A broken hitch pin caused this trailer to careen down a slight hill on State St. and upturn at the 22nd St. intersection Wednesday afternoon, causing an estimated $500 damage. The trailer, loaded with steel, was being pulled by Sims Motor Transport truck bound for Grand Haven. About 18,000 pounds of steel were scattered on the pavement, William Downey of Cincinnati, driver of the truck, said. As the trailer wobbled down the hill, it narrowly missed an auto going the opposite direction. No one was injured. (Sentinel photo)

Ottawa County $2,210 Short of Red Cross Goal

Ottawa county is an estimated $2,210 short of its Red Cross quota of $35,631, it was announced at a quarterly meeting of the county board of directors Wednesday night in Presbyterian church house in Grand Haven.

Several volunteers have not submitted complete reports, but it was estimated Grand Haven city is about $600 short and Holland city less than $300 short. The north half of the county has collected $12,461.85 towards its goal of $14,252.

A report was given from the county group attending the shelter managers' training course in Grand Rapids last Friday. Later the group divided into two conferences, one on fund raising and the other on home service. Mrs. William Hatton took charge of the latter.

The program of the Red Cross in the light of present active demands of servicemen was discussed. It was made clear that the responsibility of the Red Cross, financially and otherwise, is primarily for the active service man and therefore, some other phases of the veteran program may have to be limited. The case load in Ottawa county alone jumped 300 per cent since the beginning of the Korean war.

Price Regulation Explained Here

Charitable, religious and cultural organizations are exempt from price regulations as food handlers, it was pointed out at a discussion of OPS regulation 11 Tuesday afternoon.

These groups include organizations recognized as non-profit establishments by the Bureau of Internal Revenue and exempt from payment of income tax.

About 30 Holland area food and drink handlers gathered at the Warm Friend Tavern Tuesday to hear an explanation of the regulation by Karl I. Berger, business analyst of the food division of the Grand Rapids OPS.

Three methods of food price regulation are offered, Berger said. First is maintenance of the relationship between cost and sales; second is maintenance of the January relationship between low and high cost meals; and third is freezing of restaurant service charges.

Reports must be made to the district OPS not later than April 30, Berger said. These reports include statements of the ratio of food costs per dollar of sales, gross sales, cost of food, food costs per dollar of sales, gross costs per dollar of sales and, if alcoholic beverages are sold, the same data for that part of the operation.

County Board Opposes Collegiate Deferments

Clyde G. "Slim" Williams

'Slim' Williams Tells of Alaska At Annual Dinner

Clyde G. "Slim" Williams, authority on Alaska, Wednesday night presented color motion pictures and an account of the rugged north country at the annual Fish and Game club dinner in the Armory.

Williams, an off-and-on resident of Alaska for many years, showed films made on his last trip to the territory that displayed the rugged terrain of that country.

Travelling via the Alcan. highway, noted international route to Alaska through Canada, Williams' pictures gave an account of his latest trip with his wife and a group of boys.

Fishing for salmon seems to occupy Alaskans much of the time, with Williams showing pictures of Indians and natives of the country smoking and kipping the big red fish for a staple food item.

Williams filled his lecture with folklore and Indian tales of the north noting that the Indians have a different and complex series of superstitions regarding ghosts, the country, and just about every facet of northern life.

The wildlife is plentiful in Alaska, Williams said, but urged Fish and Game club members to write congressmen and ask for stricter game and fishing laws for the territory. He noted examples of wanton waste of fish and game by Americans moving into Alaska, particularly members of our armed forces. The armed forces are given freer sway in hunting and fishing with sometimes bad results, Williams said.

Dog teams aren't kept much any more, Williams said, although those that are are used for racing. In recent years, the Alaskan Husky sled dog has been bred with racing in mind. Williams said the dogs are so eager to run that team owners tie their sled to a tree before harnessing up the team. Then when the team is ready, the tie is cut and if the owner is fast enough, he goes with the team.

The Fish and Game club dinner that preceded Williams' talk was of fresh smelt—8,000 of them. A total of 1,500 rolls was served to the 400 guests, six gallons of pickles, and 60 gallons of coffee were consumed.

Hinde Vander Heuvel, new president of the club, took over reins of office at the dinner and discussed the club's plans for the coming year.

Chairman of the banquet was C. DeWaard. Henry Geerlings gave the invocation and group singing was led by Clarence J. Jalling. Members of the Holland Archers served at the dinner, under the direction of George Hoving.

A guest of the group was Mrs. Della Parker, grand instructress of the state and mother advisor of the assembly in Niles. Miss Anna Thomas, grand representative of Michigan to the state of Connecticut, also was introduced and was given grand honors.

Mrs. Lowell Eddy, mother advisor, read an invitation from Mother Coburn, supreme inspector of Michigan, to attend the 23rd annual Grand Assembly at Detroit Masonic Temple May 24 through 27.

Rainbow Assembly Has School of Instruction

Order of Rainbow for Girls, assembly No. 16, had a regular meeting and school of instruction Tuesday evening in the Masonic hall. Miss Joyce Bacheller, worthy advisor, presided.

A guest of the group was Mrs. Della Parker, grand instructress of the state and mother advisor of the assembly in Niles. Miss Anna Thomas, grand representative of Michigan to the state of Connecticut, also was introduced and was given grand honors.

Mrs. Lowell Eddy, mother advisor, read an invitation from Mother Coburn, supreme inspector of Michigan, to attend the 23rd annual Grand Assembly at Detroit Masonic Temple May 24 through 27.

The Ottawa county draft board went on record here as opposed to the college student deferment plan.

In letters sent to Col. Glenn B. Arnold, state director of selective service, Congressman Jerry Ford and Senator Homer Ferguson, the board said that it felt it was "unjust and unfair" to draft only those men who "do not have the means for a four or six year college course."

The protest letter was signed by three members of the five-man group. Signers included Chairman D. H. S. Rymer of Spring Lake, and R. L. Cook and A. J. Wessel of Grand Haven.

Board member George Felt of Grand Haven did not sign the letters because of disagreement with the rest of the board. O. W. Lowry of Holland was out of town.

The letters further contend that the draft deferment policy would lower the morale of fighting men "to feel that they are not smart enough" and do not belong to "that select and holy group who are too smart to fight."

The letters were drawn up and signed at a board meeting Tuesday afternoon at Grand Haven, following the departure of the 19-man April quota.

The letter follows: "Selective Service Board No. 74, Ottawa county, wishes to go on record as being definitely opposed to deferring or exempting college students by a so-called aptitude test."

"We feel that it is definitely unjust and unfair to the youth of our nation to force the unfortunate group who do not have the means for a four or six-year college course or career to shoulder the responsibility of preserving our American heritage of freedom and democracy."

