| A "Physical Culture" class, consisting of a majority of the "school-ma'ams" and Y. W. C. A. girls, has been organized under the efficient leadership of Miss Ulrey. This is a direct benefit to health, besides affording pleasant, social intercourse.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |    |
| The consensus of opinion in the fruit district is that not over one or two per cent of the peach buds have been injured by the cold weather. After the 15th of April it is generally conceded that the trying period is over, although we have had some damaging frost at a later date.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |    |
| W. L. Corbin, who, after trouble with his employer a short time ago, left Xenia, O., is being anxiously sought for by relatives. Corbin came from Holland. An uncle for whom he was named, has died in the East Indies leaving him about $800,000, which is ready to be turned over to him.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |    |
| A very pleasant musical will be given in this city on Thursday evening, April 26, in the spacious rooms of the Y. W. C. A., by Prof. Campbell of Grand Rapids. The program is now being arranged by him and will no doubt prove satisfactory. The proceeds are for the benefit of the society and this with our public will be sufficient inducement to patronize the young ladies as they make their canvass for the sale of tickets. Reserved seats at Breyman's, Wednesday morning.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |    |

NEWSPAPER LAWS.

If subscribers order the discontinuance of newspapers, the publishers may continue to send them until all arrears are paid.
If subscribers refuse or neglect to take their newspapers from the office to which they are sent, they are held responsible until they have settled their bills and ordered them discontinued.
If subscribers move to other places without informing the publishers, and the newspapers are sent to the former place of residence, they are then responsible.
CONCERNING DELINQUENT SUBSCRIBERS:
The latest postal laws are such that newspaper publishers can have arrested any one for fraud who takes a paper and refuses to pay for it. Under this law the man who allows his subscription to run along for some time unpaid and then orders it discontinued, or orders the postmaster to mark it "refused" and to send a postal notifying the publisher, lays himself liable to arrest and fine.

The Irishman's Suspension.

BY R. L. PATTERSON.

Howley Saint Patrick!
That is all this
In the shape of a letter
Signed by Hoke Smith?
Sure, it's me name
He either makes mention;
I wonder is he after Increasing me pension?

Is he? It's been waitin'
To get the good news
That me pension's increasin'
Up to me just dues.
Milk, bring here me glasses.
They'll help me to see
The good news that's come
In the letter for me.

Now, Biddy, me darlint,
Just keep your ha...ds off.
I'm thinking the contents
Will be good for yer cough.
And we'll be after payin'
The doctor's bill,
An' the tab in the corner
Wid dou' to fill.

Now Biddy and the children
Will have something to ate
An' the bit of a shoe
To cover their fate.
An' Maggie an' Tim,
Good luck to the rule.
Can get out of the shanty.
An' be goin' to school.

Yes, here is my pension
For me old broken arm,
Now we'll all stay together
Wid nothin' to harm.
Three cheers for Ould Glory
Wid a hip! a hip! an' hoorah!
The Union forever
An' swate Erin go brow.

Howld on! Howley murder!
Bad luck to the word,
"Suspended," begorrah,
Widout bein' heard.
Yis, Paddy O'Barry,
Sure that's me name,
It's me pension they're after
An' gettin' that same.

Well, Howley Moses!
That's a good joke,
But better I'm thinkin'
On Commissioner Hoke.
I see that's the matter,
He has heard from the boys
Down in Ohio,
An' he don't loike the noise.

It puts him to thinkin'
Ov the noise that was made
Back in the sixties
By the Irish Brigade.

Suspended for fightin'
In the battle's smoke,
The old Ribal general,
The father of Hoke.

Yis, shot by a guerrilla
From out of the thicket,
For bein' thine to me country
An' the Democrat ticket.
But be jabsers I'm thinkin'
He'll be in a worse fix
Than Paddy O'Barry
In the year ninety-six.

Defends a Dead Man.

LUTHER LAFLIN MILLS TRYING TO CLEAR PAINTER'S NAME.

George H. Painter's remains lie mouldering in the grave, but his cause is not dead. A man, whom every one respects as a citizen and a lawyer, sorrowed and sympathized with him all through the gloom and agony of his last night on earth, and solemnly promised him that he would never rest until he had if possible discovered the real murderer of Alice Martin and rescued from undeserved ingominy the name of George H. Painter. This man was Luther Laflin Mills.

A lawyer's motives are always believed to be interested, whatever he may say to the contrary, but the fact is that Mr. Mills' connection with Painter's case was due to a casual conversation and to Mr. Mills' generous and sympathetic heart. But after he had once satisfied himself of Painter's innocence, he labored day and night at his own expense, in utter disregard to public sentiment, and until the drop fell, to avert what he honestly believed was a judicial murder. It is true, that during the night before the execution, when there was no further hope of reprieve, he even then felt it his duty to share the doomed man's dungeon and solace him with expressions of confidence in his entire innocence of the crime for which he was to be hanged.

