Extensive Repair Program Okayed For Junior High

Mortar Joints in All Brickwork Slated for Repair in Three Years

Junior high school will undergo a face lifting—or mortar joint lifting—as the result of action taken by the Board of Education Monday night.

The board okayed an allocation of $8,506 for this year's budget for repairing poor mortar joints in the terra cotta and brickwork of the 28-year-old school building. Because of excessive costs of such operations the work will be done on a three-year basis at a cost not to exceed $26,480.

Work will be done this year on the east side or front of the building, and on the south side at an estimated cost of $7,755 and on the chimney at a cost of $750. The west and north sides will be done next year and the gymnasium and other shops the third year. Action was taken after meeting with representatives of the Pennington firm of Muskegon which has done similar work on Holland's power plant, Hope college buildings and some downtown buildings.

Reports of two meetings of the buildings and grounds committee were submitted, dealing with progress in surveys and plans for the new Van Raalte school, the question of closing 25th St. on the new school site, the possibilities of moving Lincoln school playground equipment to Lincoln park. The latter two questions require action by Common Council.

The committee inspected three buildings which might be used for storage after the East Junior high and Froebel schools are vacated. They are the Modders building at Washington Square, the building at Maple and Seventh St., and the building next to the Home Furnace plant on Sixth St.

The board also discussed possibilities of selecting an advisory committee of representatives of the Van Raalte school district to work with the Board of Education in planning the new Van Raalte school. Such a study demands a fairly long period and it was believed actual construction of the new building would not be started until fall at the earliest.

A report of the survey of the vocational education and practical arts program in the public schools was submitted by Ralph Wenrich following a three-day visit to Holland last month. Copies of the report were distributed to the board members for study and to serve as a basis for curriculum revision in the future.

A report on in-service education for teachers - to encourage professional growth - was submitted by a teachers' committee headed by Jack Rombouts. The six-page report was submitted for study of the board, and one section on compensation for teachers who do considerable work beyond a master's degree was referred back to the committee.

Soil Erosion Data Will Be Compiled

A representative of the United States Corps of Engineers' district office in Milwaukee will be in Holland tomorrow to discuss soil erosion damages with local officials.

Mayor Harry Harrington has designated W. H. Vandewater, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, the Holland Port of Authority and Harbormaster Chester Kramer to meet with the Milwaukee district representative.

The Corps of Engineers has been directed by the House Public Works committee to compile a Great Lakes soil erosion damage report and submit it by April 28. The specific information desired by engineers is damage suffered during the one-year period from the spring of 1951 to date. It is realized, however, that large damages have been experienced prior to last spring, and also that additional damages will occur during the remainder of 1952 as the lake levels probably will continue to be extremely high. All data will be welcome.

Information supplied the local representatives should include your name, exact location of your property, extent of damages, type of property damaged, value of land and property damaged, amount of land lost due to erosion, damages due to inundation resulting from high lake levels, damage to structures provided to protect the property, and a statement as to what is being done to protect the property.

The engineers are authorized at this time to make a study only and are not authorized to construct any remedial works. Such work if constructed from federal funds must first be authorized by Congress and then financed by separate legislation.

The report now under preparation may be the basis for congressional action on the problem of high lake levels.

Reenders Named New Chairman Of County Board

John Galien Elected Vice Chairman as Supervisors Convene

Grand Haven (Special)—Clarence Reenders, Grand Haven township supervisor and chairman of the West Ottawa Soil Conservation district, was unanimously elected chairman of the Board of Supervisors at its first meeting of the April session Tuesday afternoon. John Galien of Holland was unanimously elected vice chairman. Mayor Harry Harrington of Holland served as temporary chairman of the meeting.

Reenders succeeds Nicholas Frankena of Zeeland. Frankena did not seek re-election as mayor of Zeeland in the spring election and was a unopposed candidate for supervisor. He introduced his successor, Dr. D. C. Bloemendaal, who was elected mayor of Zeeland last week. Grand Haven's new mayor, Claude Ver Duin, was introduced by Jacob Ponstein, Grand Haven city attorney.

The annual report of the County Road commission, submitted by County Engineer Carl T. Bowen, was placed on file. Bowen described the condition of the bridge over Lloyd's bayou in Spring Lake where the road had been closed several times during the winter and spring, forcing residents living on the other side of the bridge to drive two miles around to get to their destinations.

Bowen estimated cost of the work to be done at $42,300 which includes $15,000 for the new bridge. He said the only thing that could be salvaged from the old bridge are some I-beams.

Albert Stegenga, chairman of the Good Roads committee, said his committee was not ready to make a recommendation on the Lloyd's bayou project because there are several other problems in the county just as serious as Lloyd's bayou and the group does not want to set a precedent until there is some kind of pattern for the whole county.

A request from the Spanish American War Veterans for a $500 appropriation to assist in financing the annual convention in Holland June 15 to 18 was referred to the ways and means committee.

The board adjourned until 1:30 p.m. Thursday in order that supervisors would have an opportunity to attend the reception for Queen Juliana today.

Tulips, Diamonds Make Juliana's Visit Spectacular

Queen Wears Wedding And Engagement Rings On Her Right Hand

Queen Juliana of the Netherlands is leaving in the wake of her pleasant visit to the states two impressions that are likely to stay with Americans for some time... one of beautiful flowers and one of beautiful diamonds.

In a special story covering the Queen's visit to New York, Martha Percilla, fashion director of the Jewelry Industry council, says it is not surprising that the Queen's collection of diamonds is a breath-taking one since Holland is the land in which so many of the diamonds of the world have been cut and polished into their full beauty for years.

Everywhere the Queen turned her New York visit, she found herself surrounded by masses of tulips and other bulb plants native to Holland, and everywhere she went, her carefully planned costume was highlighted by her jewelry.

When she stepped from the plane at Washington airport, one of the first things to catch the eyes of reporters was the pair of handsome diamond and ruby pendant earrings and the diamond and ruby bow clip she wore.

These earrings are among her most favorite pieces and are the same she wore at her "inauguration" . . . a term which the Dutch refer to the term coronation. In addition to these lovely pieces, Queen Juliana also brought with her an outstanding set of aquamarine jewelry, a magnificent strand of large oriental pearls with which she wears diamond and pearl clips, a set of pink quartz jewelry, earrings, clips, ring and bracelet of light blue sapphires, and an ensemble of diamond jewelry worth a fortune.

A great deal of the Queen's beautiful jewelry was presented to her at the time of her marriage and at the time of her inauguration by various colonies of the Dutch Indies. It is interesting to note, too, that in the Netherlands there is no such thing as the Crown Jewels. The jewelry worn by the Dutch Queen is her personal property as opposed to many of the pieces worn by Queen Elizabeth of England, for example, which are the property of the state.

Another interesting note which has caught the attention of people who have seen Queen Juliana is the fact that she wears her wedding and engagement rings on her right hand. This is the general custom in the Netherlands and other parts of the continent, the only exception being people of the Catholic faith.

Injured When Car Crashes Into Tree

Hudsonville (Special)—Speeding at 90 miles an hour resulted in tragedy for four Hudsonville girls who were seriously injured when the car in which they were riding crashed into a tree Wednesday night on Sheldon drive a mile north of the village.

One occupant told police the car was traveling at such a fast rate in order to have one girl attend catechism class. The four girls had gone to the site of a fatal accident which occurred there only last week and had just seven minutes before the crash was to start.

The car was driven by 18-year-old Gladys Schut, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schut of Jenison. The crash occurred when the driver failed to make a turn and struck a tree on the left side about 12 feet from the road. The left side of the car was sheared off, coming to rest 30 to 40 feet away from the main wreckage.

Three of the girls, all Schuts, were cousins and were riding in the front seat. The fourth, Theresa Miedema, 17, was riding in the rear.