"We feel that in a time of crisis in our country, the Army needs the brains and the flower of American manhood to preserve that freedom not only for ourselves but for those countries for which we are fighting."

"We also feel that it will definitely lower the morale of our fighting men to feel that they are not smart enough that they do not have the qualifications to be in that select and holy group who are too smart to fight."

"We are continually trying to tell the entire world of the advantages of our great democracy—let's not jeopardize any of our prestige by showing them just how we practice our own teachings at home."

"Let's be fair to all of our young men!"

Then follows the signatures of the majority of the county board. The deferment policy, which calls for aptitude tests to be taken by college and prospective college students, provides the board with another yardstick for deferments. The board is instructed to use results of these tests along with records of scholastic achievement before ruling on deferments.

Tests will be given at Hope college and other Michigan centers. About 100 count, students are affected by the policy.

38,106 Persons Get Letters Here

How big is Holland? The official 1950 census listed 15,742 residents.

But there are 38,106 persons who receive their mail addressed to "Holland, Mich."

Of this total, city carriers leave mail for 27,735 persons and rural carriers distribute mail for 10,371 persons.

These figures were compiled by the Holland post office for forwarding to the federal department in Washington.

The totals were arrived at by multiplying by four the number of family or city delivery boxes. The only element of guess-work creeps into the totals by assuming that an average of four persons get mail at each box. The rest of the figures are exact. Carriers leave mail at 9:56 family stops each day.

City carriers cover 12 square miles each day, while the entire carrier force covers 120 square miles each day. Rural coverage extends five miles east and five miles west, plus six miles south and six miles north.

In addition, there are 374 business stops in the city.

Supervisors Will Vote Friday on Voting Machines

Committee Recommends Purchasing 66 Machines For Ottawa County

Grand Haven (Special)—Ottawa supervisors are considering a recommendation to purchase 66 voting machines for the county. A vote is expected to be taken Friday.

The recommendation came Wednesday from the rules and legislation committee which has been studying voting machines. At a cost of $1,240 each, 66 machines would cost $81,840, less discount for quantity buying, plus freight charges.

Henry Slaughter of Tallmadge township said he didn't think the county should waste its money on voting machines and added he'd be willing to buy his own.

Mayor Martin Boon of Grand Haven said machines wouldn't be a waste of money and pointed to the county's surplus of $100,000. Main reasons advanced for the move is that voting is easier and quicker, absolute secrecy, and an accurate account is immediately known.

The committee's survey revealed 34,282 registered electors in the county, and the largest county vote was 25,788 cast in 1944. Assuming a low figure of 500 voters per machine, the arrangement would require 58 voting machines. Because some precincts have as few as 175 registered voters and others have more than 500, some adjustment would be necessary and the committee concluded 66 machines would be needed.

Figures available for the last election list expenditures of the county at $6,171.96 which included some $3,300 on ballots alone. Machines also would make a reduction in costs of canvassing boards and other miscellaneous costs. A recent last year cost the county 1,100, and the committee said it was safe to assume voting machines would save more than 75 per cent in such an event.

Grand Haven city and Polkton township already have voting machines and reimbursement would be made, should the county project be adopted. Muskegon city has had voting machines since 1923.

The committee said machines would reduce personnel at the polls, since a precinct would need only three persons for one machine, four persons for two and five persons for three. Several more are needed when ballots are used.

Machines can be rented for $150 a year, the rental price to apply against the purchase price. Machines also could be paid for over a period of 10 years.

"There is no question in our minds that the savings created would more than pay for the cost of the machines over a period of 10 years," the committee said. Members are John Ter Avast, John Gallen and Martin Boon.

Uniform Isn't Needed To Make an Arrest

Allegan (Special)—James Swander, 21, Kalamazoo, has discovered that a uniform isn't a necessary garb for a policeman.

Swander, started a five-day term in the county jail for reckless driving, threw away the ticket last week in Wayland when an overalled street worker arrested him.

When the Kalamazoo man didn't answer the ticket, Waylan's Harlie McBride, who doubles as patrolman and street worker, signed a complaint and warrant issued. He told sheriff Louis Johnson that Swander insulted him because he wasn't in police uniform.

Swander, arraigned before Judge Ervin Andrews in municipal court, was found to have a license which was revoked last summer for drunk driving. In addition to

Port Authority Seeks Applicants For Harbormaster

Port of Holland Control Group Members Named

Applications for the position of harbormaster now are being accepted by the Port of Holland Authority.

The position was created under the port authority ordinances recently passed by Holland city, Park and Holland townships.

As outlined by temporary authority chairman Edwin Raphael, the committee will consider the following qualifications in hiring a harbormaster:

He must be non-drinking, have his own boat and know the lake. He will be employed from June 1 through Sept. 15 plus week-ends through the winter. He will be on call at all times, and will make the rounds of the lake depending on the volume of water traffic.

Sealed applications, including financial bids for services, should be sent to Raphael at 157 North Central Ave. They will all be opened and examined at the same time, at a meeting on April 17. Applications and bids must be postmarked no later than April 14.

Raphael emphasized that the low financial bid will not necessarily be accepted by the authority. The only provision in the ordinance for a harbormaster is that the authority "shall appoint a harbormaster and fix his salary within the budget allowance."

The ordinance further says that "the harbormaster and any assistants shall be deputized to enforce all provisions of this ordinance and all regulations adopted by the Port of Holland Authority."

The ordinance was passed by the governing boards of the three municipal units. Holland township okayed the measure on Dec. 15, Park township on Feb. 5, and Holland city on March 21.

To administer the ordinance, a 13-man authority was set up, and most of the members have been ratified by the three governments.

Holland city okayed Cornelius Strop of the Holland Fish and Game club, Warren S. Merriam of the Macatawa Bay Yacht club, and Edwin Raphael representing sail and power boat owners. Park township ratified Jack Grissen of the water lily services, Donald F. Jeske representing ship yard owners, boat builders and docks, and Leonard Van Regenmortel of resort property owners. Holland township approved Charles Conrad of the Tulip City Boat club, Stanley Curtis of the Macatawa Bay property owners and Charles R. Sligh of the Macatawa Bay Water Ski club. One member representing the Chamber of Commerce has not yet been appointed.

Other members of the authority include delegates from the boards of the government units. Alderman Robert Visscher was appointed by council. C. C. Wood by Park township board, and Peter Sienk by Holland township board.

Group Considers Chamber Building

Plans for construction of a building to house the Chamber of Commerce and possibly the Netherlands Museum and Little Netherlands are under consideration by the Chamber planning committee. The group, under chairmanship of James H. Klompars, met Friday afternoon to discuss advisability of the project.

Although no definite action was taken on the proposal, Klompars appointed Marvin C. Lindeman, Peter Kromann and W. C. Wichers as a committee to study possibilities of joining the Chamber, museum and Little Netherlands display in the same building.

