City Okays Purchase Of Computer

Purchase of a Burroughs 2500 computer and associated equipment at the rate of $4,649 per month for seven years, including maintenance and a terminal, with interest at 5 per cent per annum, was approved by City Council Wednesday night.

Decision to operate its own computer center was approved previously by Council, plus plans to establish this center in the present BPW garage behind City Hall, with the BPW moving its meter department to its Fifth St. plant. Holland Hospital withdrew from the city computer program some months ago for economic reasons, and is affiliating with a firm specializing in hospital services.

City Manager William L. Bopf said total cost for computer, interest and maintenance over the seven-year program is estimated at $395,000.

Council also approved expenditure of $40,000 to prepare facilities for the computer center and to purchase necessary peripheral equipment. Included in the $40,000 is a $10,000 balance in the present computer account.

Council approved two resolutions relating to parking lots, leases and proposed contracts. One rescinded the present arrangement and the other implements a new program to conform with recently revised state statutes.

A request from Windmill Island for an alarm system in the concession building was tabled for further study which could expand such a system to other buildings.

Council accepted a declaration of dedication from Brook Village Condominium Development Co. conveying and dedicating to the city the water mains, sanitary sewers and storm drainage lines located in its East 32nd St. site, subject to approval by the city attorney.

A communication from the Michigan Municipal League announced the annual meeting for region 5 will be held April 25 in Grand Haven.

A communication from the Ottawa County Election Scheduling Committee approved date of May 7 for special election on bonding the city for sewer improvements.

A request from Burgess Aviation for a permit to move an airplane over city streets April 5 and April 6 in connection with the sports show was referred to the city manager with power to act.

A petition requesting sanitary sewer service in 30th St. from Homestead to Diekema was referred to the city manager for report.

A communication from the Human Relations Commission endorsed Council's recent decision to put the city's EEA employees on fulltime status and expressed appreciation for the decision.

In keeping with a Planning Commission policy to incorporate recommendations regarding specific rezoning applications into an area-wide study which views requests from a broader perspective than one isolated parcel, recent action included: T. G. Hudson, Tommy Oil Co., denied; Maple Heights, approved; O-K Tire Store, denied; Preston Kool, approved; Richard Drenth, approved. The communication was accepted as information.

An application of Owen A. Aukerman to rezone a 24-acre parcel at 1100 Central Ave. to B-1 apartment for constructing a condominium was referred to the Planning Commission.

Council approved suggested application to the Michigan State Highway Department for a permit to close state trunkline for Tulip Time activities. This also includes Dutch Dance practices on the same basis as last year.

Council confirmed a certification by Councilman James Vande Poel for recent purchase made by Recreation Department from Superior Sport Store for $73.50.

A claim against the city from Hugh Harper, 887 Graafschap Rd. was referred to the insurance carrier and city attorney.

Japanese-U.S. Trade Relations Discussed

By Anita Wallgren

In a discussion of Japanese-U.S. relations Thursday afternoon, Consul General in Chicago, Taseo Suzuki, speaking at both a Rotary Club luncheon and later on the Hope College campus, stressed the need for a better understanding of the two cultures.

He is here as a guest of Hope College which is sponsoring a series of programs on Japan throughout March and April. Also scheduled for Thursday evening was a panel discussion on new opportunities for trade between Japan and the U. S.

As Consul General, Suzuki's responsibilities lie in two areas: first, to assist Japanese persons living in the Middle West, primarily in relation to business and employment. His office also processes Japanese passports and American visas.

In addition he works to improve relations between the countries through public appearances, film series, and furnishing materials related to Japan.

Commenting on the rising inflation in America, Suzuki felt that "it is still controllable here," while in Japan rising costs are "rampant and have become a great political problem." He says that "the effectiveness of either Japan or the U. S. in curbing inflation will be reflected in their political stability." Suzuki also feels that a political stability will enable the two countries to control inflation.

Speaking briefly of the Arab oil embargo, Suzuki said Japan tries to seek the oil suppliers' cooperation, pointing out that 99.5 per cent of Japan's oil is imported, and of that 45 to 50 per cent is from Arab nations.

Asked about the recently publicized purchase of Motorola Corp. by a Japanese firm, Suzuki said this may be "the second or third incidence of this among thousands and tens of thousands of American corporations." He also indicated that the move was initiated by Americans.

