Two of Holland to Serve Jackson Prison Terms

Grand Haven, April 9 (Special)—Two Holland residents and one Grand Rapids resident were sentenced to Southern Michigan prison Saturday when they appeared in circuit court.

Francis Willis Temple, 36, 61 East Ninth St., Holland, was sentenced to serve from nine months to four years and Arthur Eding, 23, 26 West Fourth St., Holland, was sentenced to serve from ten months to one year on charges of probation violation.

William D. Corbett, 20, Grand Rapids, a army deserter, was sentenced to serve from three to 14 years on a charge of issuing a check without funds.

A fourth person to appear in court, Mrs. Constance Gordon, 28, Muskegon, pleaded guilty to larceny from a store in Holland as part of a "refund racket," and was ordered held in the county jail pending sentence Saturday, April 11.

Temple was placed on probation March 14, 1941, for three years, upon his plea of guilty to a charge of larceny from a building. His probation was subject to the conditions that he should sustain from all intoxicating liquors. On Dec. 3, 1941, upon complaint of Probation Officer Jack Spangler that Temple was not supporting his wife in accordance with a court order, he was taken before the court. He admitted the use of intoxicating liquors contrary to the conditions of his probation. Upon his request that he be given an opportunity to comply with the order within a short time, the court continued his probation. On March 7, he was arrested in Holland on a charge of being drunk and the following day his probation was revoked by the court.

Eding was placed on probation last Feb. 16 for one year upon his pleas of guilty to a charge of driving while drunk, second offense, and was required to pay $24 costs and $50 fine at the rate of $6 per month. He had paid the fine and costs, but failed to leave intoxicating liquors alone, another provision of his probation. On March 28, he was arrested by Holland police on North River Ave. on a charge of drunken driving. On May 2, 1937, he was arrested in Zeeland and paid fine.

Boats, Buses and Trains to Bring Crowds to Fete

Special Excursions on Schedule; Obtain Bikes For Trips in Holland

With the 1942 Tulip Time festival only six weeks away, indications today were that visitors will not be kept home by the tire shortage.

Information received at the Tulip Time office shows that many will come here by water, in addition to special railroad excursions and bus travel. Once here, visitors will be offered use of bicycles and horses to tour the tulip lanes and reach the tulip fields outside the city.

Excursions via Lake Michigan have been scheduled for the Milwaukee Clipper between Milwaukee and Holland. The present schedule calls for the Clipper to make two round trips over the week-end of May 16-17.

The boat will leave Milwaukee Saturday, May 16, at 7:30 a.m. (CWT) and arrive in Holland at 2:30 p.m. (EWT). The return trip will start at 6:30 p.m. (EWT) and end in Milwaukee at 11:30 p.m. (CWT). The same schedule will be observed Sunday, May 17. Passengers on the boat coming to Holland on Saturday will be given the privilege of staying over night and returning to Milwaukee Sunday night.

S. H. Houtman, general festival manager, has been advised by the Chicago, Duluth and Georgian Bay Transit Co. that three public cruises from Chicago to Holland and return will be made during the festival week.

The S.S. North American is scheduled to leave Chicago on Friday, May 15, at 10 p.m. (CWT) and arrive here at 7 a.m. Saturday (EWT). The return trip will be made Sunday, May 17, at 2:30 p.m. (EWT), ending at Chicago at 8:30 p.m. (CWT).

On Monday, May 18, the North American will leave Chicago at 10 p.m. (CWT) and arrive here at 9 a.m. Tuesday (EWT). The boat will leave Holland at 10 p.m. (EWT) Tuesday and arrive in Chicago at 7 a.m. Wednesday, May 20.

The third cruise will be made by the S.S. South American, leaving Chicago on Friday, May 22, at 10 p.m. (CWT) and arriving here Saturday, May 23, at 7 a.m. (EWT). The boat will leave Holland at 10 p.m. (EWT) and arrive in Chicago at 7 a.m. Wednesday, May 20.

The firm has requested Mr. Houtman to send it a quantity of printed programs to enclose in its mailing to garden clubs in states adjacent to Lake Michigan. They also ask for 1,000 Tulip Time stamps to use on the letters going out of the office.

