Pre-School Age Problems Aired At Guidance Series

Previous Discussions
Used as Foundation
For Third Meeting

At the third meeting of the Child Guidance series Monday evening at Longfellow school, a large number of parents and teachers joined in a spiritual discussion of several problems suggested by parent groups at a previous meeting.

With emphasis on the pre-school age, Mrs. Weaver of the state department of mental health, compared behavior listed by local parents with that considered by experts to be normal for that age level. It was noted that the two were almost identical. Many so-called problems are traits common to all children of a specific age, Mrs. Weaver pointed out.

In discussing the eating problem, the consensus was that often this problem is increased in proportion to the attention it gets or to the amount of worry it causes. Better let a child even skip a meal occasionally than force eating, Mrs. Weaver said. Calling an older child 15 minutes earlier in the morning may give him the leisurely feeling necessary for him to enjoy his breakfast.

In the discussion of tantrums, Mrs. Weaver emphasized that the cause must be determined before deciding on treatment. If the child is throwing a tantrum to get what he wants, perhaps ignoring it is the solution; if, however, the tantrum is caused by a deep seated need for attention or love that the child feels he is not getting, supplying that need may be the cure.

"We often consider a child's action naughty when perhaps the act was only a result of natural curiosity, lack of knowledge or forgetfulness. We must always try to understand the child's motive and recognize his feelings before we decide," she said. Recognition of the cause for behavior often solves the problem.

Rules are needed in all families and they must be enforced, Mrs. Weaver said. She explained that when punishment is required, a child should understand why he is punished. The pain of a sharp spank or slap sometimes must be associated with acts that threaten a child's safety or well-being. Children differ greatly, she said, and to one a sharp word or expression of parental disappointment is enough; to another physical punishment may be necessary at times. Physical punishment should be infrequent and should be followed by an understanding talk with the child.

Suggestions offered by parents on the bed-time problem included: Have a set time and hold to it. Precede that time by a quiet story or game to which the child can look forward. Give warning when the time is near so that activity will not be broken off too abruptly.

Many parents of older children and even grandparents contributed to the discussion.

Older age groups will be discussed at the next meeting.

Her Majesty Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard

True Dutch Hospitality To Greet Royal Couple

When Her Majesty Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands visit Holland briefly on April 16, they will find themselves in an atmosphere of true Dutch hospitality.

At least, that is the way Holland is planning it. The tulips won't be in bloom, but this Dutch-American city will do everything possible to inject a measure of old country atmosphere. Children in costume will sing Dutch songs, Klompen dancers will perform briefly and the high school bands will play national anthems of both the Netherlands and the United States.

The Queen and her party are scheduled to arrive in a motorcade at 3:40 p.m. at the east limits of Holland city after Her Majesty places a wreath on the grave of the late Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg in Oakhill cemetery in Grand Rapids.

The motorcade will proceed slowly along Eighth St. onto River Ave. to an official reviewing stand erected at City Hall. Here the royal party will witness the brief program of entertainment designed to give the Queen an impression of what occurs at the Tulip Time festival. They also will see the barrel organ presented by the citizens of Amsterdam during Centennial year, 1947. The program is scheduled to conclude by 4:20 when the official party will board the motorcade for Hope Memorial chapel for an informal welcome in which Holland is joined by official delegations from other cities and communities in Western Michigan.

The audience of some 1,500 assembled in the chapel will be admitted by ticket. Approximately half of the people will represent official delegations from Dutch-American communities in Western Michigan, including Kalamazoo, Allegan, Zeeland, Grand Haven, Muskegon, Coopersville, Vriesland, Drenthe, Overisel, Graafschap and many others. Spokesmen from each delegation will give brief messages of welcome, expressing the affection in which the Queen is held by Dutch-Americans in Western Michigan. Queen Juliana will respond briefly. Music will be provided by the college choir.

After the welcome in the chapel, the Queen and Prince Bernhard will receive the mayor's welcoming committee, a few Dutch-Americans holding Netherlands decorations, staff members of Netherlands Information Service and consular officials briefly in Durfee hall. The party is scheduled to leave Holland at 5:30 p.m. for Grand Rapids airport where the party will board a plane for Willow Run airport near Detroit.

Dr. I. J. Lubbers, president of Hope college, is serving as general chairman of the large welcoming committee which has been appointed in Holland.

Earlier in the day, the Queen will participate in ceremonies at Calvin college in Grand Rapids signifying the naming of the Queen Juliana Chair of the Language and Culture of the Netherlands. Shortly after noon she will receive an official welcome to Grand Rapids from a second floor balcony of Pantlind hotel overlooking Campau Square where thousands of persons are expected to gather.

Included in the party coming to Holland will be Dr. J. B. V. M. J. Vande Mortel, consul-general of Chicago; Gov. and Mrs. G. McNamee Williams, Consul and Mrs. John Steketee, and Netherlands Ambassador and Mrs. J. H. van Roijen.

Junior Softball League Planned

The Holland Optimist club today revealed plans to sponsor a junior softball league this summer open to boys 15 years of age or under.

Present plans call for a six or eight-team league of teams in the Holland and the surrounding vicinity, with play starting in June and continuing through vacation months. Competition will not conflict with school work or activities.

Optimists will supervise play, although any boys' group leaders are invited to enter a team and manage it through the schedule. Club leaders expect the program to include from 70 to 100 boys, and the play is based on the International Optimist club's slogan, "Friend of the Boy."

The sponsoring Optimist club will furnish balls, bats, caps, T-shirts and catcher's equipment. Present plans call for two rounds of play, with each team playing two games per week. All games will be twilight affairs.

All boys or group leaders interested may register with four club members: Al Dyk at the Holland License bureau, Ken Zuverink at Brouwer Furniture, Les Woltman at Dagen Motors or Chuck Furlan at Haan Motors.

Christian Schools Plan Patriotic Pageant

Holland Christian elementary and junior high schools will present a patriotic pageant, "In God We Trust," in the Christian high school gym April 15, 16 and 18. The pageant will be directed by Albertha Bratt, music co-ordinator for the Christian grade schools.

Narrators for the program are Roger Brandsen and Janice Otten.

Red Cross Gifts Now at $9,000

Gifts from Western Theological seminary, West Michigan Furniture Co., Home Furnace, National Biscuit Co. and Singer Sewing Machine Co., plus further returns from residential areas today boosted Holland's Red Cross contributions to $9,000 or about 69 per cent of the $13,328 quota. Only 14 out of 55 business workers have reported and there are still other areas to be completed.

Miserable weather has hindered many solicitors the last few days, solicitors say. Ottawa Chapter Chairman Peter Van Domelen, Jr., has received notice from the national organization stating an additional $5 million would have to be raised to care for tornado victims. Ottawa's share would be $1,630; thus the goal is increased to $37,737 from the original $36,107.

The Rev. M. Eugene Osterhaven, chairman of the south half of Park township, reported solicitation has been completed with total collections of $454.67.

40 Businessmen In Allegan Pledge Sums for Industry

Idea Is to Increase
Employment in City;
Vision Association

Allegan (Special)—More than 40 Allegan businessmen pledged $1,000 each in a recent attempt to obtain a new industry for Allegan.

And, while it was not possible to reach an agreement with the firm considered, H. D. Tripp and E. W. DeLano, who did most of the leg-work on the project, said it "proved beyond doubt that a majority of the business and professional men of Allegan will join together to promote something which is of value to this community."

Tripp and DeLano reported "only six or seven turn-downs" in their attempts to raise the money and the "co-operation received was most gratifying."

