Sees Better Use of Lake Property

Chamber Asks State To Block Prison Funds

The Holland Chamber of Commerce has urged the state legislature and Gov. William G. Milliken to refuse appropriations for the state to buy and build a prison at the St. Augustine Seminary property in Laketown Township.

The chamber directors Friday issued a resolution that "encourages" the appropriations committees of the House and Senate and Gov. Milliken to "refuse the appropriations to buy and build" a prison on the 600-acre Lake Michigan seminary property.

"The chamber is of the opinion that the St. Augustine Seminary property could be put to better use for all the people of Michigan and particularly those in the immediate area," the resolution stated.

The chamber board said the prison would be in an area where the board felt "the majority of the people of that area do not want the facility."

The board also claimed the prison is desired in other areas of the state, that there are locations which can handle the rehabilitation of prisoners, that the prison in Allegan county would put three prisons within a 60 mile radius of Holland and that it doesn't appear the prison would be compatible with the tourist industry which represents a sizable portion of the commerce in the area.

Windshields on vehicles in two car lots were damaged by BB guns during the weekend with total loss at more than $5,000 and authorities appealed for information from residents that could lead to the arrests of those responsible.

Holland police said damage was estimated at $4,000 at R.E. Barber Inc., Eighth St. and the U.S. 31 bypass, where at least 22 vehicles had windows damaged by BBs.

Ottawa County deputies said 13 vehicles at Key Cars, 11024 Chicago Dr., had windshields damaged with a loss estimated at $1,430.

Authorities believed those responsible were traveling in cars. The vandalism is the latest in a series of reports received by police in recent days.

A reward through Silent Observer was being prepared for information leading to the arrest and conviction of persons responsible for the vandalism.

Two Seek West Ottawa Board Posts

Two candidates for the two West Ottawa School board of education vacancies have returned petitions to the administrative offices.

John Getz, 185 Oakwood, and Wayne Pymmonen, 15125 Tyler, West Olive, have filed petitions for the annual June 12 election.

The four year terms of Don Ladewig and Louis Van Slooten expire in June. Ladewig indicated at the March board of education meeting his intention not to seek re-election to a third term. Van Slooten has not publicly stated his intention to seek re-election to a third term.

Deadline for filing petitions for school board members is 4 p.m. April 11. To qualify a candidate must have not less than 20 signatures of qualified electors in the West Ottawa District.

On Tuesday the West Ottawa Board of Education has scheduled a special millage election seeking renewal of 20.4 mills approved by voters last year. The millage issue will be the only question on the April 12 ballot.

Urged to Alert Jimmy to Telegram

Miss Lillian's Help Sought in Prison Battle

SAUGATUCK — The President's mother, Lillian Carter, has been asked to help in a campaign to prevent the state from locating a prison in Allegan county.

A four-column, two-inch ad was bought in the Americus, Ga., Times Recorder for $14.80 and paid for by Del Clark, a member of the Prison Action Committee of Saugatuck - Holland.

The paper is the nearest daily paper to Mrs. Carter's home in Plains, Ga.

The ad said: "Miss Lillian... We need your help. Please ask your son, Jimmy, to read a Mailgram we sent to his office March 25." It was signed by the Prison Action Committee.

In the Mailgram, committee members told President Carter: "We did not support you in the national election, but we have been attracted by your openness to the problems of little folk and your wish that government move by the advice and consent of its citizens."

"Surely there must be an agency or a fund that can help us save our lakeshore area."

PAC and others are opposed to converting the 600-acre St. Augustine Seminary property in Laketown township into prison housing 400 inmates.

Bike Paths Sought For Zeeland Area

ZEELAND — City Council Monday tabled a proposal for a bicycle - pedestrian pathway on the south side of Roosevelt Ave. from the Zeeland Middle and Roosevelt schools to Michigan St. for additional study.

The estimated cost of the pathway was $3,150 with a possible one quarter being funded under an Ottawa County Board of Commissioners matching grant program.

With the pathway, student traffic would be shifted southward toward McKinley Ave. in an attempt to remove student traffic on Roosevelt.

Council scheduled a public hearing May 2 at 6:30 p.m. on a request from O.A.K. Gymnastics of Zeeland to alter a zoning ordinance in an industrial area to allow a private gymnastics club in a building at Elm and Washington.

A hearing is scheduled at the same time for zoning ordinance amendment to allow "Cape Cod" style dwellings in one-family residential areas. Such styled homes have less than the minimum square footage living area required by the ordinance.

Council denied a request to rezone property on Madison St. and asked the petitioner to seek rezoning for a larger area. Council feared spot zoning for a two-family residential area.

April 25 to May 2 was designated as "Spring Clean-Up Week" in Zeeland and city crews will pick up yard debris placed in plastic bags and set at the curb.

Two Seeking Local School Board Posts

Two candidates for the two vacancies on the Holland Board of Education at the annual election June 12 have been filed to date with the school administration office.

One is for Dr. A. James Prins who is seeking reelection to a third four-year term. A faculty member at Hope College, he first ran in 1969.

A newcomer is William Coupe, local attorney living at 606 West 27th St. Coupe has conducted a law practice in the local area for several years and at one time was deputy city attorney. He spurred an investigation into law fees incurred by the local school board in connection with a sewer project at the new high school athletic field.

Katherine MacKenzie who has been a board member for nine years is not seeking reelection.

The Holland board also has scheduled a special election April 12 on voting on levying 19.7 mills for three years for special operations.

Deadline for filing petitions for school board members is 4 p.m. April 11. To qualify, a candidate must have not less than 50 signatures of qualified electors in the Holland school district.

Rep. Schroeder Keynotes Assembly on Women

Urge Economic Equality

By Ann Hungerford

Focusing on herself as an example of women's inability to accept and cope with their own success, Rep. Pat Schroeder urged a reappraisal of attitudes within Congress and the country toward women.

