That Headache of Yours

You may have tried a hundred remedies without relief, but have you ever had your eyes examined.

A large majority of headaches are caused by the eyes. And nothing in the world will stop them but the wearing of the right glasses.

That stops them almost at once and keeps them stopped.

We can tell you in five minutes whether your headaches come from your eyes or not.

SIX OF THE PRIZE WIN- NERS ARE REPLIES RE- CEIVED BY THE NEWS

PRIZES AWARDED IN BIG SIX CONTEST

Charles D. Karr Wins First Honors
With Four Line
Jingle.

Charles D. Karr, living on Rural Route Number 7, won $15 in the jingle contest put on some time ago by the De Kalb Cereal company of De Kalb, Ill. This company offered $40 in gold for four line jingles featuring the name of "Big Six" Breakfast food. The first prize was $15, the second, $10, the third, $5 and five prizes of $2 each. Any one attending schools or colleges in Ottawa or Allegan counties, were eligible to enter the contest.

The winners have just been chosen as follows: First prize, Chas. D. Karr, R. R. 7; second prize, Theodore Yntema; third prize, J. N. Karsten, 264 Lincoln avenue; five prizes of $2
each—Nellie Brinkman, May Koning, Catherine Doyle, Elizabeth Nibbelink, and Neal Edgar Sooy.

The jingle that won first prize
reads as follows:

"I have a clever little friend the bully never 'licks';

His eyes are bright, his skin is clear,
his muscles feel like bricks.

When asked the secret of his strength and how he learned his tricks.

He said, 'I never learned at all; it's because I eat Big 6.'

ONE DOPE FIEND OF ALLEGAN MUST TAKE 60 GRAINS OF MORPHINE A DAY

This Amount Would Kill a Horse.

Allegan Gazette.—A report was sent from Allegan last week to a Grand Rapids paper concerning the use of drugs in Allegan and it was said that but one case had been reported. As a matter of fact, since the Harrison law went into effect, a dozen cases have come to the attention of the probate court, though only one person has as yet had to be sent to the state hospital in Kalamazoo. Every doctor in Allegan, probably is treating more than one case and some of them have a dozen or more. If the truth were known, the number of "dope" fiends would be amazing, and to most of these and to coming generations the new law is almost equal in good effects to state prohibition of manufacture and sale of liquor and to county location laws. Nearly every doctor has had more or less insistent request for morphine, cocaine, opium, heroin, laudanum, and the like, and some have had amusing experiences. A boy and a woman, evidently his mother, entered the office of an Allegan physician one day recently, and the boy, pulling an empty pint bottle out of his clothes, asked for a pint of laudanum. He explained that he wanted it for a sick horse. After considerable questioning the physician became convinced that the woman was the sick horse and he did not let them have any. Another Allegan doctor successfully treated a woman who was taking an average of sixty grains of morphine each day. A quarter of a grain will make a normal person sleep all day, yet the "fiends" become so hardened to its effects that they take enough in a single day to kill a horse, and stand it, and those persons take these amounts only to get the effect that a small part of a grain first gave them. The treatment prescribed for these "dopesters" consists in a gradual decrease of the drug. Their greatest trouble is their inability to sleep
In state institutions such persons are given all the work they can stand in a day so that they will be nearly exhausted when night comes. Other and milder drugs are then administered, gradually decreasing until none at all is given. Morphine users are the hardest to cure and some do not survive the denial. Most of them do, however, and get over their craving in a few days, sometimes to their own surprise. Warden Fuller of Ionia prison is a "dope fiend" specialist and he cures all of his patients. When a prisoner makes known that he is given to the use of a drug, he is placed on a diet of special foods and given mild narcotics for a short time. Meat and similar foods are usually eliminated from the diet. In severe cases small doses of the favorite drug is given for a day or two,
but after that the supply is entirely shut off. Users seldom die if they take treatment from someone who knows what to do for them, and the stories given out about the terrible effects of the new law are not credited by the authorities with being the whole truth.

WEST OLIVE RESORT MAN ENDS LIFE BY DROWNING

THE MAN WHO BUILT FREDER-ICK POINT ON PORT SHELDON
DON LAKE COMMITS
SUICIDE

Wife Was Murder Case Figure—Kills
Self After Long Illness;
Buried at Port Sheldon

WELL KNOWN IN THIS CITY

Grand Haven Tribune—Albert
Friedrich, a former notorious Chicago divekeeper, who married Lena Hecker, the girl about whom the Rollinger wife murder case centered committed suicide Monday in Waukegan.

Friedrich made a fortune in the saloon business. His notorious "New Haven" cafe, a basement resort at Madison and Clark streets, was at the height of its prosperity during World's Fair time.

In the '80s Friedrich conducted a tough resort in Randolph street and later opened up a place in Wabash avenue near Lake street. He spent a small fortune in fighting the elder Mayor Harrison and lost out.

He then opened up the place at Madison and Clark streets. For years the place was the gathering spot of levee characters, thieves, confidence men, and immoral women.

Efforts to dislodge him failed until 1901, when his saloon license was revoked, following a general reform wave. A few months later he was convicted of keeping a disorderly resort and heavily fined. His attorneys wanted to fight the case, but Friedrich said he was through, paid his fine and moved to Waukegan, where he opened the Hotel Friedrich.

With him went his wife, Mrs. Lena Friedrich, who, it was said, was the woman for whose love Michael Emil Rollinger, a Chicago north side butcher, murdered his wife and burned her body in a closet. Rollinger was hung.

Friedrich's health had been failing rapidly and on Sunday he consulted a specialist, who told him he was suffering from an incurable malady.
He brooded over his illness and Monday disappeared. A few hours later his body was found floating in Waukegan harbor.

Friedrich was well known in Grand Haven. A number of years ago after he had been closed out of Chicago
by the police he came to Michigan and purchased a large acreage near the shores of Lake Michigan at old Port Sheldon, about 13 miles south of this city. He spent considerable money on this place and has been spending most of his summers there for a number of years.

When he came over from Chicago
Friedrich generally came via Grand Haven and thus formed an acquaintance with many in this city. He always drove from here to his Olive township summer home.

Mrs. Friedrich's parents live in Olive township about a mile from West Olive. Mrs. Friedrich was born there. She met Mr. Friedrich while working in a Chicago restaurant.

At 12:45 o'clock this afternoon the body of Albert Friedrich, the man who once spent a fortune fighting the election of the elder Harrison, as mayor of Chicago, will be taken from the Pere Marquette train at West Olive for burial.

THAT FULL MOON QUESTION

Saugatuck Commercial—Mr. Z. B.
Woody handed us a clipping from an Indiana paper which reads as follows and seems to prove that astronomers do not always figure correctly.

"A few weeks ago we published a dispatch from New York, stating that there would be no full moon in February the first time such a thing had happened since 1846. The item caught the eye of Mr. Frank Brower, who this week brought in the following clipping taken from an old almanac."

"The month of February, 1866 was in one respect the most remarkable in the world's history."

"It had no full moon. January had two full moons and so had March,
but February had none."

"This had not occurred since the creation of the world, and it will not occur again, according to the computation of astronomers, for 2,500, 000 years."

POLICE BOARD MATTER GOES OVER TO NEXT MEETING

CEMETERY WILL HAVE WATER WORKS SYSTEM

The City Will Purchase a $3,000.00
Pump.

Although there was considerable business brought before the council last night it was disposed of in short order and the meeting lasted but little more than half an hour. The most important business brought up for consideration was the engaging of a city engineer to take the place vacated by Mr. Naberhuis last fall and a communication from attorneys, Geo.
E. Kollen and A. Van Duren, acting for Peter Van Dommelen, which claimed the election of Peter Ver Schure to member of the Board of Police and Fire Commissioners as null and void on the grounds that Mr.
Ver Schure is not a citizen.

The following document read to the council by City Clerk Overweg explains the facts in the case.

"Arthur Van Duren, in behalf of Peter Van Dommelen, protests against the filing of the resignation of Peter Verschure
as a member of the board of police and fire commissioners because he was not elected, was not qualified, and cannot resign an office he never had."

This note of protest came as a result of a verbal resignation made by Mr. Verschure to the city clerk's department. While Mr. Ver Schure's resignation has not been formally made it is alleged that he wished to resign from the office to which he had been elected at the primary in March.

This action comes as a result of the discovery that Mr. Verschure is not a citizen and not an elector, and for that reason is, according to the charter, not qualified to hold an elective office, the charter specifying that a person elected to public office in the city shall be a householder and an elector.

According to those who have investigated the matter Mr. Verschure took out his first paper of declaration of intention March 19, 1895.
It is said he never took out full citizen, nor an elector.

Mr. Verschure has been voting for many years and he has exercised all the rights and privileges of a citizen. At the primaries March 16 more than 500 votes were cast for Verschure. The attorney for Van Dom-melen, Verschure's opponent in that election, makes the claim that the votes cast for Verschure are null and void because of the fact that the man
they were cast for is not a citizen.
He further holds that the only votes cast legally in that election are the votes cast for Van Dommelen, and that for that reason Van Dommelen is elected to the office.

Mayor Bosch said that the aldermen should take time to consider this communication before taking any action and he recommended that the matter be left open until the next regular council meeting so that the aldermen could become acquainted with all sides of the question.

Engage New City Engineer
Alderman Congleton explained that the council should decide on the matter of engaging a city engineer to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Naberhuis last fall.

It was brought out that there was a Mr. Volmer now city engineer of Burlington, Ia., who would like to get the local job. Mr. Volmer was a class mate of Supt. of Board of P. W., Mr.
Champion and Mr. Champion highly recommends him for the position.

On motion of Ald. Congleton the council voted to engage Mr. Volmer as City Engineer for Holland and to appoint him to that position when the regular appointments are made in May. Notice will be given Mr. Vol-mer immediately so he can sever his connections with Burlington.

Band Asks For Donation
The Holland Cornet band last night petition the common council for an appropriation from the city not to exceed the sum of $1,000 for the purpose of holding band concerts in Centennial Park this summer. The matter was referred to the committee on Ways and Means.

Council Allows Doctor Bills
A bill from a local physician asking for pay for attending two city cases aroused some discussion last night until Mayor Bosch explained the circumstances of the case. In one instance Mr. Prins was notified that a lady was sick and he sent the city physician to attend her. The city physician responded promptly and the lady did not like him and she claimed she was not being cared for.

JENISON PARK

Easter Sunday was not enjoyed by some people here as usual on account of the sudden death of Mrs. Mary Quinn who has lived in our midst for the past two years. Mrs. Quinn was loved by all who knew her. She acted as a mother to all the motherless children.