The driver received multiple fractures and cuts. Joan Schut, 15, daughter of Christopher Schut, received internal injuries and lacerations. She was unconscious and was considered to be the most severely injured of the four. Elizabeth Schut, 15, daughter of John Schut, received a broken left leg and face cuts. Miss Miedema received a fractured pelvis.

Perry will have his offices in Three Rivers.

High waters, during the week-end, along the shores of Lake Michigan, Lake Macatawa and Black river completely surrounded many homes and spilled over into the yards of many other houses. The top picture shows the high water level of Lake Macatawa on the north shore on Lake Dr. The entire row of houses had water lapping at foundations. In the foreground can be seen pilings placed by a home owner

Common Council Well Pleased With Juliana's Visit

Well pleased with all phases of the visit of Her Majesty Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands to Holland Wednesday afternoon, Common Council drafted a resolution on behalf of the city at its meeting Wednesday night expressing appreciation for the privilege and joy afforded by the visit of the royal couple. A copy will be sent to Netherlands Ambassador H. J. van Roijen in care of the Netherlands Embassy in Washington with instructions for transmittal to the royal couple.

Several expressions were made among the councilmen commending Mayor Harry Harrington for his fine message at the Queen's reception at City Hall yesterday afternoon, "We're proud of you," they said in effect.

In acknowledging this plaudit, Mayor Harrington said, "It was a lot of work for a lot of people, and there's no way of singling all of them out for real thank-you. The co-operation was wonderful, and we all had a good time."

The mayor was 25 minutes late to council meeting, and his Councilmen rose as he appeared, partly because of a certain festiveness in the air and partly because the mayor had been made an officer in the Order of Orange-Nassau in the Netherlands last week.

In apologizing for his tardiness, the mayor said, "The Queen comes only once in a lifetime."

Then until 10 p.m., council ground out business steadily.

It adopted a resolution calling for a public hearing May 21 on vacating 25th St. lying between Harrison and Van Raalte Aves. to facilitate proper planning for locating the new Van Raalte school in that area. Atty. Peter S. Boter, retained by the school board, explained developments in acquiring the site which he described as ideally located to give maximum service to the people in that area.

E. V. Hartman, president of the Board of Education, also explained certain factors. Motion to pass the resolution was made by Bernice Bishop, seconded by Raymond Holwerda. A substitute motion to refer the matter to the planning committee was rejected in view of the fact that the Board of Education already has obtained an okay from that body.

The Board of Education also was granted use of Lincoln park lying just north of the new Lincoln school for use of playground equipment. The agreement calls for a co-operative plan between the Board of Education and the City Recreation commission in which the equipment would be available to children after school hours too. It would not be used for playing ball or games of that kind. City Atty. O. S. Cross said the use of the park for a playground does not alter the purpose of the park which was originally deeded to the city for park purposes.

Hartman said no fences are contemplated, but every consideration would be given for the safety and well being of the children who use the park as a playground. For safety measures, he recommended that the old fountain in the center of the park be removed.

It was the first meeting of the new council for the new year, and the councilmen—now eight strong—were seated in a semi-circle, a new arrangement.

All councilmen were present. The invocation was given by City Clerk Clarence Grevenoged.

Local Man Wins Eli Lilly Award, Top Biology Prize

A Holland man has been awarded the coveted 1952 Eli Lilly award top U. S. prize in the field of biology.

Dr. J. Oliver Lampen, associate professor of microbiology at the school of medicine of Western Reserve university, Cleveland, has been selected for the prize which is given to a man under 35 for total contributions over a period of years. Dr. Lampen is the son of Prof. and Mrs. Albert E. Lampen, 552 College Ave.

He was chosen by the American Bacteriology society for the prize, $1,000 and a medal, to be presented May 1 at the society's convention in Boston. Dr. Lampen will address the society at that time.

The prize went to the former Holland man for his accumulated effort in the biology field. In his work, he showed that x-ray could create a mutant or changed organism which lost its ability to synthesize amino acids or other vitamins. He then studied composition of nucleic acid, how it is made and broken down in acids. In new research, his Western Reserve team hopes to gain enough knowledge of how nucleic acid is made to be able to stop its growth at a specific point. This knowledge could be used in treatment or prevention of virus diseases.

Dr. Lampen was valedictorian of his graduating class both at Holland high school and Hope college. He studied microbiology at the University of Wisconsin four years, receiving his master's and doctor's degrees. He spent three years at America Cyanid at Stamford, Conn., and received a post-doctoral fellowship at Washington university at St. Louis. There he worked under Dr. Cori, who was awarded the Nobel prize for his research in foods. Dr. Lampen has been at Western Reserve since 1949.

Dr. Lampen's wife is the former Miriam Walsh of Greenwich, Conn. They have two children. Their home is at 1530 Rydalmount Rd., Cleveland Heights.

Holland Trying to Send Community Ambassador Again

Groups Being Contacted For Contribution To Support Program

Holland again will endeavor to send an ambassador to a foreign nation this summer under the community ambassador plan.

Last summer Don Lubbers was the Holland candidate and since his return he has spoken before many local social, church and other organizations, relating his experiences while in Europe, especially Yugoslavia.

Application blanks for persons between the ages of 18 to 26 are being accepted and may be secured from Dr. Ella A. Hawkins at Hope college.

In order to send a community ambassador, a minimum cost of $750 must be raised.

Last year each group contacted by the committee sent in an amount proportionate to its strength. The committee is trying to get smaller groups to contribute this year along with the larger groups.

Checks may be mailed to Community Ambassador Fund, in care of W. H. Vandewater, Chamber of Commerce, Holland, Mich.

Groups that contribute may also send in a request for a speech by the community ambassador on his return. Time and place should be designated.

Further information is available by contacting Mrs. Henry Stefens, Miss Boyd or Dr. Hawkins.

Through the community ambassador plan, better understanding with our allies across the seas is established by mutual exchange of ideas and culture.

Hope Schedules Graduation June 9; Rites in Morning

Commencement at Hope college will be held on Monday, June 9 at 10 a.m., it was announced today by Dr. Irwin J. Lubbers, college president.

Commencement activities will be held the week-end of June 7 and 8 this year, rather than extending them from Sunday to Wednesday night, the previous custom.

Activities will start with the meeting of the Board of Trustees on Friday, June 6; Alumni day will be held Saturday, June 7; baccalaureate on Sunday afternoon at 2:30, June 8. Commencement at 10 in the morning of June 9 will conclude the school year.

This change in the commencement schedule was voted by the Board of Trustees at their meeting during commencement activities last June. It is in line with the policy of many colleges throughout the country. It will enable alumni, parents and friends of the graduating class to take in the entire commencement program, Dr. Lubbers said.

Eighth Graders Will Visit JHS

Eighth grade students from outlying schools who are sent to the ninth grade at Holland Junior high school are invited to attend the annual Eighth Grade visiting day Thursday. Invitations have been sent to the schools for students to register between 12:15 and 12:50 p.m. of the visiting day.

Miss Bernice Bishop, principal of Holland Junior high school, announced today that all schools are invited regardless of whether they have received formal invitations.

During the first period of the afternoon, visitors will be conducted on tours of both Junior and Senior high buildings.

The next hour will be an assembly, the main feature of which will be a program by the Junior high school band, J. J. Riemersma, principal of Senior high school, and W. W. Scott, superintendent of schools, will welcome the visitors.

After the assembly visitors will be invited to a field meet arranged by Carroll Norlin at the school's 21st St. field.

Eight Teachers Not Returning Here Next Year

Miss Lida Rogers and Miss Maibelle Geiger Announce Retirement

All teachers' contracts have been returned with the exception of eight School Supt. Walter W. Scott informed the Board of Education Monday night.

