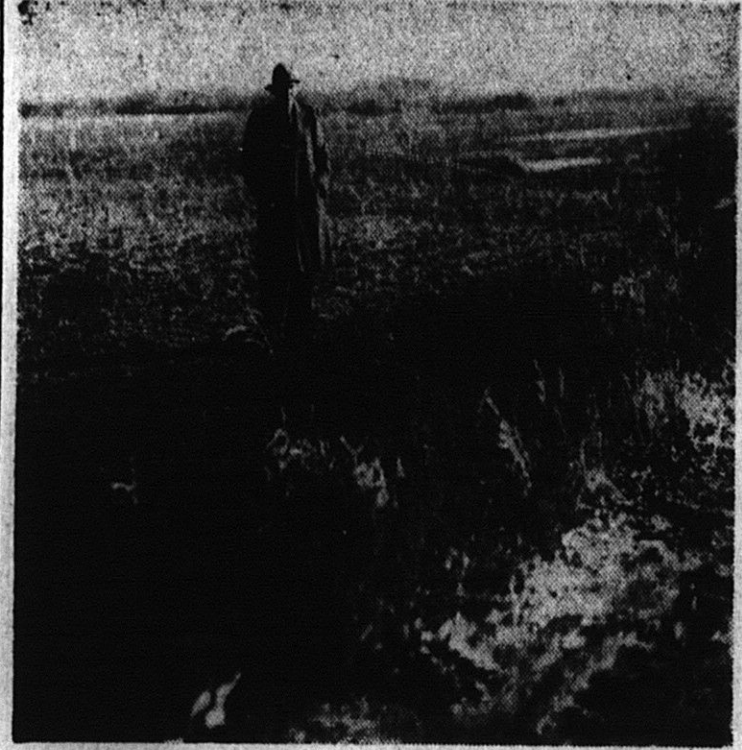

The January report of the No. 2 association as submitted by H. M. Sutton, tester, discloses some fine figures. Twenty-nine herds with 474 cows were under test. Sixty-six cows were dry during the month. Despite this the average for the entire number of cows was 806 pounds milk, 32.6 pounds butterfat.

Ten helpers were entered into the records and eight cows removed for various reasons. Total feed cost during January was $8,706.33.

Awards to owners went to John Ter Horst and Edward Koops, first and second, highest cows under three years; Delmar Barnett and Heckel Bros., first and second, cows under four years; Heckel Bros. and Gerrit Buth, first and second, cows under five years and over five years.

In the herds class, Koops and Heckel Bros. took first and second honors in small herd, 5 to 10 cows; John Ter Horst and Andre Taylor and Son, medium herd, 11 to 20 cows; Heckel Bros., first and second, large herd, 21 or more cows.

Police Convince Stubborn Driver

Holland law enforcement officers had a difficult time convincing Richard H. Holman of Chicago, that he should purchase his 1950 Michigan automobile license plate.

Holman appeared in municipal court Friday with two summons for driving with an expired license plate. Judge Cornelius vander Meulen fined him $3 and told him to go get his new plate.

While Holman had his car parked by the license bureau, police came along and gave him a third ticket for not having a 1950 tag. This time, Judge vander Meulen excused the ticket.

Three other persons paid fines in the local court for not having new plates. Burton Virgil Janssen of Zeeland, paid $2 for his violation, and Willis B. White, Jr., of East Shadock, N.Y., paid $3. Henry Ter Haar of 82 East 21st St., paid $2 for a similar violation. Dean H. Gunner, 25, of 282 West 28th St., paid $10 for not yielding the right of way to a pedestrian, and Lannie Givins, 25, of White Village Inn, paid $5 for speeding. Going too fast cost Harold Blystra, 24, of 741 State St., $7.

Parking fines of $1 each were paid by Robert Kamp of Grand Rapids and William C. Gronman, of Grand Rapids.

Agricultural Agent Warns on Trefoil

L. R. Arnold County Agricultural Agent, cautions farmers not to get too excited over the publicity put out on birdsfoot Trefoil. This legume is a good plant in its right place. Whether it can be successful in Ottawa county is somewhat doubtful. In some sections it has done well, but it has not been regarded as adaptable to a section such as Ottawa county.

However, some trefoil has been grown in Southern Michigan. Many are interested in trying it out in various counties.

Arnold advised that it be tried out in a small scale, only an acre or two. Next it should be seeded only on land which will remain in grass for six years or more. The trefoil is a slow starter, multiplies rapidly after two or three years.

It may be difficult to secure American grown seed. Some Italian seed is on the market. It is necessary to use a pure culture for inoculation. Inoculation is a "must" in starting this legume.

The extension service and soil conservation district would like to know of any locations where this legume is to be tried out.

The trefoil can never replace such grasses as alfalfa, brome, clover. It does make a good pasture where successful.