When she bade us good-bye here about two weeks ago we did not realize that she would not return to us, as she was going to visit her daughter in Grand Rapids for a couple of weeks. Death was due to paralysis. When death came to her at 11:00 Thursday night she was surrounded by her children and grand children. The funeral was private.

Her friends and neighbors will miss her and share the sympathies with the bereaved.

Can it be that mother's dead?

That we shall see her dear face never

No no remember God hath said

The good shall live forever.

Let memories of the dead depart

Draw us like cords of gold

Meek, pure and gentle hearted

To mansion that ne'er grow old.

Mrs. Easter.

Crawford's grocery store and meat market near the opening of Jenison Park grounds is one of the new features of the season. All wish him success.

RUSK

Duard Rice has moved his family to a 120 acre farm near Coopersville.

Miss Jessie Sipekema has been visiting her sister in Drenthe.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Bert Shetfield, a boy.

The youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Swanson of Allendale was severely burned recently. While Mrs. Swanson was washing, she placed a pail of boiling water on a bench. While she went out for a pail of cold water the baby pulled the pail of boiling water over himself. He is one and one-half years old.

NEW RICHMOND

Mrs. Emmet Beerbower and two little girls from near Chicago have been visiting at the home of her father-in-law near East Saugatuck who is very sick. Sunday and Monday as a guest at the home of Ora Beerbower of this place, she visited relatives in Holland Tuesday and from there expected to visit her father Richard Vandenburg of Bellaire formerly of this place.

HERMAN TUCKER IS CHARGED WITH BURNING HAVEDINK BARN IN FILMORE

Gives Bonds of $9,000; Officers Think They Have Strong Evidence

Prosecuting Attorney Fouch of Allegan county believes he has cleared up another mystery in the arrest of Herman Tucker of Filmore township, whom he charged with burning the barn of Garret Nyland of East Saugatuck in August 1913. It will be recalled that Nyland bought a farm of William Havedink about that time and before he had possessed it many days trouble began. Havedink was warned by letter that he would better look for trouble when he came to thresh, and he did and found it. Iron rods and pieces of metal were found in the wheat bundles which, if they had gone into the separator, would have made trouble enough, if indeed they did not kill somebody. This matter was settled when Herman Tucker paid $100 to get it out of court. A week after this Nyland's barn burned, and now Tucker is suspected of doing that job also. He declares he did not and though he has been through a most vigorous sweating process at the hands of Detective Halloran of Grand Rapids, the man who made George Foster confess the killing of Mrs. Aby Tallmadge; and other officers, he maintains his innocence. Mr. Fouch feels certain that the mass of evidence he has at hand will be sufficient to convince a jury of Tucker's guilt. At the same time that Tucker was arrested two brothers Garret and Benjamin Tucker, were arrested and all three were brought to the Allegan jail. Later Benjamin and Garret were released, the officers being convinced that they had nothing to do with the fire. Herman Tucker furnished bonds to the amount of $9,000.

VISITING MUSICIANS DECLARE

HOLLAND COMPARES FAVORABLY WITH OTHER TOWNS.

Holland merchants are receiving many compliments on the window displays they are making during this Easter season. The local business men are making a better showing this spring and are placing their goods before the public to better advantage than has perhaps ever been the case. The members of the M. A. C. Mandolin and Glee Clubs paid the merchants a compliment when they declared that on their present tour, including such cities as Muskegon and others, they had not seen a better showing than in Holland.

THE MASTER KEY—By John Fleming Wilson

CHAPTER XXIII.

Sir Donald Faversham Volunteers.

IN his search for the Hindu, who had bought the idol containing the plans of the mother lode of the "Master Key" mine, John Dorr had recourse again to the pawnbroker.

That individual's curiosity was aroused by now, and he asked a great many questions, which John answered evasively.

When it came to getting a description of the Hindu the broker could give but few details.

He laid emphasis on the fact that he sold rugs and that he looked like any one of a dozen East Indians frequenting a Pacific port. He knew of no address.

With this Dorr had to be content, and he returned to Ruth to discuss with her what they should do next.

"If Wilkerson gets it there is an easy way to get him," he said in the course of their conversation.

"How?" demanded Ruth.

"Have him arrested as a fugitive from justice and held for the county sheriff and the warrant that Tom Kane swore out," he replied.

Ruth considered this thoughtfully and shook her head.

"It would mean our going back to the mine and all kinds of trouble," she said wisely. "Besides, we wouldn't be any nearer the papers father wanted me to have."

"That is very true," John agreed. "We'll keep that in reserve in case we discover that he has the idol. Our only plan, then, is to trace this Hindu. That will be a hard job."

"Why not put detectives on the trail?"

"I don't think any detective could do better than myself," was the reply.

"But you can't do it all," she argued.

"You can't be looking for this peddler and keeping an eye on Wilkerson and seeing to me at the same time."

"The seeing to you is the pleasantest part of the job," he said laughingly. "I refuse to delegate that to any one. Of course you're quite right, though, about it's being too big an affair for me to handle alone. I think I'll ask Everett to join us. Maybe he can suggest something. I'll wire him, and then we'll take a trip down to the water front and interview our launchman again. He seemed to me a pretty level headed chap, and he'll maybe be able to put us on the track of the Hindu if he took a steamer for the north, as I strongly suspect he did."

Ruth could not understand why the peddler should do this, and Dorr explained that the Hindu evidently had set great store on the idol, as he had not only paid cash, but had given a rug as well in exchange.

"He would know that the thing was worthless as an article of merchandise," he went on. "In the next place, he wasted no time in getting possession of it once he saw it. I have no doubt that it is sacred in his eyes—a god. It was stolen at some time from quarries elsewhere developed nothing helpful.

Everett arrived on the evening train and after dinner listened to the story of their adventures with great interest. When he had asked a few questions he and John looked at each other. Finally Everett spoke.

"It might take years to locate that lode without the exact plans," he said thoughtfully. "I don't doubt that your father, Miss Ruth, spent many a long hour and day prospecting for it. So we must have the plans if it's in the bounds of possibility to recover them. I think you will have to find your Hindu."

"There is the question of the mine," John said soberly. "It has already been allowed to go pretty much to ruin. Tom Kane would do his best, of course, but actually we are looking for the bird in the bush when we have one in the hand."

"But Mrs. Grundy insists on the maid."

"I see your point," the promoter said promptly. "My offer of days ago still holds good. I'll finance this matter to the end, and I'll look after the mine too. So you can be care free so far as that goes, John."

"You know I wouldn't take it for myself," John began awkwardly and was silenced by a smile.

The next morning they had barely finished breakfast when the launch captain was announced.

The three of them found him bursting with news.

"I think I located your Hindu," he told them. "He came down at daylight this morning looking for a steamer sailing for the north. The Halcyon leaves at noon, and the steward gave him a job in the galley."

"But it might be another Hindu," Ruth suggested.

The captain turned toward her and shook his head. "I don't think it's possible," he said. "He answered the description clear down to the rugs. Besides that, he seemed kind of nervous, and when one of the sailors jolled him the man nearly had a fit. I'm sure he's your man."

"There's only one thing for you to do," Everett said promptly—"take passage on that steamer yourselves to San Francisco. By that time you can be pretty sure whether he's your man or not."

This was agreed upon, and Ruth started on her preparations immediately, Everett insisting that she take her maid with her.

"But I don't need her!" Ruth protested.

"She's so expensive too!" Everett said quietly, "and you must have a woman traveling with you. It is all right to do as you like in the mines, where no one would dream of speaking evil or thinking it, but Mrs. Grundy insists on the maid."

John agreed with Everett and departed to get the tickets, in spite of Everett's warning that he had better send and get them.

The result was that George Drake, just landed from the mine and in search of Wilkerson, found him shadowing Dorr.

Drake explained his coming by saying that he had heard nothing from either Wilkerson or Mrs. Darnell, and he could be of no use at the "Master Key."

"It's just as well," Wilkerson said sulkily. "I have a dozen things to attend to, and you can help. The first is not to let that man Dorr get out of our sight or turn a hand unless we know it."

In a few sentences filled with bitterness he told the story of the finding of the chest and the futile search for the plans and the abstraction of the idol containing them.

When Wilkerson found that Dorr and Ruth booked passage on the Halcyon for San Francisco and had inquired about the next sailings for the Orient he took Drake aside and they determined that this could only mean one thing—

Dorr was on the track of the idol.

"We'll follow them!" he said savagely. "We've spent too much to quit now."

Jean Darnell received Drake coolly and listened to Wilkerson's explanation of his new scheme without a word.

Her stormy eyes boded no good to some one, and Wilkerson feared she would abandon him.

But there was the tenacity of a tgress in her passions, and now she could not give up her sweet revenge nor forego the thought of possessing the wealth which had once been Tom Gallon's and which he had tried to conceal.

She agreed to go, and they decided to leave by train that evening, thus being in San Francisco in time to meet the steamer and watch for Dorr's next movement.

Two days later Everett again met John and Ruth in the hotel in San Francisco.

John's news was that the Hindu they sought had undoubtedly been on the Halcyon and that John had bought a steamer passage for Bombay.

"You ought to get the plans before you get to India," Everett said earnestly. "You'll find yourself in a strange land, where it will be like looking for a needle in a haystack to get hold of your man."

Dorr acknowledged this and outlined his tentative plan of getting hold of the idol during the passage.

"After all, we don't want the idol. I shall try to persuade the man of this and get him to let me have the papers concealed in it."

At this moment Sir Donald Faversham was announced.

The entrance of the Englishman who had made himself so attentive to Ruth at the southern hotel awakened little enthusiasm in either Dorr or Everett, but for Ruth's sake they played the civil part.

She, on the other hand, received Sir Donald with every evidence of lively pleasure.

"We are this minute talking of going over to India, where you lived so long," she told him after the first greetings. "And you are just the man to tell us all about it."

"Going to India?" ejaculated the baronet. "My word!"

"Yes," she proceeded. "We are after a Hindu and his idol."

At this point John laughingly came to the rescue and briefly explained the object of their quest.

Sir Donald listened quietly, occasionally glancing at Ruth, whose beauty was enhanced by pretty excitement.

At the conclusion of the tale he nursed the end of his stick awhile in very apparent perplexity.

"You know, my dear fellow," he said, addressing John, "that India is a large country filled with millions of different races. Even granting that this man is a Hindu and that your surmise about the idol is correct, I don't see how you are going to accomplish anything."

