Darrow's Death Brings to Mind Old History

CLARENCE DARROW SPOKE IN HOLLAND THIRTY YEARS AGO

The death of Clarence Darrow, an internationally known attorney, at the age of eighty years, brings to mind that some thirty years ago, when Darrow was in his prime, he came to Holland during the first Ottawa County "wet and dry" campaign.

He was brought to Holland by the late Peter McCarthy, known for many years as the mayor of "Bird Center," he conducting what was then known as the Olympia Pavilion at Jensen Park, just across from the park proper. It also contained a station for inter-urban patrons. The building contained a dance hall, cabaret stage, a bar, a drug store, and soda fountain. It later burned. Anyway, for many years, Peter was the self-appointed mayor at Jensen, but originally was a Chicago product, conducting a place of business on South Halstead St. He eventually sold that business and came to Jensen Park to live.

It was through Peter McCarthy, who was a friend of Attorney Darrow, that Darrow came to Holland during one of these liquor battles and spoke to a crowd that jammed Price's Opera House and roller rink to capacity. The rink is now a garage, and has been for more than 25 years. It is located on the southeast corner of River Ave. and 16th St.

After this campaign Holland went "dry." Then the wholesalers "basket brigades" began to come, and the "jingles" were established, details of which were given from time to time in our historic column, after which Holland went "wet" again, without a campaign of speeches.

Holland was destined to hear another man speak some years later. Shortly after this famous "monkey trial," in which the great commoner, Wm. Jennings Bryan, was pitted against Clarence Darrow, Mr. Bryan came to Holland to speak. It will be remembered that Clarence Darrow and Wm. Jennings Bryan clashed from opposite sides of the courtroom in the trial of a man by the name of Scopes, a teacher in a Tennessee school, who was charged with teaching evolution. Darrow offered to take the cause of the evolutionist, and Bryan, who had not practiced law for years, returned to the bar to assist the prosecuting attorney of Tennessee against the defendant.

The trial is well known in which the evolution of man from the monkey—Darwin's theory—was fully expounded in one of the hottest trials, during the hottest summer known in that part of the nation. The trial lasted for days, and is only interesting to Holland insofar that after the trial Mr. Bryan made a tour denouncing the evolution of man from the monkey, and through Bible truths he exploded this theory. Mr. Bryan came on a Sunday, and Carnegie Hall was filled to capacity. Standing room was no longer available, and listeners even climbed the fire escapes to get a glimpse of this great lecturer and orator. Still the crowds kept coming, and before launching into his subject for the afternoon, Mr. Bryan was compelled, first to speak to an overflow meeting from the steps of Van Vleet Hall before the crowd would be appeased. He then returned to the platform in Carnegie Hall and was introduced by the late Gerrit J. Diekema.

He came under the auspices of the Men's Society of Trinity Church and asked for expenses to get in amounted to $75.00. However, the collection taken up from all those people so eager to hear was but $65.00. Mr. Bryan appeared speechless and laughed it off. Mr. Bryan's coming at that time was really through the efforts of Nick Jonker of Holland, an official of the Society. Although Mr. Bryan had been here on lecture tours before, this was the last time he visited Holland before his death. It is quite a coincidence that the funeral arrangements for the remains of William Jennings Bryan was delivered by Dr. Joe Sizoo, a graduate of Hope college.

We mention Bryan's coming in connection with the death of Atty. Darrow because of the close connection which existed between "Evolution trial," in which both Darrow and Bryan appeared, and it was because of that trial that Mr. Bryan made his famous tour of the nation, with Holland in his itinerary. It is said that that trial in the midst of the most sweltering heat was the beginning of Mr. Bryan's physical decline, which caused his death some time after. Holland always thought a lot of Wm. Jennings Bryan, as an orator, and was privileged to hear him on four different occasions. The first time was when, as the "Orator of the Plate," he ran for the presidency on the "free silver" platform. He then spoke from the furniture van of the West Michigan Furniture Co. at the depot, and was introduced by the late George P. Hummer. He filled one of the engagements on the Hope College lecture course at Winant's Chapel, having been secured by the late Dr. J. B. Nykerk; and later spoke at a Democratic banquet in Price's Park. He was then introduced by the late Jacob G. Van Putten, at one time postmaster. The last time he spoke on the subject of evolution, as stated above.

Harking back to Clarence Darrow, it will be remembered that he defended Richard Leeb and Nathan Leopold, the slayers of "Bobby" Franks, a crime that rocked the nation. He got the boys off with life imprisonment. Rather an interesting sidelight on the life of Clarence Darrow was given in last night's Grand Rapids Press in the column of Charles D. Driscoll, who features in the place of the much beloved O. O. Illinois legislature.

