Death of Rabid Cow Spurs Plans For Quarantine

Grand Haven, April 8 (Special)—Report of the death of a rabid cow in Ottawa county today spurred plans for a county-wide 90-day dog quarantine which will go into effect the first part of next week.

The new report concerns the death of a cow April 3 near Marne in an area 15 miles away from the "outbreak" of rabies in Robinson township where three dogs have developed rabies.

According to Dr. C. Dale Barrett, Jr., director of the Ottawa County Health department, the cow was under observation of Dr. B. C. Hekhuis, a Coopersville veterinarian, who received a report Wednesday from the state laboratory that tests on the cow's head had proved positive for rabies.

Source of the infection is unknown, but officials speculate on the possibility that the cow may have been bitten by a rabid dog or perhaps a wild animal.

Dr. Barrett and Sheriff William M. Boeve today surveyed the area, interviewing all persons thereabouts. So far, it has not been determined whether any persons have been exposed. Dr. Barrett pointed out there is little or no risk of infection if skin is not broken but there is slight risk from simple exposure with saliva of a rabid animal. Whether any persons will receive preventive rabies treatment will be determined later.

Dr. Barrett said the 90-day quarantine will be little different from laws in effect at the moment which do not allow dogs to run at large. But the quarantine will allow wider latitude for enforcement on the part of sheriff's officers.

Next Week Is Clean-up Week

Spring time means clean-up time in Holland.

And Common Council, following a policy established years ago, has designated next week, April 12 through 17, as annual clean-up week in this city.

This is the one week of the year residents may deposit their rakes and lawn refuse at city curbs. These piles will be collected by trucks of the Street department. This city-wide collection does not extend to ashes or tin cans, officials pointed out.

With the Tulip Time festival set for May, most Holland housewives schedule their spring housecleaning and decorating programs during April to be ready for guests and festivities in May. The men of the family are usually assigned tasks of keeping the yard in order.

Stricken Recluse Dies 16 Hours After Rescue

John Karssen, 79-year-old recluse who lived in a one-room frame structure north of Holland for 60 years, died early Wednesday in Holland hospital, less than 16 hours after he was found by neighbors and officers who forced their way into his home after he had not been seen for several days.

Karssen, a familiar figure about town always carrying a basket and using a walking stick, was believed to have been stricken with a heart attack last Friday and had lain on the cold floor of his shack since that time.

Deputy Sheriff Edward Brouwer, accompanied by Jacob Borgman and his son, Melvin, and William Overbeek and his son, led the searching party to Karssen's padlocked door where sand had drifted to a depth of four inches. They could hear Karssen's labored breathing outside but the man could not speak.

The sheriff's department had been notified of Karssen's absence from the local scene by Borgman. Every day, rain or shine, Karssen had trudged two miles to Holland and Borgman often picked him up on return trips.

The victim was taken to Holland hospital in an ambulance.

Karssen, formerly a painter and paper hanger, was born Aug. 7, 1868, in the Netherlands. He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Alfred Kamferbeek and Miss Mary Karssen, and two nephews, William and Russell Sakkers of Holland.

The body was taken to the Dykstra funeral home where services will be held Friday at 2 p.m. with Dr. J. J. Sessler of Third Reformed church officiating. Burial will be in Pilgrim Home cemetery.

Fishers Employ Gun, Pitchfork

Grand Haven, April 8 (Special)—Ross Torbert, 35, and Burl Howard, 30, route 4, Holland, were to blame for Conservation Officer Harold A. Bowditch missing out on a banquet in Kalamazoo Tuesday.

The officer, on his way to Kalamazoo, noticed the pair fishing in a stream near the road in Park township, the former with a pitchfork and the latter with a rifle. Both were charged with fishing without a license in the closed season. They were arraigned in Justice George V. Hoffer's court. The justice figured one could get more fish with a rifle than a pitchfork and assessed Torbert $5 fine and $7 costs, and Howard $15 fine and $7 costs.

Pine Court Units Air Grievances Before Committee

Building and Grounds Committee Inspects Two-Family Dwellings

Twenty-three residents of Pine Court attended Common Council meeting, Wednesday night, and read a letter to council stating grievances of the temporary housing units located between Eighth and Ninth Sts., at Pine Ave.

The renters were referred to the Building and Grounds committee which met immediately after regular council meeting. It was decided the committee visit the units Thursday morning before giving any recommendations.

Roger Olive, secretary of the delegation, read the letter to Council which listed the following:

1. Conditions of the grounds are poor.
2. Garbage disposal and allotment of garbage cans are inadequate.
3. Both interiors and exteriors of the units need painting.
4. Light bills for the individual units are too high.
5. There is no suitable place for the children to play except on the cinder section provided.
6. Rent costs are unsatisfactory.
7. Ground between the units flood during heavy rains because there are no sewers or other drainage.

Ald. Van Dyke said a carpenter will estimate cost of fixing ceilings throughout the units.

After complaining of the dangers of concrete slabs and holes in the ground at the lot on the west of the project, the building committee agreed to use city-owned snow fences to separate this section from the housing units.

The letter was read following council approval of bids of $769.80 for repair and $269.75 for redecorating units 11-A and 11-B which were damaged by fire.

The residents represented by Alvin Johnson, Orlie, Dale McWilliams, Don Vandenberg, Tom Parker, from organized labor, met with Ald. Bertal Slaght and Chairman John Van Dyke, of the Building and Grounds committee. Also present were Ald. Raymond Holwerda; Ben Wiersma, custodian of the housing unit; City Attorney Peter S. Boter and City Clerk Clarence Greengood.

Ben Wiersma said he would take up the specific garbage disposal grievances with the garbage collector. The residents stated there is one can provided every two units. It was also stated the garbage is not being collected once per week at one unit.

Complaints that electric bills ran too high were attributed to poor electrical equipment furnished by the federal government when they installed the units. Boter offered to forward a complaint letter from the renters to the Federal Public Housing authority in Chicago.

City Clerk Clarence Greengood pointed out the units were constructed by the federal government under the Lanham act and after completion were turned over to the city of Holland for up-keep.

The city gets $11.04 per month for each unit to take care of repairs, management, insurance, operating service (garbage disposal), utilities, pensions for city employees, and rent collection losses. Remaining rent revenues must be turned back to the government, Greengood said.

