'TIS A SAD AFFLICTION.

PROFESSOR CAMPBELL, OF ANN ARBOR, BLINDED.

The Pope Countenances the Faribault School—Queer Freak of the Blind Goddess in Milwaukee—Indian Territory Has a Cyclone.

The Lawmakers.
On the 12th, on motion of Mr. Hayes, of Iowa, a bill was passed authorizing the Illinois and Ohio Railway and Terminal Company to construct a bridge across the Mississippi River at Moline, Ill. Representative Cooper, of Indiana, made a statement before the House Pension Office Investigating Committee in denial and in explanation of the charges made against him by Commissioner Baum. In the Senate Mr. Cullum introduced a bill to authorize a National Bank of Illinois to establish a branch on the grounds of the Columbian Exposition; and it was referred to the Committee on Finance. Representative Lane, of Illinois, from the Committee on Military Affairs, reported to the House a bill authorizing the Secretary of War, upon the application of the Governor of a State or Territory, to issue for the sole use of the National Guard of such State or Territory any three and one-half inch muzzle-loading rifle field guns, wrought iron, or three and two-tenths inch breech-loading rifle field guns, steel or machine (Hotchkiss or Gatling) or rapid fire guns, with implements and harness for the same which may be on hand and not needed immediately for the service of the regular forces. In the Senate the silver question was the subject of extended debate.

INSULT ON INJURY.

The Proposed Return of Mexican Flags Is in Very Bad Taste.

A Washington dispatch says: The proposition to return to Mexico the twenty-one battle flags captured by our troops in the war of 1846 and 1847 and now preserved at West Point is not a popular measure with army officers, and its passage by the House will be vigorously opposed by many of the old veterans of the regular army. Nor do the Mexicans take kindly to the idea, judging from the tone of a large number of newspaper clippings received here by an army officer from a correspondent now on a visit to the City of Mexico. The general sentiment expressed in these is that the United States is adding insult to injury by the return of the flags which, the Mexicans say, were stolen from them, together with their territory.

FARIBAUT SCHOOL WILL STAND.

Archbishop Ireland's Experiment Will Not Be Interfered With by the Pope.

A special dispatch received at New York from Rome gives an authentic denial to the report that the Pope, by letter to Archbishop Ireland, has disapproved the Civita Cattolica's criticism of the Faribault affair. The Faribault affair is this: Archbishop Ireland leased a parochial school in Faribault, Minn., to the public school authorities and children of all denominations are received into it. No religious instructions are given in school hours. The archbishop has the right to pass on all text books used in the school. After school hours the Catholic children receive religious instruction. The teachers in the school are sisters of charity.

WRECKED BY A CYCLONE.

Nearly Every House at Caddo, I. T., Destroyed—Crops Damaged.

A terrible cyclone passed over Caddo, I. T., Sunday night, sweeping houses and buildings from their foundations, but luckily no one was killed. Nearly every building in the town was destroyed. Three persons are seriously injured. Reports from the surrounding country say that the cyclone did considerable damage, but no casualties are reported. The cyclone wrecked a number of houses in Brookston, Tex. The path of the storm was about a mile wide and the wind was followed by a hail-storm which did great damage to vegetation and the fruit crop.

THIEF FREE, VICTIM IN JAIL.

Peculiar Case Brought to Light in a Milwaukee Court.

The trial of Nicholas Fichtel, a Milwaukee cab-driver, charged with having stolen $175 from a farmer named Josiah Hill, was begun in Judge Waller's court. The case has attracted attention from the fact that the crime was committed last October, and since that time Fichtel has been on bail, while Hill, 74 years old, has been locked up in the county jail to insure his presence as a witness. A jury could not be secured out of the panel and the Judge ordered the Jury Commissioner to draw another panel of thirty jurors.

Big Break in Wheat.

The latter part of Monday's session on the Chicago Board of Trade saw some of the wildest times witnessed on the floor in many months. There was a break of nearly 5 cents in May wheat, and instead of a crowd getting squeezed he pushed the crowd hard and comes out more than half a million dollars better off than when wheat was at the high point (85%) of the session. Just before the close the price had touched 80%, making a slump of 4% cents.

Blinded While Experimenting.

Dr. Edward Campbell, professor of chemistry at the State University, Ann Arbor, Mich., while making some investigations Tuesday afternoon in quantitative analysis, had both eyes put out by the explosion of two bottles filled with gas. It was necessary to remove one eye, and the other is despaired of. Dr. Campbell is one of the greatest scientists in the university, and it is feared that the loss of his eyes will blast his career.

Fined for Allowing Aliens to Escape.

R. J. Cortis, the general agent in New York of the Hamburg-American line of steamers, was sentenced to pay a fine of $300 for allowing aliens to escape from one of the vessels of his company. The aliens were brought over here under contract to work at mining, and were permitted to go from the vessel contrary to orders to hold them.

Awful Crime at Pittsburg.

At Pittsburg the body of a girl, apparently 17 years old, was found in a lonely spot on a hillside in Schenley Park. The body was terribly mutilated, the head being entirely severed. The remains were brought to the morgue and have not yet been identified.

Handy's Chromos Burned.

The Winters Printing and Lithographing Company's plant at Springfield, Ohio, was destroyed by fire, and $40,000 worth of finished lithographs were burned. The total loss is about $60,000; insurance, $50,000.

ASSASSINS TO ORDER.

Follia Anarchists Organized to Commit Murder.

An anarchist outrage is reported in Prussian Poland which shows that they are thoroughly organized for murder. One of the leading residents in the vicinity of Inowrazlaw is Deacon Von Ponski. During the night four men dressed in respectable attire, with their features concealed by masks, entered the residence of Ponski. Ponski was aroused by the noise of their entrance and sat up terror-stricken in bed. Before the Deacon could speak the three men leveled their weapons at him and fired. The shots took effect, inflicting dangerous wounds. Ponski sank back in the bed, the blood starting from his wounds. Frau Ponski, although not herself injured, fainted on the body of her husband. The shots had aroused the neighbors and servants, and as soon as Frau Ponski was restored she told the story of the assassination. The assassins were tracked to a forest, where they refused to surrender. As the attacking party rushed forward the outlaws fired, but without effect, while a fusillade from the assassins killed two of the assassins. The other two did not wait for capture. Turning their weapons on themselves they shot themselves, and died almost instantly. When the bodies of the dead were examined a startling discovery was made. Letters of instruction were found signed with the words: "Executive Committee of the Polish Anarchists," and the signature was accompanied by a seal inscribed with the same words. These letters contained instructions to murder Deacon Von Ponski, and also instructions to commit other outrages, regarding which the authorities have not yet given any information, as they probably wish to use the revelations for the detection and capture of other anarchists.

SUGAR TRUST ALARMED.

A Determined War Waged Upon It by the Wholesale Grocers.

