Lay of the Speckled Hen

We have read of Maud on a summer day,
Who raked, barefooted, the new-mown hay;
We have read of the maid in the early morn,
Who milked the cow with the crumpled horn;
And we've read the lays that the poets sing,
Of the rustling corn and the flowers of spring;
But of all the lays of tongue or pen,
There's naught like the lay of the speckled hen.

Long, long before Maud rakes her hay,
The speckled hen has begun to lay,
And ere the milkmaid stirs a peg,
The hen is up and has dropped her egg.
The corn must rustle and the flowers spring
If they hold their own with the barnyard ring.
If Maud is needing a hat or gown,
She doesn't hustle her hay to town,
But goes to the store and obtains her suit
With a basketful of her fresh hen fruit;
If the milkmaid's beau makes a Sunday call,
She doesn't feed him on milk at all,
But works up eggs in a custard pie
And stuffs him full of a chicken fry;
And when the old man wants a horn,
Does he take the druggist a load of corn?
Not much! He simply robs a nest,
And to town he goes—you know the rest,
He hangs around with the cliques and rings,
And talks of politics and things,
While his poor wife stays at home and scowls,
But is saved from want by those self-same fowls;
For, while her husband lingers there,
She watches the cackling hens with care,
And gathers the eggs, and the eggs she'll hide,
Till she saves enough to stem the tide.

Then hail, all hail, to the speckled hen,
The greatest blessing of all to men!
Throw up your hats and emit a howl!
For the persevering barnyard fowl!
Corn may be king, but it's plainly seen,
The speckled hen is the barnyard queen.

Olive Center

Thomas Sheehan, one of Olive's solid farmers, was in the city today. While he believes that fruit buds have been sadly hurt by the freeze he thinks that after all there will be considerable late fruit. Tom does not think that late apples have been affected. Strawberries and other small fruit in his section were not injured. Mr. Sheehan states that county politics are beginning to warm up in Olive. All candidates he says, who espoused the dry cause a year ago will be turned down in the big township. There is also a movement in Olive looking toward a division of the township and steps will be taken in the next legislature to have the township cut in two and another township created.

WHAT YOU SAW IN THIS PAPER

35 Years ago To-day.

Ald. Fleiman had the satisfaction on Wednesday morning to catch a fine black otter, measuring 5 feet, 4 inches. He informed us that of late he had paid particular attention to his traps and in four weeks time had caught 254 muskrats, 2 mink and the otter, the furs of which brought him $105.90.

Our townsman, M. Mohr had a narrow escape from drowning on Tuesday night. Returning on the night express from Grand Rapids, where he had spent several days at the deathbed of his wife's mother, he fell asleep on board the train and did not wake up until after the train had passed Holland. He got off at Manlius and started to walk back. In crossing over the Kalamazoo bridge his foot slipped and he fell into the river, a strong current going out at the time. As he was about to go down for the third time he happened to reach out with his hand and found something by which he could support himself and keep afloat. The fall had attracted the attention of the bridge tender who hastened to the spot and rescued our friend from a watery grave and further gave him the necessary care and attention until the arrival of the morning express, when Mr. Mohr returned home.

J. Roost has another crib finished and laying ready at his mill. Before he can sink it, however, it will be necessary for him to have some dredging done, as the contract provides for a depth of 16 feet of water on the spot where the crib is to be sunk.

The roof and walls of the new extension of the beam house of the Cappon tannery are up and begin to show what a mammoth building it will be when it will all be thrown in one room of 340 feet in length by 60 feet in width.

WHAT YOU SAW 25 YEARS AGO

WHAT YOU SAW 10 YEARS AGO

The death of George Bancroft of Evanston, Ill., occurred last Saturday afternoon at his summer home at Evanston Park. His health had been failing for some years, until he finally found it necessary to retire from active business.

James Doyle received a message from Grand Rapids Tuesday stating that his father Patrick A. Doyle, had passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Wm. Kirkwood. He was born in Ireland in 1831, and came to this country at an early age.

Word was received by relatives in this city yesterday of the death at Omaha, of Mrs. D. M. Heeron, who was Miss Anna DeWit of Holland. She was a daughter of K. De Wit, Land St. and lived here until last fall when she married Mr. Heeron and left for the west. The news of her death was received with sincere regret by her relatives and friends in this city. The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon from the First Reformed church.