To promote communications between the countries, Suzuki feels that we should strengthen existing programs, such as student and business exchanges. In spite of changing values, the exchange of business between Japan and the U.S. "is getting closer," bringing about a mutual trade alliance.

Suzuki feels that such a "complementary and supplementary mutual dependence" will strengthen both the cultural and trade relations between Japan and the United States.

Dr. Jerry W. Dusseau, assistant professor of biology at Hope College, has been awarded a $3,945 grant by the Research Corporation of New York under the foundation's Cottrell College Science Grants program.

Dr. Dusseau will use the grant to further his study of how two hormones, follicle stimulating hormone (FSH) and corticosterone, interact to stimulate the reproductive system of birds. FSH is one of the major reproductive hormones in vertebrate animals; corticosterone is a steroid hormone, similar to cortisol and cortisone produced in humans, secreted from the adrenal gland.

The experiments studying the way these two hormones interact may have particular relevance to the way the hormones of humans interact to stimulate growth and other physiological activities. It is gradually becoming recognized that many, if not all, of the body's physiological functions exhibit daily rhythms. That is, for example, there are times during the day when growth is more pronounced, when humans have a greater tendency to deposit fat, or when they are more susceptible to colds and other infections. These rhythmic responses and activities are most likely due to the way in which rhythms of hormone production interact.

The grant will provide student research stipends and allow the purchase of some additional equipment for the research.

Two students, senior Jim Bosscher of Grand Rapids and junior Becky Hartman of Orleans, have been working on the project the last two years and have both made significant contributions to these studies, according to Dr. Dusseau.

Developer James Jurries seeks to have the 500 foot square area rezoned from residential to planned development. He seeks to have three buildings constructed to house a bank, a super market and six specialty shops.

The area in question is east of the Park Township airport.

Rezonning of the northeast corner of Ottawa Beach Rd. and 152nd Ave. is being sought for the development of a shopping center. A hearing on the rezoning request is scheduled Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the Park Township hall on Ottawa Beach Rd.

West Ottawa Discusses Pay System

The West Ottawa Board of Education Monday night spent the greater share of its three-hour meeting implementing a new system of wages for non-contract employees of the district including secretaries, custodians, bus drivers, grounds people, teacher aides, cooks, etc.

The new system is the result of a survey last summer by Gordon Kapper, executive secretary of the Grand Rapids Employees' Association, who evaluated all jobs, grouped them into classifications and made recommendations.

Implementation began a month ago and Monday's session dealt with problems that arose. The system was described as "not perfect, but an improvement, and there are some modifications still to be made."

A brief time was spent on administrative salaries. Administrative recommendations for athletic policies were taken under study until next month's meeting.

The board also engaged in an extensive discussion on alternatives to rigid graduation requirements. The report was referred back to the administration for further development.

The district budget was modified to accommodate to add-on costs for vocational education. The district offers three courses in carpentry, auto mechanics and horticulture.

Also appearing at the breakfast attended by about 80 persons were state Rep. James Farnsworth and Sen. Gary Byker.

Farnsworth warned of tax increases in the legislature continues to approve more spending than state income and urged citizens to enjoy their present tax rates "because they will be higher in the future."

Byker said a consumer protection bill in the legislature would be a "vicious act" allowing the attorney general to send his sleuths to investigate situations.

He also reported on four tax bills before the Senate including one which would reduce state property tax levels by an amount the state equalized value would be increased.

IN ZEELAND — U.S. Rep. Guy Vander Jagt, appearing at a Zeeland Chamber of Commerce congressional breakfast Tuesday, said he backs President Nixon and urges that he not resign from office, a change in Vander Jagt's position of about four months ago. The congressman also said he was "scared" of upcoming congressional elections in view of Watergate, recession and inflation talk and indicated Republicans were losing about 20 per cent of their votes. On Nixon-Watergate Situation

Vander Jagt Sees No Resignation

ZEELAND — U.S. Rep. Guy Vander Jagt, concerned about upcoming congressional elections, said he changed his mind about whether President Nixon should resign.

Speaking at the Zeeland Chamber of Commerce "Eggs and Issues" breakfast Tuesday, Vander Jagt said up to about four months ago he favored his resignation but said an article by a columnist convinced him Nixon should not resign.

