NEWSPAPER LAWS.

If subscribers order the discontinuance of newspapers, the publishers may continue to send them until all arrears are paid. If subscribers refuse or neglect to take their newspapers from the office to which they are sent, they are held responsible until they have settled their bills and ordered them discontinued.

If subscribers move to other places without informing the publishers, and the newspapers are sent to the former place of residence, they are then responsible.

CONCERNING DELINQUENT SUBSCRIBERS:
The latest postal laws are such that newspaper publishers can have arrested any one for fraud who takes a paper and refuses to pay for it. Under this law the man who allows his subscription to run along for some time unpaid and then orders it discontinued, or orders the postmaster to mark it "refused" and to send a postal notice to the publisher, lays himself liable to arrest and fine.

Port Sheldon.

Fire broke out in our new shingle mill Monday noon while the employees were to dinner, and before they could get there, a distance of about 400 feet, the whole mass was in flames and consumed to the ground. Mr. Goodin, the owner, put a complete new mill in last fall and had just got it in good running order, employing a full force of men and cutting from 8 to 10 thousand a day. He had made several contracts for shingles with various parties in this and adjoining towns. His loss is about $700 with not a cent of insurance. After the fire the neighbors deputised Mr. C. B. Cook to circulate a subscription among the friends and those interested in having a shingle mill here to work up such timber as is fit for shingles, to see if they could not get some money whereby he can start again. The fire has come at a very bad time of the year. Mr. Goodin has several payments to make this spring, and it will cripple him for life; hence it is hoped that his friends and neighbors will cordially respond when Mr. Cook calls on them. Money is scarce at the present time, but those signing will not be asked to pay until in the fall.

Wm. Anys returned to Pentwater Saturday, to resume his duties at the life saving station. His wife will follow him in a few days.

Cable Bell and wife moved to Ravenna last week.

Our election is near, and there is a great deal of silly talk among those who want some of the township pap, but we hope the well thinking voters will look to the interests of the taxpayers and put those in office who will attend to the affairs of the township in a business like manner.

Allegan County.

The paper mill at Allegan has shut down. There is a large amount of paper on hand which they have been unable to sell, owing to the hard times.

There is some talk of a telephone line to be erected by local parties, to take in Allegan, Pearle and Pennville, Peach Belt, Ganges, Douglas and Saugatuck.

Allegan is in hopes of obtaining a new furniture factory. Parties from Meadville, Pa., are negotiating for a site, and efforts are being made to raise a $3,000 bonus.

Saugatuck.

Saugatuck ship yards have received their share of business this winter. Four new boats are under way and a considerable amount of repair work is being done.

The new propeller at Roger & Bird's ship yard will be ready for the Chicago route about June first. Capt. Wm. Turnbull will have control of her.

Eastmanville.

Fire in this village, Monday night, destroyed ten buildings. It originated in the large building of Huizinga & Son, after the closing hours and when first discovered it was under the stairway, where several boxes of matches were stored. There is no doubt of its being caused by rats. Huizinga & Son are the heaviest sufferers. Their loss is estimated at about $7,000; insurance, $3,500.

Grand Haven.

Our citizens feel greatly incensed over an anonymous circular that has been sent out to insurance companies, wherein it is made to appear as though the recent decision of the supreme court in the Wiley Water Works suit will leave our city destitute of water in cases of fire. The common council has taken the necessary measures to refute the imputation.

The Spring Lake brick yard will soon resume work.

It having been rumored that the local council of the Michigan liquor dealers protective association had decided to take an active part in the primaries at the coming election in this city, and on the strength whereof the names of several saloonkeepers had been brought prominently forward as candidates for aldermen, the other element in the community has also awakened to the importance of the situation and to their duties as citizens. A citizens meeting was called Wednesday evening, of which due notice had been given in several of the churches. This meeting was held in the old court room and was largely attended. It was resolved to hold a mass convention on Monday evening for the nomination of a Citizens' ticket, regardless of politics.

In Grand Haven township Cha's Robinson, the present incumbent, Henry Saul and Peter Northouse are candidates for supervisor.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral possesses powerful healing quantities, which manifest themselves whenever this remedy is employed in colds, coughs, throat or lung troubles. Its anodyne and expectorant efforts are promptly realized. It is a chemical success and a medical triumph.