Not returning next year will be Miss Lida Rogers and Miss Maibelle Geiger who are retiring, Mrs. Mabel Westrate who is leaving the profession, Mrs. Eunice Van Regenmorter who is leaving Holland with her husband, Mrs. Dorothy Unger who is requesting a year's leave of absence for graduate study, and Miss Esther Peterson who is being married. Robert Stupka and Leon Moody announced previously they would not return.

Scott announced two new positions to be filled in the elementary schools, and the committee on schools recommended that contracts be offered to five elementary teachers whom Scott interviewed recently.

The board approved certain adjustments in the salary schedule for athletic coaches and the extra pay schedule for certain positions in the music and athletic departments which require outside work. The new schedule in general allows a $100 increase in top football and basketball positions, head baseball, track and tennis posts, and $50 increase for such positions as junior high football and basketball positions, assistant track and golf. Certain intramural sports are paid by an hourly rate. Difference from last year's allocation amounts to $1,475, not counting hourly pay for intramural sports.

The board approved in principle a recommendation submitted by the committee on credit for teaching experience but referred the report back for minor adjustment. The report recommends mainly that teachers be given full credit for the first five years outside Holland and half credit for the second five years, the evaluation to be determined by the superintendent. The present arrangement allows only five years' credit.

The board also approved a few adjustments in pay and hours for salaries of office personnel and recommended the purchase of a dictaphone and check writing equipment for the superintendent's office.

The board decided to consult with City Manager H. C. McClintock for slowing down traffic on Columbia Ave. in the vicinity of Lincoln school. It was suggested it might be well to investigate traffic at all schools, parochial as well as public.

A communication from the AAUW inviting board members to attend a meeting Thursday when Esther Middlewood, mental health expert of the state health department, will appear was accepted and filed. Miss Middlewood's topic will be "Mental Health in Ottawa County."

A letter from several parents suggesting French be introduced into the school curriculum was given consideration, although the board felt inclined that if French were to be returned to the curriculum it probably would be introduced at a higher grade than in the ninth grade which the group suggested. French was dropped from the school schedule some years ago when interest lagged and only 13 enrolled for a class. Spanish is the only modern language now being taught in the school.

The board will meet with representatives of the sending districts of rural sections tonight in Junior high school. It will be the second meeting of its kind this year.

The next informal meeting of the board will be held April 28 with Prof. A. E. Lampen in charge. The subject will be "Chemistry in the Atomic Age."

Claims and accounts for March totaled $57,142.52 of which $39,251.93 went for teachers' salaries.

Building Permit Summary Listed

A total of 97 building permits totaling $693,150 have been filed in Holland township between Oct. 1, 1951 and March 31, 1952, according to township Clerk Walter A. Vander Haar.

The total includes two new churches, 49 new homes, 20 commercial and industrial additions and alterations, 15 residential alterations, 10 new garages and one new chicken coop.

From April 1 to 12, 15 building permits were issued by Vander Haar and approved by Zoning Administrator Westbroek.

The 15 permits total $57,000 and include eight new homes, four garages and three residential alterations.

DAR Meeting Features Program on Ellis Island

A program on the history of Ellis Island and the work done there by Daughters of the American Revolution was presented by Miss Maibelle Geiger Thursday afternoon for members of Elizabeth Schuyler Hamilton chapter, DAR.

The chapter met at the home of Mrs. G. S. Cross.

Miss Geiger described the island as the main gateway to this country for the last 52 years. From 1900 to 1914, she said, about 99 per cent of all the immigrants were immediately passed through. In 1917, however, more immigration restrictions were imposed and fewer were allowed immediate entry. Thus, detention divisions were established, she said.

In 1921, the DAR decided to take care of recreational and occupational therapy work in the women's division. As the immigration increased, the DAR increased its number of steady workers at the island. Their work was so well received in the women's division that soon they took over the men's detention work for occupational therapy work also, Miss Geiger said. Later, in 1928, they took over at all eight of the detention rooms. In 1933, they added another service, that of distributing citizenship manuals to all the immigrants.

Miss Geiger reported that this work was the first occupational therapy ever provided in any general hospital. She told how, in 1942, the Daughters specialized in occupational therapy at the Marine hospital and emphasized this work because immigration fell off during the war years. In 1950, the Marine hospital was closed and the DAR Ellis Island committee was dissolved. The speaker also told of the high praise given to DAR for all their work on the island.

Mrs. C. C. Wood led devotions before the program. She read "The Legend of the Dogwood Tree." Officers' reports were given and the group voted to contribute sums to the Red Cross and to the Student Ambassador fund.

Mrs. R. B. Champion, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the name of Mrs. Cross as nominee for treasurer, to be voted on at the next meeting. Mrs. Wood and Mrs. Milton Hinga gave reports on the 52nd annual state conference which they attended. Mrs. Wood also presented the historical and genealogical records of the state organization for 1940 to 1952.

Plans were made for the spring luncheon, to be held May 8 at the American Legion club house.

Members of the hostess committee were Mrs. J. E. Bacheller, Mrs. Edward Van Dyke, Mrs. Howard Lane, Mrs. Ralph Oldenburger and Mrs. A. B. Ayers.

Tulip Time Programs Are Now Available

The first 5,000 copies of the 1952 Tulip Time program have been received at Tulip Time headquarters, and are available to the public in limited quantities, Manager Larry Wade said Monday.

The program this year has a colorful cover of tulips in full bloom. Provided through courtesy of the Holland Furnace Co., programs list general information, daily attractions, special events, and a detailed schedule of attractions during the four-day festival May 14 through 17.

The inner page has a detailed map of tulip lane, bordered by a series of sketches in a Dutch tile effect. The sketches are numbered to conform with numbers on the map.

George Lenters Dies At Holland Hospital

George Lenters, 69, of 99 West Ninth St., died Sunday morning at Holland hospital after a lingering illness.

Surviving are two sons, George, Jr., and John of Holland; three daughters, Mrs. John Elzinga and Mrs. Glenn Folkert of Hamilton and Mrs. Harold Sienk of Holland; 10 grandchildren; three brothers, Gerrit, Dick and Ed Lenters; a brother-in-law, Henry Mulstee, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. John Lenters, all of the Holland area.

Invitations Mailed For Press Day

Invitations to Holland's annual Tulip Time press day to be staged on Tuesday, May 13, the day before the festival opens, were mailed last week to representatives of press, radio, television and other publications. Guest reply cards were enclosed.

Press day is not a working day for writers and photographers, rather it is a holiday through which the people of Holland show their appreciation for the countless recognitions the press has accorded Holland's traditional tulip festival.

Activities will start at 10 a.m. with registrations in the lobby of the Warm Friend Tavern. The Holland Sentinel will be host at lunch and the Holland Furnace Co. will provide supper.

Tulip tours and advance showing of Dutch folklore attractions which highlight the festival are scheduled.

Saugatuck High School Students Protest Dismissal of Instructor

Saugatuck (Special)—A walkout by about half of the student body at Saugatuck high school last week protested the "firing" of Allen Grelle, popular high school instructor.

The Saugatuck school board, in a meeting on April 2, failed to renew Grelle's contract. He has been on the high school faculty for the past four years.

Carrying signs reading "We want Grelle" and "On Strike, School Board Unfair," the disgruntled students paraded through Saugatuck's main streets Thursday after walking out of afternoon classes.

The student strike actually had little effect on the timetable of school classes. School was to be dismissed after Thursday's classes for Easter vacation.

Grelle, about 27, left Thursday to spend his vacation in his home state of Indiana. He teaches commercial courses, economics and civics at the high school. An overseas veteran from World War II, he also is president of the Saugatuck-Douglas Rotary club.

The contract of Miss Marie Finnegan, English and home economics teacher who has been at Saugatuck for four years, also was not renewed by the board. Other teachers on the high school faculty are Supt. L. E. Waugh, Principal Harley Henderson and Mrs. Henderson.

Waugh declined any comment on the situation Friday. In confirming the facts in the case, one school board member, who did not want to be identified, commented that the board had reasons for its actions but did not wish to make them public.