Mrs. Schroeder keynoted the Michigan Assembly "Women and the American Economy" being held this weekend at Point West.

Elected for a third term, the Colorado Democrat described her own dismay and reluctance following her victory in a contest she had been assured by husband, friends and political officials she would not win.

Even with all she's already accomplished (pilot, Harvard Law School, and speaking Chinese), she still didn't believe she could do that job, she explained.

But I came through all that, the mother of two said and "nothing came apart. I hired a housekeeper who got food on the table and the children didn't really care who sorted their socks."

Society presents subliminal messages to women such as don't "wrinkle" too much and "men age but women rot."

Allowing herself one generalization during the evening she alleged that men as a group single out to discipline men who are weak to strengthen them. Women as a group single out to discipline women who are strong to weaken them.

In this society women are safer in the streets than at home, she said, citing statistics and implications of the battered wife.

Underlining the reasons that women are the fastest growing poverty group in this country she listed social security which impacts on women twice as hard as men because they live longer, the epidemic of teenage pregnancies, and single women as heads of households.

"It's realistic to say that a woman gets child support only if her husband wants to pay. She has no money to enforce the decree."

In order to offset the women's negative economic impact Mrs. Schroeder proposes Congress and the country study jobs (women average only 60 per cent of what men make) including pregnancy disability, tax discrimination against women, the "marriage penalty tax," treating women's jobs as frills, and day care problems emphasizing that it's cheaper to subsidize day care than put a whole family on welfare.

"We have such a wonderful Congress," Mrs. Schroeder taunted, "that's it's no wonder we are, where we are."

Condemning House leaders Reps. Thomas O'Neill and John Rhodes for their dual standards and recent action in firing a woman specifically to replace her with a man, the Colorado Congresswoman flailed Congress for its attempt to remain immune to civil rights.

Mrs. Schroeder and some of her colleagues have filed a countersuit. "How can we expect everyone to clean up their act when Congress doesn't?"

"Women are the most under-represented portion of the economy," Mrs. Schroeder charged. Only 18 of the 435 members of the House are women and no women are seated in the Senate. "A stag senate means stagnation," the Phi Beta Kappa argued.

"We have to deal with working women in a serious manner because they eat and eating costs money," she concluded.

During a question and answer session, the representative commented on the new ethics code saying the old one was fine too but there is no enforcement. "The practice seems to be," she said, "that if Congress stalls long enough, everyone will forget and another issue will come along."

Explaining why women don't enter congressional races Mrs. Schroeder estimated that the entrance fee is $1 million for the Senate and $250,000 for the House.

Women are usually not into fund raising at that level. Her own average donation was $7.50. "We had to have so many people involved," she said.

To gain the best media coverage most candidates speak at men's luncheon clubs where speakers are traditionally covered.

"I was told so many times that I was the first woman to attend or the first woman to speak, I felt I should have popped out of a cake."

Seven Inches During March

Holland's Snowfall Reaches 113 Inches

Another seven inches of snow during March has boosted the 1976 - 77 snowfall to 113.65 inches, records maintained by Weather Observer Glen Timmer revealed today.

Snowfall listed 21.5 inches in November, 29.25 inches in December, 47 inches in a cold and stormy January, and 8.9 inches in February.

Last year's total was 78.87 inches and the 1974 - 75 total 58.8 inches. The record was 159.4 inches in 1969 - 70. The current total marks the 16th time Holland has received 100 inches or more of snow since records were kept in 1906.

Snow had covered the ground in Holland continuously from Nov. 29 until March 9 when "patchy" snow was noted for two days. A warming trend the last week in March finally reduced snow piles in parking lots.

A 4.5 inch snowfall March 18 was the first snow in March. Two days later 2.5 inches fell.

Maximum was 71 degree March 12 and the minimum was 8 above zero March 1.

Maximum for every day in March was above freezing. Minimums listed 15 days below freezing.

Hail fell on three occasions March 12, 29 and 30. Thunder and fog were noted on several occasions. A thunderstorm watch was in effect March 29.

Precipitation which fell on 13 days totaled 3.30 inches.

Heaviest precipitation in a 24-hour period was 1 inch March 29.

Up to $14 Million, Early Birds Told

Oil Spill Cleanup Can Be Expensive

By Cornelia Van Voorst

"If you spill oil, you are responsible for the cleanup."

That was the primary message of Lt. Commander Karl A. Luck of the Muskegon Coast Guard in an address to Chamber of Commerce Early Birds this morning in Warm Friend Motor Inn.

And cleanups can be expensive, he added. A Congressional Act limits liability at $14 million per major tanker spill and $8 million inland.

Cmdr. Luck explained that the first water pollution laws were passed by Congress in 1899, not as a pollution control but as a rivers and harbors act dealing with navigable waters. It was passed mainly to control the dumping of ashes from coal-fired ships in Boston harbor, and it ruled there be no discharges in navigable waters other than raw sewage.

In 1972 Congress amended this act putting teeth in the law known as the Federal Water Pollution Control Act (FWPCA) with enforcement by the Coast Guard on navigable waters and the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) inland.

As for oil spills from Liberian tankers, Luck said a new law goes into effect June 1, 1977, which requires specific equipment aboard ships. It, of course, controls only U. S. ships but this extends to foreign vessels in U. S. territorial waters and the cleanup penalty remains at a maximum $14 million per spill.

Luck said the Coast Guard has strike forces on both coasts and the gulf, and these are prepared to go immediately to a major catastrophe.

Luck also spoke of contingency planning. While the local Coast Guard station with its complement of 17 men is primarily for search and rescue, the program includes inspections of marinas, bulk oil facilities, marshes and boat launches. Potential high risk areas are reviewed and public meetings are held.

