The steamer Argo did about $1,000 damage to the south pier Tues-day but little damage was done to the boat. The shallow water in the har-bor is responsible for the accident. Protest against Representative Mings' bill for the licensing of fish-ing nets will be made by the Grand Haven fishermen who learned of the bill today for the first time. The section which they are displeased with makes unlawful "fishing in any of the waters of the state with any kind of a net except a dip net without such net shall be registered in the of-fice of the state game and fish war-den and a license issued." This license for seine and gill nets shall be twenty-five cents for each net not exceeding 900 feet in length. There are six tugs in Grand Haven using each 800 such nets. Their license fees would amount to $200. It is estimat-ed that fishermen of the state should the bill become a law, must pay $40,000 in license fees. Fishermen here say that one-half of their num-ber would be driven out of business by the measure. The bill also pro-vides for the tagging of the nets and this, they say, would ruin the nets. A delegation will probably be sent to Lansing to appear before the com-mittee which is considering the bill.

Drenthe

A farmer living in Drenthe brought to Holland Saturday the petrified tooth of a mastodon found in a creek bottom on the discoverer's farm. The tooth was left in the care of H. R. Doesburg and he immediately turned it over to Prof. Schuelke of the college, who unhesitatingly pronounced it the tooth of a mastodon and arranged to visit the locality where the discovery was made in the hope of finding more of the remains. The farmer who made the discovery declares that other bones are visible. The tooth was lying partly exposed on the bank of a small creek, a tributary of Black river. It is a beautiful specimen and will be added to the collection in the Hope college museum.

It is highly polished, presumably by action of the sand. It is seven inches long and the surface is 4x6 inches. It is desired to get as much of the skeleton as possible and great care will be exercised in excavating. Olive Center is just as active and busy as ever, but the correspondent is a little busy, so he doesn't write very often. Socrates said, "Either be silent or say something better than silence," so we have been silent.

It seems a little lonesome here now without our old friend and neighbor, Thomas Watson, who has sold out and moved to Midland Co.

Dr. H. S. Smith's new office is certainly a credit to the old veteran, and one can feel proud of entering his commodious compartments.

Miss Ewald from Scottville, Mich., is the guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ebel.

Professor Kohrhammer is spending the week in Holland looking after the interests of his musical class which is becoming quite a classic faction in the enterprising city.

The Sunday School Rally at West Olive was a tame affair so some of the delegates report and this is the very opposite of what it should be. We deeply regret to relate a more representative body could not gather together for so important an occasion and in the future we can rest assured if we should have the honor to entertain these people again, better arrangements will be made and a general attendance is desired.

Dr. Hiram Barber, formerly a member of the New York legislature, collector of internal revenue for the Twelfth district of Illinois and for 11 years physician at the Sing Sing prison, died at Ossining, N. Y., aged 85 years.

HOLLAND MOTHERS.

DO NOT LET YOUR CHILDREN GROW UP THIN AND PALE.

When we Guarantee Vinol will Make them Strong, Robust and Healthy

I wish every mother in Holland could know what Vinol will do for their little ones who are weak, thin-legged, hollow-cheeked and bloodless," said Druggist Con DePree. "It seems almost wicked for parents to let their children grow up weak, puny, ailing and nervous, and if fathers and mothers would only give such children Vinol you would see a great difference in the younger generation in this vicinity.

"Vinol is just the tonic growing children need, as it builds them up and creates flesh and strength so rapidly. It contains in a highly concentrated form all of the medicinal, body building elements of cod liver oil, without a drop of oil or grease, and no sickening drugs. Children love it because it is so delicious to the taste, and you know what you are giving your little ones."

Continued Mr. DePree: "I am continually hearing of so much good it is doing, not only children, but the weak, aged, run-down, tired and debilitated, that I cannot help being enthusiastic in regard to Vinol.

"I wish every mother in Holland would try Vinol, on our guarantee that if it does not do their little ones all the good we claim we will refund all the money paid us for the medicine. It seems as though it was the duty of every mother in Holland to accept this offer." Con DePree, Druggist.

THE MARAUDER.

There came a beggar to my door,
A comely little lad,
With sun-kissed hair and azure eyes,
With pensive mien, and sad.

So meek he seemed—so poor—alone,
I wept at such ill-faring—
Regarded! When he entered in,
He proved a robber daring.

He barred the door, he barred the pane,
(Defenseless quite he found me),
A prisoner in my own demesne,
With braggart oaths he bound me.

He mocked my tears, he stole my heart,
With jest and gibe to flout me;
With rose-leaf strung on rose-leaf red
He wove his chains about me.

Quoth he: "Such sorry garb as yours
No thief would deign to borrow!"
He stripped me of my Cynic's robe,
Of Loneliness and Sorrow.

He found my store of Doubts and Fears,
Made loot to merry measure;
He scattered far to left and right
A hoard of doleful treasure.

He sealed my lips with kisses three,
And swore he'd stay no longer,
But though he made to loose my chains
I felt the links grow stronger.

Ay, strong as steel, these shackles sweet
I would not break nor sever—
A prisoner in my own demesne,
Love holds me fast forever.

—Meribah Philbrick-Reed, in Life.

A PORTRAIT

TWO children, a boy and a girl, stood before a painting that hung upon the wall. The boy gazed with all his soul in his eyes, dimly conscious, perhaps, of what the picture would some day mean to him. It represented a soldier mounted on a black charger, and the man's face was eager, ardent and earnest. With sword in his uplifted hand he seemed urging men to battle.

The little girl indifferently glanced at the portrait from time to time. She had seen it so many times, and then too, patriotism had not yet awakened in her undisciplined little heart. She was proud in the thought, however, that she possessed something of absorbing interest to her new neighbor. Finally, she began to relate the story she had heard so often.

"You see, it's a really true man, and he painted himself on papa's horse. Those are the clothes he wore in battle."

"Humph!" said the boy scornfully, looking at her with the superiority derived from his sex and his four years' seniority. "Those aren't fighting clothes, Lucile! He's on parade."

Lucile wondered vaguely what that might be and then begged him to "come and play."

They played for many a day to come, and then the boy's parents moved to another city.

Seven years later he came back for a visit. He had now attained the great age of 17 and when he had met his former playmate, who had just proudly entered upon her "teens," that long-looked-for period, he said most condescendingly:

"Why, this must be little Lucile Felton!"

Straightway Lucile felt she hated him and they spent a few weeks of turbulent companionship in strife.

"I thought you were going to be a soldier," she said one day, "like the man on horseback in the picture!"

"What's the use of being a soldier?" he laughed. "There are no wars. I'd rather be the man that painted the picture than the soldier he represents. Let's go and look at it again."

"Papa gave it away—to the man who gave him the horse."

Ten years passed before Paul Willis saw his little playmate again. It was evening of a summer day at a fashionable watering place. He had just arrived and was instantly surrounded by a group of old-time friends who claimed his attention and recognition after his years of foreign travel. Looking beyond the little group about him into the ballroom, his roving gaze was instantly caught and held by the vision of a girl with a pair of wonderful dark and deep eyes, an exquisite face and a quiet dignity in the carriage of her svelte figure.

"Who is she?" he asked of the man nearest him, and even before the answer came he knew the name would be "Lucile Felton."

"Look out!" he was warned, "Lucile cannot be accused of flirting, but she attracts all men and always turns them down."

She saw him coming across the room and knew him by the winsome brown eyes that were still the eyes of the little boy she had played with years before.

"Oh, yes!" she said carelessly, as he recalled himself to her memory. "I remember all my old playmates."

Then she turned to a man immaculate in evening dress who claimed her for the waltz.

Paul Willis stood gazing after them, all his ardor and impetuosity damped by her nonchalant greeting. She smiled softly to herself through the waltz. The "little" Lucile Felton at 13 had at last been avenged. All the evening he watched her dancing and chatting with her partners, always gay and careless. His whole heart went out to her.

Just before the last dance he found an opportunity to speak with her alone. He was tongue-tied from this new, strange feeling.