"That is just where you can help us!" said Ruth impulsively.

For the instant Sir Donald actually blushed with embarrassment.

Then he gathered himself together and went into details of what they must expect and the difficulties they must encounter.

"If you could only go along!" Ruth said plaintively when he had got them thoroughly discouraged. "You could talk their horrid language and make them behave."

"By Jove," said the baronet, smiling. "That's not a half bad idea! I have nothing to do, and I might as well see the chaps in India again as stay here."

"You know, Sir Donald was in the army there," Ruth explained to Everett.

"Brought up there," Faversham added. "Know India pretty well. I really believe I'll go with you if you'll accept of my company. What a lark!"

Neither John nor Everett received this proposal with undue warmth, but Ruth found it delightful, and before any of them realized the seriousness of the conversation everything had been arranged.

Outside Faversham spoke to Dorr as man to man.

"I don't want to thrust myself on you in any way," he said briefly. "I happen to know India and to be sure that I can be of service to you. In fact, I should think it a jolly trip. But if you think I took advantage of the little lady's courtesy say so."

Entirely disarmed, John Dorr had to confess that Sir Donald's offer relieved him of a responsibility too heavy for him.

The two parted the best of friends, though John could not refrain from an expression of jealousy to himself.

But he knew that Ruth's interests were now doubly safeguarded and tried to restrain his unruly heart.

As the steamer sailed the next day they had little time for their preparations, but John made sure that the Hindu was on board before the last line was cast off and the big liner backed into the stream and headed slowly round for the channel to the open sea.

CHAPTER XXIV.

"He is a Prisoner!"

DURING the long voyage to Hongkong the three were thrown much together, and

Sir Donald learned in full the history of the "Master Key" mine and the present search for the plans of the site of the mother lode.

At first he could hardly believe that such things could happen, but slowly he came to understand that the tremendous passions that were fighting to be satisfied would stop at nothing.

"I fear you will find it different in India," he told John many times. "The country is immense, it is inhabited by races of different speech and habits and religions, and yet over it all there is the vague spell of the east which is so foreign to your western America that I fear you will not easily recover what you seek."

"But I must get the papers back," said John quietly. "There is no question about it."

"Many a man has refused to acknowledge that a thing is impossible," Faversham warned him, "and the east has driven him mad. However, I am much interested myself, not only for the sake of Miss Ruth, but from a sporting standpoint, and I promise you I'll do my best to help you."

They considered the suggested plan of taking the idol away from the Hindu during the voyage, but Faversham vetoed this after a somewhat extensive investigation.

"You see," he told Ruth. "I know the fellow's language, and he comes from a tribe far in the north of India. Most of those chaps are looked upon as rather sacred, and this man in special, I see, is much respected by the other natives in the steerage. To desecrate his image would simply mean an uproar that we could never explain to the satisfaction of the captain and his officers. In fact, we should all get into the most serious trouble."

"Then your advice is to wait?" she murmured.

"Most decidedly," said the baronet. "And the waiting isn't so bad, is it?"

The steamer was slipping easily along across a moonlit sea that night, and Ruth and Sir Donald were far in the bow watching the waves foam softly away from the cutwater.

The girl had awakened during the past few weeks to the dim happiness of being always the center of men's thoughts.

She was not in love, but she was ready to be. The experienced man beside her surmised this. His own heart was beating a new tune. He had lived much, and women had not been aloof from his life.

But this fair, proud, inexperienced, yet self contained girl awakened in him a deeper feeling than he cared to confess.

To be sure, he had John Dorr to contend with. Faversham did not underestimate him as a possible rival when he allowed himself to go so far as contemplating marriage with Ruth.

He liked the young American, and none knew better than he the effect that constant association with Dorr must have upon a young and very impressionable girl. John's own sentiments were unmistakable—he was deeply in love.

From Hongkong they transhipped to a P. and O. steamer for Bombay, and under Sir Donald's expert guidance they shortly found themselves in India and installed in a very good hotel.

"We must wait here till I discover through natives just where that fellow is bound for."

"Why not simply trace him?" demanded Dorr, impatient to be about his errand.

"That would be out of the question," Faversham explained. "In the first place, you don't understand any native tongue, and in the second place the British government doesn't look with favor on strange and unattached Europeans stumbling about among the natives."

"If you leave it to me I think I not only can ascertain the exact place where this fellow comes from, but the temple where the idol belongs."

Several days passed, during which Sir Donald was busy among old acquaintances, leaving John and Ruth to their own devices.

They occupied their time in sight-seeing. At last Faversham came into dinner one evening with a smile on his face.

"I've found your man and learned something of the history of the image," he said.

"And we can get it back?" Ruth inquired promptly.

Sir Donald shook his head gently. "Not so fast, young lady!"

"But that is what we came for," she went on.

"The fact of the matter is this," said the baronet—"that image was stolen

"Not so fast, young lady!"

several years ago—a great many, in truth. It is the tutelary deity of a small city on the river Bhalah, and it is about as sacred an article as you could pick up. The people of that city think that since they have lost their image the god is angry with them, and for some years they have quietly conducted a search for it."

"And this man will take it to Bhalah?" demanded Ruth.

"He has already started, I understand from some of the natives I know."

"Then what are we to do?" demanded John.

"Bhalah is some hundreds of miles up country," Sir Donald continued. "Part of the way we can go by rail, but part of the road we must travel either on foot or by litter—if we go."

"Of course we are going!" said Ruth. "I most earnestly beg of you to stop here," said the baronet. "You don't know your India as I do, and even if we accomplished our purpose we should run double risk in getting back."

They argued the matter for some time, but Ruth refused to consider retreat at this stage, and John, impressed though he was by the other's evident sincerity, could not help feeling that as an outsider he did not understand the necessity of the recovery of the plans.

When he and Sir Donald talked it over alone the baronet was even more insistent.

He characterized the whole expedition as rash and plainly stated that should the British government get wind of such a search immediate steps would be taken to see that the Americans went no further.

Dorr was unconvinced and finally intimated that Faversham had not meant what he said when he had volunteered to help them.

Sir Donald shrugged his shoulders and admitted himself helpless in the face of such arguments.

"At least I can go along and do what I can to save the young woman from actual peril," he remarked. "I by no means promise to give you active assistance."

"I'll be satisfied if you'll just tip me off once in awhile," John responded.

They made the journey to Bhalah safely, Ruth and John viewing the novel sights that met their eyes on every hand, Sir Donald acting as general guide and instructor.

On their arrival at the teeming city they were soon installed in an inn outside the center and some distance up the river.

Faversham wasted no time in looking up certain people he knew among the natives and was in a position to inform them that he had not only discovered the temple, but that he had learned that the idol had been recovered and would be restored to its proper shrine with due ceremony and great festivity.

"That will be just our chance," said John. "In the crowds we ought to be safe."

Faversham tried to convince him that this was not so, but Dorr insisted so strongly that the Englishman yielded to his better judgment.

"I'll try to get you within sight of the idol anyway," he consented. "But I must insist that you obey my instructions implicitly. Otherwise we shall all get into trouble and you will effectually kill any chance you may have of attaining your purpose."

The result of this was that Ruth late that night was awakened by Sir Donald's rapping on her door.

When she had flung on some clothes and opened she saw from his manner and his disheveled dress that all had not gone well.

"It's true," Faversham told her. "Dorr couldn't resist what he thought was a chance to get hold of the idol. He was captured, but I managed to get away by my knowledge of the language and the help of some natives who are friendly to me."

For the moment Ruth was speechless; then she inquired for the particulars, and Sir Donald gave them briefly.

At the conclusion he remarked, "They won't harm him, but if it gets out that he really intended to steal that image we shall have trouble."

"But he is a prisoner!" she cried.

"True," said Faversham wearily. "I didn't dare stay. If they had got me, too, you wouldn't have known anything about what had happened for days possibly."

"But you will save him?" she pleaded.

In her appealing beauty Ruth stirred Sir Donald to the depths. He knew now that he loved her.

For love of her he would do what he knew might mean his own death, but he was helpless in the grip of this sweet passion.

Yet he would not go without at least a word of hope and promise.

"I'll get him," he told her. "It will be a hard job, but I'll save him for your sake, Ruth, and when I come back with him—"

She leaned forward, gloriously content that John was to be brought back to her.

She did not read aright the expression in the man's eyes. She threw out her little hands to him joyously.

"I'll always love you if you will," she whispered.

He stared dizzily, and she withdrew before he could put out his hands or say a word. Five minutes later he was hastily making his way back toward the temple.

To his dying day Sir Donald was never able to explain just how he found John Dorr nor how he extricated him from the howling mob who yelled for the life of the impious man who had laid foul hands on their god.

His own recollection was of desperately using his tongue, his muscles and his knowledge of the usual intricacies of a native city.

John himself could give no clear description, but confessed that he had given up hope of rescue when Sir Donald appeared as by magic.

It was dawn when they reached the hotel, and Ruth was on the balcony watching. When Faversham looked up and called out, "I managed it!" she leaned far over, her eyes shining, and threw him a kiss.

The baronet's heart beat high. He had won her for his wife.

The fact that Dorr and Ruth had sailed for India did not escape Wilkerson and Mrs. Darnell's sharp senses, and they sailed, with Drake as their companion, on the next steamer.

"We can easily pick up Dorr's trail when we land," Wilkerson told them. He found this true. Within two days he had also ascertained that they had left for the interior under the escort of Sir Donald Faversham.

Without delay they followed and in due time landed in Bhalah, not long after Sir Donald had rescued Dorr from the mob who had seized him when he had tried to recapture the idol. Wilkerson grinned when he told Mrs. Darnell of this fiasco.

"But will you fare any better?" she demanded.

"Sure," he said confidently. "I'll let Dorr and this British baronet burn

"Then the 'Master Key' will be ours."

their fingers getting the thing; then I'll get it away from them. It's a long way back to America, and if we stick tight to Dorr we'll sooner or later be able to handle the plans ourselves.

"Then the 'Master Key' will be ours for good and all."

The Substitution.

It is a well known fact that both Sir Arthur Sullivan and Sir W. S. Gilbert had a horror of the titles of their operas becoming known until the very night of their performance. This fear that they might be forestalled created considerable confusion at the initial production of "Iolanthe; or, The Peer and the Peri." The opera was rehearsed for weeks under the title of "Perola." It was only at the dress rehearsal that the company was instructed to substitute the name Iolanthe for that of Perola wherever it occurred in the text or lyrics. It was no easy task to replace vocally and in the dialogue a name of three syllables for one of four. Sullivan, however, said (maybe aside to one or two of the actors who were nervous: "Go ahead and sing the music. Gilbert won't be in front" (Gilbert never attended the first night), "so use any name that you think of if you are rattled. No one in the audience will be any wiser."