ONLY TWO CASES OF SMALL POX IN THE CITY

City Physician, Dr. William Tappan, stated this afternoon that, while there were eight cases of small pox three weeks ago, today there are only two cases in Holland left in quarantine. He stated, however, that this did not mean that he should not remain vigilant, but he advised vaccination as a preventative, and that means adults as well as children.

PUBLIC WEDDING RITES ARE ANNOUNCED

The public wedding ceremony of Mr. Edward Nagelkerk, and Miss Janet Staal, two Zealand young people, will be solemnized in the auditorium of the Third Chr. Ref. Church this Thursday evening, at six-thirty o'clock.

Announcement was made that relatives and friends are extended the cordial invitation to attend and witness the pleasurable event.

BENTHEIM RESIDENCE STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

As a climax to the five unseasonably warm days of the past week, an electric storm passed over this section Tuesday evening, doing some damage.

In one instance, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Behrens at Bentheim was struck by a bolt that did considerable damage to the home besides shocking its occupants. No person was injured beyond a severe scare.

The evidences of the blow show that it struck the kitchen wall when an electric light fixture was blown into pieces from its fastenings, and a mirror that hung directly below the fixture was also blown into small particles. Besides some damage to the wall, the wall decoration was badly burned; but there was no resulting fire.

The family physician was called, but it was soon discovered that no one was injured besides the result of physical shock, from which they recovered rapidly.

TWO HOLLAND GIRLS HONORED ABROAD

Miss Grace Schurer, of this city, who is attending Cumberland college in Lebanon, Tennessee, and studying Voice with Mrs. Jeanette H. Kremer, has had an audition with Frank La Forge, the eminent composer and coach of Nashville, Tennessee. La Forge told her she had everything a singer needed—voice, looks and intelligence, and complimented her on her easy method of tone production, and her German diction. He told her she could be a great singer without the question of a doubt. Miss Schurer expects to return to her home in Holland at the end of the school year.

The friends of Miss Betty Kremer, daughter of Mrs. Jeanette H. Kremer, of Holland, who is finishing her college work at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas, will be interested to know that she has been invited to become a member of a National Honorary Fraternity for high scholarship in the classics. Miss Kremer is expected home after her graduation this summer.

Gerrit De Kleyn and Peter Kamps were employed as milk weighers at the Drenthe Creamery. They have already assumed that position.

McIntyre who passed away recently. He says:—

Clarence Darrow had just finished his battle for the young killers, Leopold and Loeb, in the fall of 1924, when I first met him. I had written in the Cleveland Press a piece about Nathan Leopold, father of one of the boys. The tragedy of the old gentleman's life was treated sympathetically. Darrow visited the Press office and told Editor H. B. Briggs that he had heard of the article and would like to read it. Briggs got it for him and introduced us. Darrow sat at my desk. Tears rolled down his cheeks as he read. He grasped my hand when he had finished and chokily expressed his appreciation. He was a tender hearted man, torn by terrible conflict.

Newspapermen liked Attorney Darrow's newspaper reports. One reason was that the prominent attorney was easy to understand. In making his speeches to the jury, he spoke very slowly. When he reached a point he wished to stress he made his statements, walking slowly across the room and taking a drink of water, returning just as slowly, and repeating the statement. If any newspaper writer had fallen behind he had ample time to catch up, and he had two "shots" at the remark the speaker wished most for him to hear.

If Darrow was first in making speeches easy for reporters, Wm. Jennings Bryan was second, for this silver-tongued speaker never ran his sentences together, and Bryan's delivery was easy to follow. He was never hurried and never seemed excited, only when he was carried away with his own enthusiasm, which always called for a climax. It was the writer's privilege to take down some of Mr. Bryan's speeches, and he was easy to follow except when your reporter was carried away by the fire and enthusiasm of Mr. Bryan's delivery; and that was true during his discourse on evolution here.

It must be remembered that this great orator, although a "dark horse," swayed an entire Democratic convention, which brought him the presidential nomination in Chicago, when he delivered that famous speech, "The Cross of Gold and the Crown of Thorns."

Clarence Darrow, as an attorney, was a product of our own Michigan University. Despite his views on religion and his fighting spirit, he always seemed to be fighting for the "under dog." When in repose he was said to be a very kindly man, a good neighbor, although he shunned purely social contacts.

Mr. Darrow came to Chicago in 1887 and served some time in the place of the much beloved O. O. Illinois legislature.

Grand Rapids Points To Local Tulip-Festival

"FURNITURE CITY" ALSO WANTS HOLLAND'S KIND OF PUBLICITY

That a Chamber of Commerce in a city is a potent factor to its welfare is again shown in an article in the Grand Rapids Herald. That is to say, if the Chamber of Commerce is a "live and active one."