The 40 businessmen would have been equal stock holders in a new corporation which would manufacture an industrial vacuum cleaner. The "vibro-pneumatic industrial cleaner" represents a completely new idea for use in cleaning industrial plants. It makes use of compressed air, rather than electricity, and offers a safety factor to industries in which an electrical spark may prove disastrous.

Tripp and DeLano reported they were unable to arrive at an agreement with the inventor which in their opinion gave enough security to the company over a period of time so negotiations were stopped.

They reported this week, however, that an established manufacturer in Allegan may contract for producing the cleaner, and the community may yet have the benefit of increased employment, which was the original purpose of the corporation.

Another outcome of the project may be the formation of an "Allegan Improvement association," according to Tripp and DeLano.

The idea of an organization to which business and professional leaders would contribute a substantial sum each year to assist in acquiring or financing new industries for the city was advanced in a letter to the 40 men who had pledged $1,000 each for the cleaner company.

Tripp said the reaction to this suggestion was very encouraging. Replies ranged from "This is an excellent idea. Let's go on it," to "what are we waiting for?"

BPW workmen use a pile driver to place a semi-circle of interlocking steel pilings around two telephone-power line poles. The poles, on the north river bank near Grand Haven bridge, tattered dangerously due to erosion and high winds, almost toppling into Black river.

Two Power Line Poles Get New Steel Girdles

Erosion and high winds combined to bring a near critical situation to two telephone-power lines on the north side of Grand Haven bridge on North River Ave. early this week.

Workmen Tuesday and Wednesday were busy driving interlocking steel piling in a semi-circle around the poles to prevent their toppling into the river.

According to BPW officials, the poles almost fell into the river during the high winds last weekend. The semi-circle of pilings will be filled with broken cement and tied into the river bank with anchors in the next few days.

The poles carry power and telephone lines to the north side.

Local Plant Will Hire 100 More Men Sometime in July

Additional Floor Space Will Be Needed to Turn Out Mortar Shells

Hart and Cooley Manufacturing Co. said Tuesday it had been awarded two government contracts for defense work totaling $1.7 million for producing mortar shells, the same type of production done by the firm toward the close of World War II.

One contract is a supply contract which provides materials needed in production of the second contract termed a facilities contract, according to George Heeringa, vice president and sales manager, who announced the developments in the absence of George Copeland, vice president and general manager, who is on vacation.

Production calls for 60 millimeter mortar shells, complete except for the nose, tail assembly and loading. The government is furnishing all necessary equipment for the job which involves $56,000 shells over a nine-month period, initial delivery to begin in August.

Negotiations have been in progress for several months, and the Hart and Cooley firm is building an addition to the plant for 10,000 square feet of floor space, a project about 40 per cent completed. The new addition together with another 10,000 feet of the present plant will be used in the defense work.

The new facilities were added so that the defense work would not affect regular production at the firm which turns out registers for the heating trades.

The firm expects to hire 100 additional men toward the latter part of July.

Dairy Barn Tour Lists Farms in Holland Area

A dairy barn tour arranged by L. R. Arnold, Ottawa county agriculture agent, provided first hand information on latest equipment for approximately 150 interested farmers Tuesday.

A modern note was sounded when the group stopped at Harry Plaggemar's farm on Lakewood Blvd., to view a stable cleaner installed in the dairy barn.

The motor driven cleaner consists of metal arms spaced each few feet. When activated by the motor, the arms begin moving along the gutter. Every few minutes the arms fold and slide back a few feet before moving forward again.

At the end of the gutter, which extends the length of the barn, the manure is automatically loaded onto a continuous belt elevator. The manure is then dumped onto a waiting manure spreader. The entire cleaning operation takes about five minutes. The barn is cleaned in this manner twice a day.

Other stops on the tour were at Eugene Brower, Gerald Poest, Gerrit Jaarsma, Groen Bros., and Zeeland city hall.

Children's Leper Meeting Planned

All children of junior age are invited to the annual meeting in the interest of lepers, to be held Sunday at 2:30 p.m. in Hope Memorial chapel.

An interesting program, featuring Mrs. Catherine D. Ulstrom as speaker, has been planned. Mrs. Ulstrom, director of visual education for the Midwest area, has traveled at least 50,000 miles around the world—particularly in India and Africa. She had visited 30 leprosy colonies and on her last nine-month trip saw up to half a million people suffering from leprosy.

Mrs. Ulstrom has done considerable writing and has illustrated stories for children. A volunteer worker, she has served in various capacities for almost 10 years.

An offering for leper work will be taken at the meeting.

Although all juniors are invited, they must be accompanied by a group leader or an adult.

Soviet Strategy Aired By AAUW Guest Speaker

An objective analysis of "Problems in Soviet Strategy" was presented by Dr. Henry L. Bretton of the University of Michigan Thursday evening before a large audience of local American Association of University Women and their guests. The annual guest night meeting was held in Durfee hall at Hope college.

Dr. Bretton, a native of Germany, is a graduate of Yale and the University of Michigan and presently is a faculty member in the International Relations department at the University of Michigan.

In his straightforward, precise analysis, Dr. Bretton viewed United States foreign policy in reverse by showing what the Soviet Union stands for and how the United States must face the problem of Soviet strategy and tactics.

He said the Soviet leaders seek to obtain two principal things—security against possible attack from outside of the union borders and extension of the Soviet Union beyond its perimeter.

In accomplishing these two ultimate aims, the Soviet's main objective is the elimination of the United States as a world power. All of their actions, large or small, have that end purpose, he said. There are two keys to Soviet strategy in that respect—eliminating the U. S. without fighting a major war, and winning that war if it should come. This strategy follows the objective of strengthening the perimeter of the U. S. S. R. itself.

The speaker listed several weapons available to the Soviets for eliminating the U. S. without a war—propaganda and ideological warfare, at which they are experts; diplomacy, an especially strong weapon in a proletarian nation; absolute control over satellites or allies, and time—of which they, because of their way of life, have more than the western powers.

Their tactics employed in this well-planned strategy are: First, they must seek to separate the United States from its allies, through peace propaganda, diplomatic moves or threats and intimidation; second, they must deprive the United States of needed bases, raw materials and allies, and third, they must attempt to demoralize the people of the United States. This last tactic, Dr. Bretton said, is dangerous in terms of long range policy—in economics, in measures just short of war, as the Korean situation, the shifting of such pressure points as Korea from point to point, and a shift from aggressive to conciliatory measures.

Although the effect of the entire policy can not yet be known, the Soviet planners are patient, the speaker said. All their plans are made to serve an immediate end, but also that long range end of destroying us.

If war comes, the Soviet central powers will prepare with these objectives, the speaker said: Complete integration of its satellites into the Soviet realm; neutralization of Germany and Japan; use of Communist parties throughout the world, and again, propaganda. Dr. Bretton expressed belief that it would be impossible in many places in the world, such as the U. S., for the party to seize control from within. Their effectiveness would come in terms of sabotage, espionage and military uprisings, he said.

Dr. Bretton warned that the United States must have effective means of coping with Soviet strategy. He suggested as counter-strategy the containment policy, recognition by the U. S. that we are the objective of all Soviet action and realization of the necessity for aid to others, which is not merely charity, but self defense. We are stronger than the U. S. S. R., but we must have the strength, evict and patience to cope with this trouble, he concluded.

The audience took part in a discussion following Dr. Bretton's address.

Refreshments were served from an attractive tea table by Miss Clara McClellan and her committee.

Miss Laura Boyd opened the meeting and Mrs. S. R. Boven, chairman of the nominating committee, presented a slate of officers to be voted on at the next meeting. Mrs. Preston Luidens announced plans for the AAUW regional meeting in Grand Rapids April 25 and 26 and announced that a board meeting will be held at her home Tuesday evening. Dr. Ella Hawkins introduced the speaker.