From information received by the Philadelphia firms which handle and distribute large quantities of refined sugar, it appears that the sugar trust is beginning to fear the results of the threatened warfare which has been inaugurated against it by wholesale grocers all over the country. The grocers are said to be hotly interested in the proposed new refineries there and on Staten Island. The big corporation has so far condescended to notice the movement as to offer the importing grocers of Philadelphia a table of rebates, by which they will be able, if accepted, to get a small profit on the sugar they handle. A meeting with closed doors was held by a number of importing grocers for the purpose of considering the advisability of accepting or rejecting the proposition. No definite conclusion was reached.

THAT IOWA CALF CASE AGAIN.

The Litigation Has Cost Over $30,000 and the End Is Not Yet.

Attorneys Wheeler & Moffat, of Tippecanoe, Iowa, are about to reopen the celebrated "Jones County Calf Case," the most notable in all history, except that of a certain golden calf which brought such dire disaster upon its worshippers. For twenty years four calves have kept almost the entire county by the ears, have influenced political thought, changed the membership of churches, burned houses and barns, incited riots, ruined at least eight prosperous farmers, and piled up more than $30,000 costs in the courts. If the golden calf before mentioned did any better, it must have been high-priced veal for a wandering tribe.

MAY REDUCE IMMIGRATION.

Passenger Agents Advance the Steamer Passenger Rate $3.

The disaffection among the agents of the transatlantic steamship companies on account of the alleged poor treatment they have received from the immigration authorities has led to the raising of passenger rates. The agents of the companies formed a pool some time ago. At a recent meeting it was decided to advance the rate of steamer passage from the continent by $3. It was said that the advance in rates would do more to restrict immigration than any of the laws passed by Congress, especially among the Italians. Some of the agents said there was an immense multitude of immigrants waiting to come over soon.

Vessels Ordered to Behring Sea.

The sailing instructions of the United States vessels that will cruise in Behring Sea this year have been practically completed. Orders were issued at once from the Navy Department directing the Yorktown and the Adams to proceed from San Francisco to Puget Sound. The ultimate destination of the vessels is Behring Sea. Sir Julian Pauncefote had another interview with Secretary Blaine at the State Department. Around the department, while no one will talk directly upon the subject, the impression prevails that the nodus vivendi is perfected and will be announced in a few days.

Investigating Customs Frauds.

Appraiser Leavy, whose official head was chopped off by telegraph from Washington, was before the San Francisco grand jury, and it is understood he "squealed" on all his associates in the custom-house frauds. In dry goods and tobacco gross frauds have been perpetrated for many months, and if all concerned are prosecuted there will be a big sensation. One of the curious features of the case is that the discovery of these custom-house frauds was made by a local reporter. Investigation was made on the facts he discovered, yet when he applied for the informer's share of the money he was refused.

Triple Tragedy in Kentucky.

Last Monday, at Omans Quarry, Ky., Bud Price, a white man, killed Bud Malone, colored, in a quarrel. J. R. C. France, a Cincinnati deputized by the Sheriff, went Tuesday to arrest Price at his home. Price and his brother-in-law, Tom Proctor, attacked France with pocket-knives, and he shot both assailants dead.

Four of the negroes were caught and hanged, and the mob is in pursuit of the rest of the gang. The killing was for the purpose of robbery.

THE BOAT CAPSIZED.

A FEARFUL CATASTROPHE AT BOSTON HARBOR.

Rustlers and Ranchmen Sure to Fight—Ohio Likely to Have Another Lynching—The Mississippi Floods Claim Hundreds of Victims.

Both Doubly Mated.

Della Barden, who married Lyman K. Barden at Albany, N. Y., July 14, 1889, is suing at Mitchell, S. D., for divorce on the ground of extreme cruelty, and a motion made for temporary alimony disclosed that if all allegations in the case are true she has two living husbands and Barden has two living wives. Mrs. Barden married Lewis Osborne in New York in 1877. They lived together six months, when Osborne left her, and she claims she has never since been found. She asserts that he is dead. Mr. Barden claims that Osborne is living in New York. Since this action for divorce was begun Barden, assuming that his marriage with the plaintiff was void, has married again.

DEMAND THE LIFE OF A BRUTE.

Newark Citizens Attempt the Lynching of George Stotsburg.

A dispatch from Newark, Ohio, says a howling mob of a thousand indignant citizens surrounded the county jail there demanding the surrender of George Stotsburg, who assaulted Edna Alvord, aged 7, a pupil at one of the city schools. The villain was finally captured and placed in the city prison, but there were such manifestations of excitement and indignation that the authorities removed him immediately to the county jail. An attempt to lynch Stotsburg was made, but the mob lacked leadership. There are fears that the effort will be repeated with better success.

Reds Still Rampant.

Another dynamite outrage is reported at Angers, a flourishing manufacturing city in the department of Maine-et-Loire, about one hundred and ninety miles from Paris. A bomb was exploded outside of the police office, and the building was badly shattered. Two policemen were severely injured, and all their companions more or less shaken up. Anarchists have been spreading their principles among the factory people of Angers, as in other towns, and it is supposed that the activity of the police in attempting to check this propaganda incited the anarchists to revenge.

Wyoming Fight Assured.

Buffalo, Wyo., dispatch: The telegraph people have just got a wire through, but it is liable to go down any time. The situation in the cattle faction fight is very serious. Jack Flag came in confirming the report of a fight and gave authentic intelligence that a large party of stockmen had reached Twenty-eight Ranch, on the north fork of Crazy Woman's Creek, and are camped at T. A. Ranch, thirteen miles from here. The rustlers are in force here, and allow no one to pass on the roads. A party of thirty-five or forty men left in the direction of T. A. Ranch.

Kicked to Death by His Son.

At Charlestown, Mass., Daniel Donovan, an aged, hard-working man of 77, while trying to induce his drunken son, John, to desist from abusing his mother and sister, was kicked in the abdomen by the brute on Saturday. He died of his injuries at the city hospital. His son, who committed the brutal assault, was arrested for drunkenness and disorderly conduct soon afterward, but will now have a more serious charge to answer. The deceased leaves a widow and five adult children.

Latest Move of the Reading Trust.

Lockmen along the line of the Lehigh canal have received notice not to let any empty boats return to Mauch Chunk. It is thought that the canal will be closed so as not to affect the Reading combination coal tonnage. The canal was carrying thousands of tons to places along the Lehigh River, and many dealers were arranging to get their tonnage in that way. A very prosperous summer was anticipated by the boatmen.

Nine Persons Drowned.

An instructor and ten boys connected with the Boston Farm School at Thompson's Island were capsized in a sailboat and the instructor and eight of the boys drowned. The party were returning to the island from City Point, and had reached a point between Spectacle Island and Thompson's Island, when their boat was struck by a squall and capsized. This is the only drowning accident that has happened to the school since 1842.

Will Try the Mississippi.

The Concord, now in the West Indies, has been ordered to proceed, if practicable, up the Mississippi River to Memphis, Tenn., to be present at the opening of the bridge spanning the Mississippi River at that point, which is announced for May 12. The Baltimore and Charleston, at San Francisco, have been ordered to Astoria, Oregon, to participate in the centennial celebration of the discovery of the Columbia River on May 12.

Frightful Floods.