In general, pollution laws are not set up for easy enforcement and U. S. attorneys usually are too busy with criminal cases to get excited over throwing a tin can into a lake, Luck said. Convictions in cases reported by citizens result in half the fine going to the complainant. One New York college student worked his way through college by riding herd on polluters.

Woman Saves Boy, Drowns in Pond

Cynthia Stevenson, 19, of 5173 136th Ave., Olive Township, drowned Saturday at 3:58 p.m. in a pond at the rear of her home while pulling a youngster from the water after he fell from a raft.

Ottawa county deputies said Cynthia herself was pulled from the water by her brother, Rodney, 11.

Deputies said a five-year-old boy, whose name was not immediately confirmed by deputies, apparently fell from a raft into the water and Cynthia ran to his aid. She dove into the water and pulled the boy to the raft before she went under the surface.

Rodney went into the pond after his sister and brought her to shore about 15 minutes later, deputies said. Deputies and the E unit responded to the call.

The body was taken to the Arnold Funeral chapel in Muskegon Heights.

A native of Muskegon, Miss Stevenson moved to Ottawa County in 1973 and attended

Talks By Telephone to Mrs. Herb Kammeraad

Milliken Calls Resident

SAUGATUCK — Gov. William G. Milliken, who visited the St. Augustine Seminary property in Laketown Township Thursday morning, proposed for a state park, called an area resident later in the day and talked with her by telephone for 20 minutes.

Mrs. Herb Kammeraad said the person - to - person call reached her at the Prison Action Committee office at about 2:30 p.m. Thursday.

"He gave me some figures on prison population and the need for more facilities and then I told him how I felt about the prison," Mrs. Kammeraad said today.

She said her objections were based on land use of the Lake Michigan property and that if a state park was developed with the prison she believed local residents would not want to use the park.

"We talked about the closing of Kincheloe Air Force Base and he said it would be vacant by June or July and that a study would have to be made of the buildings and renovation would be necessary for prison use," Mrs. Kammeraad said.

She said the governor referred to medium security facilities in his conversation about the St. Augustine site and she asked if minimum security facilities were being eliminated.

"He said the latest news would be only a medium security prison but he could not guarantee what future administrations would do," Mrs. Kammeraad added.

Milliken spent one hour with aides touring the St. Augustine property and talked with some residents of the area before leaving Holland. He flew into Tulip City Airport and left before noon.

Bruinsma in Netherlands
When it comes to basketball, Sid Bruinsma can shoot a straw through a knothole in a crosswind.

The former Holland Christian product and Grand Valley State College star, left last Friday for a two-week journey to The Netherlands.

In The Netherlands, Bruinsma will be showing European League basketball officials what he does best, play tough.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Bruinsma of 40 West 37th St. would have liked him to attend Calvin College. But Sid said he made his own decision in attending GVSC.

In chatting about Calvin, Bruinsma felt that he wouldn't have been given the opportunity to start as a freshman.

"It was obvious that they were going to build their team around a phone call from Ralph Honderd, Calvin's coach."

Bruinsma chose the Lakers over many other colleges because of the fine competition offered in the GLIAC.

"I don't like the style of play in the MIAA and it's very obvious to most everyone that the GLIAC brand of ball is much stronger," stated Sid, who is on a full ride scholarship and hasn't paid a penny to the school for the past three years.

The Lakers are believed to be the first state team to ever win 30 games or more in a season. However, it must be pointed out that Calvin pinned one of the four defeats on GVSC.

"I hate to lose any time and especially to Calvin," Bruinsma commented. "The officials just took the game away from us. We definitely got robbed, as Coach Villeneuve told everyone recently at our winter banquet."

Bruinsma and Paul Peterman led the Lakers to a fourth place finish in the recent NAIA tournament in Kansas City. Tall Sid netted 17 of 18 free throws and shot 34 of 82 from the field. He was the top total rebounder for the tourney with 68 and scored 85 points for a 17.0 average.

Zeeland Hospital births include a son, Ryan James, who was born April 4, to Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Vander Kooi of West Olive and a son, Kieran Shane, born April 5, to Mr. and Mrs. Hilton Dozeman of Hudsonville.

defense and put the ball in the hoop.

"They consider it a tryout but I consider it a vacation," Bruinsma offered.

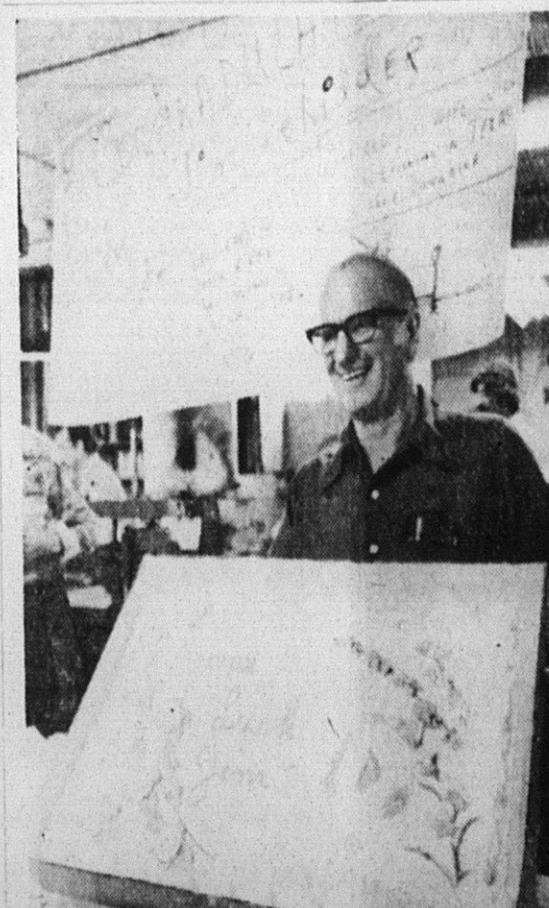

Bruinsma indicated that he would rather make the grade in the NBA.