Dr. Bretton substituted as speaker for Dr. John Frederick Muehl of the University of Michigan, who was unable to be present.

Ottawa Truckers Air Grievances On Weight Limits

Grand Haven (Special)—About 30 truckers gathered in the county court house Tuesday to air grievances over weight restrictions on blacktop roads in the county. Truckers feel the restrictions are considerably more severe than those imposed by nearby counties, and the majority favored speed restrictions rather than weight restrictions.

No action was taken on lifting restrictions, although Neal Van Leeuwen of the county road commission said the commission should give thorough study to all problems involved. He assured the truckers there was no unfairness intended and no hard feeling against any particular group.

Arguments were largely a repetition of those brought before the Board of Supervisors earlier this year. Peter S. Boter, Holland attorney, served as spokesman for the truckers coming from Hudsonville, Holland and Zeeland.

William H. Vande Water, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce of Holland, emphasized difficulties industry experiences in current road restrictions, particularly those firms outside the city which use blacktop roads in hauling supplies and products to and from the plants.

Nick Cook of Zeeland, member of the county good roads committee, said the commission saved $11,000 in road repair through the restrictions imposed last year. Supervisor Albert Sterenga, president of the good roads committee of the Board of Supervisors, presided and Supervisor John Van Dyke, Jr., of Holland served as clerk.

Pair of Tankers Jam Lake Traffic

Lake Macatawa was the scene of a traffic jam Tuesday as two lake tankers came into Holland harbor at about the same time and one had to wait for the other to finish unloading before it could move into the Texas Co. docks.

The tanker Michigan, carrying 42,000 barrels of gasoline, was the first to arrive at 7:20 a.m. Then the tanker Maine entered the harbor, and had to wait while the Michigan was unloading before she could move up to the docks.

The Michigan finished its chore here at 10:45 a.m., and the Maine moved into position a moment later. The Maine carried 36,000 barrels, and both loads were for the Texas Co.

The two entrances were the second and third of the shipping season for Holland harbor. The tanker Polar was the first commercial vessel visiting Holland when it came here on Saturday.

Trust Fund for Allegan Students To Attend University Goes Begging

Allegan (Special) — A 32-year-old trust fund, established in the will of a wealthy Allegan woman to help Allegan county students attend the University of Michigan, has never been used.

Now University officials want to set up an emergency fund with the income earned by the original bequest of $10,000 left by Mrs. Marilla Griswold when she died in 1919.

Money from the fund will be available to those needing emergency gifts or loans with preference to helping students from Allegan county. Since 1919, the original $10,000 has grown to nearly $16,000 and university officials said this sum is earning interest of $320 a year.

The university recently enlisted the aid of State Senator Edward Hutchinson, Fennville, to publicize the fund, in hopes that some Allegan county youths would take advantage of scholarships offered under the terms of the will.

University officials said it is not unusual for such a fund to lay dormant for many years. In some cases they are left to accumulate interest until such time as it is possible to use only the income, without reducing the principle, for the purposes originally intended.

Sen. Hutchinson said those interested in taking advantage of the Griswold fund may write to him, or directly to the university.

The trust fund for local students at the University is only one of several bequests left to the community by Mrs. Griswold, wife of a wealthy lumberman. The major item in her will provided for the Griswold Memorial building which furnishes a center for virtually all community activities.

Estimated Damage Runs to $200,000 At Lumber Co.

Six Fire Departments Assist in Bringing Flames Under Control

Hudsonville (Special) — A blaze estimated to have caused $200,000 or more damage was brought under control Saturday after destroying the Hudsonville Lumber Co. and threatening the community's business district.

Firemen from Zeeland, James-town, Burdick, Grandville and Wyoming township helped the Hudsonville department fight the blaze for several hours after it broke out in the lumber yard about 3 a.m.

Firemen were handicapped by high winds which roared out of the northeast. A small fire broke out in the nearby Hudsonville Hardware Co. but was put out before heavy damage could ensue. Several other buildings were scorched.

Electric power and telephone service were cut off to about half the community in the blaze which destroyed a large rambling structure with several lumber sheds. The firm was located on one of the village's best known corners, just over the tracks from the traffic signal on M-21.

With easy access from the state highway, large crowds were attracted but few outside of firemen stayed around for long because of the biting winds. Firemen's wives came to the fire fighters' rescue with hot coffee and refreshments. Later a lunch shop opened for all the firemen.

Most visiting trucks returned home after the fire was brought under control around 8 a.m. but Hudsonville's trucks and the 15 to 20 fire fighting volunteers under Chief John H. Brink remained on the scene, keeping an eye to flying sparks from the burning debris.

Guy Edson was one of the owners of the lumber company which has been in operation many years. Alfred De Weerd was active in the management.

It was the third industrial fire in Hudsonville in the last year or two. Other firms destroyed were a box factory, and a feed mill. State Police Detective John Gierco, representing the Michigan fire marshal's office, was sent to Hudsonville to investigate possibilities of arson.

The high jump pit drew considerable attention. Four feet, eight inches was the top leap. Boxing also was highlighted, starting off on punching bags. Several boys paired off for sparring with 12 ounce gloves and head guards. Kiwanian Gene Chadcock served as referee.

Wrestling got underway in another corner of the gym, with Bern Yurash, Paul Boven and Robert Shriner instructing and showing proper holds. Tumbling maneuvers occupied another portion of the program. Rene Willis and Shriner were in charge.

Aged Grand Haven Man Is Drowned In Grand River

Grand Haven (Special)—Coroner Kammeraad said Saturday that the death of John Swartz, 88-year-old retired Grand Haven janitor whose body was found in Grand Haven, Friday, was accidental drowning.

The janitor's body was found floating in the river near Memorial bridge on US-131 about 1 p.m. Friday by George Wuennecke and his daughter, Bertha, neighbors of Mr. Swartz.

Officers said the man apparently fell in the river near Memorial bridge when part of a bank caved in. His cane was found near the caved-in section.

Mr. Swartz had been living with a son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Scott of 900 Madison St. His daughter discovered he was gone at about 11:30 a.m. and asked her neighbors to assist in the search for him.

Wuennecke saw the body floating in the water on the west side of the bridge. Footprints on the east side of the bridge indicate the old man, who had been in ill health for some time, had unknowingly walked off the road to the water. It is believed he tried to save himself with his cane, which was found stuck in the sand.

The body was removed from the water by the Coast Guard, assisted by city police. No attempt was made to revive the man. Officers estimate he had been in the water more than an hour and 15 minutes.

Survivors include the daughters, Mrs. Scott, and two sons, Harry and Joe, all of Grand Haven.

He was born in the Netherlands July 18, 1863, and came to this country 59 years ago. His wife, the former Celia Vander Duim, died in 1898. He was a member of First Reformed church. In the early days he was employed at the Grand Haven basket factory and later as janitor at the Central school and retired at the age of 70.

Surviving are the daughter, Mrs. Scott, and two sons, Joseph and Harry; a sister, Mrs. Emma Van Loon, and two brothers, Jack and William, all of Grand Haven; eight grandchildren, and 10 great grandchildren.

Red Cross Gifts Exceed $8,000 In Holland City

Holland city to date has collected $8,005.23 or 62 per cent of its assigned quota of $13,328.48 in Ottawa county Red Cross fund campaign. Chairman Wendell A. Miles announced Friday.

Zone VI, headed by Mrs. Joseph Borgman, Jr., has collected more than $800, with all but one member completing solicitation.