In the column, Vander Jagt said, the reporter told of how Nixon asked another journalist working on a series of articles concerning the 1960 presidential elections to quash the series that detailed alleged vote fraud indicating how the Democrats stole the ballot in Illinois and other states.

Vander Jagt said the columnist told of how Nixon insisted he would not become president under circumstances that would toss the nation into a constitutional crisis that could result if the series were continued.

On the subpoenaing of presidential tapes, Vander Jagt agreed with the House Judiciary Committee's request for relevant tapes and suggested that the President turn them over if the committee can detail what information they need.

Referring to congressional elections where Republicans have been losing 20 per cent of their vote margins, Vander Jagt conceded he was "scared" and that in his own district a 20 per cent drop in votes would give him a 49.8 per cent margin based on the last congressional election.

"That's not enough to win an election," he added but came back by saying he would not lose to a Democrat "because of want of effort."

County Back To Normal In Flu Cases

GRAND HAVEN — The Ottawa County Health Department is discontinuing its flu surveillance check of schools, hospitals, industries and colleges after six weeks.

Dr. Paul J. Christenson, medical director, says the past week has revealed no unusual absenteeism in the county's major industries or colleges, and a slightly higher than normal rate of hospital admissions for pneumonia in Grand Haven hospital the past week.

He said the county as a whole can be considered to have returned toward normalcy on flu and flu-like illnesses. The outbreak started in late January.

Jenison Man Faces Host Of Charges

GRAND HAVEN — Robert Charles Hood Jr., 22, of Jenison, was held by Ottawa County deputies Tuesday for arraignment on a number of charges after he allegedly tried to out-run deputies and then pulled a revolver on deputies after he was stopped at Jenison early today.

Ottawa County deputy James Brandsma on routine patrol, spotted a car at 11:50 p.m. Monday which had been reported as stolen earlier in the day. Brandsma pursued the vehicle for about five minutes before the car smashed into another deputy sheriff's cruiser at Sunset and Baldwin in Jenison. The deputy, Max Elenbass, was not injured.

Deputies said Hood, still in his car, allegedly pulled a .44 caliber revolver as the deputies approached. Deputies said it was believed during the arrest procedures that the trigger of the revolver was pulled but that the weapon misfired. The cap went off but the slug remained in the weapon.

Deputies said they were unsure of the sequence of events. Hood appeared in District Court and bond was set on five charges. Bonds were not furnished and Hood was expected to contact an attorney.

Charges and bonds set included unlawfully driving away a car, $500; felonious assault, $5,000; open receptacle of alcohol in motor vehicle, $100; attempting to elude a police officer, $500 and carrying a concealed weapon, $1,000.

$225 Million to Fight Diabetes

Vander Jagt Bill Passed by House

By Esther Van Wagoner Tufty
WASHINGTON — U.S. Rep. Guy Vander Jagt (R-Mich.) was elected Tuesday when the diabetic bill he had spearheaded through the interstate and foreign commerce committee passed the House 380-6.

The national Diabetic Mellitus Act of 1974 which evolved from Vander Jagt's original bill, provides for a national commission on diabetes, and an authorization of $225 million to establish centers for the detention, treatment and education of the disease.

In the debate, Vander Jagt said his concern began 2½ years ago when a constituent, Mrs. Joyce Kortman of Holland, mother of two children afflicted by the disease, came into his office. He told the House, "She pointed out that diabetes is the fifth leading cause of death in America and the second cause of blindness; that 10 million have or will have the disease, and if we break it down to a family formula, one out of every five or six Americans is directly affected by diabetes."

He continued: In spite of that, a federal attack was buried in the Institute of Arthritis, Metabolism, and Digestive Diseases, and less than a half of one per cent of the federal disease research dollar was going to it."

The Congressman said, "Most people think because we've discovered insulin, there is really no problem with diabetes, but nothing could be further from the truth, as we were reminded a little over a year ago upon the tragic death of Jackie Robinson, who died from diabetes."

"That athlete, whose magnificent physique could elude the second baseman's tag, could not elude the tag of diabetes, and the ravage it did to his body."

The Michigan Republican received flattering tributes for his work in pushing the legislation from Rep. Harley Staggers (D-W.Va.) and Paul Rogers (D-Fla.) the chairman of the full committee and the subcommittee involved with the bill.