Another Saugatuck citizen who sympathizes with the student strikers, said that the majority of the parents are behind the students. This spokesman also declined to be identified.

After the two grades of students walked out Thursday, the administration dismissed the rest of the students for the day.

50 Easter Hams Escape Damage

Fifty Easter hams valued at $300 were saved but the smokehouse unit in which they had just completed processing was destroyed when it became overheated at noon Friday at the Montello Park IGA store.

Value of the destroyed smokehouse unit was set at $700 by owner Gerrit Ritsma.

The flash fire occurred in the separate building used for processing meat about 75 feet behind the store building. Damage was confined to the smokehouse itself, and the rest of the building, coolers and meats were unharmed.

The smokehouse became overheated at 11:30 a.m. just as its load of hams was completing a 24-hour smoking job. When Ritsma noticed the overheated conditions, he successfully got all the hams out of the smokehouse before the fire got really started. In the process, he received a cut on his left hand.

Equipment from Holland township fire station Number two answered the alarm. The processing building itself was filled with smoke, but incurred no damage outside of the smokehouse unit.

School Discipline Further Discussed At Board Meeting

Camp Fire Council Suggests Five-Point Plan for Consideration

Comments, pro and con, on disciplinary measures adopted by the Board of Education last month, provided further discussion at the monthly meeting of the board Monday night in the administrative offices.

Opposition to action taken last month on asking coaches to suspend a member of the basketball team was voiced by Henry S. Maentz who criticized the board on several fronts, his main objection being what he termed a tendency of saying "yes" to one group and "no" to another. He said several persons had sought him out to discuss the situation.

As neither the board nor Maentz had any desire to argue the disciplinary policies at length trustees made it clear that the board is interested only in the welfare of all school pupils and that it regretted the necessity for taking action of this type.

Communications commending the board for taking a positive action on moral issues came from teachers in Holland high and Junior high school, from principals and from the Holland Camp Fire council.

The teachers expressed confidence in the board's judgment and in the way Supt. Walter Scott handled the situation. The communications said the teachers felt that a clear-cut definition of procedure makes their work easier.

The communication from the Camp Fire council commended the board for its action and suggested a five-point program which could be given further consideration, as follows: House parties for seniors during commencement week, private parties after sweater dance, school night hours and a standard time set by parents when all high school students should be home, bus trips to school events outside the city, and cheating in exams.

The letter expressed the belief that solution of minor problems might eliminate major problems later.

The board felt that the first three problems should be dealt with by parents and suggested the mental health series every Monday night in which parents and other interested persons are discussing such problems. The latter two problems of rules for bus trips outside the city and cheating in exams should perhaps receive further consideration on administrative or school levels.

The board said if parents would like to call a special meeting or arrange a panel discussion on problems suggested by the Camp Fire council which directs the activities of about a thousand girls, the schools would be happy to provide facilities.

President E. V. Hartman presided at the three-hour meeting at which a huge amount of other business was transacted. Trustee C. J. De Koster gave the invocation. All trustees were present.

Queen Juliana Named for Mother Of 16 Children

Netherlands Monarch Is Direct Descendant Of Juliana of Stolberg

Why did Count William of Nassau, widower and father of two daughters, marry, in 1531, the young widow Juliana of Stolberg, Countess Hanau, who at the age of 25 had been left with five children, without either a significant fortune or great international political influence?

He could have married a princess of Saxony, of Wuertemberg or of Lorraine, as his distinguished and autocratic bother, Henry III of Nassau, desired him to do. Henry himself had married Claudia of Chalons, of the famous Burgundy dynasty and, in addition, she had brought him a tremendous dowry, increasing his international prestige. Even before his marriage, Henry had stood high in the favor of the mighty Emperor of Germany, Charles V, who had appointed him Stadtholder (governor) of several provinces in the Lowlands.

Evidently, then, William of Nassau was less ambitious than his brother. He had known Juliana of Stolberg since her early childhood and he has been the guardian of her first husband, Philip of Hanau. He had watched the girl as she grew up in the midst of a very happy and far from ostentatious family. She had been educated by a chaplain who had studied at Wittenberg and maintained close relations with the followers of Luther. Juliana's mother had brought into their home Luther's translation of the Bible, around which the education of the children was centered.

Later, William of Nassau witnessed the happy, though brief, married life of his ward, Philip, and his young wife. And two years after he himself had become a widower and she a widow, they were married. They lived in Dillenburg Castle, near the Rhine, with his two daughters and her five children. In the course of their long marriage she bore him 11 more children, five sons and six daughters. Count William became known as "William the Rich," no one knows why, since he was far from wealthy. Was it because of his numerous offspring or of his extremely happy family life at Dillenburg, which throughout Juliana's life remained the physical and spiritual home of all her children?

It is more than probable that the history of the descendants of William the Rich and Juliana of Stolberg would have been the same as that of hundreds of similar contemporary families of "younger sons," had not providence taken a hand. Countess Juliana believed in the simple life. She was deeply religious and devout, and also a woman of great intelligence and of strong character. Count William, busily engaged in the management of his estates, left the running of the large family at Dillenburg castle entirely in the hands of his capable wife. And since Juliana combined strong self-control with her intense love for her family, she naturally became the leader, the matriarch, on whom everyone came to lean for moral and spiritual comfort.

She personally supervised the upbringing of her 18 children and a large number of their grandchildren, and also of the other children at her small court and the children of relatives' families living in the vicinity. In the school which she founded, the children were taught reading, writing and arithmetic, but no foreign languages.

Countess Juliana herself never learned to speak French, and yet she was one of the most advanced women of her time. She wrote beautifully and her style and spelling were superior to those of other women of that period. Religious education was her personal responsibility, influenced as she was by the evangelical teachings she had absorbed in her childhood.

The whole clan revered and respected the mother until the very last years of her long life, during which she witnessed the births of 77 grandchildren and 160 great-grandchildren. Her daughters went far away to marry princes and other rulers; her sons went to battlefields in Holland to fight for the principle of religious tolerance. Wherever her children went, they wrote letters bearing testimony to their reverence.

Of her five sons, four gave their lives for religious freedom and for Dutch independence. Her eldest son, William the Silent, became the founder of the Dutch nation and a new dynasty. Queen Juliana is a direct descendant of another son of Juliana of Stolberg.

Royal House of Orange-Nassau Was Created by Merger of Two Families

The House of Orange-Nassau, to which Queen Juliana of the Netherlands belongs, was created in 1544 through the merging of two noble families, the House of Nassau and the House of Orange.

The House of Nassau was created in 1195 when a certain Count Walram of Laurenburg changed his name to Walram of Nassau, after Nassau castle in Western Germany, in which he lived. In the 15th century, the House of Nassau acquired, through marriage, large properties in The Netherlands.

One of Walram's descendants, William of Nassau (born in 1533), inherited the title of "Prince of Orange" from his cousin Rene of Chalons, who died in 1544. Prince William, founder of the House of Orange-Nassau and founder of the Netherlands nation never set foot in his principality, the city of Orange in Southern France.

William the Silent, as Prince William was also called, in 1559 became Stadtholder (governor) of Holland, Zealand and Utrecht for the King of Spain, he retained the same title, though he no longer owed allegiance to the King of Spain but had become the first servant of the newly-born Republic of the United Netherlands. His descendants were called Stadtholder, too, until 1795 when Prince William V was forced to flee from the country by the French invasion.

After the fall of the French Empire in 1815, Prince William V's son, William, was proclaimed the first King of The Netherlands. He was Queen Juliana's great-grandfather.

The motto of the House of Orange is "Je Maintiendrai" (I shall maintain). It is also that of The Netherlands itself.

City Planning Problems Aired By McClintock

Harold C. McClintock, city manager, addressed Holland Exchange club at their meeting in the Warm Friend Tavern Monday. He discussed city planning, particularly as it concerned Holland.

