New Firm Plans to Build Dock on Lake Macatawa

Formation of a new dock company for the purpose of attracting more merchant shipping to Holland Harbor was announced today by a group of Holland industrialists.

The new company is the Macatawa Bay Dock and Terminal Co. It is headed by Seymour K. Padnos, president; W. Robert Fitzgerald, vice president; Robert Kirchen, secretary; and Stuart B. Padnos, treasurer.

Macatawa Bay Dock and Terminal Co. holds a 17-acre tract located west of Pine Ave. and north of Seventh St., with 900 feet of frontage on the lake. The shoreline adjoins the Board of Public Works property, including the city dock and public boat ramp, on the east, and the Penn-Dixie Cement Corp. dock on the west.

Since the entire frontage lies on the government channel, the site provides an ideal opportunity for developing dock facilities which will strengthen Holland's bid for increased port traffic, company spokesmen said.

"We believe Holland is the most logical port on the west shore for serving Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo, and other Michigan cities east and south," Seymour Padnos said. "With adequate docking facilities to serve the vessels that our government channel and turning basin can accommodate, Holland should be able to attract a greater share of shipping traffic and benefit from the economic growth that goes with it."

Approval of federal and state authorities has been obtained for proceeding with the dock development, Padnos said. Among the first projects will be the installation of sheet piling along the frontage in a direct line between the city docks and cement docks. The property behind the piling that is now covered with water will be filled.

The piling, more than 50 feet long, will be driven to a depth of 44 feet, leaving eight feet above water for holding the fill. The piling will extend 23 feet below the present channel bottom, which is 21 feet down, so it can accommodate a deeper channel in the event authorities determine the need for it.

Padnos said the dock development program also includes running a railway track from the C & O feeder line to the dock, and the installation of a railroad scale, the first in any Western Michigan port.

Allegan Sets Scholarship Fund Drive

ALLEGAN — Allegan's Citizens' Scholarship Foundation launched its second annual fund-raising campaign Tuesday at a breakfast meeting for civic leaders.

The "Fall River Plan" organization, formed a year ago, now has eight area students in colleges on grants totaling $2,450 with an additional $2,750 on hand to cover scholarships pledged for the 1963-64 school year.

Mrs. Francis Clair, foundation president, briefly reviewed the accomplishments of the "Dollars for Scholars" program during its first year at the breakfast meeting in the Episcopal Parish House.

Other speakers included Robert Packham, junior high school principal, who said the need was "even greater this year, now that we have given many youngsters a chance to hope for a higher education"; High School Principal Jarvis Wotring, who told what a scholarship had meant in his life, and Weldon Rumery, local civic leader, who urged members of the community to "keep the ball rolling."

A report from Mrs. Leon Kolvoord, foundation treasurer, showed foundation receipts from May 1, 1962 to March 4, 1963, totaling $6,254.95. Organizational expenses totaled only $165.07—including $100 for two years' dues in the national association.

The foundation had $3,639.88 on hand March 26, of which $2,750 was pledged to continue scholarships originally granted last year. The unpledged balance totaled $889.88.

Mrs. Clair reported memorial scholarships representing gifts of $100 or more had been started in the name of the Allegan high school 1962 senior class, former teachers, Allie I. Engle, Henry Priebe and Elizabeth Wetmore and Elgin Gaubatz, beloved school bus driver who died last year. Scholarships also have been started in honor of former vocal teacher, Patricia Ankney, Mrs. Chester A. Ray and the Com-Pak-Ette Corporation.

Another scholarship has been started as a memorial to the late Robert King, electrical engineer, by friends and former co-workers at the Electro-Heat Corporation. This will be credited to the current fund campaign.

Mrs. Clair, underlining the urgent need for contributions, pointed out that only donations actually on hand the first week in May could be considered when scholarship grants for the current year are being awarded.

SAFE UNBROKEN — Ottawa County Sheriff deputy Don Newhouse inspects the fumbled mess of an attempted safecracking job at the Holland Co-op Harlem branch. Everything was dropped when the cutting torch "exploded," and the attempted burglars fled. Ironically, the safe on the left which they had almost opened first by a chisel and hammer, and then by a cutting torch contained no money. It was all in a second safe.

