4-27-1988

The Anchor, Volume 100.25: April 27, 1988

Hope College

Follow this and additional works at: http://digitalcommons.hope.edu/anchor_1988

Part of the Library and Information Science Commons

Recommended Citation

http://digitalcommons.hope.edu/anchor_1988/13

This News Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Anchor: 1980-1989 at Digital Commons @ Hope College. It has been accepted for inclusion in Anchor: 1988 by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons @ Hope College. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@hope.edu.
Van Wylen Library
Dedicated

Gilmore Woman Assualted

Grateful Dead Concert Review

Anchor Annual Awards

It’s Official Now
Gordon and Margaret Van Wylen cut the ribbon to the new library after the dedication ceremony last week

Good Luck With Finals!
Students Will Gain If Minimum Wage Increases

A bill now in Congress that would raise the minimum wage from $3.35 an hour to $4.25 an hour next few years might make it harder for students to find summer and part-time jobs, the campus placement officers say, but probably would help them more than it harmed them.

A Senate subcommittee approved its version of the bill over a month ago, setting the stage for a final vote before the end of 1988.

Students, the bill's advocates say, need a break. They say a higher minimum wage would bring "The minimum wage has stayed the same for seven years," said Jay Harvey, an aide to Rep. Augustus Hawkins (D-Cal.). "It's pretty hard to live on $3.35 an hour."

If approved its version of the bill would raise the federal minimum wage above the current $3.35-an-hour floor. The legislation, cosponsored by Kennedy and Rep. Augustus Hawkins (D-Cal.) would, if approved, increase the minimum wage during a 3-year period to $4.65.

Kennedy's version of the bill "Dedication" to come. In his opening, he put in the 4th year to a rate one-half of the "average private, non-supervised, non-agricultural" hourly wage as determined by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Harvey reported.

Harvey argued that raising the minimum wage would motivate people on welfare to enter the job market, would ease the financial burden of the working poor and give students a better chance to save money for college costs.

An increased minimum wage, said Harvey, would put cash in the pockets of people who will spend it, stimulating economic growth.

But critics of the plan — including the U.S. Department of Labor and the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, as well as many businesses — say increased labor costs will force employers to reduce the numbers of jobs and hours they can offer workers.

"Whenever there's an increase in the minimum wage, there's an increase in costs," said Junius Kaufman of the Tulane University student employment office.

But Christopher Pratt, the director of career services at Seton Hall University, said the minimum wage debate may be a moot point.

He doesn't foresee fewer jobs because of an increased minimum wage; he sees fewer workers because of demographic trends. The pool of 18-24-year-olds is shrinking, he said, and businesses will have to pay higher wages anyway if they are to recruit and retain employees.

"This labor shortage," said Pratt, "will go on well into the next decade."

Harvey agreed, pointing out that in many states with low unemployment rates — he cited Massachusetts as one — even fast-food restaurants which normally pay minimum wage may have to increase their hourly salaries to $6 or $6 an hour to keep workers.

That labor shortage, said Marylin De Tomasi of the Southern Illinois University at Carbondale placement office, already has given college students an edge in the summer and part-time job market, since they often bring communication, negotiating and management skills learned in classes.

Although she agrees some companies may not hire students if they were required to pay them more, students who in past years would have been hired for menial jobs are now finding themselves in managerial posts. "If an employer found a student worth their while, they may not mind paying extra," she said.

"I have a student working for me who I pay more than minimum wage," said Stan Nicolazes, the owner of Nic's Grotto Cafe in Santa Barbara, Cal. "It's pretty hard to live on $3.35 an hour."

Kelly Ellis, the day supervisor at a Dairy Queen in Pittsburg, Kans. near Pittsburg State University, said her employees also get more than minimum wage. The restaurant, she said, already is run by a skeleton crew, and wouldn't be able to cut workers' hours or jobs.

In fact, De Tomasi thinks a higher minimum wage might be a boon for some businesses. By offering more money, she said, companies "will get a strong pool of candidates to draw from."
The Kappa Delta Chis have had an exciting and fulfilling semester. Rush began January 13th; the Kappa Chi's theme was "Late Night Rush." All their events were based on late night TV shows. Pledging for the Kappa Chis went very smoothly. They went very smoothly a year before the administration forced all Greek organizations to comply with new pledging regulations this spring. Their emphasis was on education and friendship, and trying to eliminate subordination, intimidation, and fear.

The Kappa Chi sorority now consists of 45 actives and 3 social actives; they will sadly say farewell to 16 seniors in May. The Kappa Chi's have had two stimulating literary meetings this semester, both led by alumni. The first was with Mrs. Barbara Mezeske on the topic of friendship. The second was on celebration with Karla Wolters. They have also had several service projects. The Kappa Chi's hosted guest speakers for the Critical Issues Symposium, spent a Saturday morning washing Dial-A-Ride buses, and made monetary donations towards Sexual Assault Awareness Week and Women's Week.

For Valentine's Day, the sorority delivered handmade cards to patients at Holland Community Hospital. On April 22, they served a dinner sponsored by Crown Cadillac to raise money for Hospice. The final service project will be caring for and maintaining tulip beds in town.

The Kappa Delta Chis have also had several work projects. They had their annual candy sale near the end of pledging, sold carnations for Valentine's Day and ushered at numerous Great Performance Series concerts. Some exciting news for the Kappa Chis: the administration finally gave them a house! Beginning this year, they will be in the old admissions building located on 10th Street.

Two national Greek conferences were held to which the sorority sent representatives. Two Pan-Hellenic reps attended a conference in Bowling Green, Illinois; three members went as representatives to another conference in St. Louis. Those who attended felt these were weekends well spent.