Council Kept Busy With Ordinances

New ordinances, first readings and a public hearing occupied City Council Wednesday night for the greater share of its regular meeting in City Hall which lasted an hour and 20 minutes.

The public hearing to review a sanitary sewer special assessment roll for Birchwood Ave. in Holland Heights brought response from only one person, Gregg Harter, who objected not to the sewer project but to his private assessment of two benefits on a large irregular sized lot which has only 45 feet of frontage.

City Manager William L. Bopf explained that Council had adopted the "benefit" policy instead of front footage because of residential development and odd-sized lot. He said the Harter lot is capable of accommodating two houses with a setback providing 70 feet at the building line. He also pointed out that the city is paying two-thirds of the actual cost on the total project, giving property owners, even with two benefits, a liberal subsidy.

Councilman Ken Beelen suggested that the question of one or more benefits be determined at the time a permit for building a new house is issued. The assessment roll was approved unanimously.

Council approved the previously tabled rules and regulations for private sewage disposal systems. Environmental Health Director Roger Stroh explained proposed regulations requiring two septic tanks for homes with more than three bedrooms, and double tanking in case of percolation difficulties.

Also approved were two ordinances defining inoperable vehicles, and requiring them to be licensed unless enclosed in a building. Stroh said consideration would be given such work as restoration of antique cars, but said they would be required to have regular licenses or vintage licenses. Exempted would be such operations as the Padnos Co. and trucking companies. The ordinance provides for a "reasonable time" after notification to vacate an inoperable vehicle.

An ordinance to increase illegal parking fines from $1 to $2 if not paid within 24 hours was approved after previously being tabled for study. This ordinance affects cars illegally parked, not overtime parking. Overtime parking with the same fines is covered in another ordinance.

Council received for first reading two ordinance revisions establishing new rates for street cut permits curtailing cuts except for emergencies between Nov. 1 and March 31, and requiring jacking under streets of all services two inches or less in diameter. Final reading and passage are scheduled at the meeting of Council.

Mayor Lou Hallacy presided at the meeting. All Councilmen were present except Albert Kleis Jr. The invocation was given by the Rev. Darwin Salisbury of First United Methodist Church.

North Muskegon Upsets Falcons

By Leo Martonosi
KENOWA HILLS—The North Muskegon Norsemen basketball machine got off to a spattering start but was well greased by the second period as it upset Allendale, 62-61 in the finals of the Class D No. 26 Regionals here Friday evening.

Allendale was seeking its 20th win of the season but instead had to drop out of the state tourney at 19-5 while the shorter Norsemen, who lost seven of 20 games entering the tilt, battled the Falcons even on the backboards and that was one of the reasons that they will be playing next week in the quarterfinals at Traverse City.

The Falcons took an early 11-2 lead before the winners came back to cut the gap to 11-7 in the low scoring first period. With standout Tom Fillipow tossing in 12 points and Tom Thornton 10, the Norsemen rushed out to a surprising 32-27 halftime margin.

North Muskegon was up by 10 at the third period stop, 50-40 but before they knew what hit them, they were down by one point, 57-56 in the wild fourth stanza, as Dave Sall started to find the range.

Four clutch free throws by Larry Williams late in the tilt gave the Norsemen the thrilling victory. Sall tallied 17 of his team's 21 points in the final quarter with his last bucket closing out the scoring with seven seconds left in the contest.

A highly diversified program of organ music by Roger Davis accented by Bruce Formsa, trumpeter, provided something for everyone Sunday night in Dimnent chapel while none of the six selections was found wanting in quality and brilliance.

The opening Bach Prelude and Fugue in G Major was a vigorous display of technical intricacies, and came off well on the tracker organ in the balcony of the chapel. Davis, developing the Fugue to a dramatic pause and sudden renewal of melody, thrilled a responsive audience with the organ's full sonority.

The performance of the delightful but lesser known Sonata I for Trumpet and Organ by Giovanni Bonaventura Viviani featured Formsa in what was definitely "his" piece. Opening, with a stately Andante movement the selection demonstrated the unique beauty of organ and trumpet together. Three brief fast tempo sections led to the Adagio, a triumphal combination of brass and organ grandeur.

A selection from a slightly earlier period, Giuseppe Torelli's "Sinfonia for Trumpet" was structured similarly to the Viviani, but concentrated on a much closer relation between the organ and trumpet, and included a somber adagio organ solo.