Death Dealing Kisses.

The most famous example of kisses that have caused death is furnished by the story of the sprightly young Duchess of Gordon, who raised so many recruits for the famous Gordon highlanders. In the early days of the regiment recruiting was very slow, but the duchess attired herself in the regimental colors and made a tour of the various markets and fairs, offering to each recruit a guinea and a kiss.

Most of the recruits paid for the kiss with their lives. No sooner was the regiment raised than it was sent to fight the French, and in the first engagement in which the duchess' recruits participated there was a loss of 300 killed and wounded. All the right flanking company was hit save one, and he, curiously enough, did not happen to be a recipient of the young duchess' kiss. He was a canny Aberdeenshire man, and for an extra guinea he sold his right to another person to a kiss from the duchess' ruby lips.

The Fire Worshipers.

Azerbaijan, a province in northwestern Persia, is the home of the descendants of the Ghebers, the ancient fire worshipers of Persia. The whole countryside is admirably adapted to the propagation of a fire worshipping creed, for earthquakes and caverns vomiting fumes from subterranean conflagrations abound in the neighborhood of Tabriz. One of the most remarkable caverns in the world is that of Secunderabad, whose character resembles the Grotto del Cane of Naples. It gives off noxious fumes, which at certain times are certain death to man and beast. But the most astonishing place in Azerbaijan is the ruined city of Takht-i-Suleimann, or Solomon's temple. The city stands on a hill 150 feet high, with a wall of thirty feet embracing the crumbling remains of temple and shrine. In the midst is a "lake of deep azure." Although most of the buildings are of the Mohammedan period, there is one striking mass which has been identified as the temple of the fire worshipers.

A Bit Tired.

A somewhat weather beaten tramp, being asked what was the matter with his coat, replied: "Insomnia. It hasn't had a nap in ten years."—Christian Register.

a temple. What more natural than that he should see the chance of a great reward for doing a pious duty and returning it to its native place?"

"But that's all guesswork," Ruth insisted practically.

"I know it," he admitted. "But a good guess is better than nothing to work on. Let's go and see our skipper person."

The launch captain received them genially and listened to John's story. At its finish he agreed with John that it was very likely that the Indian had recognized a native god and would restore it to its own temple.

"I've visited those eastern ports a good deal," he told them. "I know boys on a lark from the ship will do just that trick—run off with an idol for a curio—and I know the fuss the heathens make about it too. They'll go any length to get back a first chop god."

Before they left he promised to keep an eye open for the Hindu and inform them if he got the smallest clew. With this they had to be satisfied, as in-

Mayor Bosch was begged by several parties to send a doctor to the lady, being given to understand that it was a case of life and death. In another case the lady was near death and she would have only one certain doctor. Mayor Bosch told that doctor to go after being asked by the lady's husband whether or not he was going to let the patient die. The bills were allowed.

Will Make Sewer Connections

The special committee that has had under consideration for some time the recommendation of the Board of Health in regards to install sanitary sewers, last night recommended that all the connections asked for by the Board be ordered installed. There were over 50 connections asked for.

Again the question came up as to the ability of some people to pay for connections. Mayor Bosch stated that if these were any people who absolutely could not afford to pay for the installing of a sewer and it was absolutely necessary that the work be done that another means of footing the bill would be devised.

Authorize Purchase Of Pump

On request from the Board of Public Works the council last night authorized the purchase of a 1100 gallon per minute centrifugal pump for the 28th Street water station at an estimated cost of $3,000. Mayor Bosch said that the purchase of this pump was not alone wise but necessary as it would double the capacity of the plant and insure against break down.

Water For Cemetery

The Park and Cemetery trustees at their last meeting passed a resolution to the effect that plans an specifications presented by the acting city engineer for construction of water mains and hydrants in the Pitzgrim's Home Cemetery be approved.

Mr. Van Schelven explained to the council that the water mains now extend to the edge of the cemetery and that the estimated cost of extending the water service to the cemetery would be approximately $500. The work will be done under the supervision of Mr. Champion. He said that now the cemetery fund is in debt about $1800 to the city because of the additional ground purchased some time ago at a cost of $3200 and that the trustees wished to have the city pay for the work proposed now and assess it against the cemetery fund. Mr. Van Schelven explained that the money could be paid back to the city within a year. The speaker also brought out the fact that the cemeteries of Holland have always been self supporting and that they have never cost the public a cent.

The council acted favorably on the matter and the work will be done soon.

Items Of Interest

The council last night authorized the committee on streets and crosswalks to advertise for bids to purchase a street flusher.

During the past three weeks the sum of $148 was spent for temporary aid in the city.

Was and Peterson were granted the contract for doing the work of decorating the rooms of the City Hall. Their bid was $249, which was by far the lowest bid received.

The following tests for gas were made during the past three weeks: Number of tests, 53; highest 625; lowest, 576; average, 609; 11 out of 53 were below 600 B. T. U.

COMMITTEE TURNS DOWN SHERIFF AND JUSTICE BILLS

The Auditing committee of the Board of Supervisors has slashed the bills of the Ottawa county sheriff's force and of Grand Haven Justice's to but a fraction of the original amount.

Of the approximate claims of nearly $700 laid by Justice I. N. Tubby about $550 was rejected by the committee. The committee was composed of Peter J. Rycenga of Grand Haven, Maurice Luiden of West Olive and George M. Hubbard of George town.

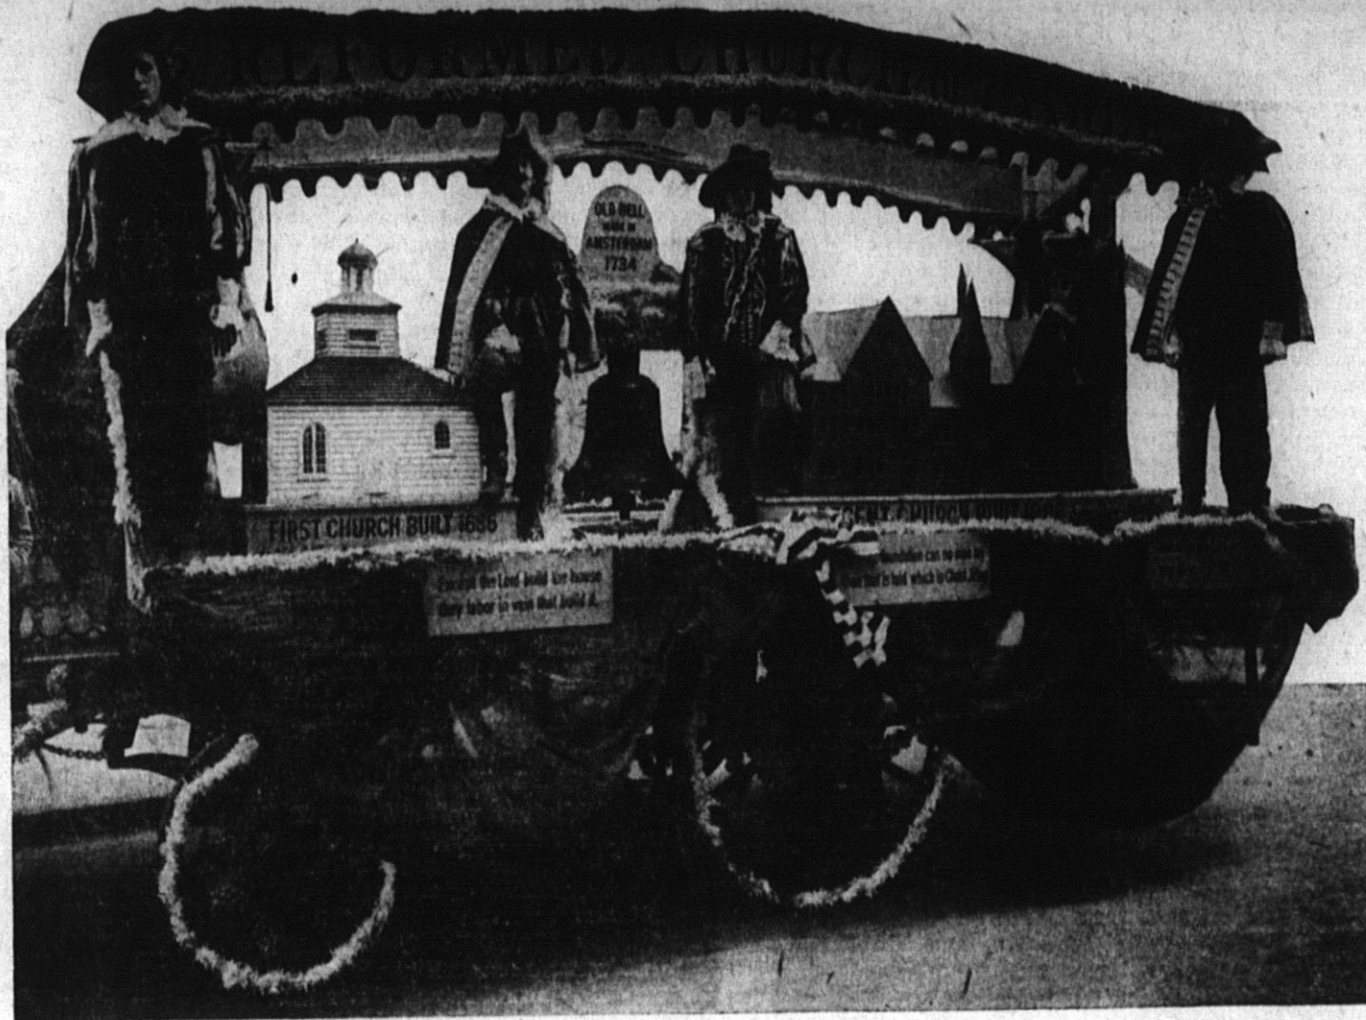

In the accounts of Sheriff Hans Dykhuis and all deputies there was a rejection of approximately $1200 for board and lodging hoboos and vagrants.

Justice C. N. Dickinson's bill for the same length of time amounted to about $200 about $80 of which were filed and accepted.

The supervisors will meet on the date of April 19, when the accounts will be reported and adjudged.

