Two Parks Renamed In Holland

In a surprise move Wednesday night, City Council renamed two city parks after park superintendents.

Windmill Park at the northern approach to the city on Black River hereafter will be known as Van Bragt Park, named for the late John Van Bragt who served as park superintendent of Holland from 1919 to 1943. It was under his direction that Windmill Park was developed. This park was first known as Lakeview Park in 1931 but the name was changed after the area was filled in and the windmill installed.

The newly developed Nature Center on Graafschap Rd. near 26th St. will be known as De Graaf Nature Center named after the city's present park and cemetery superintendent, Jacob De Graaf, who has been active in developing the new nature center in cooperation with the Holland Garden Club and an advisory committee of local citizens.

The Park department is in charge of development and maintenance at the nature center covering some 12 to 15 acres. De Graaf has been with the department for many years and has served as superintendent since 1959.

A city park already has been named for the late Dick Smalenburg who served as superintendent between Van Bragt and De Graaf. Smalenburg Park is located east of Fairbanks Ave. in the vicinity of 14th St. It is designed for picnicking and summer recreation, and has two ponds which serve as ice rinks in the winter.

Little Netherlands To Get New Home

Little Netherlands, the miniature Dutch village within the walled enclosure at the corner of 13th St. and Central Ave., will be moved to Windmill Island this summer to become an added attraction at this park development which features Windmill De Zwaan which was brought from the Netherlands.

City Council Wednesday night approved the move which had been recommended by the Windmill Committee, Tulip Time Festival, Inc., and the board of governors of the Netherlands Museum.

Dell Construction Co. will erect a suitable 'home' for the display just northeast of the posthouse not far from the service bridge that leads to the island.

It will not be on the island since this 36-acre area is reserved for the windmill, the gardens and other authentic Dutch reproductions. Cost of the new installation plus moving expenses will total $16,768.

Since Little Netherlands is owned by Tulip Time, Windmill Island will pay to Tulip Time $800 the first year, and $2,000 a year for the next 10 years, for a total of $20,800. Thereafter, Windmill Island will be sole owner of the display.

Plans call for the Little Netherlands to remain as a Tulip Time attraction for the 1966 festival May 11-14, and to be moved to Windmill Island sometime after Tulip Time, but before July 1.

Council also approved other expenditures from the Windmill Construction Fund as follows: drainage structure in north dike, $500; water service to windmill, $500; lumber and material for peacock and pheasant pens, $300; complete electrical wiring in windmill, $261; plywood on second floor of posthouse, $150; paint for posthouse floor, $150; total $1,861.

City Manager Herb Holt explained that Kellogg Bird Sanctuary is planning to donate a pair of swans to Windmill Island, and therefore the sum received from a private citizen for a swan will go for other game birds with the donor's permission. He also said Richard Machiele of the County Agricultural Department is providing some pheasants. He added that some cattle and sheep also are being lined up as livestock for the island.

Collect Used Sweaters to Be Sent to Kodaikanal Mission

The Holland Classical Union of the Women's Guild for Christian Service and the Adelpia Service Guild of Western Theological Seminary have just completed a unique missionary undertaking.

They have collected, sorted, and boxed approximately 1,000 used sweaters which will be sent to the Kodaikanal Mission School at Kodaikanal, South India. The school is located in southern India about 200 miles away from the eastern sea coast and is nestled in a beautiful wooded area of rolling hills.

Through the efforts of Mr. and Mrs. Keith De Jong, teachers at the school, this entire shipment can be accepted duty free. Mr. and Mrs. De Jong will supervise the distribution of the sweaters when they arrive, which should be about mid May.

De Jong attended the Kodaikanal Mission School as a boy, enrolling in the fifth grade and continuing his studies there to graduate in 1946. At that time his parents, the Rev. and Mrs. G. E. De Jong were missionaries of the Reformed Church in Kuwait, Arabia, almost 3,000 miles away from the school. It is customary for all missionaries serving the United States Protestant Churches to send their children to either the Kodaikanal School or the other Mission school in Northern India.

They have written to the Union the following: "The conditions made through these sweaters and the gospels given with them have been most rewarding. What amazes us is the hunger there must have been with so little being done for them in spiritual nurture. When the Holy Spirit works, you just have to sort of step aside or else you get in the way!

"If you ever hear of other groups or churches doing similar projects, please ask them to write to us how many boxes they are sending so I can get a No-Customs Certificate for their shipment."