Hold Suspects In Safe Burglary

The end of a trail of fumbling attempts to crack a safe and take money from some coin changer machines for two men Monday was the Holland jail. For an accompanying 14-year-old girl, missing from home since April 15, the trail led to the Grand Haven juvenile home.

The two men, Ray La Combe, 20, of 652 West 20th St., and Paul Jennings, 20, of 48½ West 16th St., were being held for questioning by Holland police and Ottawa County sheriff deputies.

The two men were arraigned Monday afternoon for breaking and entering the Holland Co-op Harlem branch at 13384 Van Buren St.

They were also being held in connection with a breaking and entering of an auto parts garage at M-50, near Allendale, and for tampering with some coin changer machines at the Econ-O-Wash laundromat at 162 Lakewood Blvd.

The trail of the three led from one unsuccessful burglary to another — from the laundromat on Lakewood Blvd., to the Co-op branch, to the auto parts garage, where they took a cutting torch and returned to the Co-op. Unsuccessful at cracking the safe, they returned to the laundromat for a second time this morning—where they were arrested by police.

The three were arrested at the Econ-O-Wash laundromat on a tip from sheriff deputies as to the identification of the three supplied by the laundromat owner.

The three had returned to the laundromat a second time when they were arrested by police. They had been scared away previously when the owner stopped at his laundry. The owner gave a description of the three to deputies, who relayed the information to Holland police.

From the first attempted larceny from the laundromat, the trail of the three led to the Harlem branch where they entered the building by breaking a window and opening a door.

Detectives said the men attempted to open a safe with a hammer and chisel. Unsuccessful, they left for the auto parts garage on M-50 where they took the cutting torch and returned to the Co-op. The three were scared away, leaving everything as it was when the torch "exploded," authorities said.

Taken from the Co-op were five cartons of cigarettes — the identical brand of 12 cartons taken from a break-in at the Borculo Chestview Ranch Market April 8 — four pairs of gloves used in the attempted safecracking job, and 16 boxes of 22 shells.

After leaving the Co-op, the three returned to the laundromat.

Holland police, meanwhile, upon hearing the tip about the attempted larceny from the coin changer machines at the laundromat north of town, went there to compare the pry marks with those on some machines broken into at a laundromat at 17th St. and Cleveland Ave. Saturday.

About $40 in quarters had been taken from the laundromat at 17th St. and Cleveland Ave. sometime Saturday night and Sunday morning. The machine with 50 cent pieces was ripped open, according to Holland police, but nothing was taken. The subjects had apparently been scared off.

When Holland police arrived at the laundromat north of Holland, they found the three in a car parked behind the laundromat.

Four Injured In Accident

Four persons were taken to Holland Hospital Sunday for treatment after they were injured in a two-car accident at Chicago Dr. and M-21.

Mary Balks, 30, of 239 West 23rd St., was reported in good condition Monday after she was admitted to x-rays and neck and back injuries. She was riding with her husband, Ernest Balks, 54, when the accident happened.

Released from Holland Hospital were John Bolks, 8, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bolks, who was treated for neck injuries; Brian Mohr, 23, Elkhardt, Ind., the driver of the second car, who was treated for bruises on the forehead, and his wife, Eloise, 21, for facial abrasions.

Balks told Ottawa County sheriff deputies he stopped his car on Chicago Dr., when he saw a car approaching on M-21. Mohr told deputies he also saw the approaching car, but failed to see Balks stop in front of him. When he did look again, he said, he applied the brakes and skidded into Balks car.

Fine Arts Show Set Thursday At Christian High

Plans were nearing completion today for the first "Fine Arts Festival" of the Holland Christian Schools which will be held Thursday night at 7:30 p.m. in the high school.

"The Fine Arts Festival" is an innovation in the Holland Christian Schools with its primary purpose to acquaint the parents and the public with many of the activities of the students which generally receive little notice," said Arlin Meyer, one of the faculty-member sponsors.