Rush and pledging tends to keep the Greeks busy during spring semester. However, the Kappa Chis still managed to enjoy a social life. They had a party with the Emersonians, one with the Knicks, Alpha Gamma Phi, and Centurians, and a few parties with their own sisters. This year, their spring formal was held at the Amway Grand Plaza with the Alpha Gamma Phi.

Because the Alpha Gamma Phi sorority is quite small, they would not have been able to have formal if it had not been through a joint effort with another Greek sisterhood. It turned out to be a beautiful evening where everyone enjoyed an elegant dinner, dancing, and spending time with friends. Despite rain the weather last weekend, the Kappa Chis still enjoyed themselves Saturday and Sunday on a canoe trip. Senior picnic and May Day are yet to come.

Presently, the Kappa Chis are busy planning for the end of the spring semester and early summer. It has truly been a challenging but exciting semester for the Kappa Delta Chi sorority.

68 Student Congress Officers Elected

By Kayielle Shannon
anchor Feature Editor

866 Hope students went to "the polls" last Friday to elect next year's student congress officers. Junior Tom Kyros was elected President under the campaign slogan that Student Congress needs reorganization now in order to give the students the voice they deserve.

Junior Bruce Brown was victorious in the 1st Vice-President position, while Sophomore Jonathan Hoffman won the 2nd Vice-President race. None of the races were particularly close. For the presidency, Kyros received 484 votes, Craig Koester 263, and Sean Luckman 107. Brown won his post with 499 votes, trailed by Rhonda Bohannon with 196, and Erika Anderson with 189. Hoffman received 494 votes for the 2nd Vice-President, while his only opposition, Mark Van Genderen, received 348 votes.

Students voted for candidates on the basis of speeches which were given during dinner the Thursday before the election. Also, for the first time this year, a short summary of the candidates' platforms was distributed to the student body so they could cast a more educated vote.

Kyros, a two year veteran of Congress, has big plans for reform and improvement next year. "The most pressing change that needs to be made is to improve the image of Student Congress so it will be more respected and wield more power," said Kyros. "If the Congress community were more responsible as students, more people will want to become a part of it. This is the necessary step in making the Congress a stronger voice of the students."

Other changes Kyros would like to see involve reorganization of the Congress, which would have to be taken care of before this semester ends in order to be implemented next fall. He believes reducing the size of Congress will sharpen competition to get elected, hence drafting only those with the most enthusiasm and desire to work hard.

"Another important issue is the budget deficit," said Kyros. "The amount and way money is budgeted in student organizations needs changed. Every student on this campus contributes money through their student activities fee, and no one knows exactly where all that money is going. We are currently in major debt. Ballots for congress representatives will be held during the first few weeks of the fall semester."
Prizes Given to Hope Students

Awards for academic achievement during the current school year were presented to Hope College students yesterday, April 26.

The awards presented for achievement in specific areas of study are as follows:

Art - The George Thomas Memorial Scholarship to senior Kimberly Platte and junior Amy Harrington. The Holland Area Arts Council Scholarship to junior John Saurer and Amy Harrington Art Scholarship to senior Janice Maddock; and departmental purchase awards were presented to seniors Anne Mulder and Gayle Geider.

Athletics and Physical Education - The Miner Stegenga Award to senior Thomas Grabb; the Alvin Vanderbush Student Athlete Award to junior Collen Sandro; the Susan Allie Physical Education Award to senior Susan Walter; and the Kathleen Anne White Memorial Scholarship to junior Leslie Piagent.

Biology - Book awards to freshmen Jordan Varwood, James Loats and Amy Vos. The deKruif Writing prize was awarded to seniors Nancy Perovich and Mark Kuhihm.

Chemistry - Freshman book award to James Loats and Craig Copi; sophomore book award as the outstanding student in organic chemistry to Martha Camp, Susan McComb and Christine Mody; junior chemistry journal award to Adrianne Marowelski and Toni-Jo Sturm; Cuppy student research fellowship to junior Adam Johnson; and the DeVries Summer Research Fellowship to sophomores Thomas Priest and Communication A.A.

Raven Prize in Communication to seniors Dawn Cluchey, J. Ackerman Coles Award for Scholarship in Communication Studies to senior Adriana McCacle.

Computer Science - Russell J. Kraay Awards in Computer Science to juniors Ten Brink and Jeffrey Toppen.

Dance - The Florence Cavanaugh Dance Award was presented to senior Sandra Van den Dungen.

Dean's Award - An award presented to the student who gave the best presentation during the Spring Humanities Colloquium Series, to junior David Bright.

Economics - The Business Administration - Wall Street Journal Award to senior Brent Krieder; the Donaldson Memorial Scholarship to junior accounting student to senior Michael Haeverdink.

Education - Elizabeth Van Denbush Scholarships, to juniors Wendy French and Elizabeth Larson.

English - William Eernum Poetry Prize to senior Elizabeth Cross; George Birkhoff English Award to junior Janilly Brouwer; and the William Eernum Prose Prize to senior Dianna Knopp.

Foreign Languages and Literature - Delta Phi Alpha prizes to seniors Laura Stahlman and Robert Knopp; the Linda D. Palmer Memorial Award in French to senior Elizabeth Harvey; and the Edward J. Wolters Classics Award to sophomore Michael Sartori.

Geology - Honored by the geology department were freshman Courtney Mys and sophomore Matthew Stuk with the Ancient Order of the Triobitte Award; junior Sally Davis with the Tulip City Gem and Mineral Club award; sophomore Kurt Van Appledorn with the Michael Visscher Memorial Book Award; and junior Patricia Hiestand with the Reinking Memorial Scholarship.

