A great day for a picnic
636 students ‘do lunch’ with community

BECKY HOLLENBECK
staff reporter

Blue skies and sunshine set a positive tone for the 30th Annual Community Day Picnic held on Woodnill Island last Saturday. The event, organized by Hope students, faculty, and students from the Holland community, aimed to bring together residents of Hope College and its surrounding area.

“The idea is to give everyone a chance to get off campus and away from their everyday routines,” said Carolee Porter (‘96), Dining Services.

Dining Services.

Six hundred and thirty-six students enjoyed the picnic, which offered a chance to get off campus and away from their routine. The picnic was held on Woodnill Island, a popular spot for outdoor activities.

Students and administration spoke about the event.

Newspaper editors shift gears to shatter elitist rep.

Intermission.

Van Wylen Library computer system gets a makeover

ALLISON PICKENS
staff reporter

“Joe Student” took his philosophy paper until the night before it was due. He didn’t mean for it to be this way, but it just happened. As he stared dumbfounded at the computer terminal he realized the problem was a few lines worse than he thought; he didn’t even know how to find sources at the library.

But thanks to the new computer system installed this summer at Van Wylen Library, “Joe Student” now has access to a wide range of resources.

Joe Student.

This new system integrates author, title, subject, and searching with key word site searches, making it easier to find the information he needs.

This system also helps the library to stay current. The new technology provides up-to-date information, which makes it easier for everyone to use.

“This new system integrates author, title, subject, and searching with key word site searches, making it easier to find the information he needs,” said librarian Kelly Jacobson.

Because the vendor who provides the library with its computer system has upgraded its software, the library now has a more powerful search engine.

Bramer, steps in, but also

Josh Mathes, age nine, a member of the program, looks up to the Big Brother.

“In my opinion, the most important aspect of the program is that it helps kids see that there are people who care about them,” said Dr. John Bramer, coordinator of Higher Horizons.

Higher Horizons.

“I could go places [if I had a Big Brother],” said A.J. Kelley. “I’d like him to play sports, do guy things,” said A.J. Kelley.

Many young applicants like A.J. are waiting for male role models.

“A.J. is the only child on the Higher Horizons waiting list who is in need of a male role model,” said Gale Harrison, coordinator of Higher Horizons.

The program provides scholarships, as well as a mentorship program, to help kids stay in school and be successful in their future.

We desperately need male volunteers, as well as female.

Amy Shepard, case worker

“I’d like him to play sports, do guy things,” said A.J. Kelley.

Although not affiliated, Higher Horizons is modeled after the Big Brother/Big Sister program, which provides a caring adult to help kids stay in school and be successful in their future.

Write-in bids mark Student Congress race

TAD DOEZEMA
staff reporter

For the first time in recent history the write-in section of the Student Congress ballots was taken seriously.

When the current Student Congress members learned of the lack of a candidate to represent the Big Brother, Brumier, and Vennema Apartments and a third candidate for off-campus representative they simply assumed they would win.

“As soon as the students realized there were open positions available, several write-in campaigns were launched,” said Student Congress President Nina Belsaucus (‘97).

This year, the members of Brumier, Brumier, and Vennema joined forces to elect Lindsey Cheff (‘97).

“I had thought of running but didn’t think I had the time,” she said. “I didn’t expect it at all, but it was definitely an honor.”

This year’s Student Congress representatives will be covering many important issues, including gang awareness and the consequences of their actions.

Other issues on the docket include the campus smoking policy, which Congress dealt with last semester but never realized. Along the same lines is the proposal to change parietals, especially in Cottage.

“We tried for too much last year,” said Vice-President Andrew Van Eden (‘97). “This year we’re going to try to compromise.”

Other Student Congress representatives are as follows:

• At-large: Tyler Smith (‘97), Ken Howk (‘98)
• Centennial/Brownstone Apartments: Tony Wilkening (‘97)
• Columbia/Oggle/Parkview Apartments: Kevin Lewis (‘97)

Higher Horizons Little Bros. wait months, years for ‘Bigs’

“We desperately need male volunteers, as well as female.”

Amy Shepard, case worker

“I could go places [if I had a Big Brother],” said A.J. Kelley. “I’d like him to play sports, do guy things,” said A.J. Kelley.

Many young applicants like A.J. are waiting for male role models.