According to present plans the festival will take the form of several programs and exhibits which will be carried out through the night. Six separate programs of 20 minutes each will be given at one time in various rooms, with each program being repeated six times so every one will have an opportunity to attend all of them, Meyer reported. The programs will be varied but will emphasize the fine arts.

Mrs. Kleis, art instructor in the high school, and Miss Sylvia Stielstra, art instructor in the Holland Christian grade schools, will display students' work in the library. Another program will feature "The Singing Boys," composed of boys from the upper grades and the Junior High school, under the direction of Miss Albertha Bratt, Holland Christian grade school vocal instructor.

Instrumental music will be provided by the high school department, under the direction of Henry Vander Linde, Holland Christian instrumental director. Both solos and small ensembles will be featured.

Also featured in one of the programs will be students who participated in the high school forensics contests. Included will be original orations, humorous readings and interpretative readings. This will be under the direction of Meyer, who also serves as forensics director at Holland Christian High.

Still another program will feature junior high students as speakers, under the direction of Mrs. V. Reidsma and Arthur Davies of the junior high school.

Coinciding with the festival is also the publication date of the "High School Literary Review," an anthology of short stories, essays and poems written by Holland Christian High School students. Readings from this review will also constitute another program. Copies of the anthology can be obtained at the festival.

The committee extends a welcome to the parents and the general public to attend this cultural event. Refreshments will also be served throughout the night.

State Park Vandalism Not Funny

After dealing with the third case of vandalism of stacking up picnic tables across roadways, Holland State Park Supt. Lou Haney said today that unless this practice stops the park will have to be closed at dusk.

Park employees early today found 35 picnic tables stacked across the road, 15 of them broken.

Haney said stacking tables across a road in the darkness could cause a serious accident, and secondly, the damage to property is of great concern since picnic tables are costly. Besides, his crew of five employees at present have a lot of other work to do in order to get the park in shape for Tulip Time.

Haney said this kind of irresponsibility led to closing the park at 10 p.m. last summer. He has kept the park open thus far, but continued misuse will force closing at dusk. This would be inconvenient for early morning fishermen who are just now beginning to turn out.

Miss Wedel was a member of the Student Council during her senior year and was a member of the Athletic Sisters in 1963. She was in the Klompden dancers for three years, serving as a member of the exhibition group in 1962. She is a member of the Lutheran Walther League. She served on the business staff of the senior play.

Heeringa, also valedictorian of his class at Unity Christian, plans to major in Greek including ancient history at Calvin College and plans a career in the ministry. He is president of Unity's Student Council, president of the sophomore class, member of the senior play cast, president of the Physics Club and has been active in the work of his Christian Reformed Church.

Scholarships for both Dykstra and Heeringa are sponsored by the funds provided in its founding grants. All Merit Scholarships are four-year under-graduate awards. Stipends are based on need and may be adjusted if the student's needs change. The minimum award is $400 ($100 a year) and the maximum is $6,000 ($1,500 a year.) The average stipend is about $845 a year. Most Merit Scholarships include a grant to the college the student attends.

Of the 1,400 scholarships, about 875 are sponsored by 175 business corporations, foundations, colleges, unions, professional associations, trusts and individuals. There are 30 new sponsors. Approximately 540 receive awards from the National Merit Scholarship Corp.

In addition to the stipend, eering Merit Scholarships, approximately 225 students were named Honorary Merit Scholars. They received this designation in recognition of their outstanding achievements in the competition although they will receive no financial assistance from the Merit Program.

For the first time in the eight year history of the Merit Program, nine colleges and universities joined the program. These scholarships are financed by the colleges who select winners from students who have qualified as finalists in the nationwide competition and who have expressed an interest in attending the respective institutions.

Winners of Merit Scholarships were chosen from a group of nearly 11,000 finalists — students who attained very high scores on qualifying tests and on a second examination. In addition to test scores, consideration is given high school grades, accomplishments outside classroom, extra-curricular activities, school endorsements and similar information submitted by the students and their schools.