Davis performed the second half of the concert on the E. M. Skinner organ at the front of the chancel area, changing the mood from Baroque to Romantic.

The most dramatic selection on the program followed, Joseph Rheinberger's "Sonata VII in F Minor," utilizing sudden contrasts and powerful chords in the first and third movements. The middle, andante section was quiet and showed delicate shadings in the alto and tenor voices which carried a secondary duet.

The "Harmonies du Soir" (Harmonies of the Evening) by Sigfrid Karg-Elert, described the moods of night in a more modern impressionistic way. At times it featured layers of melody, sometimes only single tones, and at other times the melody was carried in subdued chords.

Sunday School Lesson

Sunday, March 24
Giving One's Best
Acts 6:8-11; 7:54-60

By C. P. Dame

It sometimes exists to give one's best but it is worth the effort. The person who gives his best benefits himself and others. Today the church needs people like Stephen, who was willing to give his all for Christ, who gave all he had for us. May the study of this lesson inspire us to a greater degree of faithfulness to Christ and His church.

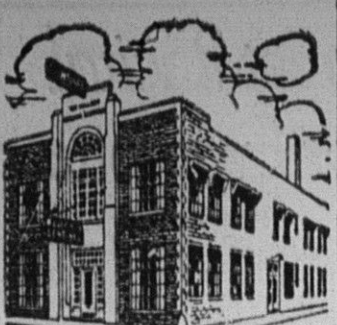

I. Faith is worth defending. Luke gave much attention to Stephen. He was chosen one of the seven deacons who met the requirements set: "Men of good repute, full of the Spirit and wisdom," and besides he was "full of faith and power" and "did great wonders and miracles among the people." Of the seven deacons, two, Philip and Stephen, also preached.

There were many synagogues in Jerusalem. In one of them some disputed with Stephen but could not win the debate and so they used a whispering campaign against him. Some bribed men said that Stephen spoke "blasphemous words against Moses and against God." They misquoted the words Jesus had spoken about His body and applied them to the temple. The Christian has ever been attacked, even to the present time.

II. God is ever at work. Stephen — the name means "crown" — was brought before the council to defend himself. His address is the longest in Acts. It shows that he was a theologian who knew his nation's history which spoke of God's healing with a people that often rebelled. Note that he said that God's revelation had always been progressive, even before the temple was built God had spoken to Abraham and the prophets. God had first revealed Himself to a man, then to a family, then to a nation, then through ceremony, and finally through His Son, Jesus Christ. History showed that the nation had always been troubled by unbelief. Stephen's opponents were doing what their fathers had done.

III. Both love and hate express themselves. Stephen "gazed into heaven and saw the glory of God and Jesus standing at the right hand of God." Terribly angered, the accusers threw stones, while the accused man knelt and cried, "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit," and with a loud voice said, "Lord, lay not this sin to their charge," and then fell asleep.

A young man, Saul, took care of the clothes of those who threw stones and consented to Stephen's death. Later on he regretted this deed and his consent. It is thought by many that the behavior and the prayer of Stephen made a deep impression upon Saul and contributed something to his conversion. Today we here are not called upon to suffer persecution as Stephen did but it still costs to stand up for Jesus in daily life.

DON'T CASTIGATE THE INNOCENT

We get a bit fed up with stories about people with large incomes that don't pay income taxes. And it gets under our skin a bit more when the story comes from the hurt conscience of a politician. Recently, Sen. Walter F. Mondale (D-Minn.) deplored the fact that in the 1972 tax year, about 400 people with incomes of $100,000 paid no income tax.

One would presume that 400 people were about to be hauled into court for tax evasion. Of course not. Why not? Because these people were not breaking the law. Under the existing tax laws as written by Congress, they were taking legitimate deductions that made it possible for them to reduce their taxes. Suppose for a moment that their money was heavily invested in tax exempt securities.

There is something a little strange in a congressman acting with indignation about the legal acts of a citizen, especially when the congressmen should be well aware that the only reason the citizen is not paying more tax is because a majority of congressmen passed the laws that made it possible.

It seems to us that such lack of integrity on the part of a member of Congress is of such magnitude, trying to cover up his own guilt, for he castigates those within the law, that nothing short of retirement at the next election is in order. But that might mean a whole new Congress. It would be worth it if we could get some quiet integrity.