First Church Built in Harlem, the Original Bell Cast in Amsterdam in 1734, and the Present Church

A very interesting article appears in a recent issue of "The Christian Intelligencer" and with the article appeared a cut of a float representing the Reformed Church of Harlem. This float was entered in the pageant celebrating the occasion of the Tercentenary Celebration of New York City. It is an unusual thing to see a church featured in a parade, but of all the gorgeous floats in that gigantic pageantry in New York City there were none that attracted more attention than did the one of the Reformed Church.

The float as seen above is a replica of the First Reformed Church built in 1886 and also of the recently built beautiful edifice erected in 1886 at Passaic New Jersey and is the church that had as its pastor the Rev. Ame Vennema, now president of Hope College.

In this church hangs an old bell that was cast in Amsterdam in 1734. The bell also played an important part in the Reformed Church float. Around this bell Mr. Vennema has woven a poetical gem which is a classic and appears upon the Church Tablet of March 1898.

What the Christian Intelligencer says about this bell and the poem from the pen of the President of Hope College follows below:

OTHER HISTORIC BELLS

The Old Acquackanonk Church

An interesting article on "Historic Bells in the United States," which appeared in The Christian Intelligencer of January 13th, seems to have set the old bells ringing, calling upon their contemporaries to report their existence and tell their story.

There hangs in the vestibule of the First Reformed Church of Passaic, New Jersey, a sacred relic—an old bell—placed there when the new church edifice was opened for worship in 1902.

The bell was cast in Holland for the Protestant Reformed Dutch Church at Acquackanonk—now known by the less formidable and more familiar name—the First Reformed Church of Passaic. In the casting is the date A. D. 1700 and this inscription:

"Vigilate et orate
Deo confidente."

The bell did service for this church for a long time of years, and when the need of a larger bell was felt it was proposed to offer the old to the bell founders in part payment for the one that superceded it. To prevent such disposition of this steeple sentinel, that had endeared itself to many by faithful service and hallowed association, the late Colonel B. Ayerig bought it and put it under the control of the Consistory to further use or to loan it to some other church as they deemed wise. It was loaned to the First Reformed Church of Little Falls, New Jersey, where it was used for many years until again replaced by a larger one. Upon application by Mrs. Julia Ayerig, the bell was returned and hung in the vestibule of the former place of worship of the Passaic church on lower Main Avenue, where it remained until the congregation moved into their new sanctuary as stated.

Its original clapper is lost. A wooden tongue has been put in its place. It has nearly lost its voice. But it doesn't matter. It is there, like many a child in the home a half century ago, "to be seen and not heard." It is still of use, albeit it maintains a dignified silence. It has summoned to the place of prayer several generations of worshippers, and now whispers its benedictions upon the heads of their children and children's children, as they go in to meet God and to hear His message from the lips of brother Dawson.

The following lines on this old bell appeared in the Church Tablet of March, 1898.

"Vigilate et orate
Deo confidente"

With this message to the world
Across the sea they sent me.

Two centuries have passed away;

My voice has lost its beauty;
My peals rang out each Sabbath day,
I tried to do my duty.

My tone was joyous when I knew

That, at the wedding altar,
Two hearts in sweet accord and true
Pledged love that ne'er would falter.

My toll was sad when, 'neath the sod

Men laid their lifeless treasures;
Then to the mourners, "Trust in God,"
I spoke in doleful measures.

My work is done; in silence now,
Beneath the old church steeple,
I look upon the gathering throng
And pray, "God bless this people."

A. Vennema.

THE OLD HARLEM CHURCH

On the occasion of the tercentenary celebration of New York City, Harlem Magazine, describing the great pageant that was one of the most attractive features of the celebration, had the following in regard to the float exhibiting the old Harlem Church bell:

"Did any one float more than another in the three pageants which were included in the carnival, start you to thinking in a serious vein? Yes, to be sure, they were all beautiful, several of them suggesting the earlier days in the history of this State. But the float that perceptibly caused the expression of faces in the crowd to grow serious for a minute, was undoubtedly the float of the Dutch Reformed Church of Harlem; its deep toned cathedral bell being provocative to thought and reflection.

"Aside from its deep significance the float was structurally truly a thing of beauty, depicting the first church of the congregation constructed in 1686 and its present creditable home at Lenox Avenue and 123rd Street, with the bell made in Amsterdam in 1734 suspended between the two models."

Dr. Tilton, the present pastor of the church, has kindly furnished the plate, and the following facts to go with this article: "The only relic of the old Harlem Church that was erected in 1686 on Church Lane, where now is the corner of First Avenue and 125th Street, and destroyed by fire during the Revolution, was the venerable bell which was cast in Amsterdam, Holland, expressly for the Harlem Church in the year 1734. It is said that, among other metals, it contains twenty dollars' worth of gold and twenty dollars' worth of silver. The following inscription may be read on it: 'Amsterdam, Anna 1734, Me Feicit'."

Other Reformed Churches in and around New York still have their historic bells, some rivaling in age and interest those of the churches mentioned above. For instance, the old bell of the Collegiate Church of this city, is still shown as a relic of the past, and the belfry of the old church of Flatbush in Brooklyn resounds each Sabbath to the tones of the bell which for many generations has called its people to the House of God.

BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS TAKES STEPS TO EXCHANGE THE MADZA FREE

Much Other Important Business Was Transacted at Session Monday Night.

At one of the busiest sessions of the Board of Public Works held in a long time, a great many important matters were discussed and disposed of Tuesday. Of all that was done by the board, the one thing that is perhaps of most immediate interest to the public is the plan that was evolved to create a free Madza lamp exchange. This matter was referred to a committee for further consideration, but it is practically certain that in the near future the people of Holland can get free Madza lamp renewals in the same way as they now get other electric bulbs renewed free.

The plan as evolved Tuesday is to take the old type lamps in exchange for Madza lamps on payment of ten cents per extra lamp. This will bring the actual cost of a Madza lamp to about ten or fifteen cents, depending on size. After the lamps have once been purchased they can be exchanged free of charge. This plan holds good for the 40, the 60 and 100 W. lamps.

The board adopted plans, specifications and estimate of costs to cover an 1100 gallon per minute centrifugal pump, for the 28th St. station, to be drawn by motor power. This pump will double the capacity of the plant. Steps will soon be taken also to double the source of supply by new wells.

The board voted to change the fire alarm box system from one circuit to two. There are some forty fire alarm boxes in the city and they are so wired that if one is out of commission all are out of commission. By putting the boxes on two circuits the hazard will be cut in two. Fire alarm boxes of the non-interfering type are to be placed in the station and at the corner of Tenth Street and Van Raalte avenue.

A committee was instructed to purchase a tapping machine at a cost of $350. Though this machine is seldom used it is very valuable when it is needed.

The board authorized the erection of a new steel smoke stack at the Fifth street station.

LEONARD YNTEMA IS ONE OF TWENTY SUCCESSFUL APPLICANTS FOR SCHOLARSHIP

Leonard Yntema, son of Prof. and Mrs. D. B. Yntema, has won a scholarship awarded by the University of Illinois. The scholarship is in the department of chemistry and is in recognition of work done in Hope college department of chemistry. It gives him full tuition free, laboratory fees free and breakage fees free. In addition to this he will receive a stipend of three hundred dollars.

There were sixty applicants for the scholarship from schools all over the country. Twenty were successful. Mr. Yntema ranked very high among these twenty. He has done exceptional work along the line of chemistry at Hope College.

DEKKER HAS A PECULIAR ACCIDENT

Auto Turns Turtle and Dekker's Mind Was A Blank

Zeeland Record—Henry Dekker who resides with his mother, Mrs. L. Koerts, on State street was the victim of a strange accident last Sunday morning. Mr. Dekker is employed as buttermaker at the Vriesland creamery, making the trips back and forth on his motorcycle. Sunday forenoon he left home here for Vriesland to attend to some matters at the creamery at about 10:30 on his machine. While passing the bridge in the swamp just below the Wentzel hill the machine in some way turned turtle, throwing him violently to the ground. He laid in the road in a semi-conscious condition until E. J. Mac Dermid and family happened along in their automobile at about 11 o'clock, who picked him up and brought him to Dr. Huijenga's office where his injuries were attended, the most serious of which was an ugly cut in the forehead which bled profusely. Sunday evening Mr. Dekker regained full consciousness but his mind is a blank as far as the accident is concerned. Mr. Dekker is able to be up and about the house now and is recovering nicely.

HEALTH BOARD TAKES ACTION TO RAISE STANDARD OF SANITATION BY INSPECTING LOCAL DEALERS

Will Inspect All the Places of Business Where Articles of Food Are Sold

The Board of Health Tuesday decided to make a systematic inspection of grocery stores and all other places of business where articles of food are sold, and in the near future the people of Holland will be able to tell the standard of cleanliness of their butchers and grocers by the color of the card put up in their places of business by the health officer. Figuring sanitation on the scale of 100 as perfect, every dealer must have a mark of over fifty. The dealers receiving a mark between 50 and 65 will have a white card put up in their store. A mark between 65 and 85 calls for a red card, and the dealers who have a mark between 85 and 100 will have a blue card placed in their store. It is fairly certain that all dealers will endeavor to have a blue card in their store, and this will undoubtedly raise the standard of sanitation.

The investigation and inspection will be made and marks given on the following: Foods not protected from dirt and flies; show cases, condition of cleanliness; Floors, cleanliness; side walls and ceiling; appearance of stock; general cleanliness; clerks, cleanliness of clothes; open boxes, barrels and crates.

The inspection will be commenced about the first of May and soon after that time cards will appear in the business places.

Mr. Harris Meyer Will Play Selections from the Classical and Modern Romantic Composers April 14

Wednesday evening, April 14, at 8 o'clock sharp, will witness the inaugural recital of the improved and enlarged Hope Church organ. Mr.

Harris Meyer, the organist, will give an interesting program, including selections from the works of Johann Sebastian Bach, Guilman, and others. Both classical and modern romantic schools will be represented. Mr. Meyer will be ably and artistically supported by Miss Grace M. Browning, leading Soprano in Park Congregational church, Grand Rapids.

No admission will be charged, but a silver offering will be collected.

NEW BAND MAY GIVE REGULAR CONCERTS DURING SUMMER MONTHS

The Holland Cornet band was reorganized recently from the Holland City band and Pyramids' band. Many new men have joined the band and many of the men who played in the Holland band years ago are again to join the ranks.

The band boys plan to feel out the sentiment as to whether or not the people of Holland wish to have band concerts this summer. The band, after over a year of practice, is now able to give excellent concerts, and should it play on regular nights it is expected that a few other old time band boys will join the ranks.