"Are your parents well?" he finally asked abruptly. A shadow came over her face. The fan she had trembled.

"Did you not know? They died four years ago."

"Forgive me—I did not know," he said.

"And the old home," she continued, lifting saddened eyes to his, "burned down and all its contents."

She was more beautiful still with this sudden sorrow in her eyes.

"And you—where is your home?"

"I live with my sister, Mrs. Lothrop, in your home city."

Then others came up to her and he was outside the little circle.

But the next day and the many that followed showed no more of her momentary softening, and she resumed her old careless manner toward him. The season ended, and they both returned to the city, where he became a frequent caller at Mrs. Lothrop's. Always was the longing in his heart, but Lucile did not relax.

Her sister chided her one night after he had left them.

"He loves you, Lucile," she reproached.

"Oh, I don't know," said the girl, turning away her lustrous eyes. "They say he has always been sought after by women, but is never serious."

"That's what they say of you, Lucile," returned Mrs. Lothrop, accusingly.

But Lucile was humming a gay little French chanson, and made no response.

Paul Willis stood before his easel, gazing at the unfinished picture—the picture of a fair-haired boy and a perfect darling of a little girl, who were both looking up at the wall. One of his old photographs had served as his model for the lad's portrayal, and love had brought to his memory her childhood face, but the picture that was to hang on the wall he could only dimly recall. The subject and the attitude of the man on the horse that had so stirred his young fancy were in his memory, but not perfectly enough to transfer to canvas.

The next day, while rummaging through the old stock of a picture dealer's he saw a small painting in antique frame that brought forth an exclamation of surprise and joy.

"Where did you get this?" he cried.

"A lady sold it to me," replied the dealer. "She had met with reverses and—"

"Do you know where she got it?"

"Yes. She said the man who once owned the original of the horse in the picture gave it to her."

Willis secured the prize, and hastened to his studio, painting "the picture on the wall" with haste and skill.

It was Lucile's birthday. She was glancing with a half pleasure and half humor at the array of books, flowers and confectionery that covered the library table when a maid brought her in a note.

"There is a great big package just come," she announced, "shall I have it fetched in here?"

"Wait!" and Lucile opened the envelope and scanned the note.

"Oh, Ethel!" she cried to her sister. "Paul Willis has sent me a picture—one he painted! Yes (to the maid) have them bring it in here and opened here."

She was not a little excited and curious. Paul was attracting notice in the world of art and to possess one of his pictures was a privilege. What would the subject be?

When the final wrappings were removed, she stood before it silent and memory-moved.

Her sister gave a little cry of pleasure.

"Oh, Lucile! I understand how he could paint you, but how could he remember that picture—the one we all loved so and we were so provoked when papa gave it away. Why, Paul was a mere child when he saw it!"

The maid now brought in a second package, a small picture, with explanatory note.

Later, when Paul Willis called, he found her still standing before the picture he had painted. He stood beside her as they had stood in their childhood, only now she was gazing intently at the picture, while his eyes were upon her.

She began to fear lest he should hear her heart-beats.

"Paul," she said tremulously, "I love it so!"

"Lucile!" he said in low, passionate tones, "Lucile, love me, too, can't you? I have loved you so long!"

"Paul," very softly, "I have loved you since the night at the ball."

"Lucile!"

He gathered her in his arms.

"But you were so cold—so indifferent—always, Lucile!" he said presently.

"How could you hurt me so?"

"I was afraid," she murmured, "that you did not really care. I hoped you did, and then I remembered your tone once when you said: 'And this must be little Lucile Felton!'" His laugh was good to hear.

And the children so long separated were again united.—N. O. Times-Democrat.

CONVENT BURNED; LIVES ARE LOST

A MIDNIGHT FIRE DESTROYED AN INSTITUTION LOCATED AT ST. GENEVIEVE, QUE.

Fourteen Inmates Unable to Escape and Perish—The Victims Include Nine Girls, Four Women and a Heroic Nun.

Montreal, Que., April 22.—The little village of St. Genevieve is in mourning over the loss of 14 lives in a fire which destroyed the convent of St. Anne there early on Friday. One nun, nine children, ranging in age from 10 to 18 years, and four old women, perished in the flames. Two nuns were so severely burned that it is feared they will die. In their grief over the catastrophe the villagers find some comfort in relating the heroism displayed by Sister Marie Adjeur, who gave up her life, and Sister Marie Therese and Marie Robertine, who were perhaps fatally burned in their efforts to save the lives of the children and helpless old women in their charge. There is no organized fire protection in the village. The fire, which started at an early hour in the morning, was beyond control by the time the sleeping people could be aroused. A bucket brigade was formed, but the efforts to check the flames proved futile and the quaint old structure was reduced to ashes. Sisters Marie Therese and Marie Robertine were rescued with difficulty from the hallway, where they had fallen, overcome by the smoke and flames.

The convent was called the Ste. Annes, and was a branch of the convent of the Sisters of Ste. Anne of Lachine. The building was a gray stone structure, handsome in appearance, massive in character and with the church it formed a central figure of the pretty little village. St. Genevieve is a village and parish of Jacques Cartier county, on Riviere des Prairies. It is three miles from Beaconsfield and five miles from Pointe Claire.

State Senator Suspended.

Madison, Wis., April 26.—The state senate Tuesday night, by a vote of 23 to 5, suspended Senator Barney A. Eaton, of Milwaukee, representing the Seventh district, from further participation in the legislature during the year of 1905. An effort to expel was made, but failed to secure the necessary two-thirds vote required under the constitution. This was the result of testimony given by the senator at his recent trial in Milwaukee for alleged graft, of which he was acquitted. The testimony in question was taken by the senate as assailing its dignity.

Ex-Aldermen Fined.

Grand Rapids, Mich., April 24.—Ex-Aldermen Daniel E. Loxier and John McLachlin, both of whom had entered pleas of guilty to the charge of accepting a bribe during the Lake Michigan water deal scandal, were sentenced Saturday by Judge Newham. Loxier was fined $500 and McLachlin $200. Both paid their fines.

Option Bill Passed.

Madison, Wis., April 26.—By a vote of 35 to 34 the state assembly Tuesday passed the Thayer bill, the import of which is to prevent by remonstrance the establishment of saloons in residence districts. A bill extending woman suffrage to city, village and town affairs was defeated.

May Proclaim Amnesty.

St. Petersburg, April 26.—A rumor is circulated here to the effect that Emperor Nicholas will mark Easter by the proclamation of general amnesty for political and religious prisoners now confined in the fortresses or prisons of European Russia or who are in exile.

College President Inaugurated.

Knoxville, Tenn., April 26.—Dr. Brown Ayers was Tuesday formally inaugurated as president of the University of Tennessee. United States Senator James B. Frazier presided.

A Serious Charge.

Washington, April 26.—Assistant Secretary of State Loomis virtually is accused by Minister Bowen of having accepted $10,000 from the New York and Bermudez Asphalt company while minister to Venezuela to protect the interests of the company.

AFRICAN HOSPITALITY.

Considered the Duty of Every Citizen to Entertain Strangers Without Compensation.

Hospitality may be considered as one of the characteristics of not only the Vels, but of the whole African race. It is considered the duty of every citizen to entertain strangers without the smallest compensation, writes the author of "Africa's Appeal to Christendom," in Century. Places of rest stand always open, and when these are found occupied by strangers, a man goes and tells his wife, who will send her servants with water for the strangers to wash their feet; for, as they wear no shoes, they naturally need such accommodation. Afterward rooms and cloth wrappers are given them, food is brought from all quarters, or they are invited to eat with the people. They continue to be so provided for, even if they stay months. Their garments are also washed and returned to them. On leaving, they generally make a small gift to the wife of the host, though not more than two or three cola nuts or two or three English pennies.

Game and Fish Men tell What Laws they Want

At a meeting called by Representative N. J. Whelan last Friday night the men of Holland who are interested in game and fish laws went strongly on record in opposition to some of the changes in the laws now proposed by some of the members of the legislature. Incidentally they also protested strongly against some of the changes in the laws proposed by the recent joint conference of the game and fish committees and the game wardens of the several states bordering on the great lakes which was held in Chicago about three weeks ago.