Another sensation was furnished by the obliging city council at its meeting last night to take action on the granting of saloon licenses. A license was denied James Selby for the reason that the bonds furnished were, in the estimation of the license committee, insufficient. A license was denied Hofsteen & Japinga for the same reason. John H. Van Zee, who has been fitting up the building on Eighth street formerly occupied by the Snag Cigar Co. preparatory to starting a saloon, was denied a license on the grounds that the bonds were insufficient and the location unsuitable, owing to the fact that there were too many saloons in that immediate neighborhood. A petition signed by nearly all of the business men on that part of Eighth street protesting against the starting of a saloon at that place was presented to the council and it is not likely that they will allow a saloon in that block. Ferguson & Ferguson's petition for a license was refused on the grounds that the bonds were not sufficient and the location was unsuitable owing to the large number of dwelling houses in that locality. What the outcome of the saloon question will be the next meeting of the council will tell.

The mosquito lays forty eggs a day, it is said. But the cackle seems to be missing.

Girl of Twelve Years Assaulted

Another horrible crime was committed this week when Oscar Jacobs, a weak-minded young man employed on the old Lemoine farm near Dunningville, assaulted and raped the twelve-year-old daughter of John Spaman of that place. The affair is revolting in its details and can but impress its readers with a feeling of sorrow for the girl who happened to be the victim of this brute, and with a strong feeling of regret that there should be in the county such persons as this Jacobs.

Jennie Spaman was returning home from the Lemoine school Tuesday evening and was passing a lonely spot when she was pounced upon by a full-grown man and dragged into the woods. He began at once to tear the girl's clothes from her and she resisted him, telling him that her father was near at hand and would see them. The fellow then told her to shut up or he would kill her, which so frightened her that she was helpless. The man ran off through the woods. After a time the girl got home and told her parents what had happened. Search was begun at once and within an hour Deputy sheriff Short was there, soon followed by Prosecutor Hoffman and Deputy Barney in an automobile. At seven o'clock they had Jacobs and he had confessed.

When the officers arrived on the scene they immediately began rounding up the fellows that in a general way answered the description the girl was able to give. She said he wore a red and black shirt, but the thing that attached the crime to Jacobs was a red handkerchief which Hoffman found near the place where the assault was made. The latter went to the place where Jacobs was living and asked him where his red handkerchief was. He replied that it was in his coat down in the field where he had been working. Of course it was not there and he was arrested. On the way to the scene of the crime Hoffman plied him with questions and finally asked him "What do you want to be fooling with a homely Dutch girl when there are so many good-looking girls around here?" and Jacobs gave himself away when he said: "I don't know why I did."

That ended the hunt, although in the meantime Deputy Short had gone to the telephone and ordered two bloodhounds from Coopersville. The dogs and their owner arrived at Dunningville about eleven o'clock that night after the excitement had about subsided. Another deputy was detailed to get the bloodhounds belonging to Kalamazoo county but they were being employed near Vicksburg and could not be brought here. All these things give an idea of the activity of the sheriff's force under the direction of the prosecutor.

He was brought to the jail in Allegan and took his arrest and confinement in a composed manner. He did not realize the gravity of the offense, and remarked to one of the officers that he did not see why they should make so much fuss over what he had done. He was visited Wednesday, however, by a friend who made him understand how serious his crime was, and he broke down and cried, his first evidence of remorse.

He told the officers that his father is now in Jackson prison serving a life sentence for murder, and he said he thought his mother lived in Kent county but he did not know where she is nor anything about her.

Jacobs is the fellow who caused such a stir in our city about a year ago one Sunday morning by notifying the officers that a girl's dead body was lying near the edge of Littlejohn lake. The officers raced to the scene and at least 500 people went to the vicinity. Diligent search revealed nothing, and at that time it was quite generally believed that Jacobs had excited his imagination with liquor. It is now known that he believed he would receive a reward in money from some source for the information he manufactured.—Allegan Gazette.

At the Majestic

No stronger, realistic and authentic picture of slum life in New York has ever been staged than that of "The Regeneration" which Miss Catharine Countiss will offer at the Majestic Theatre, Grand Rapids, for the week starting Sunday night, May 1. It is a dramatization of Owen Kildare's story "My Mamie Rose" and has never before been seen here.

"My Mamie Rose" and "The Regeneration" are both the story of Kildare's life. Kildare was a Bowery "pug-ugly," a "bouncer" in the dance halls and saloons along that famous thoroughfare until he was singled out by a settlement worker who regenerated and made a man of him. Knowing the people and the manner of their lives, Kildare was eminently fitted to reproduce it and his drama is full of the argot and slang of the habitues of the low dives that infest the metropolis.

It was because of the success of the story that the stage offering was given and it proved an immediate success when it was played by Arnold Daly assisted by Crystal Herne, Helen Ware and other Broadway favorites. Since then it has been offered in various cities with great success and was only secured by Miss Countiss from Liebler & Co., who control the manuscript, by paying of a very large royalty.