Lest any one should suppose that Mr. Mills showed poor judgement in treating Painter with so much consideration it should be said that three years' imprisonment in the Cook county jail had wrought a great change in Painter's character. He was the son of a Methodist Presiding Elder, had been religiously trained, and during his youth had been a consistent Christian. After his wanderings had made him a prisoner and an outcast and caused him to live for years under the shadow of the gallows, he recurred to his former religious life. He was an insatiable reader and his books were nearly all of a religious character. He was also a man of intellect, and a thinker. So that when the shadow of death gathered around him he was, as Mr. Mills believes, a sincere Christian and an unusual well-informed man on religious subjects. As Mr. Mills himself had only recently become a communicant in the Presbyterian church he naturally felt a Christian sympathy for the dying man.

Mr. Mills arrived at the jail at 10 o'clock the night before the execution, and was at once admitted to the old bath-house just east of the clerk's office, where Painter and the death watch passed the night. He had not expected to stay long in the repulsive den, but as he conversed with the doomed man a sad fascination seized him and the hours passed away unnoticed. The conversation turned, of course, on the events of the trial, the character of the evidence, the appeal to the Governor, and the fate which had, step by step, led Painter to the agony and shame of the gallows.

As the mournful conversation went on one sound after another was hushed. The noise of the last passing vehicle had died away, the hideous and heartless hum of the prison was hushed as the miseries resigned themselves to slumber. The occupants of the office had stolen off for a few hours' sleep. The silence of the grave for a little while reigned in the room. Then, appropriately, the thoughts of all turned to another world, and Painter and Mr. Mills discussed in low and earnest tones the nature of the soul, the proofs of immortality, the certainty of the resurrection, and the preciousness of the Christian hope.

Painter's familiarity with all the religions of all ages was something wonderful. He spoke with easy exactness of the hope of the Buddhist, the Brahmins, the Zoroastrian, and the Confucian, and exposed in a sad, off-hand way their shallowness and unsatisfying character. The infidelity of Paine and Ingersoll made him shudder. He had no affinity for Roman Catholicism nor for any form of Christianity that indulged pomp and ritual display. He pinned his faith without reserve to the Bible, and rested his hope entirely on Jesus Christ. He fully believed he had a happy immortality in prospect. He spoke with unaffected humility of his sinfulness, but believed his eternal rest and peace secured.

In this sort of converse hour after hour glided by, and the party was startled to hear the rattle of a key in the prison. Soon afterward doors opened, subdued voices were heard, and finally the yawp of hundreds of awakening thugs was heard in the distance. The horror of the situation was too much for Mr. Mills. The fervor of his sympathy compelled him to beat a retreat. He rose to go, and then a never-to-be-forgotten scene was enacted. Painter's nerve never for a moment forsook him. His voice was firm, but his eyes glistened with tears as he held Mr. Mills by the hand and showered on him such blessings as no one except a man in such a position could think of. He looked as if he could kiss Mr. Mills' very feet in the depth of his gratitude. Mr. Mills, too, was profoundly moved. There was only one thing he could do, and he did it. With tremulous voice he recorded a vow that as long as life should last he would devote himself to an attempt to expose the injustice and iniquity of Painter's sentence. With these words on his lips he walked, or staggered, from the chamber of death.

Mr. Mills has never until lately mentioned the subject of his night with Painter, much less his intention to vindicate his name and memory. But Painter was hardly in his coffin before the plans talked over with him for discovering the murderer of Alice Martin were partly put into execution, and from that day to this the work has been pushed forward with as much vigor as if his life could still be saved. At this point the curtain necessarily falls. Mr. Mills is paying all due attention to the Dick Edwards theory, but he has discovered another and more promising lead. Detectives are following up the clew in many parts of the country, and no expense will be spared to run the guilty one to cover. But whether this search is successful or not, the hunt will go on as long as Luther Laflin Mills is alive. It is needless to add that he is absolutely confident of establishing to the satisfaction of the public what he says the record proves to any lawyer, that Painter did not murder Alice Martin.

It May Do as Much for You.

Mr. Fred Miller, of Irving, Ill., writes that he had a severe Kidney trouble for many years, with severe pains in his back and also that his bladder was affected. He tried many so-called Kidney cures but without any good results. About a year ago he began use of Electric Bitters and found relief at once. Electric Bitters is especially adapted to cure of all Kidney and Liver trouble and often gives almost instant relief. One trial will prove our statement. Price only 50c. for large bottle. At Heber Walsh, Holland, and H. De Kruijff, Zeeland, Mich.

NOT A GOOD LAW.

The Supreme Court Squelches the Inheritance Tax Measure.

It Decides the Doran Law Passed by the Last Legislature to Be Unconstitutional—An Abstract of the Decision—The State Is Loser.

THE LAW IS INVALID.

LANSING, April 18.—The supreme court has decided that the Doran inheritance tax passed by the last legislature is unconstitutional. The law provided a tax of 5 per cent upon all inheritances the market value of which was $500 and upward of corporations or collateral heirs, and 1 per cent on all of the value of $500 and upward of lineal heirs. The revenue therefrom was to go into the general fund and apply on the expenses of the state government. The court holds it to be a specific tax, which, under the state constitution, must first be applied to the interest on the several educational trust funds and thereafter in payment of any state indebtedness. The state is not in debt and no application of the fund can be made, hence its unconstitutionality. The estimate of the benefit to the state under the law was about $150,000. Justice Long writes the opinion.

JURY COULDN'T AGREE.