In eight years of the Merit Program, more than 7,000 Merit Scholarships have been awarded. They have an estimated value of more than $34,000,000.

WOMEN STRIKE FOR PEACE

One can scarcely escape the feeling that in the recent clash of a subcommittee of the House Committee on Un-American activities with leaders of Women Strike for Peace, the former came off second best.

Many, perhaps most of us, will disagree with the women in their plea for a cessation of nuclear testing, even unilaterally. Others may agree but on account of our temperament or perhaps even due to a lack of moral courage in this age of conformity, might not be disposed to take the same militant postures in behalf of peace.

At the same time, one cannot deny that the right of peaceful protest is in the best American tradition. Furthermore, there is little point at orating grandly about our right of free speech if our praise is restricted to the expression of a point of view with which we are already in agreement. The right of free expression of unpopular points of view is a matter that we of the free world pride ourselves upon in our contest with totalitarianism.

It is high time that Americans speak up against those of the so-called "far right" who choose to be self-appointed guardians of the patriotism of others by casting aspersions upon the loyalty of their neighbors by subtle insinuations of Communist infiltration. These women had every right to express their conviction, no matter how foolish most of us might consider such a policy to be. The recent inquisition to which their leaders were subjected makes one wonder if the time has not arrived for the House Committee on Un-American Activities to go back to their primers for a refresher course on what really constitutes true Americanism.

Psalms of Personal Trust
Psalm 23, 46:4-7
By C. P. Dame

Many people have their favorite Psalms. In the list of favorites, Psalms 23 and 46 rank high. Both are very familiar but a fresh study of them may teach us something we have overlooked for years. The two have strengthened the faith of many of God's people in times past.

I. God is pictured as a shepherd by a shepherd. Psalm 23 is very popular. It is brief, it contains 112 words, and it can be spoken in forty-five seconds, and it contains only six verses. Because it is so simple children understand it and yet it is so profound that philosophers ponder over it.

It is picturesque. When one reads the Psalm in his imagination he can see the shepherd leading the sheep to the green pastures and beside the still waters.

It is personal. The writer does not say, "The Lord is our shepherd but 'my shepherd' and also note the words 'maketh me,' 'my soul,' 'leadeth me,' 'with me,' 'my head,' 'my cup,' 'follow me.' The Psalm speaks of the activity of God, it tells what He does for the believer. The writer expresses his personal experience in this Psalm. God had been good to him, led and guided him, and so he felt moved to share his experience with others.

The words "my shepherd" imply a two fold relationship. The person who looks upon God as his shepherd confesses that he belongs to God's flock. The Christian realizes that he belongs to God by virtue of creation and redemption. Belonging to God's flock involves obedience to Him. There are straying sheep in God's flock.

II. God is also pictured as a host. The Psalm is divided in two sections — the first four verses speak of God as a shepherd and the last two portray Him as a host. God is not aiggardly host—He provides for both the necessities and luxuries so that the guest may be cheerful.

A believer can talk about present delights and say, "Thou preparest a table before me" and of a happy future. "Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever." The Psalmist did what many people today refuse to do—look to the other world. It's wonderful to have security for two worlds.

III. God is also pictured as a helper. Psalms 46, 47, and 40 form a trilogy of praise, all celebrate some special deliverance of Jerusalem from a foreign foe.

Many scholars think this was the miraculous deliverance of Jerusalem from the Assyrian army in the days of Hezekiah. The deliverance made a deep impression upon the people.

Protestants like Psalm 46 much because it inspired Luther to write the hymn, "A Mighty Fortress is our God."

In this Psalm the writer cites two facts about God—one, His immeasurable power and the other His fatherly love and care. The person who firmly believes these two facts about God is prepared to live victoriously in a turbulent world.

Mr. Robert Hoover toured eastern and southern Europe as the scholarship's first winner last year.