E. J. Goebel, passenger traffic manager, also wrote Mr. Houtman that "to relieve the strain on transportation between our docks in Holland and uptown, we are negotiating to use the Medusa Portland Cement Co. docks for these special cruises. We also have been approaching the bicycle man to have bicycles at our dock and we believe that this program can be successfully accomplished."

The film, "Tulip Time in Technicolor," will be shown on the boats as a feature of the three cruises. The company also has arranged for one of its hostesses, Miss Mary Lou McIntyre, to begin contacting garden clubs and women's clubs, beginning today, to help fill up these cruises.

From Chicago comes word to the Tulip Time office that a special bus cruise from Chicago to Holland is being sponsored by the Downtown Resort and Travel bureau.

The all-expense tours includes transportation in Greyhound coaches, meals and staterooms aboard the S.S. Alabama, sight-seeing trips in and around the tulip lanes, and chauffeur service to and from church services Sunday morning.

The bus leaves Chicago Saturday, May 16, in time to arrive here by noon. The return trip will be made late Sunday.

Upon their arrival in Holland, the tourists will have luncheon aboard the Alabama, be taken on a tour of the lanes and to the tulip farms, followed by attendance at the street scrubbing and parade. Afterwards visits will be made to the Netherlands museum, Little Netherlands and the wooden shoe carver.

For those who do not attend church services Sunday, there will be an inspection tour of the Alabama. A trip to the tulip farm, return to the boat for luncheon and a final tour of the lanes are scheduled before the tour heads for Chicago.

"Bicycling Through the Tulips" is the theme of the 1942 festival. Surrounding towns are being combed for additional bicycles. Several hundred have been secured. Not only singles but many tandems, several tricycles, and even a few "bikes" for foursomes will be found on the bicycle stands at Tulip Time.

Horse and buggy days are, likewise, undergoing a revival. The brothers, Hub, Fred, John and Don Boone, of former livery stable and national racing fame, are resurrecting all available Rigs and carryalls to transport festival guests around the tulip lanes and over the three-mile round trip to the tulip farms. The Hollanders also have an answer for a possible shortage of material for new costumes. They have arranged for a costume exchange to be operated by the Netherlands Museum. If Antje's petticoats no longer reach to her ankles it may be that a neighbor has discarded some of just the right length, and perhaps has a younger sister who can wear Antje's former size.

War priorities will not effect America's tulip industry most of which is now centered in southwestern Michigan. Since Netherlands exports ceased, domestic tulip growers have been overwhelmed with orders. Tulip culture does not permit rapid expansion of production as raising bulbs from seed is a seven-year process.

Featured events for May 16 are the annual street scrubbing ceremony and an "Americans by Choice" program highlighted by the Northwestern University band and hundreds of costumed, trained dancers from Russia, Lithuania, Poland, the Ukraine and The Netherlands.

As the two cars continued northward about two miles, their speeds ranged from 85 to 90 miles per hour, the officer said. Bakker turned into the driveway leading to overnight cabins owned by Charles Riemersma, circled the cabins, did not stop before entering US-31 and headed south again with the deputy sheriff in pursuit.

At the old airport, north of town, Bakker turned west and was able to lose the officer at the Pine Creek road intersection. Suspecting that Bakker was not a stranger in the community, the officer returned to the cabins and found Bakker's car there.

Mayor Urges Final Contributions To Attain Red Cross Goal in County

Mayor Henry Geerlings today issued the following statement in support of the Red Cross war relief fund campaign in Ottawa county:

"The whole nation is alive to the urgent necessities of the mighty Red Cross. Men and women everywhere have been giving a large share of their time and have contributed liberally to raising a large and needed War Fund. There are innumerable examples of devotion. It is today, more than ever, the people's Red Cross. Everybody is in it, everybody gives, everybody works for it."

"A few days after the Japanese cruelly attacked Hawaii the American Red Cross announced a special drive for a fund for its work with our armed forces and with civilian victims of enemy action. Almost as soon as the smoke of battle cleared from Pearl Harbor the Red Cross disaster relief setup had swung into operation."