Miss Countiss will be seen in the role of the settlement worker and Allan Murnane, the handsome leading man, as the Bowery tough who is brought back to normal life. The other members of the Company also have parts that are suited to their various abilities.

The business of Miss Countiss and her company has been steadily increasing and her second season in Grand Rapids will be very prosperous. Never before have theatre-goers here enjoyed the privilege of seeing the very best $1.50 plays and attractions at the popular fifty cent scale now in force at the Majestic. In addition there are 600 seats each night at 25 cents and at the Wednesday and Saturday matinees all seats are 25 cents.

Merchant's Entertainment

When the Hebrews baked stones for the Egyptians there was very little chance for the sons of Abraham to enjoy a treat, such as was given Monday night by the local merchants entertaining their clerks. And likewise the Egyptian master did not have so splendid an opportunity to become acquainted with the views which his employee held in regard to an ideal master, as was afforded our local business men.

The affair of Monday night shows the true evolution of economic conditions, and it is, in its small way, the forerunner of the method which will ultimately solve the trouble—some problem of capital and labor. Socialists of every stamp and denomination may rest assured on one point: the Utopia of their dreams will not be realized through confiscation or division or extreme revolutionary measures, but rather through an adjustment of opinions held respectively by employer and employee.

Almost without exception the employer in his relations to his employee is biased as to the impressions he gets from the latter. And it is equally safe to say that an employee enters upon his occupation with a prejudice against his superior. Every act of the employer, when not sufficiently understood, is unconsciously construed by the employee on this prejudiced basis. The apparent shortcomings of his of his clerk are interpreted by the merchant in the same way. The result is much sulking on both sides, influencing the run of business in no beneficial way.

The papers read Monday night at the merchants' entertainment expressed the opinions held by both employer and employee regarding each other. The merchant heard of grievance which he never knew existed, and accordingly he realized in how far he had come short in his duty toward his clerk. The latter learned what his employer expects from him and he acknowledged the reasonableness of the demand. Thus the candid exchange of opinions was welcomed by both sides, and the open mindedness with which they were received left no doubt but that this joint meeting accomplished its purpose, namely to establish a better understanding between employer and employee.

From a social standpoint also the gathering proved a success. Men are men, whether employer or clerk, and they never are readier to meet upon an equal plane and forget differences, than when around tables laden with good things, when song and jest bids all be happy.

There is enough of drudgery in daily business routine. Get away from it for a few moments and you will be better able to cope with fresh difficulties. And let the employer and employee come together and forget their routine work and its drudgery, meanwhile cultivating their social selves, and tomorrow they will meet again in their business play, better and happier men, better able to observe good qualities in other and better able to overlook little slights which otherwise tired brains and an overworked constitution might swell to mountains of difficulties.

Fakes and Fakirs

The Cook-Pearcy controversy has to do not so much with the present as with the future. It has established new conditions in popular as well as in scientific circles. The factional feeling is overshadowed by the feeling of skepticism which will hereafter creep into every newly alleged discovery. The reception of Cook's first dispatch that he had found the pole was received with a faith that bore no question mark. The return of the Lloyd expedition from Mt. McKinley, with a report that no traces of the Cook expedition were found, elicits from the guide who but a short time ago repudiated Cook the declaration that the expedition failed to reach the top of the mountain. And we can only tip back and admit that we do not know.

And what do we know? The shattering of faith in one instance leads to general doubt and skepticism. We have lost enthusiasm in the expeditions which lead where we cannot or do not care to follow. If there are fakes and fakirs along the route of discovery, why should a busy people bother with assertions which they cannot verify? Surely no other method so thoroughly chills all interest in the realm of discovery.

In the commercial world the fakes and fakirs are bound to play an equally destructive part. We meet them in every road. They are ever striving for the supremacy. The public cannot detect them at once. There are no conspicuous ear marks, yet their work reveals the true character. We do not need the scientific test to convince ourselves of this; yet to the unprofession the distinction is not so apparent. We strive to free ourselves from the mantle of the fakir yet he persists in his attempts to smother us. We cannot work too hard to steer clear of fakes; to keep the atmosphere clear. We cannot afford to have either goods or motives questioned, as are the actions of certain professing modern discoverers.

Two Holland Uniformed Drum and Fife Corps

One of the biggest features of the state G. A. R. encampment to be held here the week of June 19 will be the part to be played by the children of Holland. Next to the veterans themselves the children will be the most conspicuous in all the lines of entertainment. They will form one division of the parade on Wednesday and will have a campfire of their own, which will be one of the principal features of the encampment.