Senator Baird's bills in reference to game and fish laws and in reference to licensing those who hunt and fish came in for a great share of adverse criticism as did also some of the laws proposed by several of the hunting and fishing clubs of the lower peninsula.

After extended discussion it was decided that Representative Whelan be instructed to try and obtain for the hunters and fishers of this vicinity the following rights:

The right to shoot duck, geese, snipe, etc., in the spring, the preferred time being from March 2, to May 1, otherwise the date to be from March 2 to April 20.

The right to indulge in duck and woodcock shooting from September 15 to January 1.

To shoot quail and partridge from Nov. 1 to Nov. 30 inclusive.

To fish for black bass at all times excepting a closed season reaching from April 1 to May 20.

One point was brought out strongly and that was that the best way to protect such game fish as black bass and muskallonge is to prohibit the sale of such fish. It was argued that one of the great causes for the depletion of this kind of fish was the custom indulged in by pot hunters of draining the lakes of these fish and then selling them by the hundred weight. The pot hunters were denounced roundly. The prohibition of the sale of feathered game was also recommended.

Mr. Whelan was instructed to ascertain from the game warden department whether it was the opinion of the department that minnows shall not be caught by seines in Black Lake. If the seining for minnows are prohibited Mr. Whelan was requested to try and get a special act passed allowing such seining in Black Lake and Lake Michigan with seines 15 feet long.

The discussion on licensing the rod and gun was extensive. There was little division on the gun question, all finally agreeing that it was good policy to have all who hunted with guns pay a license. The matter of licensing the rod was viewed differently and none were in favor of it.

It was suggested that it would be a good plan to clean Black Lake of carp, billfish and dogfish and Mr. Whelan was requested to ascertain from the game warden the steps to be taken to accomplish this.

The part of the report of the Chicago conference which set the size of black bass at 12 inches in length, of marketable perch at 9 inches and of muskallonge at 30 inches was jumped upon vigorously and all argued that it would be the height of folly to place such a law upon the books. It was the opinion of all that no length check should be placed upon bass but that if a limit was placed it should be at nine inches. Perch should be no limit when caught for sport, and muskallonge should be at 15 inches.

The practice of hunting rabbits with ferrets was condemned, and a better policy of paying county game wardens was recommended.

Committee on War Path.

The committee on miscellaneous claims and accounts of the board of supervisors made its report Saturday morning and the report showed that the bills of the officers and justices of the peace had been handled without gloves. Whenever the committee was of the opinion that the charges were above a reasonable rate, the bill was cut to the proper proportion.

There were nearly fifteen hundred bills and the committee was on the war trail with a will. It was shown in some cases that the Holland officers had charged up the county at one dollar per day for the board of the hoboos for three meals. These charges were considered too near a graft by the committee and every one of such bills were clipped. The mileage question also came up today and Supervisor Roosenraad of Zeeland, who is also a justice of the peace stated that he had refused several requests from deputies to certify to mileage for several trips with hoboos when all had been taken in one trip to the county jail.

After finishing with the deputies, the committee went after the justices of the peace, and bill after bill was rejected because no report of it had been made to the prosecuting attorney. Justice Hunton of Grand Haven had a number of bills rejected upon these grounds and several of the Holland justice bills were also rejected for the same reason.

Several bills were also rejected on account of being in duplicate.

The committee's report was adopted by the board without any discussion, but the supervisors voted to publish a list of the bills submitted at this session, giving an itemized account of every bill, which is presented. This list will contain the name of the hobo committed and the exact history of his imprisonment.

It was also decided to purchase a book for the sheriff's office in which a complete record of every prisoner's arrest may be kept. In this way the record may be called up at any time.

Charles Christmas was allowed two extra day's pay for preparing the list of criminal bills which amounted to nearly $5,000, and the clerk was granted $15 extra for preparing a list of bills for publication.

The committee on buildings and grounds recommended that the sitting room, parlor and dining room of the sheriff's residence be papered or decorated.

After passing this report the board adjourned.

Mr. Bird Tells of Havana, Cuba

The two mountain ridges at the northern end reach an elevation of about 1,500 feet, and are composed of limestone and marble. The other ridges in the center are much lower, less precipitous, and formed of gray sandstone, red rock and gravel, containing iron. The most remarkable summits are Sierra de la Canada, 16,000 feet high with precipices 150 feet. The marble quarries I understand were worked extensively about 30 years ago, the ruins of a steam plant for sawing and polishing the slabs, showing that much money was put into the enterprise. It is said that for reasons of its own the government looked with disfavor on the enterprise and to discourage it levied a duty upon the sand used in sawing which was hauled from the shore, a mile from the quarry. This imposition killed the enterprise. About twelve years ago they say a few cargoes of marble blocks were gotten out and shipped to Havana to be sawed up and worked there. Since then nothing has been done, though it is believed that some syndicate owns them, waiting for the United States to own this island, then they will reap a harvest out of this marble, as the amount in sight is unlimited. The stone is free from cracks and will furnish slabs of any size, the deposits varying from 5 to 25 feet in thickness. The marble is of good qualities, ranging from a good white statuary, through various shades of blue-veined stone marble of dark gray, also a specimen with pinkish coloring.

Our party spent three weeks on the Isle of Pines, we were on the go every day, traveled in all kinds of shapes, by wagon, carriages, two wheeled carts, horse back, but mostly on little mules. We also put up with all kinds of accommodations in our travels in huts, shanties, shacks, and in tents, and our eating corresponded with our lodgings, but on the whole we fared well. Now I believe we have seen this island thoroughly, and can safely say one half of this island is good and soil is so fertile that it will raise all kinds of fruits, nuts, grains and vegetables. Poultry and live stock do well all the year round. But there is not to any great extent any grazing land for stock raising. Hogs fatten on the wild fruits and palm nuts and need no corn. The balance of this island contain mountains thickly covered with timber such as mahogany, ebony, walnut, cedar oak, palms of every species, besides vast quantities of the best quality of pine, there is sufficient timber on the island for every imaginable purpose for years to come. Much of the poor land could be used by fertilizing. Now considering my three weeks investigation in the Isle of Pines and four weeks in Cuba. I am in a position to advise or give a few pointers to any one contemplating a visit to the islands. To correct some of the wrong impressions that some of the oily tongued land sharks and grafters present to the visitor, or the wild statements in highly colored and illustrated pamphlets sent through the mails, I am sorry to say you can only believe about twenty per cent of it. Stear clear from any of them and above all things don't buy any land in this country unless you have seen it yourself, many have done so at their sorrow. Four in our party have bought 80 acres in the Isle of Pines, their intention is to clear it up set it into fruit, and come here and spend the winter, other members of our party were looking for larger investments, they have three or four good propositions in view. But it is a question in my mind is it safe for Americans to invest in the Isle of Pines or in Cuba as long as it is under Spanish or Cuban government, I do not believe Cuba will ever belong to United States. But the American residents of the Isle of Pines are not satisfied with Cuban rule and vigorously and emphatically protest against the ratification of the present Isle of Pines Treaty. They have no desire of expatriating themselves, and now appeal to their own government not to be a party to any act or treaty that will force expatriation upon them as the turning over of this Island to Cuba would not only be giving that government control of the island, but would be placing under its absolute power a colony and the property interest of many Americans who would thus be forced out of their own country and be driven from under their own flag, deprived of the value of their property without hope of compensation, and many of them reduced to want and misery. Of course we know the feeling of the Spanish people towards the United States, but the people of the states are led to believe the Cubans are friendly toward Americans. My experience has convinced me they are not, outward appearance may give you an impression that they are, but really in their hearts they are not. So I believe The future of Cuba is to be worked out by wisdom of events. The annexation to the United States is very uncertain, so with this doubt still existing I personally do not feel like investing in this country, but many Americans are doing so every day. I prophesy that within a very few years that this country will supply the United States with fruits and winter vegetables which can be cultivated much more economically than is possible in United States.