"I can always develop my game in Europe," stated Bruinsma. "Actually if I don't make it, I have many other options going for me." He is majoring in business at GVSC and expects to graduate sometime this year.

Bruinsma established a single season rebound record of 423 and scored 584 points for a 17.1 average in 1976-77 for the Lakers. With those totals, the 6'7" Bruinsma moved into second place in both career scoring and rebounding.

He closed out his brilliant four-year career at GVSC with 1,487 points and 1,117 rebounds. Sid also led the Lakers in most blocked shots (40), most steals (66) and most games played in a career (121).

One of the reasons that Bruinsma attended Grand Valley, was Coach Tom Villeneuve said he would get a crack at starting as a freshman if he was good enough.

Holland World Vinegar Capital

Vinegar is one of the oldest food products known to man. And Holland, Mich., produces more vinegar than any other factory in the world at the local H. J. Heinz plant. The Holland complex built for vinegar and pickle production is the third largest of all Heinz plants.

Vinegar — from the French "vinaigre," "vin" for wine, "aigre" meaning sour — really dates back to 5000 B. C. when Babylonians produced wine from the date palm and "spoiled wine" was a byproduct. The art of wine making, itself, was already 2,000 years old.

From the Babylonians and Aryans to the Phoenicians, "soured wine" passed on the Greek and Roman empires.

Hippocrates used vinegar as a medicine. The Romans purified their drinking water by adding wine vinegar. Pliny, the Roman historian, noted that Cleopatra once dissolved pearls in vinegar to win a bet with Marc Antony that "she would consume at a single meal the value of a million sesterces (ancient Roman coin)."

By 1000 B. C., orientals in the Middle East were adding special spices (tarragon, lavender, mint, celery and saffron) to improve taste and preserving qualities.

During the U. S. Civil War, vinegar was used to prevent an attack of scurvy among soldiers. It was used to treat wounds in World War I.

In the 1870s, Heinz manufactured a high quality vinegar to preserve the appearance and flavor of his pickles. The company soon realized the need for a bottled vinegar and became the first to market vinegar in individual bottles for home use.

Vinegar makers still employ the same principles used by the Babylonians, but instead of using the date palm as the source, Heinz uses fruits and grains, and today produces 39 per cent of all bottled vinegars produced locally.

Distilled white vinegar — made from corn that has been distilled to alcohol, has a mellow aroma and crystal clear color, used in pickling and lends a delicate flavor to pickled products.

Apple cider vinegar — produced from fermented apple juice, good choice for salads and pickling lending a fruity flavor to other ingredients.

Apple flavored distilled vinegar — made by the addition of a natural apple flavoring to grain-based distilled white vinegar, achieving a distinctive fruit flavor and amber color.

Wine vinegar — oldest in history using select table wine. Burgundy grapes give a rich, vibrant color and flavor adding a robust taste to oil and vinegar salad dressings.

Garlic flavored wine vinegar — in which the same Burgundy wine is subtly seasoned with garlic flavoring, a zesty sauce ingredient for antipastos, cold meats, salads and marinating.

Malt vinegar — made from choice barley fermented in a malt "beer" used mainly on seafood dishes like fish and chips or on meat, macaroni and bean salads.

Salad vinegar — made from a special mixture of malt, distilled white and Rex Amber vinegars (Rex Amber is made of corn sugar and molasses).

Tarragon flavored vinegar — blend of distilled and fermented table vinegars to which spicy tarragon is added (an herb with a bittersweet flavor and an anise aroma) goes well with salads of greens, meats, eggs or fish.

A Fond Farewell for WAB

Now that The Holland Sentinel has changed ownership and become a part of Stauffer Publications Inc. of Topeka, Kan., local employees, particularly longtimers, are catching their breath and thinking of past, present and future in perspective.

And this includes a fond farewell to W.A. Butler who has been with The Sentinel since 1934, first as business manager and then as editor-publisher with the death of C.A. French in 1948. The latter had acquired the local newspaper in 1927, and last week's sale ends a 50-year-era of French family ownership.

The goodbye also includes Mrs. Butler, the former Dorothy French, whose interest in the welfare of Sentinel employees has been greatly appreciated through the years.

Only those people who know W.A. Butler well can appreciate his generosity and his vision over more than 40 years of Sentinel association. He was often ahead of his time in a town of Dutch Americans often blessed with better hindsight than foresight, and The Sentinel, admittedly a small newspaper, often was in the forefront of exciting new improvements.

Equipment in packing cases already had been delivered at the time Reader's Digest came out with an exciting story about automated typesetting. The Sentinel was among the first newspapers using perforated tape on their Mergenthaler Linotype machines.

And when United Press International came out with a new facsimile machine which transmitted news pictures line by line, again the Sentinel was among the first to have one installed.

WAB is a great Tulip Time booster and served on the Tulip Time board many years, several of them as president. He hosted several luncheons on Press Day in the early 50s. That was the period when the press was invited a day early to Tulip Time for a festival preview. It provided a great opportunity to photograph beautiful tulips and pretty klompen dancers at leisure, and have copy ready for the first day of the festival.

When radio station WHTC was organized late in the 40s, WAB was one of the six partners. Installations in the newsroom brought Sentinel broadcasts direct from the scene of action.

WAB was one of the earliest businessmen in Holland to provide air conditioning in his offices . . . not only in the newsroom and advertising areas but in the entire composing room and press operation. It is believed that The Sentinel was the first composing room to be air conditioned in the 1930s.

Sometime later WAB pioneered in providing color in the composing room.

"Why do linotype machines have to be black?" he asked. Nobody had a good answer. They always had been black.

WAB had the machines painted green with touches of red and buff. The result was electrifying. There were even visitors from foreign countries.