The children's campfire will be held Tuesday night, when arrangements will be made to entertain 15,000 children. The Women's Relief corps and the ladies of the G. A. R. are uniting their efforts to make this feature one of the big ones. Ex-Governor Peck of Wisconsin has accepted an invitation to speak at this campfire and a large number of children are now busy preparing their part of the entertainment. There will be a children's chorus to sing patriotic airs, tableaux calling to mind the scenes of the war and drills all by the children.

A girls' drum corps of 36 members will march in the parade and these girls are now perfecting themselves in drumming. They will be clad in red, white and blue costume. The regular campfire for the veterans will be held Wednesday night. At this time all the speakers will uncoil their eloquence while the veterans will themselves have an opportunity to pull off whatever stunts they see fit.

Among the big men who will be guests of Holland during this week are Senator William Alden Smith, Senator Julius Caesar Burrows, who is himself a veteran, Gov. Warner and staff, Gen. Joseph N. Greenfield ex-Governor VanZandt, commander in chief of the G. A. R. of the United States and the entire Michigan delegation in congress. Congressman Diekema will be one of the principal speakers in view of the fact that Holland is his home town.

Another feature of the encampment of more than ordinary interest will be the presence of the National Asso. of Civil War Musicians, commanded by Squire Johnson, drum major of Adrian. This organization numbers between 50 and 60 men drummers, fifers and buglers and will be able to turn loose the same music and in the same way they did on the field of battle. Besides these Holland will have two martial bands in uniform. The young boys of this city have organized a corps of 18 pieces, five fifers, 10 snare drummers, a bugler and a drum major. Dar Huff and Ben Mulder will also have their band out with a few more members and the drummers will all have army drums and the corps will be handsomely uniformed.

Already every preparation is being made for handling the big crowds. Boyd Pantlind will open the Ottawa Beach hotel for this week and the Macatawa park hotel will also be opened for the use of the visitors exclusively. Under the circumstances no city in Michigan would be able to give as comfortable accommodations to the veterans as will Holland. While other cities may have more and larger hotels none will have two great summer resort hotels looking upon Lake Michigan which can be opened for the exclusive use of the veterans and the guests of Holland the week of June 19.

Political Notes

Walter H. Clark, county treasurer, is out for the Republican nomination of representative to the Michigan legislature from the second district. Mr. Clark has not been saying a great deal about his candidacy and many are not aware of his aspirations to become a legislator. Mr. Clark hails from Robinson and has long been in the harness as a Republican worker. His petitions are already being circulated in certain sections of the district.

Albert Labuis has not yet signified his intention to run for another term as a legislator in the second district.

Ex Mayor John Welch of Grand Haven is also to be a candidate for the nomination for sheriff at the primaries this fall.

Friends of Aloys Bilz, the Spring Lake supervisor who was defeated for reelection this spring, are urging him to get into the race for the vacant seat in the legislature for which Chas. McBride of this city is already a candidate.

"IT MAY BE SO, BUT I DON'T KNOW."

Without consulting the ex mayor local Democrats have decided to run Edwin F. Sweet for congress in opposition to Diekema or any candidate the Republicans of the Fifth district put in the field. Already the leading members of the party locally are planning and working toward that end and it is the general opinion among them that this is a favorable time to secure a Democratic congressman for the Fifth. With Mr. Diekema as the opponent the Democratic candidate will swing a large home influence in Grand Rapids and Kent, and it is figured that Sweet will be very strong in Ionia. It is too early for Sweet to announce a decision. But there seems no question in the minds of his backers that he will be the candidate. As one, very prominent in the party locally, puts it, "Mr. Sweet will have to run. We're going to nominate him and elect him—Grand Rapids Press."

Hope College

Hope's representation on the foreign fields will be augmented this year by three volunteers who have passed the required examination and have been appointed by the board of foreign missions for eight-year terms. Joseph R. Sizoo will go to the Arcot mission in India upon the completion of his seminary course in New Brunswick; Gerrit Van Peursem has been commissioned as missionary to Arabia and Herman Renskers has chosen Amoy, China as his future field. Albert Oltmans will return to Japan, Rev. S. M. Zwemer to Arabia and Rev. D. C. Ruigh to Japan early next fall, all being graduates of Hope.

With the exception of the Minerva society all the college religious and literary organizations have elected their officers for the spring semester. The presidents of the different organizations are: Y. M. C. A., E. O. Schwitters; Y. M. C. A., Gertrude Hoekje; Fraternal, Anthony L. Ver Hulst; Cosmopolitan, Jean Vis; Knickerbocker, Harry C. Kremers; Meliphone, Jacob J. Althuis; Ulfilas, James Verburg; Sorosis, Anna Schuelke.