“A.J. is the only child on the Higher Horizons waiting list who is in need of a male role model,” said Gale Harrison, coordinator of Higher Horizons.

The program provides scholarships, as well as a mentorship program, to help kids stay in school and be successful in their future.

We desperately need male volunteers, as well as female.

Amy Shepard, case worker
LAURA MIHAILOFF
staff reporter

There was no speed limit on the fun list Saturday when forty spirited Hope students decorated their bikes and rollerblades with streamers, Christmas bows, and even playing cards and pop cans for the Lincoln Block Party's bicycle parade.

The parade was a part of the block party that took place between Patterson and Poll Cottages, the "Siberia" parking lot. Patterson and Poll Cottages, activity that would unite Community Day in their own style. The Lincoln Block Party was a hit, even though tattooing and body piercing did not take place, as fl wers jokingly suggested. "There was no point to this [bicycle parade]. That was the whole fun of it," said Peter Beckman ('96).

The idea of a bicycle parade, according to Schuler, originated as "Myself and a dance. The party's success may be attributed to the cooperation of several hard workers. Cottage resident director, Shelly Spencer, pulled a few strings to gather funds for the food and entertainment. Sandy Harmon in the Kletz assumed responsibility for providing burgers, drinks, and dessert at the last minute; all of which were prepared by student chefs Pete Christensen ('97) and Steve Eicher ('96), the self-proclaimed Grill Sergeants at the Home of the Hot-n-Greasy.

Festivities kicked off at 5 p.m. with the parade. Students biked and rollerbladed around campus ringing bells and tossing out candy to pedestrians on the street to celebrate Community Day in their own style. The Lincoln Block Party was a hit, even though tattooing and body piercing did not take place, as fl wers jokingly suggested. "There was no point to this [bicycle parade]. That was the whole fun of it," said Peter Beckman ('96).

Sufjan Stevens ('97) rode around campus posing as Richard Nixon, Ryan Nace ('98) circulated in a garbage receptacle pushed by James Palmer ('98), Para...
The Politics of Hate
Jim Riekse

You in the front, I hate you. And that guy over there with the pants, I can't stand ya. If there is one person who I simply cannot abide, it would be that lady with that face in row three. Everyone else hates you too, and since the majority of us share this revulsion, it would be great if all the haters over here would vote for me for president. Wouldn't you love it, four...maybe eight years of unadulterated intolerance.

Welcome to campaign '96, Republican-style. While these words are obviously more harsh than those being uttered by various GOP candidates, they do represent the tactics of separation that seem to be invading the campaign. The grail which Bob, Pat, Phil and their cohorts seek is the vote of the angry, alienated, white male.

It started out with Pete Wilson, California governor and oval office seeker. Pete was laugging a bit in the polls, mainly because he never did a noteworthy thing in his two careers. In order to gain some notoriety he issued decrees that he would end both illegal immigration and affirmative action. The alienated white male says, "Hey, both those policies will make it easier to get a job, yee hah!"

Other Republicans see the positive results of exclusionary politics and hop on that train. Now, everyone is exposing the need to stop "them immigrants and minorities." They also feel the need to one-up one another. "Stop immigration, hell, I'll build a wall between Mexico and us," a red-necked check Pat Buchanan pledges.

The poor of our country receive similar treatment from Phil Gramm and his welfare reform. Gramm views those on welfare as lazy and a burden to all his supporters, so he wants to throw them off as quickly as possible. The jubilant response from their constituents leads Republicans to search for new victims. They have dealt with illegal immigration, but they can still strike a blow against lawful newcomers. Last week, Bob Dole explained that schools should never teach in a foreign language and that English should become the legaloged tongue of the United States.

Again, he is alienating another body of people for his benefit. The Republicans also won't feel much đoạn from their support of some minority and immigration voters always support the Democrats.

With minority, poor and immigrant derision already exposed there must be someone else to dislike. It probably took a good forty seconds to think of it, but those liberal elites are bad news.

Republicans are trying to bring down PBS since it is "Elitist welfare for the rich." Only those ever educated liberals would subject their children to Sesame Street and documentaries on Benny Goodman. Plus PBS doesn't carry Rush Limbaugh, so it doesn't carry Dave Barry, so it doesn't carry Rush Limbaugh...so...it's necessary to hate.