In a recent issue the Holland City News pointed out editorially the less achievements of Holland's Chamber of Commerce. In fact, if all the achievements were listed, industrially and otherwise, the article would have been more of an inventory sheet. Therefore, much that could have been said was eliminated in behalf of good reading.

Grand Rapids, it appears, has noticed all this publicity Holland and other cities have recently been getting. In fact, the achievements of Holland and its Chamber of Commerce were taken up by the members of the Grand Rapids Lions Club Tuesday, who are working out a plan and will give their support to a program that will engender a new community spirit that will "sell" Grand Rapids to its own citizens, and through them, to the world.

The Advertisers' Club, too, is taking this up. According to the Grand Rapids Herald, exponents point out that the city's national publicity recently has been confined to three things—a radio amateur hour, which was good publicity; the furniture strike, which was negative; and the near flood of this winter, which too, was negative.

It was brought out further that other cities have been putting on programs that have brought thousands to their city. In the list mentioned were the New Orleans' Mardi Gras, Cheyenne's Frontier Days, the Pendleton Round-Up, Pasadena's Tournament of Roses, Port Huron's Blue Water Carnival, Lowell, Michigan's Showboat, Salt Lake City's covered wagon days, and Holland's Tulip Festival.

And here is what they say about Holland's Tulip Festival, and, re-echoing, we don't say it, but Grand Rapids says this in a large program meeting. The statement was made by Fred E. Hamlin, who addressed the Advertisers' Club, and knows what he is talking about, since he has had a great deal to do with advertising. This is what he says in the Grand Rapids Herald:

Holland Is Example
"Holland gets a half-million dollars' worth of publicity," he said, "and wholly apart from that, every citizen benefits directly or indirectly. The week after the tulip festival, 75,000,000 people see newspaper pictures of the event. You can't buy that sort of publicity."

At this same meeting it was proposed that starting in May, an educational campaign be carried on to reach all in Grand Rapids, through clubs and other avenues, with essay contests in schools, with industries holding open house to acquaint citizens with the factories and the industrial complex of the City of Grand Rapids; that service stations, clerks in stores be enlisted to welcome visitors to Grand Rapids; and that newsreel men be brought to the city during the summer to photograph possibly a fishing tournament or a golf feature.

The article takes up considerable more space, giving several other suggestions, but suffice it to say that Grand Rapids feels the need of just the kind of publicity Holland has been getting. And the fact of the matter is, Holland is getting it should reflect favorably on the work of the Chamber of Commerce.

A very conservative estimate of the number of visitors to Holland during the last four years that record was kept indicates that approximately 1,700,000 people came here to visit our Tulip Festival. No record was kept of the five years before that time, but that, too, would be a sizeable number. Last year the number was estimated as between 650,000 and 700,000. With favorable weather those coming this year was undoubtedly be near that number. So during the five years the approximate number would be 2,400,000.

Allowing for a shrinkage of say 400,000 it would leave a conservative figure of at least 2,000,000 visitors in five years. Supposing that each one of these visitors while here spent a single dollar. This would bring to Holland, from the outside, $2,000,000, or approximately $400,000 a year; and we would like to see the person who could make a visit to any town and get away with an expense account of a single dollar.

While these figures may be fantastic, we also try to make them so conservative that there can be no doubt in the minds of anyone that this Tulip Festival to Holland is just what Grand Rapids sees in it. They see a half million dollars' worth of publicity annually, which they claim costs Holland nothing. In fact, they say you cannot buy that publicity, which is true. They do not mention, however, the monetary value that this publicity brings to our city, brought by visitors from the outside; and those are dollars and cents that remain in the city.

Therefore, forgetting all the other functions of the Chamber of Commerce, industrially, commercially, harbor improvements, conventions, good roads, and an endless lot of proposals that need constant watching, the Tulip Festival alone, fostered by the Chamber and the numerous committees who work gratuitously, make it imperative that a Chamber, such as Holland has, be sustained and be given cordial support.

Other rooms in the college buildings contained a small calf, chickens, doves, and other animals. "The joke" was discovered Friday morning after chapel hour. Note:—The writer saw the entire procedure, the calf was placed in the room of Prof. Henry Boer's second floor because the mule could not climb the narrow winding stairs. The boys had to be content to place the mule in the class room of Prof. J. B. Nykerk. The other barnyard denizens were well distributed in other class rooms. The students had their fun until the "Profs" got their heads together and had the suspects stay for several hours of house cleaning and while this was in progress give them a prolonged lesson on animal husbandry.