The speaker explained that the plan for Holland is still in the formative stage and much study is needed. This is being carried on, he said, under direction of the planning commission with the help of Scott Baby, authority on city planning.

McClintock defined city planning as the process whereby the future of a community is so guided as to make it a better place in which to live in all its phases. He explained that this planning concerns not only the city limits but all surrounding area as well and co-operation is needed from city, township, state and even federal governments.

He displayed a map showing property values and discussed factors affecting these values under two points: Suburban sprawl, or the building of homes outside the region served by city utilities, and urban blight, regions within the city which depreciate because of encroachment of business, industry and increased population.

Several solutions to these problems were offered by the speaker, such as establishment of service areas, traffic and zoning regulations and co-operation of city and school in working out parks and playgrounds. He pointed out that the work will take considerable time, at least 25 or 30 years.

McClintock emphasized that "this is one of the most important problems facing Holland and the surrounding communities" and urged his listeners to take a personal interest in the development of the plan.

Dr. John R. Mulder, president, conducted the meeting and John Ver Beek gave the prayer. Guests at the meeting were Richard Bouwa and Marvin Lindeman. Seventy-one members attended.

Muskegon Heights Defeats Christian In First Contest

Muskegon Heights walked off with the decision in the opening baseball game of the 1952 season on the Holland front Tuesday afternoon by whipping Holland Christian 9-4 on a chilly day on River-view park diamond.

The slow-moving game saw the invading Tigers bunch three hits with a walk and a costly error for three runs in the second inning. Heights managed to maintain a lead thereafter.

Righthanded veteran Bernie Winnicki went the distance on the hill for Coach Oakie Johnson's charges, and was tough for the Christian batsmen to solve. Chet Warner got the first safety off Winnicki in the sixth inning, and Coach John Ham's crew then got to the stocky hurler for four hits and four runs in the final two frames.

Wilbert Venema, who hurled the first three frames for Holland, was charged with the defeat. He allowed five runs on four hits while walking four and fanning two. Southpaw Tony Diekema took over for the last four innings and gave up four runs on three hits and five walks. He whiffed five.

Winnicki meanwhile struck out eight Maroons and walked five.

Christian got its first run in the sixth frame when Diekema walked and kicked himself around the bases without benefit of another hit. Singles by Warner and R. Venema accounted for the second tally in the same frame.

The final two runs for Holland scored with two out in the seventh. Safeties by Ron Nykamp and Diekema, plus a Heights error, produced the brace of tallies.

Besides hurling effectively, Winnicki also was the leading Tiger hitter with two safeties.

Christian's next game is on Friday at Fennville.

STALIN'S ROAD TO PEACE

Stalin is certain that capitalism and Communism can live side
by side in peace—if each will refrain from meddling in the internal affairs of the other.

It sounds so reasonable that no
one should feel inclined to look
this Communist gift horse of peace in the mouth. Communist organs
like "The Daily Worker" have been getting lyrical in singing
their song of peace since the latest siren tune of their great Russian Father. Anyone who continues to doubt that the free world must lie down beside the Russian bear
is called a war-monger.

In spite of that, only the most trusting souls continue to believe that if the lamb lies down beside the bear the latter will not end up inside the latter. Wendell Wil-kie believed that the two could be bed-mates, but that was in the days when Stalin still needed
our lend-lease billions. Wilkie's
"One World" became a best-seller
but in retrospect its thesis
comes near to being the biggest sellout in modern history.

Roosevelt believed the lamb-bear theory. If we would only give Stalin just about everything he asked he would be good and not meddle in our internal affairs. But that too was in the days when Stalin couldn't afford to be anything but good. In spite of that fact his agents were busy at that very moment interfering with our internal affairs, stealing our military secrets through the medium of pseudo-Americans like Alger Hiss.

And that's what Stalin has been doing ever since. He and his government have made it their main business to meddle in the internal affairs of every country they considered worth destroying. Certainly Communism and capitalism can live in peace in the same world if each will refrain from meddling
in the domestic affairs of the other. But that is not what Stalin means. What he really means is that we shall not trouble him but will leave him free to have his way even in our own country without interference.

If Communism and capitalism
could really both live up to Stalin's non-interference rule, there is no doubt which of them would win.
Freedom always wins against slavery in an equal battle.

GREAT DAY FOR TEXAS

Many Americans would be put to
it to tell what great event is celebrated on April 21, but no Texan.
This is San Jacinto Day, on which
in 1836 Sam Houston led the Texans to victory over Gen. Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna, the Mexican dictator and won independence for Texas. For years the new country operated on its own, but in 1845
realized its dream of annexation
to the United States. The celebration of San Jacinto has long been celebrated by the state as a holiday.

Another fact familiar to Texans
but not always remembered by outsiders, is that the state has been under five flags. Spanish, Mexican, its own, the Stars and Stripes, and from 1861 to 1865 the Stars and Bars of the Confederacy.

It would take too long to enumerate the distinctions of Texas, but it has plenty of glories to celebrate.

Sunday School
Lesson

April 20, 1952
Jesus and the Law
Matthew 5:17-20; Mark 10:17-22
By Henry Geerlings

Near the heart of the Old Testament stand the Ten Commandments. There is in them a major element of the legal and spiritual and a minor element of the sacrificial. They have a place in the education of every Christian, and he must regard them as an important part of his equipment for life and service. It is very natural that they should stand back toward the beginning of the human race. In their essentials they are basic and will endure as long as there are human relationships.
It is when we come to think of the meager place they hold in the lives of some persons that we realize how important they are,
and always will be though men
attempt to ignore them.

It is important for us to remember that Jesus did not ignore them. He did not ignore them, for He knew better than any other
how they relate themselves to all standards of morality. It was not unusual for Him to call the attention of His hearers to their importance. The centuries may come and go, but so long as there are duties to be performed and obligations to be assumed and relationships to be established they will endure. If we did not have them the very necessities of the human family would drive us toward the enactment of something very much like them. They throw much more than a beam of light across the centuries. They are a large part of that light itself.
Antiquated? By no means. They are modern.

I wonder if we are not sometimes shocked at the attitude taken in our day toward the commandments. There are those who tell us that we are living in a lawless age. We boast constantly of our freedom. We are free moral agents. There is apparently no one who can compel us to do what we do not want to do. This liberty with which we have been endowed can so easily become license. But we cannot move in that direction with the consent of Jesus. The commandments cannot save us. They do not possess the key that will admit us to heaven;
and what is even more, they cannot put within our hands the secret power of a good life. But Jesus shaped His own life in no small measure by them. Outwardly and inwardly He was without sin.

If there had been any way of successfully charging Him with sin. His contemporaries would have done it. That was their intention. That would have pleased them as nothing else could. They deliberately set themselves to find some flaw in the armor of His character. But there was no fault or flaw there. He lived His life in public. He was no recluse, no hermit, no ascetic. He was naturally sociable. He grew up with people. He was a carpenter, and carpenters cannot spend their days in seclusion. As a result His behavior was known to His associates. When they heard His claim to be the Son of God they must have given particular attention to the manner of His life. They would study His words and actions. They must often have discussed them among themselves.

His way of life was very much like our own. He was born of a woman. He grew up in a home.
He was once a child, then a youth, then a man. He passed through all the stages common to our race. He attended school, studying His lessons, reciting to His teachers, taking examinations, passing from grade to grade. It may be difficult to think of Him
in this manner, but that is the way in which we must think of Him. In no other manner can He come so close to us. He learned a trade, made friends, and no doubt some enemies also. These things were not unreal. The fact the gospel writers take pains to tell us how closely His life matched the lives of others. To strip
Him of His humanity is to remove His infinite distances from us.