After extensive discussion of a proper site for the combination building project, Klompars appointed Robert Notter, Russell Boeve and Alvin S. Kohn to study the location aspect.

Klompars announced that his committee will meet again next week for further study of the proposal.

Feed Grain Stocks Down From Year Ago

Many Michigan farmers may find themselves short of feed grains before the next harvest rolls around, warns R. C. Hoglund, agricultural economist at Michigan State college.

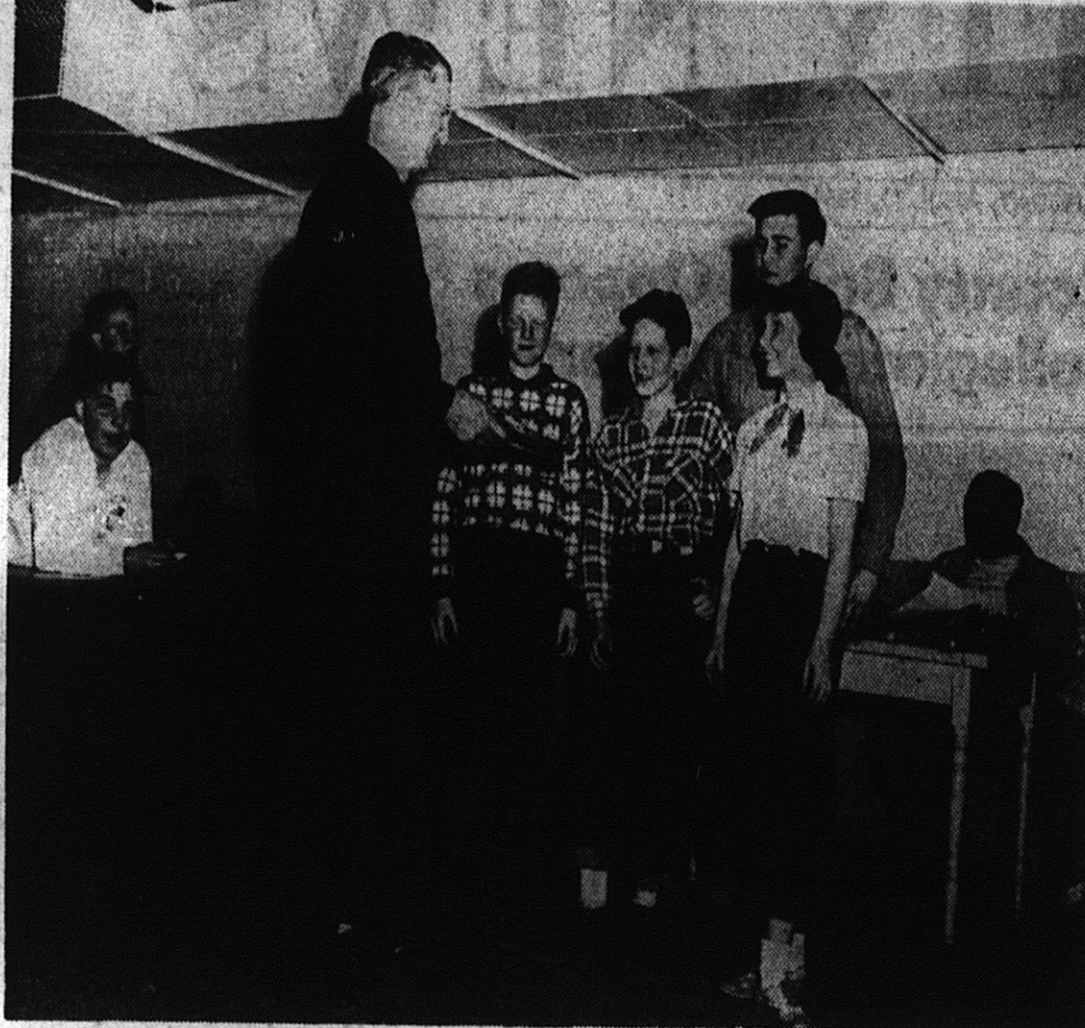

Stocks of corn, oats and barley on Michigan farms and in elevators on Jan. 1, 1951 were 15 per cent smaller than a year ago.

With increased livestock production expected during 1951, this will mean a 16 to 20 per cent reduction in feed grains available per animal unit.

The smaller feed-grain supply in Michigan is due largely to a 22 million bushel reduction in the 1950 corn crop. This shortage can be relieved by increased feed imports from other states and by more efficient use of present feed stocks, Hoglund advises.

Champion Wins Sentinel's First Annual Tourney

Bill Allen, who played table tennis for 18 years before coming to Holland, took The Sentinel's first annual Table Tennis championship from a field of 22 of Holland's best table tennis players Friday night. The tourney was played in the high school gym and managed by the Recreation department.

Allen defeated Dell Koop in the finals 21-10, 21-15 to cop th trophy. He showed driving form and a vicious backhand that Koop couldn't stop.

Before coming to Holland a year ago, Allen lived in Kansas City and Chicago. In Kansas City, he was ranked among the first 10 players of the city, competing there over a period of eight years.

In Chicago, Allen played a great deal, but did not compete in tourney play. His permanent residence is 287 West 15th St. He is married and has two children.

He later teamed with Larry Van Meeteren in the men's doubles matches but the team lost to George Moes and Arthur Wyman. Moes and Wyman took the doubles championship in that match, 21-16, 21-21.

Joe Moran, Recreation head, said he was pleased with tourney results and indicated he would try to set up a permanent table tennis center somewhere in the city where players could meet and practice. Probably, he said, it would be in an elementary school somewhere in the city and be open one night each week.

Shrubs Need Mulch Until Warm Weather

You'd better not get your shrubs and other landscape plants "out of bed" too soon this spring, cautions Joseph T. Cox, extension specialist in landscape architecture at Michigan State college.

There still is a chance for a lot of freezing and thawing. Heaving of roots in the soil will prove detrimental if no mulches are used or are removed too soon.

Let mulches such as leaves, straw, or peat moss remain until you are sure the spring weather is here to stay, he advises. Then work this material into the soil about your plants instead of raking and burning. Your soil will improve in humus content, water holding capacity, and plant food elements.

Comedy, True Harmony Pace Quartet Parade

Rich barber shop chords and comedy ranging from corny gags to sophisticated patter kept two audiences highly entertained at the fifth annual parade of quartets Friday night in Holland theater, sponsored by the Holland chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America.

Easily the most popular in show-manship and entertainment were the Omaha Kernels, described as the Boogie Men of Barber Shop, who mixed singing, instrumental music and high jinks into a palatable presentation.