Under government decree, the buildings are to be in use for two years from July 25, 1947, according to a directive, cited by the city clerk.

The matters of painting needs, cracks in walls and ceilings, grading of a playground and roofing repairs were referred to the Building and Grounds committee to investigate the costs before making recommendations.

The renters said they would furnish labor for painting, repairing side-boards, moving lawns and repairing roofs—if materials were furnished.

Dealers Fined On State Counts

Edwin J. Bombyl of Park township, Holland, pleaded guilty in municipal court Friday, to a charge of allowing unsanitary conditions to exist in the operation of his tavern and paid a fine of $25 plus $3.10 costs.

The charge specified lipstick and dirt was found on glasses being used to serve alcoholic beverages. McLellan Stores company of 2 and 4 West Eighth St., paid $25 and $3.10 costs after pleading guilty to a charge of exposing candy for sale in closed containers which failed to show net weight on the package.

A Patsy Fabiano of 26 West Eighth St., was also charged with exposing candy for sale in closed containers which failed to show the net weight on the package and paid $25 fine and $3.10 costs.

Charges were placed by the Michigan bureau of marketing and enforcement.

School Committee Seeks Funds for Vision Testing

Contributions Needed Since Program Is Not Included in Budget

The Schools Health committee today issued another plea for funds to finance a vision testing program in all public and parochial schools. These tests, carried on by a trained technician, were conducted under supervision of the Ottawa County Health department, and 2,447 children were examined.

Since no provision for such tests was included in the health department budget, the department, backed by opinion of the Schools Health committee, sent letters to city and rural organizations interested in the welfare of children asking voluntary contributions to defray expenses.

According to Bernice Bishop, committee chairman, few organizations have responded to the call for aid, and the committee hopes organizations which have not responded will consider, or reconsider, the subject as quickly as possible.

School leaders said it is possible such a provision may be included in the health budget next year, but for the present the program must be financed by contributions. Only cost involved is the salary and transportation of a paid worker. This amounts to about 10 cents per pupil.

The vision testing program was discussed at a meeting of the Schools Health committee March 31 at which time reports of the audiometer testing also were made. Announcement was made of the follow-up Pure Tone test in May. These tests are given free of charge to all Holland school children by the state department. Plans also were emphasized for X-ray testing in Holland schools the latter part of April, also provided by the state department.

Arrangements also were completed for second and fifth grade clinics in April conducted by local physicians, with expenses borne by the various boards of education of schools involved.

The committee will present annual reports and submit plans for next year at its final meeting in May.

Membership in the committee includes teachers from elementary and secondary levels of both public and Christian schools, together with Dr. C. Dale Barrett, Jr., director of the Ottawa County Health department, nurse personnel, school dentist and a parent. Superintendents of both school systems involved are members ex-officio.

Accident Injuries Fatal for Child

Grand Haven, April 8 (Special)—Marilyn Jean Koster, 2½, daughter of Mrs. Albert Koster of Georgetown township, route 3, Hudsonville, died Saturday at 5:30 p.m. from injuries received when she was struck by a car driven by Charles Grassman, 25, of route 1, Hudsonville.

The accident occurred on the east-west road in Georgetown township, known as Van Buren road.

According to sheriff's officers who investigated the accident, the child was with her brother Wilford, 5, on the side of the road as Grassman approached. The girl attempted to cross the road and was hit by the car. Grassman was traveling west, officers said.

Her mother and grandfather, William Moes, saw the child and called to her in an attempt to stop her crossing in front of the car, according to officers. The accident occurred in front of the Koster home.

She was placed in Grassman's car and taken to the office of Dr. Ralph Hager in Hudsonville, but died soon afterwards. She had received a fractured left femur, a skull fracture and a broken neck, according to Coroner Gilbert Van Water.

Vandewater, Sheriff Boeve, Deputies Ed Brouwer and John DeVree investigated the accident. No verdict has been reached. Vandewater will confer with Prosecuting Attorney Howard W. Fant.

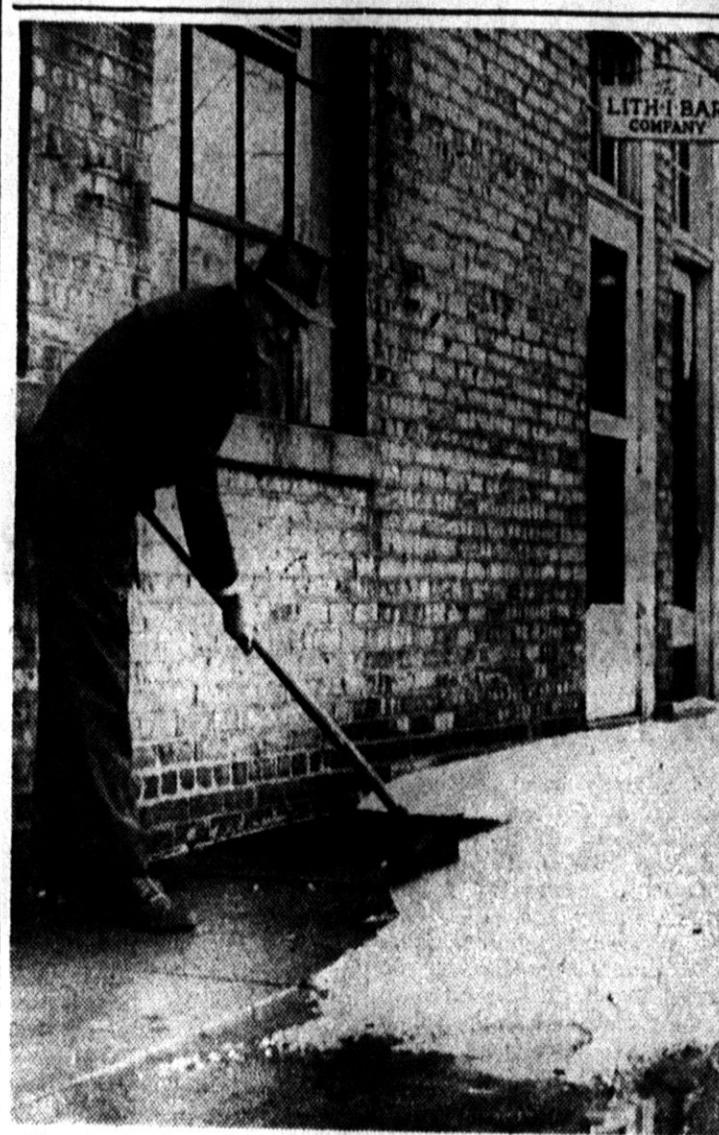

Besides the mother and brother, the child is survived by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Moes, also of route 3, Hudsonville.