A Mistrial in the Case of Ex-Secretary of State Jochim.

LANSING, April 15.—The jury in the case of ex-Secretary of State Jochim, charged with making a false public record in connection with the salaries amendment scandal of 1893, was charged by Judge Person Saturday morning and retired to deliberate upon a verdict. It was generally believed that the jury would disagree and this belief was found to be correct. After being out twelve hours until 9 p. m. the jury came into court and announced that it was unable to agree upon a verdict. Foreman Armstrong was asked if there was any probability of a change in the views of the jury and he answered that there was none. The jurors were then discharged. The jury stood six for conviction and six for acquittal. There was no change in the opinions of the jurors from the time they commenced voting in the morning until they were discharged.

The respondent feels considerable disappointment over the result, as he had expected an acquittal. The prosecution was equally chagrined, and the outcome is therefore a victory for no one. Not a little interest was manifested in the outcome of the case, as it was the first case against the indicted state officers to be tried. The failure of the jury to agree does not affect the other cases, and the people will continue to try them as rapidly as possible. Jochim's bail bond was renewed, and as the March term of court ended Saturday nothing further will be done in any of the amendment fraud cases until May.

HANGED HIMSELF.

An Old Resident of Saginaw, in a Fit of Despondency, Commits Suicide.

SAGINAW, April 18.—Alfred B. Wood, for over thirty years a resident of this city, was discovered Tuesday hanging in his barn at the rear of the old Wood homestead by his housekeeper, Mrs. H. B. Miller. Two letters were found in his pocket addressed to Mr. and Mrs. Ledlie, the latter being the sister of his wife, who died some two years ago. They indicate that the deceased had been depressed of late, owing to reading the old letters of his wife and of friends who were dead and gone, which called up reminiscences. The deceased was born in Norwalk, Conn., seventy-four years ago and had represented this district in the senate, of which he was chairman pro tem. He also held the position of city treasurer.

Robbed a Revenue Office.

DETROIT, April 14.—The United States internal revenue office on Rowland street was entered by burglars some time Friday night and the safe in Collector Phelan's office blown open. It was a Detroit company's safe with an ordinary lock, which was blown off with a small charge of gunpowder. The sum of $600 is missing. The robbers entered the office through a window. Nothing else was disturbed.

Embezzler Newkirk Sentenced.

BAY CITY, April 14.—Charles W. Newkirk, the Bay county savings bank bookkeeper, who is alleged to have embezzled $10,000 of the bank's funds, was arraigned Friday. The complaint against him was that he took $900. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to five years at the Detroit house of correction. Newkirk is only 22 years old.

To Store Their Shingles.

MUSKEGON, April 16.—During the coming season Muskegon will be made the distributing point for the products of several of the Ludington and Manistee shingle mills. It is estimated that 75,000,000 shingles will be shipped, stored and dried here, and then distributed over the railroads to the eastern market.

SATURDAY, APRIL 14, 1894.

The Twenty-eighth Municipal Year.

The old council passed out, and the new one took its place on Tuesday evening. The usual formalities incident to the occasion; coupled with a genial exchange of courtesies, were witnessed by a gathering of ex-officials and interested citizens. After the routine business had been disposed of the new aldermen were duly sworn in and took their seats, and Mayor Hummer delivered his message, which will be found below.

It is a good message, pointed and practical, and as an outline of matters that should receive the attention of this year's council it is worthy of imitation.

The new council starts out under most favorable auspices and there is nothing in sight to prevent them from coming up to the high mark of expectation.

The News wishes them God-speed!

Annual Message of the Mayor.

Gentlemen of the Council: Again it becomes my pleasant duty, as the chief executive officer of the corporation, to present to you a short retrospect of the affairs of the city during the year just closed, to call your attention to our present condition and needs, and to briefly suggest such means as to me seem best adapted to meet them.

RETROSPECTIVE.

The city of Holland is to be congratulated and our citizens may well be excused for the just pride they manifest in the progress and prosperity which has attended our fair city during the year past. While the whole country has been contending with financial reverses, stagnation of trade, closing of factories, and idle men, and nearly every municipality has been compelled to call to its aid the utmost efforts of all the charitable organizations within its borders and to exert itself to the fullest extent to keep many of its people from suffering, our people have been quite generally employed, the busy hum of industry has driven want away, and a fair degree of prosperity has marked every field of effort.

Our educational institutions have made marked progress, our religious and moral organizations have kept pace with our material advancement, and the public and corporate interests of the city have by no means been behind.

The installation and completion of an electric lighting plant for this city, second to none in its equipment and result; the establishment of a first-class electric fire alarm system; the surveying and platting into blocks of our large annexed territory; the grading and improvement of Sixth street, East and West Eleventh street, West Tenth street and parts of Columbia ave., all indicate the care, labor, and expense which our corporate interests have required and received during the year just closed.

STREET LIGHTING.

We now come to consider some of the public questions that remain for your consideration and which will present themselves to you for solution during the year entered upon.

Allow me first to call your attention to some aspects of the public lighting question. The city plant is now nearly completed and owing to the large expense attending the completion of the commercial circuit, the fund appropriated for street lighting will be considerably overdrawn after present and contingent outlays have been met.