Residential areas so far have collected $1,541.51; business area, $418.50; schools, $170.50; clubs and organizations, $274.22. These included gifts from Lincoln school and the VFW auxiliary.

Mrs. Henry Bowman of Jamestown deposited $108.50 at local headquarters Thursday, bringing total collections in the south half of the county to $11,579.18 or better than 50 per cent of the goal for this portion of the county.

Red Cross leaders again reminded all persons that membership in the Red Cross is on an individual basis. Unlike other organizations, the Red Cross has no family members. Employees at firms under the Single Solicitation Plan contribute $1 apiece to the Red Cross as an individual contribution. Therefore residential solicitors call at all homes to sign up wives or other members of the family as members in the Red Cross.

Montello Park Quintet Grabs Suburban Crown

Champions of the Holland suburban basketball league!

That's the honor nailed down by Montello Park school, which won nine of its 10 league games this season in the league composed of Beechwood, Federal, Harrington, Lakeview, Waukazoo and Montello Park.

The championship trophy was awarded to Montello Park after completion of play last week. The league has been in operation for several years, and much friendly competition has been evident. Both boys and girls teams play.

Montello Park this year used its brand new gym for its home games. Lack of a gym kept the 1952 champs out of competition in the league until this season. One game a week was played by each school starting in January, and this year outside referees were used for the first time, thereby doing away with much argument.

In annexing its championship, Montello Park ran up 318 points against 158 for its opponents. High scorers for the season were Richard Tague with 188 points, Ronald Bronson with 87 and Larry Borchers with 47.

Several Attend Meeting on Soils

C. W. Mann, work unit conservationist of the Allegan Soil Conservation district, Fennville, reported today that a number of northern Fillmore township farmers attended a soil conservation and farm management meeting at the Town Hall last Tuesday night.

Mann said that George Randall, soil scientist with the Soil Conservation service gave a talk on soils of the area and explained the soil map which has been made. Randall emphasized the fact that the soils in this part of the county are complex and went on to show how the different parent materials laid down by the glaciers, types of native vegetation, and the effects of erosion all influence the land condition as they are today. The reasons for the development and control of hardpan and sidehill seepage in some soils was also brought up.

Harold Bakker, a member of the Soil Conservation service staff assigned to the district led a short discussion on local farm problems dealing with crop rotations and fertilizers. Bakker stated that the soil texture and structure, its drainage, water holding capacity, and aeration, the acidity range, organic matter content, and the cropping program all influence the wise use of fertilizer on the farm. He went on to show that the full return of the farmers' fertilizer dollar cannot be realized until all of these conditions are in their proper balance.

Coffee and cake, which had been donated, was served.

Mann invited all of the farmers in that area who are interested in attending a meeting of this sort to contact the district headquarters in Fennville.

FARMERS WORKING TOGETHER

Hamilton is a small community. The Hamilton Farm Bureau is not an example of big business in cooperative marketing; there are many farm bureaus throughout the state and nation that are much larger in membership and in volume of business. But when the Hamilton bureau held its annual meeting recently, it won plaudits from not a few sections.

James Bliss, general manager of the Michigan Elevator Exchange, expressed the opinion that "Hamilton has been a shining example of what farmers can do if they work together." And there have been other judgments of that nature. The Hamilton organization has been called one of the best farm cooperatives in the state.

Farmers are individualists in their very nature, because of their way of life. Unlike the farmers of much of Europe, who for the most part live in villages, in this country each farmer occupies his own farm and he is separated by a considerable space from other farmers. Throughout the history of America that fact has resulted in individualism on the part of the farmers, so that it almost became an accepted fact that farmers could not work together on any community project.

But this is the twentieth century, and the American farmer has learned that there is strength in organization. That old spirit of individualism is still strong in some communities, but there are increasing signs that farmers can work together. The Hamilton Farm Bureau is one of them.

Like the activities of any other organization in any city large or small, the work of that small community cooperative has met with success because of only one reason—good leadership. The organization is not making a name for itself because it is favored in any way as to location or for other reasons of that kind. It is being conducted by people who know their business. Any farm organization in the state can do the same.

Sunday School Lesson

March 30, 1952

Luke

Luke 1:1-4; Acts 1:1, 2; 16:6-10; Col. 4:14

By Henry Geerlings

The ministry of Luke was different from that of most of the servants who bore witness to the Lord, because it was not rendered in the limelight as that of others. His was a hidden ministry. He was God's detail man who labored in the shade. He concentrated on the records that we might have sure proof of the things wherein we base our faith. His whole life and training was a preparation for this special work, which was so much needed.

It is difficult to estimate our debt to him. He has left us the fullest, perhaps the most beautiful, life of Jesus, and the story of the spread of the Christian movement from Jerusalem to Rome. And the two volumes come from the pen of a man with world sympathies—a scholar, an able writer, and a man with a sense of his responsibility as an historian.

Perhaps two points illustrate his reliability. The first is that his gospel is free from any trace of the controversies of the early church, for example, the controversy over circumcision. He records the circumcision of both John and Jesus. The second is that he is never overshadowed by the apostle Paul. Great as is the place given to Paul in the Acts, there is nothing in his gospel approaching to Pauline bias. If any influence is to be found in the pages of Luke's gospel it is to be found in the social aspect of the teaching of Jesus.

Jesus is especially the friend of the poor, the outcast and the sinner. The rich are severely warned of the dangers of riches. The source of this influence would seem to be the actual condition of work in a rich city like Corinth, where Luke saw the appeal that the gospel made on the poor, and the inability of the rich to respond to the sacrifice that was demanded. This might naturally lead him to give us much of our Lord's teaching on the point.

His purpose in writing this gospel is clearly and precisely stated by him in his preface. He desired to instruct his Gentile friend Theophilus in the truth of the Christian faith and of the life of Christ. He had the ideals and literary qualifications of the historian, and desired to write a full account of the life of Jesus from the very beginning, including in his survey even the events preceding the birth of John the Baptist.

Though not an eye witness himself, he took the greatest pains to secure accurate information from the apostles who had been in close contact with Jesus.

He followed a strict chronological order, but when, as is often the case, much of what he found recorded had no definite connection of time or place, he exercised his own discretion, and grouped incidents and discourses together as in the case of the teaching on prayer. His wise survey makes it clear that he intended his gospel for the Greek speaking Gentile world and in pursuance of this object he avoids the use of Jewish words and phrases. He makes little reference to the Mosaic law, the Old Testament and prophecy.

What features are there in the gospel of Luke which are either wholly absent from, or less conspicuous in, the other gospels? There are, of course, many sayings and parables in Luke which are not found elsewhere. The parables of the Good Samaritan, of the Prodigal Son, of the Pharisee and the Publican, are conspicuous instances. And we shall do well to remember that nothing in the least like them in form or style is to be found in Christian literature outside the gospels.

Each gospel has its own characteristics. Mark is graphic and rugged; it thrusts prominently before our eyes the outstanding facts of our Lord's life and unfolds His methods. Matthew has phrases which have a satisfying sound and there is reason to think that it was written thus to adapt it for catechetical use in public worship. John's gospel breathes a mystical air and lifts us to eternal realities. But when we turn to the gospel of Luke we are struck with a literary ability which is lacking in the other three. We are struck, too, with a sympathy, a universality, a kindness and a grace which have always made it the popular gospel.

It is evident, in both the Acts and the gospel, that Luke's design is to set forth the universality of the gospel of Christ. In his gospel story he presents our Lord as the universal Savior of the world, and dwells on the glad tidings of Christ of mercy, hope and love addressed to all peoples. In the Acts we see Christianity fulfilling its founder's original design in a remarkable way. There we have the picture of the gradual development of the church, as well as the universal proclamation and equally universal acceptance of the gospel all over the civilized world, in the face of much opposition and innumerable obstacles and dangers.