Wild Storm Causes Little Damage Here

Here is visual proof that hailstones can drift. Windows of The Sentinel building as well as windows everywhere were unmercifully pelted by giant hailstones in the severe electrical storm late Wednesday afternoon. Here genial John Vanderploeg of the business office obligingly shovels a path through a drift on the west side of the building.

Ritchie Mansfield of Kalamazoo, paid $10 on a speeding charge and Jack Schurman of route 1, paid $5 on a similar charge. Franklin E. Dieleman of Grand Rapids, paid $5 for running a red light.

Local Post Office Adds New Carriers

Three additional city letter carriers have been authorized for delivery service here plus two clerks for dispatching, according to Harry Kramer, local postmaster.

Max Welton, Gil Bos and John Stephenson have been recommended for the carrier posts and Edw. J. Houting and Louis Van Dyke as clerks. All named are veterans of World War II and have served as substitutes at the post office since their discharge from service.

New substitutes will be chosen from the civil service examination list established by the post office one year ago. Disabled veterans are given a 10 point advantage on these exams and other veterans a point bonus.

Complement of Holland post office totals 81. There are 20 city carriers, with four substitutes, 19 clerks with four substitutes, six rural carriers who each have a substitute, four supervisors, three custodial employees and 12 temporary men on a part-time basis.

There are also two special-deliverymen and a mail-messenger who hauls mail between the post office and the railway station.

Receipts for 1947 were over $250,000, Kramer said. An increase of 10 per cent has been maintained so far for the current year.

Postal savings approximate $2,500,000. Holland ranks 11th city in the state for total postal savings.

Three Star routes for transporting mail to nearby post offices in lieu of government curtailed railway service, operate from the local office. Four government-owned trucks are used for local delivery.

Police Release Four In Shooting Incident

Grand Haven, April 7 (Special)—State police have released the four juveniles who were picked up Tuesday morning in connection with the shooting of Vernon Miller, 18, by Trooper Robert Neigebauer, after it was determined the boys had no connection with Miller who has been AWOL from the Navy since last September.

Miller submitted to surgery in municipal hospital Tuesday afternoon and his condition is reported as good.

State police are still investigating, awaiting word from the FBI as to their report of his activity in other states.

Violent Downpour Floods Various Sections of City

Freak Wind Believed 'Tail' of Tornado Which Swept Indiana

Holland returned to the ways of spring today following a severe wind-hail-electrical storm, late Wednesday afternoon which flooded streets, hammered at windows and caused power failures in some sections of the city.

The wild storm, described by several long-timers here as the most intense and longest they can remember, was apparently the "tail" of a tornado which swept Illinois and Indiana into lower Michigan. In Indiana and Illinois, the storm moved in zig-zag course, hitting the ground and then rising into the air for long spells.

In areas near Chicago, the storm caused extensive damage to roofs, window glass and telephone wires. Two persons were killed in Grant Park, Ill., and one at Hebron, Ind.

Hailstones, the size of marbles and larger, pelted at local windows before being carried away or "drifting" much as the snow drifted last winter. Two hours after the storm, drifts in the downtown section gave the impression that snowfalls had been in operation. The commercial section seemed harder hit than the residential sections toward the south. The hail seemed to descend in "streaks" or "ribbons," some areas hit very hard and others quite lightly.

Damage in Holland was light, considering the severity of the onslaught. Power failure was the result of a combination of storm damage involving a broken pole, lightning hits and street lamps down.

An electrical wire hit by lightning at 13th St. and Lincoln Ave., caused power failure in that section for some time. A fuse block on a transformer near 16th St. caused failure in a smaller section for 2½ hours. A transformer at 18th St. and Waverly road also was hit, and a pole was down off 40th St. west of M-40.

Heavy rains submerged many local streets. Torrents of water sweeping over lawns carried rakes and debris to drains where the refuse sealed the drains, causing "floods." Some industrious citizens waded barefoot to poke about drains freeing the debris.

In other places where drains carried water to lower levels, the pressure was so great that man-hole covers were forced from the road and carried away. The heavy covers were recovered by employees of the Street department.

City Engineer said flooded conditions during the heavy rain were bad everywhere, but were perhaps worse in lower places as Seventh and Pine and Eighth and Pine.

The storm, severe as it was, was not without some humorous incidents. Betty Jeanne Zych, wanting to protect her new shoes, some swanky three-inch platform numbers, removed her footgear and waded through several inches of icy water in order to get to her car parked at Seventh and River.

Local police aided several persons stranded at corners waiting to cross flooded streets. As the storm threatened they also offered lifts to pedestrians.

At Hope campus, enterprising students and faculty members used Al Vanderbush's car to bridge half of a flooded street in order to get to cars parked on the other side. They found going through the rear doors of the coach's car made a good bridge.

Some stores in the downtown area as well as many homes had to cope with the added hazard of water in the basement. A wash-out in the alley sent quantities of water into the basement of the French Pastry shop, where fortunately all supplies were stored on raised platforms. There was some water damage in other stores.

Water flooded the basement of Montello park school to a depth of six inches, causing cancellation of the social and amateur night scheduled Friday night under auspices of the PTA.

Boss, 23, route 3, Zeeland, no license plate on trailer, $3; Richard Bongas, of 2521 West 19th St., parking, $1; Jerry McFall, Holland, parking, $1.

Deafness Is Of Two Types, Says Hope Professor

Defective Hearing Caused by Nerves Is Difficult To Cure

Like many other things in life, people take their hearing lightly, and yet, if they were to lose it through some mishap, would then begin to value it highly.