History - Phi Alpha Theta Freshman Book Awards to Michael Boyle and Michael Baikema; Phi Alpha Theta Sophomore Book Awards to Jill Hoehn and Andrea Peake; Robert Melka Memorial Award to sophomore Julie Grutter; and the Mettis J. Ross History Prize to junior David Kraska.

Mathematics - John H. Kleinhessel Mathematics Award to sophomores Robin Lee and Christopher Schaffer.

Music - Grace Marguerite Browning Scholarship in Voice to junior Mary Alice Smith; Robert Cavanaugh Scholarship in Voice to sophomore Lisa Roorda; Junior-Senior Instrumental Scholarship to sophomore Kelly Stratil; the Delta Omicron Scholarship Award (Alpha Chi Chapter) to junior David Bright, the Junior-Senior Scholarship in Piano to senior Robert Hodson, the Donald Wilson Memorial Award to sophomore Heather Thompson; and the Claryce Rozeboom Memorial Scholarship in Organ to senior Ellen Cutting.

Philosophy - Junior Prize in Philosophy to Bret Sunnerville; the Charles E. Lake Memorial Prize in Ancient Philosophy to senior Maureen Dozman; and the Charles E. Lake Memorial Prize in Modern Philosophy to sophomore Robin Lee.

Physics - Freshman book awards to Curtis Benson and John Lenters. The Dr. Harvey Stahlman and Robert Knapp; Classics Award to sophomore Michael Sartori.

Religion - Religion Scholarship Award to sophomore Dan Beyer; the Van Eas Scholarship Award to sophomore Joel Anderele, junior Carrie Beecher, sophomore Dan Beyer, sophomore Jan Byrup, junior Stephanie Juister, junior David Lowry, sophomore Michael Sartori, junior Diane Van Noord, junior Elizabeth Veldink and junior Joel Zuizena.

Science - The Gene Van Tamelen Prize for Creativity in the Sciences to seniors Curtis Blankenspoor and Paul Van Dort.

Theatre - Freshman award to Maria Vaver; Sophomore awards to Timothy Van Bruggen and Erik Alberg; and the Junior award to Richelle Krause.

Dean of Students - The Peter Bol Award to senior Catherine Nicholls.

Women's Issues - Best paper written on the gender issue to junior Sandra Hansen.

Chapel Choir - Post Jewelry awards were presented to seniors Ronald Boardway, Angela Carey, Wendy deForest, Michael Derry, Timothy Elzinga, Paul Harper, Laurel Houssenga, Michael Magan, Jennifer Parks, Kimberly Platte, Sarah Rynbrandt, Cynthia Tusch and Dewayne Weaver.
Door Left Ajar May Have Given Rapist Access to Gilmore

By Geoff Penrose
anchor Staff Writer

A door left ajar may have given an unidentified man access to Gilmore Hall to commit a sexual assault early Thursday morning, said college officials.

At approximately 4:35 a.m. on Thursday, April 21, Hope College Public Safety received a call from a female Hope student living on first floor Gilmore Hall saying she had been sexually assaulted. The officer on duty responded immediately, requesting assistance from the Holland Police Department.

The woman was taken to the Holland Community Hospital where it was documented that she had in fact been the victim of first degree sexual misconduct. She described her assailant as being a white male of medium build, 30-35 years old, with light colored hair and beard, a slight southern accent, and wearing a light colored sweater and possibly sweatpants.

According to Tom Renner, Director of Public Relations, the assailant apparently entered the victim’s unlocked room and placed a pillow or blanket over her face, partially asphyxiating her. She was then told not to yell under threat of bodily harm, dragged onto the floor of her room and sexually assaulted.

The only injury other than those resulting directly from the assault was a mild abrasion on her thigh, apparently caused as a result of her being dragged across the carpet.

Although there were students in the lobby of Gilmore Hall as late as 4 a.m., there were no witnesses to either the assault or the assailant’s entry and flight.

A thorough inspection of the doors to the victim’s room and the building had been left partially open. There was no handle on the exterior of the door, but it could have been pried open from the inside if it were ajar. It is the authorities’ supposition that this is how the assailant gained entry.

Renner, however, does not blame anyone for the open door.

“We feel very badly,” Renner said, “and I just don’t want to pin the blame on anybody that this door was open. We as a college community can share the blame for this happening.”

The door to the victim’s room was also unlocked. But that apparently is not unusual, according to one resident of Gilmore, who said, “I don’t think anybody on the floor locks their doors.”

“You’re scared, but it’s not like you’re afraid to live here. You just want to be really careful,” she said. She also added that some students were contemplating not returning to Hope in part due to the incident.

The Public Safety Department, with “extensive support” from the Holland Police Department, is currently following up on over 75 leads which have been offered by informants. They are also looking for a white male, 5 foot 10 inches to 6 feet tall, 19-20 years old, with a brownish-blond brushcut who was seen in the vicinity of the hall and may have seen the assailant.

Renner feels fear of implication may be stopping this and other possible informants from telling what they know.

To alleviate this fear, Renner said that Hope has offered a $500 reward through the Holland Silent Observer program for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the rapist. The number for that service is 392-4443 and all tips are kept anonymous.

Due to the fact that there were no classes on that Thursday, Renner feels that there must have been more witnesses in the area, some of whom may not be aware that what they saw was relevant to the incident.

“We strongly feel that there is some information out there in the student body,” Renner asserts. “We were told the campus was as busy as it is on a weekend.”

Persons with information can also call Renner himself if they are uncomfortable with dealing with police agencies.