Miss Hager's visit will be principally to West Pakistan, but will also include a number of other Asian countries. JAIL TO BECOME MUSEUM—The last chapter on the present Allegan County jail hasn't been written yet, even though the new Allegan jail goes into operation Thursday. The old jail, shown here, is to be converted into a museum, designed by the Board of Supervisors as a "county historical building." The conversion will be an extensive job; the building, built in 1906, was condemned by the state jail inspector in 1960. (Sentinel photo)

Courthouse Square Facelift Ends With New Allegan Jail

ALLEGAN — An early guest in Allegan county's first jail complained that he "didn't dare turn over in bed, for fear of rolling out of jail."

Inmates of the county's new $450,000 jail—dedicated Saturday and scheduled to be put into use next Thursday—are not likely to have any such complaints. The new structure is the first of four jails built by the county since 1859 to be entitled to "maximum security" classification.

It can accommodate 60 prisoners, twelve in maximum security cells. In addition, there are three cells for incorrigibles, two "drunk tanks," a holding cell and one room for "capias," or civil prisoners. With approximately 28,000 square feet of floor space and the latest security measures, there's little danger of a prisoner "rolling out of jail" or getting out in any other way.

Some other features being viewed this weekend by county residents at the "open house" following Saturday afternoon's dedication program:

The remote control locks for maximum security cells; Six cells can be opened at once or individually.... The visitors' room where inmates stand behind heavy glass and converse through perforated grills. Conversations are amplified electronically.

The intricate inter-com system providing communication between virtually every office and area in the jail and monitors in each cell. A service elevator serves both laundry and kitchen, carrying the food warming cart from the second floor kitchen to the cell blocks.

The electronic locks on the garage doors. When a patrol car enters the garage with prisoners, the doors are locked before the car is opened. The door leading from the garage to the booking room also is electrically controlled.

An exterior feature is the first "pad" mounted electrical transformer installation in Allegan county, located just north of the main lobby entrance. This unit provides power for both the jail and the county building.

Visitors also seemed intrigued by the Spartan simplicity of cell furnishings. Holding cells and the "drunk tanks" feature concrete shelves—without padding—for both sitting and sleeping. Plumbing in all cells is operated by guards from outside and fixtures are of non-destructible cast aluminum. They learned that prisoners would shed all their own clothes and wear coveralls. Inmates will not wear shoes, but will be given a sort of cotton "bootie" to wear on their feet, eliminating shoes as a possible intra-mural brawl weapon.

The new structure cost nearly three hundred times as much as the first jail, built in 1839 for $1,567. This jail consisted of a frame building, housing the court room and sheriff's residence, with a lean-to of logs for prisoners. It was this jail that a frequently quoted prisoner was afraid of "rolling out of."

The old log jail, located on the southwest corner of the public square—just about where the new jail garage now stands—was condemned by a grand jury as a "nuisance" and in 1859 voters approved a proposition to raise $5,000 for a new building. This structure included a sheriff's residence and ten cells. It was completed in 1862.

Its usefulness extended for many years by repairs, the 1862 jail was described by a tramp—quoted in a report to the board of supervisors—as the poorest he had ever been in. The wanderer had gotten drunk "just to get locked up for thirty days... but after one night he refused to plead guilty, complaining the jail 'has no accommodations.' He hastened to obey an order to leave town after thus insulting the county, preferring to tramp the country in the dead of winter to living in such a place," according to the record of the board of supervisors of Jan. 13, 1905.

The following April, voters approved plans for a new $25,000 jail. This structure, which will be in use until next Thursday, was completed in 1906.

Frequently repaired and remodeled, the 1906 jail was finally condemned by the state jail inspector in 1960. Aug. 6, of that year, voters approved a proposal for a sinking fund of $152,000 per year for three years to raise money for a new jail, and a juvenile detention home. In August of 1962 an extension of the one mill levy was approved for one year to provide approximately $170,000 for the juvenile home and release a greater portion of the original fund for the new jail, for which ground was broken May 3, 1962.