"What's in a name?" Well, that depends. For instance, the name of "Ayer" is sufficient guarantee that Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a genuine, scientific blood-purifier, and not a sham-like so much that goes by the name of "sarsaparilla." Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the standard.

THE VENICE OF AFRICA.

A Town That Is Built Upon Three Coral Islands.

The Italians, says a recent writer, are fond of comparing Massowah to Venice. The town is built of three coral islets close to the mainland. During late years a considerable number of Italian buildings have arisen among the ruins of the Egyptian occupation; the white Egyptian palace, built by the unfortunate Arakel Pasha, who fell at Gadda Gaddi, fighting against the Abyssinians, on December 16, 1875, is now the residence of the Italian governor; adjoining it is a very pretty military club, with an open-air theater; water surrounds you on every side, and steamy, enervating heat makes life a burden to those who have just come from more bracing climes; yet, strange to say, Massowah is by no means unhealthy, fevers are rare; bugs, fleas and other vermin—also too common on the high plateau—are unknown here; there is no vegetation to decay and cause malaria.

The only difficulty with which Italian officers have to contend is debility and anemia, which is at once removed by a residence of a few weeks on the high plateau, or a few months' leave in Europe; in fact, they say that Massowah is healthier than any of their military stations at home. If Massowah is infinitely inferior to Venice in its external appearance, it is infinitely more beautiful in its surroundings. The mighty Abyssinian mountains approach quite close to the coast line at this point, and from a stupendous and lovely background to the town.

LESSON IN ASTRONOMY.

According to the Sun's Height at the Solstices and Equinoxes.

Teachers and pupils of a scientific turn of mind will doubtless feel interest in a plan suggested to the New York Tribune by W. T. Langley, principal of the high school in West Superior, Wis., for showing graphically the different angles at which the sun's light and heat strike the earth. He proposes that a stiff wire spike be driven into a building, on either its eastern or western side, and left projecting about four inches. Let A in our diagram represent the spike. Then, at the winter solstice, at noon, the sun will shine from the direction of B, and cast a shadow toward D. At the equinoxes, it will be 33 1/2 degrees higher, and shining from C throw a shadow toward F. At the summer solstice, the sunbeams will come along the line D A, and the shadow will extend toward G. If, now, on these days, the shadows be marked, with chalk or some more permanent coloring material, an excellent object lesson will be afforded. It is desirable that the wall or other surface on which this inscription is made shall extend exactly north and south. In the interests of precision, it is important that this precaution should be taken: Wherever local time pieces are set (as they should be) to conform to 75th meridian, 90th meridian, or any of the other regular standards adopted for this country, a correction should be made amounting to four minutes for every degree of longitude. Thus, out on Cape Cod true noon comes twenty minutes before twelve o'clock, as shown by a timepiece running on 75th meridian time; while a few miles west of Pittsburgh true noon comes twenty minutes after twelve o'clock by the same standard. Nearly every teacher can easily ascertain from a good map, from some land surveyor, or other source, the correct longitude of his schoolhouse.

AXMEN'S TRIGONOMETRY.

A Good Example of the Value of Practical Knowledge.

Young students of trigonometry who regard the solving of the right angle triangle as a mystic art would be surprised to see the ease with which a rough, uneducated axman in the north woods solves the perpendicular, with only the horizontal line known. He does it in a way characteristic of his practical life, and while the results are not accurate to a hair's breadth, they serve all ordinary purposes and save time.

The axman does not know anything about extracting square roots, or about the relation of one side of a triangle to another; but he is practical, and when he wants to measure the length of a tree from the ground up, he does it in the shortest and easiest way without climbing the tree.

For instance, suppose he is told to select and chop down a tree which shall give sixty feet clear of the first cluster of branches, as is often the case when masts of ships or yachts are especially ordered. It would perhaps take all day for him to measure the tree by climbing up with a tape line. Instead of that he selects a tree which his experienced eye tells him is likely to clear sixty feet under the branches. Then measuring from its base sixty feet, less his own height, he sticks a pole in the ground flush with his head at the point measured to. After this he lies down flat on his back, with his feet against the upright pole, so that his head is just sixty feet from the tree, and sights over the top of the pole.