The commandments are important. We never outgrow them.
There is no substitute for them.
To the Christian they are a part of severe legalism. They are normal and natural to Him. They are part of His spiritual furnishing.
He does not try to get around them, or to evade them, or to create substitutes for them. They stand, a part of the unchanging will of God. If we think of them separately we see how they fit into the thought and action of the child of God. We are not saved by the works of the law, but the saved individual walks by the Law. In that Law
the believer finds delight.

It is not strange that men view
the commandments differently. Some think of them as an unabated and unmitigated burden. They wish there were no such thing. But to the believer the commandments are a constant source of joy. He sees in them the good will of God
and the secret of his own happiness and peace. To him they are a fountain of strength and a bulwark of security. They are what the highway is to an automobile,
what the banks are to a stream,
what instruction is to strength and beauty. The power of the new life is primarily inward, but it is also outward. It reflects itself in what we say and do.

Soestdijk palace, near Utrecht in the heart of the Netherlands, has been the home of Queen Juliana and her husband, the Prince of the Netherlands, since their marriage in 1937. The palace was built in the 17th century and later enlarged by Napoleon's brother Louis, who was for a short time King of Holland. The palace is a long, low white building built in a semi-circle surrounded by a park. Only the right wing is in use by the royal family, the left wing being reserved for the Queen's mother, Princess Wilhelmina, when she stays with her children and grandchildren. The part used by the Queen and her family contains about 40 rooms, including living quarters for the family and personnel and offices for the Queen and Prince.

Queen's Powers Are Well Defined in Netherlands

According to the constitution,
the ruling monarch of The Netherlands may be either a king or a queen. Since 1890, The Netherlands has been ruled by a woman:
the first was Queen Wilhelmina,
who was succeeded in 1948 by her daughter, Queen Juliana.

The crown, as the monarch
often is called, may be said to possess but not to exercise power.
The constitution vests it with many powers; in practice, however, the political decisions must be those of responsible ministers.
Not only constitutional practice
but the constitution itself circum-
scribes the royal powers, when it states that all royal decisions
must bear the ministerial countersignature.

Royal rule through ministerial puppets is prevented by the article of the constitution which says,
"The king is inviolable; the ministers are responsible." The ministers are solely responsible (to Parliament) for all actions of the crown, which means, in its practical application, that the ministers

are responsible for their own actions. For if the crown were to command the execution or the obstruction of a certain action, for which the minister refuses to assume responsibility, it could assert its will only if it were able to find another minister willing to assume that responsibility. Should it find such a man, he would have to gain the support of Parliament for his actions. This issue between the crown and Parliament was decided in the latter's favor in 1868, when Parliament twice refused to allocate funds for the Government which, in that case,
was backed by King William III,
Queen Juliana's grandfather.

Personal Influence
"On the other hand, the monarchs are something more than formal and ceremonial heads of state, though this position in itself is far from being without importance. The crown and its wearer symbolize the unity of the nation. . . . The monarch, standing above parties, plays a role essential to parliamentary government. . . . So far as personal influence in the political sphere is concerned, there exists,

in Bagehot's well-known phrasing, "the right to be consulted, the right to be encouraged, the right to warn." No little. . . . depends on the personality of the king or queen. In general, it may be said that during the last hundred years and more, Netherlands
monarchs have acted with marked prudence and discretion and have contributed to institutional
stability through an influence
that has been throughout wholesome and effective." The foregoing quotation is from R. K. Gooch in "Governments of Continental Europe."

The following powers, conditions by the operation of ministerial responsibility, as expressed by the requirement of a ministerial counter-signature, are vested
in the crown by the Netherlands constitution:

- Authority to enforce laws including authority to make regulations
- Command of the armed forces.
- Power of appointment and removal.
- Conduct of foreign relations.
- Power of initiative in legislation (shared with legislature).
- Power to approve or disapprove
bills.
- Power of summoning, adjourning, proroguing and dissolving legislature.
- Power of pardon.

Holland will have a direct influence on the arrangements for the visit of Gen. Douglas Mac-Arthur to Lansing on May 15.
Preliminary plans were outlined today by State Rep. George Van Peursem of Zeeland, member of the joint legislative committee in charge of MacArthur's visit to Michigan.

Tulip Time, Inc., and the city of Holland will send 2,000 tulips to Lansing for the occasion, plus wooden shoes for both the general
and his wife and miniature wooden shoes as souvenirs for all concerned.

The tulips will be in evidence at the ladies' banquet being held at the Michigan State college Union building for Mrs. MacArthur, at which from 400 to 450 women will be present. Guests will be the wives of Michigan legislators
and other state and civil officials.
Arrangements also are being made
for Dutch uniforms for waiters,
waitresses and hostesses.

Tulips also will be in evidence at the banquet for Gen. MacArthur, which will draw an estimated 800 persons at the Kellogg center on the MSC campus. Hosts at this luncheon will be the state legislature and Michigan Press association. The general will be presented with his shoes at the luncheon.

After the luncheon, the tulips
probably will be taken back to the House floor to serve as decorations when MacArthur addresses
the joint session in the evening.

In addition, plans are being considered to include a uniformed contingent of Hollanders in the parade from the Kellogg Center
to the capital building in the afternoon.

In explaining MacArthur's itinerary while in Lansing, Rep. Van Peursem disclosed the general will arrive at 9:30 a.m., and then make a one hour tour of the Oldsmobile plant. From there, the general and his wife will go to their separate luncheons in East Lansing, to be followed by the parade back to the capital at 3:30 p.m.

Then the MacArthurs will rest until the 8 p.m. address, which will be closed to the public at the general's request, but will be broadcast nationally with the possibility of television also being considered.

The MacArthurs will return to Detroit on May 16, where the committee headed by Simon Den Uyl
of Detroit and Holland will take charge of his visit there.

These arrangements for the general's Lansing visit were discussed Tuesday night by members of 25 committees handling the affair
in Lansing. Tulip Time Manager
Larry Wade was expected to agree with Holland's part in the observance at a meeting with Rep. Van Peursem today.

Holland Churches Filled
Despite Rain on Easter

Despite rainy weather, Easter
sunrise services here Sunday attracted good crowds. As expected,
most auditoriums had overflow
crowds in the morning. The rain subsided shortly after noon, but
the day remained dark and cloudy.
Beechwood church was filled to capacity for the city-wide sunrise service sponsored by the Christian Endeavor union. Dr. Jacob Prins was the speaker and special music was provided by the men's chorus of Fourth church. Gladys Buurma presided. Ed Vining served as song leader and John Tien
gave scripture reading and prayer.

A fairly large crowd gathered in Ninth Street Christian Reformed church for the annual sunrise
service sponsored by the Philathea class. Trumpeters Gary Vander Ark and Herschel Kuipers accompanied the singing, and Ronald, Rose and Lawrence Van Till played a flute trio. Eleanor Bare-man sang a soprano solo and the Christian high girls' sextet provided music. The Rev. George Hol-werda of Zeeland gave the Easter meditation.

Owners Warned About
Dogs Running Loose

Conservation officers issued a warning today to dog owners, reminding them of the state laws
regarding dog chasing game.
It's unlawful for dogs to molest game at any time during the closed season, Officer Elmer Boer-man said. In addition, he explained, from April 15 through June 15 it is also illegal to train dogs
on game.

"It's pretty important that dogs
don't run during this period," Boerman said. "That's the breeding season for game."

Deliberate violations will bring prosecution, officers warned. The minimum penalty upon conviction
adds up to $17.40 fine and costs,
and maximum fine can be $100.

Discussion by Panel Featured in Series

A panel discussion of "A Social Code for Teen-Agers" was featured at the Child Guidance series Monday night in the Longfellow gymnasium. George Lumsden acted as moderator. On the panel were Mrs. Clarence Wagner, Mrs. H. K. Alexander, Gladys Wiskamp, Don Crawford, Earl Borlace and the Rev. Herman Rosenberg.