Some younger employees thought longtimers were exaggerating about the painted machines. It was only when youthful employees visited other plants whose pressrooms looked like the "Black Hole of Calcutta" that proper appreciation was reached.

Not too many years later, modern design reached other pressrooms, and new plants made this operation a showplace, often putting in glass walls so that the public could see the presses in action.

When WAB ordered a new Goss Press in the 1950s and specified green, it was the first painted press the company produced. It wasn't long before color (often wild) invaded the entire machine industry. Bright orange was particularly popular.

In the mid-50s, WAB along with several members of the Michigan Press Association launched an ambitious program whereby foreign students with a journalistic bent would be awarded two-year scholarships, the first year at the University of Michigan and the second year at four Michigan newspapers, three months at a time.

Allowing a little time for travel, the two-year program was designed to give the foreign journalist a clear view of America, Michigan in particular, and then return home with a clearer concept of American living, hence the ability to interpret more accurately what was really happening in the United States.

The program had its ups and downs, some foreign students having traumatic experiences in the fast-moving American pace. But when it was all over, Prof. Wesley Maurer of the University of Michigan, coordinator and prime mover of the ambitious program, made a trip around the world to visit his students in home settings. "The program succeeded beyond my wildest dreams," he concluded.

Countries represented at The Sentinel during this period were Austria, the Netherlands, Egypt, Pakistan, India, Korea and Finland.

Despite what some people regarded as personality flaws, WAB has a position of influence in his adopted town of Holland. People might criticize the Sentinel's seemingly weak editorial policy, but The Sentinel prospered.

Some discerning employees saw this weak editorial policy as one of reverse psychology. By declining to be a strong voice, the Sentinel encouraged local citizens to dream dreams, suggest improvements, and helped promote many a good idea.

And when all was done, The Sentinel praised the originator. After all, who cares who gets the credit when Holland benefits . . . certainly, The Sentinel didn't. It can only be speculated on how much good the "weak editorial policy" of The Sentinel really accomplished.

Without spelling it out, WAB followed a policy set forth by the late C.A. French who determinedly put the dollar sign ahead of the service aspect. A newspaper must be economically sound to do the right job, he maintained. It's a business first, a service second. A struggling newspaper could easily become prey to private interests, the advertiser, etc.

Keeping Holland clean was (and still is) an obsession with WAB. It is not beneath his dignity to pick up scraps of paper or debris on downtown sidewalks and deposit same in his own wastebasket or in the trash baskets.

Timely editorials reminded Sentinel readers to keep streets and yards clean.

How much of Holland's cleanliness is attributable to these editorials is debatable, but those taking Holland for granted have only to visit other cities to be reminded of this facet of civic pride.

WAB is always acutely uncomfortable when anybody tries to thank him for many, many generous deeds. Keeping his generous deeds secret is something of an obsession with him and his contributions to the Greater Holland Foundation, Hope College, Holland Hospital (to mention some) are known only to a few.

And it is a fair assumption that if he were running

The Sentinel today, a thank-you like this would never appear.

Thanks for everything, Mr. Butler, and may you enjoy your years of retirement. Let us hope the best is yet to come. Like Abraham Lincoln, "we bid you an affectionate farewell."

WAB's concern for clean walks is in keeping with his lifelong interests in conservation — a concern long before conservation and clean streams became an issue more than a decade ago. His influence was felt during a term he served on the Michigan Conservation Commission in the late 1940s, now the Department of Natural Resources.

Spring Styles Delight WLC at Final Meeting

By Cornelia Van Voorst
Woman's Literary Club members were treated to a preview of spring and summer fashions of the Dutchess Shop of Zeeland at its closing meeting of the season Tuesday afternoon in the clubhouse.

The event also honored past presidents of the club who formed receiving lines at the tea that followed in the downstairs tea room.

Narrated by Evie Van Dorp of the Dutchess Shop, the style show featured down-to-earth garments of the more casual type, garments to which club members could easily relate.

There was a large number of spring coats, sportswear, rainwear, double knits, pantsuits, separates, nightwear, jump suits, coordinates, mix and match, and even a swim suit. Yellow and green proved predominating colors, particularly welcome on a snowy day.

Mrs. Van Dorp emphasized that "as women we have the freedom to wear what we want and we buy the clothes that please us. We no longer are tied to Paris fashions."

Models were Mrs. Ed Wagenfeld, Mrs. Robert Saunders, Mrs. Don Rietman, Mrs. Harlan Sprik, Mrs. Henry Hekman, Mrs. Lloyd Ver Hage and Mrs. Robert Kuiper.

Mrs. Paul de Kruif, chairman of the current affairs committee, spoke of proposals to use the St. Augustine Seminary as a prison camp and, speaking for the club board of directors, urged members to become fully informed of all issues, stay informed, and then write the governor.

Copies of annual reports were available, and club members were asked to volunteer services during Tulip Time and to serve as hostesses for the Parade of Homes.

The membership overwhelmingly approved an amendment to the constitution calling for all past presidents to meet each year to study long range projects, encourage funds, and to submit in writing recommended projects to benefit the club.

Mrs. Harlan Sprik, club vice president, bade the club farewell until next Oct. 4.

A Student's Day Is Strenuous for Mom

By Ann Hungerford

Mrs. Fred Grunst now knows how her ninth grade daughter, Pat, retains her slender form. Wednesday, she as well as several other mothers and fathers sampled vigorous exercise taken in stride by their youngsters as they scamper from building to building and third floor to third floor at E. E. Fell.

Debbie Fike concurred. It wasn't the Algebra or Latin that stumped her mother. It was the stairs.

Mrs. Harold Dirkse particularly enjoyed competing with daughter Jan's classmates on a vocabulary test. And Mrs. Dirkse, nurse at Holland Hospital, did better than hold her own. She often won.