The Service Secretaries of the local Women's Guild for Christian Service of the Reformed Church whose combined efforts have made this project successful are Mrs. William Brown of Beechwood, Mrs. J. Kruitthoff of Bethel, Mrs. Marlin Bakker of Calvary, Mrs. Jack Nagelkerk of Christ Memorial, Mrs. N. Den Uyl of Central Park, Mrs. H. Bussies of First, Mrs. M. Walters of Fourth, Mrs. F. Bell of Grace, Mrs. G. W. Haworth of Hope, Mrs. Lambert Haverman of Maplewood, Mrs. Floyd Riemersma of Rose Park, Mrs. C. Nivison of Sixth, Mrs. A. J. Tazelaar of Third, Mrs. Don Slighter of Trinity, Mrs. Angie Hartgerink of the Adelpia Service Guild of Western Theological Seminary.

Mrs. Melvin Van Tatenhove, Secretary of Service of the Holland Classical Union, directed the venture.

In a series of dramatic episodes filmed in Korea, Thailand, India and the Congo, the movie shows how leprosy can be treated effectively and its victims restored to lives of usefulness.

A letter from Mrs. C. J. Stauffacher told of great changes since she and her husband, Dr. Stauffacher, met with the Federation. She told of a new hospital in Teles, East Africa, which was recently dedicated as "The Stauffacher Memorial Hospital." This replaces the one which her husband built about 50 years ago.

Mrs. Abram Van Hoven gave the offertory prayer. SPRING CAMPING

It is a bit difficult to keep up with all the demonstrations going on in the country. And it is even more difficult to make an analysis of the various causes for which people demonstrate.

Mose recently we have a group of campers on the front lawn of Michigan State President John Hannah. In this case the students involved are demonstrating in favor of some students who have been sentenced to 30 days in jail on the charge of trespassing. The students were charged for picketing before a U.S. Army Information desk set up at the Student Union, October 17.

All this brings us to a discussion of standing for a principle. Many men have done this in the world's history. But in the past there was a difference. There were those who believed deeply, and they were often arrested and put into prison. They had no one to demonstrate on their behalf, and often no one to intercede. Their remaining in prison, or they might put it, believing so strongly that they are willing to suffer the consequences, gave weight to their principles.

Today the situation has changed dramatically. First there is the demonstration, and then further demonstrating to keep men from suffering for those principles they espouse. There is something in all this that doesn't quite fit. One gets the idea that someone hasn't counted the cost of discipleship to a certain idea. Or there is the notion, to put it in another way, that the principle is worth something, but not that much.

As we said at the opening of this discussion, we aren't trying to make an analysis of the various causes for which people demonstrate. We are trying to understand the changes between those who believed deeply in the past, and those who say they believe deeply today. And we will have to say that something, and we have trouble putting our finger on it, seems missing. Maybe even demonstrators and demonstrations have been influenced by the life of the affluent society. Modern camping equipment can make things quite comfortable.

Sunday School Lesson

Sunday, April 10
The Victory of the Church
1 Corinthians 15:20-26;
Revelation 7:9-10; 13-17
By C. P. Dame

On Easter Sunday it is most fitting to sound forth the note of praise and victory. This lesson directs our minds and hearts to the future. Our generation is deeply interested in the present and therefore it is good for us to consider the future — the things that God has prepared for His people.

I. A risen Christ now reigns. I Corinthians 15 is the great resurrection chapter. Some church members in the Corinthian Church doubted the resurrection of the dead. Paul said that Christ had risen from the dead and "had become the firstfruits of them that slept."

The resurrection of Christ assures all believers of their resurrection. Paul cites the fact that death came by one man, Adam, and "by one man came also the resurrection of the dead," namely by Christ, who undid the ruin wrought by Adam. Our final redemption will be completed when we shall receive a new body which will take place at the return of the Lord.

The Christian faces a bright future. "Then cometh the end" — so wrote Paul. This present world order will end. Some day Christ will hand over the kingdom to the Father. Then all the evil forces will no longer be and the Lord "shall reign for ever and for ever."

II. God gives salvation and to Him belongs the praise. John wrote the second part of the lesson text. This portrays a great multitude standing before the throne in heaven. John says that this multitude is composed of people from every nation and tribe and culture. This vast multitude is the whole redeemed church of God. Everyone is dressed in white and they have palm leaves in their hands. White stands for holiness, the palm leaves for victory. All ascribe salvation to God and the Lamb. The salvation they sing of is the rescue from sin and its penalty. They owed their salvation to God's grace.