New Officers Are Elected By Eta Gamma

Election of officers was a highlight of the Monday evening meeting of Eta Gamma Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority at the home of Mrs. Wayne Voetberg.

Elected were Mrs. Richard LeBlanc, president; Mrs. Richard Coleman, vice president; Mrs. William Healy, recording secretary; Mrs. Glenn Lawson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Charles Smith, treasurer; Mrs. Martin Muyskens, representative to City Council of Beta Sigma Phi, and Mrs. Darwin Werling, alternate.

Results of the vote for the "Girl of the Year" will be announced at the Founder's Day dinner hosted by members of Xi Delta Pi on April 30 at Holiday Inn.

It was announced that decorated, chocolate Easter eggs can be obtained from Theta Alpha Chapter. Mrs. Richard Camarota outlined plans for an Easter project at Birchwood Manor April 11. Mrs. Muyskens, social chairman, gave plans for a box social May 11.

Mrs. Voetberg presented the cultural program on the topic "The Influence of Music on Our Lives." She played a self-prepared tape of excerpts from recordings of many kinds of music and asked members to identify the title of the song, the type of music and the name of the composer or performer. Winners were Mrs. Henry Prince, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. LeBlanc.

Dessert was served by the hostess and Mrs. Lawson to the Mesdames Camarota, Coleman, Jay Dateina, Healy, Carl Jaeger, John Kohn, Thomas LaHaye, LeBlanc, Muyskens, Juke Overway, Henry Prince, Smith, Arthur Simmons and Werling.

Saturday evening the John Kohnes opened their home to chapter members and their husbands for fondue following a road rally. General chairman for the rally were Mr. and Mrs. Coleman and guests were Mr. and Mrs. Gary Battaglia and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hamberg.

Fashion Show Indicates Women Ready for Spring

By Lorraine Hohl

Spring walked into the Woman's Literary Club Tuesday afternoon, paraded across the stage and down the ramp wearing some of the most wearable and chic ensembles any woman could want.

It was the annual fashion show of the club put on this year by Gray Gables of Saugatuck and narrated by Anita Braude, who knew each ensemble and described it well for the packed clubhouse. All the models were club members.

To start the show off, the ever popular red, white and blues in mix and match ensembles were modeled in a series showing how one four-piece outfit could be used for an entire weekend. The jacket or blazer, shirt, pants and skirt in combination with extra blouses is almost a must for every wardrobe.

White and off-white were the basic colors used in combination with prints of vivid colors. Navy blue, especially in the pantsuits were used in combination with reds, all-over prints and roman stripes.

Saddle stitching makes a simple jacket or dress a work of art. Mrs. Braude noted what most women have decided since the beginning of pantsuits, that this style will never go out. Too many women have found the style comfortable, dressy and above all, improving most figures. The long shirts, shells and jackets hide many figure defects.

Pastels are especially good this spring. Mixing and matching pink and blues in twin sweater sets and acrylic type jackets were modeled effectively. One unusual outfit was a Kabuki type jacket in pink and natural in a linen-like pantsuit with the straight line pants.

Mrs. Braude said a material finding much favor with designers is the specially engineered textured nylon used in several of the ensembles. It doesn't cling, is washable and so packable on trips. White knits will be used a great deal this summer using covers of jackets or capes or even fancy shawls for use in air-conditioned theatres and restaurants.

A grandson, Clifton Klokert, serving with the Army in Germany, was unable to be present. The couple was presented with a gift.

Striking poppy prints on white for long dressy evening ensembles and also for those special at home entertaining dresses or pajamas were crowd pleasers.

Besides the pastels, green in all shades is a good spring color. Roman stripes with polka dots was used in one long dress. Orange ice is another new shade. This was shown in three mix and match outfits. Another crowd pleaser was a long jumpsuit in navy blue with sailor collar and nautical trim. Women familiar with the Chessa Davis suits appreciated the attractive skirt modeled as well as the crewel skirt with side slits.

Travelers, Mrs. Braude said, would enjoy the comfort of the well-designed pajama look with jacket, blouse, pants and sometimes the new swirl skirts. Quiana in black fashioned a long dressy evening gown tied at the neckline with a halter bow and a small slit. Worn with exotic jewelry, this can be a knockout.

Daringly baring one shoulder in two or three gowns was most effective with one completely sleeveless and the other with one long sleeve.