HOLLAND HIGH TEAM GETS PRAISE FROM STATE HEAD

(Extract from letter received by Mr. J. J. Riemersma from Mr. C. E. Forsythe, State Director of Athletics, State Department of Public Instruction, Lansing.)

"May I take this opportunity to compliment Coach Chapman, Coach Weiss, and squad, for the outstanding season which it had in basketball this year. It is too bad that two outstanding teams sometimes happen to be located in the same section of the state, so that one of them eliminates the other in District or Regional competition. I am sure you feel that Kalamazoo did themselves proud, and undoubtedly, it is some gratification to know that the team which defeated you during the season and tournament play, won the highest honors in its class."

Yours truly,
C. E. Forsythe.

LAST MEETING OF ZEELAND "LIT" AT WARM FRIEND TAVERN

It was decided at the meeting of the Zealand Woman's Literary Club, held Tuesday, that the club will close its activities for the summer on April 12 with a luncheon at Warm Friend Tavern, Holland, when Mrs. Arthur Fitzgerald will be the main speaker.

At Tuesday's meeting Mrs. H. Miller conducted a short business meeting, and Mrs. L. Kleis, secretary, announced committee appointments for the club beginning next October. Mr. Glen Gosling of Olivet College was the guest speaker. His subject was "The Revolt in Twentieth Century Literature."

Mr. Gosling is a Rhodes scholar and an able speaker. Music contributed enjoyment to the program when Miss Geneva Janssen presented piano selections from Schubert and Mendelssohn.

Others May Be Worse Off

The reflection that things might be worse, and that other people may be in even less fortunate conditions than we are, tends to make our own disappointments easier to bear.

Consider the case of the man in Kentucky who recently wrote to the income-tax collector:

"My salary was $400 a month. Somebody got my job, the finance company took my car, the bank took my home, my wife took the furniture and somebody took my wife. All I have left is my health and education, and I would be glad to have the opportunity to work out the bill in your department."

And the government can't even grant that, his implied request! That's a real predicament for a person to be in.

But On America's Terms

The change of heart on the subject of early Filipino independence which Manuel Quezon appears to have experienced, undoubtedly is based upon a desire not to be last as well as first president in Manila.

Whether the United States should forego getting rid of the islands is perhaps an open question. But Washington should have no hesitation in telling the Filipinos that if they are allowed to remain under American protection they must expect to do so on America's terms and under full control and direction by the United States.

The present setup may be all right as a temporary arrangement. But it would be impossible as a permanent one.

JUDGE MILES TO GO INTO LAW FACTS IN MC BRIDE-BLOM CASE

In a case involving Cornelius Blom, Jr., local fire chief, and Charles H. McBride, Holland attorney, which was first put up for trial in 1934, a judgment for $6,811 in favor of Blom was returned in Ottawa circuit court at Grand Haven last Saturday afternoon. Trial on the case opened on the previous Thursday. The jury deliberated for two hours on the case before it announced its decision in the matter.

The judgment is the balance due on a $10,000 note, plus interest. McBride was a second endorser on the Bush and Lane Piano Co. note. At the 1934 trial, Judge Miles rendered a decision of no cause for action in the case. The only part of the case submitted at the present trial was that which dealt with facts, although Judge Miles is reserving legal questions involved for later decisions and arguments. A motion has been made in the present trial to set aside the verdict of the jury. Final arguments on this question will be heard next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moomey of this city spent Saturday in Flint, where they visited friends and relatives.

A shower was held last Tuesday night at the home of Miss Alma Van Nui, 240 East 15th St., for Miss Cecelia Koning, who is to become the bride of Lawrence Hofmeyer soon. Present were the Misses Kathleen Hamm, Ethel De Vries, Gertrude Knapp, Angela Lamb, Annette Bratt, Margaret Nienhuis, Esther Caauwe, Marian Caauwe, Winifred De Vries, Edna Ann Hofmeyer, Jeannette Bratt, Margaret Nienhuis, and Annette Bratt.

HOLLAND TULIPS GET PUBLICITY THROUGH DETROIT GARDEN CLUB

The Michigan Horticultural Society is staging its greatest Garden Show in Detroit this week at Convention Hall. Among the Holland members of this society visiting the show this week are Harry Nellis, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Stallkamp and William M. Connelly.

The show opened Saturday, March 19th and ends Sunday night, March 27th. Mr. Connelly has just returned and reports that the vast buildings were jammed with the largest attendance that they ever had. The wild flower garden sponsored by one of the motor car manufacturers is said to have cost sixty thousand dollars. Holland's Tulip Festival is getting excellent advertising through the exhibit of the Chicago, Duluth & Georgian Bay Transit Co., where our program is being handed out. Mr. Connelly stationed himself at the exhibit at intervals to check on the interest displayed in the festival, and listened to many comments and it was all very encouraging. Those who had attended were very complimentary and practically all the others stated that they hoped that they could attend this year.