Earlier in the week Jane accompanied her mother on the 4 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. shift at the hospital, and assisted with tending up around patients' rooms.

According to one student the express purpose Wednesday was for parents to see "we have hard days too."

Encouraging children to accompany their parents during one work day has been a practice at E. E. Fell for several years but this year for the first time youngsters were prodded to bring their parents to school.

Turnout of parents for the project wasn't as numerically successful as school officials had hoped but for those attending, the day was a unique experience.

In contrasting junior high today with her own youth Mrs. Dirkse noted that "the students have more freedom now. Then they were more strict with talking. And that's not bad. The students are more relaxed, more comfortable."

Mrs. Fike explained that the experiment in education "re-affirmed my impression. I'm impressed with the teachers. They are so creative."

Mrs. Grunst was particularly pleased with the career education course, the stimulus to parents playing the roles of students. "The response from the students was so good," she emphasized.

Relating a story about one of her friends, Pat Grunst said the girl accompanied her mother to work at a local boat manufacturer.

"After seeing how hard her mother worked with building up the fiberglass, she really feels guilty asking for any money. She really learned something," Pat said.

More than one junior high school student learned something about work last week.

Carousel to Begin First Development in Summer

By Paul Van Kolken
Initial land development at Carousel Mountain in Laketown township leading to a projected 1,200 dwelling units was scheduled to begin this summer.

Dave Froberg, president of Commercial Marketing & Management Consultants, Inc., Chicago, said the first site work would involve 59 platted lots at the dead end of 147th Ave. near Lake Michigan west of the existing ski slopes.

An additional 34 homesites north of 147th Ave. and 68th St. was expected to be developed later in the year.

The $1.5 million project includes installation of streets, curbs, water mains and street lights. Completion was expected by mid summer in the lake area with home construction to begin immediately.

The existing Carousel Mountain lodge, scene of wedding receptions, parties and dances, is being closed to public uses, Froberg said, and will be renovated for use by Carousel property owners and residents.

The $100,000 facelift includes additions for a health club and tennis.

Whether the clubhouse and ski areas will be open for public uses is a decision left to the Carousel property owners who become part owners in the lodge, ski slopes and other so called open areas in the development, Froberg added.

Site development work for the homesites includes installation of water mains in 66th St. to 32nd St. and a connection with Holland municipal water supplies crossing Lake Macatawa from the north in a pipeline scheduled for construction this summer.

The homesites, Froberg said, will vary in size from one-third of an acre to a full acre.

Final approval for development of the 300 acre site roughly west of 66th St. and south from Macatawa Park to 146th Ave. was given by the Laketown township board June 11, 1975.

The board stipulated that development be limited to 200 dwelling units until a public sewer system was installed. A public water system was required before any of the dwelling units could be occupied.

Development was limited to 1,200 dwelling units including single family homes and multi family condominiums.

A proposal to develop the Carousel Mountain area dates back to early 1973 when Froberg's firm submitted plans for 1,881 dwelling units and launched a series of public hearings and modifications to the original proposal.

Contracts Awarded For Fire Station

Contracts for Holland's new fire station at Kollen Park Dr. between 11th and 12th Sts. were awarded by City Council Wednesday and construction was expected to begin as soon as possible.

Funds for the project were included in a federal grant of $559,295 and the station will replace the downtown station on east Eighth St.

General contractor is Highland Construction Co. with a low bid of $424,400 while the total project including mechanical work, electrical, electronic and landscaping was set at $552,304.39.

City manager Terry L. Hofmeyer said the federal grant did not cover the total $604,135.19 in low bids for various projects and a number of deductive and voluntary alternates were provided in bid specifications.

The amount designated for furnishings was deducted from the recommended contract award. The city will seek permission from the federal government to use any funds remaining at the completion of the fire station for furnishings.

Additional city funding is expected, Hofmeyer said.

Subcontractors include Warm Friend Contractors, Northshore Electric, Audio Distributors, Landscape Design Service, Ottagan Plumbing and Motorola.

Second Step Of Waste Treatment Planning Funded

Federal funding for construction drawings and specifications leading to an area - wide waste water treatment facility has been awarded to Holland.

The $524,850 grant is for step II of a three - phase program that involves expansion of the treatment plant and installation of sewer mains around Lake Macatawa in Holland, Park and Laketown townships as well as expansion of sewer lines in Holland city.

Drawings and specifications for the project are to be submitted to the state Water Resources Commission by Aug. 31 for approval before an offer to apply for a construction grant may be made.

The latest grant was made through the Environmental Protection Agency to the Holland Board of Public Works, the lead agency for the project.

An earlier grant covered costs for planning the area-wide system.

Milliken, Officials Talk Prison

LANSING — Gov. William G. Milliken assured Holland area officials he would notify them of his recommendations concerning a proposed prison in Allegan County before he makes the recommendation to the legislature later this month.

Milliken met with a delegation from the Holland and Saugatuck - Douglas areas in his office Wednesday afternoon to discuss views on prison plans for the St. Augustine Seminary property in Laketown Township.

The seminary plans to vacate the facilities this year and the 600 acre Lake Michigan property has been proposed for prison uses.

Holland mayor Louis Hallacy, who acted as a spokesman for the delegation, said today the governor assured him that four or five sites were under consideration for prison uses and that Holland residents would be told of the recommendation before action was taken.

Hallacy said Milliken told them St. Augustine, Northville, a Hudson's store warehouse in Detroit, Kinchelee Air Force Base and one other site were under consideration and indicated that as many as four sites would be recommended for prison facilities.

Hallacy said the local delegation objected to the St. Augustine site because it would be a poor use of the lake shore land.

"This is a terrible use for that piece of property," Hallacy said. "We need more lakefront property for recreation. This proposal is just not good land use."

"I'm not saying it will effect the tourism. I'm saying we can not afford to take the gamble," Hallacy added.