My visit here has been a very enjoyable one, the many interesting sights, and above all the many new acquaintances and friendship that has been formed between us most certainly shall never be forgotten. Further more I must acknowledge and in behalf of our entire party, too much credit cannot be given Geo. W. Taylor of Marinette Wis., for his courteous treatment and many pleasures extended us while we were in the Isle of Pines. Mr. Taylor represents the Canada Land and Fruit Company, therefore anyone desiring to buy land or wish to visit the Isle of Pines, I can safely recommend them to confer with Geo. W. Taylor and by all means plan to go on a trip conducted by Mr. Taylor. I will guarantee you the best of treatment and a jolly good time and you will agree with me a better Irishman you never met. Now dear readers I have tried very hard not to be selfish while I was enjoying this delightful climate, the many interesting sights and the most delicious fruits, I many times thought of my dear friends, suffering the frigid north and the delicious snow balls and icicles and wished many times I could share the beautifuls of Cuba with you. Again pardon me if this brief epistle has tired you.

I remain as always Your old citizen and friend,
Fillmore Bird.

Dirk Miedema Dead

Dick Miedema, a pioneer settler of Ottawa county, died Tuesday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. John TerBeek, 300 East Eighth street. He was 82 years of age, and had suffered all winter from the infirmities of old age, which caused his death.

Mr. Miedema was born in Vriesland, the Netherlands, in 1823. He worked in his father's hotel until he reached manhood, and several years after his marriage to Catherine Riemasma they came to America, locating at Kalamazoo in 1852. Later he moved to a farm in the vicinity of Holland, where he resided until five years ago, when he came after the death of his wife, to live with his daughter, Mrs. TerBeek.

He enlisted in Company D. Second Michigan Cavalry, in 1861, and saw active service, being injured in the battle at Brandwine. He was honorably discharged in 1863, and returned to his farm work again. He was a member of VanRaalte Post, G. A.

R. and his funeral was conducted by that body.

Seven children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Miedema, and but three survive. Mrs. TerBeek and Mrs. Jacob Dogger of this city and Mrs. R. DeVries of Drenthe.

The funeral was held this afternoon from the residence, 300 E 8th street, and at 2 o'clock from the Ninth street Christian Reformed church, Rev. A. Keizer officiating.

Citizens Pay Unusual Honor to Congressman Smith and Col. Adams

Citizens of Holland representing the business, professional and manufacturing interests paid an unusual tribute to Congressman William Alden Smith last Tuesday evening. They also showed appreciation to Col. Adams of the U. S. engineering department and to the harbor committee of the city of Holland. The tribute and the appreciation were made manifest at a banquet held at Holland. The occasion for the holding of the banquet arose on account of the successful culmination of the efforts of Congressman Smith and the others to obtain a liberal appropriation calling for an extension to the piers of Holland harbor and extensive improvements to the harbor.

After the discussion of a menu that for excellence of service and excellence of quality did credit to Landlord Whelan, Hon. G. J. Diekema, toastmaster of the evening, took charge of the gathering and steered the guests through smiles and good fellowship into the harbor of a good time. In opening Mr. Diekema paid a most gracious and eloquent tribute to Congressman Smith and voiced the sentiment of the city of Holland towards the gentleman who represents the fifth district. The speakers who followed sounded the note of appreciation along the same line and every allusion to the good work of Mr. Smith, of the harbor committee and of Col. Adams met with a most hearty response.

Those who spoke in behalf of Holland were Mayor Gerlings, Jacob G. Van Putten Attorney Geo. E. Kollen, Representative N. J. Whelan, W. H. Beach, Rev. J. T. Bergen. Judge Everett spoke in behalf of Chicago, Strathern Hendrie in behalf of the Holland Interurban railway and Fred K. Colby in behalf of Macatawa Park.

The response of Congressman Smith to the numerous words of thanks and congratulation was replete with words of encouragement and hope for Holland. He intimated that it was now up to the engineering department to push the work and to give Holland harbor second to none on the west border of Michigan.

Col. Adams responded to the many compliments paid his splendid efforts in a speech conveying the assurance that the time was now ripe to take forward steps and that he had already submitted his plans for the improvements and extension to the authorities at Washington.

It was the opinion of all present that the securing of the appropriation means great things for Holland and that a new era of growth and development is at hand, and that Holland has received an impetus that may place it at no distant date in the future at the head of the cities that dot the east shore of Lake Michigan.

And for it all let the people extend thanks to Congressman Smith to the harbor committee of Holland, to the public spirited citizens of Holland and to Col. Adams of the engineering department of the United States.

THE SACRIFICE OF YVES, THE FISHERMAN

By MAXIME AUDOIN

THAT fellow Yves has never known what it was to have a mother or a father, much less a single friend. With him the most important fact was that he was strong; his two arms were all he had to keep him from starvation. He was handsome, but he did not know it, nor would he have cared if he had known it; his regular features and proud carriage told of noble blood.

The men in the village hated him because he was a stranger, and because his courage was greater than their own, and they were jealous, too, because his good looks pleased the women. Both men and women feared him. Why, he did not know or care.

Yves lived in a stone cabin that he had built himself during the winter, when the fishing season was at an end; he carved little boats and playthings that he sold during the season to tourists. And because he never spent his money in getting drunk at the tavern, the villagers called him stingy.

Furthermore, they hated him because one terrible night during the equinoctial gale, when not a single sailor dared to go out, Yves went alone in his light boat to the rescue of a schooner upon the rocks. After this their hatred redoubled; but hatred is not enough to kill a man who desires to live.

One evening, it was three weeks after the rescue of the schooner, Yves was alone in his cabin, when he heard feeble cries outside the door. It was in winter and a cruel north wind was making the snowflakes dance in great swirls on the cold beach.

Yves opened the door. Crouched upon the sill he saw a woman and a little girl, huddled closely together and moaning piteously. Yves carried them into the house, and, piling the wood upon the fire, prepared a great bed of seaweed for them in one corner.

But the woman had suffered too long from the lack of food and the cold. Early the next day she died. Then that fellow Yves adopted the little girl, a frail figure of 13, with big pleading brown eyes. Her name was Margariton.

After this winter night a new life began for the lonely Yves. To him Margariton became a whole family. She was society, she was his daughter, his sister, his companion, his friend, she was his idol, before whom he prostrated himself in perpetual adoration.

There was nothing too good for her, and the money he had earned so painfully was scattered gladly for the finest stuffs for her dresses and beautiful lace and gold chains. Margariton might well have become selfish in the midst of such loving worship, but there was no room for aught save grateful affection in her warm little heart.

Not far from their cabin, the rock cliffs, sloping gently on either side, made room for a tiny beach of finest sand, where in one corner rose a stream of purest water.

One summer afternoon Margariton, her pitcher poised upon her head, was following the narrow path that led to the spring, when she heard a voice calling to her. Turning, half frightened, she saw a young man, an artist, sitting on the rocks before his easel.

For a moment the painter stood lost in admiration of the beauty of the girl before him; then, as she was about to hasten on, he stretched out both hands, pleadingly, regardless of the fact that he was still holding his palette and brushes, and cried:

"Young lady, I beg and entreat you to remain just where you are, without moving, if only for an instant!"

"Gladly," said Margariton, blushing rosy.

The painter immediately disappeared behind his canvas and the brushes flew fast as he worked. Half an hour later he asked his model to inspect his first sketch.

Margariton hastened to his side, her curiosity stronger than her fear. At the sight of the canvas on the easel she stopped short in ecstasy, without a word to express her rapturous admiration.

"Ah, my beautiful stranger! This means the salon for me," cried the artist, enthusiastically. "Tell me, will you come back to-morrow at this same time? And what is your name?"

"Margariton," replied the girl, shyly, as she nodded her head in consent.

The next day Margariton was prompt at the meeting. She had not said anything to Yves of her chance encounter with the stranger, nor of her promise. Not that she felt that she had done wrong, but from a quick instinct of prudence, as if it were a presentiment of the pain she might cause her brother. It was the first secret there had ever been between them.