The humorous angle to Mr. Connelly's visit was revealed when he stated that he had taken a group of guests to the show and turned them loose while he studied the exhibits of most interest to him. After their visit was over and they were ready to depart, he said, "Well, what did you think of the show?" The ladies said it was great, and each displayed a fifteen-cent egg beater which they had purchased at one of the booths. His comment then was, "Well, I give up! Here I transport you two hundred miles to see this most gorgeous sight, and your appreciation seems to lie in the purchase of a sordid little kitchen utensil."

Holland's Annual Charity Ball Scheduled For April 22nd

Members of the Civic Health committee of the local Woman's Literary club were guests of Mrs. Edgar Nason and Mrs. Henry Maentz at the clubhouse at a coffee dessert Tuesday at 1 p. m. The hostesses are co-chairmen of the fourth annual Charity ball, which will be presented in the local armory April 22. Plans for the ball were discussed at the meeting.

A gala occasion, involving several new features are promised for the ball by the committee. Since civic health work in the city is now sponsored by funds from the Community Chest, the ball is not being given because of financial need, although the chest board, in approving the ball, suggested that proceeds go toward the purchase of cod liver oil for babies. The ball is being put on because of demands of patrons in past years. The ball is one of the outstanding social affairs in Holland.

Committees in charge of ball arrangements follow: Tickets—Mrs. Willis Diekema, chairman, and the Mesdames R. W. Everett, S. W. Merriam, C. J. McLean, B. P. Donnelly, J. E. Telling, and Miss Rena Boven; music—Mesdames A. W. Tahaney and O. W. Lowry; posters, Mesdames James De Pree, C. HOFFMAN SPEAKS TO SEVERAL HUNDRED

Congressman Clare Hoffman was a special guest of the Greater Republican Club at Grand Rapids, Friday, when he spoke in the ballroom of the Pandion Hotel. Mr. Hoffman pointed out to his interested listeners that he was pretty down-hearted and that he wanted to bring home a thought, not that a dictatorship was already here in this country, but that the American people had already lost a lot of freedom.

Hoffman, who is an anti-Townsend, stated that he would absolutely be afraid to vote for a bill that would provide $200 a month spending money for "pa," and $200 for "ma" per month, when becoming of age, as was suggested by Townsend adherents. Hoffman expressed that he was disgusted with many folk who seem to lack backbone to fight the condition in which this country is in. He said that he had been speaking at many civic clubs during the last five years, and the rank and file do not seem to have the initiative to assert themselves and to fight back. They did, however, wake up in the court-packing and tax fight. It is about time that every red-blooded American becomes alive to the fact that we are in great danger here.

Mr. Hoffman pointed to the president's speech in his first campaign and early in his first term, that we were on the way to recovery. But, he said, the right prescription has not yet been prescribed; and he met with a gale of laughter when he said, "It must be that somewhere between the apothecary and the patient the prescription got stolen." He twitted on the $100 per plate for the Jackson dinner, and said that 15 years ago the country would "dub" such dinners as political corruption.

Hoffman lambasted many labor leaders as trouble-makers, but admitted that 99% were all right and wanted to play fair.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

By ANN PAGE

FISH is to be plentiful and moderate cost this week. Veal is to be reasonably priced for the first time in months. Lamb is cheaper, pork higher and beef little changed. Ducks are the lowest priced poultry item, though few, broiling and frying chickens are reasonable.

Oranges are cheaper than in four years. Apples, bananas, grapefruit, pineapples and strawberries are all inexpensive.

Vegetables, too, are generally cheaper than last week. The chief exception to this is iceberg lettuce, which the low price on tomatoes, however, more than balances.

Here are three reasonable menus.

GAS IS YOUR QUICK, CLEAN
ECONOMICAL SERVANT.

SOMETHING FOR THE VOTER TO THINK ABOUT!

You will, no doubt, hear many arguments for and against liquor by the glass in the next few weeks.

Please bear in mind that you are not voting for or against liquor. If you vote "yes" you favor liquor by the glass. If you vote "no" it simply means a continuance in a larger measure of selling liquor by the bottle. You are merely voting on the manner in which said liquor is to be served.

At the present time, anyone who is of age can purchase liquor by the pint or quart and as many pints or quarts as he or she desires to buy. Where is the liquor now sold in Holland being consumed? In automobiles which you and you and you meet on the streets of Holland every day and night!

Would it not be better to have designated locations at which a person could purchase one drink or shall they continue to be compelled as now to buy by the pint or quart? Or shall we go further and force that same person to drink it in his automobile or in some rest room or hallway?