"With its 60 years of experience in meeting emergency needs this organization was a going concern, prepared to offer assistance to war sufferers without delay. Funds were immediately available. A supply department was prepared to make purchases and arrange shipping. Relations built up over the years with government departments and agencies prevented delays. A broad network of some ten thousand chapters throughout the country formed a permanent channel through which those wishing to aid war sufferers could direct their efforts. The Red Cross has been spending a million dollars a month in strengthening its resources on all fronts. We do not know to what extent it will be called upon before the last bomb drops and peace comes again to this war-torn world. But we have passed the days when looking forward to any contingency was called hysteria."

"The Red Cross has always from its very inception had the cooperation of the American people. We will never be able to measure its accomplishments. It has responded to innumerable calls."

"The city of Holland has been given its quota. Liberty has always characterized its people. We have never failed to heed a call for help. At this moment we are $2,200 short of the amount assigned to us. It is a privilege to make an appeal to cover this amount. We are still a free people. Our blessings are many. With an abundance of food and raiment and shelter we are favored above every nation. May I urge everyone to do his or her bit at this time."

POLITICS ARE NOT
ADJOURNED

The average citizen is under the impression that politics are adjourned for the duration. It seems incredible to Mr. John Q.
Citizen that politicians can keep on jockeying for advantage when boys are giving their lives. But now and again a bit of information comes through to prove that politics are very much alive.

Foreign Correspondent Cecil Brown, on his return to America, made a report on what he had seen in the very thick of the war.
Brown has made a reputation as one of the most brutally outspoken reporters in active service, and he has had plenty of opportunity to get material. He was on the "Repulse" when it and the "Prince of Wales" went down under Japanese bombs, and he was at Singapore almost until it fell into Japanese hands.

In his report, on his return to this country, Brown described the almost incredible political bickering in Singapore at the very time when the Japanese were hammering at its gates. Politicians—in this case British politicians—were playing for personal and party stakes when disaster was staring them in the face. It was not a pretty picture that this correspondent painted, but it struck the average person as being the honest report of an honest man.
Singapore is in Japanese hands today, in part at least because British leaders, some of them military leaders, could not put personal and political advantages out of their minds.

Nor are the British unique in this. At the time of the Pearl Harbor disaster the army and navy leaders supposed to be protecting America's interest were not even on speaking terms.
Nearly 3,000 young Americans died, in part at least because of this fact.

And don't suppose that Washington is not playing politics while the world is in chaos. Anyone who believes that is forgetting the nature of the political animal.
The leaders are loud in their protestations that politics must be adjourned; but usually they mean by that that the other fellow ought to forget his party and personal interests.

Political maneuvering while bombs are dropping and boys are dying is not unique in this war.
It has always been like that and will probably always remain so.
During the Civil war Washington was a hotbed of politics, and the harassed Lincoln had to be on the alert all the time against political machinations. Wars may come and wars may go, but politics go on forever.

The Mission of the Seventy Luke 10:1-7; 21-24

By Henry Geerlings

Jesus was the great missionary who sent forth missionaries. A great many people in our churches do a great deal of thinking and talking about Jesus, but they do not think of him as a missionary. The word missionary and the idea seem to have earned for themselves a bad reputation for some people. The mention of missionary is at once a signal for antagonism and questioning and unbelief. Some go so far as to say that a missionary is an intruder into other people's business. How such people can get such notions passes our understanding. Jesus came to the world when it most needed Him. In Palestine He went about preaching here and there and yonder.
He was a traveling missionary.
He did not force men and women to change their views. He just opened their eyes so that they could see as He saw. He gave them the truth that it might find its way into their minds and work graciously there. And this is the very thing the missionaries are doing today. They are not interlopers.
They are ambassadors. They are heavenly flames to kindle fires on bare and cold souls. They are bearers of healing medicines for the hurt hearts of humanity.

Missionaries are doing in our day just what Jesus did in His day. They are revealing the heart of God to the soul of man. It is passing strange that people who profess to believe in Christ and to accept His teaching should so resent the missionary fact and program. To say that we believe in Christ and not in the mission is just as consistent as to say that we believe in our physician but not in His healing medicine. To say that we believe in Christ and His gospel, but we are going to keep them to ourselves, is as consistent as to say that we believe in food on our table, but we will not feed the children any.