Tryouts for positions on the team for the relay race between Hope and Grand Rapids Y. M. C. A. on May 14 are taking place daily and great rivalry exists for the coveted places. Hope's sprinters are fast assuming form and developing speed and the chances for a second victory over the Furniture city aggregation are exceptionally bright. Hope's squad comprises some 15 of the best runners and Capt. Stegeman promises to give every one an equal show for the final tryout on May 1, when the team will be picked. A splendid trophy has been offered by H. Van Tongeren which will spur on the locals to retain the prize on the campus.

Another feature of interest will be the inter-class track meets to be pulled off May 28th. Wykhuizen & Karreman, the local jewelers, have donated a splendid silver loving cup, valued at $30, which is to be competed for for six years between the college classes. The class winning the cup has its name engraved on one of its sides, and after the expiration of the six years the cup will be placed in the trophy room in Carnegie hall.

On account of the wet grounds and cold weather the game scheduled between the Bissels of Grand Rapids and Hope college had to be put off indefinitely. Next Saturday the college boys play Holland high school and the week after the McLaughlins of Grand Rapids.

The annual business meeting of the athletic association will be held next month, when managers and captains of the various department will be chosen. Never in the history of the institution has athletics been carried out on such a high plane as during the present year, and Hope has become a recognized factor in the state. The only thing lacking is intercollegiate sports, association being denied the privilege of sending the teams through the state during a college term. The students hope that the day will soon come when Hope will be given an opportunity to show its playing caliber against the best Michigan affords, unhampered by faculty rules.

"I'll Find the Way to Heaven" says Boy as Death Claims Body

Saugatuck, Mich., April 26—"Mama, can you tell me the way to Heaven?" queried little 15-year old George Neits of his mother.

"You know the way, do you not, my little boy?"

"Well, I'm going to find it mama." The boy's eyes closed. The last spark of life passed from his body, an illness of six weeks from measles terminating in death.

The little boy was a favorite among his playmates and when the news was spread among the village that he had died, there was intense grief among his friends.

The boy during the last days of his illness realized that he was going to die, and often in his talk with his parents referred to it. His one sorrow was that he could not take his little brother with him to Heaven.

Holland Was First

Holland high school rooters are good. Friday night a delegation of seventeen students and faculty invaded Hastings to root for the Holland contestant in the district oratorical contest. The Holland bunch struck Hastings with a shout of confidence and a blaze of color, but there was no contest. It was to the Holland rooters that something had happened. Perhaps it was the fault of the comet. When the visitors informed the Hastings people that they had come to the contest, the natives stood aghast. The contest isn't until next week. And then the little squad of invaders went silently and sadly back home, to face the music as best they could. Nobody could ever get ahead of Holland, anyway. —Grand Haven Tribune.

Through Freight by Way of Saugatuck

Messrs. Strathearn Hendrie, John Busby and Chas. Floyd of the G. R. H. & C. electric line went to Saugatuck on a special car to meet with Messrs. Crawford and Comstock of the Crawford Trans. Company for an interview in regard to handling through business between Chicago and Grand Rapids.

The result of the conference proved very satisfactory to all who are interested in the welfare of the steamboat line and it is gratifying to know that arrangements were made whereby business between these two large cities can be billed via Crawford Trans. Co., and interurban road and therefore be transferred here.

Back in Service

Purchasing the old Graham & Morton steamer "Argo," which went ashore at Ottawa Beach in terrible October storm in 1905 and was abandoned to the insurance underwriters after several unsuccessful attempts were made to get her off the beach, the Northern Michigan Transportation company will fix the old boat and she will again be used on Lake Michigan. The deal was put through at Cleveland by E. W. Seymour, manager of the company, and repairs will be begun on the boat at once.

After the boat had laid on the beach all winter and was thought to be a total loss, the underwriters secured a large wrecking tug from Canada and by dredging a channel managed to pull the "Argo" back into the deep water. Seymour paid $27,000 for her and will spend as much more in repairs.

Human Foot on Beach

Willard Stickney of Grand Haven reported to the sheriff's office last Saturday afternoon that he had picked up a human foot on the beach just south of the interurban loop. The member appeared to have been cut off or pulled off at the ankle, but there were no marks that would lead to a conclusion as to where it came from. The foot was perfectly bare and the flesh on it did not appear to have been in the water a long time. In all probability it had been washed up by the recent severe gale.

Merchants Entertain

About 160 clerks engaged the hospitality of their employers last Monday night when the Merchant's Association met in the G. A. R. Hall and gave their clerks the time of their lives.