A week passed, and still another week, and if the portrait had not advanced it was different with the friendship between the artist and his model. Friendship? Nay, Jean Vermeuil knew well enough it was no mere feeling of friendship that made his heart beat so hard at the sight of the beautiful girl.

He loved her with all the strength of his being, and resolved that, could he win her love, he would marry her. But what of the brother Yves, to whom Margariton owed such a debt of gratitude? What would he say?

The villagers, who had known from the first of the meetings at the spring, took care that Yves should not be left in ignorance. What terrible vengeance would the hated Yves, they asked one another, take upon the painter? They did not know, but they awaited the outburst of his wrath with a cruel anxiety.

But there was no sign on his face, whatever he may have felt. Only that night after he had kissed Margariton good night the young girl heard him toss uneasily upon his rough couch before she went happily to sleep.

The next day his mind was made up. In the afternoon, when the young girl went singing to the trysting place, Yves, hidden among the rocks, was present at the meeting. Not a detail of the pretty courtship escaped his jealous eye—the warm hand clasps and the tender glances which, better than words, betrayed their passion.

And no one heard the bitter sigh when Margariton, radiant in the wonderful happiness of being loved by the man who made earth a paradise to her, cried:

"I must tell my brother Yves that you want to marry me; me, a poor girl, penniless and without education! He will be glad, too, but not as I love you, Jean, my beloved!"

Yves had changed greatly during the last weeks. He no longer ate or slept, and his eyes burned strangely in his pale face. Margariton in her happiness did not see the change, nor did she notice, when she took her brother's hand in hers and told him her secret, that he braced himself against the wall to keep himself from falling.

"You love him and you ask my consent, Margariton?" Yves asked, hoarsely. "You are free, little one, to do as you will, but I am gratified that you did not forget me utterly. You are the one being on earth that I love; you know it well, and your happiness is all I seek. Marry the man you love, little one; be happy always."

Yves placed a bag of gold in her hand.

"This is for your wedding dress," he said. "I have had it ready for you a long time."

Then, with a long kiss on the girl's forehead, Yves went out, but this time he did not turn at her signals of farewell.

Sitting proudly erect in his boat, balancing easily with the rise and fall of the waves, a single fisherman was darkly outlined against the sunset colored waters of the bay. Alone upon the beach, Jean Vermeuil watched him in admiration.

"What a splendid fellow," he cried. "I must ask him to pose for me some day."

He watched the boat glide easily upon the surface of the water, carried by the current out toward the open sea and to the heart of the golden sun. Soon the man was but a black dot on the horizon. Then he disappeared forever.—From the French, in Detroit Free Press.

Getting Rich Slowly.

Ordinarily a great fortune is built up like a stone wall—a stone at a time. The young man who declines to lay the first stone, because it comes so far short of a wall, will never make progress in financial masonry. An immense proportion of the people of this country live up to their incomes, laying aside nothing for the traditional rainy day. Because they cannot save $1,000 in a bunch they save nothing. The greatest financial kings of the world have not been above taking care of the pennies even. The great financial institutions look after even the fractions of pennies.—Troy Times.

Land for City Hall

The council last night purchased of Mrs. O. E. Yates her property at River and Eleventh streets for $5,000. It is proposed to use the land as a site for a new city hall, but nothing definite as to the time when such a structure will be built has been decided upon. The city purchases only the land, Mrs. Yates being allowed to retain the buildings and she is given two years in which to move them off the land. In the meantime she will pay the city a rental on the buildings. When the city builds the question of providing quarters for the city library will be considered. H. VanTongeren was the only alderman who voted against the proposition of purchasing the land.

TO END TARIFF AGREEMENT

GERMANY GIVES FORMAL NOTICE TO UNITED STATES.

Officials Ready to Negotiate Another Reciprocity Treaty—Ambassador's Difficult Task.

Berlin, April 26.—The imperial government, preparatory to excluding the United States from the privileges of the new reciprocity treaties recently signed with seven European states, has formally notified the American government that the tariff agreement between Germany and the United States of July 10, 1900, will terminate March 1, 1906, the day the new treaties go into effect, but that Germany stands ready to negotiate a reciprocity treaty with the United States.

The German view, as held at the foreign office and at the ministry of the interior, is that the United States cannot reasonably expect to share in special benefits given by Germany to certain European states in exchange for other specific tariff reductions. Should the United States have the same advantages without giving anything in return the treaty countries could justly complain that they were in effect discriminated against because from them certain things were exacted by bargain which were freely given to the United States. But if the United States desires to take up the general tariff question and arrange a reciprocal agreement Germany will be very glad to do so. Otherwise Germany's new general tariff, which also goes into effect March 1, 1906, will be applied to imports from the United States.

Washington, April 26.—It is admitted at the state department that pour parlers have been in progress for the last three months between the American embassy at Berlin and the German foreign office respecting the effect upon the existing reciprocity agreement between America and Germany of the operation of the new trade treaties concluded between Germany on the one side and Belgium, Italy, Austria, Hungary, Roumania, Russia, Switzerland and Servia on the other, but so far Ambassador Tower has not notified the department that the German government has decided to terminate the existing arrangement. The effect of a formal declaration of that kind would be very serious, it is feared, and Mr. Tower is now engaged in one of the most difficult and complex tasks which he has yet been called upon to discharge. If the arrangement is denounced and no substitute is found, then it may be that the United States and Germany will soon become involved in a tariff war which would certainly prove disastrous to one or both of the principals, in view of the vast amount of trade between the two countries which would be affected.

Force of Russians Near Kaiyuan Put to Rout—Martial Law for Formosa.

Tokio, April 26.—The following official announcement was made Wednesday: "On April 24 a Russian force, consisting of five battalions of infantry, 16 squadrons of cavalry, and one battery of artillery, in pressing our advanced cavalry, attacked them in the vicinity of Kaiyuan. Our Kaiyuan force attacked the Russians in return, defeated and pursued them north to Mienhuachieh. Our casualties were 38. The enemy left about 200 dead on the field."

St. Petersburg, April 26.—Gen. Linévitch in a dispatch to Emperor Nicholas, dated April 25, says: "Our advance posts April 22 forced the enemy successively to evacuate the fortified villages of Manchenzou and Nemanpomeng. The Japanese occupied a fortified position about three miles south of Nemanpomeng, but our artillery fire and the appearance of our detachment on their left flank induced them to retreat hastily towards Kayancheng, after burning their provisions depot. Our troops April 23 compelled the enemy to retire to Kayancheng. The same day Russian advance guards pursuing the enemy approached Changtu (about 50 miles above Tie pass), which is strongly fortified."

Tokio, April 26.—The privy council Wednesday decided that martial law shall be proclaimed throughout the island of Formosa.

State Senator Suspended.

Madison, Wis., April 26.—The state senate Tuesday night, by a vote of 23 to 5, suspended Senator Barney A. Eaton, of Milwaukee, representing the Seventh district from further participation in the legislature during the year of 1905. An effort to expel was made, but failed to secure the necessary two-thirds vote required under the constitution. This was the result of testimony given by the senator at his recent trial in Milwaukee for alleged graft, of which he was acquitted. The testimony in question was taken by the senate as assailing its dignity.

Some Holland People Fail to Realize the Seriousness.

The constant aching of a bad back, the weariness, the tired feeling, the pains and aches of kidney ills are serious—if neglected. Dangerous urinary troubles follow. A Holland citizen shows you how to avoid them.

Mrs. F. Andree, of 243 West 12th street, says: For a year or more I had a constant aching pain throughout my loins in the side and also a soreness of the stomach. I could hardly stoop to lift anything without suffering severely. I did not rest comfortably at night and became so lame and sore from lying in one position that in the morning I arose feeling tired and unrefreshed. I was bothered a great deal with headache, spells of dizziness, and the kidney secretions became effected, were irregular, too frequent and unnatural. I doctored a great deal, took many kinds of medicines, but without getting better. I believe I would be still suffering if I had not heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and procured them from J. O. Doesburg's drug store. I felt better after taking a few doses and continued their use until cured.