In spite of what some people think about Jesus. He was the great missionary. He was thoroughly imbued with the mission idea. On the present occasion He sent out 70 missionaries into places into which He expected himself to come. He needed help in the work of establishing His kingdom among men. They could do a vast preparatory work for Him. They could speak out of their own experience with Jesus.
They could recommend Him because they knew what He had done for them. This is a good kind of preaching. There is nothing to surpass it.

When people can say they know because they have seen, they have felt the power of His life and presence. We can imagine those 70 men would have a wonderful story to tell. We suspect that some people to whom they talked would listen to them eagerly as they told the story of the wonderful young man, of His grace and charm and wonderful words.
We can easily see how they would declare that they had never met a young man like Him, one with such an interesting message, one so engaging and attractive, one so magnetic. The 70 would get their hearts in such a state of mind that they would have a great curiosity to see this young prophet, to hear Him talk and to experience His presence.
It was a good preparatory work the 70 did. They were evidently encouraged with the results of their mission. They returned with enthusiasm to report to Jesus. The report glowed although they missed something of the real value and import of the work they did. Their eyes seem to have been caught by the visible things that were happening, so that they failed to realize fully the source of their power and their own membership in the kingdom.

They were self-sacrificing missionaries. They had nothing to sell from which they could realize profits. They had something to give away. They were armed with the very purest motives.
They went to do men and women good. They wanted to introduce them to a new person in the world who came to establish a new order of things in which they were to be sharers. Real missionaries always do that. They are always the advance agents of a better and truer order of things.
They have always blazed the way for a new and better civilization.
If they have destroyed anything they have always built something better in its stead. If they have driven out old ideas they have brought in new ideas that have healed and helped. If they have persuaded men to break away from the past they have asked them to face the future that is rich with good things and better ways. Christianity is a missionary religion.

Ideal Weather Marks Easter in City; Churches Are Crowded to Capacity

Ideal weather conditions with temperatures ranging up to 72 degrees marked Easter in Holland Sunday and churches generally had capacity and overflow audiences at the morning worship, and large audiences at the evening services.

More than 1,000 persons, estimated by some to be the largest audience ever attending a sunrise service, gathered in Hope Memorial chapel at 7 a.m. The meeting was correctly timed, starting as dawn was first breaking, and closing with the beautiful chapel windows lighted by the morning sunshine. Dr. George Mennenga of Western Theological seminary was the speaker.

Saturday and Sunday brought the first real spring weather of the season. Sunday's maximum temperature was 72 degrees and the minimum 43. Saturday's maximum was 73 degrees. Easter a year ago, which fell on April 13, had maximum and minimum tem-in sharp contrast to the religious holiday two years ago when it was nine degrees above zero Easter morning and one below zero the next day.

seminary spoke at a sunrise service Sunday in Civic auditorium.
Grand Rapids, which attracted

Holland
In 1912

It is highly probable that when the new charter is drawn up by the revision commission it will provide for an entire change in the system of elections in Holland, began a story in the Tuesday, April 9, 1912, issue of the Holland Daily Sentinel. It was suggested at the meeting that the mayor should be given a term of two years instead of one, in fact, that the terms of all city officers should be two years. The only elective officers who now serve only one year are the mayor and the city treasurer. The latter can hold the office for only four years.

Many Women Attend

when Miss Martha Logan, home economist, gave a talk on nutrition.

Miss Logan, a graduate of the chairman of the Ottawa county Red Cross. The meeting was arranged primarily for the home nursing and nutrition classes which are being carried on by the

So much interest was manifest-for another nutrition class was nutritious as the higher priced cuts. She stressed the importance

Time Letter Put In Wrong Pile?

A. G. Lohman, manager of the Hamilton Farm bureau, thinks Governor Van Wageningen has added insult to injury by incorrectly assuming that the bureau asked him to veto the bill which the legislature passed Feb. 12 in an attempt to return Michigan from eastern war time to eastern standard time.