A dispatch from G. F. Sherrod, for the Board of Supervisors of Lowndes County, Mississippi, dated Columbus, says: Hundreds of people have been drowned and thousands rendered homeless, without food or raiment. All live stock is drowned. It is impossible for us to render the necessary aid. In the name of the people of the county we appeal to you for Government assistance.

FIVE PERSONS FATALLY HURT.

A Locomotive Explodes in the Railway Yard at Long Island City.

The locomotive was completely wrecked and pieces of the boiler and the ironwork of the engine were hurled in every direction to a distance of many yards. Some of the injured men were struck by these flying pieces, while others were badly scalded. The engineer and fireman, who were at their post of duty, were blown a considerable distance. The cause of the accident is believed to have been a lack of water in the boiler.

RODE THE PROFESSOR ON A RAIL.

Indignant Boyertown Citizens Avenge the Loss of the City's Character.

Friday night about two hundred indignant citizens rode Prof. John C. Zuber, of Boyertown, Pa., on a rail, amid shouts of "Hang him!" and "Tar and feather him!" A number of stalwart men rushed through a howling mob, shoved a rail between the Professor's legs and the next instant he was elevated and carried to the lock-up, where he was held in custody all night and in the morning was brought to the Reading jail in default of $300 bail. Zuber was formerly organist and choir leader in the church of that village, and the trouble was a church choir scandal.

NO MAJORITIES.

Rhode Island's Legislature Will Again Decide Her Elections.

In the election in Rhode Island, Wednesday, the Republicans secured the Legislature by a small majority on joint ballot. The Democratic candidate for Governor polled a plurality, but, as a majority is required, the election will be thrown into the Legislature. The same condition prevails as to all other State officers, and to Senator Aldrich's re-election.

How the Indiana Delegation Will Go.

A recent conference at Indianapolis, Ind., of the Gray and Cleveland factions resulted in a compromise. The supporters of Cleveland consent that Gray shall have the vote of the Indiana delegation for a few ballots or until it becomes evident that he cannot be nominated. THE NATIONAL SOLONS.

SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Our National Lawmakers and What They Are Doing for the Good of the Country—Various Measures Proposed, Discussed, and Acted Upon.

Doings of Congress.

In the House, the 6th, the time allotted Mr. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, to speak upon the tariff, was three times extended. Mr. Breckinridge was accorded an ovation when he closed, and for fully five minutes the House suspended business while members from both sides of the chamber crowded about him to congratulate him on the eloquence and force of his speech. Before the Senate, the Russian Minister, Stravinsky, said that the Russian Government would ever hold the people of the United States and this Government in grateful remembrance for the magnificent manner in which they had come to the front in this distressful moment for the peasants who were suffering from a loss of crops; that the Russian Government had already contributed $10,000,000 for the relief of her peasants, and that the charity directed by our people toward them was being cared for personally by the Czar and Czarina. He said the suffering had not been half described to this country, and that our contributions were never more advantageously made.

In the House, the 7th, after the transaction of routine business, the free wool bill was called up, and after a short debate the bill passed. Ayes, 192; noes, 63. The House then went into committee of the whole (Mr. Blunt, of Georgia, in the chair) on the Turner cotton bagging bill. After a short debate the committee rose and the House adjourned. In the Senate, a resolution was offered by Mr. Teller and agreed to, calling on the Secretary of the Treasury for a statement as to the amount of silver offered to the Government each month, since the passage of the act of July 14, 1890, by whom and at what prices, the amount of silver bullion purchased each month of that time, from whom and at what prices, and number of days given the sellers in which to deliver the silver. During the discussion of the District appropriation bill, the bill to place wool on the free list and to reduce the duty on woolen goods was received from the House, and after the District bill was laid aside the wool bill was before the Senate by the Vice President and was referred to the Finance Committee.

Mr. McCrary, in the House, the 8th, introduced for Mr. Springer a bill to authorize the holding of an international monetary congress in Chicago, Aug. 3, 1893. Twenty-one delegates are to represent the United States, seven to be chosen by the President; seven by the President of the Senate, and seven by the Speaker of the House. The President's appointees are to be citizens not holding office; the others are to be Senators and Representatives. The appointments are to be divided as equally as possible between the political parties. The Secretary of State and the Director of the Mint are to be additional delegates. The President is authorized to invite foreign governments to send representatives, each government to determine the number of its representatives, but to be entitled to only one vote. The Secretary of State is to call the Congress to order, and to preside until a permanent officer is elected. In the Senate, an appropriation out of the Treasury of the United States of $100,000 for the subsistence and quarters of the visiting old soldiers attending the National Encampment was agreed to—yeas, 41; noes, 10.

In the Senate, the 11th, after the routine morning session, the House bill to place cotton ties on the free list was laid before the Senate and referred to the Finance Committee. Mr. Stewart offered a resolution calling on the Secretary of the Treasury for information connected with the purchase and colnago of silver, and gave notice that he would occupy about fifteen minutes, the 12th, in calling attention to the monthly statement of the Secretary of the Treasury as to the finances. The bill heretofore introduced by Mr. Gallinger for a commission to select a site for a sanitarium for pulmonary patients was taken up, and Mr. Gallinger addressed the Senate. At the close of his remarks the bill was referred to the Committee on Epidemic Diseases and then, on motion of Mr. Cameron, the Senate proceeded to executive business. In the House, on motion of Mr. Durborow, of Illinois, a bill was passed repealing the joint resolution passed in the Fifty-first Congress, which authorized the Secretary of War to lease the government pier at the mouth of the Chicago River to the Illinois Central Railroad. A few local measures were passed and the House adjourned.

Walt Whitman.

SINCE the publication of his chief work, "Leaves of Grass," in 1855, he has been regarded as one of the brightest stars in our poetical firmament.—Minneapolis Times.

HE was an American of Americans. He was the friend of Lincoln, and, like Lincoln, he came close to the plain people from whom he and Lincoln sprung.—New York Recorder.

THE dilettante prettiness of most modern poems was not to his taste. He struck his lyre with his fist at times, instead of his finger tips, but the music was resonant and will reach posterity.—New York Herald.

WALT WHITMAN was a homely yet lovable character. Within his heart there dwelt a sturdy nobility that was ever asserting itself in his peculiar rhymes. His poetry was a flexible index to his soul.—Grand Rapids Herald.

REV. JOHN JASPER, 80 years old, of Richmond, Va., he of "the sun do move" theory, was married recently to the widow Cary, aged 59 years. It is a condition, not a theory, that now confronts the old man.—Philadelphia Record.

HOLLAND CITY NEWS

G. VAN SCHELVEN, Editor.

SATURDAY, APRIL 16, 1892.

A Good Opening.

It is a pleasure off and on to note in the local jottings the "spring opening" of any one of our leading mercantile establishments, and it is equally gratifying, if not more so, to do this of our city as a whole.

Our growth in the past two years has been of that nature that it has secured and guaranteed to us a "good opening" this season, at as early a date even as this, and it can be confidently asserted that the several enterprises now on foot and which will see their realization during the year, will in turn contribute their share towards keeping the wheel of Holland's prosperity in lasting motion.