BANK PRESIDENT IS A DEFAULTER

FRANK G. BIGELOW, HEAD OF FIRST NATIONAL OF MILWAUKEE, GOES WRONG.

Confesses to Misuse of Nearly $1,500,000 of Bank's Funds—Is Arrested and Held to Grand Jury—Directors Make Good the Shortage.

Milwaukee, April 25.—Frank G. Bigelow, until Monday president of the First National bank of Milwaukee, and ex-president of the American Bankers' association, has been arrested, charged with the embezzlement of over $1,500,000 of the bank's funds. The arrest of Mr. Bigelow followed his confession to the board of directors of the bank that he was a defaulter to the extent of $1,450,000. Following Mr. Bigelow's confession, he was removed from the presidency of the bank and the facts in the case were laid before the federal authorities.

The complaint was sworn to by United States District Attorney H. K. Butterfield. It charges that Bigelow as president of the First National bank, embezzled a sum exceeding $1,000,000. A complaint and warrant identical with those in Bigelow's case were made out to Henry G. Goll, assistant cashier of the bank, but Goll could not be found up to seven o'clock Monday night. President Bigelow was taken before United States Court Commissioner Bloodgood and bail was fixed at $25,000.

Lost in Speculation.

President Bigelow's confession was made at a special meeting of the board of directors held Saturday evening and continued Sunday and all of Sunday night. In addressing his fellow directors, President Bigelow said he had a painful statement to make—a confession that he had misdirected the funds of the bank and that an examination of his books and a comparison of figures would show that he was indebted to the bank to the amount of over $1,450,000. This money, he said, had been lost in speculation in wheat and stocks. Not a dollar of it could be recovered and the only sum he could offer toward recompensating the bank was personal securities valued at approximately $300,000.

In making his statement to the directors of the bank, Mr. Bigelow said he had become involved in speculation several months ago. This was on Wall street. More recently he had been a persistent bull in the wheat market and recent loss there had added to heavy reverses on Wall street. From small manipulations of the bank's funds he had extended the defalcations until his shortage had reached the present stage. He saw no opportunity or possibility of making up the amount and therefore confessed.

The board of directors of the bank decided that no attempt should be made to shield the chief defaulter and his associates in the crime from their full measure of punishment, and they will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

Records Falsified.

The method adopted was an old one. Collection accounts were manipulated to the extent of 40 and in some instances 50 per cent. to make it appear that the reserve fund was intact, and the amount of the increased collection fund was diverted to special stock operations. The reserve maintained in eastern banks were tampered with, the books of the First National being fixed so that the reserve appeared to be larger by several hundreds of thousands of dollars than it really was. These and other methods were pursued by Bigelow in looting the bank. In the falsifying of records and the manipulation of the reserves Bigelow declares he was aided by Assistant Cashier Goll and two bookkeepers in the bank.

To Protect Depositors.

As soon as the directors ascertained the full extent of the peculations, steps were taken to protect the depositors and other creditors. Charles F. Pfister subscribed $600,000 to a fund to make good the surplus; John I. Beggs, president of the Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light company, gave $300,000; William Bigelow, a brother of the president, added $100,000 to the amount. Other directors subscribed lesser sums until the amount raised reached $1,635,000. Officers of three of the leading financial institutions of Chicago came to Milwaukee on an early train and went into conference with the directors of the First National. As a result of this meeting $1,000,000 was sent to Milwaukee by Chicago banks.

Caused a Run.

When the bank closed its doors in the afternoon more than 2,000 depositors were clamoring for their money. Nearly $1,000,000 had been paid out in the course of two hours and but a small percentage of the customers demanding the closing of their accounts had been served.

Made a Good Showing.

The statement of the financial condition of the bank March 14, and which is the last financial statement formally issued, is a strong one. It is as follows:

Resources—Loans, $12,646,336.78; United States bonds, $700,000; premium on United States bonds, $35,000; investment securities, $918,082.51; real estate, $90,642.12; cash and due from banks, $5,177,210.03; total, $19,567,271.44.

Liabilities—Capital, $1,500,000; surplus, $500,000; undivided profits, $642,323.10; circulation, $350,000; deposits, $16,574,948.34; total, $19,567,271.44. President Bigelow's defalcation amounts to about $1,450,000, but he restored $300,000. The directors have subscribed $1,635,000 more, thus leaving the bank better off by about $400,000 than it was before the funds were depleted by the peculations of the president.

Bigelow himself is left a poor man by his speculations and the surrender of the securities to the bank. At one time he was personally rated as a millionaire, and this fortune has been lost as well as the sum taken from the bank. His total losses in speculation of various kinds in two years are estimated by his friends at upwards of $3,000,000.

Confidence Restored.

Milwaukee, April 26.—Confidence has again been restored in the banking institutions of Milwaukee, and the run on the First National bank and the Milwaukee Trust company, which was caused by the defalcation by Frank G. Bigelow, until Monday president of the First National bank, of over $1,000,000, is a thing of the past, and banking affairs in Milwaukee have resumed their normal condition. While the two banks affected are entirely separate institutions, the fact that they occupy adjoining buildings and that some of the First National bank's officers direct the affairs of the Milwaukee Trust company, caused many of the depositors to believe that one was a part of the other.

The banks affected were well able to cope with a long run, but it was decided by all the banks in the city to take advantage of the law on time deposits requiring a notice of 30 days of withdrawal on amounts less than $100 and 90 days were the amounts exceeded that sum. As rapidly as the depositors appeared at the wickets of the savings departments of the affected institutions their pass-books were stamped acknowledging the notice of withdrawal and the depositors took their departure. It only required about two hours to dispose of the line-up of depositors.

FOUR ARE SLAIN.

Row Over Prohibition Question Causes Tragedy in Texas—Congressman Pinckney One of Victims.

Hempstead, Tex., April 26.—Congressman Pinckney of Texas, and three others were killed and two seriously injured at a meeting held here Monday night for the purpose of calling on the governor to send troops here to enforce the local option law.

The dead are: Capt. H. M. Brown, Congressman John M. Pinckney, Thomas Pinckney, John E. Mills, prohibitionist.

Wounded: Roland Browne, R. E. Tompkins.

Hempstead is under the control of the Texas Rangers. Martial law has not been declared, but Adj. Gen. O'Hull arrived Tuesday night with a number of rangers and assumed charge of affairs. No one is permitted to bear arms and the excitement manifested throughout the day has quieted down. Roland Brown, the son of one of the men killed, was placed under arrest on a charge of firing the shot which killed Mr. John M. Pinckney.

It has been established that the trouble began when Capt. Brown attempted to secure recognition to speak at the meeting. It is said that his language was offensive to several ladies present and the fusillade began immediately afterward. Congressman Pinckney was shot four times and was almost instantly killed. Thomas Pinckney, a brother of the congressman, was shot twice in the back and killed, and Capt. Brown received a bullet through the heart. John E. Mills, the remaining victim, took no part in the affair and was accidentally killed by a stray bullet.

The killings are the direct result of a prohibition movement in Waller county, which was begun some years ago and the feeling has been intense. An election was held in Waller county April 20, and the prohibitionists, with whom the Pinckneys were affiliated, were successful. The prohibition league was called together Monday night to wind up its affairs and disband. A resolution requesting the governor of Texas to send troops to Waller county for the purpose of enforcing the law against liquor sellers was excitedly debated. It was at this juncture that Capt. H. M. Brown, who had figured prominently as an anti-prohibitionist, sought to have the chairman recognize him, and shortly afterwards firing began.

NOTED MEN ARE CALLED BY DEATH

THE EMINENT ACTOR, JOSEPH JEFFERSON, DIES AT PALM BEACH, FLA.

Gained Fame in Portrayal of the Character of "Bip Van Winkle"—Death of United States Senator Orville H. Platt, of Connecticut.