From the experience thus far obtained, it is safe to estimate that the approximate receipts of the year for commercial lighting, at present rates, will be $2000, and the running expenses on present midnight and moonlight schedule will be $3200, leaving a net expense of $1200, which, added to the interest of lighting bonds, gives a total of $1800, to be raised by taxation on street lighting account for the year. This sum, it seems to me, is all the people should be called upon to pay, and I would therefore earnestly recommend that no attempt be made to operate the plant above the present schedule time until such time as the receipts are materially increased, either by an advance of the present rates, or by a large increase in number of commercial lights used.

We have at present about 600 lamps installed in the commercial circuit. This number can be increased to at least 800 with our present capacity, which would increase the receipts at least to $2500 annually, without any very great increase in running expenses. If now, in addition to this, our rates were advanced 25 per cent., we would then be in a position where our commercial lighting would pay the expense of street lights, less the wear and tear of plant and interest on bonds. It would seem to me that good policy should demand this consummation at least, and I earnestly recommend it to your careful consideration.

STREET IMPROVEMENT.

Our finely graded and graveled streets are at once a source of pleasure and profit to our city, and it is unnecessary for me to again commend the wise policy which has produced them without serious burden to the people. In view of the extensive improvement on this line made last year, however, together with the increased expense which the proper care of our present improved streets require from year to year, and the urgent need of all our funds for other and more pressing purposes, I would recommend that no further street improvements be inaugurated during the year.

BLOCK A.

In this connection I would again call your attention to the fact that the Block A problem is still unsolved. In view of the powers conferred upon the council in Sec. 3, Title XXIV of our charter, however, it would seem that the matter can easily be disposed of.

This is a question of great importance to the future growth of the city on the east, and should certainly receive immediate attention and a solution at your hands.

WATER SUPPLY.

The question of an increased water supply and greater safe-guards in case of fire is still unsettled. The rapid growth of the city, each year brings into greater prominence the inadequacy of our present plant. The board of public works have the matter under consideration and we feel assured that they will reach the correct solution of the whole matter. Our own opinion is that no half-way measures or temporary expedients should be attempted, but that a complete and comprehensive plan should be inaugurated that shall have in view the future requirements as well as the present needs of our fast growing city.

SEWERAGE.

The three important municipal questions of water, streets, and lighting having been fairly disposed of to the extent of present requirements, the next subject that naturally presents itself, owing to its close relation to the public health and convenience, is that of sewerage. Now it would be an easy matter for me to recommend that a system of sewers be immediately attempted. We all see the necessity of this undertaking, but like the question of water supply, the subject demands thorough and comprehensive treatment, taking into consideration not only our present needs, but adapted to the reasonable condition of the future. Undue haste in this matter is liable to result in temporary expedients, which will be both expensive and unsatisfactory.

I would recommend that the matter be placed in the hands of a competent committee, whose duty it shall be to investigate carefully different plans that may be presented; that a competent sanitary engineer be engaged to make a plan or plans to be submitted to the council for approval. This done, you will then be prepared to proceed with the work whenever the condition of the city's finances would justify the necessary expenditure, keeping in view the fact that every added municipal undertaking means not only the expenditure attendant upon its construction, but a constant outlay in its maintenance and operation, at least until such time as it may, by careful management, become self-supporting. None of our municipal undertakings have yet reached that point. Sound business principles in public affairs demand that municipal progress shall be measured by the needs of private enterprise; anything more crowds the latter down, anything less drags it down.

PARKS.

In conformity with my recommendation of a year ago you have wisely appropriated $500, to be used by the Board of Parks for the improvement and beautifying of our public parks. We trust that this board will adopt such measures for improvement and ornamentation of the parks as shall make them both useful and beneficial to our people.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The efficiency of our fire department has been maintained during the year, and the council has wisely recognized the faithfulness, the promptness, and the thorough devotion to duty on the part of our fire laddies, by granting a small increase of salaries, which, we trust, is more appreciated in the motive that actuated your action than in the amount of the increase.

ORDER AND POLICE.

A reasonable degree of order has been preserved within the municipality during the year, and the only cause for complaint in this direction lies along the same line to which I referred in my message of a year ago.

ORDINANCES.

In close connection with the efficiency of our police department is the subject of our city ordinances. With the various changes which have occurred in our charter and in our legislative enactments, a thorough revision of our ordinances has been made necessary. I would earnestly recommend that this question be given your early and continued attention until all of our ordinances shall conform to the statutory provisions of our charter and the legislative enactments.

FINANCE AND TAXATION.

Notwithstanding the many and extensive improvements in which the municipality was engaged during the year your careful management of affairs has so guarded expenditures that no additional burden has been put upon our people in the way of increased taxation for municipal purposes. It is true, our total taxes were somewhat higher last year than for the year previous, but, as was stated in my first official communication to you, this increase was for state, county and school purposes, all matters entirely beyond your control.

The many public needs of the municipality will require continued and increasing expenditures from year to year, particularly so should our rapid increase in population continue. I would therefore again commend to you the same wise economy that has guided your deliberations during the year past, and you will then merit as you shall receive the commendation of all good citizens.