According to Lars I. Granberg, of the Hope college psychology department, sound waves enter the ear canal and vibrate a membrane which looks like a slack drum head, which accounts for the name, "tympanic membrane." The sound waves set in motion three small bones in the middle ear, which are hooked up in lever fashion, the last of which causes a vibration in the fluid of the inner ear, which corresponds to the frequency or frequencies of the sound which is heard.

The fluid comes in contact with a membrane having hair cells on it; each of these cells being sensitive to a particular frequency. This membrane is the analyzing organ, which breaks down the sound into its component frequencies.

These frequencies are then transmitted by way of the auditory nerve, to the appropriate brain centers. This is the most widely accepted and best verified explanation of hearing the professor stated.

There are two kinds of deafness, caused by interference with the reception between the outer and inner ear, and with the transmission from the inner ear to the brain. The second is by far the most serious.

Obstruction or interference of the first nature is termed, obstructive deafness, and the latter, nerve deafness.

The obstructive deafness can be remedied by hearing aids, which can by-pass the obstruction, and send vibrations through the mastoid bone, which is of porous nature, into the inner ear.

The other deafness is hard to remedy; if the nerve or the analyzing mechanism is damaged, hardly anything can be done. Sometimes, if only certain areas of the nerve or the analyzing mechanism are injured islands of hearing are left, which may be receptive to high, low or middle frequencies. Then it is possible for a hearing aid to limit the type of frequency

These four men, wearing Dutch costumes and wooden shoes, created a sensation at the American-Canadian Sportsmen's show in Cleveland, which they visited during the week-end to deliver 20 dozen of cut tulips and incidentally to do a bit

Five-Point Wage Program Sought By Bohn Unions

Representatives of three UAW-CIO locals affiliated with Bohn Aluminum and Clawson and Bals Council met in Holland Saturday to discuss and formulate co-ordinated action on third-round wage demands.

Saturday's meeting was the first of a series planned for the negotiation period in which uniform agreements are sought in contracts for the whole corporation.

The five-point wage demand program covers a general wage increase, paid health and accident insurance, guaranteed weekly wage, improved vacation pay, and increased shift bonus, all in line with UAW policy, leaders said. Similar meetings for Clawson and Bals locals in Chicago, Philadelphia, New York and Detroit are planned soon.

Local 25 of Bohn plants 1 and 4 in Detroit was represented by resident Stanley Neubeur and Bargaining Committeemen W. McCarey, A. Jones, V. Caesar, G. Monty and J. Glogowski. Local 208, representing all other Bohn plants in Detroit, was represented by President Hodges Mason and Business Agent F. Williams. Local 284 of Holland plant 11 was represented by Bohn Unit Chairman Ben Schrotenboer, and Bob Veeder, unit secretary and chairman of the Bohn and Clawson and Bals council. Representing the international union was Ora Fox of Region 1D staff, Muskegon.

UAW President Walter Reuther called for the organization of the Bohn and Clawson and Bals council last fall after the need for such co-operation between Bohn locals became apparent during the 127-day strike in Holland. During this time, employees of plant 1 in Detroit were laid off for refusing to do Holland work, union leaders claim.

After several meetings in Detroit, the council was given official status by the International Union Executive board in February.

AWOL Sailor Hit At Grand Haven; Lives in Illinois

State Troopers Went To Investigate Party That Was Too Noisy

Grand Haven, April 8 (Special)—Vernon E. Miller, 18, AWOL from the Navy since last September, was shot and wounded by a state trooper 4 1/2 miles southeast of Grand Haven early Tuesday when he failed to halt after two warning shots. His condition is reported fair at Municipal hospital where he was taken.

Miller, alias John W. O'Rourke, alias Ray D. Faist, who gave his address as 412 South Craig St., Lombard, Chicago, suburb, was found asleep in a car when officers arrived at a cottage near here to investigate a party. He was arrested when he could produce no credentials as to ownership of the car and search revealed no permit for an unregistered loaded .32 automatic in his possession.

When state trooper Reed Harris went inside the cottage, Miller was left under guard of Trooper Robert Neigebauer. Miller started to run, and when he failed to halt upon Neigebauer's command and after the two warning pistol shots, Neigebauer shot the youth with a riot gun, the two pellets striking him below the shoulder or the right arm and on the right lateral above the hip.

John Velik, working on a building near the spot where Miller fell, assisted the officer in carrying him to the road. No telephone was available and an ambulance was secured through the police car radioed message.

The youth later confessed his AWOL status from the Navy station at Treasure Island, San Francisco. Aware that the FBI was on his trail, he told of his travels over the country from Chicago to Washington, D. C., south into Georgia, Tennessee and Virginia and Florida. While in Washington he stole wallets from two sailors, one by the name of O'Rourke, whose name he used, and the other by the name of Tricland. State police are in possession of one of the wallets.

He also admitted stealing large sums of money in Florida and taking the coupe in which he was found asleep. The $350 in his possession he admitted was taken from the owner of the car. The car bore a New Jersey license and there was an Illinois plate inside.

The four Illinois youths, all teenagers from Lombard, who were in the cottage, said they had played cards until 3 a.m. and there was no car outside when they retired. Miller said he arrived outside the cottage at 4:30 a.m. He said he was acquainted with H. B. White of Lombard, owner of the cottage. The four youths were to be questioned today.

First Sgt. Ray Katke, assistant district commander at the Rockford state police post, came to Grand Haven to assist with the investigation.

Katke said Miller told him that he was "hot" and wanted to hide out in the cottage. He didn't know, he declared, that it was occupied by the four boys who are on vacation at the cottage, owned by the family of one of them.

Miller said he saw lights in the place and stayed outside after which he was confronted by police in a prelude to the shooting.

He said he had heard of the cottage in his home town.

SMOKING TRUMAN OUT

For the first time in the current political campaign voices are being raised on several fronts at the same time suggesting that President Truman may be defeated—not merely for the election
but for the Democratic nomination. Those voices are obviously raised under inspiration of the revolt of the South, for if the South continues in its course
through the convention the Democratic party will be so hopelessly demoralized that it will hardly be able to put up a fight in the election.