Holland is not "booming," simply growing. We do not crave a boom, rather dreading its reactionary functions. Our goal is a steady, constant addition to our material resources, such as will furnish a diversity of employment and enable our young people to remain. A town that cannot retain its young men inevitably becomes a stale town.

As a part of our "spring opening" we have already made mention in the News of the enlargement and remodeling of the City Hotel. Work on this was commenced a week ago, and a large force will be kept constantly engaged to have the new hotel ready simultaneous with the opening of the resort season.

A few weeks ago we also gave a description of another four-story dry house and finishing shop, 40x125 ft., for the Cappon & Bertsch Leather Co., with accompanying improvements and the enlarging of the machinery, work upon which has already commenced.

During the week the West Michigan Furniture Co. have let the contract to Jas. Huntley and P. Osting for an extension of their factory which when completed, will leave their present building way in the shade. The new building is to be connected with the south wall of the present factory. Its dimensions are 135x180 feet, two stories high, or about double the size of the original building. It will be equipped throughout with the necessary machinery and thereby double the capacity of the plant, and the number of its employees. The boiler capacity will be increased to 200 horse power and the present engine replaced by one of like capacity. Preparations are being made to commence at once with the proposed building, inasmuch as it is to be completed and in running order by the 1st of July. The work will not interfere with the operations of the present plant. Practically, the above is equivalent to an additional factory to our city, considering the addition to the number of hands employed, and the residences that will be required.

Next in order we might make mention of the new bank block for the Holland City Savings Bank, which will be erected upon one of the most prominent business sites of the city, the corner of Eighth and River streets. The drawings, as shown to us, call for a building of 44x70 feet, three stories high and basement, with tower. The north half of the block will be used for the bank proper and the south half fitted up for a store. The River street front will be entirely of Waverly stone. The elevation of the building is 50 feet and that of the tower 75 feet. By reason of the widening of Eighth street east of River street, the tower will be rendered the more conspicuous and as such offer an elegant site for a town clock.

The building of the new roundhouse for the C. & W. M. railway, north of Black river, has been awarded Saturday to H. Allmindinger, of Benton Harbor, for $15,700. This is only the beginning of a series of other improvements rendered necessary by the removal of the yards. Other buildings must follow and a lively season is looked for in that immediate locality.

It is almost certain that an immediate beginning will be made with the proposed Y. M. C. A. building. The progress made in the canvass for subscriptions to the building fund are very encouraging. "Bergen Hall" will be made to answer the purpose for which it is to be erected. The plans are not yet fully decided upon, but the dimensions will be about 30x80 feet. The basement is to be fitted up as a gymnasium, and the second floor will be devoted to the purposes of the association. Since the renting by Mr. H. Boone of his new store opposite the City Hotel to other parties it is among the possibilities that the ground floor of the proposed building will become the post office of our city, a move which in every respect will commend itself to the approval of our citizens.

Monday Prof. G. J. Kollen returned from his eastern trip and gives a very encouraging report of the prospects for the new library building of Hope College. We were shown the other day a photograph of a library building which it is desired to duplicate on the college campus. If the desires of the friends and promoters of the project are to be realized in this respect, Hope College will in due time be boasting of one of the most elegant and practical library buildings in the state. We are credibly informed that there is a fair prospect that this enterprise also will be one of the features of our spring opening.

This evening the bids are to be opened for a new boiler room at the Walsh-DeRoo Standard Roller Mills, 36x50 feet. The present boiler room and office will be thrown into the engine room, making that 48x37. The new office will be 21x56, with receiving room and public and private offices. The whole will be of brick, 26 feet high, and be located west of the mill, reaching up to within 20 feet from the River street line. This improvement will also necessitate the changing of the smoke stack. It will be moved further west and replaced upon a brick foundation.

Among the first business blocks to be erected this season will be the Waverly Block, adjoining the present Post block on the east, with a frontage of 26 feet on Eighth street, two stories and basement. In this block one of the floors will be entirely occupied by the Waverly Stone Co., for offices. The front will be of stone.

As the season progresses there will undoubtedly be more to mention. In fact the air is full of "building rumblings." At this time however we limit ourselves to spring items.

As near as we can learn the surmises mentioned in last week's issue of the News, as to certain irregularities in connection with the recent election on the electric light question, are likely to be verified. The necessary papers are being prepared to enjoin the city from issuing the bonds for the erection of a city plant. The grounds alleged are substantially as follows: The ballots were not in conformity with the new election law, however much they might have been patterned after the charter provisions; neither did they state the amount for which it was proposed to issue the bonds. Then again the election notice is alleged to be deficient and not in accord with the proposition as adopted by the council. It was also held at one time that under the provisions of Act No. 115 of the session laws of 1891 the proposition was defeated by the popular vote. Sec. 3 of this act reads, that "It shall be the duty of such common council to submit such question to the electors of such city at the next regular election therein; and in case a two-thirds vote of the electors voting at such election shall vote in favor of such city availing itself of the provisions of this act, it shall thereupon become the duty," etc.

Now the whole number of electors that have voted at this election is 789, of which two-thirds is 526. The returns show 524 for, 210 against, and 55 blanks.

Upon further investigation however it was found that the proposition was submitted to the electors of this city under another act, Act No. 186, approved one day later, which requires only a majority vote.

Among our special notices this week, will be noticed—a rare chance to buy a piano cheap; the removal of Mrs. Lewis' dressmaker shop; and a bargain in horses at Ed. Harrington's.

The Late Judge Arnold.

The funeral of Judge Arnold at Allegan, Sunday afternoon, was attended by members of the bar and friends of the deceased from Grand Rapids, Muskegon, Grand Haven and Holland, the C. & W. M. having very kindly placed a special train at their disposal. Among those present from this city were—P. H. McBride, J. C. Post, G. J. Diekema, Mayor Yates, Dr. J. A. Mabbs, and G. Van Schelven. From Grand Haven—Geo. A. Farr, Geo. W. McBride, Chas. E. Soule, S. Kilbourne, Geo. Stickney, Harvey L. White, Geo. D. Turner, Sheriff Vaupell, and A. Bilz of Spring Lake.

The vacancy occasioned by the death of Judge Arnold will be filled by appointment by the Governor, and it is surmised that the choice will lay between R. W. Duncan of Grand Haven, and Hannibal Hart of Allegan. This appointment however will only be temporary, until the general election in November, when a successor will be elected by the people of this circuit, comprising the counties of Allegan and Ottawa, for the remainder of the term, which expires Dec. 31, 1893.

The following biographical sketch is taken from the Allegan Gazette, and the tribute to his character will find a hearty response with all those who had a personal acquaintance with the deceased:

Dan. J. Arnold was a native of Allegan county, his birth occurring in Gunplain, Dec. 22, 1838. He there grew to manhood, obtaining education in the district school and a sort of academy in Otsego, afterward studying law and taking a course in Michigan university, being a member of the first law class graduated, that of 1861. He studied one year longer in Kalamazoo, thence coming to Allegan and forming a partnership with the late E. B. Bassett, whose daughter Nina he subsequently married. He was afterwards for several years, in law partnership with Hon. John W. Stone, now of Marquette, and still later, for brief periods, with Hons. W. B. Williams and Philip Padgham. In 1864 he was elected judge of probate and served for eight years.