Allow me to extend to each and every member of the council my grateful appreciation of the kind consideration shown me during the whole year. To you, who are about to retire, I extend a parting hand, and on behalf of the council attest your faithfulness to the trust which your fellow-citizens confided in you. We, at the same time, welcome those chosen as your successors, and enter upon the new year with the trust that all our relations may be as confident and as cordial as during the year that is past.

Respectfully,
Geo. P. HUMMER,
Mayor.

P. J. De Pree of Grand Rapids visited Sunday with his brother C. De Pree in this city. He had just returned from a two weeks' visit with their parents at Pella.

Among the many press comments on the Pollard-Breckinridge case and its condemnation of the defendant the following from the Louisville Post is as terse as it is scathing:

"It is not a story to which the people of Kentucky can be in the least indifferent. His name has been an honored one in the annals of Kentucky. Men who have borne it in every period of its history have borne it proudly and have rendered signal service to the state and to the people. With his confessions fresh on his lips, with the plea of Col. Thompson arousing indignant protests in the heart of every honest man, Col. Breckinridge proposes to return to Kentucky and ask the people of his district to return him to congress. He owes consideration to the friends who have been true to him; to his district which has honored him; to the party which has needed him; and called to him. The one service he can now render all these is to accept the verdict of the Washington jury as a verdict of eternal banishment from the public service accordingly. He should retire now and leave the Democrats of the Ashland districts free to choose a representative who will bring new and better influence into politics. They should go to some man of worth and character in private station whose career has exhibited those virtues and devotions on which Anglo-Saxon civilization rests and send him to Washington as Kentucky's reply to the accusations brought against her by her own sons."

Lessons of the Hard Times.

The hard times are teaching new lessons. Most people are economizing because they are compelled to do so by a shrinkage in their incomes; but others, whose incomes have not shrunk, are taking advantage of the cry of hard times to curtail the pay of their dependents and the ordinary expenditures which used to give bread to the working class. Householders with fixed incomes, whose purchasing power has been increased rather than diminished by the business depression, are going round boasting that they have reduced their household expenses, "in order to set an example of economy." This, contends the San Francisco Argonaut, is all false philosophy and false morals. In times like the present, no one should curtail his ordinary expenses if he can afford them, because, by so doing, he will aggravate the condition of the class that is suffering.

That the whole of the cost and expense of said work and improvement be defrayed by a special assessment upon the lots and land, or part of lots, abutting upon said part of said Twelfth street; provided, however, that the cost of improving the street intersections on said part of said Twelfth street and the frontage of the "Public Square" be assessed to the City of Holland and be paid from the general fund of the city.

Holland, Mich., Nov. 16, 1893.

LOST!—Near the corner of River and Eighth street a pocket book, containing a small amount of money, receipts, etc. The finder is known and will save trouble by returning the same to E. B. Scott, through the P. O. 10-1w.

Our better halves say they could not keep house without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is used in more than half the homes in Leeds. Sims Bros., Leeds, Iowa. This shows the esteem in which that remedy is held where it has been sold for years and is well known. Mothers have learned that there is nothing so good for colds, croup or whooping cough, that it cures their ailments quickly and permanently, and that it is pleasant and safe for children to take. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Heber Walsh, druggist.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Those who never read the advertisements in their newspapers miss more than they presume. Jonathan Kenison, of Bolan, Worth Co., Iowa, who had been troubled with rheumatism in his back, arms and shoulders read an item in his paper about how a prominent German citizen of Ft. Madison had been cured. He procured the same medicine, and to use his own words: "It cured me right up." He also says: "A neighbor and his wife were both sick in bed with rheumatism. Their boy was over to my house and said they were so bad he had to do all the cooking." I told him of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and how it had cured me; he got a bottle and it cured them up in a week. 50 cent bottles for sale by Heber Walsh, Druggist.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

EVERY DOLLAR GONE.

Burglars Make a Clean Sweep in a Bank at Nashville.

Barry & Downing's Institution Entered and All the Cash in the Vault, Amounting to About $2,000, Is Taken by Thieves.

A BIG REWARD OFFERED.

NASHVILLE, April 17.—The private banking-house of Barry & Downing was robbed Monday night of $2,000 in gold and bills. Not a dollar was left in the vault. The vault has heavy double doors, the outer one having a combination lock, the inner one locking with a key. The burglars went through these doors with apparently little trouble, and when they got inside had nothing to do but to help themselves. They secured $1,000 in gold and the balance in bills and silver. In addition to this they took $500 worth of postage stamps deposited by Postmaster John Furniss for safe-keeping. A reward of $700 is offered for the capture of the burglars.

CORYDON L. FORD DEAD.

Passes Away at Ann Arbor from the Effects of Apoplexy.

ANN ARBOR, April 16.—Corydon L. Ford, M. D., LL. D., professor of anatomy and physiology in the University of Michigan, died quietly at 8 o'clock Saturday morning. On Friday he completed his fortieth year as professor and delivered his last lecture, having handed in his resignation. On his way home he was stricken with apoplexy and did not regain consciousness.