Looking to avoid future incidents, Bruce Johnston, assistant Dean of Students said that although “I think we were providing adequate protection, it has to be a total effort.” This includes the locking of doors and watching out for yourself as well as others.

Renner echoed these thoughts, saying that in addition to continuance of the already progressing campus lighting project, the college is looking into changing all the door locks on campus to a self-locking model. Also, the student monitor program may be extended to 24 hours a day. The Gilmore monitor went off duty at 4 a.m., just a half an hour before the attack.

The main priority, according to Renner, however, is “The whole matter of sensitizing the student body to the matter of personal safety.”

Renner also voiced a personal faith in the Public Safety Department’s ability to solve the case, “and productive work by the department in two earlier assaults.”

“They are working long, long hours to develop leads and bring this thing to a culmination,” Renner said.

The victim is currently seeking professional trauma counseling.

Composite sketch of the assailant involved in a rape of a Hope College woman last week.
Seniors Presented Awards at Convocation

Awards for scholastic achievement and service have been presented to graduating Hope College seniors.

The awards honor students for achievement in specific areas of study and service. The students were recognized during the honors convocation held yesterday April 26.

The Southland Medal, which is presented to the outstanding woman on the senior class and the American Association of University Women awarded to Janilyn Brouwer, while the winner of the Otto VanderVelde All-Campus Award is William Vanderbilt. The John S. Bemis Award for outstanding female student-athlete was presented to DeAnn Knoll.

Jeffrey Dawson was awarded the Allan C. Kinney Memorial Award which is presented to the graduating senior majoring in economics and business administration.

Beth Richards received the Sloan-Stegman Award, which is presented to the senior student who displays promise of success in the field of Christian world missions. While John Tisch was presented the Pietenpol prize as the senior student showing the most promise as a foreign seminar student. Kimberly Peske was presented the John Richard VanderWilt Award in religion. This award is given to a student who gives promise of dedicated service as a dedicated missionary. John Tisch and Andrea Uncapher were awarded senior biblical prizes while the American Bible Society book award was presented to Steven Driesenga.

Several students were honored for achievement in specific areas of study and service. Pamela Anderson was presented the Martin N. Ralph award in Spanish, Christine Hull was awarded the Laura Alice Boyd Memorial Award in German, while the Barbara E. Gecing Memorial Award in German was presented to Cheryl Zuidersma. The Margarette Prins French Award was presented to Craig Sharp and the Eta Sigma Phi classical languages book prize was awarded to Mari Douma.

The Joan E. Lake Memorial Award in Philosophy was presented to Carla Vissers. Curtis Blakespore, Malcolm Lippet and Kerry McKinley were presented the Patterson Memorial prize in biology, and Blakespore and Douglas Van Wieren received the Albert E. Lampen Mathematics prize.

The Almon T. Godfrey prize in chemistry was presented to Dr. J.J.E. Peterson. The E.I. du Pont award for research in chemistry was presented to Paul Van Dort, while the Michigan Institute of Chemists scholarship award was presented to Michael Gawain. The Miriam Joyce Van Ely Award in nursing was presented to Deborah Lowell.

Timothy deForest and Hedie Gadde were winners of the Egbert Winter education awards, while the winner of the Margaret E. Kinkema Special Education Award is Jennifer Engbers. This award is given to a senior student who show potential for making a significant contribution to the teaching of handicapped children.

Mark McDowell was presented the James Dyke van Putten Political Science Prize and the Ray DeYoung History Prize was awarded to Jodi Noorman. The Sandrene Schutt award for proficiency in literature was awarded to Kathryn Miller and Heather Raak, while the Clarence De Graaf English Award was presented to Janilyn Brouwer and Sue Christian. The Herman Miller, Inc. of Zeeland art award went to Andrew Richard.

The winner of the Jeannette Gustafson memorial prize in psychology-sociology was Wendy Campbell, while the recipient of the senior sociology award was Daphne Pender Fairbanks. Winner of the Robert Cavanaugh Senior Music Award was Carrie Terpstra, while the recipient of the theatre department senior prize was Barry Weiller.

Paul Harper was awarded the Douwe B. Yntema Prize in physics, while Robert Brink was awarded the Computer Science senior prize. The Bundy Computer Science award was presented to Jon McKeely.

Recipients of the William and Mabel Vanderbilt, Sr. Family Award in physical education and recreation were Jill Anderson, Timothy deForest and Sandra Van Der Werff.

The recipient of the General Electric Foundation Fellowship was Curtis Blakespore, while the winner of the Kent Medical Foundation Award was Lori Wykoff.

Franklin Gives Short Lecture

By Eric Shotwell, anchor News Editor

Students of professors William Cohen and Stephen Hemenway got a treat last Wednesday afternoon.

John Hope Franklin, the keynote speaker for a short lecture on around the country origins and his acquaintances with these animals are lying down. But he added, "You didn’t go to a jungle warfare in an intellectual climate.

His most important, however, was that we should visit other countries, learn other languages, and associate with other cultures in order to learn more about dealing with them. Franklin stated the most promising, that Americans are able to deal with people from foreign countries is in your language. During his talk, Franklin mentioned wryly that "We ought to find out more about Japan, since we’re all going to be sharecroppers for the Japanese before too long.”

BLOOM COUNTY

BLOOM COUNTY

WHAT'S THAT IN YOUR THROAT, TOO?

by Berke Breathed

by Berke Breathed

by Berke Breathed

by Berke Breathed

by Berke Breathed

by Berke Breathed

by Berke Breathed

by Berke Breathed
Marshals of the kingdom- Three students from Hope College take a breather from their duties as Magic Kingdom parade grand marshals at Walt Disney World on Wednesday, March 23. Laura Dennis, Heidi Slack, and Lucy Dennis were one of six grand marshal groups.