His leading idea of our Lord was that of the universal Savior. From memoirs in the possession of original eyewitnesses, from living traditions of living men and women, from the teaching and personal influence of Paul, and from his own personal recollection, under the influence of the Holy Spirit he describes Christ as the head of our common humanity. In His cradle, in His miracles, in His words, in His sufferings, in His cross, in His glorification, He was the light of the world, the light of the Gentiles.

Pfc. Ivan H. Lemmen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit H. Lemmen of 300 West 13th St., has completed his Air Force basic airman indoctrination course and now is stationed at Lowry Air Force base, Denver, Colo. At Lowry, he is taking a top secret intelligence operations specialist course. Pfc. Lemmen enlisted in the Air Force and left for service on Dec. 26, 1951. His basic training at Lackland Air Force base near San Antonio, Texas, prepared him for further specialized study. Pfc. Lemmen attended Holland high school before his enlistment.

Early Colonist Deed Is Sought

Additional information on Indian lore during the early days of Holland's colonization has come to The Sentinel from Mrs. Altha M. Fitch of Grand Rapids who wrote after reading about the Indian pageant for Chippewa district Boy Scout Circus two weeks ago in the Armory. The Indian presentation with its council fire and war dance was a highlight of the scout program.

Mrs. Fitch is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Gitchel who were among the first settlers in Jamestown in 1849. Her grandmother knew the Indians in the early days and also knew the Rev. Smith who worked among them teaching them the Bible and a better way of life. The Indians would pick berries to trade for flour and other supplies. On one occasion Mrs. Gitchel baked some berry pies, a treat for the Indians. Some Indian settlements at that time were near Zeeland and Drenthe.

She referred to an article in Michigan History collections in volume 30 in the Michigan room, Ryerson library, in Grand Rapids, in which Etta Smith Wilson, daughter of the missionary, wrote about "Indians Befriend the Dutch."

Mrs. Wilson told how the Indians made a pole sled to draw Van Raalte around to see the lay of the land. Mrs. Fitch also referred to T. Keuning's book giving the Hollanders' version of the Indians.

Mrs. Fitch is particularly anxious to find a deed recording the names of Rev. Smith or some Indians back in the early days. She lives at 2340 Madison Ave., S.E., Grand Rapids 7.

Speaker Urges 'Christian Democracy' To Fight Communism in World Today

Walter C. Fisher urged a "Christian democracy" with "unselfish humanitarian services" to combat communism in North America.

Fisher, past international president of Lions International, spoke in Holland Tuesday night at the silver jubilee anniversary banquet of the Holland Lions club.

Fisher, of Queenston, Ontario, expressed an optimism that world conditions can be changed by "working for the other fellow instead of ourselves." He pointed out that the 9,300 Lions clubs in association in the 34 countries that they represent, can do the spade work for "good in the world," that is so sorely needed at this time.

"You can do it by having convictions in your heart—right is right and right will prevail."

He said such a philosophy will make certain that the next 25 years will bring us to the same point we are after the last 25 years.

Fisher asked, "Why should you have a free ride in the 20th century? You can't get something for nothing."

"Men should sit down and treat each other as they themselves want to be treated," Fisher said. "It isn't a case of who's right but what's right for everybody."

He said we must "forget our own personal and selfish loyalties, and must think of national loyalties."

"Do unto the other fellow as you would have him do unto you—only do it first," Fisher said.

"We won't have another 100 years to dilly-dally around as we have in the last 300 to 400 years," he said. "If we're not governed by God, we'll be ruled by tyrannies."

He concluded with the statement that "you have as much as anyone else to give to this moral resurgence."

"It can be done," Obie Snow of Grand Rapids acted as toastmaster.

Guests were present from Allegan, Fruitport, Grand Rapids, Hudsonville, Ionia, Lake Odessa, Lansing, St. Joseph, Saugatuck and Zeeland. Congratulatory messages were received from several state and national Lions officials. The Muskegon club sent a bouquet of flowers.

VOLLEYS FROM AMBUSH

A ninth grade junior high school student exhibited some genuine loyalty to his high school basketball team during the frenzy that gripped the city last week.

Carl Kemme, the freshman in question, turned out like hundreds of other students to follow Holland high's cagers into the semi-final game at East Lansing last Friday. Carl rode to the game and back again to Holland on one of the specially chartered buses, financed by both students and local businessmen.

The buses returned to Holland about 3 a.m. Saturday, and somewhere along the line young Carl missed connections with his pre-arranged ride to his home in Hamilton.

So the young Dutch rooster started off on foot, and walked the entire distance from the junior high school building to his Hamilton home. He arrived home about 5 a.m., and along the way met only one car and one truck. Carl figured that as long as the Holland businessmen saw that he got to East Lansing and back again, he might as well not bother anyone else to get a measly 10 miles to Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Garrett Keuning are planning to return to Holland this fall from Fremont, where the husband held the position as principal of Fremont Christian school. John Bekker, graduate of Calvin college and on the faculty at Muskegon Christian school, will take over at Fremont.

The Keunings moved to Fremont three years ago from Holland. While here, Keuning taught English at Holland Christian high school, and will take up that job here once more. He is a native of South Dakota and graduate of Calvin.

Mrs. Keuning, who taught third grade and started courses in music while at Fremont, will retire from teaching. Mrs. Keuning also organized an outstanding boys' choir at Fremont.

While at Fremont, Principal Keuning saw completion of the new $125,000 Christian school building.

Gentlemen: I want to thank you for the beautiful tulips sent to me as queen of the carnival by the tulip festival. It was quite a thrill, and added much to the most thrilling day of my life.

Pardon my delay in writing but in the excitement, the card was lost.

With much appreciation—Miss Eugenie P. Jones, 11 Nassau Dr., New Orleans, La.

Judge Rules Agreement Legal in Ver Hage Case

Grand Haven (Special)—In an opinion filed in Ottawa Circuit Court Monday in the case of Cornelius Ver Hage et al versus Jennie Boone Ver Hage, Zeeland, Judge Raymond Smith granted specific performance to the plaintiff for the execution of the terms of a pre-nuptial agreement.

In his opinion, Judge Smith stated that the pre-nuptial agreement made by Evert Ver Hage and Jennie Boone Ver Hage Jan. 23, 1928, was legal, and that defendant must abide by its terms and cannot renounce same and receive a one-third widow's share of the estate.

Jennie Ver Hage had claimed that the agreement was not legal and not fair and that she was entitled to support for life by its terms. The court, however, held it was legal and fair and that by its terms she is to receive $10,000 without receiving support for life. The case was heard before Judge Smith the early part of December, 1951.

Mr. and Mrs. Ver Hage were married Jan. 24, 1928, and Mr. Ver Hage died Oct. 10, 1949.

C&O Lists Profit For Last Year

Cleveland — Chesapeake and Ohio Railway was "one of the handful of railroads whose profits increased in 1951," according to the annual report now being mailed to stockholders.

Net income totaled more than $38.1 million, equal to $4.80 a share. Additions to freight rates and mail pay granted by the government amounted to $12.2 million. This was offset by increased payroll costs amounting to $16.6 million.

Operating revenues added up to an all-time high of $368 million. The report took note of the decline in coal markets. However, the C&O hopes to keep its earning capacity in this department high by reinforcing its competitive position by maximum operating efficiency and by building up merchandise freight business.

Merchandise traffic amounted to 39 per cent of total revenue, or a record $145 million. The industrial development department last year secured 104 permanent new industries for location on the railroad's lines.