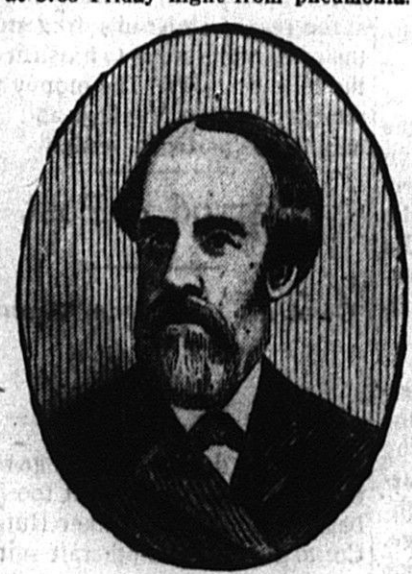

West Palm Beach, Fla., April 24.—Joseph Jefferson, the eminent actor, died at his home, "The Reefs," at Palm Beach at 6:15 Sunday evening. The end came after a day of unconsciousness and after a heroic struggle of days, which had exhausted his vitality. The sickness of Mr. Jefferson which ended in his death was contracted, it is believed, while on a recent visit to his son, Charles B. Jefferson, at Hobe sound, a few miles above Palm Beach, where he went to meet his friend, former President Cleveland. It is believed that from a slight indiscretion in his eating there, he suffered an attack of indigestion. Since his return to his home his condition grew steadily worse, with slight rallies, until the end.

Dean of the Profession.
Joseph Jefferson was born in Philadelphia February 20, 1829, and was looked upon as the dean of the dramatic profession in this country. He first appeared on the stage as a child and during his career has played in a number of foreign countries. His great reputation was made in Rip Van Winkle, which he played in almost every city in the United States. Up to 1857 Mr. Jefferson is said to have merely attained the standing of a respectable stock actor, but in that year he became associated with Laura Keane's theater, in New York city. Mr. Jefferson here became prominent in the role of Asa Trenchard in "Our American Cousin." This play ran for 150 nights. Other characters portrayed were Newman Boggs in "Nicholas Nickleby," Caleb Plummer in "The Cricket on the Hearth," Dr. Pangloss in "The Heir-at-Law," Bob Acres in "The Rivals," and Dr. Ollapod in the "Poor Gentleman."

ORVILLE H. PLATT.
United States Senator from Connecticut Victim of Pneumonia.
Washington, Conn., April 22.—United States Senator Orville Hitchcock Platt, of Connecticut, died at his summer home in this, his native town, at 8:53 Friday night from pneumonia.

SENATOR O. H. PLATT.
The end came almost unexpectedly, the immediate cause being the breaking of an abscess which had formed in the right lung and which produced strangulation.

The Dead Statesman.
Senator Platt was first elected to the senate in 1879 to succeed Senator W. H. Barnum, a democrat, who had been elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Orris S. Ferris, republican. His last reelection was in 1903. Senator Platt's last public utterance was at the state capitol on March 21, when, before the general assembly, he delivered the eulogy over Gen. Hawley, whose body lay in state in the corridor below. He spoke as if from a heart that was overflowing with grief and in words that touched deeply all who heard him.

During his long service of 26 years the senator has taken an active part in the proceedings of the upper branch of congress, has filled many important committee assignments and demonstrated his capacity in handling and discussing questions of national interest. He was chairman of the judiciary committee and, in addition, a member of the committee on Cuban relations, finance and revolutionary claims. He took a leading part in arranging our relations to Cuba. Senator Platt frequently was called to the chair to preside temporarily over the sessions of the senate, and during the Swaine impeachment trial at the last session sat throughout the trial as the presiding officer or judge of the court.

A TRAINED NURSE

After Years of Experience, Advises Women in Regard to Their Health.

Mrs. Martha Pohlman of 55 Chester Avenue, Newark, N. J., who is a graduate Nurse from the Brookley Training School, at Philadelphia, and for six years Chief Clinic Nurse at the Philadelphia Hospital, writes the letter printed below. She has the advantage of personal experience, besides her professional education, and what she has to say may be absolutely relied upon.

Many other women are afflicted as she was. They can regain health in the same way. It is prudent to heed such advice from such a source.

Mrs. Pohlman writes: "I am firmly persuaded, after eight years of experience with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that it is the safest and best medicine for any suffering woman to use."

"Immediately after my marriage I found that my health began to fail me. I became weak and pale, with severe bearing-down pains, fearful backaches and frequent dizzy spells. The doctors prescribed for me, yet I did not improve. I would blot after eating and frequently become nauseated. I had an acrid discharge and pains down through my limbs so I could hardly walk. It was as bad a case of female trouble as I have ever known. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, however, cured me within four months. Since that time I have had occasion to recommend it to a number of patients suffering from all forms of female difficulties, and I find that while it is considered a professional to recommend a patent medicine, I can honestly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for I have found that it cures female ills, where all other medicine fails. It is a grand medicine for sick women."

Money cannot buy such testimony as this—merit alone can produce such results, and the ablest specialists now agree that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the most universally successful remedy for all female diseases known to medicine.

When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhoea, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, bloating (or flatulence), general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizzy-ness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues and hopelessness, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles.

No other female medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles.

The needless suffering of women from diseases peculiar to their sex is terrible to see. The money which they pay to doctors who do not help them is an enormous waste. The pain is cured and the money is saved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Experience has proved this.

It is well for women who are ill to write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. In her great experience, which covers many years, she has probably had to deal with dozens of cases just like yours. Her advice is free and confidential.

"TEDDY" HAS GOOD LUCK ON HIS HUNT

FIVE BEARS ARE KILLED BY PRESIDENTIAL PARTY IN TWO DAYS.

ROOSEVELT'S RIFLE BRINGS DOWN THREE

News from Camp Reaches Glenwood Springs—All Enjoying Good Health—Secretary Loeb Goes to Visit Executive.

Glenwood Springs, Col., April 26.—President Roosevelt's hunting trip has been crowned with success far beyond his expectations or those of the most sanguine of his guides. Three bears were killed by the party Tuesday and two Monday, one by the president and one by Dr. Lambert. P. B. Stewart, of Colorado Springs, one of the president's hunting companions, arrived here Tuesday night, accompanied by Courier Chapman. They brought the story of the hunt. The killing of the three bears was telephoned to them, and they understood that President Roosevelt brought down two of them, but the details are lacking. The party is almost snowbound in its present location and no attempt will be made to cross the divide. Fifteen feet of snow is on the ground on the other side, and any effort to reach Redstone would be futile. The hunters are satisfied, however, for they have reached the center of what the guides say is the best bear country in Colorado. Bobcats are thick in the country now being hunted, so plentiful, in fact, that many are allowed to escape without a shot being fired in their direction. Several fine skins have been taken, however. The bear killed by the president Monday was of the brown variety, not so heavy, but furnishing a much finer pelt than the first animal killed.

It was within an area of seven miles that all five of the bears were killed. This spot is about 16 or 18 miles from camp, and every animal gave the dogs and hunters a long chase. All of them treed, which enabled the hunters to kill them without further accident to the dogs. Thus far one dog was killed. It was killed by the first bear shot.

All Are Well.

The entire party is enjoying excellent health. President Roosevelt is living in a cabin on the abandoned Bunn homestead, on the west divide creek, quarters that are remarkably comfortable, considering the character of the country. It is likely that the party will stay there for the entire hunt. News of the outside world is scarce in the president's camp. Once in every four or five days daily papers are sent in, but these are 12 hours old or more when they reach New-castle. "The absence of information of current events is greatly felt by all, particularly by the president," said Mr. Stewart, "but then he went into the wilds to hunt and he has to make the best of it. We have been living well. Sunbells are holding out well, and now bear steaks will be on the bill of fare regularly. No ice-box is needed up there to keep the meat fresh. The camp is situated at an altitude of about 9,000 feet and there is deep snow on every side."

Loeb Leaves for Camp.
Secretary Loeb left here Wednesday to pay his second visit to the president at his camp. He goes to New-castle and from there will ride to the camp, a distance of 16 or 18 miles. The secretary took with him a number of documents for the president's signature, daily papers, plans for the return trip and communications that have been telegraphed here concerning the success of the hunt. Local hunters say the luck of the party is unprecedented considering the season, weather and the character of the country where the president is located.