Liquor by the glass can be properly policed. Can that be said about liquor by the bottle?

HOLLAND GIRL WINS ZEELAND PRIZE
Mrs. Gertrude Arendsen, 724 Lincoln Ave., employed at the Lake Shore Sugar Co., won the $10.00 prize for giving the best name to a Sinclair Service Station just built by Ray Smith of Holland, agent for the Sinclair Company in this district. The station is conspicuous at the fork where the two highways to Zeeland diverge, one going to Zeeland's main street, and the other, M-21 to Grand Rapids. In other words, on the former Veneklaassen bridge yard site at the top of the hill. There were many contestants and many names were suggested. However, the name chosen by the judges was "The Y," because of the diverging roads at that point and because it has often been called that by the citizens of Zeeland. The plan now is to erect a sign with a large "Y" Service Station" under which will be placed the slogan "Why Not Stop?" Mr. Ray Smith has already awarded the $10.00 in cash to Mrs. Arendsen. The judges were Cornie Van Koeveering of the Zeeland Record, Ben Mulder of the Holland City News, and "Doc" Ter Haar of Zeeland. The judges were given a dinner at Welling's Cafe at Zeeland, after which the prospective names were gone over. Mr. Ray Smith wishes to thank all those who participated in this contest for their efforts in making it a success.

Hundreds To Gather For The Leper Meeting

are taken up, the largest being in Hope Church on March 17, 1925, when $1,466 was collected at a single meeting.

A home was built for lepers, which was named the Christine Van Raalte Gilmore Home for Lepers. Before the home was built, the yearly collections amounted to approximately $50. Since that time the collections have been $650 and more annually. $630 supports twenty-one lepers in East Africa, and $100 for native assistance to Dr. Stauffacher.

At last year's meeting at Central Avenue Church more than 800 attended, and next week Wednesday afternoon it is hoped that 1,000 will attend. The speaker at that time will be Rev. Carl J. Tanis of Wheaton, Illinois, who was sent out by the Sudan Interior Mission, for which he is Deputation Secretary. Mr. Tanis is well-known in this vicinity. He was born and reared in Grand Rapids; received his training at Moody's Bible Institute and Northern Baptist Theological Seminary. He went to Africa under the Sudan Interior Mission in 1927. He is highly recommended as a public speaker and has had actual personal experience in leper work in Africa, and therefore, is an authority, which surely will be reflected in his discourse next Wednesday.

It is expected that many women from this Women's Federation from different churches of Holland and vicinity will be present. Included in these are practically every Protestant denomination in Holland, Zeeland, Vriesland, Jamestown, Forest Grove, Central Park, Graafschap, and other outlying communities. As has been said before, the purpose is to hear first-hand, such information that will show the progress of leper work throughout the world, and undoubtedly Dr. Tanis will give that information.

The money received for work done at Inhambane, East Africa, last year, amounted to $1,940.

STILL PLENTY OF FEED AVAILABLE FOR STATE'S BIRDS

Regardless of how the weather man rates in human estimation, he has been kind toward Michigan's game birds this winter.

Excepting during an ice storm in December, the birds have not had much difficulty finding sufficient feed. Even the December storm did not precipitate an acute condition because usually that early in the winter there is still plenty of feed available and the birds have not ordinarily been subjected to any preceding starvation period.

Artificial feeding was resorted to in some sections of the lower peninsula in a few instances, but only a small amount of money has been drawn from the emergency fund which the department of conservation maintains for the purchase of feed when scarcity or inaccessibility of natural feed becomes acute.

Pheasants and quail have been able to find plenty of corn in farm field shocks, a good source of feed when the ground is covered with snow. Comparative snowless periods in sections of the lower peninsula also have permitted them to reach the waste grain and ragweed in the stubble fields.

Although the upper peninsula has been visited by severe storms and heavy snows, no serious condition has resulted because the ruffed grouse habitually take to the trees to feed on poplar, white birch, maple and other budlings, and the sharp-tailed grouse can do likewise if the ground conditions become unfavorable. The square-tail, the real prairie chicken, is capable of long migrations and often vanishes from the upper peninsula during the winter.

The Rev. and Mrs. T. W. Mulenberg have left for a six-weeks' trip throughout the East, where they will visit relatives and friends. They plan to see their son, John, in Rocky Hill, N. Y., where he is pastor of the Reformed church.

On April 8 the annual Children's Division Institute of the Ottawa County Council of Christian Education is to be held in Third Reformed church here. More than 100 delegates are expected. Supper will be served at 6:30 p. m. at the church, preceded by a Sunday School exhibit. Miss Irene Catton, acting secretary of the Michigan Council of Churches and Christian Education, will present the main addresses at the meeting. Meetings will be of primary interest to leaders of children who are 12 years of age or younger.