The statement has been repeated over and over again to the point of its becoming monotonous that any president can get himself renominated, so great is the power of the patronage of the office. And that statement is probably true. At least during the past couple of generations no president in office has had any serious difficulty in getting himself renominated by his party for a second term. The president who had the greatest difficulty, during the present century, was William Howard Taft. But even he, in spite of the dynamic personality of Theodore Roosevelt, was a sure winner when he had set his mind on renomination.

President Truman has unequivocally declared that he wants the Democratic nomination, and if he sticks to that determination the chances are that he can get it, in spite of the South and in spite of the members of the Roosevelt family who have repudiated him.
It may be impossible to keep the nomination from him—if he keeps on wanting it.

It is there that the rub comes.
And all the forces that are now shouting that he may be kept off the Democratic ticket are almost certainly thinking of "persuading" him to eliminate himself. American politics being what they are.
They may have a chance to smoke
the president out of his hole and thus get rid of him as a candidate.

If they can raise enough voices on enough fronts to convince the president that if he is nominated he will merely be the standard bearer of a shattered and demoralized party, it is conceivable that they may persuade him to eliminate himself for the good of the party. The fact that he has said flatly that he will run is not an insuperable obstacle. Mr. Truman has formed the habit of reversing himself, and he might do so in this case.

He can be defeated for the nomination, but only through his own action. The campaign now directed against his nomination appears to have this as its objective. He may become the Chester A. Arthur of the Democratic party.

God's Message to a People in Exile
Ezekiel 18:1-4; 34:11-16; 36:25-28

By Henry Geertlings

It may seem strange that most people know very little of the prophet Ezekiel. Not many of our lessons are taken from the book that bears his name. He belonged to that period of Jewish history in which details are somewhat confused. It will help us to remember that Jeremiah, Ezekiel and Daniel were in a sense contemporaneous. I do not mean to say that their lives covered precisely the same span of years;
but I do mean to say that they carried on their work during the same general period, though Jeremiah was the earliest of the three.

Ezekiel and Daniel were carried off into Babylon, where their prophetic ministry was performed, while Jeremiah later landed in Egypt with a remnant of the Jews. Daniel landed in Babylon in 606 B. C. while Ezekiel followed eight years later. Therefore he was made a captive about ten years before Jerusalem fell to the Babylonians under Nebuchadnezzer. He was a prophet of great power among the captives. They frequently resorted to him for counsel. He showed himself zealous for the honor of God, and his influence over the people was marked.

One thing the Jews did not like about the message of Ezekiel was that he insisted on predicting the downfall of the nation to which he belonged. While some 40,000 Jews were carried into exile with him, that was a very small number in comparison with the multitude that followed a decade later.
It was some time before the people were able to place their confidence in him, for they felt that while every indication was pointing to that dread hour, their captivity, they still believed that God would interfere and hurl back their enemies. The thought that they would be driven like cattle into a foreign land was repulsive to them. The declined to reconcile themselves to the view that they,
who had been so long a free people, in name at least, would become the subjects of a pagan dictator.

Ezekiel was not only a prophet,
but in a real sense a priest also,
for he descended from a priestly line, so that he combined in himself some of the best qualities of the nation's life. He was conscious that the word had spoken to him, directing him to make himself responsible for exercising the spiritual ministry over the captive people. We can readily understand how these people, being in a foreign land, would be without these institutions with which the realities of their religion were identified. It is true that they had little to do with those institutions while in their own land, but now that they had fallen into the hands of a national group stronger than they, their minds would no doubt revert to them.

In this situation the prophet was to be a watchman to the people, warning them of dangers that would threaten their national, social and spiritual life. It was a responsible position to which he had been called, if for no other reason than that the people were in no particular mood to receive instruction. But Ezekiel regained their confidence and rendered a very acceptable and helpful ministry. You will recall that, when the captives returned and undertook the rebuilding of the wall of Jerusalem, Nehemiah stationed watchmen at intervals on the walls so that they could give the alarm when they saw danger threatening. Well, that was the nature of the work of Ezekiel, though in the spiritual realm.

It is assumed that the prophet was able to see the danger before others could. He was standing on the spiritual watch tower and has his message from God. The first responsibility was his, and if from sloth or cowardice he should fail to warn the wicked man of his danger, the latter would perish, but the former would have to bear the guilt. However, if the Watchman were faithful no matter what the outcome he would be free of all blame.

The prophet's preaching had the desired effect. He must have been happy to think that the hearts of the people were prepared to receive a message of deliverance.
Did they think that they were cast off forever? Was it their feeling that God would have nothing further to do with them? The prophet answered their thoughts before they had a chance to give expression to them.

The exiles were still the children of God. He had not cast them off. What they needed to do was to remember first, that God has no pleasure in the death of the wicked; and second, that they could avert the death that threatened them by repenting of their sins and turning again to the Lord. What they had not yet learned was that their spiritual state was far worse than their physical state. It was not so bad that they were in a strange land, and the slaves of another people.
It was far worse that they were in bondage to sin and with no power of their own to deliver themselves from that unhappy state.

Local Savings Resist Federal Down-Trend

If you doubt the Dutch are a thrifty people, scan the record. Local persons, proud of their Dutch thrift, aren't spending their savings, according to estimates made by the banks and post office here.

The national scene reports individual savings are down to $11 billions, $4 billions less than the 1946 total. Federal savings hit a peak of $35 billions during the war years, according to records.

Holland figures show a different story. Savings here didn't reach their peak until 1947. The steady climb initiated by war bonds, has continued.

Postal savings here are still on the up-grade and Holland ranks 11th in Michigan for total amount of postal savings.

Holland banks report savings have not been climbing too rapidly for the first months of 1948. The tendency is to decrease from the 1947 peak, according to figures.

However, it was pointed out that savings here are an up and down affair and vary from month to month.

The U.S. Treasury department will launch its savings bond drive, April 15. A two-fold appeal will be made to the thrifty. Bonds pay interest and when an individual or group buys a bond, consumer purchasing power is slashed. This aids the fight against inflation.

Several local firms have retained voluntary payroll deductions to purchase bonds, according to officials. Sales of bonds have been "steady" in Holland.

E-bonds may be purchased at the post office or at either bank. However, sale of F and G bonds is confined to banks.

Interest rate on E-bonds at the end of 10 years is 2.9 per cent. F and G bonds are for corporations and similar units. They mature at the end of 12 years. G-bonds pay interest every six months.