J. J. RUTGERS' CLOTHING BUSINESS HAS OUTGROWN THE PRESENT BUILDING.

Will Move Into Hotel Block

J. J. Rutgers, who started a clothing business in the little store building in East Eighth street about a year ago has been so successful that his present quarters are now too small to accommodate his business.

Mr. Rutgers is now making plans to move into the rooms in the hotel block formerly occupied by the Oostling Millinery concern. He expects to have his goods moved by May 1, after holding a sale in present quarters. In the new building Mr. Rutgers will have ample room to expand his business, and he expects to triple the size of his line in gents' furnishings.

WILLIAM BENJAMIN DIES OF HEART FAILURE WHILE WALKING IN THE GARDEN

Started in Printing Business Over Half a Century Ago; Was Once Owner of "De Hollander"

William Benjamin, Holland's oldest pioneer printer, dropped dead as a result of heart failure about four o'clock Monday afternoon while walking in the yard at the home of his daughter Mrs. John Dinkaloo, 185 East Eighth street. Mr. Benjamin was walking in front of the house apparently in good health when he suddenly fell. By the time he was picked up he was breathing his last. Mr. Benjamin celebrated his 83rd birthday anniversary March 4 last, and up until the time of his death, he was apparently in good health. About ten days ago the deceased attended the funeral of his brother Peter Benjamin of Zeeland, who died at the age of 88 years.

Mrs. Benjamin died about six years ago. The couple had eleven children, four of whom are living. They are Mrs. Dena Hekhuis of Fremont; J. M. Benjamin of Los Angeles, Calif.; Mrs. Van Zwailenburg of Ann Arbor and Mrs. John Dinkaloo of this city. The deceased had eleven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Mr. Benjamin has two brothers, and two sisters, whose ages are between 75 and 85 years. They are Adrain of Grand Rapids, aged 85; John of Grand Rapids, aged 75; Mrs. A. Karremann of Grand Rapids, aged 80 and Mrs. J. Van Vorst of Holland aged 77.

The funeral will be held this afternoon at two o'clock from the home. The Rev. E. J. Tuuk and the Rev. H. J. Veldman will officiate. The pallbearers will be nephews of the deceased. They will be Dr. A. Leenhouts of Holland, Dr. J. W. Vandenberg of North Holland, John DeKruif of Bangor, Henry and Tony De Kruif and S. Brower, of Zeeland.

For many years Mr. Benjamin was the publisher of "De Hollander." He became owner of this publication in 1868, purchasing it from a local syndicate that had conducted it for a few months, and published it till it was discontinued many years later.

"De Hollander" was the first paper published in Holland not only but the first paper published in Ottawa county, which at that time included the territory now comprising Muskegon county. It was founded in 1850 in this city by Hawks & Bassett of Allegan, and was half English and half Dutch. In 1852 it was sold to H. Doesburg, and until 1864 it was conducted under the firm name of Doesburg & Son. In 1864, it was sold to Henry Van Eyck who conducted it till 1868 when it was transferred to the local syndicate, which a few months later turned it over to Mr. Benjamin.

NEWS BOY MAKES GOOD

Nearly every one in the city knows Claus Volkema, whether they know him by name or not. Young Volkema is the biggest hustler along the line of selling newspapers that Holland has ever had, and he is making an enviable record. Thursday young Volkema received notice from the Curtis Publishing Co., that his name headed the list of class thirteen. This class covers cities of from 10,000 to 30,000 inhabitants, and the Holland newsboy won out against all other newsboys in this class throughout the United States. This was for the first week in March.

It is seldom that young Volkema is very far down the list. The contest closes in July, and at the rate he is going now the Holland boy has a good chance to win a $1075 touring car, a bungalow valued at $850 a runabout valued at $550 or one of some 25 prizes, no one of them worth less than $100.

He is working hard for one of these prizes, and his admirers about the city, of whom there are many, are watching his efforts with a great deal of interest.

The Rev. John Warnshuis Will Marry Miss Lillian Cook

Advices from the Arcot mission in India announce the engagement of Dr. Lillian Cook of the Mary Taber Schnell hospital at Vellore to the Rev. John H. Warnshuis, formerly of Holland. Mr. Warnshuis is a graduate of Hope college and was appointed a missionary to India in '13. He is a son of Mrs. J. H. Warnshuis.

Dr. Godfrey drove the car from Grand Rapids where it was purchased. There is not yet an agency for the "Dodge" in Holland, the company turning out these cars having been in business only a few months.

Holland's new federal building will be completed and ready for occupancy by Dec. 1. The stone work will be finished some time next month and the interior work will be pushed with all possible speed. The local office was advanced to the first class division a year ago and the receipts at the close of the fiscal year insured its continuance in the list of first class cities.

A. Levan Spafford of Grand Rapids, state secretary of the Christian Endeavor Union, was the principal speaker at an echo meeting of the recent Sheridan convention in the Third Reformed church Monday. The Rev. W. J. Van Kersen, western district representative of the board of foreign missions and the Rev. J. E. Moerdyke, Arabian missionary also gave addresses. Several of the delegates to the Sheridan convention gave talks.

It was discovered Monday that robbers had broken into the home of Mrs. E. T. Bertsch on the Park Road. The home of Mrs. Bertsch is not occupied at the present time, and it is supposed that the robbers broke in some time during the past week. The lock on one of the doors was found broken and a window had been pried open. Several articles of trifling value were taken. The police was notified and officers are making an investigation.

Martin De Weert, who is in charge of the work of giving Holland a new city directory, reports very satisfactory progress. Mr. De Weert has had five men busy on the work of enumerating the city's population, one man in each ward. Two of these men have completed their territory, and the other three are very nearly through. The man covering the 5th ward expects to be thru next week Wednesday, after which a definite idea can be given of what the population of the city of Holland is at the present time. The new directory will be some what larger than the one now in use. In addition to the other features found also in the old volume, the new book will contain a business directory which will be of great service to the business men. Mr. De Weert estimates that the book will be out before June first.

Miss Bontekoe, daughter of a Mr. and Mrs. Haan of this city, and Mr. Van Dyke of Grand Rapids, now working in Zeeland, had a close escape from drowning when their canoe tipped over just out from Central Park early Sunday night. Their cries for help brought Paul Van Vaulpen of Central Park to their aid in a row boat. He rescued the couple after they had been in the water clinging to their canoe for about ten minutes. Both Miss Bontekoe and Mr. Van Dyke were nearly exhausted when rescued.

Floyd Haight of Holland has petitioned for a divorce from his wife Gusty Haight on the grounds of extreme cruelty. The couple were married in 1898. They have seven children ranging in age from one to sixteen.

Adrian Knight of Robinson township, chairman of the Board of supervisors, was defeated for re-election last Monday. A big fight is expected when the Supervisors meet and appoint a chairman for the coming year.

The M. A. C. Glee and Mandolin clubs made a big hit with their entertainment at the Woman's Literary club house last Thursday night. They drew the largest crowd that ever witnessed an entertainment in the club house.

The great job of digging the ten mile ditch in Martin and Gunplain townships Allegan county has been let to Waage & Tyler of Coldwater, a company that does nothing but ditches and has done and is now doing some of the biggest jobs in the county.

It took one Holland man a long trip as far South as Texas and as far West as St. Louis to find out that Holland was alright. He was unable to get work in any of the cities he visited and everywhere he went he found conditions worse than in Holland.

Jape Jappinga defeated Dick Dogger 100 to 98 in a pool match at the Palace Pool and Billiard Parlors last Friday night. Jappinga will play champion Will Blom a 300 point game for the title. First game will be played tomorrow night.

The following players of the Kum Bak basketball team were given white jersey sweaters with a green armband by H. Van Tongeren: Rex Sirrine, Herbert Ingham, Carl Smith, Chester Van Tongeren, Richard Van den Berg, W. Moerdyke, B. Hekhuis and Van Bronkhorst.

In an address before a meeting of the Grand Haven businessmen William M. Conneley of Spring Lake, elected county road commissioner at Monday's election, declared himself in favor of building concrete roads throughout Ottawa county. His argument is that these roads are better and last much longer than stone or asphalt.

Mr. Cress of the local Graham and Morton Transportation company says the business being done by the boats from Holland to Chicago is far beyond expectations and is now about normal. Holland manufacturers are sending large shipments of freight and each night between six and seven carloads are shipped from Grand Rapids. The City of Benton Harbor will be placed on the line to run alternate daily trips with the Puritan about the fifteenth of this month.

"After suffering for over twenty years with indigestion and having some of the best doctors here tell me there was no cure for me; I think it only right to tell you for the sake of other sufferers as well as your own satisfaction that a 25 cent bottle of Chamberlain's Tablets not only relieved me but cured me with in two months although I am a man of 65 years," writes Jul. Grobten, Houston, Texas. Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.

Word has been received in Holland announcing the death of the Rev. William Van Slyke at his home near Lawton. Death came to the veteran minister Monday evening at 11:30 o'clock, according to a letter received by a local citizen from Cleveland. Mr. Van Slyke is known to practically every one in Holland. For many years he came to Holland every spring to collect funds for the Western Seaman's Friend Society. About a year ago his name was dragged into the courts in connections with a divorce suit brought by his second wife.

Mrs. Ernestina Grundman, aged 79 years, died Saturday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Franslow 206 West Ninth St. The funeral was held Monday afternoon at 2:30.

RESULT ON ELECTION IN HOLLAND AND OTTAWA COUNTY

Will Have Two More Aldermen For Sixth Ward

That Holland went strongly republican Monday as did the whole state of Michigan, was shown with regard to the city's vote on county road commissioner and on the county commissioner of schools. Mr. Connelley outdistanced his democratic opponent for road commissioner in the city vote, and Mr. Stanton did the same thing for his office. The vote in the city on road commissioner was as follows: Connelley—First, 129; second, 50; third, 116; fourth, 139; fifth, 1st P., 112; fifth, 2nd P., 82; total for Connelley 628; Buck, First, 46; second, 24; third, 22; fourth, 45; fifth, 1st P., 30; fifth, 2nd P., 22; total for Buck, 189.

The vote on county commissioner of schools in Holland was as follows: Stanton—First, 165; Second, 55; third, 141; fourth, 144; fifth, 1st P., 130; fifth, 2nd P., 97; total for Stanton in the city of Holland, 732; Miss Haberman—First, 46; second, 19; third, 26; fourth, 47; fifth 1st P., 29; fifth, 2nd P., 19; total for Miss Habermann in the city of Holland, 186.