Increased tax rates made the total 1951 tax bill $62 million.

The report points out that among U. S. railroads in 1951, C&O was first among bituminous coal carriers, second in number of shareholders, fourth in railroad cars handled, and, although only tenth in total revenue, fourth in net income earned.

Although the complete program has not been announced it will include marches, overtures and novelty numbers. Special numbers will include a flute trio by Ronald, Rose and Lawrence Van Til. Also appearing will be Roger Zoet and Bill Haak in a trombone duet. The pair recently copied first division honors in the district festival.

GRANDSTANDING...

by Dick Millman
Winding up the state basketball tournament week-end with a few off hand observations:

Around Lansing Saturday they still were talking about the climactic Holland-Highland Park semi-final battle of Friday night. And around Holland, they will be talking about it for weeks to come.

And the consensus of opinion from sports writers and coaches around the state seems to be, "Holland should have won."

One Highland Park school official had this to offer: "One reason our substitutes played so well in that final quarter was because they had no idea they could win. They were out there just to finish out the ball game, and they came through in a terrific manner."

In the final game Saturday night, champion Highland Park continued to cash in on a few breaks. Carl Diener, Saginaw Arthur Hill's tallest player and main threat on the backboards had to leave the contest in the second quarter because of a leg injury. He appeared only briefly in the third stanza. Loss of the hefty Diener gave Highland Park's Dave Parks almost complete control of both boards in the final game.

The class B final between St. Andrew's and Grand Blanc was evenly played throughout and was a beautiful game to watch from all standpoints. Grand Blanc, rated behind Davison as a basketball power in its home county, played a control set-up style of ball similar to Holland Christian's, while St. Andrew featured fast break and sharp passing.

The line-up of champions will provide plenty of fodder for the rest of the state's rebuttal to southwestern Michigan's claim as the home of the best basketball in the state. The Detroit area took home two titles and central Michigan grabbed off the other two crowns. In the semi-finals, only two teams—Holland and Niles—were from Southwestern Michigan.

George Zuverink pitched one inning for Cleveland Sunday in an exhibition game with the Chicago Cubs. Zuverink hurled the eighth frame, relieving Lou Brissie, and didn't allow a run. Steve Gromek, the starter, also was the loser as the Cubs won 7-3.

The junior baseball program planned by the American Legion for Holland this summer will take the place of junior baseball sponsored by the Recreation department for the past two years.

The Legion and the Recreation department will be working closely on the new set-up, with the Legion providing league management and the Recreation department furnishing facilities and umpires.

The program in Holland will tie up with similar programs throughout the state. Inter-city competition and tournament play will be part of the program.

All four of this year's state basketball champions—Highland Park, St. Andrew, St. Louis and Fowler—were undefeated during regular season play.

Official attendance at the four-game semi-final card at Jenison fieldhouse Friday night was 9,715 fans. And of the thousands that saw the Holland-Highland Park game there are thousands of different reasons offered for how Highland Park could possibly have won its race with the clock.

There is no doubt in most minds which was the better team on the floor Friday night as one fan put it after the game, "I saw two championship teams." The result left a sick feeling among all Holland supporters, but they still crowded around the players as they left the floor to offer good wishes.

None of them blamed the boys for losing and the players definitely should not be criticized. They were just victims of a string of events over which they had no control whatsoever.

The 11 boys who made up the Holland team made it what it was. And it was very good, no doubt about that. The boys brought it a long way, from a runner-up spot in the Southwest conference to just 10 seconds away from a final spot in the state tournament.

And they did it in a way to reflect credit to themselves, the school and the town.

Win, lose or draw, they make up a great team and a fine gang of boys. They all played a great game against Highland Park and did not deserve to lose. If anyone can explain why the decision went against them, this department would be happy to hear about it.

Several heated comments were made about the officiating job turned in by Wendy Lyons and Wilson Block. We certainly don't intend to add fuel to that fire which will be argued loud and long by all Holland folks who saw the game.

Holland was called on 27 personal and one technical for which Highland Park received 37 free throws. The winners were nailed on 21 personals for which Holland received 23 free throw tries. Dave Parks picked up his fourth personal with six minutes left and never did get the fifth one. And the Parkers were pressing for the entire second half.

It's difficult to write about airy things after a game like Friday night. But here are a few side-lights:

Dean Vander Wal sank a bucket with one second to play in the first quarter in an odd fashion. It came like this: Holland had the ball out of bounds under its basket with one second showing on the clock. Gordon Hulst whipped the ball to Vander Wal who dropped it thru the hoop without hesitation to ring up two points.

Alden Klomprens was called for a technical foul early in the game when he failed to deliver the ball directly to the referee on a Highland Park out of bounds play. It had no effect on the game, however, as the free shot was missed.

Dave Parks held to three points the first quarter and none the second, whipped in seven in the third stanza and 11 in the hectic final period. And eight of those came in the last two minutes with Holland's big boys on the bench.

Dave Moran had a phenomenal night at the free throw line. He hit six charity tosses in a row without a miss.

What may have been the winning point came on a bonus free throw by Highland Park in the final half-minute of play. Holland took a sixth time out to try to cool off the red-hot Parkers and Charlie Duncan sank the resultant charity toss. Three more points went through the net for Highland Park in regular time to tie the score.

Holland failed to score a point in the last two and a half minutes of play.

A chubby bald-headed Highland Park rooster got out onto the playing floor just before the game began and led a spirited yell. Holland and Highland Park fans were seated on opposite sides of the fieldhouse and the noise was terrific.

After the game, Highland Park fans rushed onto the floor despite repeated warnings from the public address announcer and carried all their players off on their shoulders. It cannot be denied that Highland Park displayed drive and determination, even when apparently out of the running, to come back and pull the big one out of the fire.

At any rate the basketball season, begun last November is now at an end on a big scale in Holland. All in all it's been a wonderful year.

More than 400 high school students are registered at the Hotel Olds, headquarters for the state high school basketball tournament.

Six floors of the hotel house players, coaches, officials and cheer leaders.

Four Upper Peninsula teams, not competing in the tournament, also are staying at the Olds. Home town merchants from above the Straits are paying the expenses for teams from Mass, Nahma, Houghton and Marquette-Pierce. Nahma is the 1952 class E state champion, while Mass and Houghton were ousted from the tournament in quarter-final games.

A controversy over fouls popped up in the Detroit St. Andrew's-Ipsheiming game and Ron Nadolski of St. Andrew apparently was the victim.

He was waved off the floor before the first half ended with five fouls although every scorebook but one had charged him with only four fouls.

The official scorer had five fouls listed for Nadolski and that was the book that counted. St. Andrew players put up a spirited but brief argument before play resumed.

The valiant Dutch team tried—but couldn't—hold back emotion as they watched victory fade in the final minutes of play Friday night at Jenison field house. Players and fans alike openly displayed their feelings as the almost clinched semi-final battle turned into a sad defeat in a three-minute overtime. Despite the final score of 65-62 in favor of the Highland Parkers, hordes of Holland fans gathered around Coach Fred Weiss' brave battles to prove they were with them all the way—win or lose. All of Holland was stunned by the almost unbelievable outcome—yet proud of the marvelous showing made by the plucky basketekers against the Parkers, whom many sports experts said would ride to an easy victory over the underdog Dutchmen. ## Holland Mighty Proud Of Its Basketball Team

A pall of gloom settled on Holland Saturday in the wake of the high school basketball team's heart-breaking loss to Highland Park in the state tournament semi-finals at East Lansing Friday night.

Six silent busloads of high school students returned early Saturday. The students, some 240 strong with their chaperones, went to the big game Friday afternoon in chartered buses, financed partly by the students and the other half paid by local firms who backed their team to the hilt.