Let it be known that some of what the Republicans are preaching is sound policy. I think that illegal immigration needs to be halted and welfare reformed, but the issue is larger than that. All the policies that the Republican preaches are meant to split us, as Americans, apart. The campaign is building an "us versus them" mentality that will cause more harm than good. We lose our integrity as Americans and fall into separate groupings: liberal, conservative, welfare recipient, etc. Clinton has taken the exact opposite approach of late, and although he has carried it too far, he has done so out of good intentions. Common ground. This phrase pops up in every speech that the President gives. Creative, no. Indicative of the need for togetherness, yes. We should be seeking common ground and stop building walls (Pat Buchanan, this means you) around ourselves.

Finding a parking space behind the cottages on 13th Street last year was a special thing, worthy of the attention of the paparazzi. Now, four cottages moved from 10th Street, adding more parking, while actually diminishing the size of the lot.

The reaction from students hasn't been cheerful.

"There are way too many cars for the number of spots we have," Kuyper cottage resident, Ken Wattleworth ('97), exclaimed. Rochelle Gauthier ('96), a resident of the Dorian cottage, brought her parking concerns to Dean Frost.

When Gauthier can't find a place behind her house, she must park in one of the new lots that the college has built on 15th Street, a dilemma which she believes POSES a "major safety question."

"Parking in the central campus lots has become so difficult that we need some kind of safety assurance in the exterior lots," Gauthier said.

"The new lots are being built increasingly further away and we at least should have some kind of safety assurance," she said.

Duan Terpstra, assistant director of Public Safety, said the new parking lots are being improved; lights were installed over the weekend and a phone is in the works.

Terpstra admits that the College does sell more permits then it has parking spots, but "many students register two cars and bring one or register and park their car off-campus. We do early morning surveys and often find empty spaces."

The Politics of Hate
Jim Riekse

"It should probably be more expensive for freshmen so that it discourages them from bringing cars. That way they won't be too tempted to go on weekends and will get more involved in the school."
—Chris Potter ('98)

"That would be unfair, because we want to go home just as much as any upperclassmen wants to."
—Sara Hochema ('99)

"I'd hate it because I would have to spend more money. The other freshmen would also dislike it, but I don't think that the upperclassmen would give a rip."
—Emily Cassell ('99)

"It would cost us $125 per space per year for the next forty years to pay for such a parking lot, and that doesn’t include repairs, snow removal or policing,“ Anderson said.

"And students are only paying $40. We are losing a lot of money. Students who don't have cars are also subsidizing those that do."

Different solutions are being explored to decrease the number of cars on campus, one of which is a tri-annual grade for parking, with the freshmen paying the most and subsequent years paying less, according to Anderson.

"Anything that they can do to decrease freshman cars would be great," agrees Terpstra, but he adds warily, "Freshmen parking is one of the selling points of Hope, since most other schools don't have it. A change could make Hope look less attractive."

Anderson wants to remind those students who complain as they tek the couple of blocks to the increasingly distant lots that parking location is relative.

"At some schools you would have to take a bus."

Welcome Back Hope College Students

• 10% off any student membership purchased at this time.
• If you mention this ad, you will receive one free visit.
474 East Century Lane
only 1/4 mile east of the campus
396-2901

Campus Pulse

To decrease the number of cars on campus, the administration is considering a graded price system for parking permits, with the freshmen paying the most. When asked how they felt about such a policy, Hope students said...

"It would be totally unfair because we are equal as students and that would make us unequal."
—Garret Schulz ('99)

"It would probably be more expensive for freshmen so that it discourages them from bringing cars. That way they won't be too tempted to go home on weekends and will get more involved in the school."
—Chris Potter ('98)
Left without a chair

There are only two things in the world that are more annoying than having to walk several blocks to your parking space: hiking to it in the dark and hiking to it in the dark by yourself.

Not only is this inconvenient, but it is dangerous. The practice is greatly discouraged by Hope College Public Safety. So it is surprising then, that the College would put students in such a compromising position.

Let’s do the math.

Last year Public Safety sold 847 student parking spaces. These were paid-for, guilt-free spaces not ticketed at any time. Some 1110 students registered cars on campus. That left 363 registered cars without spots.