Not only did the Republican party win out big in Holland on the two offices in which there was considerable interest, but every single state office giving the republican candidates big majorities in every single instance. An unusually large number of straight tickets were voted, which made the counting easier than it would otherwise have been.

The supervisors elected Monday were the candidates who had the majority of votes at the primary election and who at that time considered themselves elected contrary to the ruling given by City Attorney Chas. Mc Bride.

For the two year term for supervisor Simon Kleyn and John Vanden Berg were elected. Considering the fact that John Arendshorst had announced that he did not want the office after the squabble that arose over the ruling made after the primaries, he made a good run. The total vote was Kleyn 648; Vanden Berg 581, and Arendshorst 450.

George VanLandegend and J. J. De Koeyer were elected supervisors for the one year term by safe majorities. The total vote of the different candidates was as follows: Van Landegend 574; De Koeyer 503; H. Vandenwerf, 333; A. Glass, 245.

The vote in the various wards on supervisor for two years was as follows:—

	1	2	3	4	5-1	5-2
Kleyn.....	116	50	129	152	108	93
VandenBerg	109	68	94	112	105	93
Arendshorst	112	27	92	91	80	48

The vote in the various wards on supervisor for one year was as follows:—

	1	2	3	4	5-1	5-2
VanLandegend	121	42	131	131	83	66
DeKoeyer	100	56	92	108	73	74
Glass.....	31	16	39	42	60	57
VanderW	71	33	47	58	90	34

The hardest fight on the city ticket at Monday's election was for member of the Board of Public Works between the present holder of the office, A. B. Bosman, and Frank Bolhuis. Although Mr. Bolhuis won by a majority of 88 votes, the outcome of the election was not assured until the last ward had been heard from. The fifth ward returns were the last to come in and they gave Mr. Bolhuis his large majority. The total vote for the two candidates was: Bolhuis 517, and Bosman 429. The vote in the various wards was as follows:—

	1	2	3	4	5-1	5-2
Bosman.....	95	55	95	85	63	38
Bolhuis.....	90	28	80	108	115	96

By a vote of 770 against 281 Monday the people of Holland decided to divide the Fifth ward into two wards, giving the city a total of six wards. There was very little opposition to this division, the fifth ward having become so large that it was unmanageable and was too much for two aldermen. The fifth ward for some time has been about as large as two other wards. On this proposition the various wards voted as follows: First, 143 yes, 67 no; Second, 66 yes, 29 no; Third, 135 yes, 48 no; Fourth, 156 yes, 65 no; Fifth, 1st precinct, 147 yes, 47 no; second precinct, 123 yes, 25 no.

The carrying of this proposition means that the common council will be called upon to do either one of two things, call a special election for the purpose of electing one additional alderman in both the fifth and sixth ward, or appoint one additional alderman in each ward early in May when the appointments of other officers are made. The chances are that a special election will not be deemed necessary, involving considerable expense as it does.

But even if the council are to appoint the new aldermen, it is likely that the people's wishes will be carefully considered. One of the aldermen in one of the wards affected has evolved the plan of holding mass meetings in the two wards for the purpose of taking a straw vote on the question of who shall be aldermen. Then the names of those who receive the best support can be recommended to the council, which body will doubtless appoint those who the straw vote shows the people of the respective wards want.

Through the division of the ward Aldermen Vander Hill becomes a representative of the sixth ward, while Ald. Steketee remains an alderman of the Fifth.

Perhaps the closest election ever held in Ottawa county, or for that matter in the state of Michigan, was held Monday in Polkton and Alledale townships. In these two townships the vote on bonding for the erection of a bridge over the Grand River was lost by just six-tenths of one vote, according to the figures of the expert mathematicians who have been called in to settle the question.

The bridge question has been agitated in these townships for many months and the people were considerably aroused over it. One faction declared that the county road commission should build the bridge and that a bond issue should not be called for, while the other faction wished to raise the money by bonds and by private subscription.

The bond issue that was called for in the special ballot was for seven thousand dollars. The number of votes cast on the issue was 406 and the number for it 243 while the vote against it was 163.

It was, however, not a majority election, and it has been figured out that the actual difference in the vote is only six-tenths of one vote.

The people are generally uninterested in a proposed amendment to the state constitution unless there is something unusual about it. However on the amendment voted on Monday to authorize the drainage districts to issue bonds for drainage purposes the people of Holland put up the closest fight of the day. The proposition carried in Holland with a majority of only 28 votes. In each ward, with the exception of the Third and Second, the vote was close. In these two wards the proposition carried, while in the other three wards it lost. The total vote for the amendment was 481 and the total against it was 453.

Nelson R. Stanton won with ease Monday for the office of county commissioner of schools for Ottawa county over his two opponents, Miss Serena Habermann, the democratic candidate, and Edward T. Van Dyke, the socialist candidate. The complete returns from the county have not yet been received, but there was never any doubt about the result.

William M. Connelly had no harder time than Stanton in winning the office of county road commissioner for a period of six years. It was a foregone conclusion that Mr. Connel-ley would win. He was the regular republican nominee and it was conceded that none but the regular republican nominee would win the office. Moreover Mr. Connelley showed his strength, irrespective of party, in the primaries in March when he won the nomination.

The Progressive candidate for this office was William H. Van Horsen, and Jacob Osterbaan was the Socialist candidate. In many townships the Progressive candidate had hardly a look in, and in Holland city also he received very few votes. In Grand Haven city he ran second however, receiving a total of 316 votes in that city, while the democratic nominee polled only 165 votes.

The following township officers of Zeeland township were elected Monday: Supervisor, G. Lubbers of Zeeland; township clerk, Nicholas Hundermap of Drenthe; Highway Commissioner, Cornelius Den Herder of Vriesland; treasurer Nicholas Beyer of Drenthe; Overseers of the Highways, District No. 1, Edward Ver Hage; District No. 2, T. Scholten; Dist. No. 3, William Schultze; and District No. 4, John Winters; Justice of the Peace, (full term) A. G. Van Zoeren of Vriesland; Member of the board of review, D. De Kleyn of Drenthe.

The following were elected at the Zeeland City election Monday—Mayor—John Moeke; Aldermen—John A. Hartgerink, David De Bruyn, John Hall, Jacob Poest; Supervisors—Cornelius Roosenraad; Treasurer—B. H. Goosen; Constables—Bert Van Dyke, James Pippel, Johannes Elenbaas and Martin Bareman. The election was quite a surprise as the only ones elected on the Citizens' ticket were Mayor Moeke and Supervisor Roosenraad. The republicans carried the other offices. In recent years the Citizens' ticket has had easy sailing, but this year the regular republican ticket "came back" in most of the offices.

The Republican ticket won a clean sweep in Holland township at Monday's election and every Republican nominee was elected. The citizen's ticket, put in the field by the advocates of the non-partisan plan of election, was snowed under.

J. J. Rutgers was elected without opposition. The balance of the ticket elected was as follows: Clerk, A. Vander Haar; Highway Commissioner, C. Kooyers; Treasurer, P. Vander Ploeg; Board of Review, J. J. Witteveen; Justice of Peace, (1 year) J. Y. Huizenga; Justice, (5 years), E. Wiltedink.

The total vote in the township was 319.

The election of the full state ticket by the republicans, and a sweeping victory for local option in most of the counties in which the fight was on—these were two outstanding facts in the election results throughout the state Monday.

The republicans had easy sailing throughout the state and the complete ticket won out by safe margins. There was very little interest in the state ticket, and perhaps not one voter out of ten had any conception of who the men were for the state offices on the various tickets. As a result there were a large number of straight tickets for state office. Following are the men who were elected Monday.

Justices of the supreme court, A. V. McAlvey and F. L. Brooks. University regents,—Junius E. Beal and Frank B. Leland. Superintendent of Public Instruction, Fred L. Keeler.

Members of State Board of Agriculture, Wm. H. Wallace and I. Roy Waterbury.

Member of State Board of Education, Fred A. Jeffers.

Sixteen counties voted on the wet and dry issue Monday. Following are the results in tabulated form:

Contest on local option in sixteen counties:

Number of counties going dry, 9.
Number of counties voting dry, 4.
Number of counties going wet, 2.

The Broad Way Leads to Goodyear Tires

Try it a little while. It has carried some 400,000 motorists to the haven of content. It is traveled by more users than has any other tire. That has been so for years.

We can't win you to Fortified Tires by asking you to try them. The tires themselves must win you.

But our plea is that you should try the tires that countless men found best. There must be a reason as you know, why Goodyears dominate like this. Last year men bought about one Goodyear for every car in use.

Men Like You

This Goodyear army is composed of men like you. They want quality, safety, endurance. They want trouble-saving and low cost per mile.

Goodyears best met these wants. They met them because they are Fortified Tires.

In five costly ways, employed by no other maker, they offer unique protection. They combat five troubles—rim-cuts, blowouts, loose treads, punctures and skidding—as is done in no other tire.

Price Reduction

On February 1st we made another big price reduction. That makes three reductions in two years, totaling 45 per cent.

Today Goodyears, more than ever before, offer you most for the money. They offer you the utmost possible in tires, measured by cost per mile. Doesn't their top place prove that? The following Goodyear Service Stations will supply you:

DESCINDS ACTION THAT PRECIPITATED RESIGNATION OF BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS.

Had Been Passed at the Suggestion of Mayor and Was Rescinded At His Request

On advice given by Mayor Bosch in a message to the council and personally to the aldermen, the council Friday ended the controversy between the council and the Board of Public Works by rescinding the action taken some time ago ordering the appointment of a special committee of citizens to investigate the finances of the light plant and do such other investigating as they thought necessary. Four members of the Board of Public Works were present, and they promised to reconsider their resignations, which were also presented to the council Friday, and to continue their work on the Board of Public Works.

The matter on hand was disposed of without causing any ill feeling. The proposition was discussed and fully gone over from all viewpoints. Mayor Bosch stated his position on the matter in a message and the aldermen, by remarks on the floor, stated their positions. Some of the aldermen said that they had followed the advice of the Mayor all along this matter for the sake of harmony, and that now if the Mayor wanted the action rescinded they would rescind it.

The Board of Public Works members said that among other things they objected to the report brought by the original committee appointed to investigate the matter of erecting a new light plant. They maintained that the committee went further than directed and asked for the appointment of the special committee to open up the light rate which had been disposed of by the council over the Mayor's veto a short time ago. They said the rate question could not be brought up again directly, so the committee was used as an instrument again to bring the rate question before the public.