Board Announces Inductees

34 Hope College juniors have been inducted into Mortar Board, a national honor society which recognizes students for scholarship, leadership and service. The students were inducted during the college's annual Honors Convocation on Tuesday, April 26.

Rounding out the inductees are Todd M. Ponstein, Lisa C. Reenders, Karen K. Rubin, Colleen R. Sandro, Craig W. Stapert, Joel E. Tanis, Mary A. Taylor, Kristi L. Vander Kool, Elizabeth A. Veldink, Roger L. Veldman, David T. Widmer, and Kristen L. Yeomans.

Congratulations to all the new Mortar Board members.

Greek Council Awards

In an attempt to recognize the positive aspects of greek life at Hope College, the Greek Council will be sponsoring the first annual Greek Recognition and Awards Night, to be held this Friday, April 29, at 7 p.m. in the Maas Auditorium. The emphasis of the evening will be excellence in greek life. Leslie Bates, of Eastern Michigan University, will begin the evening with his interpretation of excellence as it relates to college students and greek chapters. Presentations will be made to the faculty advisors and to the presidents of the Pan-Hellenic and Inter-Fraternity Councils. Finally, several awards will be presented on the basis of academic, philanthropic, and general achievement.

The Greek Council feels the event could become an important part of the greek system and the life of each local chapter. Everyone is welcome to attend.

Freeze Frame

Do you feel safe living in a college-owned residence?

Betsy VandenBerg Junior

"I would feel safe because I lock my door, except maintenance won’t come to fix my lock because it’s broken."

Jim Beckering Freshman

"I feel very comfortable in college housing, but I often worry for the safety of the women."

Cindy Phelps Freshman

"I feel safe in college housing. Carelessness starts when doors are left unlocked."

Scott Skipworth Sophomore

"I feel safe living in Kollen because it is an active dorm. I’m careful about locking my door and there are always people around Kollen anyway."

Jennifer Haskin Sophomore

"I feel safe in college housing. I’m careful about locking my door and there are always people around Kollen anyway."
The Renaissance Fair Was

Hear ye, hear ye!

Hyaaaaaah!

Students danced the day away

Egad!
A Good Time For All...

photojournalism by Geoff Penrose

A prof never looked so happy

The parade was led by horses

No point!

A Centurian prepares to float away
Entertainment

Deadheads Find Nirvana at Joe Louis

By Scott Mandoell
Anchor Entertainment Editor

How does one report on an experience that was more than just a concert? An experience that moved thousands of people to tears? An experience that might call ecstatic or charismatic behavior. An experience that inspired me to Christian feelings of love, but also to the challenge of happiness without any of the constraining, illogical dogma attached to it. An experience that turned out to be a complete mental, physical, and emotional revelation. I shall do my humble best to convey this experience to you.

When I set out on my pilgrimage to the Grateful Dead concert at Detroit's Joe Louis Arena, accompanied by numerous friends, family, and other Hope students, my expectations were certainly high. Little did I expect that it would not only be satisfying but also blow away.

Road tripping to concerts is always fun and this trip was no exception, but often the drive can outshine the concert itself. My passengers assured me my first "Dead" concert cupcake would be well worth the $25 ticket price.

As we rolled into our parking spot, Detroit's austere-grey aura began to melt away, to be replaced by a Karma filled with life, happiness, and a panoply of colors. These good vibes were embodied and distributed by the many dead-heads with their long hair, tie-dyes, bandannas, and paraphernalia such as tye-dyed shirts, stickers, and LSD among other things.

Deadheads don't try to rip you off; I bought three tie-dyes for $25 and I consider each one a work of art.

When the concert began I didn't feel left out; the bass player was in his right seat, and nobody cared either. Everybody was intent on listening, watching, and grooving to the music of the Grateful Dead, and that's what was most important.

The Dead got their start during the acid tests of the mid-40's. Since then their following has slowly increased over the past twenty years to their current vast popularity. The Dead did not compromise their musical style or individuality to gain this following. They remain one of the few bands who still play improvisational music.

The Dead's attitude has been, "If you like it, great, if you don't, that's okay too, but we're not going to change to please you."

The spiritual leader of this equally talent sexquet is Jerry Garcia, who sings and plays guitar. The Dead and Jerry Garcia are synonymous. As one of my frat brothers aptly said as he waved us good-bye, "Eat, drink, and see Jerry."

Bob Weir also plays guitar and sings. During the concert, Weir had often trade off songs as well as singing together. The bassist, Phil Lesh, had even never touched a guitar until he joined the band and learned from scratch. Mickey Hart and Bill Kreutzmann are the bald drummers. Each has their own complete drum set which makes for an incredible rhythmic sound. Brent Mydland, the keyboardist, is the newest member of the band, joining in 1979.

The Dead never play the same set two nights in a row. In fact, they never know what they're going to play until they get on stage. Only after they get started the mood and the music just seem to lead them from song to song.

They began with "Hell in a Bucket" from their newest album, IN THE DARK, and then grooved into "SugarTree," "New Minglewood Blues," "Must've been the Roses," "Stuck Inside a Mobile Home," and "Music Never Stopped." After a short intermission they returned to announce that both drummers' birthdays. The crowd responded with a roaring rendition of "Uncle John's Band," on which Jerry sang drums while the Dead continued with "Touch of Grey," "Women Are Smarter," "Ship of Fools," "Truckin'," "Spaceboat," "The Wheel," "Gimmie some Lovin,'" "All Along the Watchtower," "Stella Blue," and finally finished with an encore of "Broke Down Palace." It was all over too soon.