With the admission of the largest freshman class in the history of Hope College, the administration expects the numbers of registered cars to leap this year. The number of parking spots remains virtually unchanged.

The College has set up a game of musical chairs. Unfortunately, when the music stops in the wee hours of the morning, the last person home is left in the dark without a spot and all alone.

While the College admits there are glitches in the system, they claim when someone leaves a spot, someone else will take it. At any one point during the day or night, some 300 plus cars are motoring around the greater Holland community. In addition, the administration says there are several people who register two cars but keep one parked off-campus.

Granted, many people work at their off-campus jobs or are shopping in Grand Rapids at five o’clock in the afternoon, but certainly there are a considerably smaller number driving around at 5 a.m.

The administration is weighing the difficult balance between convenience, safety and cost. Though finding a solution that meets the needs of the entire community may seem improbable, we should not abandon the search.

No one likes to be left standing without a chair.
Hummimg pink, blue, and green neon lights cast a hot and strangely surreal glow over the city of Tokyo the night we finally nosed our way into Tokyo, Japan this summer as part of a cross-cultural exchange. Her reflections will appear regularly.

September I 3, I 995

The strangely surreal glow over the city of young men following them, gold Shinjuku district, five underdressed chatting and blowing smoke rings slowed to a prance at the central ing. We were tourists, yet we knew and-white Coca-Cola ad. Levi's, cigarettes at their lips. They were dubbed “Fukawari” could compare to a Japanese style pin the tale on the donkey. One participant from the audience was blindfolded and spun around. Then they were led to a large cutout of a face. Without being able to see, the person placed the eyes, nose, ears, and mouth. Laughter filled the rooms as the body parts were placed in crazy positions.

“People seemed to be having a good time,” Shiramizu said. “That makes me happy to see.”

“People will be involved.”

“Sharing culture with Hope Americans would not like what we prepared,” Hanses said. “I’m glad everyone had a good time.”

“Tradition songs summed up the evening. Led by the Japanese students, the audience struggled along, trying to make sense of the words.”

“‘There is a lot of language trouble,’ said Kazumi Hanses. “But, this went really well.”

Fellowship and snacking on treats gave a pleasant ending. Host families and roommates chatted with the Japanese students who practiced their English.

“I was nervous that Americans would not like what we prepared,” Hanses said. “I’m glad everyone had a good time.”

“Japanese night ‘fleshes’ out culture

Japanese students teach ‘Nininbaori,’” a traditional game at Japan Night in the Maas Center.

Anchro photo by JIR Fletcher

A road map to campus activities

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Activity</th>
<th>What U need</th>
<th>What they need</th>
<th>Goal</th>
<th>Contact</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Black Coalition</td>
<td>Open mind diversity individuality</td>
<td>Support from people</td>
<td>Educate and diversify the campus</td>
<td>Theob Robert x4917</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hispanic Student Organization</td>
<td>Don’t have to be from a Hispanic background</td>
<td>Desire to learn about Hispanic culture</td>
<td>Get people to recognize the Hispanic culture</td>
<td>Rebeca Rodriguez x4916</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>International Relations</td>
<td>Love for multicultural experiences</td>
<td>Anyone who is interested in learning about other cultures</td>
<td>Increase awareness of cultures on campus</td>
<td>Jalla Abdelwhabah x4934</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Amnesty International</td>
<td>Desire to make an impact</td>
<td>Energentic letter writers</td>
<td>End human rights violations worldwide</td>
<td>Steve Sundbeck x4802</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Peer Multicultural Educators</td>
<td>Desire to learn about self and others in tackling current issues</td>
<td>Enthusiasm and interest in learning</td>
<td>Encourage growth through exposure to varying cultures</td>
<td>Darnisha Taylor, Student Development Applications due Sept. 25</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

BROTHER from #1

Highlighting the evening was the final game “Nininbaori.” Participants sat sheets over their heads so their hands and arms were covered. Behind them stood a blindfolded person feeding cake into the seated person’s face.

“People will be involved.”

“Sharing culture with Hope Americans would not like what we prepared,” Hanses said. “I’m glad everyone had a good time.”

“Traditional songs summed up the evening. Led by the Japanese students, the audience struggled along, trying to make sense of the words.”

“‘There is a lot of language trouble,’ said Kazumi Hanses. “But, this went really well.”