Saturday's dedication program marked the end of a complete transformation of Allegan's "courthouse square" which began in 1960 when work started on the new county building. The structure was occupied late in 1961 and workers began razing the 1889 courthouse and removing the high mound upon which it stood as a landmark for seventy-two years. The original county building, built in 1872, and located on the northwest corner of the square, was next to fall under the wrecker's hammer. At first it had been planned that this building would be saved for use as a county historical building. Supervisors changed their minds, however, when they learned how much it would cost to prepare it for this use. Then they decided to dedicate the present jail for this use... as soon as the new one was completed.

Of the square as it was known for nearly three-quarters of a century, only one familiar sight remains—the Civil War monument. But the transformation of the last three years did not pass him by completely. The Union color-bearer was moved twice during construction.

Ottawa County Farm News

We've had many questions about dwarfed fruit trees on the home grounds. We would highly recommend that if fruit trees are grown on home grounds they be dwarfed trees which are much easier to care for and come into bearing quicker than normal sized trees. We would like to caution that there are different kinds of dwarfed fruit trees which are known as dwarf, semi-dwarf and semi-vigorous. It all depends on the rootstock used to produce the trees. If you are looking for a true dwarf tree of less than 10 feet in height, get rootstock called EM9. Another that grows slightly taller is called East Malling 26. The true dwarf is also called the "Clark Dwarf." This dwarf requires a trellis or stake for support and develops to heights of 6-8 ft. If you are interested in reading in detail about dwarf apple trees, there are two bulletins you may like to have. These are F136 — "Dwarfed Fruit Trees," and F321 — "Training and Pruning Dwarfed Apple Trees."

Farmers in Ottawa County will vote May 21 in the national wheat referendum. The vote will determine the price program for the 1964 crop. Wheat growers have two choices. A "yes" vote cast by two thirds or more of the growers voting will mean acreage allotments and marketing quotas. The total U. S. Allotment will be 49.5 million acres and a marketing quota of 1220 million bushels with 80 per cent, or 795 million bushels certificated for a $2 price support. To the individual wheat farmer, this means a two-price system. The 80 per cent allocation will be known as "certificated wheat."

Farmers will be issued certificates enabling them to get $2.00 per bushel for 80 per cent of the normal yield on their allotted acres (but not to exceed the normal yield on the farm's planted acres). All other eligible wheat will be guaranteed a price of $1.30 per bushel, or about the current world price level. If more than a third of the farmers vote "no," there will be almost no limits on production or marketing. The price support will be set at 50 per cent of parity or $1.25 per bushel nationally for those planting within their allotment. Wheat is the most widely grown field crop in the United States. It is grown on more than half of the nation's 3.7 million farms. Approximately 115,000 farms in Michigan grow wheat. Wheat, as a cash crop, brings in about 8 per cent of the state's farm income. In Ottawa County, wheat is grown on about 2800 farms. The 16,700 acres normally planted means an annual wheat crop of 500,000 bushels. Sale of wheat brings in about 17 per cent of the county's farm income.

Since 1950, the U.S. wheat crop has averaged well over a billion bushels a year. That's double our annual needs for domestic use. Even with exports and foreign aid program, the country maintains about a two-year domestic supply in storage. Farmers must decide whether they want acreage allotments and marketing quotas in exchange for a guaranteed high price and payments for diverting land out of wheat. The alternative would be almost no limits on production or marketing. Farmers who planted within allotments would be eligible for price supports averaging $1.25. Others would take their chances on a free market price.

Civic Center Art Show Is Highly Successful

Over 4,000 persons tramped into Civic Center Saturday for Holland's art show, the first of its kind sponsored by the Holland Recreation Department.

From enthusiasm and interest shown, it appears there will be more art shows of the type showing not only art for art's sake, but practical application of art in every-day life.

More than 100 artists displayed their work in a clothes-line arrangement in well-designed sections covering the entire Civic Center floor. Several out-of-town artists familiar with this type of art display said they considered the Holland show outstanding and far beyond anything that could be expected in first efforts. A factor was a closed building protecting artists and their works from the elements.