E-bonds can be made payable to a beneficiary or a co-owner may be named at time of purchase.

Coal Supply Here Ebbing Rapidly

A cold snap would exhaust coal stocks at a majority of local dealers, according to a survey conducted here.

One dealer reported plenty of domestic coal but a critical shortage of steam coal. In cases of steam coal, substitute sizes are used in a pinch, but this coal makes more work for firemen. Another dealer said his supply is not too good but he has enough for his regular domestic trade. In many cases it isn't the type they want but it will provide warmth, he said.

Still another dealer said his supplies are very low and any cold spell will reduce his stock to nothing.

BPW officials report enough coal to last well into May at the present demand. Pocahontas is off the market except in small sizes, according to one local dealer.

There is enough for industrial uses, they all agreed.

According to a state-wide survey, Michigan has enough coal on hand to last 10 days to two weeks.

Thomas J. Masterson, a spokesman for the governor's emergency fuel committee, said some communities have reported their supply is at a critical level. However, he said no formal appeals have been made to state police. Commissioner Donald S. Leonard, emergency fuel co-ordinator, for emergency shipments of coal.

Laketown Adopts Road Program

About 25 electors turned out to the Laketown township annual meeting at 1 p.m. Monday. The financial statement showed a good credit balance in each fund and sufficient money on hand to finance the proposed road program for the year.

Decision was made to raise taxation $1200 for the contingent fund, $300 for the cemetery fund and $100 for the park fund. 1 1/2 mills to be spread on the assessed valuation for those purposes.

The road program recommended by the township board was adopted. This program called for the construction of about three miles of road: a mile and a fraction east of the town hall, a mile on the south side of section 26, and one mile in section 27. Cost of the program is estimated at about $7,000.

To finance this work the meeting transferred $6,000 from the sales tax fund to the highway fund, which, together with the balance in that fund, is expected to cover the costs of the improvement.

Report of the treasurer showed that of a tax roll of $23,962.95, he collected $21,641.47 and returned $2,321.48 delinquent taxes to the county treasurer.

In the absence of a township clerk, John Henry Scholten acted as secretary. Supervisor James Boyce was moderator.

Station Operated By Ray Harrison

Ray Harrison has operated the Harrison Super Service station, located at 677 Michigan Ave., for 12 years. He sells Marathon gasoline and motor oils, VEP motor oil is sold exclusively by him. This oil has a magnetic-like film that clings to vital engine parts, preventing damaging "dry" starts. It "stays put" at high temperatures and protects the bearings against corrosion.

The constant cleaning action of the oil keeps the car's motor clean, valves and rings free, oil holes and lines open. It's triple-plus film strength means more than three times as much protection as ordinary oil against shock and pressure.

Fulton sun shields are sold and installed at the garage, the first garage in Holland to sell them. Volto car batteries also are sold. Harrison is a dealer for Ethyl cleaner and solvents for dry cleaning.

State 4-H Clubs Learn to Combat Farm Fuel Waste

Scholarship Awards Offered to Members By National Concerns

Surveys show $12 worth of fuel is being wasted annually in this country by the average tractor owner. This waste has prompted national recognition in the form of college scholarship awards to the 1948 4-H club tractor maintenance program.

Purpose of the program will be to encourage club members aid in reducing the nation's fuel waste.

Collectively, the waste figure means fuel wasted by two and three-quarters million farm tractor operators in a year—due to improper carburetor adjustment alone—would fill a train of tank cars 200 miles long.

Tractor maintenance programs were originated by 4-H clubs three years ago to train local club leaders in the proper use and care of farm tractors at state sponsored clinics.

Studies at the clinics include carburetion, ignition and cooling systems, lubrication and valve adjustment. After attending a clinic, local leaders pass on what they have learned to 4-H members in their respective counties.

Local leaders, totaling 6,000 have taken advantage of the training clinics of 41 states and 53,000 club members have taken part in the program since its inception. Awards offered club members in 1948, in addition to the scholarships, are sterling silver medals of honor to county winners and all-expense trips to the national 4-H club congress in Chicago next November to state champions.

The national $200 college scholarships also provided by Standard Oil company, will be awarded to the top ranking winner in each of the four extension sections and two at large.

Rexine Noakes of Albion, was the Michigan winner last year. There were 193 county medal winners in Michigan last year.

Social Progress Club Hears Talk on Profits

The profit motive is but one of many social drives that makes America great, C. E. Drew told members of the Social Progress club at its meeting Tuesday at the home of Cornelius vander Meulen.

"There is a trend from the pure profit motive to the salary incentive, where profit is defined as surplus left after paying costs of operation of a business. Formerly all of this surplus went to the owner. Growth of corporations is putting more and more of the income of business enterprises into the hands of managers in the form of salaries and bonuses," Drew said in a paper entitled "Co-operation, Yes—Profits, Yes."

Some of the incentives that keep the industrial plant going are: Keeping business solvent, security, prestige, power, self expression, competitive instinct and desire for recognition.

"Engineers who built such monuments as the Panama canal, TVA, Boulder dam and other public works were paid nominal salaries, much less than they could have earned in private business. Their compensation was in large measure the satisfactions that accrue to accomplishment of tremendous projects," Drew said.

"The steady growth of the co-op movement in America attests to the subordination of the profit motive. U. S. co-ops now do a billion dollar business annually and number more than 24 million members. Managers of these enterprises draw very nominal salaries," Drew declared.

The report of the nominating committee was unanimously accepted. Officers for next year will be Dr. Richard C. Oudersluys, president, to succeed the Rev. Marion de Velder; William Slater, first vice-president; C. E. Drew, second vice-president; Randall C. Bosch, secretary-treasurer; Marvin C. Lindeman, new member of the executive committee; and J. J. Riemersma, nominating committee.

Klompens Prove Immune to Floods

Holland "klompens" came to the rescue at the sportsmen show in Cleveland public auditorium, Thursday, when a 33,000-gallon canvas tank of water broke and flooded spectators.

Mrs. Harold Vanderploeg and Mrs. Anthony Weller, representing Holland in full Dutch costume, send word they were not affected when the waters reached a four inch depth on the auditorium floor. Both local women stayed aloft in their klompens and reported they carried several other women to dry spots.