Fellowship and snacking on treats gave a pleasant ending. Host families and roommates chatted with the Japanese students who practiced their English.

“I was nervous that Americans would not like what we prepared,” Hanses said. “I’m glad everyone had a good time.”

“Japanese night ‘fleshes’ out culture

Japanese students teach ‘Nininbaori,’” a traditional game at Japan Night in the Maas Center.

Anchro photo by JIR Fletcher

A road map to campus activities

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Activity</th>
<th>What U need</th>
<th>What they need</th>
<th>Goal</th>
<th>Contact</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Black Coalition</td>
<td>Open mind diversity individuality</td>
<td>Support from people</td>
<td>Educate and diversify the campus</td>
<td>Theob Robert x4917</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hispanic Student Organization</td>
<td>Don’t have to be from a Hispanic background</td>
<td>Desire to learn about Hispanic culture</td>
<td>Get people to recognize the Hispanic culture</td>
<td>Rebeca Rodriguez x4916</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>International Relations</td>
<td>Love for multicultural experiences</td>
<td>Anyone who is interested in learning about other cultures</td>
<td>Increase awareness of cultures on campus</td>
<td>Jalla Abdelwhabah x4934</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Amnesty International</td>
<td>Desire to make an impact</td>
<td>Energentic letter writers</td>
<td>End human rights violations worldwide</td>
<td>Steve Sundbeck x4802</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Peer Multicultural Educators</td>
<td>Desire to learn about self and others in tackling current issues</td>
<td>Enthusiasm and interest in learning</td>
<td>Encourage growth through exposure to varying cultures</td>
<td>Darnisha Taylor, Student Development Applications due Sept. 25</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
New co-editors combat stigmas, stereotypes and the Roman senate

The Anchor took some time to talk down with its distant literary-type cousin, Opus. Co-editors Heidi Aronson ('96) and Kristin Knippenberg ('96) have a few fresh ideas to implement for this year's season of jams, jazz and poetry, as well as a few words on combating the elitist stereotype and presenting an exciting and inclusive season of po-etric interest (and praise).

Why don't we open up with a defined Good Opus—what it is supposed to be as a group, and what it has developed into.

Opus was originally created to promote a bi-annual magazine that displays top-quality student works including poetry, fiction and art, and also to promote an awareness of writ-ters and artists on campus. That fundamentally is our goal, and I would like it also to promote an awareness of writ-
ters and artists on campus. That funda-
mentally is our goal, and I would like it also to promote an awareness of writ-
ters and artists on campus. That funda-
mentally is our goal, and I would like it also to promote an awareness of writ-
ters and artists on campus. That funda-
mentally is our goal, and I would like it also to promote an awareness of writ-
ters and artists on campus. That funda-
mentally is our goal, and I would like it also to promote an awareness of writ-
ters and artists on campus. That funda-
mentally is our goal, and I would like it also to promote an awareness of writ-
ters and artists on campus. That funda-
mentally is our goal, and I would like it also to promote an awareness of writ-
ters and artists on campus. That funda-
mentally is our goal, and I would like it also to promote an awareness of writ-
ters and artists on campus. That funda-
mentally is our goal, and I would like it also to promote an awareness of writ-
ters and artists on campus. That funda-
mentally is our goal, and I would like it also to promote an awareness of writ-
ters and artists on campus. That funda-
mentally is our goal, and I would like it also to promote an awareness of writ-
ters and artists on campus. That funda-
mentally is our goal, and I would like it also to promote an awareness of writ-
ters and artists on campus. That funda-
mentally is our goal, and I would like it also to promote an awareness of writ-
ters and artists on campus. That funda-
mentally is our goal, and I would like it also to promote an awareness of writ-
ters and artists on campus. That funda-
mentally is our goal, and I would like it also to promote an awareness of writ-
ters and artists on campus. That funda-
mentally is our goal, and I would like it also to promote an awareness of writ-
ters and artists on campus. That funda-
mentally is our goal, and I would like it also to promote an awareness of writ-
ters and artists on campus. That funda-
mentally is our goal, and I would like it also to promote an awareness of writ-
ters and artists on campus. That funda-
mentally is our goal, and I would like it also to promote an awareness of writ-
ters and artists on campus. That funda-
mentally is our goal, and I would like it also to promote an awareness of writ-
ters and artists on campus. That funda-
mentally is our goal, and I would like it also to promote an awareness of writ-
ters and artists on campus. That funda-
mentally is our goal, and I would like it also to promote an awareness of writ-
ters and artists on campus. That funda-
mentally is our goal, and I would like it also to promote an awareness of writ-
ters and artists on campus. That fundamentally is our goal, and I would like it also to promote an awareness of wr strictly classified.