President Austin Harrington gave a brief address of welcome, and after the routine business a carefully planned program was rendered. Secretary Beeuwkes read a paper on the ideal clerk, punctuality and courtesy being emphasized as the important qualities. The clerks were likewise prepared and retaliated through a paper read by Henry Vander Ploeg. It vividly portrayed the employer, least wished for by a clerk, and the trials which fall to the employed when they must deal with such employers. W. G. Van Dyke told in a brief way about the purpose of the association.

Misses Barkema and Maude Jansen rendered fine vocal solos, while Miss Staplekamp gave several readings. Other features of the program were interesting talks by Manager Orr of the Citizens Telephone company and Charles Dutton the Florist. Henry Vander Ploeg read an instructive paper on self education and a quartet composed of Herman Cook, Gerard Cook, Peter Oosting and Ralph Van Lente rendered several selections.

The whole affair was a grand success and the members of the association feel that such programs, rendered more frequently would be a benefit to employer and employee.

Washington Bust Contest

Before an audience which filled Winants Chapel to its doors, the triennial Washington Bust Contest was held last night, Jacob Heemstra, of the Senior Class, winning the beautiful bronze bust of President Washington.

Mr. Heemstra presented his subject, "An Enduring Republic" in a masterful way. He is a natural born speaker, forceful, sincere, and has a way of influencing his audience as perhaps no other man in college. In the recently held debate he won the battle for the locals, according to the testimony of the Alma opponents. Mr. Heemstra's thought was to the point and well worded, and the excellent use of his voice and appropriate gestures left no doubt as to the outcome.

The essence of his oration was, Can the greatness of our republic endure? This is dependent upon two essentials, good principles of government, with federal supremacy as the solution of industrial and labor problems, and good citizenship, observance of law, honest and efficient exercise of ballot, and the setting of a good example to the younger generation.

H. V. E. Stegeman of the Sophomore class was a close second with the oration "In the Van of the Nations." Stegeman's oration showed great care of preparation and thought, his sentence structure making it easy for his audience to follow him. The fact, that Stegeman tied in rank with Heemstra, and that the latter won out by percentage shows that the young Sophomore will prove a formidable opponent for any one who in the future wishes to compete for oratorical honors with him.

Henry A. Vruwink of the Senior Class speaking on the topic "Industrial Peace," was awarded third place by the judges. Vruwink had a good grasp on his subject, and as the oration dealt mainly with facts it appealed to his hearers for its conciseness and clearness. His delivery was forceful and impressive and at the same time polished.

Harry Anker spoke on "The Child of the Factory" in a pleasing way. He has a good stage presence but lacks somewhat in his experience as a public speaker. A recent attack of tonsillitis prevented him from appearing at his best.

The other three orators were: A. Lampen whose subject was, "Lafayette, an Example of Patriotism," O. Droppers who spoke on the topic "The Evolution of a Great Republican Principle," and W. Visscher, whose oration was, entitled, "Whether Goeth America?"

The Washington Bust Contest is held once in three years, and the prize, a bronze bust of Washington valued at $160, a gift of Dr. J. Ackerman Coles of New York City. The orations must be of a patriotic nature, the choice of subject being left to the contestants.

The judges at the contest were Mr. C. J. Dregman of this city, attorney P. J. Danhof of Grand Haven and Rev. Alex. Brown of Grand Rapids.

Dr. Boss' Invention

Under the name of the Hydro-Carbon Electric Light and Power company, Holland and Grand Rapids capitalists have launched a $250,000 corporation for the manufacture of a primary electrical battery, which may revolutionize the electrical industry. Dr. H. Boss, a prominent local physician and a graduate of the state university, recently perfected the battery and has secured exclusive patent rights. The officers of the concern are Dr. Boss, president; Arthur J. Free, Grand Rapids, secretary and treasurer; Aber Rice, Grand Rapids, vice president.

Articles of incorporation have been forwarded to Lansing and two-thirds of the stock has already been subscribed. Dr. Boss claims the article can be placed upon the market for one eighth the cost of the ordinary storage battery and is capable of developing a tremendous electrical current at a cost considerably less than by any process now in use. The plant will be located here and employ more than 1,000 men.

Bound Over to Circuit Court

Benjamin Lapidus was brought here from Grand Haven Tuesday to answer to the charge of simple larceny on which he was arrested in connection with the attempted theft of a pair of trousers from the store of Lokker Rutgers Co. Lapidus had no chance to plead in the case. On the advice of the sheriff, the charge of Lapidus was withdrawn and he was at once re-arrested on a charge of larceny from a store in the daytime, which is a circuit court offense. Brought before Justice Miles in the afternoon on the completion of the hearing, he was bound over to circuit court for trial at the next session. His bail was fixed at $500. Lapidus' chances are of being sent up for a good long term.