The show had to be closed after the damage was inflicted on the exhibits. Several units had exhibit folders in boxes on the floor which were ruined by water.

Police and attendants opened the exits, permitting the water to flood into the streets surrounding the downtown public hall.

The tank was used for a fly casting tournament at the show. The local booth includes the women in Dutch costumes and wooden shoe exhibits.

The show was closed and will re-open Friday night at 6 p.m., according to reports. It is scheduled to continue until April 10.

Soil Resources In State Better Than Ever Before

Conservationist Says Farmers Get Credit For Fine Crop Outlook

Michigan farmers are in a better position from the standpoint of soil resources than ever before, according to E. C. Sackrider, state conservationist for the U. S. Soil Conservation service. The outlook for the 1948 crop year is encouraging, Sackrider said, because of the fine progress farmers of the state have made during the last 12 months, ending March 1, in developing soil conservation programs.

Commenting upon the state figures, Clarence Reenders, chairman of the West Ottawa soil conservation district board of directors, said: "More and more farmers of Michigan are adopting soil conservation methods as a means of increasing their cash incomes and protecting the land, which is their capital investment, from further depreciation through erosion."

"We feel that co-operators of this district have turned in a progress record during the last 12 months which will compare favorably with that made in any other soil conservation district of the state."

"Using the special assistance given them on the land by technicians of the U. S. Soil Conservation service, our farmers have applied many conservation practices. Construction of 15,000 lineal feet of grass waterways during the last 12 months, seeding of 268 acres of new pastures, the establishment of 838 acres of strip cropping, tree planting on 1082 acres are just a few of the accomplishments achieved by our local co-operators during the past year."

Sackrider's report shows that farmers of Michigan have now organized a total of 39 soil conservation districts, three of which they voted in during the last 12 months. Judging from the widespread interest shown in other localities, Sackrider said, it appears reasonable to predict the state will have approximately 45 districts by July 1.

During the last 12 months, Michigan farmers developed 1,677 complete farm conservation plans

"Good udder health is necessary to best milking results... and the uniform, fast and gentle action of the De Laval Magnetic Speedway Milker helps maintain sound, healthy udders. This is especially true when it is used with the De Laval Speedway Method of Fast Milking. This is another very important reason for the outstanding success of the De Laval Magnetic Speedway in providing top milking results. Talk with us today."

Leftover Meats Used In Many Different Ways

Leftover meats can be used in various ways:
Diced in macaroni salad or cut into small pieces for a jellied meat ring.
Ground with potatoes, onion and pepper and made into a tasty hash.

Creamed with peas and served on hot biscuits.
Combined with vegetables, one can of mushroom soup and placed in a greased casserole and topped with baking powder biscuit dough. Bake for 1 hour or until biscuits are well browned.

Combined with vegetables, the gravy left from the roast, a few potatoes, a few small onions and made into a tasty stew. A small can of tomatoes may be added for additional flavor.

Cut into slices, warmed slowly in the gravy and served on slices of white bread as a hot sandwich.
Ground and mixed with cooked rice as stuffing for green peppers. Bake for one half hour.

If a larger piece of meat is more economical to buy you may use the left over meat in various ways. You may prepare your menus for luncheon and dinner for two or three days in this manner.

with technical assistance of the Soil Conservation service. This brought the state's current total up to 6,778 plans.

In addition, technicians of the service gave 503 other farmers assistance in starting one or more soil conservation practices.

The service also furnished Michigan farmers with engineering and technical assistance on group enterprises such as community drainage projects. During the last 12 months, 44 such projects were completed in this state.

At the present time, the state conservationist reports, soil conservation districts now cover 33 per cent of the state's 18 million acres of farm land.
Michigan farmers enter the spring farming season, Sackrider announced, with these totals of soil conservation practices already applied on the land; 17,496 acres being farmed on the contour; 17,166 acres contour strip cropped; 255,000 lineal feet of diversions built to control water run-off and soil washing; 34,000 acres of pasture improved; 20,000 acres of land brought into better production by drainage; 1,454,000 lineal feet of grass waterways established; 10,500 acres of woodlands already being improved and 27,000 acres of field and gully planting.

Olin A. Clay, of the U. S. Soil Conservation service who gives technical assistance to the local district co-operators have made splendid progress during the last 12 months. We hope they will make an even better record, however, in 1948. We now have applications from 110 farmers in this soil conservation district who have asked for technical assistance. We can't get to them as fast as we would like, but will reach them as rapidly as our facilities permit."

Governor Urges Farm-to-Prosper To 'Sell' Michigan

"In carrying out the suggestion of Gov. Kim Sigler, we hope that every organization competing in the West Michigan Farm to Prosper contest association in 1948 makes the 'sell Michigan' idea one of its goals," declared C. D. McNamee, president, today.

"We should and can meet the challenge made by the Governor that we take the leadership in this vital campaign to sell Michigan to the nation," the president added.

"How this is to be done can safely be left to the individual organizations. They have demonstrated that they know how to go out and do a job. There are hundreds of ways they can help sell Michigan not only to their own organization, their own community, their own township and county, but also to the rest of the state and the nation."

"We can sell Michigan by talking Michigan. To talk Michigan, we should know Michigan and the facts about this great state. So we hope that every organization will take steps first to sell Michigan to its own members. At least one meeting, 'Know Michigan' might be held by each competing organization," he said.

"John A. Chisholm, executive secretary of Farm-to-Prosper, has suggested that one way to sell Michigan would be at the county fairs in your section. Why not arrange Michigan displays and Michigan booths? We also can see that 'know Michigan' programs are held in our schools," advises McNamee.

"Another way would be to know the historic landmarks around you so that you can explain their full meaning to your friends and visitors. But these are only a few suggestions. Various organizations are certain to come up with others."

"The important thing is to see that we accept the Governor's challenge."

Holland Man at Percheron Sale

R. J. Kuiper, Holland, recently attended a purebred Percheron sale of national interest in Indiana, at which a number of the Clear Creek farm's show herd were auctioned off. Kuiper bought three young animals sired by the Clear Creek farm noted herd sire, Topper, 1946 winner of Premier Sire award.