Not only did they sing some old songs with a new melody, and new melodies with curious twists, but they brought an assortment of instruments from harmonicas to washbats for their boogie numbers. One of the most unusual acts was the "Last Piano Quartet" in which all four members managed to get in on the act, playing some rousing rhythm numbers.

The Kernels, wearing snappy gray suits, were a bit late for their scheduled spot in the first show, but a little rearrangement of the program gave them plenty of time to strut their stuff. Their plane connections had caused a delay.

The Schmitt brothers, four members of a family of 11 boys and six girls of Two Rivers, Wis., also arrived late because of plane schedules and missed the first show entirely.

The Antlers of Miami, formerly of Flint, are long-time favorites in Holland and their smooth style of singing brings out the best in barber shop harmony. Now singing professionally out of Miami, the Antlers appeared in casual clothes this year, wearing a different outfit at the two shows and something new at the After Glow following the programs. They sang several new selections, yet kept old favorites rolling.

The Tune Vendors of Dowagiac, newcomers to Holland parades, are a smooth outfit, singing true barber shop style. Most entertaining was their rendition of "The Curse of An Aching Heart" in which the tenor treated the audiences to some pretty good falsetto.

Additional comedy was provided by the Clown Princes, a Muskegon trio specializing in comic numbers from a hillbilly angle.

The Windmill chorus under the direction of Robert E. Moore appeared twice on each program, singing oldtime favorites and new numbers, in a choral style developed under Willis Diekema. Besides handling the chorus with finesse, Moore proved by his deadpan patter that he could keep up and perhaps even top the gags pulled earlier.

John R. Bultendorp of Muskegon was master of ceremonies.

Zeeland (Special) — Bern Raterink, Zeeland's trim track star, took three more first place wins Friday afternoon as the Chix collected six firsts, seven seconds, and seven thirds to down Lee high school of Grand Rapids 59-49.

Raterink's 15 points were garnered in the 100-yard dash, the 220-yard dash and the shot. He trimmed 4 second from his first meet run this year, going the 100 in 10.2 seconds. Against Wyoming Park, Raterink did the century in 10.6 over a slow track. He came back to take the 220 in 23.5 and later put the lead 44 feet.

Teammate Bob Myaard took the 120-yard high hurdles for Zeeland in 18.3. Cousins Duane and Lyle Hop gave the Chix their other two firsts, Duane taking the 180 low hurdles in 23.2 and Lyle winning the 880-yard run in 2:14.6.

Lee's relay teams took both relays, the medley and the 880. The mile also went to Lee, Bill Vandeskien winning in 5:14.5. Paul Lanstra of Lee was high pointer for the losers, taking first in the 440 and second in the 880-yard run.

Zeeland did not have an entry in the pole vault. Jim Decater and Ed Schral tied in this event for Lee, going eight feet. Lee also took the high jump and the broad jump from Zeeland. Mark Oppendike high jumping 5 feet 3 inches while teammate Ed Sanford broad jumped 18 feet 14 inches.

The victory was the second of the season for Coach Joe Newell's athletics, having downed Wyoming Park earlier this week.

Maroon Tennis Squad Outpoints Grandville Team

Coach Louis Damstra's Holland Christian tennis squad got its season off to a good start Thursday on the 21st St. courts by taking a 3-2 decision from the Grandville netters. The match was not too well played inasmuch as many of the boys had seen little or no practice this season because of cold weather.

Christian swept three doubles matches while dropping both singles encounters. Damstra said it was still early in the season to predict the strength of his squad, although he was satisfied with the showing in the first match.

The Maroons have a comparatively young squad. Of the boys who played Thursday, two are sophomores, one freshman, two juniors and three seniors. The Dutch mentor said he is anxious to give other freshmen and sophomores a chance to see what they can do.

Match results are: Singles—Dan Walma (G) def. Dave Schreur (HC) 11-9, 6-1; Norm Kiel (G) def. Bruce Bouman (HC) 6-4, 6-2.

FACTS ARE NOT DANGEROUS

A curious thing has happened in Houston, Texas. From a modern metropolis like that might be expected
a reasonable degree of intelligence, more certainly than from the people of a back-country village out of touch with contemporary civilization. But what happened in Houston is not only curious, it is likewise disheartening.

The board of education of Houston has formally voted to ban a text book called "American Government" because it said that the United States system of government is not pure capitalism.
The book was written by an Oregon
state history professor named Frank Magruder, against whose Americanism not even a whisper has ever been raised. It was published by one of the leading school book publishers in America, with headquarters in Boston. It has been adopted by a large number of schools throughout the country and has been in use for several years.

But it contained a single paragraph which contained a statement that the "postal system,
power projects, and progressive taxes are bits of socialism; and public free education and old age assistance are examples of communism."

The board of education of Houston seemed to fear that the pupils of that city would be seduced to socialism and communism by the statements that our post office is socialistic and our old age assistance communistic. Both of these statements are purely and simply facts. The Houston board seems to believe that it is a crime
to state simple facts.

To take the post office system
first, there is no possible way in which anyone can hope to deny that the post office is not socialistic government machinery.
The fact is so obvious that it would be silly to try to make anything else out of it. And the communistic nature of old age assistance
is equally clear.

If the people of this country are going to lose their heads to such a degree that the statement of a fact becomes wrong in itself, where are we going to stop? A school that teaches what socialism or communism is like is not therefore teaching socialism or communism. A school that teaches what ancient Greek religion was like is not teaching and advocating Greek religion.

It is fanatics like the Houston school board members who are doing the real harm in breaking down the intelligence of the American people. We need to keep our eyes open but we still need to use our heads.

The Period of the Patriarchs
Genesis 15:1-6; 17:5-8, 19
By Henry Geertling

The rise and spread of heathenism made it necessary for God to form a nation for Himself through which salvation might be received and preserved, and a kingdom of God, opposed to the kingdoms of the world, be established. He,
therefore selected first, one man,
Abram, then a family, that of Jacob,
then a nation, that of Israel, separated them from all others to make them His own people, to whom He specially reveal Himself,
His truth and His purposes.

Other nations followed their own course and learned by sad experience that it was impossible to know God, to find peace for the soul, and the blessed life, without His revelation and the gift of His Son.

The age to which Abram belonged was one of blind unbelief.
Men did not have the fear of God
in their hearts and there was little thought abroad of pleasing Him.
In an age like that Abram was born. His soul was made of different stuff. His heart was in tune with the Almighty. The noise of the world was not so loud that he could not hear the voice from on high. The tide of evil was not so strong that he could not stem it and make his way toward God.

Whatever else he might be disposed to call this man, we must call him the man of faith. He believed God and it was reckoned to him for righteousness. No sane person would make the pilgrimage he made, and for the purposes that stirred his soul, unless he believed there was some worthwhile reward at the end. If we were to ask Jew, Christian, or Mohammedan who the man of faith
was, they would all answer, Abraham.