Wherever people gathered for coffee Saturday, discussion turned to those last hectic two and a half minutes and the overtime, during which an 11-point

Holland lead slipped away and Highland Park went on to win in the overtime.

What happened? Nobody seems quite certain. However, all are agreed that the team members were magnificent and townspeople are mighty proud of them. It would have been nice to win and play again tonight, but nobody is squabbling about the showing of our Holland team.

Local firms and individuals who sponsored the student buses include Holland Awning Co., Holland Racine Shoes, Inc., Bowman Feed Co., Home Furnace, First National Bank, Holland Furnace, R. E. Barber, Western Machine Tool, Eddie Landwehr, radio station WHTC and The Holland Evening Sentinel.

Farmers Trying New Fertilizer

Grand Haven (Special)—Many Ottawa farmers are trying out applications of nitrogen fertilizer, on wheat because of recommendations made by the Co-operative Extension service. Information on this practice may be secured at the extension office, court house, Grand Haven.

Grass is another crop which should receive an application of nitrogen fertilizer providing no legume is in the grass mixture or application of manure has been made. In this case 40 pounds of actual nitrogen should be applied to the acre. This means a 200 pound application of sulfate of ammonia as this fertilizer contains 20 per cent nitrogen. Other fertilizers could be used but the farmer should note percentage of nitrogen.

Just to try this practice for observation one could use 10 pounds on 1/20 acre. Stake out an area one rod by eight rods or two rods by four rods.

For corn where a legume has not been plowed down nor a heavy application of manure made, application of 40 pounds actual nitrogen per acre could be used at time of last cultivation. Side dress along row. One could mark just a few rows to try out this practice on a small scale.

'No Place Like Home' Is Favorite of Marine Vets

"We're mighty glad to be home."

Those are the unanimous sentiments of three local Marines who recently returned from Korea.

They are Dick Draper, Earl Barkel and Douglas Hazebrook. Barry Bailey also returned with the group. Draper, Barkel and Bailey returned on the same ship and arrived at their homes in Holland last Saturday. Hazebrook returned a couple of weeks ago.

All four enlisted together in November, 1949, in the Marine reserves. Their unit was activated Aug. 4, 1950 and shortly afterward, they left for Korea. Hazebrook preceded his companions overseas and was stationed in Japan a short while before going to Korea.

The men said that when they first arrived in Korea, "things were hot and heavy." They said "things look fairly good over there right now because the allies are better set-up."

Everyone is just waiting for the truce talks, they said.

The men, who now have been assigned to inactive duty, described Korea as "all mountains."

While in Korea, the local men were assigned to different outfits but ran into each other three or four times.

The Sentinel Thursday received notification from First Marine

League Reveals All-Star Squad For Cage Season

The Southwestern conference held its final meeting in Holland Monday night with all its original members still intact.

A total of 44 high school officials from Holland, Grand Haven, Muskegon Heights, Benton Harbor, Muskegon and Kalamazoo gathered at the Warm Friend Tavern for their regular spring meeting and bid a sad farewell to Holland, which is leaving the conference after the present school year.

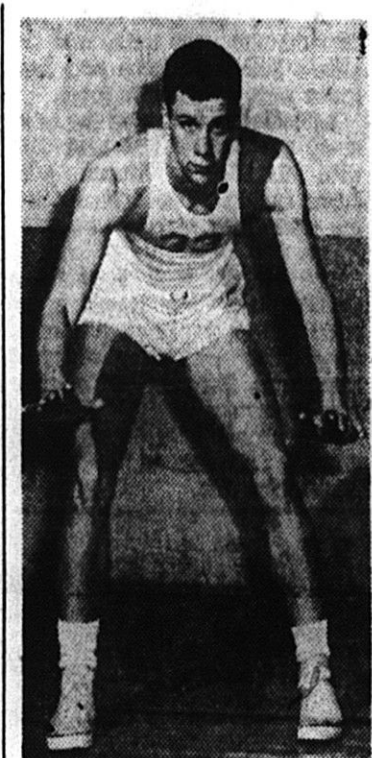

Grand Haven will follow suit after the 1952-53 school year, and the death of the 22-year-old league of Southwestern Michigan prep powerhouses is assured by Kalamazoo's impending application to join the Five-A league.

A number of items of routine necessity were discussed Monday night, and the high point of activity centered around the all-conference basketball team, picked by the six school coaches.

Tom Maentz, stellar Holland forward, was named unanimously to the 10-man honor squad, and Gordon Hulst, aggressive guard, was one of two players given honorable mention.

The all-conference team was completely dominated by the big schools, Muskegon and Kalamazoo, which joined in sharing the 1951-52 championship. Each placed three men on the honor team. Selections:

Maentz, Holland; Roger Wester, Grand Haven; Louis McMurray, Muskegon Heights; Gene Michael, Benton Harbor; Bill

Stuifbergen, Dave Telfer and Terry Nye, Kalamazoo; Earl Morrall, Don Rademaker and Bob Fairfield, Muskegon.

Besides Hulst, the other player chosen for honorable mention was Dick Berg of Grand Haven. All the 12 players picked are seniors except Telfer, a sophomore.

Stuifbergen and Morrall are repeaters from last year's all-conference team, to which Berg also was named. The honorable mention spots were made necessary by a tie vote for the 10th spot between Hulst, Berg and Telfer.

In other conference business, the group decided to let the individual schools work out the problem of starting time for spring sports activities. There was some agitation for a uniform starting time for all events.

The league voted to return one-sixth of the money remaining in Three Holland high school basketball players were named to honor squads today. Alden Klomparsen (above left) and Tom Maentz (below) both won honorable mention on the United Press all-state team revealed today. Maentz and Gordon Hulst (upper right) were honored by Southwestern conference coaches. Maentz was unanimous choice for the all-conference squad, and Hulst was one of two players given honorable mention on the all-league team. All three players are seniors.

Winners Overcome 11-Point Lead In Final Seconds

East Lansing (Special) — A wind-up that would have to be seen to be believed wrote finish to the 1952 basketball hopes of Holland high school here Friday night as the Dutchmen went down to defeat before a rallying Highland Park crew in the class A semi-finals, 65-62, in an overtime.

With the tall front line of Dean Vander Wal, Tom Maentz, and Dave Moran sitting on the bench with five personal fouls each, Holland saw an 11-point lead wilt in the last two and a half minutes of play.

Giant center Dave Parks tied the count at 60-60 with a rebound shot with just 10 seconds left in regular time. In the three-minute overtime, Parks slapped in a rebound and free throw on the same play and Joe Carlson pushed in his only bucket of the evening for Highland Park.

Holland's only overtime score came when Carl Visscher stole the ball and went in for a lay-up shot.

And that was the ball game, season and the end of a terrific Holland late-season comeback that was halted just short of the state championship.

How did it happen? Thousands of fans in Jensen fieldhouse are still wondering, along with the "experts," press box and members of both teams.

Holland outscored the Parkers in field goals 24-23. In the free throw department, the Dutch were superior percentage wise, hitting on 14 of 23 attempts, while Highland Park cashed in on 19 of 37 tries.

The difference was in the column marked personal fouls, with Holland called on 27 of them and Highland Park on 21. Each team lost three men via the foul route.

Holland looked sharp for three periods but hopes faded when the tall, experienced players were counted out.

Alden Klompars, high Dutch scorer for the evening, opened festivities after 15 seconds were gone, with a short jump shot. Moran picked up a loose ball under the basket a moment later and plopped it through and Holland was off.

Highland Park tied it up at 4-4. But Holland pushed back ahead 7-4 after three minutes were gone.