Wherever the imaginary line from his eye and the top of the pole strikes the tree, the axman knows is about sixty feet from the ground.

As an illustration, assume that the axman is six feet tall. He measures off fifty-four feet from the tree, and, after erecting the pole six feet high, sights, as shown in the sketch.

This expedient of the axman not only demonstrates the ingenuity of the Yankee, but is a good example of the value of practical knowledge in general.

The Strongest Timber Known.

The strongest timber is said to be that known as "bilian," or Borneo ironwood, whose breaking strain is 1.52 times that of English oak. It is a hard, durable wood of a dark brown color, turning to a deep red when seasoned, and becoming as black as ebony on long exposure. It resists the teredo—the dreaded timber-destroyer of the salt water—and the white ant, and is almost indestructible. It also has the property of neither swelling nor shrinking under any degree of dryness or humidity. Its weight is sixty pounds per square foot, that of lignum vitae being eighty-three pounds, boxwood eighty pounds, ebony seventy-four pounds and African oak sixty-two pounds.

RICH WAS RIGHT.

The Supreme Court Sustains the Position of the Governor.

His Right to Oust the Board of Censors Unquestioned—State Officers Forced to Vacate—Successors Appointed and Installed.

UPHELD BY THE COURT.

LANSING, March 21.—In a unanimous opinion handed down Tuesday the Michigan supreme court sustained the power of the governor to remove Secretary of State Jochim, Treasurer Hamblitz and Land Commissioner Berry for gross neglect of duty in failing to properly compare and verify the falsified canvass upon the salary amendment of 1893, and a judgment of ouster rendered against the delinquent officials, who yet remain to be tried in the circuit court upon charges of felony and misdemeanor in connection with the canvass. The court considered two questions: First, the power of the governor to remove, and second, the sufficiency of the cause alleged.

THE contention that there are property rights in a public office, and that, therefore, the removal by the governor of an officer without due process of law was contrary to the spirit of the fourteenth amendment to the federal constitution, was overruled.

SPEAKING of the propriety of the governor's action in removing the officials the court uses this emphatic language: "While there is an inclination on the part of the average American to accept good intentions as an excuse for mistakes, it is not for the public good that responsible public offices shall be confided to or remain in the custody of those whose duties and responsibilities rest so lightly upon them as to permit the public interests to be injured or endangered through neglect. And when such neglect from the gravity of the case becomes so serious in its character as to endanger or threaten the public welfare it is gross within the meaning of the law, and justifies the interference of the executive, upon whom is placed by this amendment the responsibility of keeping the affairs of the state in proper condition. We cannot think the term gross neglect means only intentional official wrongdoing. Such acts would hardly be described as neglect. It is said that this section confides great power to the governor. That is true, but the governorship is an exalted office; one which ought to carry with it a presumption of integrity of character and breadth of mind commensurate to its importance."

Col. John Atkinson asked the court for a stay of proceedings for a few days, but Justice McGrath said the court was not inclined to accede to the request. This announcement was at once followed by an application for a writ of error to the federal supreme court, but Chief Justice McGrath did not feel warranted in making any such concessions, especially after the entire bench had agreed upon the judgment of ouster.

Immediately after the court handed down its decision Gov. Rich formally appointed Rev. Washington Gardner, of Albion, secretary of state; William A. French, of Presque Isle, state land commissioner, and James M. Wilkinson, of Marquette, state treasurer. These gentlemen were in waiting in the executive office when the supreme court decision was handed down. Ex-Judge Richard Cahill, of this city, one of the attorneys for the governor, who is also a notary public, administered the oath of office to the appointees.

Col. Atkinson advised the members of the board to submit to the decree of the supreme court, and accordingly at 2:30 o'clock the commissions were delivered to the appointed state officers.

[Rev. Washington Gardner, of Albion, the new secretary of state, was born in Ohio in 1845. When he was 16 years of age he enlisted in the Sixty-fifth Ohio Infantry, serving three years in the war of the rebellion. At the battle of Resaca, Ga., he was severely wounded. He subsequently graduated from the Ohio Wesleyan university, at Delaware, O., and later from the Albany law school, at Albany, N. Y. He studied theology at Boston and entered the ministry in 1877. In 1888 he was department commander of the Grand Army of the Republic for Michigan, and is now holding a professorship in Albion college.]