It must be remembered that he had no tangible evidence of the Lord's promise, but the prospect must have appealed to him. After all, faith has its foundations in God. It is not something uncertain.
It does not beckon us forward
and land us in a mirage.

There are a great many people who feel sorry for Isaac. They think he does not compare favorably with his father Abraham, or his son Jacob. I wonder if that is the way we think of men of peace. They are not very aggressive.
They are not very militant.
They may not achieve any strikingly noticeable thing. But they have their place in the world and their place is no small one. It is more than possible that when the results are all calculated, it will be found that they did as much for the world as those whose names are written large in history and their figures carved in marble.

Someone has said that Isaac is like a valley between two hills,
his father representing the one hill and his son the other. We are on the eve of that day when men of peace will take their place
with the mightiest of the mighty.
Their like will not be popular in the days when differences are settled at the cost of life and property.

There were differences between Abraham and his son Isaac. The father seems not to have been a tiller of the soil. He led his flocks and herds over vast stretches of land in search of pasture, going even as far as Egypt. With Isaac the real cultivation of the soil began,
perhaps because he found it necessary. He, too, had thought of leading his stock into Egypt to escape the hardship of the famine, but God forbade him. This meant that if he expected to sustain his livestock on the parched land of southern Canaan, he would be obliged to till the soil
and irrigate it with the water from the wells his men would dig.

He found it necessary, owing to the severity of the drought, to take his flocks to a more favorable region in the land of the Philistines.
Drastic action was bound to result on the part of the people into whose midst Isaac had moved. They thought the most successful method of forcing him to withdraw was to close up the wells from which he procured water for his families and for his stock. He may have been too proud to fight but he was not too proud to work.

The Philistines filled the wells
he dug. He must have felt that his peaceful course was justified
when he discovered that the enemy ceased to hinder him had enough water for themselves. His forbearance was but a forerunner of that perfect example of love found in Jesus and manifested
supremely in his sacrificial death
upon the cross.

The escape of Jacob from the justifiable wrath of Esau was the beginning of a new day for him.
It started him on the upward path, away from fraud and trickery and toward the great and honored place he was to occupy.
But he was to have many influencing experiences. He was to discover much about God, about himself, about the manner of life, and about the destiny awaiting him.

The wayside experience at Bethel, the long sojourn in Haran,
and the new outlook on life contributed to his remaking. He was a changed man when he made his way out of Haran. A new name was bestowed upon him in token of the new man that he had become. The change from Jacob to Israel announced to all who knew him that no longer was he given to supplanting and seeking unfair advantage. God had entered his life and supervised these changes and taken note of them as they progressed. Here is God. This was his first great discovery.

A new conception of God came to be his. It was a fascinating discovery. It meant that God could travel with him. It meant that he could not deceive anybody without being seen by God. The place became holy because God was there.

It was a present reality to him.
It impelled him to consecration.
The very spot became sacred. No matter when he should pass that way it would never be the same again and he would never be the same person again.

Kalamazoo Man Clears
Up Ticket by Letter

Myron L. Ruster of Kalamazoo is a trusting man.

A few weeks ago, Ruster received a ticket from city police for speeding, but business and illness kept him from coming to Holland to clear up the matter, he explained in a letter to the police department.

Along with the letter, Ruster
enclosed a signed blank check,
with instructions to fill in the proper amount. Tuesday in Municipal Court, Judge Vander Meulen filled in $12 — total assessment in fine and costs.

Holland
In 1916

(Following is the 502nd in the series of weekly articles taken from news of the Holland Daily Sentinel published more than 35 years ago.)

The name Armour & Co. of Chicago has always been associated with beef, lamb, pork and mutton,
they being the largest live stock buyers and meat dealers in the world. But with the live stock goes a tail and a hide. The company has utilized nearly everything connected with the animals
but the squeal of the pig and they may convert that into barnyard overtures for phonograph records.
Information has just reached Holland that three tanneries belonging to L. R. Gleason & Sons Co.
and one tannery the property of the William Irwin & Co. have been purchased by the Armour Co.

The De Pree Chemical Co. remembered their employees in a unique way by the distribution to each employee of a merchandise certificate good with any merchant in Holland, each certificate drawn for a certain amount of merchandise based upon the pay of the employee and the length of time in service.

The Rev. John Banninga has returned to Holland after a Boston trip.

Over one hundred Michigan
weekly newspapers have raised their subscription rates to $1.50 per year within the past few months and the list continues to grow. This is due to the cost of white print paper and every other material going into the make up of a paper.

Madeline Van Putten entertained the children of her Sunday school class from the North Side Mission. There were 14 boys present. Prize winners at games were

The hoodooed schooner, "Alice Stafford," recently rescued from a dangerous course on Lake Michigan by the Coast Guard and the tug Harvey Watson of this city, attempted a crossing to Chicago
with its precious cargo of potatoes, valued at $17,000 Sunday.
With the tug, "Iowa," from Chicago towing it, the vessel left the Holland harbor at 1 p.m. Sunday.
At 4 o'clock it was back in this port, having gone about eight miles out and been forced to turn back because of leaky seams. The 11,000 bushels of potatoes will have to be unloaded and sent by rail to the owner in Chicago. This news story appeared in the Tuesday, Dec. 26, issue.

The Fourteenth Street Christian Reformed church Sunday school

Albert Raak, who has been superintendent of the First Reformed church Sunday school for the past two years, has resigned his office, as well as retiring from the consistory of that church as an elder.

The residence of the Rev. Samuel
M. Zwerner at Cairo, Egypt, narrowly escaped demolition and the lives of the missionary and his family endangered in a recent Zeppelin raid. A bomb dropped in front of their home, but no damage was done.

The egg boycott has reached Pontiac. The members of two women's clubs, the Research and the

the class to meet at the City Hall.

congregation was possibly more typical of the Christmas homecoming than any other in the city,
began a story in the Wednesday,
Dec. 27, issue. In the assembly were former members of the church now scattered over the country during the year.

Farm-to-Prosper
Limits Defined

Starting in 1952 participation in the West Michigan Farm-to-Prosper contest should be confined to community organizations rather than being extended to country-wide organizations. Such was the consensus of a committee of the contest board of trustees, to which the question had been referred by the board at its winter meeting.

The committee, made up of county vice-presidents met Monday in Muskegon.

During the past few years several countywide organizations have participated. While the spirit which has prompted this is highly appreciated, feeling of the committee was that were the contest opened to countywide organizations it could lead to lessening of interest among community groups subordinate to the county organizations, thus defeating the fundamental purpose of the contest.

As some countywide organizations already are enrolled for 1951, it was felt the limitation should not be imposed before next year.