ANN ARBOR, April 17.—The funeral of Dr. Corydon L. Ford was held Monday, many prominent physicians of the state being present. The honorary pallbearers were selected from his colleagues on the medical faculty. Dr. Ford left an estate estimated at $250,000. His will bequeaths $20,000 to the University of Michigan, the income to be used to purchase books for the general library, and $3,000 to the Students' Christian association. One brother is bequeathed $4,000, another $2,000, a nephew and niece each $1,000. This comprises all the bequests to relatives. The remainder of the estate is to be divided among numerous religious and missionary associations of the Congregational denomination.

[Dr. Ford was born August 20, 1818, at Lexington, Greene county, N. Y., being descended from William Ford, who came from England in 1621. His early education was received in the district and private schools. At 17 he commenced to teach school, which he followed for seven years and then entered the office of Dr. A. B. Brown, at Somerset, N. Y. He studied the ancient languages in the Canaanite academy and in 1840 entered the Geneva medical college, where he graduated in 1842 with such high honors that he at once received the appointment of demonstrator of anatomy, which chair he filled for the succeeding seven years, as also the same position at the medical college of Buffalo. The lectures he gave at both colleges fully established his reputation as an expert teacher of anatomy, which resulted in his being called to deliver lectures in the medical college at Castleton, Vt., and other institutions.]

In June, 1854, he was appointed professor in the medical department of the University of Michigan, delivering his first lecture October 2, of the same year. As the terms of the department until recently consisted of only six months he was enabled to fill similar chairs at the Berkshire medical college at Pittsfield, Mass., Medical College of Maine, at Bowdoin, and Long Island college hospital, at Brooklyn, N. Y. In 1866 he married Mrs. Nathaniel Messer, a widow, who died about a year ago. He was exceedingly modest and made friends of all who knew him.]

Shot in Church.

His Life Crushed Out.

NILES, April 16.—Frank Leach met a horrible death from accident at noon Wednesday. In company with his brother he sawed a huge log through the center. It was on a steep hill and one of the parts caught Frank on the foot, threw him down and rolled over him full length, crushed his skull and many bones of the body. One eye protruded. He gasped only a few times before death came.

Badly Hurt.

HASTINGS, April 14.—Fred Young, a young man employed by the Electric Light company, was severely injured while on top of one of the poles cutting a wire. The pole was defective and fell over, carrying Mr. Young with it. When picked up he was bleeding at the mouth and was unconscious. His ankles are broken and it is feared he has received severe internal injuries.

Michigan Royal Arcanum.

KALAMAZOO, April 13.—The grand council of the Royal Arcanum of Michigan is in session here. The council has had fifty-four deaths during the year and has increased eleven in membership. New officers were elected, including H. C. Hedges as delegate to the supreme council at Detroit June 5.

Ferry Project to Be Pushed.

MEMPHIS, April 13.—The arrangement with the Toledo, Ann Arbor & Northern railroad for the establishment of a line of car ferries between this point and the east shore of Lake Michigan has been concluded and work on the wharves, slips, etc., will be commenced immediately.

Released by Death.

IONIA, April 13.—Daniel Goggins died at the asylum for insane criminals of exhaustion. He was 77 years old and was sent from Grand Rapids as a life convict to Jackson twelve years ago for the murder of his wife. He was transferred to Ionia three years ago.

Cashier Gregory Taken to an Asylum.

ANN ARBOR, April 14.—Oris C. Gregory, the assistant cashier of the Dexter bank, who robbed the institution recently in an insane freak, has been taken to St. Joseph's retreat, a private asylum at Dearborn. He seems to be a complete wreck.

Dr. G. C. Osgood,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

Dr. J. F. Kitchel,
Conway, Ark.

The Centaur Company, 71 Murray Street, New York City.

Castoria.

UNITED HOSPITAL AND DISPENSARY,
Boston, Mass.

Allen C. Smith, Pres.,

In Trigg county, Ky., where everybody loves a good horse, there is a strong local feeling against the increasing importation of ponies and broncos from the far west. These little creatures are estimated by Kentuckians degenerate stock, bred indeed, by the accident of birth and by hard conditions, to a certain remarkable endurance and a capacity to go long without food and water, but nevertheless not specially fitted for the needs of Kentucky and especially undesirable in a region where horse breeding is a high science.

The funny man of a "Locoma paper wrote an item recently that two prominent men, Messrs. Corbett and Jackson, were looking for a mill site. The paper has been flooded with letters of inquiry from real estate men who have first-class mill sites, with good water power, to dispose of. The funny man is now writing only mother-in-law jokes.

No Better Medicine, and have induced many to use it.

"Thirty-five years ago this Spring, I was run down by hard work and a succession of colds, which made me so feeble that it was an effort for me to walk. I consulted the doctors, but kept sinking lower until I had given up all hope of ever being better. Happening to be in a store, one day, where medicines were sold, the proprietor noticed my weak and sickly appearance, and, after a few questions as to my health, recommended me to try Ayer's Pills. I had little faith in these or any other medicine, but, concluded, at last, to take his advice and try a box. Before I had used them all, I was very much better, and two boxes cured me. I am now 80 years old; but I believe that if it had not been for Ayer's Pills, I should have been in my grave long ago. I buy 6 boxes every year, which make 210 boxes up to this time, and I would no more be without them than without bread."—H. H. Ingraham, Rockland, Me.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

Grand Haven.