THE new state treasurer, James M. Wilkinson, was born in Novi, Oakland county, in 1838. He was a lawyer nine years, but became a banker at Marquette in 1874.

Since 1883 William A. French has been engaged in the lumber business in Presque Isle county.]

TERRIBLE EXPLOSION!

Too High Pressure.

In these days of keen competition in every line, when the business man is compelled to bend his intellect and every energy to the success of his business; the clerk, book-keeper, professional man and laborer, to drive themselves at a terrific rate, there can be but one result—an explosion, which, if not resulting in immediate death, leaves them with shattered brains and bodies. They are running at too high pressure. The strain is too great. Something must and does give way. This is equally true of women. Though their sphere is more limited, they have their daily burdens, frets, and worries, and the results are the same as with their stronger companions.

This condition is growing worse every day. The rapidity of its increase is awful to contemplate. Our homes, hospitals, and insane asylums are full of these unfortunate, and are being crowded still further. There is but one solution of the matter. Recognize the importance of the situation at once, and take the necessary measures to overcome it. If you have failing memory, hot flashes, dizziness, nervous or sick headache, biliousness, irritability, melancholy, sleeplessness, fainting, nervous dyspepsia, epilepsy, etc., know that any one of them is but a symptom of the calamity that may befall you, and even though you have used so-called remedies and treated with reputable physicians with little or no benefit, give Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve a trial. It is the only remedy that may be depended upon for nervous disorders.

"Two years ago I used Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve with marked benefit, and later induced my son, who had been sick with catarrh of the bladder five years in the hands of our best physicians, to try it together with Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills. He was so wonderfully benefited that he is attending to business again. My wife also used Nerve with most excellent results. All of us together have not used more than six bottles of Nerve. Several of our friends have also used it, and are greatly improved."—Louis Gibbs, Bucher & Gibbs Flow Co., Canton, Ohio. Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent by Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles, $5, express prepaid. It is positively free from opiates or dangerous drugs. Free book at druggists, or by mail.

Sold by all druggists.

A severe rheumatic pain in the left shoulder had troubled Mr. J. H. Loper, a well known druggist of Des Moines, Iowa, for six months. At time the pain was so severe that he could not lift anything. With all he could do he could not get rid of it until he applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm. "I only made three applications of it," he says, "and have since been free from all pain." He now recommends it to persons similarly afflicted. It is for sale by Heber Walsh, Holland, Mich.

"Perhaps you would not think so, but a very large proportion of diseases in New York comes from carelessness about catching cold," says Dr. Cyrus Edson. "It is such a simple thing and so common that very few people, unless it is a case of pneumonia, pay any attention to a cold. New York is one of the healthiest places on the Atlantic Coast and yet there are a great many cases of catarrh and consumption which have their origin in this neglect of the simplest precaution of every day life. The most sensible advice is, for you to get rid of it as soon as possible. By all means do not neglect it." Dr. Edson does not tell you how to cure a cold but we will. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will relieve the lungs, aid expectoration, open the secretions and soon effect a permanent cure. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Heber Walsh, Holland, Mich.

A Racking Cough

Cured by Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.
Mrs. P. D. HALL, 217 Genesee St., Lockport, N. Y., says:—

"Over thirty years ago, I remember hearing my father describe the wonderful curative effects of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. During a recent attack of La Grippe, which assumed the form of a catarrh, soreness of the lungs, accompanied by an aggravating cough, I used various remedies and prescriptions. While some of these medicines partially alleviated the coughing during the day, none of them afforded me any relief from that spasmodic action of the lungs which would seize me the moment I attempted to lie down at night. After ten or twelve such nights, I was and had about decided to sit up all night in my easy chair, and procure what sleep I could in that way. It then occurred to me that I had a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I took a spoonful of this preparation in a little water, and was able to lie down without coughing. In a few moments, I fell asleep, and awoke in the morning greatly refreshed and feeling much better. I took a teaspoonful of the Pectoral every night for a week, then gradually decreased the dose, and in two weeks my cough was cured."