Mrs. John Heyboer, presiding at the business meeting, announced the official results of the election with Mrs. Ralph Kneisly as the new president. Mrs. Kneisly introduced Mrs. Braude.

Announcement was made of the Attic Specials for Friday and asked that all members bring their items to the club today and Thursday.

Final meeting will be April 9 at 1:30 p.m. with the Presidents' Tea following.

African Mass, Drums Delights Music Lovers

By Cornelia Van Voorst
It's not likely that an African Mass with only drums for accompaniment will replace Beethoven among music lovers in Holland, but the Norman Luboff mass as presented Saturday night by the Holland Community Choral provided a most interesting and enjoyable change of pace for fine choral music here. The winter concert attracted an almost full house in the Holland High Performing Arts Center.

Under the baton of Conductor Calvin Langejans who maintained strict control throughout, this contemporary selection was all the more remarkable for the drum accompaniment by Langejans' teenage son Thomas, a high school junior, who proved himself a "chip off the old block" in sensitive timing and volume.

The Luboff mass is in six parts, and Saturday's performance was enhanced by solo work by Pam Menke, Pru Selover, Marge Heerspink and Harley Brown. Young Langejans stood while performing on a quartet of delicately tuned drums.

Other selections on the program were mostly new to local listeners. There was a series of seven traditional hymn tunes arranged by Alice Parker and Robert Shaw, one with Baritone Frank Taylor as soloist. Compositions were by Mendelssohn, Pfausch, Berger, Kodaly, Telemann, Perichetti and Stevens-Simone. Men and women of the choral sang two selections.

The program closed with two rousing selections by Ralph Vaughan Williams "Lord, Thou Has Been Our Refuge" and "O Clap Your Hands," with accompaniment by a seven-piece brass ensemble and Tom Langejans at the kettledrums. Ken Bos was accompanist.

It was the first time that the Choral had performed at the high school and the fine acoustics of the Performing Arts Center enhanced the quality of performance.

Final performance of the 1974-75 season will be the Festival Musicale in Civic Center during Tulip Time. The Luboff mass again will be performed along with some fine religious selections and such lighter music as numbers from "Fiddler on the Roof" and "Oliver!"

Spring Moves Into Focus For Junior League Show

A delighted audience crowded Carousel Mountain Lodge on Friday for the "Romantic Spirit of '74" fashion show sponsored by the Junior League with League models, their husbands and children modeling the clothing, shoes and accessories from 21 area specialty shops.

Attractive backdrops of models in the romantic theme were used around the staging area with bright daffodils at the tables and in spots throughout the lodge. Subdued music with appropriate tunes to go with the fashions was played by Kelly Bakker. Mrs. Jack Marquis described each ensemble using the name of the model, the name of the shop and the name of the designer.

The look for spring and into summer will be casual, soft, flowing, and colorful but muted, except for a few dynamic prints. Even the suits and ensembles are deftly and softly tailored. Jacket dresses, cardigans, and long tunics or overblouses were teamed with pant suits. Many were four-piece affairs with skirts, jackets, pants and shells.

Combinations of solids in skirts and slacks and plaids in jackets and blouses were seen in the various mix and match outfits.

Male models, at first a bit self-conscious, but warming to their roles showed what the well-dressed man will be wearing this spring and summer. Their clothes, too, are brightening with gay plaids and checks. Even formal wear is brightly colored.

Scene stealers as always were the tiny tots who modeled dressy outfits, play clothes, rainy weather ensembles and

Etta Fox Group Hears Trip Talk

The Etta Fox Chapter of Quarters and their guests met Monday at the Herrick Public Library. Mrs. Henry Pas, assisted by her husband, presented a program of beautiful films taken on their trip around the world.

The main object of the trip was to visit their daughter, Mrs. Kirk Schneider and her family who live in Bangkok. Dr. Schneider does work for the Smithsonian Institute. (Mrs. Schneider is the former Polly Pas of Holland.)

Mr. and Mrs. Pas traveled by freighter to Bangkok. They traveled through the Panama Canal crossing the International Date-Line. Arriving in Hong Kong they visited the Red Chinese border. Red China provides water for Hong Kong. The schools and the two universities teach both the Chinese and English languages.