The committee also recommended that in making reports on activities organizations state the number of members.

Directors Prod
Civil Defense

Knots that start in top echelons
of Holland's civil defense program slowly are being untied
with weekly meetings of the coordinating staff.

Director A. E. Rackes and his aide, Alfred Joldersma, Tuesday appointed members of the coordinating staff to prod leaders of the separate operating divisions.

The weekly meetings are held in the second floor room of the police station.

Ken Zuverink was named to work with Dr. William Weststrate, who is in charge of the medical division. Gerrit Vanden Bos will work with Donald Crawford in organizing wardens and Al Dyk will help Harold Klaasen in setting up the welfare division.

George Copeland was selected training chief for the civil defense program in Holland. His duties will concern education of the public through the newspaper and radio station and later through distribution of cards and booklets
on "Survival Under Atomic Attack."

Henry Streur was selected to work with the plant protection
phase of civil defense, and Louis
Dalman will work with Millard
Weststrate on utilities.

Under the civil defense setup,
the co-ordinating staff helps operating heads and gives advice
when needed. Also the staff members can bring particular problems to meetings where they can be ironed out.

College English Majors Stage Annual Banquet

The Hope college English Majors club held its annual banquet Monday evening in the Juliana room in Durfee hall. The affair was attended by 60 students, faculty members and wives. Dr. Clarence De Graaf, head of the English department, presided and acted as master of ceremonies.

Highlight of the evening was the presentation by William Eerdman, representing a publishing company of Grand Rapids, of two annual awards of $50 for the best work done in poetry and prose. According to Eerdman, purpose of the awards is to add additional incentive to students' efforts in creative writing. Competition for the awards is open to all regular students on Hope's campus. Selection of the winners will be made by faculty members of the English department and the awards will be presented at annual commencement.

Featured speaker of the evening was Dr. Henry Zylstra, Harvard graduate and head of the English department at Calvin college. Dr.

Zylstra presented a lecture on T. S. Eliot and interpreted some of his poems. He pointed out that T. S. Eliot, through his poetry, is attempting to make a positive Christian synthesis in an essentially pagan culture.

During the evening Dr. De Graaf announced that Glenn Van Haltsma of Zeeland, a graduate of the class of 1949 has been granted a $1,150 fellowship at Syracuse university to continue his studies toward a Ph. D. degree. Dr. John W. Hollenbach, dean of the college, announced that Miss Constance McConnell, senior English major, has been awarded the Michigan Regents fellowship, selected annually by the Hope college faculty.

Devices to Aid Beet Production Says MSC Agent

No agricultural crop in Michigan has felt the effect of mechanization more than sugar beets, Michigan State college agricultural engineers reported today. And they forecast even greater mechanization in the production of a crop which until recent years presented a gigantic demand for "stoop labor."

Clarence Hansen, MSC agricultural engineer who has worked with officials of Farmers and Manufacturers Beet Sugar association on developing several mechanical devices, says as much as a third of the Michigan acreage will be handled by "down-the-row thinners" this year.

Last year, less than one percent of the acreage was mechanically thinned, Hansen reports. Industry and college research co-operation with a southern manufacturer of "cotton choppers" has resulted in development of a four-row weeder-thinner. Barring material shortages, more than 1,000 of these machines are expected to be delivered to eastern area growers this spring with most of them coming into Michigan.

Hansen says field tests show that use of the machine eliminates as much as 35 percent of the labor. Of greatest importance is that its use permits farmers to get the beets thinned and blocked as fields are ready and not "too late" as is often the case with hand labor shortages.

The device can also be used on corn and field bean crops, Hansen reports.

Punching Deputy In Nose Just Isn't The Thing to Do

Allegan (Special)—Arthur Culbertson, 23, Shelbyville, paid a fine on a misdemeanor Monday and then landed in jail for a punch in the nose he gave an arresting officer.

It climaxed a fracas on Plainwell's main street Saturday, in which Culbertson and his brother, Francis, 18, escaped from police once, Arthur was arrested later, but police are still seeking his younger brother.

The trouble began when the pair were seized for making a disturbance at the Plainwell city hall. The Culbertsons escaped Police Officer Russell King, who nabbed Albert later in the day when he re-appeared downtown.

When Deputy Roy Priest and Walter Runkel arrived from Allegan to take Culbertson to jail, Culbertson was reluctant to go. While Justice Harold Lent was reading the warrant, charging him with being drunk and disorderly and resisting arrest, Culbertson grabbed the paper and wadded it up. Then, as he was being put in the sheriff's car, he hit Runkel with his handcuffs, breaking the deputy's nose.

Justice Lent fined him $25 plus $9.10 costs on the first charge, and then Runkel read the new warrant. Culbertson's trial is set for April 17.

Culbertson's brother is being sought on a warrant for being drunk and disorderly and resisting arrest. It will be his fourth arrest here since last September.

Sent to Circuit Court

Albert Bruursema, 23, of 13 West Ninth St., waived examination in Municipal Court Monday on charges of non-support, and was bound over to Circuit Court for appearance later this week. Bond of $500 was not furnished. At the same time, an earlier charge of disorderly conduct against Bruursema was dismissed.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Van Lente work on models for new gas modeled planes which hobbyists fly on 50-foot lines. So far as is known, Mrs. Van Lente is the only local woman who constructs and flies her own model planes. She is working on a model of the Mulligan plane used in Bendix races about 10 years ago. Her husband is working from a blueprint spread on the table for a military model of an Army trainer.

Model Planes Absorbing Hobby for Local Couple

What's your hobby?

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Van Lente pursue the interesting hobby of model building, and the basement of their home at 159 West 20th St. is a fascinating place set up with work tables and codies of tools.

Some of their plane models will be displayed at Holland's third annual hobby show May 9 through 19, in the Holland Youth Center. The public will be admitted free the first week, and a modest fee will be charged during the second week.

The Van Lentes specialize in plane building and sometimes spend 50 to 60 hours in assembling certain models. Some have plastic canopies. Most of them have framework planked with wood. Sometimes wood is ready for assembly and sometimes every bit must be carved.

Model building is an unusual hobby for a woman, but Mrs. Van Lente holds her own in the select group. She can do the entire job from start to finish.

In flying the model planes, a mixture of alcohol and castor oil is used to fuel the one cylinder motor. A glow plug is used instead of a spark plug to eliminate the ignition system. Started by battery, the tiny motor runs on the same principle as a diesel after it gets going. And once it starts, the plane flies around on its 50-foot line until the fuel is used up.

The average flight is 10 minutes on an ordinary tank. In flight, these model planes can speed up to 50 and 60 miles an hour. The operator controls the altitude and can put the planes through intricate maneuvers and loops.