When the story reached here that three bears had been killed Tuesday and two the day before, no credence was given it. Not until Courier Chapman arrived would they give credence to the story and even then they were better satisfied when they saw the pelts that Chapman left to be mounted by a local taxidermist. It has now been settled definitely that the president will not go to Redstone. The camp may be moved a few miles further south, as the present grounds are hunted out, but the party will not stray far from the west divide creek.

Fell from a Ladder.
New York, April 26.—In a five-alarm fire on the East side Tuesday night Acting Battalion Chief Wieland was killed and one end of the block on Grand, Orchard and Allen streets was gutted, causing a loss estimated at about $200,000. The fire was under control and Wieland was ascending a ladder on the Grand street side when it slipped and he was plunged through a plate glass window. He was removed to a hospital where he died.

State Tickets Named.
Harrisburg, Pa., April 26.—The republican state convention Wednesday nominated the following ticket by acclamation: State treasurer, Representative J. Lee Plummer, of Hollidaysburg; superior court judges, President Judge Charles E. Rice, of Wilkesbarre; Judge George B. Oriady, of Huntingdon, and Judge James A. Beaver, of Bellefonte. All 11 are present members of the superior court.

Wants to Be Senator.
Vicksburg, Miss., April 26.—A special to the Herald from Greenwood says: Gov. Vardaman has formally announced that he will be a candidate for the United States senate in the event of Senator Money's retirement.

Forest Fires in Michigan.
Gaylord, Mich., April 26.—Atlanta, the county seat of Montmorency county, 30 miles east of here, is threatened by forest fires, which have caused heavy loss in some of the best hardwood timber lands of the state, located about Atlanta. It is reported that a number of farm buildings have already been destroyed about the town. The air is thick with smoke for 25 miles west of Atlanta, and telephone communication is interrupted.

Sheriff Woodbury was up in Robinson Saturday investigating the finding of the human bones which occurred there last week. After a thorough investigation he came to the conclusion that the bones were those of an Indian, who had been buried there many years ago. The strange stone like chips, which were at first thought to be portions of petrified flesh, were, according to the decision of the officers, pieces of Indian pottery, which was once found abundantly in this section.

Gov. Warner has signed the Ottawa contagious disease bill. This bill provides that every township and city in this county shall take care of its own indigent contagious disease bills. However, there is a proviso, which gives the Board consent to help a township or city, providing all members of the body vote unanimously to that effect. This bill was fathered by Representative Durham and it was through his efforts that it was passed through the legislature.

Just a year ago Henry Truax of Fennville swore out a warrant for the arrest of Charles Owen, charging him with getting $80 under false pretences, in connection with some work which he was doing on the Truax peppermint still. Owen eluded the officers but Deputy Sheriff McCormick located him Wednesday and brought him before Justice Stedman. Owen waived examination and, in default of bail, was sent to Allegan to await the May term of circuit court. Frank Crane and several others have the grounds for a similar case against Owen.

With the liquor bonds accepted for all of Fennville's four saloons, the village may be expected to stagger along for another year. Fennville is certainly in a class by itself when it comes to the number of saloons per capita that it supports. It is generally conceded that the large number of transients, attracted here by the fruit and peppermint business, account for the number of booze joints, as our own citizens are as temperate a lot as the average small town contains. Conservative estimates of the liquor sales of this town place the amount at not less than $15,000.—Fennville Herald.

The saloon of Charles Hass in Nunica was broken into last Tuesday and a quantity of cigars and a slot machine were stolen. The machine was taken out of the building and smashed with an axe that the contents might be secured. The amount of the theft could not be ascertained, but Sheriff Woodbury is in Nunica investigating the matter and it is believed that the job was done by local talent. The amount of the loss was not large but the charge is a serious one. The officers think they have a clew and connect several young men who have been robbing the chicken roasts in the vicinity of Spring Lake and Nunica with the burglary. The robbers were tracked a considerable distance.

A very entertaining program was given, followed by a banquet and dancing. Captain R. C. Brittain was speaker of the evening.

While Miss Henrietta VanDyk, the fifteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter VanDyk, was shopping at the general store of G. J. Boone & Co. of Zeeland last Monday afternoon she discovered that some sneak thief had taken her pocket book, containing three dollars, from the counter while she was examining some dry goods. Suspicion pointed to two nine year-old girls who had just visited the place, one a daughter of Dirk Wiersma and the other of C. VanHekken. Wm. Kamperman, one of the proprietors, was immediately informed of the theft, who caught the little girls and pressed a confession from them. Fifty cents had been squandered for sweetmeats and the pocket book containing the balance of the money was securely hidden at the rear of DeKruif's drug store, their intention being to finish it up the following day. The money was returned to Miss VanDyk and the matter was mutually settled.

Drowned

William Hooker, was drowned Tuesday at Spring Lake while repairing a dock. A peculiar fact is that he was terribly afraid of the water and he seldom went any nearer to the lake than was necessary. The drowning occurred while he was building a surface wave breaker near the dock. He stepped upon a log that would not hold him up and in his excitement he fell backward into the water. There was a little over five feet of water where Mr. Hooker fell into the lake but he was carried out into the channel somewhat, beyond reach of the aid which Mr. Cornelius was trying to get to him. All efforts were unavailing, however, and the unfortunate man who was badly frightened, lost his life in sight of his employer and of his wife and child. The search for the body was begun immediately by the neighbors and Under Sheriff McEachron, Coroner Kiel and Diver Mahon from Grand Haven went up in the afternoon to aid in dragging the bottom. Not until about 3:30 in the afternoon did the search prove successful and Mr. Hooker's body was taken out but a few feet from where it had sunk. No inquest was thought necessary and the body was taken to Chicago for burial.

A Good Thing

Fred W. Jackson arrived in the city this morning to converse with his partner Lars Johnson who is experimenting at the Holland Crystal creamery with their machine upon which they have recently been granted a patent. It is known as the Centrifugal butter making machine. They are incorporating a company to manufacture the same and are also looking for business associates and a factory and location.

The machine they have is a small model which does not represent a machine built for the trade but it demonstrates to them the centrifugal law and force, using this force to form the globules of butter fat into a solid mass without the water coming in contact with the butter, thereby they make a fine butter of a better keeping quality than by the present method.

H. P. Zwemer Returns from the West.

Mr. H. P. Zwemer has just returned from a business trip to Colorado Springs. As you may know about two weeks ago Mr. Black of Colorado, was here inviting people to invest in irrigated farm lands of which he spoke very highly, and got some people interested, providing it was as he stated, so to prove his word to be the facts he took Mr. Zwemer out to Colorado Springs to see the Lands. Mr. Zwemer says it is just 10 per cent better than Mr. Black stated. It is located 5 miles from Colorado Springs, in Fountain Valley. A fine road to a city which has a population of 30,000. The soil is heavy loam, and can't be beat.

A large water supply, from a reservoir of water which covers 92 acres and holds 9,000,000 cubic feet of water which will irrigate 3000 acres of land. They intend to start at once to build 2 more reservoir covering 700 acres holding 687,000,000 cubic feet of water. This water comes from the mountains and is rain and melted snow, and the company has the exclusive right to this water from the state and the state inspector sees that they sell no more land than what they can supply, and they sell the land with perpetual water right. Their is no extra charges for water and the farmer can get all the water he needs and at anytime he wants it. The climate is an ideal one as the winters are very short. The principle productions are sugar beets, alfalfa clover, oats, wheat, potatoes and every kind of garden and root vegetable, also fruits and berries. All kind of stock and chickens can be raised with a very good market within 5 miles. The railroad station is on the ground now. This is a bargain. For further particulars call on Mr. Zwemer and he will be glad to instruct you in anything he knows in regard to the proposition either good or bad.

Dr. McDonald will visit Holland Friday, May 12. The office hours are from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m.

Wanted—Dish washer at Hotel Holland. Steady position.