On the way home and upon returning to Holland and Hope I found the comments and feelings of those who were in attendance. One dead-head said, "when the Dead play I just let myself go, mentally and emotionally, and let Jerry roll over me with a steam-roller." Others said, "Stella Blue moved me to tears" or "My emotions were rampant."

One first-timer even went so far as to say, "I saw Jesus Christ incarnate in Jerry Garcia." One Hope student said, "This was my 12th Dead show and they just keep getting better and better." Another dead-head refused to give me any comment asked for. With this bit of Dead poetry: "When I die-you can burry me deep-Put two speakers under my head and don't play nuthin'-but the Grateful Dead.

Student Productions Are Worth the Money

By Ellen Spang
Special To The anchor

The "Three Acta" production put on by John Tameo and directed by 11 students certainly gave the audience their dollars worth this past Monday and Tuesday evening.

It's always interesting to try and figure out why people select the plays they do, such as "Romeo and Juliet" or "Hedda Gabler" and others. The plays differ in their dramatic characteristics in quality of script and delivery were even more peculiar. The student directors tried to bring an air of professionalism to their shows. Of course, as it always happens some do better than others.

"My Cup Runneth Over," directed by Sheryl associate professor at Hope, will be a guest director of a main stage play next year, tried without luck to put humor into a poorly written script and an equally poor delivery. My interpretation of theatre is to do it for fun. The roles one is chosen for are not supposed to be reflective of their true nature. The cast and directing was plagued by so many problems because of this that the audience did an admirable job of enduring through the first act despite the nagging urge to go to the bathroom.

"The Room", directed by Barry Weller was a welcomed relief. For the first time we saw Lenny Weisli shine like never before. Her interpretation of her character was insightful and comprehensive to the show that I'm sure the director felt good about his casting choice. It even surprised me to see Chris Beasley play the bad guy. Anyone who knows Chris would know why.

The stage was set tastefully. The cast and directing was equally poor. The overall progress was a dream. I certainly hope to see Jennifer Martin give some people a run for their money next year.

Getting your actors and actresses to perform up to par is fairly easy, keep a level head don't be so demanding, and for goodness sake relax and enjoy. Part of the problem with "My Cup Runneth Over" is the obvious tension and hurried activity. If for once Kamal Perkins, who portrayed Yucca, had tried to act as if he had been roomates for most of their lives instead of acting like they had drawn names out of a hat; the show would have been more believable. Right from the start the audience was confronted by a person with a chip on her shoulder and another with zero direction in life. The combination isn't fortuitous' it's just annoying.

But for one dollar, which was the price of admission, one can't complain, no matter how bad the acting or directing.

Pregnancy can also be enjoyed....

We live in a society that emphasizes enjoyment of nearly everything we do. One exception, however, appears to be pregnancy. Problems and inconvenience are popularly identified with pregnancy, one rarely hears of the joys and satisfactions that can be found as well. For expectant mothers, one delight is to discover how their child is developing within their body. Some are surprised to learn that long before they can detect the new life stirring within them, the child is already completely formed; all organ systems are functioning; and is actively engaged in the exercise of his or her muscles, joints and limbs, so necessary to their growth and development.

By 25 days the heart begins beating. By 30 days the child has an unmistakable human brain, eyes, ears, mouth, kidneys, liver and umbilical cord pumping its own blood. By 45 days brain waves can be detected and the child's skeleton is complete, in cartilage not bone, and buds of milk teeth appear. By 63 days they will grasp an object placed in their palm, an achievement for a life that has not yet even begun.

The baby moves, with an easy grace in his buoyant world, and his position in the womb is dependent on what is most comfortable for him. He is responsive to touch and cold and sound and light. He drinks his amniotic fluid, more if it is sweetened and less if it is given a sour taste. He gets his hiccups and sucks his thumb. He wals and sleeps, is bored sometimes and can be taught to be alarmed for something new. Even the child's personality is well under way and will be carried into infancy and childhood.

One of the problems involved with some pregnancies, we are BIRTHRIGHT OF HOLLAND a lo know of the warmth, satisfaction, and personal joy the experience can be as well. If you're worried about pregnancy, you give a call... We listen, We help, We Care About You.

Free pregnancy testing and counseling, medical & financial assistance referral, personal service.

Birthright of Holland
396-5840 21 W. 16th
Oboe or Bassoon Students May Apply For Scholarships

Students of the oboe or bassoon may apply for scholarship assistance to attend the 1988 summer session of Double Reed Camp to be held at Hope College July 10-16.

The Michigan Council for the Arts through its Muskegon, Ottawa, and Oceana Regrant Agency has made available several partial scholarships for junior and senior high school oboe and bassoon students to attend this camp.

Interested double reed students should contact the Hope College music department or Gail Warnaar at P.O. Box 374, Grand Haven, MI 49417.

Anchor Files

10 years ago today...
April 27, 1978 -- "The Goodbye Girl" was showing at the Holland Theatre. A UFO expert spoke on campus.

20 years ago today...
April 27, 1968 -- Hope's baseball team defeated top-ranked Central Michigan University. Smokers under 21 were given a $50 fine or 30 days in jail under re-enforcement of an old Michigan law.

Classifieds & Personals

PIANO PLAYER wanted for men's quartet. For more information write the King's Messengers, Box 154, Allendale, MI 49401.

GAY FEMALE seeks gay or bi-females for possible relationship. Write New York Men, 123 W. 42nd St., New York, NY 10036.

The Michigan Council for the Arts through its Muskegon, Ottawa, and Oceana Regrant Agency has made available several partial scholarships for junior and senior high school oboe and bassoon students to attend this camp.