Upon Mr. Stone's resignation as circuit judge, in 1873, Mr. Arnold was appointed to the office, and was an incumbent of it from that time till his death, being three times elected, twice with no opposition at the polls and never with any in the Republican conventions. He was celebrated throughout as one of the ablest circuit judges, and this, with his high personal qualities, led to his friends twice supporting him for nomination as justice of the supreme court; but political combinations and his own indisposition to push his claims prevented their success.

Outside his official station and his profession, Judge Arnold was esteemed as a man and citizen of the very highest type, and no words could overstate the esteem in which he was held throughout his home town and his circuit. Confidence was absolute in his integrity as a judge; and his legal learning was so great that comparatively few appeals were taken from his rulings, and in much the greater number of those cases he was sustained by the supreme court.

He was at times a member of the council and president of the village; for many years he was a member of the school board; and from the beginning of the Episcopal church society he was one of its main supports and most of the time one of its officials. His private life fully accorded with his Christian faith. He was never a reproach to Christ; but was one of his purest and sincerest followers.

Survived by his wife, he leaves also two sons, Guy and John, and three daughters, Franc, Kate and Margie, the youngest being about ten years of age. Of his sisters but one remains, Reenie, wife of Senator Stockbridge; and he had two living brothers, Levi of Plainwell and George of St. Ignace.

Mr. Arnold never forgot the farm life of his youth, nor ever ceased to turn with fondness to it. He owned three farms and personally cared for one and at times two of them; nor would he relinquish these labors until failing strength compelled him, though often it was plain that, with his work as a judge, they were far too severe a physical strain.

Much more might be written of Mr. Arnold's goodness of heart and endearment of character, but it could add nothing to the universal mourning, and afford but little comfort to those who weep. There are none but will cherish him in memory as a magistrate whom all men respected, a man whom all men loved.

"Fit for the loftiest or the lowest lot. Self-poled, impartial, yet of simplest ways. At home alike in castle or in cot. True to his aim, let others blame or praise."

THE EASTER SERVICE.

SAW a little saint on Easter Day: She sat quite near me all the service through; She heard each word the preacher had to say, And left a scent of violets in the pew.

What need to pray to storied saints of stone That from the niches high look coldly down, When kneeling a modern saint in tailor gown?

I thought of golden harps and angels' wings
E'en while I watched her downcast face so fair,
And as she turned I marked, 'mong other things,
In what a charming way she wore her hair.

Once, as the anthem sang, her eyes met mine,
The organ murmuring in a cadence sad;
And while my soul answered the theme divine,
I noticed what a pretty hand she had.

The preacher spoke, with words that would inspire,
Of heaven and hope—of Satan and of sin;
To listen one could sit and never tire—
There was a stunning dimple in her chin!

But when at home they asked me of the text,
I stammered—stammered something about Paul;
And, somehow, nothing could I think of next,
For this—ah, me!—was all I could recall:

A scent of violets and a little glove;
A pair of eyes with lashes brown and long;
Two lips that seemed not made for prayer, but love;
And a sweet voice that sounded like a song.

Was she an angel sent for Easter Day
To bring to heaven the earthly thoughts of men?
Yet she looked human. Well, I dare not say;
But, to make sure, I'll go to church again.

—Kate Masters, in Judge.

AN EASTER STORY.

"IN'T that bootiful?" whispered Mary, as the peal of the great church organ sounded through the open doorway.

"Lumfy!" said Betty. "Let's go in!"

"Oh, no, no! I'm 'traid!' gasped little Mary, pulling back.

"Why, Mary, it's a church! There are lots of children in there; I saw 'em go. They won't do nothin' to us. Come, I'm goin'!"

Noiselessly the barefooted waifs climbed the stone steps and crossed the vestibule, and at last slipped inside the audience room.

Awed and half dazed, they hugged the wall tightly.

The church was very full, and people were standing all around the entrance.

Near the children was a deep window seat, banked with the choicest flowers. Mary was the first to spy it, and she tugged at her sister's dress, and pointed to the beautiful sight. Betty gazed in rapture, her lips torn into an "Oh!" which she dared not utter.

Then sweet, far-away music, that drew nearer and nearer, claimed their attention.

Soon they saw, coming through a doorway at the right of the altar, a procession of white-robed boys, singing as they came. Betty and Mary had never in all their lives heard such music before, and they were sorry when it stopped.

A man in a white robe began to speak, but they did not understand what he was talking about, so they looked at the flowers and the people, but the flowers most of all.

Their eyes rested longest on a great cross of blossoms in front of the altar rail, and they wished they could go near to it.

After a little chairs were brought in for the people near the entrance, and a kind man gave the children a seat, which they shared between them, their arms around each other.

It was a long service that Easter afternoon, but it was so beautiful to Betty and Mary that they never thought of going. Almost the last thing that took place made these two look on with very wistful eyes. It was the taking apart of the beautiful cross of flowers.

The cross was composed of small bouquets, and these were distributed among the children of the Sunday school.

At last it was all over, the white-robed boys had gone as they came, and the people were going away.

"Let's stay an' see 'em go by!" whispered Betty.

Thus it happened that as Miss Barnard's class of six little girls were passing out of the church they saw two ragged, barefooted children shyly eyeing them and their flowers.

Sweet Lily Stone was ahead, and without an instant's hesitation she placed her own bouquet in Mary's hand. Tina Gray was close behind, and with a smile she tendered her flowers to Betty. The other four, not to be outdone by their leaders, gave their flowers to the little strangers, and when Miss Barnard came up she found Betty and Mary with flushed, beaming faces, hardly knowing what to do or what to say.

The young teacher gave her class one glance of loving approval, and then turned to the two children, who were still fingering their flowers with intense rapture.

EASTER EGGS.

Grotesque and Fanciful Methods of Decorating Them—Some Odd Designs.

The grotesque and fanciful often, please when mere prettiness has by frequent repetition become wearisome; and while beauty can hardly be claimed for our designs for decorating Easter eggs, it is none the less true that they will well repay the decorator in pleasing effects.

Eggs to be decked in these fanciful shapes need to be either blown or boiled. It is not difficult to blow an egg; simply make two perforations, at opposite ends of the egg, that at the pointed end a trifle larger, if anything. A large pin or a darning-needle is the best instrument to use in making these perforations. Then apply the lips to the larger end and blow, not in puffs, but with steady force. The white will exude slowly from the perforation at the opposite end, and then the yolk. If one has not the patience to blow all the eggs required, it will do to chip one end of the shell very carefully and empty out the contents, repairing damages by pasting a piece of white paper over the hole.

Either water-colors or oil-paints will do for the decoration of the eggs, and a few small camel's-hair brushes will be required.