Top Gallant, the young stallion foal of this group, is a full brother to the grand champion mare Clear Creek Betty; Clear Creek Lucy, was junior champion and reserve grand champion at the National in 1946 and grand champion at the American Royal, 1947; Clear Creek Emily, is an attractive young filly of show prospects.

In addition to these purchases, Kuiper, while also attending the dispersal sale of the well known Gwynn Stock farms at Noblesville, Ind., purchased the young stallion Enchanter's Baryton, a first prize gold medal winner over all draft breeds; Conoco, a grey stallion of the noted Koncarcalyps bloodlines, and winner of third of his class at Indiana State fair; a pair of young black mares, also of Koncarcalyps bloodlines.

Call Made for Clean-up Week

In a proclamation naming this week as Spring Clean-up week in Michigan, Gov. Kim Sigler has asked citizens to take an active part in the campaign to clean homes, farms, stores, and factories of all rubbish and fire hazards.

"Every minute of the day and night," the proclamation stated, "someone's home, farm or place of business in the United States is destroyed by fire. More than 11,000 Americans lose their lives each year, and well over a million dollars' worth of currently irreplaceable housing, goods and equipment go up in smoke each day."

Fred Roth, farm safety specialist at Michigan State college and secretary of the Michigan Rural Safety council, says that the loss of life and property by needless fire is a shameful record. In Michigan, nearly 200 people were killed by fire last year and the property loss totaled 22 million dollars. Of this total, over two and one-half million dollars is chargeable to farm fires according to the reports of the insurance companies.

Ninety per cent of all home and farm fires, he points out, could be prevented by cleaning out rubbish and unnecessary combustible materials and correcting other hazards.

The Rural Safety council, representing a cross-section of rural life in the state, is co-operating with the MSC extension service in sponsoring the drive to clean out fire hazards which have accumulated during the winter.

Ottawa County Granges Busy

Ottawa grange placed fifth in the Ottawa county 1947 Farm to Prosper contest.

It held a strawberry festival and crowned a queen. It held an agricultural fair giving prizes for the best showing. It painted its hall; kept meetings interesting, and increased membership. It held social events and remembered the ill. It provided wholesome entertainment for youth.

Some complied with requests sent out to paint mailboxes and stencil names thereon. Petitions were sent to the highway commission to correct and properly mark road hazards. Some have been corrected. The group still is working to get a sexton for Berlin cemetery. Plans have been made to mark graves of soldiers. The group sought to get bus service to Marne.

In promoting the best interests of the county plans were made to study county nominees and vote accordingly. It co-operated with the Red Cross drive, and is seeking to promote better farming methods. Members pledged themselves to vote. They joined in a drive for Friendship Train, and worked toward international peace.

Coopersville grange continued its public card parties every two weeks. It held a "hobo" breakfast, with money going to the general fund. A family picnic was held. Young people were given offices, and a chance to express themselves. Occasionally they put on the entire program.

A benefit was given for needy members. A canning day was held on which food was canned for the needy. The members followed a trade-at-home policy as a means of building the town.

The Grange attempted to get house delivery mail service for Coopersville; also sought to have parking lots established.

The Grange always had a flag salute, with singing of the national anthem, chaplain opening and closing meetings with prayer. Dues are paid for members in the armed forces.

Closing of Hens' Nests Advised

A practice which is followed by a great many poultrymen is closing the nests in the laying house each night. This is best done at the time of the last egg gathering.

Closing the nests has several advantages. It aids in keeping the nests clean. Many hens prefer to sit in the nests at night rather than roost. This results in the nest becoming dirty and increases the chance that eggs laid the next day will be soiled.

Second, this is rather an effective control of broodiness. A hen showing signs of broodiness and unable to get on the nest around dark is likely to lose the inclination to brood. This is certainly a saving in time and labor by eliminating the necessity of penning up a great number of broody hens.

Third, closing nests is an effective aid in mite control. Mites feed only at night. If there are never hens on nests for them to feed on, they won't stay there. If hens are allowed access to the nests at night, mites soon will be a problem.

It is very simple to close the open type nest. The perch on which the hens stand to approach the nests can be hinged and swung up to close the opening at night.

Feed Chicks Grain But Not Too Long

For several years it has been recommended that when baby chicks are first placed under the brooder, they be fed grain for only two or three days to prevent "pasturing up."

Some poultrymen, in finding it a good thing, however, have been inclined to carry grain feeding too far, and mash was not provided to the chicks soon enough. The continued grain feeding without mash resulted in stunting their growth or slowing up their development.

One way to take advantage of grain feeding, and yet take no chances in slowing up growth or injuring the chicks, is to provide the regular chick starting mash on paper flats, and cover it liberally with scratch grain and fine grit at the time the chicks are placed under the brooder.

In this way, the chicks will become accustomed to the mash, even they do not consume any great amount of it during the first few days under the brooder. After the second or third day, the grain feeding can be discontinued, as the chicks will have started eating mash. Thus there will be no upset or sudden change in feeding to give trouble.

Cheshire Man On State Board

Howard Busfield, prominent Jersey breeder of Cheshire township, Allegan county, was recently elected to the state board of directors of the Michigan Artificial Breeders Co-operative, Inc., according to F. Earl Haas, county club agent, Busfield is one of the leading dairymen of Allegan county and has been active in many farm organizations in the past. At present, in addition to the office to which he was just elected, he is on the board of directors, of the Allegan ABA secretary-treasurer of the West Allegan DHIA and secretary-treasurer of the Allegan County Jersey Breeders association.

The MABCI is a farmer co-operative artificial breeding association. Membership now totals 12,000 farmers with over 100,000 cows in 115 local associations. These farmers own 48 registered bulls which are housed in their own barn at Michigan State college.

Allegan county has two ABA groups in operation at present with over 200 members. One is centered around Allegan with Basil Smith as inseminator-manager. Sanford Plummer is the inseminator-manager for the Allegan-Fennville group. A new association in the Wayland-Martin-Plainwell area is in the process of organization and should be operating soon.

Bulls used in this artificial breeding work are either proven sires or sons of proven sires from outstanding dams. They provide an opportunity for the dairymen to secure excellent breeding for their dairy herd.