Chas. N. Dickinson for the first and second wards and Albert Vinkemulder for third and fourth wards have been appointed census enumerators.

Theol. student C. M. Steffens, Miss Kate Pellegroni and Miss Gertie Sprick represented the Second Ref. church at the county S. S. convention at Coopersville this week.

The U. S. steamer Gen. Hancock has gone into commission.

Mrs. Mary Reilly and Miss Nannie Reilly, mother and daughter, aged 41 and 19 years respectively, died Friday evening within one hour of each other. For several months the daughter had been a sufferer with that dread disease, consumption. Mrs. Reilly cared for her many weeks, during the long illness, thus breaking down her own vitality. About three weeks ago the mother was taken to her bed growing weaker day by day. Thursday both were allowed to see each other, and it was their final parting. But a few hours afterward they were dead.

The salaries which the different city officers will get the ensuing year are as follows: Recorder, $425; marshal $600; night watch, $45 per month; city attorney, $100 per annum; chief of fire department, $300 per annum; director of the poor, $80 per year; city physician and health officer, $100 per year; sexton, $360 per year; bridge tender, $20 per month; city teamster, $40 per month; superintendent of water works and street commissioner, $1.40 per day from April to December, and $1.00 from December to April; city engineer, $50 per month, night watch, $45 per month.

Dr. W. F. Reus was elected city physician.

The dead-lock on the appointment of city attorney is likely to continue during the year, and with that in view the common council resolved that "until the election of the city attorney, the mayor be authorized to employ counsel to attend to the legal affairs of the city, and that no salary or fees of any kind be paid to any person as attorney or counsel for the city, except to such person as shall be employed and designated by the mayor, until the election of a city attorney, when such employment by the mayor shall cease."

Burglars entered Enno Prulm's hardware store in Spring Lake Sunday night by climbing through a side window. A number of jack knives and a small amount of cash were stolen.

So far Ottawa county is represented by but one man in Coxey's Army, and he comes from Grand Haven.

The daily boat line between here and Chicago is now established. The City of Racine arrived here on her first trip Wednesday morning. The leaving time for Chicago is 9:00 o'clock p. m.

Fennville.

Herald: Last week the Herald announced that the river and harbor bill contains a clause providing a preliminary survey of the Kalamazoo river from the mouth to Kalamazoo. From this survey the engineers would report whether improvements on the river are practical and justified by the amount of business. We believe that the harbor at the mouth of the river is of sufficient importance to deserve a liberal appropriation, but when it comes to wasting money on a survey of the river above New Richmond the Herald thinks it sheer nonsense. The Saugatuck boat men have no great love for the C. & W. M. railroad, and they are determined to make that company put a swing in their bridge at New Richmond. For that purpose they have purchased a few cords of wood up the river and now want to run a boat up there to get it. It is years since there was any steamboat business on the river above New Richmond and there is no sense in wasting money in surveys of the stream. Give us a liberal harbor appropriation and let the river alone.

The sheriff's sale of the plant of the Peach Creamery Co. was held Saturday and the property was bid in by Raymond & Hutchinson for $385. The whole property brought less than one-eighth of its cost. John Lubbers was over from East Saugatuck and purchased a lot of the old creamery cans for the creamery which is located near him. Their creamery is doing well, receiving quantities of milk from miles around.

J. Pieters, of this village, and Mr. DeKruif, jointly own a bay pacer, by Woodlark, dam by Dick Linderman (son of Masterlode, dam Magna Charta). No boots or paraphernalia are necessary, being frictionless, all he requires if he ever goes in a race is a sulky and a blanket or two. He is very gentle. Ladies and children can drive him.

Muskegon.

The shops of the C. & W. M. Ry. Co. are filled with rolling stock undergoing repairs. Seven engines are in the machine shop. The tracks in the paint shop are filled with coaches receiving new dresses. In the carpenter department men are doing repair work exclusively, and a large number of both freight and passenger cars are being turned out.

Dr. and Mrs. John Van der Laan are arranging to leave about April 23 for a trip to Holland, "the old country," to be gone several weeks. It is twenty-one years since Dr. Van der Laan left his home in that land and came to America.

Rev. G. H. Hosper is considering a call to the Second Reformed church at Cleveland, O.

Saturday morning the citizens of Muskegon were taken off their feet by the bellowing forth of a multitude of factory whistles in one long, unbroken and awful chorus. The echo was taken up by the craft resting upon her placid waters and the town was thrown into a state of frenzy. It was a parting salute to the great 7th annual shipment of Alaska Refrigerators, which pulled out of the Alaska Refrigerator Co.'s shipping yards on Muskegon Heights, headed and drawn by two powerful engines. The train was made up of 40 large furniture cars of uniform size, filled to the roofs with 4,256 refrigerators, their destination being Worcester, Mass.

The Finest Landscape Painting in the World

"Niagara in Winter."

The People of Grand Rapids and Surrounding Cities to Receive a Rare Treat FREE OF CHARGE.

Only a small percentage of the inhabitants of Michigan have ever seen the United States' great attraction, the "Niagara Falls." Still a smaller percentage have ever seen the Niagara in winter. We have made arrangements, at a great expense, to exhibit the above picture,

"NIAGARA IN WINTER,"

at our store, commencing next Wednesday, April 11th, for Four Weeks!