DR. TEN HAVE DENIES SMALL-POX SERIOUS IN OTTAWA

Dr. Ralph Ten Have, Ottawa county health commissioner, denied reports of widespread epidemic of smallpox in Ottawa county, circulated in a statement from state health authorities today. There are six cases in quarantine, four north of Holland, and two in Holland, all adults except one.

The report of an outbreak was due to a misunderstanding, Dr. Ten Have said. He said there had been 17 cases in the county since the last week in January which in his opinion does not constitute an epidemic. Many of these were not uncovered until discovery of cases recently in the Holland area. Reports of these cases, including those which have been out of quarantine for various periods, constituted the 14 reported to state health authorities this week.

Widespread vaccinations have been resorted to during the past week as insurance against possible spread of the disease.

out many sections of the country, the egg production has been the highest of any year on record. Added to that is the fact that with other competitive food products also low in price there has been some slowing down of egg consumption, as good as eggs are for the children and grown folks too. The egg drive put on by the grocers, egg raisers, produce dealers, hatcherymen, food manufacturers, and all interested in the poultry industry will center around the fact that eggs are economical, a fine food, and good in quality. Through removal of eggs by increased consumption, the price will be helped and the producers of eggs benefited millions of dollars during the flush egg season.

Correcting Wrong Ideas of Religion—Mark 7:1-13.

Henry Geerlings

It was a narrow mind that quibbled over failure to observe worn-out ceremonies and was blind to great goodness and great ideas. The Pharisees and Sadducees had this kind of a mind. They made the observation that some of Jesus' disciples ate their food with unwashed hands. And, of course, this was a sin: a serious offense against their religion. And while they brought this charge against the disciples, ostensibly, yet in reality it was a charge against Jesus, because the disciples were the product of His teaching and life. Like teacher, like disciples. Now the trouble with these accusers was that they had lost the heart and spirit out of their religion and they had one that was a mere shell. They lived by its letter and not by its great inspirations. They made the ceremonies and rituals and means of expression and symbols into an end in themselves and to lose sight of the purpose for which they are appointed and used. We teach children to do certain things which grown-up people need not do. What we teach them to do has pedagogical value, but when they have learned their lesson the ceremony or the performance has served its purpose and is no longer useful. Men do not play with blocks. They work with pencil and paper and they draw great designs and then they build skyscrapers and beautiful cathedrals. Men do not ride hobby horses. They buy and ride real horses. Men do not play in said tables. They hew out the marble from the eternal hills and they build it into glorious temples. Men do not play with puzzles. They struggle with the mysteries of life and they build philosophies. The ceremonies of the Jews, their washings and rituals, had pedagogical value. They were intended for them in the kindergarten period of their religious development, but when they grew older they could put away the childish ways. But they did not. Not only did they not put them away, but they made them the very guiding principles of their religion. They lifted them up into vital significance. By them and the observance of them did their religion stand or fall.

It is a misfortune when a traveler thinks a signboard is the place where he is to stop, when it is only a something that points out the way to go toward his goal. It is a pity when a man thinks that the cup out of which he drinks his coffee is of chief importance, when the coffee is the thing. It is a queer mind that thinks the signs and ceremonies and symbols of his religion are the all-important matter, when love and faith and goodness are the heart and driving power of it.

Now then, Jesus took His critics to task for shallowness and hypocrisy. He told them that Isaiah had already painted their picture. He saw them as those religious people who honor God with their lips, but keep their hearts far away from Him. They have mistaken their own ideas of things for divine precepts. They have confused the pitifully human view of things for the eternal right of things. Indeed, one of the tragic misfortunes of true religion is that some of its professors lift their own conception of things into the place of unquestionable authority and say, it is by this your souls shall live. They would prevent you who are honestly trying to find their way into the heart of the religion of Jesus from pursuing that noble purpose. They stand in the way of their finding the true liberty of the children of God.

Whenever religion becomes a burden and not an inspiration, it is not from God, but from man. Whenever religion becomes a form and not a force, it has lost its contact with heaven and it has fallen a victim of man's sentimental tendencies. And it is another tragic misfortune when tradition is lifted into the importance of a command of God. What comes out of the past is not necessarily good because men used to do it, but it is good only if God has appointed it or given it authority and life. We must hold on to all that has abiding value, but we must be sure that we do not burden men's consciences with something that was never intended to have more than a local and passing value.

Will Show Pictures Here Made in the Netherlands

On Thursday and Friday evening, March 31 and April 1, three sound motion pictures will be shown at the Holland armory by John Pereboom of Sassenheim, Netherlands. Featured will be the film, "In Stormgetij." Lectures are in the Dutch language. The pictures have been very favorably received when they were presented in the Netherlands. The Reformed Church of the Netherlands and the Christian society are sponsors of the pictures, which were made in an effort to solve the Christian amusement program in the Netherlands.