Highland Park took time out at this point, then forged ahead 11-9 on three free throws, a fast break and a rebound by Parks. But the Dutchmen got down to work and drove the count to 17-12 as the first quarter ended.

The second quarter was fast and furious, with first Holland plunging to a 29-19 lead and the Parkers rushing back to narrow the count to 35-27 at the half. Driving shots from close in featured play throughout the stanza along with plenty of fouling.

Two men, George Lee and Bernard Jones, collected four personal fouls each during the first half for Highland Park while Maentz picked up three fouls in the same length of time.

Highland Park changed its tactics in the second half and the change paid off handsomely for Coach Jim Wink's crew in the late stages of the game. From a zone defense that bottled up the center, Wink switched to a man-to-man full-court press. He also utilized Parks in the pivot slot with lob passes into the center.

The two squads traded basket for basket during the third period with Parks moving into action to feature Highland Park play. He collected seven points during this period, compared with three for the entire first half. But the picture continued to look bright for the cross-state Dutchmen. Score at the buzzer saw Holland ahead 47-41.

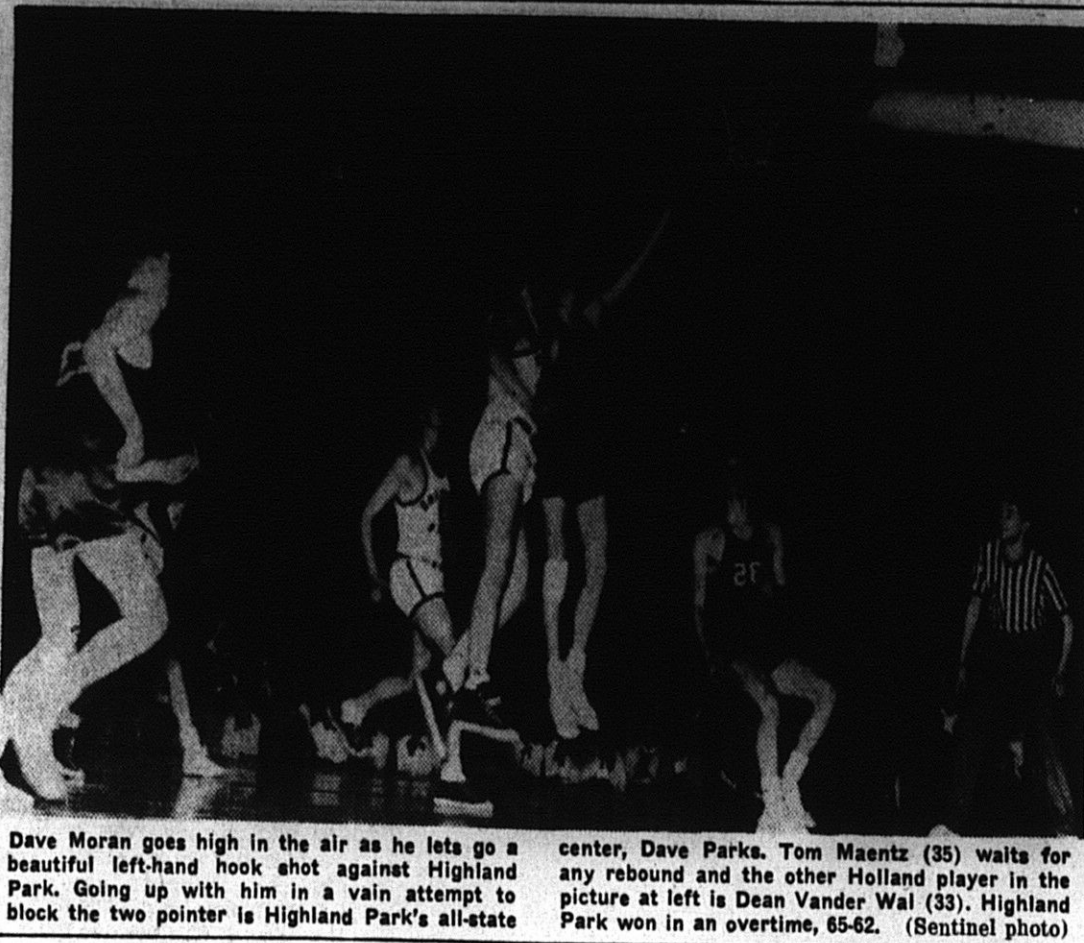

Jones and Lee both left the game in this stanza and Maentz picked up his fourth personal foul half-way through and retired from play for a while.

Good passing and good set-up shots from close in kept Holland out in front in the final period, always by at least five points. With four minutes to play, the Parkers started taking one-shot fouls out of bounds, but Holland still had a finalist spot all wrapped up, with a 60-49 lead at two and a half minutes left.

Things looked even better for the Dutch when slender George Duncan fouled out. Duncan was troublesome all evening with his driving lay-ups and ball hawking. Vander Wal was the first waited to the bench with two and a half minutes left. Maentz left the game with two minutes to go and Moran sat it out from 1:20 on.

Loss of these three key players proved too much for Holland to overcome, especially with Parks hitting the basket from close in on everything he tossed that way. The reserves used by Coach Fred Weiss played determinedly and with all the spirit in the world, but just didn't measure up to the task of sidetracking Highland Park's express.

Bob Birk started Highland Park in its victory spurge and went all the way. Parks hit on the free throw coming from Maentz's fifth personal and the score was 60-52 with 1:47 left. Holland fouling gave the Parkers almost sole possession of the ball and they kept taking it out of bounds. After a score, the pressing paid off against the less experienced Holland boys with jump balls and intercepted passes. But the Parkers also controlled both boards at this point.

Dave Moran goes high in the air as he lets go a beautiful left-hand hook shot against Highland Park. Going up with him in a vain attempt to block the two pointer is Highland Park's all-star center, Dave Parks. Tom Maentz (35) waits for any rebound and the other Holland player in the picture at left is Dean Vander Wal (33). Highland Park won in an overtime, 65-62. (Sentinel photo)

The Parks put in a tip and another rebound and the score was 60-56 with 39 seconds remaining. Then Charlie Duncan hit a free throw to make it 60-57. Parks followed with a free throw on a two-shot foul with 21 seconds left. The Parkers took the ball out on the other shot and worked it in close enough for Parks to dump in a rebound and knot the count at 60-60 with 10 seconds left.

Holland got the ball down floor but couldn't break loose for a good shot at the bucket during the fleeting seconds.

There was over a minute gone before Highland Park scored in the overtime. Parks dumped in a dog shot on a pass under the basket and he added insurance with a free throw when fouled on the shot. Visscher broke through a stalling defense for his bucket with 1:10 left to play, but further stalling and Carlson's lone two-pointer sewed up the decision.

Highland Park now meets Saginaw Arthur Hill for the state class A championship.

Fennville Begins Baseball Practice With Indoor Drills

Fennville (Special)—Seven let-terms are on hand to help Fennville high school go after the 1952 baseball championship of the Al-Van league, so prospects are pretty bright for Coach Sam Morehead in his first year at the Hawks' diamond helm.

Indoor drills opened March 19, with 34 candidates turning out for the varsity squad. First game is April 18, with 10 games lined up for the season. Six of them will be conference affairs, and the other four non-conference contests.

Leading the contingent of baseball veterans back this year are three hurlers—Jack Turner, Larry Morse and Rich Bale. Turner, doubles in center field and Morse also plays shortstop.

Ned Bale is a returnee at first base, while Don Martin and Skip Bale won letters for outfield work last season. Dean Johnson, varsity catcher, also answered the opening call.