bomber: drink like a phish much? love: ralph today you are off to do big and tight things! come back safe!
you love us sis love the cottage love: ralph

oj...redheaded rat

my not so secret admirer: all i ask judy:  you  are  off  to  do  big  and we  love  you  sis  love  the  cottage

love:  ralph

September 13, 1995

Restaurant! Help Needed: BRANN'S Steakhouse is now hiring for the following positions: Dining dev, wash, bussers, siddeck bar and grill service (lounge), line cooks.
Please apply at 12323 James St.
Locust, or at the Northshore Mall & Outlet Center

ARE YOU A HUMAN BEING? If you are, or close, we have a short-term, high-pay job for you. EXPERIENCE NECESSARY!!
Become a member of the Lighting Crew for FULD BALLET'S/HOPE, coming soon to our campus, and earn $6.00/hour! We need workers for the evenings of Sun. 9/24 and Tues. 9/26. If you have some experience and are interested in joining the Lighting Crew, we have some additional hours available during the performances on the evenings of Sun. 9/25 and Tues. 9/26. ALSO, we are looking for individuals for highly-paid permanent positions with any of the Theatre Department Crews. Please come to the theatre department office (DeWitt Center, 3rd floor) for more information or to apply.

Happy 22nd Birthday TIM HOLWERDA! love your secret Admirer @ theAnchor. To All! The Beautiful People that make up the Ank: Thank you for two wonderful, exciting, and educational years. Great luck to two capable very productive photo editors. But, remember- I'm always here for an assignment of two! Thanks Again! love me

Nina-CoCo NoNo? I love you...Data

A job where you can earn money and have fun too! Join the fall phonathon team, where you will be talking to alumni and friends form all over the country, raising money for Hope's Annual Fund. Flexible schedule, social atmosphere, snacks, and prizes every night. Job looks great on a resume! Call at ext.
2068 for more information.

Hey, wanna be a DJ? WTHS needs you to fill in on shifts: Wed. 9a.m-12noon, Wednesdays 12noon-3pm, Fridays 12noon-3pm. Call the station for more info at X7878 or stop by the Dewitt Lobby. Ask for Lorraine.

FOR SALE: Woman's white Schwinn road bike. 15 years. Good condition. Reasonable price. Call Nina. x6356.

Third Reformed Church
worshiping on campus in Dinken Chapel
Sunday, 11:00 a.m.

College Student Group
Sun., fun, focus on issues and Bible study
Sunday, 9:45 a.m.
76 E. 13th St., Apt. 6
COME JOIN US!

Welcome Back
Hope Students
Jan to Tan Body
a short walk from campus

New Location
142 E. 7th St.
Behind Pietro's
316-3228
We have student discounts!

Library from #1

What is on reserve by instructor name.
This also allows you to mark records and send them to the reference desk.
So you can print them, download them, or even mail them to yourself.

The library staff has already been trained to use the new system, and will conduct workshops for faculty. Students in English 113 also will receive an introduction to the library system, but other students need to ask for assistance at the reference desk. The library also provides several instructional handouts that are available on shelves in front of the reference desk.

In addition to these new features the library also added two data bases to the HopeNet: Remote, and ERIC, the database education.

Other added resources include the World Wide Web, exclusive to Carl Heideman, title here of CIT, is "a very sought-after resource."

Unfortunately, the current ability for the College's computer system to handle heavy use of the Web is limited.
"It could significantly slow down the entire computer system," he said.

We hope to make it widely available in the future, but we're doing it cautio-nously so performance won't suffer.

We're very excited about what is going on in the library and hope to continue to build on the technology we have said.

Japanese from #5

The Meiji Gakuin students spent a total of four weeks in Holland.
Staying in different residential halls and cottages, they practice their English and learn about American culture first hand.

Hasegawa said: "But, I can't see on television what American lifestyle is really like.

For the most part, students feel welcome in Holland, but things can decome difficult at times.