This picture is the work of the celebrated painter, P. Caledon Cameron. It is the largest landscape painting in the world, measuring 21x10 feet in frame, and covers 126 square feet of canvas. It was in hand six years, is valued at $50,000 and is the most valued landscape in existence. Previous to painting it weighed 60 pounds, after completion, 103 pounds. The picture with frame weighs 600 pounds.

We extend a most cordial invitation to the people of Holland and surrounding counties to come and see this magnificent picture, as you may never have another opportunity of seeing such a grand work of art.

This picture will be exhibited only in two cities in Michigan, Detroit and Grand Rapids.

Visitors are advised to bring their opera glasses.

We will have all convenience possible to accommodate all visitors from near and far.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

N. B.--Would advise all who can, to come in the forenoon, as we expect, judging by precedent in cities where it has been exhibited, like Philadelphia, Boston, New York and Brooklyn, the crowds in the after noon were so large that it could not be seen to advantage.

Allegan County.

Gazette: As yet no decided action has been taken in the furniture factory matter. Mr. Clapp, who has had the correspondence with the parties desiring to locate here, has talked with a number of our leading business men—those who have the means to invest—and nearly all think the opportunity should not be lost, yet each one wants the others to go ahead. This sort of thing will not get the factory here, and if it does not come here it is likely to go to Holland. The people there are willing—yes anxious—to have the company locate in that city, and say they will raise the required amount in a very short time. They can do it, too, without doubt.

Mrs. M. T. Ryan, wife of the editor of the Allegan Democrat, was the victim of a serious accident Wednesday. She was working at the office and had stepped upon a high stool to get some papers out of a cupboard, when she slipped and fell, throwing her shoulder out of joint and breaking one of the bones.

One hundred and twenty-five conversions were effected at Fennville during the recent revival there.

Wayland township voted to pay a bounty of fifteen cents a head on crows, woodchucks and hawks during the coming year.

John C. Bracken has been confirmed as postmaster for Allegan.

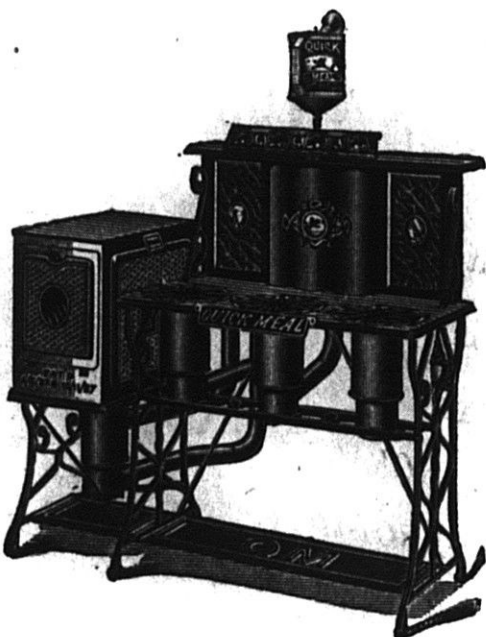

Saugatuck.

The harbor committee have decided to ask the people who are interested in the improvement of Saugatuck harbor to form a labor bee for planting shrubs on the sand peninsula between the river and the lake to prevent the sand from blowing over and obstructing the river channel. The date fixed upon is Arbor Day. It will be necessary for all those who are situated so they can, to bring a supply of shrub for planting, silver-leaf maple, red willow and Lombardy poplars being preferable in the order named. Capt. Brittain has agreed to run a boat from Douglas and Saugatuck to the field of operation for the free transportation of those who will join in the work.—Commercial.

There will be a general camp meeting of the "Saints" near Grand Junction June 14 to 25. This sect is opposed to all religious creeds and divisions. They believe that they have the same power that the apostles had to heal the sick, cast out devils, etc., and expect considerable of that kind of work to be done at the coming camp meeting at Grand Junction.

Zeeland.

At the village election held on Tuesday a large vote was polled. The weather was fair and both parties did good work. The Republicans elected the clerk, Wm. Van Loo; treasurer, J. Zoutendam; marshal, H. B. Van Dyk; and pondmaster, Libbe Bos. The Democrats elected the trustees, J. D. Everhard and Chris. Rozenraad, and the assessor, C. Van Duin. The vote on president stood a tie between G. Keppel, rep., and B. Kamps, dem. The next morning lots were cast and Mr. Keppel came out the lucky man.

Nicobar's sire has and transmits speed, and his sons and daughters are doing the same thing; a great showing for a horse of his age. His dam is by the renowned Volunteer 55, one of the greatest race horse sires, (the saying is, as game as a Volunteer). Nicobar is a rich mahogany bay horse of great substance, very stylish, and is promising in every way. His breeding is of the most prepotent kind, which combines speed, stamina and rugged constitution. Nicobar's book is now open for the season of 1894 at the very low fee of $15.00 with full return privilege.

We extend a cordial invitation to the horse-loving public to call and examine this horse, as we believe that in color, breeding, form, gait, disposition, size and substance, and natural speed, and trotting action, he will please the most critical.