Milliken pledged the St. Augustine Seminary would be a medium security prison if the site was chosen. Original plans called for a minimum security section.

"If the decision were made to go there and if the legislature in the end supported this effort I would under no circumstances authorize a minimum security prison," Milliken said.

"There would be no movement in and out by prisoners," he continued. "It would only be a medium security prison. It would not be a facility where people would be going in and out and working outside the prison. That would be a clear understanding."

Milliken said he has instructed the corrections department to conduct an intensive look at all potential sites before a decision is made.

"I understand your feelings and concerns," Milliken told the group. "I don't know finally, what we will do."

Milliken said the state prisons are overcrowded. The capacity is 11,700 and now there are 13,000 prisoners and the governor said projections place that figure at 14,000 by the end of the year.

"We've got a situation that could literally blow up in our face overnight," he said.

In addition to Hallacy those attending the meeting were Walter Bray Jr., Allegan County Commissioner; Glenn Slenk, Laketown Township Supervisor; Ralph Cartwright, Saugatuck Township Supervisor; Herb Kammeraad, a member of Prison Action Committee; Phil Quade, Coordinator for PAC; William Shepherd, Douglas Village President and James Christenson, Saugatuck Village President.

City Council Operating Under 'Sunshine' Law

City Council is operating under changes in keeping with Act 267 of the Michigan Public Acts of 1976 known as the Sunshine Law which requires meetings to be open to the public.

New ordinances were introduced Wednesday night and final action will be taken in two weeks.

Starting with May, Council meetings will start at 7 p.m. instead of 7:30 p.m. Informal discussions are scheduled at 6:30 p.m. open to the public. Four persons were present at the first informal session Wednesday.

The new arrangement in addition to regular and special meetings allows study sessions for the purpose of deliberating towards a decision on any matter. These study sessions will be open to the public and will comply with posting requirements. Decisions as a result of study session deliberations will be made only at subsequent regular or special meetings.

Minutes of study sessions will be kept in accordance with provisions of state law and city charter.

Closed sessions of Council may be held at any time in accordance with Act 267, notwithstanding any council rule to the contrary. It has been traditional to have labor negotiations, personnel subjects and real estate purchases in executive session.

The city clerk or deputy clerk will post public notice in City Hall of all council meetings as required by law.

Variety Of Items Face Council

A variety of subjects, many of them minor, confronted City Council at its regular meeting Wednesday.

Council confirmed a settlement on valuation for the local H. J. Heinz Co. which had filed appeals in 1975 and 1976 with the Michigan Tax Tribunal protesting value placed upon its real property.

During the 1977 Board of Review sessions, Heinz Co. representatives met with the city assessor and city attorney and a settlement was reached with Board of Review concurrence placing State Equalized Valuation at $1.8 million. The city's share of overpayments in the amount of $20,000 will be paid following approval by the Michigan Tax Tribunal.

Accepted as information was a city manager report on a recent request of Holiday Inn of Holland for the city to establish an economic development corporation for the purpose of selling tax exempt bonds to finance expanded or new commercial and industrial facilities. Such a move would require articles of incorporation before public hearings could be held.

Council granted a request of Holland Downtown Merchants Association to close Eighth St. to traffic between River and College Aves. Friday and Saturday, April 29-30 for an auto show put on by the Holland New Car Dealers Association.

A 20-foot wide lane must be kept unrestricted at all times for emergency vehicle access. Council Member Bea Westrate asked for a parking policy for such functions as sidewalk sales and art shows in Centennial Park put on by the Friends of Art.

A recommendation for parallel parking on the south side of 21st St. west of Plasman Ave. for 200 feet was tabled until next Council meeting.

Unanimously approved were two requests from contractors assigned to the spoils disposal project in Holland.

Also tabled for two weeks was a city manager recommendation removing parking for two spaces on the west side of Columbia Ave. immediately south of Ninth St. This is in response to difficulties experienced by truck drivers making right turns onto Columbia from Ninth.

Mayor Lou Hallacy called attention to several vacancies on city boards and commissions and asked persons interested in such appointments to contact him or council members in writing. Vacancies include two appointments to the Human Relations Commission, one to the Board of Appeals, one to the Greater Holland Planning Commission and two to the advisory board of the De Graaf

City Council Busy With Big Agenda

Dissenting votes were cast by Bea Westrate and Al Kleis Jr. Action was delayed at the last meeting because of possible sale of the property. The owner has 20 days in which to appeal to Circuit Court.

Licenses were granted to Holland Tulip Time Festival Inc. for the following Tulip Time entertainment: Festival Musicales, Shrine Band, Barber-shop Quartets, band review, Tulip Time Square Dance, Tulip Time Varieties, Spring Musical Review, Power and Glory, Dutch Heritage Show, Wings Over Holland, flower show, Tulip Time Market.

Approval was given an application from the New Richmond Bridge committee for a license to solicit funds from April 11 to June 30, excluding Tulip Week.

March of Dimes was granted a license to solicit funds April 17-30.

An application from Jim's Service Center for a building permit to construct an addition to a service station at 777 Columbia Ave. was referred to the city manager.

Also referred to the city manager was a letter from Brooks Products Inc. requesting an industrial development district involving property at 777 Brooks Ave., and a request from Steven T. Wissink to extend city water from its present termination point at Elhart Pontiac on M-21 easterly to Auto Top Inc.

Accepted with regret was the resignation of John R. Bloemendaal as a member of the Greater Holland Area Planning Commission.

A letter from Jacobus's Refuse Service Co. requesting a rate increase for residential trash pickup from the present $3.30 per month to $3.60 per month, effective May 1, was referred to the city manager. The letter also asked to discuss the possibility of allowing curb service within the city limits.