SALE,

This means a saving of from 20 to 50 per cent on Dry Goods. We have only a few pieces left of the celebrated 25 cent, half wool Jamestown dress goods. The balance will go at 12 1-2 cents. Our customers tell us that we are almost giving goods away. We notice that our low prices make our "would be" competitors squirm, and no wonder, it would make any dry goods merchant, not accustomed to low prices, squirm. Let the good work go on.

Social Weeds.

In a brief dissertation on the noxious growth of modern society the Outlook, in a recent issue, gives utterance to some cutting truths concerning the ubiquitous individuals whose sole claim for recognition rests upon his or her persistence in placing decent people at variance.

"We all have them," says this authority, "in our circle of acquaintances—those people who, in public, present the appearance of being intimate with us. Chance reference to incidents that the listeners may not understand; whispered conferences about nothing; voicing your opinion as if you had delegated to them the authority to speak for you, are joined with frank comments on your appearance and belongings. It is this type of persons that is continually throwing you into doubtful relations by repeating half-sentences, telling half-truths, misinterpreting you to your friends and the wider circle of acquaintances. And all this is done with such an appearance of innocence that they almost convince you that they are true. If only they would do something tangible, something that you could grasp firmly in your own mind, that would justify you in dropping them because they were dangerous! Alas! they keep within the pale of endurance, and play upon your credulity each time, and you, at least while in their presence, accept their statement, listen to their misinterpretation, half believing they have repented of the error of their ways and are truthful at last. At first the individual discovers them, and after a time the circle, and then their day of power is over. It only shows us how helpless we are—mere straws on the social current. We cannot live our ideals except in our own souls; the dear public must take the reflection that, not our friends, but our acquaintances, hold up. We cannot control the false impression conveyed by these mirrors—some representing us tall and cadaverous, some short and broad to the point of grotesqueness; both caricatures. The friction comes if we do not accept these misinterpreters as the natural phenomena of untrained morals and manners. They are social weeds whose immortality protects them from being uprooted from the social soil."

The losses to the Gloucester fishing fleet so far this winter have been extremely heavy, numbering ten vessels wrecked or foundered within eight weeks. This number has only twice been equaled in the same time. These instances were the great gale of February 24, 1902, when fifteen vessels were swamped in a single night, the death roll including one hundred and twenty men, and the storm of February 20, 1872, when the sea swallowed up fifteen vessels and one hundred and twenty-seven men.

Reports have been received of intense suffering among the Yaqui Indians, whose territory is situated in the heart of the Sierra Madre mountains, west of New Mexico. In that high altitude the winter has been very severe, and this, together with a shortage in food supplies, has brought the Indians to the verge of starvation, many of them subsisting entirely on roots and dried herbs. Wild game is scarcer in the mountains than ever before known, and the Indians get but little food from that source.

In spite of the interest long felt in cliff dwellers of the west, there are still some fine examples of their work in eastern Utah, as yet unexplored. The approach from this side is over the ranges and high mesas of western Colorado, a country most difficult to traverse, and peopled chiefly by miners too eager for gold and silver to give much time or thought to ethnography. This may explain the fact that so interesting a region remains neglected.

In the awful day ever does come when every man's office is connected with his house by telephone, some hard-worked business men will have even more trouble than they do now in explaining why they don't come home earlier nights.

In a representation of Father Time at a New York masquerade the other evening an ingenious young man replaced the old-fashioned scythe with a lawnmower. A sort of fin de siècle substitute, so to speak.

Mining engineers in the far west complain that, even where the mines have not all closed, there is little or nothing for men of their profession to do. It is the constant opening of new work that provides employment for the mining engineer, and there are parts of the west where much ore is still coming from the mines, but where the mining engineers are either preparing to depart or waiting idle and almost in despair for a return of prosperity.

A DISPATCH from Honolulu says that January 17, the first anniversary of the establishment of the Hawaiian provisional government, was celebrated with great enthusiasm. It is said that the United States minister, Mr. Willis, refused to recognize the national holiday, and declined an invitation to participate.

A PROJECT is on foot to introduce into the United States the edible lichen of Japan. It is gathered off the granite rocks in the Japanese mountains and contains large quantities of starch and other gelatinous substances.