Besides the hundreds of paintings and other art forms on the main floor, a commercial exhibit in the north exhibition room attracted considerable attention on practical application of art. Here in a step-by-step process, art was shown in a variety of fields ranging from label design to stained glass windows. This area showed boat design, fabric design, architecture and other art forms used in manufacturing. In the architecture entry were pictures of several local churches, schools and a sketch of "Forty Thrilling Days" was the Sunday morning sermon topic of Rev. Raymond Beckering, pastor of Second Reformed Church. The anthems were "Laud His Name" — Ivanoff-Tkach and "Come and Let Us Worship" — Gretchaninoff.

Rev. Beckering's evening topic was: "How God Meets Our Needs Through Prayer" and the anthem was: "Sing to the Lord" — Pitoni.

Second Church, under the Consistory's Missionary and Evangelism Committee, will conduct the service at the Haven of Rest Rescue Mission in Grand Rapids on Wednesday evening. The High School young people will join the group journeying to the Mission and will assist in the special music. All are urged to meet at the church at 6:30 p.m.

The Teens for Christ of Second Church have completed their series of Sunday evening meetings for another season. A skating party has been planned at the local rink for Monday, April 29, and under the sponsors, Mr. and Mrs. David Rikkers, parents have been teamed to assist in the planning of summer-time activities for the young people.

Rev. Lawrence Borst, pastor of the Oakdale Park Reformed Church of Grand Rapids was guest minister at the morning service in First Reformed Church.

Holland's proposed outdoor swimming pool.

While most art entries were of the practical type readily understandable to the layman, there was a generous sprinkling of modern and abstract art. Excellent examples of the latter type in general were pleasing to the eye, if not understandable. There was little or no abstract art of a disturbing nature, and a complete absence of dark, depressing mood pieces of dismembered bodies which seem to be popular in the artier magazines today.

Working exhibits in the lobby and painting exhibits on the main floor attracted considerable attention throughout the day. A potter's wheel exhibition for pottery attracted large crowds.

Many artists were grateful for the opportunity to exhibit in an open show as opposed to a juried (judged) show.

Some sales were made at the show. This was regarded as an incidental aspect, not a main purpose of the show.

Joe Moran, city recreation chairman, served as chairman. Don Rohick designed the floor plan, and Joe De Neve and Chris Overoode arranged the commercial exhibits. Harry Brorby, Jean Visscher and James Loveless took charge of entries. Barbara Padnos and Lynn McIlwain took charge of publicity.

His sermon topic was "The Church and the Lost." The anthem was "More Love To Thee, O Christ" — Price.

The Rev. Harland Steele, pastor of the Hope Reformed Church of Grand Rapids had charge of the evening service. His sermon subject was: "Compassion For Others," and the Men's Chorus from the Hardevyk Christian Reformed Church favored with several musical selections.

On Wednesday evening, the Rev. J. C. Van Wyk will have charge of the Family Night Prayer meeting. This will be the last Family Night for this season.

On Thursday evening at 6:30 p.m. the Golden Chain Christian Youth Fellowship Banquet will be held in Faith Reformed Church.

The Rev. Kenneth Hesselink, Laketon Bethel Reformed Church, Muskegon, was guest minister at the morning service in Faith Reformed Church. The Rev. Arnold Dykhuizen, Riverford Heights Reformed Church, Detroit was guest minister at the evening service.

The Rev. Arthur Hoogstrate, pastor of Third Christian Reformed Church, used for his evening sermon topic "Missions in the Early Church."

At the North Street Christian Reformed Church, Rev. Peter Spoelstra was guest minister at the morning service and Rev. Willis De Boer, Calvin College, had charge of the evening service.

A seminar from Calvin had charge of the morning and evening services in Haven Christian Reformed Church.

"Our Words" and "The Blessed Poor" were the sermon topics of Rev. Raymond Graves, pastor of Bethel Christian Reformed Church. S. J. Pugh, conducted Evangelistic services at the morning and evening sessions in the Free Methodist Church.

Rain Lashes City; Other Sections Hit

A rainstorm accompanied by severe thunder and lightning swept Holland Thursday night, dumping 1.25 inches in about an hour's time and causing a good share of inconvenience but little actual damage.