The local airport is a favorite spot for practice flying. During the summer, enthusiasts gather on the practice field on Hope campus and sometimes at River-view park. A smooth field is a necessity since cracks in landings are quite common. Motors are seldom ruined in crashes.

Ray Heavener is taking charge of the model building exhibits for the hobby show.

Exports Could Be Increased Economist Says

Agricultural exports could be increased in the months ahead if supplies of farm products are available, believes L. W. Witt, Michigan State college agricultural economist.

Changes in our foreign trade picture are making more dollars available to foreign countries. The MSC economist points out that foreign countries are shipping us more raw materials and products such as rubber, tin, steel, textiles and other manufactured goods. These imports are needed by our growing mobilization economy.

With foreign countries in the market for more of our goods, agricultural staples such as wheat, oil, seeds, tobacco, land, canned milk, oranges and apples should benefit from probable reductions in foreign trade barriers.

The most significant recent change in our international trade situation, according to Witt, was the upswing in U. S. imports since the start of war in Korea. In August 1950 we bought more from other nations than we sold for the first time since June 1937. Imports totaled $819 million, exports $761 million. A year earlier imports were only $491 million with exports of $883 million.

An import balance of trade, once feared by many people, should now be welcomed by everyone for the boost these imports can give to our defense effort, Witt explained.

Simple Steps Cut Mastitis

Dipping milking machine teat cups in a chlorine solution before and after milking each cow is a good practice to help control spread of mastitis, advises D. L. Murray, extension dairyman at Michigan State college.

In this procedure, he recommends that teat cups be rinsed in water to remove the milk film before dipping in a chlorine solution of not more than 200 ppm (parts per million) strength. Follow directions for the correct strength.

The pre-water rinse will help to avoid the milk-chlorine film that is difficult to wash off and will also aid in maintaining the strength of the chlorine solution. When milk is added to the chlorine solution, the chlorine solution will be used up more quickly and not do a job of killing bacteria.

AAUW Members Go to Convention

Prof. Laura A. Boyd, president of Holland branch, American Association of University Women; Mrs. Henry Steffens, president-elect; Miss Emma Reverts, Hope college dean of women, and Mrs. Titus Van Haltsma plan to leave this week-end for Atlantic City, N. J., where they will attend the biennial convention of AAUW.

Miss Boyd and Miss Reverts will represent Hope college as well as the local branch at the convention.

An analysis of freedom and its meaning in the world today will keynote the convention thinking, according to Dr. Sarah G. Blanding, president of Vassar college, chairman of the program committee. There will be three major speeches dealing with present-day concepts of freedom and delegates will devote one session to considering how the AAUW program may contribute to the defense and maintenance of freedom in the difficult years ahead.

Dr. Althea K. Hottel, popular president of the association will address the more than 1,000 delegates and visitors, representing the 115,000 members and 1,160 branches, on how individual Americans can contribute to the reality of freedom in the world. Dr. Roy F. Nichols, internationally known historian and head of the University of Pennsylvania history department will introduce the convention theme. Dr. Nichols won the 1949 Pulitzer prize for his book, "Disruption of American Democracy."

Freedom and the individual will be discussed by Norman Cousins, editor of the Saturday Review of Literature. Other prominent speakers will be Dr. Mabel Newcomer, professor of economics at Vassar college, Dr. Ina Corinne Brown of Scarritt college, Nashville, Tenn., Dr. Edward Mead Earle of the Institute of Advanced Studies, Princeton, and Dr. John K. Fairbank, professor of history at Harvard. Dr. Helen D. Bragdon, new general director of AAUW will also speak.

One session will be devoted to fellowships, the Association's major national project, and following presentation of the AAUW $2,500 Achievement Award, the two recipients of AAUW international grants, Dr. Salard Juhavart of Thailand and Dr. Johanna de Zwaan of the Netherlands, will bring greetings.

Dr. Frances E. Moran, president of the International Federation of University Women, has come from Dublin, Ireland, and will address the convention on the role of the IFUW can and does play in the world today. United Nations representatives also will speak.

KILL DISEASE GERMS. Buildings in which livestock and poultry are housed should be cleaned and disinfected to kill disease germs and parasites, say Michigan State college agricultural authorities.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ash, who is a centenarian today, still carries out her lifelong hobby of raising flowers. Although she always used to have "a gardenful," she now limits her garden to potted plants in the house. She'll celebrate her 100th birthday anniversary by greeting friends and relatives at an open house.

Oldest Douglas Resident Celebrates Century Mark

Douglas—Today Mrs. Elizabeth Ash celebrates one century of living. Saugatuck townships oldest resident, she is celebrating the 100-year-mark with open house, given by her family for friends and relatives in Douglas. She'll greet guests from 2 to 5 p.m.

"Grandma Ash," who would be "much happier about my 100th birthday if I could work like I used to," makes her home with her son Alvan Ash and family. She has lived in Douglas for 61 years. Born in Ohio, she had lived in Diamond Springs where she married Frederick Ash, a lumberman. She arrived in Douglas in 1892 when the saw mill was still the principal industry. As one of Douglas' busiest women, she raised four children, took an active part in projects of the Methodist church and was an active Macabebes, kept boards and did all kinds of handiwork.

With a special love for babies, Mrs. Ash later helped to raise her seven grandchildren.

Two years ago—when she was 98—Mrs. Ash was ironing and tripped over the iron cord. The resulting fractured hip kept her down for some time, but she's completely recovered now and carries on one of her lifelong hobbies—raising flowers.

Among her birthday guests tonight will be her daughter, Mrs. Ruby Zuber of Holland, her son, Charles of Douglas, seven grandchildren, seven great grandchildren and one great great grandchild.

Neighbors Help Burned Out Folks

Allegan (Special) — Neighbors of a Trowbridge township family, burned out two weeks ago when a kerosene stove explosion started a fire, have lent a helping hand in typical rural fashion.

A neighborhood collection totaling $252.50 in cash and a quantity of canned goods, dishes, clothing and bedding was turned over to them. Two rural women's clubs gave them quilts and a third raised $10.

The family has moved a house-trailer to their homesite for living accommodations now, and plan to rebuild as soon as possible. Mrs. Deike, 78, lost all her possessions except the clothes she was wearing when she escaped the house. The Wilsons saved a little bedroom furniture.

Zeeland Mayor Re-Named Head Of Ottawa Board

Grand Haven (Special)—Mayor Nicholas Frankens of Zeeland was re-elected chairman, and Clarence Reenders of Grand Haven township, vice chairman at the opening meeting of the April session of the Board of Supervisors Tuesday afternoon. Both have served in these positions for a year.

A communication from the Ottawa Christian League requesting that the board send one representative to a meeting April 27 at 7:45 p.m. in First Christian Reformed church in Zeeland in connection with Sunday hunting was filed. Also filed were two resolutions on the subject from Holland Fish and Game club and North Ottawa Rod and Gun club.