They went to Manila where they saw American Jeeps converted to what they call Jeepneys. The Jeepneys are used as busses and colorfully means Free Land. Thailand has never been controlled by Western Powers. They say one million tourists visited Thailand in 1972.

In Bangkok one sees the famous Buddhas. The Emerald Buddha is made of solid jade. The Golden Buddha, recently discovered, contains five and one-half tons of 18-carat gold. The reclining Buddha is 45 meters long.

Workshop Held By Hairdressers

The Holland Affiliate of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association sponsored an all-day workshop and technique session March 11 at the Magic Touch featuring guest artist Sonny Stewart of the Detroit area.

Nineteen area hairdressers attended to hear Mr. Stewart discuss his ideas on salon atmosphere and the individual hairdresser's attitudes and watch him demonstrate one of the four new hair designs for spring "The Image Makers."

An afternoon workshop was held and each hairdresser, using a model, was allowed to practice the new designs and techniques practically under Mr. Stewart's supervision.

The basis of such a workshop is to encourage area hairdressers to be aware of the fast changing styling techniques and give them the opportunity to better themselves and their work.

Because of the state convention in Troy, there will not be a regular meeting in April. The May meeting will be an election of officers dinner with installation following.

even beach wear. The little girls were the happiest in their roles and had to give morale support to the young boy models.

It would be difficult to pick out any one dominating color since so many ensembles were shown. Red, white and blue were used effectively in the tennis and golf clothes. Shoulders will be bare and many halter necklines were used in the evening wear. Spaghetti straps, old favorites, are back in style again, providing just enough support for sundresses.

A lovely wedding gown in a truly romantic style with deep neckline, lace and ruffles and camelot headpiece with illusion veiling climaxed the show. Assisting the "bride" was a handsome gentleman in tuxedo and evening jacket and formal accessories.

Concert Group Launches Campaign for Members

The great bargain of seven outstanding concerts and cultural attractions for the 1974-75 season of the Holland Concert Association was emphasized at a kickoff dinner for membership campaign week Monday evening in the Woman's Literary Club.

This year, 48 volunteers are working under Mrs. Jerome Wassink, campaign director, and more workers are being sought. Campaign headquarters in the Green Room of Civic Center will be open Wednesday through Saturday, the final day.

Concert Association President Harley Brown again emphasized that there is no change in membership fees despite inflation and other spiraling costs in the entertainment world. Memberships are $10 for adults, $5 for students and $25 for family membership. Moreover, there are reciprocal privileges with the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph, Muskegon and La Porte, Ind., associations, for a grand total of 32 concert attractions.

Brown also said that with bargains like this, a member can well afford to miss a concert or two in those cases where he does not enjoy such groups as jazz or modern dance. But he encouraged local concert goers to experiment with other art forms in a broad field. In cooperating with the Great Performance series of Hope College, the local association is in a position to offer far more attractions than any other city.

Mike Grindstaff of the Hope College staff said that in addition to Joy Blackett, rising young black mezzo soprano and the Ken Jewel Singers of Detroit, he is negotiating again with the Indianapolis Symphony for another visit here next year. The Indianapolis Symphony has visited Holland more often than any other major orchestra.

Grindstaff also is negotiating with two generations of the Dave Brubeck family (this jazz master has three sons, all with their own jazz groups) and with the National Players of Washington, D.C., to spend two days on campus presenting three plays, "Charley's Aunt," "Henry IV, part 1" and Moliere's "The Miser." Two productions would be given in De Witt Cultural Center and one in Civic Center. Concert Association members could have a choice of plays although the two in De Witt Center would require advance reservations.

Negotiations also are in progress for a string quartet, and a three-day visit on campus of a dramatic group with puppets.

On the day Miss Blackett visits Holland, she will conduct a master class on campus, in the sale of single tickets to any of the seven performances, the price will be $3.50 and the ticket office will open 15 minutes before curtain time to provide the advantage for season ticket holders.

Entertainment at the kickoff dinner was provided by Charles Cnaan's Madrigal Singers of Zeeland High School, a spirited group of 16 teenagers specializing not only in madrigals but novelties and "fun."

Dinner arrangements were in charge of Mrs. Case Deventer and Mrs. Edwin Koop.

Division chairmen under Mrs. Mrs. Wassink are Mrs. Bernard Donnelly, Mrs. James Bamforth, Mrs. Deventer and Mrs. Del Van Dyke.