III. Tribulation will be followed by triumph. The word "tribulation" refers to all the afflictions which God's people have suffered during the centuries. The tribulations will end. The redeemed had washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb. The New Testament says much about the blood of the Lamb—that is the sacrificial, atoning death of Christ on the cross. Observe that the redeemed "have washed their robes and made them white"—Christ made salvation possible but it is man's part to put his trust in what the Lord did and not in his own good works. We are justified by faith.

The redeemed serve God day and night perfectly. Here all worship is done imperfectly but not there. Once the redeemed suffered hunger, thirst and heat but now no more. The Lamb is the shepherd and ministers to all their needs. "God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes" as a mother wipes away a child's tears and he smiles and laughs again. Those who laugh with the world now will not laugh in the new heaven and new earth which God has prepared for His people.

Junior Welfare League Gives Children $2,000

Junior Welfare League has disbursed funds in the amount of $2,024.44 during their 1965-1966 meeting year. This money has been given to several organizations and for varied purposes to benefit the children of Holland in many different ways.

Members of the organization voted at their final business meeting of the season to allocate $50 to the Christian Counseling Service; $100 to the Salvation Army Music Camp; $100 to the YMCA Summer Camp and Day Trip; $65 to the Migrant Center for a sink; $25 to the Community Children's Theater; and $100 to the Hope Church Day Care Center.

Previous donations have amounted to more than $1,100 including $42 for eye examinations and glasses, $61 for layettes, $260 to the special education department, $100 to the Nature Center, $80 to sponsor two students at Girl's State, $25 to the Community Ambassador Fund, and $250 as a gift to Mrs. Hazel Hayes for the purchase of a plug-in phonograph for the children's section of the library.

Members of the Junior Welfare League sponsor the Candy Cane Ball and sell fruitcake and candy annually in order to benefit children through these donations and service projects. This year the Book Fair benefited the Holland special education department.

Profits from the sale of the cookbook, "Et Smakelijk," have been earmarked for a donation to the new pediatric ward of the hospital.

During Tulip Time, members will serve lunches at the Woman's Literary Club to purchase an isolette for the pediatric ward.

It is the continued support of the community that allows the members of Junior League to serve the children of Holland through their donations and many hours of volunteer service.

Tea and Poetry Close Literary Club Season

Eleven past presidents of the Woman's Literary Club joined Mrs. Bryan Athey, current president, in the receiving line in the tearoom Tuesday afternoon, when the club honored the group at the closing meeting of the season.

Gay spring flowers decorated the tea table and smaller tables with a charming hat box filled with jonquils and a branch holding decorated Easter eggs, arranged by Mrs. Leonard Dick.

Past presidents attending in order of their term of office included Mrs. J. H. Den Herder, Mrs. Kenneth V. De Pree, Mrs. George A. Pelgrim, Mrs. John K. Winter, Mrs. Clyde Geerlings, Mrs. Garrett Vander Borgh, Mrs. Bruce G. van Leuwen, Mrs. Alvin D. Bos, Mrs. Clarence Becker, Mrs. Carl Harrington and Mrs. William G. Winter Jr.

Highlight of the afternoon was the program presented by Lesley Frost, daughter of the late Robert Frost, famed New England poet. Miss Frost quoted portions of many poems, some by her father, some by Edna St. Vincent Millay, Carl Sandburg, Emily Dickinson and her own poetry.

Miss Frost, who arrived late after spending the morning at Grand Valley State College, used "Love" as her theme, pointing out the love of flowers, love of nature, love of the arts, love of courage, love of country and love of God, that dominated most of the poetry she recited.

In private life the wife of Dr. Joseph Ballantine, Miss Frost gave a running account of her adventures with books. She owned a book shop in Pittsfield, Mass., and from it operated a bookshop - on - wheels throughout New England.

When the opportunity presented itself to take her books on a round - the - world cruise, she jumped at the chance. She also fulfilled a lifelong ambition to sail on a small sailing ship from Gloucester to Scandinavia. Over and over during her vivid readings of poetry was the urging to start children in reading poetry early and to memorize. After the program which closed with a prayer poem, the author signed copies of her latest children's book, "Really Not Really."