Henry C. Slaughter of Tallmadge township asked that the printing and stationery committee investigate costs of publishing bills allowed by the finance committee. He said such publication might reduce the costs of some bills if the public knows what some individuals are getting from the county. The committee, consisting of Gerritt Bottema of Spring Lake, Henry De Ridder of Port Sheldon and Charles E. Misner of Grand Haven, will report at this session.

The board adjourned appointment of committees until June session and the present committees will hold over until that time. The delay is with a view to a possibility that there may be three new members on the board. Grand Haven because of its increase in population will be entitled to another representative.

The board also adopted the same rules and regulations to govern the board for the coming year. The finance committee reported bills amounting to $6,420.92 for February, $6,447.93 for March and $7,771.24 for April.

Slaughter, who was one of four board members attending the 5th district meeting of supervisors, suggested that Ottawa county be host to the district during June. Slaughter was named key man to arrange a program with Dr. A. J. Bolt of Muskegon, chairman of the 5th district.

County Relaxes Trucking Limits

The lifting of truck weight limits on Ottawa county roads was announced here by Carl T. Bowen, highway engineer.

Effective Wednesday, the restricted load limit of 8,775 per axle was raised to 13,500 pounds per axle on all blacktop roads in the county. The effective limit still is lower than on state trunklines where 18,000 pounds per axle is the maximum.

Reason for relaxing the limits is that the spring breakup period is almost over.

"There still are five or six bad spots around the county, but we didn't want to hold up the whole county for them," Bowen said.

Included in the roads affected are 32nd St. and Lincoln Ave., in the city of Holland. These light surface roads are joint responsibilities of the city and county, Bowen pointed out.

Some of the first truckers to take advantage of the new limits will be those of the county road department.

"Now we can start hauling gravel again," Bowen said. "We couldn't when the restricted limits were on."

Couple Married in Church Rites

Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Vander Ploeg

In a wedding ceremony Saturday evening in Sixteenth Street Christian Reformed church, Miss Rosalyn Joan Zoerhoff became the bride of Laverne Vander Ploeg. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvin Zoerhoff, 611 Washington Ave. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Vander Ploeg, 294 East 14th St.

The double ring service was read at 7:30 p.m. by the Rev. Arthur W. Hoogstraate before a setting of double candelabra and bouquets of white gladioli against a background of palms and ferns. White satin ribbons and white gladioli marked the pews.

An organ prelude and traditional wedding marches were played by Miss Joyce Koops, cousin of the bride. Marvin Schans sang "Through the Years" and "Because" preceding the service and "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a gown of heavy white satin and Chantilly lace, styled with fitted bodice, long pointed sleeves, lace-covered mandarin collar and a lace panel from the neckline to the hemline in front and a full-length lace panel in back, which extended into a cathedral train. She wore a matching lace Juliet cap which held in place her fingertip veil of illusion. Her colonial bouquet included a variety of flowers.

Others in the party were Dana Kline and Chuck Francis of West Olive, Glenn Slager of Holland and Eugene Gardner of Grand Haven.

The men went to the scene and stared to dig. Prince let his two small fox-hunting dogs go into the hole but they couldn't reach the animals inside.

Finally the men had a hole about 12 feet into the ground and Armond went down to dig deeper.

While he was in the hole, the excavation caved in and buried him.

The frantic party topsides immediately started digging with shovels and their hands. After about a half-hour they reached the unconscious Goodin. They dragged him to the surface and immediately began artificial respiration.

Francis, who had training in artificial respiration in the National Guard, directed the life-saving operation.

After considerable time, Goodin was revived and a physician was called.

He's all right today, thanks to his alert friends—and Francis' artificial respiration experience.

He is recovering at his home and Monday described his trying ordeal:

"It was sure bad down there. I remember a little. I could get air but things just got blacker and blacker."

"The next thing I knew, I was at home."

"Yes, I'll probably continue fox hunting, but I'll never go down that deep again to get a fox," he said.

West Olive Youth Narrowly Escapes Death in Cave-In

A fox hunting expedition almost turned into a death trap Sunday afternoon for 17-year-old Armond Goodin of West Olive.

After the spine-tingling episode was over, the crafty fox had outfoxed his pursuers.

The fox chase started Saturday afternoon when Goodin, a veteran fox hunter, saw tracks on the William Van Slooten farm. He traced the tracks and plugged up the hole, figuring to return to spot Sunday and dig the foxes out.

When he arrived at the scene Sunday, he poked a stick into the hole and felt the animals inside. In the meantime, Clarence Prince of Holland, another fox hunter, called at the Frank Van Slooten home and talked to Mrs. Van Slooten. She related Goodin's experience of Saturday and Prince joined a party to dig out the foxes.

Others in the party were Dana Kline and Chuck Francis of West Olive, Glenn Slager of Holland and Eugene Gardner of Grand Haven.

Freight, Big Crane Involved in Crash On East 12th St.

Crane Operator Hurt As Impact Tips Big Machine on Side

A collision at the intersection of the C & O railroad tracks and East 12th St. caused an estimated $15,000 damage to a large construction crane working at the crossing at 1:30 p.m. this afternoon.

The crane was working at the intersection and backed across the track as a C & O freight train approached.

The crane was removing a supply tank at the intersection near the old gas plant.

The impact tipped the crane over and knocked it off the road. Driver of the crane was Jerry Bonzelaar, who was taken to Holland hospital. Extent of his injuries was not determined.

The engine went down the track about two blocks before it could stop. It had a large dent in the front right corner. Apparently the crane operator didn't see the train coming, police said.

Engineer of the train was Howard Sitesinger. Fireman on the train was Vernon Kozoll, both of Grand Rapids.

There were two operators on the crane. Driver was Bonzelaar and his aide was Peter Bart. Bart was not injured. A man named Batson of Ludington, an employee of the West Shore Construction Co., complained of back injuries and was taken to Holland hospital, according to Gilbert Vande Water.

The crane when it was new was worth $23,000.

The crane belonged to Harry Plaggenmeyer of West Shore Construction Co., Zeeland. He estimated the $10,000 to $15,000 damage and said the crane was not covered with insurance, although the firm carries property and liability insurance.

It was practically new, he said. The crane was zig-zagging around the area after loading a gas tank onto a truck and it was maneuvering around so it could do some lifting work at the gas company building adjacent to the tracks.

The freight was coming from the north, going toward Chicago. It caught the rear of the crane and threw it about 10 feet and it landed on its side. The boom of the crane crashed into a parked semi truck. It gashed open the top of the Blodgett Co. trailer. It was empty.

Bonzelaar lives at 319 West 19th St.

Junk Dealer Pleads Guilty on 3 Counts