For the head of the sinister "Zamiel," black all the egg except a small portion reserved for the face; outline the teeth on this and leave them white; paint all the rest of the face a fiery red and outline the features in black. For the bat's wings which serve as ears, and for the comb, cut out pieces of gold paper (doubled, so that both sides will be alike) and gum them on as shown in the illustration. The pedestal is a large cork hollowed in the center to accommodate the end of the egg, which must be glued to it.

velvet cocked hat edged with gilt fringe, and add a nose of paper and a black silk mustache.

While heads do well enough to represent the portraits of noted persons, says a writer in Demorest's Family Magazine, when we come to the representation of the lower animals so much character is displayed in the body, to say nothing of legs and tails, that it seems necessary to add these.

The "beetle" is mounted in a wire frame with legs. Cover the legs with wax, molding it into shape. Make the horns of wire, waxed like the legs, fasten them to a little collar of paper, and gum this to the larger end of the egg. Then paint all the egg brown, making outlines for the wings in black, and varnish legs, horns and all.

The "lobster" is an egg painted scarlet and decorated with claws, head and tail, out of paper and gummed on, and painted a lively red.

The "gray mouse" must have a paper head, and feet also, and a strip of gray velvet or cloth for a tail. The head of the mouse, and the lobster's head and larger claws, are made of paper cut and pasted to the required shape before pasting upon the egg. For the claws, two pieces of paper are cut for each claw, in as close a resemblance to those shown in the illustration of the lobster as possible; the edges are then to be pasted together, leaving the middle of the claw slightly bulging in the well-known shape of a lobster's claw.

Then they can be gummed on, snipping little lappets of paper all around the ends of the claws, and gumming these fast to the egg. The paint will conceal the joinings and pasting. The mouse's head must also be cut in two parts, one for each side, and pasted together, using a narrow strip of paper to join the edges; or the edges may be pasted together, but this will leave a little ridge as a profile. Shape the head over the finger, snip little squares all around the neck, and paste these to the smaller end of the egg. Then treat mouse to a coat of nice gray paint and a pair of fine horse-hair whiskers, and he will look as roughish as any cupboard thief of his species.

The nose of the noble "Baron Munchausen" is to be made on the same principle as the mouse's head, and the inexperienced nose-maker need not be afraid of exaggerating that member. Exaggeration is quite in keeping with the lamented Baron's traits.

HOW TO TELL IT.

A Simple Explanation of the Changing Easter Date.

PEOPLE that fully understand the religious significance of Easter know, of course, something about the changeableness of the date, but only a small percentage of them, perhaps, could satisfactorily explain the matter. If you should ask ten intelligent people how far the Easter date can vary, the chances are that not one would be able to answer you correctly without first consulting a book of reference.

The fact is that the date varies more than a month, though many years elapse between the widest variations. It is possible for Easter to come as early as the 22d of March, and it may come as late as the 25th of April. In 1886, Easter fell on the 25th of April, but it will not again come so late as that until the youngest reader of these lines shall be old enough to be grandparents—in 1943.

The moon's monthly journey around the earth is the foundation of the eccentric Easter dates, just as the earth's annual excursion around the sun causes the trouble that necessitates leap years. Easter is simply a Christian adaptation of the Jewish Passover. The word Easter dates back farther than the time of the religious observances that now characterize it. The Anglo-Saxon name of April was Easternmonth, meaning the month of the spring morning, or the sun warmth, which awakened Nature from its winter torpidity. The early Christians adopted this idea of Nature's spring awakening to typify the resurrection of the Savior, just as the Jews used it to commemorate the events connected with the escape of their people from Egyptian bondage.

But the antipathy of the Christians toward the Jews in those early days led them to make an attempt to have the Easter observances always fall on dates other than those that commemorated the Passover. The system that we now have for fixing the Easter date is due to that attempt. After as much thought and calculation as was given to the tinkering of the calendar a complete plan was adopted, and here is an attempt to make it more intelligible in a few words:

It was determined, in the first place, that Easter must invariably fall on the first Sunday after the fourteenth day of the moon that happens to be reigning at vernal equinox time. Then it was declared that the date of the equinox should be arbitrarily made March 21, although the equinox really comes sometimes a little earlier or a little later than the 21st. For example, suppose the equinox moon is just fourteen days old on the 21st of March, and that this day falls on Saturday—then the next day, Sunday, would fill the condition noted above, and consequently be Easter.

Of course you can readily perceive that so early an Easter date can very rarely occur. The Christian Easter was originally a sort of thanksgiving service, lasting eight days. This conformed somewhat to the length of time devoted by pagans to their spring festivities, and approached the duration of the Jewish paschal observances. The eight-day period was afterward cut down to three days, after that to two, and finally it became as we have it now, a day commemorative of the resurrection.—New York Press.

The Grip in Old Times.

According to the following extract, published by the London Truth, from an old historical work, not only was Edinburgh afflicted with the influenza in 1563, but the Queen of Scots herself had the disease: "In November Edinburgh was visited with a 'new dyscace' called the 'new acquaintance,' which passed through the whole court, neither sparing lord, lady, nor damoiselle. Yet ys a paine in their heads that have yet, and a soreness in their stomachs, with a great cough. The Queen kept her bedde vi dayes. There was no appearance of danger, nor manie that die of the disease, excepte some olde folks."

DR. TALMAGE'S SERMON.

HE SPEAKS OF THE TYPE OF CHRIST'S TRIUMPH.

The Entry Into Jerusalem—A Lesson for Arbor Day—Thank God for the Trees—The Gospel of Self Sacrifice—Lessons of the Clouds.

The Glorious Palm.

Palm Sunday gave direction to this sermon. Text, John xii, 13. "They took branches of palm trees and went forth to meet Him."

How was that possible? How could palm branches be cast in the way of Christ as He approached Jerusalem? There are scarcely any palm trees in Central Palestine. Even the one that was carefully guarded for many years at Jericho has gone. I went over the very road by which Christ approached Jerusalem, and there are plenty of olive trees and fig trees, but no palm trees that I could see. You must remember that the climate has changed. The palm tree likes water, but by the cutting down of the forests, which are unfriendly to the palm tree, Jericho once stood in seven miles of palm grove. Olivet was crowned with palms. The Dead Sea has on its banks the trunks of palm trees that floated down from some oldtime palm grove and are preserved from decay by the salt which they received from the Dead Sea.

Let woodmen spare the trees of America, if they would not ruinously change the climate and bring to the soil barrenness instead of fertility. Thanks to God and the Legislatures for Arbor Day, which plants trees, trying to atone for the ruthlessness which has destroyed them. Yes, my text is in harmony with the condition of that country on the morning of Palm Sunday. About three million people have come to Jerusalem to attend the religious festivities. Great news! Jesus will enter Jerusalem to-day. The sky is red with the morning, and the people are flocking out to the foot of Olivet, and up and on over the southern shoulder of the mountain, and the procession coming out from the city meets the procession escorting Christ, as He comes toward the city. There is a turn in the road, where Jerusalem suddenly bursts upon the vision.