Three of the most recent motion pictures made in the Netherlands are at present shown in different places in the United States of America presented by John Pereboom and his son Gerard J. Pereboom of the Netherlands. One picture includes various scenes from Holland as: The drying of the Zuiderzee, an excursion through Giethoorn, Vollenham in winter time, cheese market at Alkmaar, bulb-growing at Sassenheim, church-going in Zeeland, etc.

The second picture has scenes from the house of Orange and begins with the birth of Princess Juliana, a royal visit to Amsterdam, a visit to the King and Queen of Belgium, opening of the "wiegemeer," her work at the Red Cross, a flower ovation to Queen Emma, her grandmother, the princess' betrothal, the grand festivities at The Hague, congratulations of the high officials at the palace, the young couple at the palace gardens and amongst the cheering crowd in the streets of the capital, their marriage in old church, and their honeymoon to Krynia, Poland. The life story finishes with old Dutch national hymn, song by the manchoir, "Apelo."

"Tempest Tossed" or "In Storm GETIJ" was introduced by the Netherlands Christian Radio society at a cost of $25,000 to the equivalent of American money. It was shown first on November last at the large auditorium at Rotterdam to more than 2,500 guests, who were invited to the premiere.

"Tempest Tossed" introduces one to the family "Coster" at a seashore village in the Netherlands. The leading person is Jan Coster, yet a tiny boy. When he is brought to bed at evening, his mother sings for him: "Als vrienden henenzaan in stormgetij, Blif Gij ter hulpe gereed, o blijf met mij!" (Abide with me.) The boy loves the sea, he wants to become a sailor, but his parents object. They want him to become a teacher, and for this purpose he is sent to a college at Rotterdam; but he is sent away from school. Loitering along Rotterdam's harbor he hears the music of "Abide with Me" on a grind-organ. His parents give in, and allow him to attend a marine college. He graduates and goes to sea as third mate. He makes a trip to Norway, but when he comes home again he is not any more the same boy; temptation has been too strong for him.

When his parents attend church on Sunday, he goes out with friends and is glad when he can go to sea again. This time it is a trip to the Mediterranean. The picture shows the beautiful French southern coast, Algiers in Northern Africa and Blida on the border of the desert. Back on board the steamer he meets with an accident and is taken to an African hospital. Time passes too slowly and, feeling bored, he calls for the Dutch consul at Algiers, asking him to provide him with a radio set. Tuning in there is Holland—the first sound which catches his ear is, "Abide with Me," sung by the Haghesingers male choir from Hilversum studio. It is the song his mother used to sing when she brought him to bed at night. He thinks of the dear old home, his father, and sees his praying mother. Conviction crowds his mind, then he remembers that his mother put a Bible amongst his belongings in his grip, he asks the nurse to bring him his suitcase, then he opens the old book and reads: "Come unto Me all ye, that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest, etc."

This picture was specially made for the purpose of showing all Christian people a film based on a high moral principle, and we dare say this purpose has been fully accomplished.

The premiere of these Dutch pictures was given at the church parlors of Neland Avenue Christian Reformed church at Grand Rapids, where 100 professors, ministers, and other prominent men of Grand Rapids were invited with their wives, on March 3rd last.

The Reverend H. J. Kuiper, Editor of "The Banner" writes: "... For this reason we write in commendation of the movement sponsored by The Christian Radio Society of The Netherlands and recommend its pictures to our people in the various localities in which they may be shown."—And, Dr. Bernard Mulder, Editor of The Intelligencer-Leader writes in his last issue: "... I heartily endorse the picture Mr. Pereboom is showing. They certainly provide clean and wholesome entertainment for our people and I know they will enjoy seeing them."

After the first performance at The Civic Auditorium at Grand Rapids, Mich., The Grand Rapids Press wrote:—"An overflow crowd, 500 being turned away, saw the first showing of three sound films of The Netherlands."

All pictures are with the latest sound equipment.

WHY PAVE STREETS WITH CONCRETE?

here's why —

- Every street demands a gritty, non-skid surface for the protection of motorists and pedestrians.
- At night you need a pavement with high visibility.
- Safety also calls for a pavement that is free from chuck holes, ruts and bumps... and stays that way with minimum maintenance.
- You want a pavement that drains quickly... that is easily cleaned and stays clean... no depressions to catch dirt.
- You want a pavement that makes the whole neighborhood look modern, prosperous, attractive.

Concrete... and only concrete... completely meets all of these specifications.