A Tale of the Comet

Since the recent publication of divers newspaper stories of the yellow variety prophesying that on May 18th next, strange and dire things will happen to this mundane spheroid of ours, in connection with Halley's comet, life has been a burden to Professor Hussey at the University of Michigan observatory. The telephone bell has been overworked and so has Prof. Hussey. He has, however, allayed the fears of the anxious ones.

Halley's comet at present is many million miles beyond the sun and is only visible a morning object, rising about an hour before the sun. Its tail now, it is estimated, is about 15,000,000 miles in length and probably will be longer after passing around the sun.

Many people have been led to believe that on May 18th the comet will be visible in all its splendor. This is not true. On May 18 the comet will be directly between the sun and the earth and therefore will not be visible at all. This is easily understood when it is remembered that the orbits of both comet and earth are elliptical, but that the movement is in opposite directions. On May 20 the earth and the comet will be closest together, there being some fourteen millions of miles between them. After that date the earth and the comet will pass each other, the earth coming in toward the sun and the comet moving away from it. After the comet has passed the earth then it will be seen as an evening object, and its journey across the sky will be quite rapid, similar to that of the moon from new to first quarter.

A collision between the earth and the comet is physical impossibility as the planes of their orbits are entirely unlike. This year as the earth comes in toward the sun the comet is passing its node which accounts the proximity. As the distance between the earth and comet will be some fourteen million miles and as the tail of the comet is over fifteen million miles in length it is easy to see that the earth will pass through the tail of the comet, but there is no danger from suffocation on that score; for as Prof. Hussey says, a person can probably get more prussic acid out of a peach pit than he will get out of the cyanogen gas which he inhales as a result of the comet's visit to the earth.

Slaughter of Robins

Robins are numerous at Loften, Tennessee, and are selling readily in the local market at ten cents a dozen says a correspondent to the Nashville American. It should be explained that the robins are not so numerous as they use to be, for the fact that they sell for ten cents a dozen has induced many men and boys to engage in the whole sale slaughter of the birds.

Thousands of the birds gather in the cedars to roost, and hunting parties go in the night and capture and kill them in large numbers. One hunter caught 377 birds in one tree. It is estimated that 150,000 have been killed within the last three weeks. It is great sport—and the robins sell for ten cents a dozen. That is the way in which wild bird life is being protected in some parts of this great country.

The robin is a beautiful and harmless bird. He is an indefatigable destroyer of insect pests. Anyone who has watched him on a lawn can testify to his industry in searching out bugs and worms, and his capacity for putting them where they can do no harm. If there is a cherry tree handy he will visit it occasionally, but he much prefers to forage after living things. He is a cheerful happy bird, not much of a singer as far as quality goes, but he is always willing to give you a sample of the best he can do in that line, and the effect is not unpleasant to the human ear.

It is to be regretted that our neighbors in Tennessee are not giving the robin half a chance, but are murdering him in cold blood. There really seems to be no reason for it except that the robins are worth ten cents a dozen. That also would seem to be the proper market quotation for men who engage in such slaughter, either for pleasure or profit.

Mayor Brusse's Message

Holland, Mich., April 20, 1910
To the Honorable, the Common Council of the City of Holland.

Gentlemen:—

For the third time I assume the duties of the presiding officer over the legislative body of this city, and after two years of experience, it is a rare privilege and honor to be permitted to occupy the mayor's chair for a third term. You are the chosen representatives of the different wards, while the mayor is the choice of the city at large and together we constitute what is called the city government. During the past two years, while differences of opinion were often developed, as is natural and not easily avoided in a growing city, the conduct of the common council was always decorous and much work was accomplished for the good and advancement of the municipality which we represent to the best of our abilities, and for the betterment of the condition of the people to whom we are accountable for our acts and judgment in our public affairs. I trust that we shall co-operate during the coming municipal year as the mayor or a few aldermen, without the assistance of the entire council, cannot do efficient work to which this city is clearly entitled.

At the beginning of this year it is pleasant to be able to remark that the city treasury is in an excellent condition, having on the day of settlement exclusive of the moneys on hand for the city hall purposes, almost $50,000, which is unprecedented. It is true taxes were high last fall, but this was for different reasons, as for example, the State Tax. But there is only one way to conduct the financial affairs of a city and that is to raise the amount of money that is necessary; no more; no less; and to expend that money for the purposes for which it was raised and never to spend more than was appropriated, that is, in my opinion, the only honest way of handling the financial side of our city government and it is my contention that we have adhered closely to that line during the past two years and I am proud of it. But, I desire to advise caution at this time, never to exceed in expenditures the amounts appropriated.