Mrs. Bryan Athey, presided and introduced the guest. She presented corsages to Mrs. William Van de Water, Miss Cornelia Van Voorst and Mrs. Verne C. Hohl of the press and publicity committee of the club.

Announcement was made of the Attic Specials event next Friday, April 15, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the clubhouse.

The double tiered crown of Alencon lace and pearls touched with crystals held her elbow-length veil of imported illusion. She carried a white Bible topped by one long - stemmed Yuletide rose. Completing her bridal ensemble was a diamond pendant, a gift of the groom.

Miss Carol Underhill, as maid of honor, wore a floor-length gown of pink peau de soie with chiffon overskirt falling from an empire waistline. She had a matching capette with bouffant veil. Miss Mary Rosalind Durfee of Lansing, also a roommate of the bride, was gownwed identically. The flower girl, Jean Holland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Holland of Mt. Pleasant, wore a similar dress. The bride's attendants carried nosegays of pink sweetheart roses, pale green fuji mums and white carnations. The flower girl carried a basket filled with pink sweetheart roses.

AT WINDMILL ISLAND — Windmills are nothing new to Dutchmen, but a trio of the Netherlands in Holland over the weekend in connection with a Canadian-United States tour of the NATO Defense College of Paris, found Windmill De Zwaan most impressive and interesting. This imported mill was one of the largest in the Netherlands before it was painstakingly dismantled in Vinkel and restored in its new garden setting.

Dutch Officials Enjoy Visit Here

Holland, Mich., looked just like home to three Dutch officers attached to the NATO Defense College in Paris who chose to spend a two-day rest period in this Dutch-American city instead of Chicago in connection with a 2½-week tour of Canada and the United States.

The visitors were Col. A. H. Schreuders and Lt. Col. J. Miller of the Royal Dutch Army and Felix van Raalte of the Netherlands diplomatic corps.

The setting at Macatawa which the trio visited reminded Col. Schreuders of home near the seashore at Heemstede. "Our dunes are not so high as yours," he said, "but the rolling country and the waterfront are much like the area back home."

All men felt they had benefited substantially from the six-month course at the NATO Defense College which was established in Paris in 1951 at the instigation of Gen. Eisenhower. Purpose of the college is to train key personnel to fill high military and civilian posts in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, or in positions with their own national governments dealing with the NATO alliance.

Col. Schreuders said the work of the defense college is mainly working on problems. The 70 "students" from NATO countries (11 represented in the current session) are assigned to committees which deal with various "problems" and submit committee reports or recommendations. "No minority reports are allowed. The report must be the result of the entire committee and this may involve deep and prolonged study," he said.

Van Raalte said the college approach to problems was quite different from the way the diplomatic corps operates, yet in many ways similar. He said the defense college training has proved most valuable in international relations with NATO countries.

It was the first American visit for the three Dutch officers. The tour started March 20 with spending two days in Lisbon, Portugal, and then on to Americana for visits in Newfoundland, Montreal, Ottawa, Washington, Norfolk, Omaha, Houston and Chicago. From Chicago, the group of some 75 persons will go to St. Louis and then to New York. The tour will end Thursday with a flight back to Paris.

It is one of two tours arranged during the six-month training period. The other is among NATO nations in the European area.

About 1,600 persons have been graduated from the NATO college since its beginning. These courses cover a broad spectrum of political, military, economic and social problems of the world, and particularly the relationships to NATO and its member nations.

While in Holland, the three men visited the Netherlands Museum, Windmill Island, met a number of Dutch-speaking people at a coffee in the mayor's home, and were guests of Bob Hall in a flight over the local area and later at dinner in the Hall home.

Arrangements for the local visit were made by Willard C. Wichers of the Netherlands Information Service, Mayor Nelson Bosman, City Manager Herb Hol, and Ross Giles of the Chamber of Commerce.

Sterenberg hooked his prize five minutes after Mokma lost a 45-minute battle with another trout. Also fishing with the party was Bill De Wya of Holland. Sterenberg said the 30-inch trout was the third one he had on the line. He was using salmon eggs for bait.

Local Men Save Boy in Cave-in At Grand Haven

GRAND HAVEN — A nine-year-old Ferrysburg boy was live and well today, thanks to quick action by a trio of Holland men who late Monday afternoon dug the youngster out of a cave-in inside an abandoned five-foot tile tunnel near Grand River at Construction Aggregates Co. in Ferrysburg.