American's don't like mixing with different people," Hasegawa said.

"We have different backgrounds and language trouble."

Even though there is a cultural conflict, the Japanese student adjusted well to Hope, and misconception about Americans have been wiped aways.

"My bad ideas of America are gone," Hasegawa said. "I just wish we had more time to learn about American culture.

OPUS from #6

20% off a power upgrade!
Power Booth™ or Orbit
at Ottawa Village

Magna Bed at West Shore Center

Expires 10-15-95
HCP

Call about Spring Break cruises and specials

Welcome Back
Hope Students
Jan to Tan Body
a short walk from campus

New Location
142 E. 7th St.
Behind Pietro's
316-3228
We have student discounts!
Crusader's ground Dutchmen

GLYN WILLIAMS
staff reporter

For the first time in 26 years the Hope College football team took the field last Saturday afternoon with a new coach, a new game plan, and a new overall look. Last spring, after head coach Ray Smith hung up his wooden shoes, Defensive Coordinator Dean Kreps took over. Ever since that momentous day, the word "football" has been whispered loudly around the campus, not to mention around the town of Holland itself. Kreps did an outstanding job as Defensive Coordinator, allowing only five rushing touchdowns all season long.

The meet of the Hope football program was later that season when Wheaton College came to town, as the Flying Dutchmen lost their season-opener 48-7. The sole touchdown of the game came early in the first quarter when Jeremy Norris ('96) connected with Jesse Crotty ('94) for a 14-yard touchdown pass. "Wheaton was a much better team than we had expected," said Kreps. "Our offense seemed to be working okay for a while, but things just didn't seem to come together."

According to Kreps, Hope's defense was impressive despite the 48-point rout. "We were really surprised by the unexpected offensive scheme, the Dutchmen were forced to change their defensive formation mid-play. "They were using the double-slot formation, which forced us into the 4-3 defense, which is not our favorite," said Kreps. "We have been working with it and hope to use the 52 formation defense. We went into the game with the 52 in mind, and came out playing the 4-3. We have a new defensive coordinator and with that comes new wrinkles."

Regardless of the poor outing, Kreps is sticking to his guns and says he will not back down. "I believe in our system and I believe in our kids enough to stick with it," said Kreps. "We are not going to abandon ship. Not now, after all the hard work we have put into it. Not now, not ever," said the Coach.

Tim Dimock ('96) helped out as much as he could on defense, with 11 tackles, while tight end Rich Kestolot ('96) made a handful of excellent pass plays for roughly 20 yards each. Tom Bonnema ('96) started the day off right, rushing for 50 yards and leading the Dutchmen on offense.

Helping to lead the team to a more impressive record than 4-4-1, the Hope College men's soccer team has established their desire to repeat as champs of the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association. The Dutchmen have been winning with emotional blows to the opposing team's ego, triumphant in three consecutive shutouts. Two of which came this past weekend.

Last Friday, the Flying Dutchmen hosted Wooster College and were not exactly congenial hosts, as they handed the team a notch in the right hand column of their season record. Hope shut out Wooster 3-0.

Paul Rosenbrook ('96) led the team on Friday with two goals in a five minute span early in the first half. Tyler Williams ('96) added his boot into the net in the middle of the second half.

The second game of the match was not as close as it seems. Coach Jim Smith would not have expected much from the Dutch as they were facing a commanding two game lead in the Mid-Atlantic Athletic Conference honors last season.

GLYN WILLIAMS
staff reporter

On Saturday, Hope hosted Wheaton on the soccer field as well as the football field, and were slightly more successful than their pigskin playing counterparts, winning 1-0. The lone goal scored by Hope came from Chris Riker ('98) approximately 15 minutes into the second half.

I think we have a great team out there and I am expecting big things," said Riker, "I hope that in future games I will be of more help to the team because I want to do as good as we did last year and do even better. I hope we can do it. I think we can do it. I know we can do it."

The Dutchmen travel to Aquinas College this afternoon. Hope defeated the team last year at home, 2-0. The next home game will be next Saturday, September 16, when Calvin College pays a visit to the Kollen Park Athletic Field to open up Hope's MIAA season and title run.