The governor in a letter thanked Mr. Lohman for "his communication asking him to veto the time bill."

Mr. Lohman, who on behalf of the bureau actually urged the governor to act to keep the state on eastern time, said in his reply to the governor, "Will you please send me a copy of that communication as there seems to be some error."

Pointing out the bureau's attitude he continued:

"Our farmers are 100 per cent against the new war time and my communications with you are as follows: On Feb. 13 I wrote you a letter for the members of the organization thanking you for your efforts and support in passing legislation having Michigan remain on eastern standard time. It was our understanding that the legislature could not act on the time issue unless you presented it to the legislature."

"On Feb. 14 a group telegram was sent you from Hamilton which included my name, asking that Michigan remain on eastern standard time. You have made the same error with other farm leaders and probably a recount of the communication to you on the time issue would be in order."

"We would like to have you give us one single argument in favor of the new war time as being an advantage to our war program. Our farmers feel that it is practically 100 per cent adverse to our war program. Farmers of this state feel that you are responsible for this situation."

The governor vetoed the time bill Feb. 17. Hundreds of messages for and against veto were sent to the governor by interested persons in Michigan.

Plans for air raid precautions have been under study for the past three weeks at the local plant and were worked out from a master outline devised by the main company office at Pittsburgh. Mr. Hayes said it is a company policy to organize all plants for protective measures in case of an air raid.

Leaving "nothing to chance," various employees have been assigned to various duties. The air raid protection plan includes firemen, policemen, roof observers with messengers, medical attendants and maintenance service workers. An air raid shelter has been established in each of the company's buildings in Holland and one person has been placed in charge of each shelter.

In order that those in charge of first aid stations may be properly qualified to carry out their work this group has taken a course in Red Cross first aid work.

"Each person has been assigned a certain job so they will know what to do in case of a raid. These preliminary open drills were held to acquaint them with their duties, to determine if these men and women are capable of doing the duties assigned them and to make necessary improvements for our final drill," Mr. Hayes said.

Thursday's drill was worked out in quick order and with few defects. Mr. Hayes and his co-workers were well pleased on its outcome.

Promptly at 2 p.m., the air raid signal was sounded. Those assigned to various duties reported promptly to their posts while the others moved into the various air raid shelters. All returned to their work when the "all clear" signal was given.

On hand to witness the drill were Mayor Henry Geerlings, chairman of the local civilian defense council; E. P. Stephan, secretary-manager of the Holland Chamber of Commerce; and John Arendshorst. Mr. Hayes was on hand to explain the complete set-up.

The fire squad is composed of Milo Fairbanks, chief; Dave Pribyl, assistant chief; John Bouwman, captain; Evert De Weerd, assistant captain; Andy Lampen, Andy Boeve, Harold Breuker, John Dyes, hosemen; Joe Doezeman and James Walwood, hydrant and pumps; Richard Fairbanks, Henry Pas and John Grip, ladders. The night squad includes Marinus Mulder and William Stephan, electricians; Allen Teal, Dick Timmer, John Van Nul, Bert Kimmer, Bill Padgett and Herman Breuker, emergency.

Working under Mr. Fairbanks are two rescue squads which are composed of Joe Bolte Henry Pas, John Wyma and Henry Holtgeerts, No. 1 squad; John Dyes, Ber Kimmer, Orlo Barton and George Detert, No. 2 squad.

C. B. McCormick is police chief and in charge of all police services. A memorial service as a tribute to Dr. William A. Worthington, missionary who spent 32 years working in the Kentucky mountains, was held at the regular meeting of the Trinity Church Missionary society Thursday April 2. Young people who have had the advantage of additional education and have now returned to take positions of service in the Kentucky mountains indicate a promising future for the missions there, she said.

Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. A. Hoeksema, Mrs. E. Huntley, and Mrs. J. VandePoel.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

THE recent International Flower Show in New York showed that vegetables were nudging out flowers in spring plantings. "Victory Vegetables," these new gardens were called. It's another indication that the American public is becoming increasingly aware of the fact that good health and right eating work hand-in-hand, and that "right eating" means an adequate quotient of health-giving vegetables.