Also referred to the city manager were a letter from Park township requesting permission for Frances Van Slooten of 646 Old Orchard Rd. to connect to the city sewer system, and a letter from the Holland Fish and Game Club requesting improvements to the existing boat launch facility at Kollen Park.

A letter from Dennis Slikkers requesting a permit to park a house trailer on his property at 159 East 35th St. for 60 days while repairs are being made to his home recently damaged by fire was referred to the city manager with power to act. Also referred to the city manager was a letter from Lloyd Cook, 340 West 35th St. requesting city sewer service.

Petitions and letters from 116 students of Washington School requesting use of revenue sharing funds for construction of a new gymnasium were filed.

Acknowledged with thanks were several gifts of books to Herrick Public Library.

Resolutions were approved for application to the Michigan State Highway Commission for a permit to close state trunklines for Tulip Time activities.

Low bid of Superior Sport Store of $2,725 for 84 dozen softballs for use in the summer recreation program was approved 7-1 with Westrate dissenting. It was the lowest of four bids. Council also confirmed a certification from Councilman Vande Poel for recent purchase made by the Recreation Department from Superior Sport Store of $8.52.

Claims against the city from Charles S. Combs Jr., Richard J. Martin, Richard Muyskens, Carl Hansen, Donald Price, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Norkus were referred to the insurance carrier and city attorney.

Mayor Lou Hallacy presided over the meeting that lasted an hour and 50 minutes. All members were present. The invocation was given by the Rev. Paul Colenbrander of Maplewood Reformed Church.

Joel Kent Wilson, 20, of Lansing, escaped injuries when the car he was driving north along US-31 was struck by a train heading southeast along tracks between 24th and 32nd Sts. at 1:25 a.m. today. Police said the car apparently stopped for the crossing and then proceeded across the tracks getting hit by the engine.

Council Given 1977-78 Budget

City Council Wednesday night received for study the 1977 - 78 city budget compiled by City Manager Terry Hofmeyer calling for a net levy of $2,584.326.

Council will start budget study next week, scheduling meetings Monday, Tuesday and Thursday at 7 p.m. and Wednesday at 1 p.m., working all afternoon and evening. Further sessions may be called if necessary.

The completed budget will be presented at the next Council meeting April 20 and then will be available for review in City Hall and at Herrick Public Library. Final passage is scheduled May 4.

A review of the budget reveals no proposed reduction of the city's current levy of 16.765 mills which has been unchanged for several years. Taxes to be collected represent about one-third of the total tax bill with the remaining two-thirds allocated to the school district and counties.

The city manager's report pointed out that this year, Holland city, together with all other governmental units in Ottawa and Allegan counties, was faced with either increasing factors on real property or adjusting state equalized valuations to bring them in line with current state requirements of 50 per cent of market value.

Hofmeyer said it is generally believed that the city experienced a "windfall" because of increased property values, but in reality, total assessments increased from $140 million to $154 million, an increase of 10 per cent. Previous budgets reveal periods of natural growth exceeding 10 per cent. City budgets, like personal budgets, reflect the economy.

"We have refrained from adding new programs and services that are not necessary and, as a city, we are trying to live within our budget while providing needed services to our citizens at reasonable cost. The city of Holland has not reached the millage level permitted by our charter and, by continuing on a course of responsible, conservative fiscal management, it is hoped we can remain in that enviable position," Hofmeyer said.

He further pointed out that during Board of Review sessions, publicity was released indicating an average 25 per cent on residential property values, but the increase includes the factor that has been applied over the last few years.

Federal and state shared revenues provide approximately one-quarter of the current budget. The coming year, as in years past, the Federal Revenue Sharing funds will of necessity be used for operating expenses of the city.

"In summary, the 1977 - 78 budget is very similar to last year's. We have experienced modest growth, we are continuing needed services, and again postponing some requested improvements. Included, however, is $100,000 for capital improvement projects that may be approved by City Council," Hofmeyer said.

Two New Ordinances Are Adopted

City Council passed two new ordinances on employee residency and truck routes Wednesday night.

The residency ordinance requires new employees to live within the city, or to move into the city within 90 days.

It does not affect present employees living outside the city except those contemplating moving should move into the city. The new ordinance carries discharge penalties.

The residency ordinance, effective with the fiscal year July 1, must be negotiated with labor contracts. Vote was unanimous.

The trucking ordinance, passed 8-1 with Al Kleis dissenting, calls for all trucks and tractors to travel on designated truck routes insofar as possible. It strengthens the present ordinance which has not been entirely enforceable because of the language.

It is aimed at those vehicles which have consistently been traveling off truck routes without specific delivery points. Kleis, whose business has trucks stopping at meat markets and restaurants every day, expressed concern over interpretation of certain points. One was the definition of a truck, and the city attorney said this would be determined by the Michigan motor vehicle code and weight limits.

"I came to Council meeting tonight in a pickup truck," Kleis said. "Am I violating the truck route ordinance?"

City Manager Terry Hofmeyer said the main problem in Holland is the lack of a crosstown route. Ken Beelen interpreted the new ordinance to mean that if a truck were making a delivery at a point off a truck route and was headed for a second delivery, also off the truck route, the shortest distance was to be used. The ordinance will be effective April 27.

Police Notes

A welder and cables valued at $450 and a pipe wrench with a $50 value were reported missing from a barge of Dean King Construction Co. docked at Brewer's City Docks and reported to police Wednesday at 12:25 p.m. The theft was believed to have occurred the past two weeks.

FOUR ESCAPE — Darlene Kennedy and three children escaped their burning apartment Sunday at 8:08 a.m. without injuries but lost most of their possessions. Holland fire chief Marvin Mokma surveys the damage Monday morning and estimated loss at $13,000 to the building and contents of the first floor apartment. The fire was believed to have started in a living room chair from careless smoking or matches. Fire damage was confined to the apartment but heavy smoke damage was reported elsewhere in the two-story building.