KOBY'S pick of the week
I'm 0-2 so far, but I must continue and meet the CHALLENGE of this year. The Chal- lenge of the year is to be a R U D D A B R E A T H E R. This week: Theo and Cock looked at the video and shayed their heads to get into a rap video. As I was laughing I got a view into the future to see the Lions finally beating the Phoenix Cardinals going away 35-14.

Offsides
by Jeff Brown

“Foot”ballers shut out Wooster College

GLYN WILLIAMS
staff reporter

With an impressive early season record of 4-1, the Hope College men's soccer team has established their desire to repeat as champs of the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association. The Dutchmen have been winning with emotional blows to the opposing team's ego, triumphant in three consecutive shutouts. Two of which came this past weekend.

Last Friday, the Flying Dutchmen hosted Wooster College and were not exactly congenial hosts, as they handed the team a notch in the right hand column of their season record. Hope shut out Wooster 3-0. Paul Rosenbrook ('96) led the team on Friday with two goals in a five minute span early in the first half. Tyler Williams ('96) added his boot into the net in the middle of the second half.

The second game of the match was not as close as it seems. Coach Jim Smith would not have expected much from the Dutch as they were facing a commanding two game lead in the Mid-Atlantic Athletic Conference honors last season.

Next week on the Sports page - Student trainers. Who are they and what do they do?
- Look for continued, up-to-date coverage of Hope sports.

Spikers, setters take match to wire

KEVIN BURGUN
staff reporter

A hyped crowd of about 50 people waited in anticipation for the Hope College Flying Dutch to take on the Saint Mary's College Belles.

The first game of the match saw both sides playing solid on both offense and defense. With the score resting at 14-7 in favor of the Dutch, Saint Mary's dug deep and knocked the score at 15 all. Saint Mary's then struck first with a big block to go up 16-15. Hope did not fold after that minor setback and came up the winner of the first game 18-16.

The second game of the match was not the Dutch's day with the Belles of Saint Mary's to bury the Dutch, as they were victorious in three consecutive games.

It all came down to the final game to decide it all. The game moved along at a brisk pace with Hope College taking control. The final score in the last game was 15-9, not as close as it seems. Coach Karla Weitzel was very pleased with the performance of her Dutch, especially concerning that crucial fifth game. "Traditionally we've had trouble with rallies games, so this is a good win for the team," said Weitzel. The statement could not be more true, the Dutch had to dig deep to pull this one out.

When Jack Zonker ('99) came to Hope College, he had the potential to become a major contributor to the men's soccer program.

Last Saturday, Zonker fulfilled that potential when he scored the winning goal in a 1-0 win versus John Carroll of Ohio. At 6:2, 195 lbs, Zonker is a physically intimidating player, and according to coach Smith, he is also "one of our fastest members."

This year Zonker will be joining classmate Lance Fellow ('99) in the midfield. Smith expects both players to be in the line-up.

However, men's soccer is not the only fall sport receiving an infusion of talented youth from the class of '99.

In fact, the freshman class represents the highest talent ever in the program for some programs.

Others are simply "stockpiling" their freshman talent for years to come.

With drives that stretch longer than that minor setback and came up the winner of the first game 18-16.

The second game of the match was not the Dutch's day with the Belles of Saint Mary's to bury the Dutch, as they were victorious in three consecutive games.

It all came down to the final game to decide it all. The game moved along at a brisk pace with Hope College taking control. The final score in the last game was 15-9, not as close as it seems. Coach Karla Weitzel was very pleased with the performance of her Dutch, especially concerning that crucial fifth game. "Traditionally we've had trouble with rallies games, so this is a good win for the team," said Weitzel. The statement could not be more true, the Dutch had to dig deep to pull this one out.

When Jack Zonker ('99) came to Hope College, he had the potential to become a major contributor to the men's soccer program.

Last Saturday, Zonker fulfilled that potential when he scored the winning goal in a 1-0 win versus John Carroll of Ohio. At 6:2, 195 lbs, Zonker is a physically intimidating player, and according to coach Smith, he is also "one of our fastest members."

This year Zonker will be joining classmate Lance Fellow ('99) in the midfield. Smith expects both players to be in the line-up.

However, men's soccer is not the only fall sport receiving an infusion of talented youth from the class of '99.

In fact, the freshman class represents the highest talent ever in the program for some programs.

Others are simply "stockpiling" their freshman talent for years to come.

With drives that stretch longer than