If you haven't as yet swung into line on the "food for victory" campaign, your patriotic duty is to begin the next time you take your market basket to the store. Your newspapers, the magazines, and the radio all have a wealth of information on the right foods for you to choose when marketing.

Meats as well as vegetables play an important part in this health campaign. And the news this week from meat counters is favorable: prices are stationary. Special buys include legs and breast of lamb; chuck pot roasts, sirloin and chuck steaks, broilers and fryers. Plenty of "specials" are listed in the fish markets—and fish is as nutritious as meat.

Based on the best buys of the current week, Marion Rouse Budd, of the Kitchen, has prepared three properly balanced menus at different price levels for your next Sunday dinner:

Low Cost Dinner

Baked Spareribs with Rice, Brown Gravy
Glazed Onions

WHY SOME TELEPHONE INSTALLATIONS MUST BE LIMITED

If you find that certain telephone requests can no longer be met, the blame lies with the enemies of our country.

To win this war, we must conserve every possible pound of vital materials.

Critical shortages have caused the War Production Board to issue an order strictly limiting the use of those scarce materials by the telephone companies in expanding telephone service.

The War Production Board estimates that this conservation program will save annually about 35,500 tons of lead, 29,000 tons of iron and steel, 29,500 tons of copper, and large amounts of zinc, crude rubber, magnesium and other strategic materials.

HOW THE ORDER MAY AFFECT YOU

1. PARTY LINES, only, can be installed in many cases.

2. EXTENSION TELEPHONES cannot be installed in residences except where needed by those responsible for public health, welfare or security.

3. TELEPHONES of wall or desk (upright) types cannot be changed to hand sets.

4. MANUAL TELEPHONE SWITCHBOARDS may not be changed to dial except where the work is well advanced.

The steps taken do not mean that the basic quality of your telephone service will be curtailed. They simply remove some of the de luxe trimmings. We shall continue to provide the best service possible, and we look forward to the day when we can meet all requests as in the past. Now, and for the duration, your needs come first.

Contests Lacking In Most of Ottawa Township Voting

Board of Supervisors To Be Little Changed By Monday's Election

Although opposition aroused interest of voters in some of Ottawa county's townships Monday, most of the elections apparently were quiet, uncontested affairs.

Indications were that virtually all supervisors were returned to office, although at least one new official will be placed on the county board as a result of Ben H. Lanning's election over incumbent Nick Cook, 365 to 343, in the Zealand city balloting.

Supervisors who were reelected without opposition included Henry Slaughter, Tallmadge, Gerrit Bottema, Spring Lake and C. Szpinski, Robinson.

Beyer was reelected township treasurer on the Citizens ticket.

Republican candidates won all the contested offices from Citizens party aspirants as follows:

He said he had been an engineer in the Dutch merchant navy for 16 years.

The boat on which he was stationed was the third he had been on in the past two years. His home is in The Netherlands and in April, 1940, he sailed from there aboard a small ship on a voyage to the Mediterranean sea.

Bidding his bride of four weeks goodbye, he told her he would return in three weeks but the return trip was never made. During his absence, the Nazis invaded The Netherlands and his boat landed its cargo in England.

He said he corresponded with his wife in The Netherlands until the United States entered the war. The last letter he received from her was written in November, 1941, in which she said she was "All right."

For a year, he sailed in this small boat about the coast of England. Then he was transferred to a second boat and finally to the merchant ship which was sunk last March 5 while en route to this country.

The submarine attack started about 8:30 p.m. that night when the first gun was fired from a considerable distance. For 30 minutes, while the attack continued, the boat sought to escape. The sub fired from port side and then from the starboard side.

"It appeared the submarine was attempting to shoot off the mast and wreck the wireless," he said. "We did not return the gunfire and when it became apparent we could not escape the captain gave the orders to take to the lifeboats. It was very dark. The moon had not come up. We didn't see the submarine until we put out in lifeboats."

The crew, he related, climbed into two lifeboats, 15 in the one he was in and 12 in the other. He revealed that not a single member of the crew was lost during the 11 days they were adrift.