We had ridden that day all the way from Jericho, and had visited the ruins of the house of Mary and Martha and Lazarus, and were somewhat weary of sight seeing, when there suddenly arose before our vision Jerusalem, the religious capital of all Christian ages. That was the point of observation where my text comes in. Alexander rode Bucephalus, Duke Ellie rode his famous Marchegay, Sir Henry Lawrence rode the high-mettled Conrad, Wellington rode his proud Copenhagen, but the conqueror of earth and Heaven rides a colt, one that had been tied at the roadside. It was unbroken, and I have no doubt fructious at the vociferation of the populace. An extemporized saddle made out of the garments of the people was put on the beast. While some people gripped the bridle of the colt, others reverently waited upon Christ at the mounting.

The two processions of people now become one—those who came out of the city and those who came over the hill. The orientals are more demonstrative than we of the Western world, their voices louder, their gesticulations more violent and the symbols by which they express their emotions more significant. The people who left Phoece, in the far East, wishing to make impressive that they would never return, took a red hot ball of iron and threw it into the sea, and said they would never return to Phoece until that ball rose and floated on the surface. Be not surprised, therefore, at the demonstration in the text.

As the colt with its rider descends the slope of Olivet, the palm trees lining the road are called upon to render their contribution to the scene of welcome and rejoicing. The branches of these trees are high up, and some must needs climb the trees and tear off the leaves and throw them down, and others make of these leaves an emerald pavement for the colt to tread on.

Long before that morning the palm tree had been typical of triumph. Herodotus and Strabo had thus described it. Layard finds the palm leaf cut in the walls of Nineveh, with the same significance. In the Greek athletic games the victors carried palms. I am very glad that our Lord, who five days after had thorns upon His brow, for a little while at least had palms strewn under His feet. Oh, the glorious palm! Amara-singa, the Hindu scholar, calls it "the king among the grasses." Linnaeus calls it "the prince of vegetation."

Among all the trees that ever cast a shadow or yielded fruit or lifted their arms toward Heaven, it has no equal for multitudinous uses. Do you want flowers? One palm tree will put forth a hanging garden of them, one cluster counted by a scientist containing 307,000 blooms. Do you want food? It is the chief diet of whole nations. One palm in Chili will yield ninety gallons of honey. In Polynesia it is the chief food of the inhabitants. In India there are multitudes of people dependent upon it for sustenance.

Do you want cable to hold ships or cords to hold wild beasts? It is wound into ropes unbreakable. Do you want articles of house furniture? It is twisted into mats and woven into baskets and shaped into drinking cups and swung into hammocks. Do you want medicine? Its nut is the chief preventive of disease and the chief cure for vast populations. Do you want houses? Its wood furnishes the wall for the homes, and its leaves thatch them. Do you need a supply for the pantry? It yields sugar and starch and oil and sago and milk and salt and wax and vinegar and candles.

Oh, the palm! It has a variety of endowments, such as no other growth that ever rooted the earth or kissed the heavens. To the willow, God says, "Stand by the water courses and weep." To the cedar He says, "Gather the hurricanes into your bosom." To the fig tree He says, "Bear fruit and put it within reach of all the people." But to the palm tree He says, "Be garden and storehouse and wardrobe and ropewalk and chandlery and bread and banquet and manufactory, and then be type of what I meant when I inspired David, my servant, to say, 'The righteous shall flourish like a palm tree.'"

Nearly everything I see around, beneath and above in the natural world suggests useful service. If there is nothing in the Bible that inspires you to usefulness, go out and study the world around you this springtime, and learn the great lesson of usefulness. "What art thou doing up there, little star? Why not shut thine eyes and sleep, for who cares for thy shining?" "No," saith the star, "I will not sleep. I guide the sailor on the sea. I cheer the traveler among the mountains, I help tip the dew with light. Through the window of the poor man's cabin I cast a beam of hope, and the child on her mother's lap asks in glee whether I come and what I do and whence I go. To gleam and glitter, God sent me here. Away! I have no time to sleep."

"What doest thou, insignificant grass under my feet?" "I am doing a work," says the grass blade, "as best I can. I help to make up the soft beauty of field and lawn. I am satisfied, if with millions of others no bigger than I, we can give pasture to flocks and herds. I am wonderfully made. He who feeds the ravens gives me substance from the soil and breath from the air, and He who clothes the lilies of the field rewards me with this coat of green."

"For what, lonely cloud, goest thou across the Heavens?" Through the bright air a voice drops from star, saying: "Up and down this sapphire floor I pace to teach men that like me they are passing away. I gather up the waters from lake and sea, and then, when the thunders toll, I refresh the earth, making the dry ground to laugh with harvests of wheat and fields of corn. I catch the frown of the storm and the hues of the rainbow. At evening tide on the western slopes I will pitch my tent, and over me shall dash the saffron, and the purple, and the fire of the sunset. A pillar of cloud like me led the chosen across the desert, and surrounded by such as I the Judge of Heaven and earth will at last descend, for, 'Behold He cometh with clouds!'"

Oh, my friends, if everything in the inanimate world be useful, let us immortal men and women be useful, and that in respect be like the palm tree. But I must not be tempted by what David says of that green shaft of Palestine, that living and glorious pillar in the Eastern gardens, as seen in olden times—the palm tree; I must not be tempted by what the Old Testament says of it, to lessen my emphasis of what John, the evangelist, says of it in my text.

Notice that it was a beautiful and lawful robbery of the palm tree that helped make up Christ's triumph on the road to Jerusalem that Palm Sunday. The long, broad, green leaves that were strewn under the feet of the colt and in the way of Christ were torn off from the trees. What a pity, some one might say, that those stately and graceful trees should be despoiled. The sap oozed out at the places where the branches broke. The glory of the palm tree was appropriately sacrificed for the Saviour's triumphal procession. So it always was, so it always will be in this world—no worthy triumph of any sort without the tearing down of something else.

Brooklyn bridge, the glory of our continent, must have two architects prostrated, the one slain by his toils and the other for a lifetime invalidated. The greatest pictures of the world had, in their richest coloring, the blood of the artists who made them. The mightiest oratorios that ever rolled through the churches had, in their pathos, the sighs and groans of the composers, who wore their lives out in writing the harmony. American independence was triumphant, but it moved on over the lifeless forms of tens of thousands of men who fell at Bunker Hill and Yorktown and the battles between which were the hemorrhages of the nation.

The Kingdom of God advances in all the earth, but it must be over the lives of missionaries who die of malaria in the jungles or Christian workers who preach and pray and toil and die in the service. The Saviour triumphs in all directions—but beauty and strength must be torn down from the palm trees of Christian heroism and consecration and thrown in his pathway.