Peter De Haan, 36, route 4, Eugene Van Liere, 41, of 104 152nd Ave., and Hollis Roels, 39, of 584 Washington Ave., dug through about 20 feet of sand at one end of the 200-foot tunnel to rescue nine-year-old Bryan Schindlbeck of Ferrysburg, who was securely wedged in the sand.

It all happened when Bryan and his six-year-old brother Ryan and another young companion decided to crawl through the abandoned tunnel which formerly had been used for loading gravel. The big pipe which parallels Grand River was filled with sand about four feet deep leaving only a narrow opening for small boys to crawl through.

The boys had entered at one end and Bryan was within 20 feet of the other end when he was caught in a sand slide. The other boys crawled out the other end and approached De Haan who was on the scene helping Roels and Van Liere install a two-way radio system for Construction Aggregates. Roels and Van Liere operate Tele-Rad in Holland.

De Haan called to the other two men and first sought to enter the tunnel from the end the boys had entered, but then decided to start digging from the other end.

De Haan went first, and the three men dug with shovels about two-thirds of the 20-foot distance, and then by hand. Construction Aggregates workers put in an air pipe to provide oxygen. As De Haan dug, the other two men hauled the sand out of the big pipe. De Haan found the boy lying on his stomach, head to one side, securely wedged in the sand. He carefully removed sand to free the body and brought the child out.

By that time, state police had arrived on the scene and there was a waiting ambulance, also the boy's mother. At Municipal Hospital, a check revealed the lad was none the worse for his experience and he was discharged.

The time element was hard to determine. The two boys seeking aid figured the boy was in there "about an hour," likely an exaggerated guess. Digging may have taken 15 to 20 minutes, the Holland men figured.

In 1960, De Haan, then 30 years old, figured in another heroic rescue involving saving a man who had fallen through ice in Muskegon Lake. De Haan was ice fishing with Jack Seidelman, Holland fireman, at the time and the two helped save the man. De Haan later was presented with the Telephone Co. Vail award for bravery at a dinner in Hotel Warm Friend in Holland.

Cereal Spray Program Set In Allegan

ALLEGAN — Six aircraft, to be used in the cereal leaf beetle spraying program covering all of southwestern Michigan starting April 27, will be quartered at Allegan's newly expanded and modernized airport, according to Donald G. White, Regional Supervisor, State Department of Agriculture.

Council Acts For Street Improvements

ZEELAND — City Council Monday night voted to go ahead with drawing up the tax assessment role for improving of Washington Ave.

The council unanimously approved going ahead with this phase of the project. There was some discussion of postponing the project because of the present high cost of construction work.

The proposed improvements call for widening the street six feet on each side, installing storm sewers, curbs and gutters and resurfacing the entire street with blacktop. The project would cover all of Washington Ave. from the old west city limits to Carleton St.

Original estimates for the work were about $170,000.

Half of the cost of the project would be paid through city funds and the other portion would be financed through assessment of property owners along the street.

Herbert Wybenga, service director, told council that about $2,500 to $3,000 has already been spent in preliminary work on the project.

Council can still postpone action on the project after the tax assessment role is drawn up.

In other action, the council voted to appoint Maihofer, Moore and De Long, a Holland accounting firm, to audit the books of the city and the Board of Public Works.

Gilbert Van Hoven, city assessor, reported that the city's assessed valuation for 1966 is $8,784,750. The 1965 assessed valuation was $7,949,400. A total of $551,500 in assessed valuation was added to the city in the annexation of four areas last fall, Van Hoven said.

The assessment role was completed after the finish of the Board of Review session Friday.

Allegan Surgeon Glum On Viet Nam Situation

Dr. Ray C. Smith, a surgeon from Allegan, appeared before members of the Century Club at a dinner meeting Monday at Il Forno in Saugatuck with recent films he took while he was in Viet Nam.

Sent to Viet Nam with the reconstruction program, expecting to remain only 18 months, Dr. and Mrs. Smith and their five children made Saigon their home for six years because no relief surgeon was sent to replace him.

The films showed a beautiful country, over half of which is mountainous. It is a tropical country with high temperatures and heavy rainy seasons. The jungle added to the picturesque qualities of the films.

Dr. Smith surprised his audience by showing modern buildings, hotels, opera houses, palaces, boulevard street lights and homes of French architecture. The country is rich in natural resources, Dr. Smith said, with minerals, forests and fertile lowlands which produce many crops. Water power is available and the rivers are used to flood the rice fields and water the crops.