Interested double reed students should contact the Hope College music department or Gail Warnaar at P.O. Box 374, Grand Haven, MI 49417.

Classifieds & Personals

PIANO PLAYER wanted for men's quartet. For more information write the King's Messengers, Box 154, Allendale, MI 49401.

GAY FEMALE seeks gay or bi-females for possible relationship. Write New York Men, 123 W. 42nd St., New York, NY 10036.

The Michigan Council for the Arts through its Muskegon, Ottawa, and Oceana Regrant Agency has made available several partial scholarships for junior and senior high school oboe and bassoon students to attend this camp.

Interested double reed students should contact the Hope College music department or Gail Warnaar at P.O. Box 374, Grand Haven, MI 49417.

Classifieds & Personals

PIANO PLAYER wanted for men's quartet. For more information write the King's Messengers, Box 154, Allendale, MI 49401.

GAY FEMALE seeks gay or bi-females for possible relationship. Write New York Men, 123 W. 42nd St., New York, NY 10036.

The Michigan Council for the Arts through its Muskegon, Ottawa, and Oceana Regrant Agency has made available several partial scholarships for junior and senior high school oboe and bassoon students to attend this camp.

Interested double reed students should contact the Hope College music department or Gail Warnaar at P.O. Box 374, Grand Haven, MI 49417.
The Baltimore Orioles will win the American League's Eastern Division! You heard it here first.

After three weeks of baseball the O-Birds are looking for the key to unlock the AL East cellar door. Any day now they will find it, and when they do, look out! Impossible? Not really.

The Tigers were 11 games out at the beginning of last season and were able to come back to win the AL pennant. Baltimore is only 10 1/2 games back.

The only thing Baltimore has to do is win 100 games between now and October 4.

In the AL West the Oakland Athletics will combine speed and power to leave the second-place White Sox in stitches. Carney Lansford, Jose Canseco, Dave Parker, and Mark "Big Mac" McGwire are bound to be every pitcher's nightmare this season.

The National League will see a battle of former Tigers emerge, as Lance Parrish and Kirk Gibson will help carry the Phillies and the Dodgers respectively to the top of the senior circuit.

Oh, remember that stuff about Baltimore winning the pennant? Bad joke.

Nobody will be able to stop the Yankees. Billy Martin has been resurrected to bring "Billy Ball" back to the Big Apple.

Pitching will give the Yanks the edge over Oakland's power in the American League Championship series while Los Angeles' speed and power will leave the Phillies in the starting gate in the National League Series.

The Yanks and Dodgers will meet in the Fall Classic for the first time in 10 years and Billy's boys will win their first championship since they beat the Dodgers in six games back in 1978.

Kirk Gibson will strike out with the bases loaded in game seven. Billy Martin will kick dirt on the umpire and get thrown out of the game, but Billy Ball will be back and all will be well in the world.

Clearbrook will offer it's Mother's Day dining menu from 6 to 8 o'clock PM specially for Graduates and their families following Commencement Ceremonies. Please join us. Reservations recommended, seating 6 pm to 8 pm.
Somewhere out in the world there is a sophisticated lady waiting for just the right moment to enter my life. She's been called many names, but I affectionately call her Lady Luck. She loves to come and go in my life. When she's here life is a joy, but when she leaves life gets a bit out of hand.

The year is about finished and I'm hoping Lady Luck will be on hand to get me through the coming week. Looking back though (isn't that what I'm supposed to write about for the last issue?) many of her biggest jokes have been at my expense. So before we get bogged down in the seriousness of the coming days, let's take a true life look at Luck's laughs.

Monday morning (could it have been any other day?) my alarm clock comes on: too loud and between stations. I spring to get out of my bunk, get caught in the nuts and I grab it out with one hand. Amazingly no one saw it. Fortunately Lady Luck gets in the last laugh by having a friend laugh with me: "He's the one!"

Back at my room I'm changing into my ski clothes when my loving R.A. comes in, (apparently she saw my clothes the night before) and says, "I'm going down to Philips loved your skiing out on the slope!" Behind him I hear a girl burst into laughter with a "He's the one!"

After the disastrous skiing I go to dinner. As I get my food my sleeve gets stuck in the ketchup and I put the tail of my untouched shirt into the cream of mushroom soup. As I reach up for glasses my tray tilts wickedly and a glass hits the floor as a corn dog rolls through the ketchup before coming to rest against my shirt.

At the table my salad is made. As I take a bite the ketchup ends up on my shirt into the cream of mushroom soup. As I reach up for glasses my tray tilts wickedly and a glass hits the floor as a corn dog rolls through the ketchup before coming to rest against my shirt.

Back in my room a friend and I decide to go cross-country skiing around campus (this actually happens on a Saturday, but let's fake it!) After skiing for an hour my friend decides that we should ski down from the top of the hill in front of Van Wyck while the stairs leading to Lubbers. My friend climbs over the railing and skis down the steep but short slope. Climbing over the railing is no easy feat in cross-country skis, but I manage. Before I attempt the slope I look around to make sure no one else is around. I ski expertly to the bottom (expertly for Lady Luck) while 300 people eating lunch through the one-way glass in Phelps watch with a collective held breath. The breath is released as all 300 start to laugh as I deftly fall and snow plow to a stop on my back.

Back at my room I'm changing into my clothes when my loving R.A. comes in, (apparently she saw my clothes the night before) and says, "I'm going down to Philips loved your skiing out on the slope!" Behind him I hear a girl burst into laughter with a "He's the one!"