As soon as the crew left the merchant ship, the submarine stopped its attack and drew closer. He described the submarine as being "a large grey object which just broke the surface of the water."

He said no members of her crew were visible on the submarine. He said it was not known whether the submarine fired a torpedo or another shell at the ship, but an explosion, followed by a fire, was heard and the ship sank quickly.

The two lifeboats kept close together but on the night before the rescue they became separated. During the other nights they kept in touch with each other by means of flashlight signals.

About 1 a.m. the night their boat was sunk an airplane flew over and the seamen signaled to it with a floodlight. It replied by signals and asked what had happened. The crewmen identified themselves after which the plane signaled "OK."

The stranded crew thus looked forward to an early rescue, but no aid came. Their survival then became their own problem. They estimated the distance to land and believed it would take 10 days to reach safely.

The two lifeboats, he related in his broken English, were equipped with some biscuits, tins of corned beef, tins of beans, some canned milk one tank of drinking water and a compass.

"During the early part of our drift, the seas were high and it was terribly cold. There was a high wind blowing. I was lucky enough to have an overcoat but some of the crew members had little clothing and only their undershirts to cover the upper parts of their body."

"After determining how long it would take us to reach land, we figured how much food and water each could have so that it would hold out."

"Every morning each received a small cup of drinking water and one biscuit. At noon, one tin of beans was rationed to three men. In the evening, each man got a cup of water and a biscuit. The next day, we ate corned beef, then beans again the following day."

"The first day, we had to eat the beans out of our hands. Then empty tins were saved for use as dishes. Each of us carved ourselves a makeshift spoon."

The rolling of the boat and water pouring over the sides damaged the drinking water tank on the third, or fourth night, he said. They saved as much of the drinking water as possible by filling two whisky bottles and three empty tins. They were able to salvage some water from the boat, but it was dirty and didn't taste good.

Rationing of water became stricter, he related, and each man was given only a small glass about one-fourth full each day. The water was mixed with the canned milk but that didn't help much.

During the latter part of the ordeal, they became terribly thirsty. The men had been warned about drinking the salty sea water. He said they did rinse their mouths

Survivor of Ship Sinking, on Visit to Holland, Describes His 11 Days Adrift

Eleven days adrift in a lifeboat after the merchant ship on which he was stationed had been sunk by an enemy submarine was the experience last month of a 38-year-old Dutch merchant navy engineer who is visiting in Holland until his furlough expires.

The 11-day ordeal was related by him Tuesday afternoon to a Sentinel reporter at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Woldring, route 6, Holland, just south of Holland on US-31. Extremely modest, the seaman was willing to discuss his experiences only on the condition that his name was not used in the story.

He said he could not reveal the port from where the merchant ship sailed, nor could he reveal its name.

He said he had been an engineer in the Dutch merchant navy for 16 years.

The boat on which he was stationed was the third he had been on in the past two years. His home is in The Netherlands and in April, 1940, he sailed from there aboard a small ship on a voyage to the Mediterranean sea.

Bidding his bride of four weeks goodbye, he told her he would return in three weeks but the return trip was never made. During his absence, the Nazis invaded The Netherlands and his boat landed its cargo in England.

He said he corresponded with his wife in The Netherlands until the United States entered the war. The last letter he received from her was written in November, 1941, in which she said she was "All right."

For a year, he sailed in this small boat about the coast of England. Then he was transferred to a second boat and finally to the merchant ship which was sunk last March 5 while en route to this country.

The submarine attack started about 8:30 p.m. that night when the first gun was fired from a considerable distance. For 30 minutes, while the attack continued, the boat sought to escape. The sub fired from port side and then from the starboard side.

"It appeared the submarine was attempting to shoot off the mast and wreck the wireless," he said. "We did not return the gunfire and when it became apparent we could not escape the captain gave the orders to take to the lifeboats. It was very dark. The moon had not come up. We didn't see the submarine until we put out in lifeboats."

The crew, he related, climbed into two lifeboats, 15 in the one he was in and 12 in the other. He revealed that not a single member of the crew was lost during the 11 days they were adrift.