In his films, the speaker showed city people with lovely satin garments and the mountain people with their copper-colored skin and more primitive mode of living.

The chief industries shown in the films were marketing of rice, fisheries and weaving. Of special interest were the open air markets with attractive arrangement of produce, but infested with flies.

Bears and elephants were filmed by Dr. Smith, who mentioned the abundance of tigers. He also showed the Vietnamese military in their white uniforms, marching, but really not knowing what they are fighting for or with whom.

The U.S. government seems to be progressing in construction work, Dr. Smith said. Muddy roads have been changed to modern highways with the aid of earth movers and caterpillars. Hospitals, schools, airports, churches and public buildings are making Viet Nam a modern country.

Referring to the political situation, Dr. Smith was not very encouraging. He said the South Vietnamese will not cooperate and the Viet Cong are tough fighters. More and more casualties are arising daily. Dr. Smith concluded, on a discouraging note, that he can see no possible solution that will leave the U.S. in a favorable position.

Mrs. John Stryker, newly-elected president, presided. Arrangements for the dinner meeting were made by Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Miles, chairmen, and their committee. The meeting concluded the 1965-66 season of Century Club.

Townsend Mentioned As Judge Candidate

Chester Ray, Allegan attorney, has been mentioned as a candidate for the additional post. Judge Raymond L. Smith who has served the 20th judicial district for 18 years is seeking a fourth six-year term.

Power Failure Not Likely In Holland

Holland is less likely to be affected by a massive power failure like the one in the Northeast last November, Marvin Fink, consulting engineer of Black and Veatch, said this morning.

Fink made the statement in a speech discussing the Holland municipal electrical utility at the Chamber of Commerce early bird breakfast in the Hotel Warm Friend.

Fink explained that Holland is on the edge of the Canada U.S. Eastern Interconnection (CANUSE), the system which connects power utilities throughout New England, New York, parts of Ontario and Michigan. Holland's only connection with the system is through ties with Consumers Power.

Therefore, Fink said, electrical waves, which caused the Northeast power failure would probably be slowed down or depleted by the time they reached Holland's municipal system.

Fink said that electrical power systems are broken down into two basic parts, generation and distribution. He added that the Holland Board of Public Works is working to improve both facilities.

Bids are currently being studied for adding a new generating unit to the James De Young power plant. Preliminary plans call for completing a new generating system capable of producing at least 28,750 kilowatts. The new unit, Fink said, would allow the board to put two older units on a standby or emergency basis. The two older units will be converted from coal to gas or oil for faster firing.

Fink said the power plant expansion would cost between $5 and $5½ million.

The BPW is also seeking to improve the distribution system by a new substation being completed near the Fifth St. plant. This substation which will improve service to the downtown area, Fink said.

Roscoe Giles, executive vice-president of the chamber, presented a certificate of appreciation and an inscribed pen set to Alfred Bransdorfer, city editor of the Holland Evening Sentinel. Bransdorfer is leaving the Sentinel to take the post of managing editor of the Mt. Pleasant Times - News.

Boy Rescued From Hopper

PULLMAN — A 12-year old Fennville boy was rescued from suffocating after he was buried in a railroad car load of granular potash fertilizer about 2:45 p.m. Monday.

South Haven State Police said John Metz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Metz of Fennville, was playing on top of a hopper car filled with the fertilizer at a railroad siding at the Pullman Supply Co. The hoppers at the bottom of the car were opened, and the boy was sucked down into the fertilizer.

John's father, an employee of the firm, heard his son scream, and closed the hoppers. Only the boy's face was partially exposed above the fertilizer.

State police and Metz used their hands and buckets to dig the fertilizer away from John's face.

Two Pullman men, William Wesbe and Edward Blakely, cut a hole in the side of the car with a welder's torch allowing the fertilizer to flow out. This relieved the pressure on the youth's body, and he was pulled up out of the fertilizer. State police said John suffered only minor skin burns from the potash. He was treated by a Saugatuck physician.

The two had not met until Grond's weekend visit. Grond is on a business trip visiting plants throughout the United States for Cullinan Refractories Ltd., of Pretoria where he is a basic plant manager. Following his tour here he will visit England and The Netherlands, his native land. Now a South African citizen, Grond along with Vinstra also visited attractions pointing out Holland's Dutch heritage.