The last two weeks of school are busy for everyone. It is a time of final exams, May Day, last minute papers, warm weather (?), good-byes, graduation, honors, job searches, and even awards.

In the spirit of the honors convocation, and last year's anchor, we offer another batch of distinguished and undistinguished campus awards. To the winners of the second annual anchor awards, we offer our congratulations!

And the winners are...

The EXCEDRIN HEADACHE Award goes to the Greek organizations of Hope College. Their achievements include reorganizing one fraternity, suspending another fraternity, reviving one sorority, hazing pledges, hazex the administration, sexism, alcohol and drug abuse, grabbing numerous anchor headlines, and national ones as well. Bravo!

The BULLHORN Award for effective communication goes to the Student Development Office for misleading, misrepresenting, misinterpreting, mishandling, and misinforming Greek leaders, anchor editors, students, other administrators and faculty on numerous occasions.

The NEW KID ON THE BLOCK Award is given to President John Jacobson, Bruce King and Anne Bakker-Graas. Isn't Hope College that nice, conservative, Christian school located in Michigan? Oh ha ha.

The WRONG PLACE AT THE WRONG TIME Award goes to Public Safety for their expertise in writing thousands of parking tickets, kicking students out of computer labs at midnight, and tagging on off-campus parties. However, they missed the mark on many assaults and rapes, and one known squirrel murder.

The CHIP AND DALE MEMORIAL Award goes to that pesky little crider Rocky, who lost his life in a dispute with Physical Plant officials. The case remains unsolved (see above award).

The BEE Award goes to Student Congress for eliminating the... uh, for initiating the... um, for proposing to increase the... er, for changing the meeting times on Thursday from 10 p.m. to 9 p.m. so everyone can make it to Arthur's on time.

The GORDON GEEKO Award goes to the Board of Trustees for raising tuition (again!?) Greed is not good, greed is not right. Higher tuition sucks!!

The PINK FLOYD WISH YOU WERE HERE Award honors those administrators who have left. Sue Langham and... where are you? You were so easy to manipulate... Lamont Dirske, come on down, you weren't so bad after all... Sara Wilson, those curtains weren't that ugly... Please, please save us from the tyrants who rule us now!!

The GOOD HOUSEKEEPING Award goes to... take your pick - Exit 69, Stonehenge, Knickerbocker Cottage, the former Green Acres, Encore, Tree House.

And finally The YOU DESERVE A BREAK Award is dedicated to all Hope College students, especially those lucky seniors with student loan debts. Here's to a very long, fun, relaxing, hot, lazy, wey and sunny summer break.

We're all gonna be outta here... soon!
Another Special Year Passes By

You are holding in your hands the last of 25 issues published during the 100th anniversary of The Anchor. The publishing of a newspaper for a century is a great achievement. In a way, this year as been a summation of anchor history. We have experienced the good and bad, the best and worst during our coverage of the college community the past two semesters.

When I accepted the job as editor, I told myself I would only publish 50 issues during my Hope career. Regrettably, I have decided to step down after only 25 editions.

Being the editor is a monumental job. No one realizes the work involved until they've done it. Your social life suffers, your grades suffer, your writing suffers. Many times, it's a thankless job.

Yet, it is exciting, too. I enjoyed participating in the inauguration of President Jacobson, sitting on the Library Dedication Committee, and meeting the Board of Trustees. Of course, reporting and writing the news is stimulating in itself. For me, there is no greater satisfaction than reading the newspaper before it hits the student.

I would like to thank some people who've helped me a lot this year. Provost Jack Nyenhuis, Tom Renner of College Relations, Professor Joe MacDonels, Pat Cedeno at the Holland Sentinel, and Dave Lawrence at the Detroit Free Press — your professionalism is always welcome.

It has been a great year for news. Crime, fraternity and sorority controversies, the library, new buildings, Jacobson's inauguration, and many other subjects have provided material for interesting articles. I am very proud of our Freeze Frame feature and our sections. Also, I am pleased with our nameplate (logo) and our second class rating from the Associated Collegiate Press. I know our coverage hasn't always been complete (especially in sports) but we have tried our best. A staff of 15 can only do so much.

As editor, I have learned a great deal this year. I have met many people. The experience has been worthwhile. I encourage Hope students to get involved with the newspaper. The quality can only get better with more people.

It's hard to believe three years have passed since I joined the anchor staff. They have been tremendous years of growth. Despite it's rising cost and all the problems, Hope College is a fantastic institution. In a sense, we are all lucky to be here.

I know many will be glad to see me go. But old editors never die, they just move on to different typewriters. I don't plan to fade away, but instead turn my energy to career plans, my fraternity, my golf game. I have letters stuffed into a folder marked "ANCHOR." I have fond memories of working on the student newspaper. So, with not much to say, with no one left to offend, with no ramblings to pass on... I bid farewell. Cheers. Chin-chin.

May another century begin.
Give yourself a hand against breast cancer

Breast self-examination is easy, takes only a few minutes and can be performed in the privacy of your own home. It's an important way you can detect early and highly curable breast cancer. Through monthly breast self-examinations, you will learn how your normal breast tissue feels and will be able to recognize a change if one occurs. In fact, most breast lumps are found by women themselves.

Take control of your body and your life.

Make breast self-examination a part of your monthly routine. And see your doctor regularly for clinical exams and advice on mammography.

For a free pamphlet about breast self-examination, call your local American Cancer Society.

We're here to help.
“MY GUMS TURNED KIND OF WHITE, BUBBLY AND SORE, AND SOMETIMES THE SKIN PEELS OFF AND BLEEDS.”

DIPPING IS FOR DIPS. DON'T USE SNUFF OR CHEWING TOBACCO.