Alderman Prins did not agree with the stand taken by the Mayor and other aldermen and he declared himself heartily in favor of the investigation and he voted against rescinding the action of the appointment of a special committee to investigate the rate problem.

After the reading of the resignations presented by the Board of Public Works Mayor Bosch presented the following message:

(Official)

City of Holland, Michigan
Mayor's Office

Nicodemus Bosch

April 2nd, 1915

To the Honorable the Common Council of the City of Holland:

Gentlemen:—

You have no doubt read in the Holland Daily Sentinel that the Board of Public Works presents the action taken by the Council at its last meeting relative to appointing a committee of five members—two members to be appointed by the Board of Public Works—two members to be appointed by the mayor, and these four members to appoint a fifth member, which committee was to make certain investigations that was proposed in the report of the Committee. One of the important matters for this Committee to investigate and report on, was the "Ways and means" for building a new plant at Fifth St. Station at a cost of $35,000.00 (dollars) and thus to forestall if possible any hindrance to accomplish this object on account of legal, or rather the illegal question involved.

You have reported to me that the city needs this building and in order not to complicate matters on account of any trouble or misunderstanding with the Board of Public Works, and thereby retard the construction of this building, I would respectfully ask that the Council "rescind" its action at this time relative to any investigation and direct the Board of Public Works to proceed with the construction of the building as per the committee's report, and as per Charter Provision in such cases.

I wish further to state that the Committee had in view the settling of the "electric current rates" and for a fair understanding of the whole matter, that a committee not connected with the Board or the Council would give us information necessary, and from a source that could well be considered as setting the matter forth in its exact status, without any question that it was designed to be favorable or unfavorable to either party.

I am just as thoroughly convinced as ever, that at a rate of five (5) cents per K. W. hour can be given to the consumer, or even a considerable lower rate, and that the rate for power also needs correction, but am willing to leave that matter to a time that may be more opportune for settling it. Let us remove the cause that hinders harmony between the Board of Public Works and the Common Council by rescinding our former action as herein set forth, and go on to erect the much needed building.

Respectfully submitted,
NICODEMUS BOSCH,
Mayor.

Ald. Prins promptly took the floor to espouse the cause of the original committee. Mr. Prins said that all were agreed that the building should be erected and were satisfied with the rates, but they thought that six cents per kilowatt hour was too much. He thought that the appointment of a committee of citizens of which the Board would appoint two to investigate, was fair enough to the Board and that he believed the work should be done yet in spite of the action taken by the Board of Public Works.

Mr. Kammeraad also a member of the original committee, said that the committee had worked with the wishes of the mayor in view and had done exactly as the mayor had wished. Speaking to the mayor he said, "Now if you want us to rescind that action, alright; if you want the action to stand, all right; it is up to you."

In reply to Mr. Prins' statement, "We should let the committee action stand," Mayor Bosch said in part, "We can take up the investigation later. Now we want the building and that should not be delayed. If the investigation would be a thorn in the flesh of the members of the Board of Public Works we can get at it in another way. People sometimes blame me for things that I am not to blame for, but I want you to understand that I will not forsake principle. If I believe a thing is right I will stick to it. There is a way to do things without offending and in a way that does not hurt but creates harmony. I don't care to play boss, but no principle will be abandoned."

Ald. Drinkwater said that it was funny that there must always be a scrap. He said that he would never vote to throw down the Board of Public Works' members who have given their time and worked faithfully for the city without compensation. He said that was the wrong attitude.

Mr. Prins said that he did not want the Board to resign and that he did not doubt their honesty but that he thought the light rate question should be investigated.

When it came to putting the motion for rescinding the former action of the council, Ald. Kammeraad started to read a resolution which called for rescinding the entire report of the original committee.

Mayor Bosch interrupted him and said that all that was necessary was to rescind the appointment of the special committee but to let the rest of the committee report stand. The Mayor threatened a veto if the council rescinded the entire action of the committee.

Alderman Steketee moved that the action relative to appointing a special committee to investigate the light plant be rescinded and that the council order the building of the new water plant. This motion was passed with all, except Prins, voting in favor of it, after El. P. Stephan, chairman of the Board of Public Works had said that that was what the board wanted.

THE OLDEST AND YOUNGEST POST MASTER IN MICHIGAN

Allegan's New Postmaster Gets $2,500 A Year

Allegan Gazette—Claud E. Firestone assumed charge of the Allegan postoffice Thursday and will continue as postmaster four years. He can be removed for cause or could be removed arbitrarily by President Wilson or his successor but he probably will not be. There is every reason to expect that he will conduct the affairs of the office efficiently. For his services during the four years he will receive $10,000. The postoffice committee of congress recommended some time ago that the Allegan postmaster's salary be reduced to $2,000 but congress refused to do so. Mr. Firestone will be paid $2,500 each year. He passed considerable time last week with Mr. Goodman in the office, becoming familiar with the work, and there was no break when the change took place. Mr. Goodman took pleasure in showing him the routine and has offered to assist the new postmaster at any time if he can be useful, certainly a friendly bit of disposition. In that particular Mr. Firestone is fortunate, for Mr. Goodman's tenure of office has been marked by painstaking and orderliness as well as correctness and he knows the business, which of late years has become one requiring no little amount of time or ability. Mr. Firestone is a rather young postmaster but by no means the youngest in Michigan. The town of Portland has the youngest in the state. He is Mr. Arthur Francis and is but twenty four years old. He is editor of the Portland Observer and just entering the political arena of Ionia county. He had a great battle with other candidates for the office. The oldest postmaster in the state is Mr. George Hoppough of Smyrna. He is past seventy years of age and has been postmaster of that village more than forty-two years. Through ten administrations, three Democratic, he had been chief custodian of the mail for that town and vicinity but because he is now too old to become eligible under the civil service regulations he is to be retired.

PATRIOTIC MEETING

The following program was rendered at the Grand Army Day held in the G. A. R. Hall last evening: Singing, Star Spangled Banner; Flag Salute, Colorbearers; reading—The Old Grand Army Boys. Miss Clara Elferink; vocal solo, Laura Marsh; reading—The Bronze Button, Mrs. Edna Bertsch; reading—What Does the Bronze Button Mean?, Mrs. E. Vandendaele; vocal solo, Gladys Orr; Paper—The Grand Army of the Republic, Mrs. Lucy Wise; piano solo, Gladys Olsen; remarks by Past Dept. President, Florence Boot; remarks by Past President, Mary Harmon.

Interesting talks were given by the Post Commander, Mr. G. Van Schelven, also by the Commander of the Spanish War Veterans. Many humorous, as well as pathetic incidents were told of the old Civil war days. Comrade Maxted proved himself an interesting story teller. The most interesting and instructive number, was the paper prepared by Mrs. Wise it being a history of the organization of the Grand Army. After singing America, refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

Plan to Extend Financial Aid to the Ladies Who Would Be Missionaries

The Classical Board of Benevolence composed of three members from each of the classes of Holland, Grand River, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin, met in regular Spring Session in the First Reformed church this week.

This board aids students studying in the Preparatory department of Hope college, having the ministry in view. For the first time in its history it is aiding a student in the Wisconsin Memorial Academy. An amendment has been introduced which proposes to extend aid also to ladies who may wish to prepare for mission work. The amendment will doubtless be adopted. The following officers were elected: President, the Rev. H. J. Veldman; Vice-President, the Rev. James Weyer, of Grand Rapids; Secretary, the Rev. G. De Jonge; Treasurer, Hon. A. Visscher.

FRED JACKSON HAS PLANS FOR FINE ADDITION TO HIS GARAGE

Fred Jackson, agent for the Ford Automobiles in this city has completed plans for rebuilding his garage in West Seventh street. The present building will be somewhat enlarged. Another story will be built on the front part for living rooms and an entirely new front will be put in. When completed the building will be 60x126 feet, with two stories in the front part.

The new garage will be one of the finest to be found in a town the size of Holland. A large glass front will be put in, and the front part of the garage will be used as a show room. The machine room and workshop will be in a building aside from the garage. In the garage proper there will be enough room to store fifty to sixty cars.

Mr. Jackson will have one of the best Ford car repair shops in western Michigan outside of Grand Rapids. He has nearly enough parts of cars in his garage used for repair work to build two automobiles.

So far this year Mr. Jackson has delivered 14 new cars to people in and around Holland.

OFFICERS MAKE FIVE ARRESTS AND BOYS ARE FINED BY JUSTICE SOOY

Kids Were Making A Disturbance In A Shanty

Friday night police officers made a raid on a shanty in Herman Hoevena's yard in the east end and broke up a party. Saturday afternoon five arrests were made on a charge of disorderly conduct. All pleaded guilty when arraigned before Justice Sooy.

Those arrested were Herman Hoevena, Ernest Bedell, John Myers, Bert Wright and E. Vander Elst.

Hoevena paid a fine and costs amounting to $12 rather go to jail for twenty days. Ernest Bedell paid a fine and cost of $5 with an alternate of ten days in jail. Johnny Myers and E. Vander Elst were sentenced to pay $5 each or spend ten days in jail. They promised to pay and were released. Bert Wright has not entered his plea yet and he will appear before Justice Sooy later, day night.

"CITY OF CHICAGO" TO BE KNOWN AS "CITY OF ST. JOSEPH" AFTER THIS

The Graham and Morton steamer "City of Chicago" that was partly destroyed by fire last summer and that is now at the Manitowoc Ship building and Dry Dock Co's plant in Manitowoc for repairs or for practical rebuilding will be known as the "City of St. Joseph" when it is put into service again. The new name was given to the vessel in honor of the city of St. Joseph, Michigan, President Morton having made a trip to Washington to secure a change of name for the vessel.

"The City of St. Joseph" will be practically a new vessel of the Graham and Morton fleet. It will be back in commission about June 1 when it will ply between St. Joseph and Chicago. When completed it will be the fastest boat of the fleet, it is said.

The De Pree Chemical company is the first factory to come forward with a baseball team for this summer. At a recent meeting Dixie Hyma was chosen manager of the team and Spriggs Te Roller was elected captain. The team issues a challenge to any city or out-of-town teams for games, and a game can be arranged by writing the manager at the De Pree plant or calling by phone.

The De Pree factory team will undoubtedly be one of the fastest teams in the city unless some of their players are drawn into a larger team. The De Pree plant boasts of several ex-leaguers and some good independent ball players. Some of the stars that will play on the DePree team are Spriggs, Batema, Carl Shaw of State league fame, Nash and Roz-enahl, independent players and several others.