Lightning hit one power line on Maple Ave. between 34th and 35th St., knocking out a circuit, but power was restored in less than a minute. Some dimming of lights occurred in other sections.

The street department immediately dispatched two men to check drains and culverts, and the men remained on duty four hours removing debris from these drains. Some streets where drains are inadequate were quickly flooded. Debris removed included a good share of Christmas trees, planks, old doors and brush.

There were washouts in some areas of the city. Several homes had water in basements, but nothing to compare with the severe storm last September which was described as the worst in anywhere from 25 to 100 years.

Bell Telephone Co. said there were few if any cases of service interruption.

The Holland Elementary school band will march in two Tulip Time parades this year.

There had been a question of the band's participation because Arthur C. Hills and Alvern Kapenga, the two remaining instrumental instructors in the public school system, could spend but little time with this group.

A group of parents has been raising funds to hire a temporary director to train the 125 youngsters from nine elementary schools and have arranged for the services of Albertus Kruijswyk.

Plans call for the band to march in the Wednesday Volk parade and Thursday's children's parade.

Senior Carl Walters was named Holland High's most valuable basketball player and honorary captain while senior Darrel Dykstra was voted the sportsmanship award and junior Ken Thompson, the most improved, at the team-parents banquet Thursday night in Phelps Hall.

Walters received the Elks Club trophy, presented by Exalted Ruler Paul Formolo. The Elks have been presenting the award for the past eight years and Walters brother Ted received the award a few years ago.

The recipient received a small trophy and the large Elks trophy, with the winners name engraved on it, remains in the Holland High trophy case.

Team members voted on the awards and the winners were announced by Coach Don Piersma at a dinner attended by 74 persons and sponsored by the Big Dutch Boosters Club.

Piersma praised his team for its ability to adjust to pattern basketball and to learn eight different defenses this season. He lauded the team for its development from the opening game loss to the district championship win over Benton Harbor.

Dr. Ken Weller, assistant to the president at Hope College, spoke to the group on "What's Wrong with Athletics." He felt athletics "must be fun" and that they must serve as education.

He noted bigtime college athletics as entertainment, feeling that instead of the college devoted to developing the student, the college is using the athlete to promote the school. The speaker felt this leads to "winning for winning's sake."

Noting what athletics teachers, Dr. Weller pointed to self-discipline, group action, such as "loyalty of the bench" and "down but not out" and ability of a team to comeback, illustrating with Holland's win over Benton Harbor.

He felt athletics provides morale in uniting a school and that something can be gained from losses. Dr. Weller challenged the athletes to be responsible to their parents, the community and to themselves.

Dr. D. Ivan Dykstra presided and gave the invocation. Athletic director Joe Moran said "Holland would reach the peak of its athletic program next year."

Mrs. Richard Ter Molen of Grand Rapids, the 1962 chairman of the Hope College Village Square, was the speaker Friday evening at a kick-off dinner attended by the committee chairmen planning the seventh Village Square to be held Aug. 2 on the campus of Hope College.

Mrs. Ter Molen spoke of the importance of Hope College to the women present at the meeting, and the importance of their help to the college. She gave a brief account of the past accomplishments of the League and challenged the members to continue the goodwill and loyalty that has existed between the Women's League and the college in past years.

Mrs. Matthew Peelen of Kalamazoo, general chairman, welcomed the group of 50 women from Holland, Grand Rapids, Coopersville, Zeeland, Muskegon, Detroit, Kalamazoo, Chicago and Lafayette, Ind. Each committee presented a brief report of its plans for the Square.

It was announced that the chicken barbecue will again be held in the evening and that noon lunches will be available indoors and in the pine groves.

A special feature of the Square this year will be Knud Hougard, one of America's foremost portrait painters, who will present an exhibit of his work in Winants Chapel. The invocation was given by Mrs. Henry Ten Clay of Holland and words of greeting from the college were given by Henry Steffens. Mrs. Henry Kinkema of Kalamazoo, assistant chairman of the Square, presented the devotions.