Part of the discussion dealt with privileges we want our young people to enjoy and the latter part, the "responsibility which we expect young people to assume." It was emphasized that the responsibilities should be in proportion to privileges granted.

Frequent and varied social activities with other young people were considered desirable by the panel. Entertainment should be based on a family level whenever possible. Teen-agers will accept time to plan with them family entertainment which is enjoyable to all and which includes some of their friends.

It was agreed that parties, school or private, should be adequately chaperoned and entertainment should be varied, to include everyone.

Set hours agreed upon by the parents and young people were agreed desirable. However, flexibility was advised to allow for special occasions. In the use of automobiles, the consensus was that close supervision should continue for some time after the youth's license is granted. In circumstances in which unusual responsibilities fall upon the teenager or his driving is necessary, exceptions may be made.

In all of these phases of teenage activity, the basic responsibility, it was pointed out, should lie with the parents. Parents who in any way have developed a comradely, wholesome feeling between parents and child will be better able to solve these problems of older children.

The group decided young people should be included in the planning of entertainment and privileges and also in consideration of responsibilities and necessary rules. In view of this, it was suggested that the thinking of parents as represented in this discussion be brought to the attention of a representative teen-age group for discussion. Their reactions and suggestions will be presented to the parent group at next week's meeting, April 21, at Longfellow school. At that time Mrs. Mary Weaver will discuss "The Way You Think, Feel and Act Affects Your Child." Movies will be shown.

Plowing Accident Causes the Death Of Olive Farmer

A spring plowing accident Friday afternoon claimed the life of Elmon (Dutch) Wyrick, 41, on his Olive township farm, route 1, Zeeland.

Wyrick was plowing when his tractor went too close to the edge of a ditch, Coroner Gilbert Vande Water reported. The earth apparently gave way, and the man fell about eight feet into a ditch, with the tractor toppling over on top of him.

When found, the victim was lying flat on his back in about two inches of water in the bottom of the ditch. The big wheel of the tractor crushed Wyrick in the abdominal region and below. The coroner's report listed death as due to internal injuries. Vande Water said that he must have died instantly.

The accident happened shortly after 4 p.m., according to the coroner's calculations. The body was found at 5:30 p.m., when Wyrick's daughter, Lorraine, went to call him for supper. When she received no answer, she walked to the field and saw the tractor lying on in the ditch. She called a neighbor, R. D. Butcher, who discovered the body. Butcher got help to pull out the tractor, took the body from the ditch and laid it on the bank.

At 4 p.m., another neighbor, Simon Ten Brink, working in a field across the road about a quarter-mile away, waved to Wyrick. Officers presume the tragedy occurred shortly after this incident.

Wyrick was working on the south end of a 40 acre field, about a half-mile from his home.

Coroner Vande Water and Deputy Sheriff Clayton Forry were called to investigate.

Survivors include the wife, Marian; three daughters, Lorraine, Ardith and Romunia, all at home; the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Wyrick, from Lake, Mich.; one sister, Mrs. Russell Fernberg, of Lake; and one brother, Walter, of Olive township.

Neighbors Stage Easter Egg Hunt

The luck of the Irish is still strong, even in Holland.

Eight-year-old Jimmy O'Connor, 89 West 27th St., walked off with a white rabbit as first prize in the Easter egg hunt held Saturday morning along the creek between 26th and 29th Sts.

Jimmy found 28 eggs to win first prize. Approximately 60 children, dressed in their best, were looking for 30 dozen eggs. The children ranged from four to eight years of age.

The hunt, to be held each year, was the idea of Bob Veeder, 28 West 28th St. and Jim Hallen 63 West 28th St. They contacted several neighbors and began making plans for the egg hunt.

Frank Bolhuis, 111 West 26th St., Bud Holt, 23 West 28th St., Bill Venhuizen, 26th St. and Ray Wickensen, 52 West 27th St. were the other members of the planning group.

The six men purchased 30 dozen eggs and were up at 6 a.m. hiding the eggs. Then the men stood guard during the cold morning hours to prevent a pre-hunt by eager children before the hunt officially got under way.

The Campfire Girls were also called upon for assistance. The girls distributed small hand bills to homes in the neighborhood announcing the hunt.

Friendliness of Juliana, Bernhard Dominates Visit

Delightful Informality Marks Ceremonies in Crowded Hope Chapel

The genuine friendliness of Her Majesty Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard was the dominating feature of the reception at Hope Memorial chapel in which more than 1,500 persons welcomed the couple to Western Michigan.

Queen Juliana was most gracious in her response to the welcome, generously sprinkled the word "happy" in her introductory words. "I'm so happy to be back in this beautiful chapel where you conferred upon me a great honor which also made me an honorary alumnae of your college."

The Queen spoke in a straightforward manner throughout her talk which was heard distinctly throughout the large auditorium. Deep sincerity and a few flashes of humor marked her talk. She spoke English beautifully with only a slight trace of accent. Only once did she get a trifle mixed up, explaining with a smile, "I think I should have said that the other way around."

"I'm so happy to have this opportunity to express the gratitude which we in the Netherlands feel for America. All of you in America and especially you of Dutch descent did so much to help us during the war, your young men during the war and your citizens after the war. The bonds of friendship between our countries are an ever present reminder and I hope they remain alive forever," the Queen said.

She spoke of the migration to America from the Netherlands to this country in search of greater freedom, admitting some of the errors of the Dutch government, but added, "It's so human to forget an ideal sometimes." She said it was most important to safeguard the high principles and ideals on which both countries are founded.

After ringing applause for the Queen, Prince Bernhard took the stand briefly and endeared himself to the large audience in a delightfully informal talk. . . the type of thing that has given him the reputation of being "a prince of a fellow."

"There's hardly anything left to say. My wife has said all the nice things I would have liked to say," he said. After the spontaneous laughter, he added his own expression of appreciation for the warm welcome given on their second visit to Holland, Mich.

"My wife and I are deeply sorry we cannot spend a week here, but you've probably heard we have a tight schedule. We hope to come again and bring our children, and all of you come to visit our Holland when you can," he concluded.

In the welcome to the Queen and Prince, Holland area was represented by Mrs. G. E. Kollen, sister of the late G. J. Diekema of Holland who died while serving as U.S. Minister to the Netherlands. She spoke of her beloved brother and of her several visits to the Netherlands.

Dr. D. C. Bloemendaal, new mayor of Zeeland, represented the Zeeland area. He said he was in the Netherlands at the time Juliana was born and told of the early colonization of the Zeeland area here.

John Beukema, representing Muskegon, Grand Haven "and cities north to Mackinac," regretted that the Queen and Prince would not have an opportunity to see all the scenic wonders of Western Michigan. "Most of us are third or fourth generation removed from the Netherlands, but we all retain our pride on being Dutch," he said.

Vandenberg Will Launch Campaign Here on April 21

Lieut. Gov. William C. Vandenberg will be honored at a banquet in Holland Monday evening, April 21, as he opens his active campaign for the Republican nomination for governor.

As presiding officer of the state senate, Lieut. Gov. Vandenberg was occupied in Lansing until the legislature adjourned last week. He said he plans to express his views and meet the people of every section of the state, between now and the primary election.

The Republican candidate declared "there must be a complete change, if the people of the state and nation are to be protected against socialized control of business, labor and agriculture and collapse of purchasing power."

"Our government, in both Michigan and the nation, has fallen into the hands of political playboys. They are not the type of men you would choose as guardians of your own affairs." Vandenberg stated, "I am gravely concerned, because I think it would be shameful to let political dilettantes tear down the fine republic constructed by builders and workers and statesmen."

"Honesty and unwavering fairness to all the people are the things most needed in present day affairs. Those who enter public life so they may enjoy a political frolic, at your expense, should find their fun elsewhere, at their own expense."