To what better use could those palm trees on the southern shoulder of Mount Olivet and clear down into the Valley of Gethsemane put their branches than to surrender them for the making of Christ's journey toward Jerusalem the more picturesque, the more memorable and the more triumphant? And to what better use could we put our lives than into the sacrifice for Christ and His cause and the happiness of our fellow creatures? Shall we not be willing to be torn down that righteousness shall have triumphant way? Christ was torn down for us. Can we not afford to be torn down for Him? If Christ could suffer so much for us, can we not suffer a little for Christ? If He can afford on Palm Sunday to travel to Jerusalem to carry a cross, can we not afford a few leaves from our branches to make emerald His way?

What makes that mother look so much older than she really is? You say she ought not yet to have one gray line in her hair. The truth is the family was not always as well off as now. The married pair had a hard struggle at the start. Examine the tips of the forefinger and thumb of her right hand, and they will tell you the story of the needle that was plied day in and day out. Yea, look at both her hands, and they will tell the story of the time when she did her own work, her own mending and scrubbing and washing.

Yea, look into the face and read the story of scarlet fevers and croup, and midnight watchings, when none but God and herself in that house were awake, and then the burials and the loneliness afterward, which was more exhausting than the preceding watching had been, and no one now to put to bed. How fair she once was, and as graceful as the palm tree, but all the branches of her strength and beauty were long ago torn off and thrown into the pathway of her household.

Alas! that sons and daughters, themselves so straight and graceful and educated, should ever forget that they are walking to-day over the fallen strength of an industrious and honored parentage. A little ashamed, are you, at their ungrammatical utterance? It was through their sacrifices that you learned accuracy of speech. Do you lose patience with them because they are a little querulous and complaining?

I guess you have forgotten how querulous and complaining you were when you were getting over that whooping cough or that intermittent fever. A little annoyed, are you, because her hearing is poor and you have to tell her something twice? She was not always hard of hearing. When you were 2 years old your first call for a drink at midnight woke her from a sound sleep as quick as any one will waken at the trumpet call of the resurrection.

Oh, my young lady, what is that under the sole of your fine shoes? It is a palm leaf which was torn off the tree of maternal fidelity. Young merchant, young lawyer, young journalist, young mechanic, with good salary and fine clothes and refined surroundings, have you forgotten what a time your father had that winter, after the summer's crops had failed through droughts or floods or locusts, and how he wore his old coat too long and made his old hat do, that he might keep you at school or college? What is that, my young man, under your fine boot to-day, the boot that so well fits your foot, such a boot as your father could never afford to wear?

It must be a leaf from the palm tree of father's self-sacrifices. Do not be ashamed of him when he comes to town, and because his manners are a little old-fashioned try to smuggle him in and smuggle him out, but call in your best friends and take him to the house of God and introduce him to your pastor and say, "This is my father." If he had kept for himself the advantages which he gave you he would be as well educated and as well gotten up as you. When in the English Parliament a member was making a great speech that was unanswerable a lord derisively cried out, "I remember you when you blackened my father's boots!" "Yes," replied the man, "and did I not do it well?" Never be ashamed of your early surroundings. Yes, yes, all the green leaves we walk over were torn off some palm tree.

When recently Captain Burton, the great author, died, he left a scientific book in manuscript, which he expected would be his wife's fortune. He often told her so. He said, "This will make you independent and affluent after I am gone." He suddenly died, and it was expected that the wife would publish the book. One publisher told her he could himself make out of it $100,000. But it was a book which, though written with pure scientific design, she felt would do immeasurable damage to public morals.

With the two large volumes, which had cost her husband the work of years, she sat down on the floor before the fire and said to herself, "There is a fortune for me in this book, and although my husband wrote it with the right motive and scientific people might be helped by it, to the vast majority of people it would be harmful, and I know it would damage the world." Then she took apart the manuscript sheet after sheet and put it into the fire, until the last line was consumed. Bravo! She lunged her livelihood, her home, her chief worldly resources under the best, moral and religious interests of the world.

How much are we willing to sacrifice for others? Christ is again on the march, not from Bethpage to Jerusalem, but for the conquest of the world. He will surely take it, but who will furnish the palm branches for the triumphant way? Self-sacrifice is the word. There is more money paid to destroy the world than to save it. There are more buildings put up to ruin the world than to evangelize it. There is more depraved literature to blast men than good literature to elevate them.

Oh, for a power to descend upon us all like that which whelmed Charles G. Finney with mercy, when, kneeling in his law office, and before he entered upon his apostolic career of evangelization, he said: "The Holy Ghost descended on me in a manner that seemed to go through me, body and soul. I could feel the impression like a wave of electricity going through and through me. Indeed it seemed to come in waves and waves of liquid love. It seemed like the breath of God. I can recollect distinctly that it seemed to fan me like immense wings. I wept aloud with joy and love. These waves came over me and over me one after another, and until, I recollect, I cried out, 'I shall die if these waves continue to pass over me.' I said, 'Lord, I cannot bear any more.'"

And when a gentleman came into the office and said, "Mr. Finney, you are in pain?" he replied, "No, but so happy that I cannot live."

My hearers, the time will come when upon the whole Church of God will descend such an avalanche of blessing, and then the bringing of the world to God will be a matter of a few years, perhaps a few days or a few hours. Ride on, O Christ! for the evangelization of all nations. Thou Christ who didst ride on the unbroken colt down the sides of Olivet, on the white horse of eternal victory ride through all nations, and may we, by our prayers, and our self-sacrifices, and our contributions, and our consecrations, throw palm branches in the way. I clap my hands at the coming victory.

I feel this morning as did the Israelites when, on their march to Canaan, they came not under the shadow of one palm tree, but of seventy palm trees, standing in an oasis among a dozen gushing fountains, or as the Book puts it, "Twelve wells of water and three score and ten palm trees." Surely there are more than seventy such great and glorious souls present to-day. Indeed, it is a mighty grove of palm trees, and I feel something of the raptures which I shall feel when, our last battle fought, and our last burden carried, and our last tear wept, we shall become one of the multitudes St. John describes "clothed in white robes and palms in their hands."

Hail thou bright, thou swift advancing, thou everlasting Palm Sunday of the skies! Victors over sin and sorrow and death and woe, from the hills and valleys of the Heavenly Palestine, they have plucked the long, broad, green leaves and all the ransomed—some in grates of pearl, and some on battlements of amethyst, and some on streets of gold, and some on seas of sapphire, they shall stand in numbers like the stars, in splendor like the morn, waving the palms!

A New Invention.

The latest idea in the way of preventing the abuse of the telephone by non-subscribers is that of the photograph. The arrangement is such that when anyone calls the exchange there is exposed to the view of the operator an instantaneous photograph of the person calling. The photograph becomes a record, each ribbonman which they are displayed being capable of producing, when brought into action, 250 photographs. According to a system devised, these ribbons are checked up, and the subscriber is charged so much for each person using not entitled to its use.

To the subscriber this will afford a great relief, in that the exchanges will give them a better service, as the telephone is supposed to be solely for the use of the party paying for it, and not for those who do not possess one. This invention is looked upon as being a way out of the serious annoyances arising from the inordinate demands on the service by those who are not claimants for good work, as by reducing them to a minimum the cost is lessened and the service is lightened. Provision always will be made for those who want to pay for telephonic communication.—Electrical Review.