In a whirlwind visit that lasted only about 24 hours, Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands captured Holland, Mich., Wednesday.

The long-awaited visit of the royal couple finally came about as the Queen's motorcade crept through spectator-lined streets of Holland Wednesday, making its way to special programs at City Hall and Hope Memorial chapel.

Police estimated the crowd in Holland at 10,000 persons. Although the party was 20 minutes late in leaving Grand Rapids, it did not arrive in Holland until about 5 p.m.—an hour behind schedule.

Reason for the tardiness was that throngs lined the streets in Grandville, Hudsonville and Zeeland on the road to Holland, as well as filling country crossroads all along the line. The Queen requested the procession to slow down at each gathering to allow the spectators a good view. As a result, the motorcade was still later in arriving in Holland.

Escorted by dozens of motorcycled policemen, the procession proceeded to City Hall where Mayor Harry Harrington issued the official welcome.

"Your visit to America would not have been complete without your coming here," the mayor told the Queen. "You have and will visit many larger cities, but we believe that you will not find any stronger, deeper ties that bind anywhere than right here."

Harrington thanked the Queen for the co-operation and help the Netherlands always has given Holland, Mich., in Tulip Time and other endeavors.

"This world would be a better place to live if we could eliminate the dictators and have more queens like you with your inspiration, culture, ideals, wisdom and charm," the mayor said. "This we say with flowers," he added, presenting Juliana with a large bouquet of orange tulips.

Queen Juliana replied that she was extremely happy to be back after 11 years, in which a lot has happened.

"Thank you for the welcome home you have given us today," the Queen said in her brief response.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams followed Queen Juliana to the rostrum, and on behalf of the state welcomed the Queen "to this part of Michigan which is really yours."

Commenting that the Queen was "a wife and mother before becoming a Queen," Judge Cornelius vander Meulen, in charge of the City Hall program, introduced the 900 elementary school children who sang "Hollandsche Liedje" in the Dutch language. The Queen was visibly pleased by the children and their song.

Twelve Klompen dancers gave the first public performance of the 1932 dance, and Juliana was the first to applaud when the dance ended.

The massed bands of Holland high and Holland Christian high played the Dutch and American national anthems, and presented another song when the motorcade reloaded for the trip to Hope chapel. There, 1,500 more persons enjoyed the royal visitors' presence.

Dr. Wynand Wichers, representing Kalamazoo and Allegan areas, spoke of his pleasure 11 years ago in being host to the royal couple when Juliana received the honorary degree in Hope chapel. He spoke feelingly of the ties of good will between the two countries.

Many Ask Agent About Nitrogen Applied to Wheat

Good Results Reported On Use of Nitrogen; On Rye Crop As Well

Grand Haven (Special)—Many farmers have made inquiries at the extension office in regard to benefits which may come from spring application of nitrogen on wheat. L. R. Arnold, county agricultural agent, believes many will try out this practice, if only on a small scale. This applies to rye as well as wheat.

If a legume was turned down on a top dressing of manure made it may not pay to use the extra nitrogen. However, some report results even where conditions are good.

Application should be made in late March or during April before the ground has warmed up. Until the soil warms up thoroughly neither the organic matter in the soil nor the complete fertilizers applied at seeding time may be able to furnish all the nitrogen needed by the growing plants.

The crops department of Michigan State college recommends application of 20 pounds of actual nitrogen. If sulfate of ammonia is used, this means 100 pounds of this fertilizer as it carries 20 per cent of nitrogen. Ammonium nitrate carries 33 per cent so only 65 pounds of this fertilizer need be spread. Each bag of fertilizer shows what percentage of nitrogen is in the fertilizer.

Ken Willard, Tallmadge township, reports fine success in 1930. On some land which had been manured also which had grown alfalfa, he secured an extra seven bushels to the acre. On his poorer soil the increase was 12 bushels per acre.

Robert Raech, Conklin, has been following this practice for the past two or three years. He is well satisfied over results.

Arnold hopes many who may have doubts will try this out, if no more than on two or three widths of the drill across the field, then observe results this spring, also determine whether more grain is obtained.

Establish Grass Seedings in Oats

Grand Haven (Special)—Many Ottawa farmers prefer to establish grass seedings in oats rather than in wheat. Many acres of oats will be planted in April.

If a legume such as alfalfa is to be seeded, one of the most important factors is heavy fertilization. Neither the legume or the oats need too much of the nitrogen element so a 3-9-18 or a 4-14-4 should fit in well. Some will use the old 2-12-6 fertilizer to get good results with alfalfa 300 or more pounds per acre should be well applied.

Arnold, county agricultural agent, urges the addition of ½ pound of Laido plus two to four pounds of bromine. This makes an ideal mixture.

Many Ottawa farmers have tried out Laido. All are well pleased with this high protein legume. It is about twice as nutritious as alfalfa.

Red Cross Gifts Slowly Climbing

Additional gifts from residential areas and other sources have boosted Red Cross contributions to $12,421.33, but the campaign in Holland city is still about $1,500 short of its goal of $13,926.88, according to Campaign Chairman Wendell A. Miles.

Figures today were as follows: Residential, $3,662.86; business, $1,390; schools, $723.84; clubs and organizations, $334.22; industry, $6,310.41 (including the SSP); total, $12,421.33.

Latest gifts came from Junior high school, Christian high school, residential areas and the Holland Furnace Co. Campaign leaders hope collections in booths in various business houses this week will bring amounts necessary for Holland to go over the top.

Total collections in the south half of the county amount to $20,968, about $1,450 short of the goal of $22,642.

Rural campaign workers are still campaigning and some areas have reached their goals. Blendon township is over with collections of $452.85 on a goal of $452.84. Zeeland township has collected $684.26 against a goal of $679.26. Mrs. John Bouwman is chairman of Blendon township and Mrs. Martin Geerlings of Zeeland township. Jamestown reports $642.50; Olive, $363; Park township, $1,401.97, and Port Sheldon, $127.50. Holland township, Georgetown, and Zeeland city previously reported making their goals.

Soil Laboratories Increase Testings

Grand Haven (Special)—County soil testing laboratories have had a phenomenal increase since the first one was established in 1946. Two more counties were added in 1948, eight more in 1949, 22 were added in 1950 with an additional seven in 1951.

In 1950 the 34 operating laboratories tested 25,838 samples of soil. In 1951 it had jumped to 32,213 samples of which 19,313 samples were collected by PMA committees.

Records in Ottawa show a total of 3,000 samples in 1951, about 2,700 of these going through the county laboratory at Hudsonville.

Many samples for acidity tests were handled at the Extension office or out in the field by the agricultural agent, L. R. Arnold.

Much of this acidity testing was done for prospective blueberry growers.

In Ottawa County a total of 2,517 samples were collected by PMA workers. The total of over 2,700 out of the state total of 32,213 samples put Ottawa county among those counties making the most tests.

The Ottawa laboratory was set up by the Ottawa County Farm Bureau and has been in operation for two years. It is located at the Hudsonville Co-operative. The technician in charge is Herbert DeKleine, Hudsonville.

PMA workers will soon be contacting farmers in regard to taking of samples in 1952.

Holland Soldier Fights in Korea

Word comes from Korea about a UN unit attack on a vital hill position two months ago and involving a Holland soldier in the so-called "quiet" war.

The men, all members of the 18th Infantry regiment, now are resting up in a rear area.

They include Pfc. Vern Kraal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Kraal, route 1, Holland.

The attack was launched at dawn as the Americans began pouring automatic rifle fire at the Chinese. The men also received front-line artillery support. Kraal with another man, lobbed mortar shells at the enemy. The Chinese answered with hand grenades.

After a several hour battle, the Americans counted 80 Chinese dead before they withdrew. There also were casualties on the American side.

Kraal was inducted into the Army Jan. 16, 1951 and has been in Korea since last Thanksgiving.