As we are now on the threshold of a new municipal year, I would deem it advisable to submit for your consideration, with the view of having them carried into effect, a few recommendations:—

The side track to the lighting and water works is almost a matter of fact being in course of construction. The city hall will be completed during the month of August. The matter of paving Eighth street, west of River street and providing sewers for same, and the establishing of a large sewerage and drainage district in the Fifth Ward, have already been put under way of accomplishment, and in addition to the above improvements already begun, I would recommend:—

1st. The paving of Central Avenue as soon as possible. Central avenue runs through one of the most beautiful sections of the city, and yet during the spring and fall and after rains, the avenue is almost impassable on account of mud and water. This not only renders the travel difficult and unpleasant but it is an eye-sore to our citizens and a disgrace to the city. What is said here of Central avenue may with equal propriety, be applied to College Avenue north of Sixteenth street and to certain other streets and avenues.

2nd. The speedy sale of the Park bonds, authorized by the voters at the last charter election, and the appointment of a committee as soon as possible, so as to enable proceedings without delay in trying to secure a desirable manufactory or industry in the near future in order that if possible some benefit may be derived even before next winter.

3rd. The matter of water supply in our city forms a serious problem. It is well known that our city water is of the purest and best and considering that it is well water and pumped at considerable expense, with the supply limited, the question of whether our water rates are high enough seems quite pertinent. The proposition of going to Lake Michigan for water will involve an enormous outlay of money, and while that is probably the only ultimate solution of the water problem the question presents itself: "Are we ready for such an undertaking at this time?" All things considered, I feel inclined to suggest, if not to recommend, unconditionally, that the matter of the necessity or expediency of raising our water rates be carefully investigated. Upon comparison of our water rates with those of other cities, it is plain that for the quality of water our rates are too low, and if they are too low, they should be raised. It is in no sense to be considered a reflection upon the city government that our water rates are not high enough. Every city has its own peculiar difficulties about water supply, and we have ours as well. The raising of our rates would have a tendency to prevent unnecessary use and also waste of water and would increase the revenues so as to enable the Board of Public Works to use part of the revenues as a sort of sinking fund for the future extension of the water system. The Board of Public Works has for several years past made small additions to the water supply, at no great expense, and has done well. The policy will have to be pursued this year and the next unless the Lake Michigan project is adopted now. In any event, the matter of water rates should be investigated and settled right or the water system will not be on a proper basis.

4th. I would favor strongly the raising of the salaries of the various city officials from the mayor down to the laborer in the ditch. The salaries of the aldermen and the mayor have not been changed since 1893. Since that date the city has grown remarkably and the duties of the officers have increased at least tenfold, and demand a great deal of their time and I will say right here and now that the chairman of our ways and means committee has spent days in the auditing of our city books, a labor involving considerable skill and experience, without one cent of compensation and to compensation for such work he should be entitled, for if the work had been done by professional auditors it would have cost the city from $200 to $400. During the year all of the committees have done excellent work and many special meetings have been held in order to carry out and perform necessary improvements and acts, without delay. I would also call your attention to the commendable and laborious activity of our special City hall committee, who have worked evening after evening on the plans of the City Hall in order to secure a substantial, serviceable building combining usefulness, strength and harmony, an architectural masterpiece. This, the city Hall committee worked hard for, without a cent of compensation.

I desire also to make special mention of the very active assistance rendered by the city attorney, who gave a great deal of his time practically gratis along the different lines. The City Engineer, Health Officer and the City Clerk, and other officers receive at present, salaries that are inadequate. The salaries of most of our officials remain today as they were years ago, while the constant expansion of the city and the increase of duties go on almost unperceived. Hence it must be concluded that for the labor involved, our salaries are not what they should be.

5th. I recommend for the second time, that the committee on ordinance be instructed to draft and report a suitable ordinance relative to mitigating the smoke nuisance wherever it may exist in the city, for there are parties who have just grounds for complaint which should be recognized.

6th.—The matter of improvement of First Avenue south of 16th street was dropped sometime ago and it would be proper to resume consideration of that question.

7th. There is considerable demand for street sprinkling in the city; more than can be handled by the present sprinklers, and I would therefore recommend the purchase of one or more additional sprinkling wagons in order to supply all of those who petition for street sprinkling. In this connection, it would seem proper to suggest that a practical method of obtaining the water for the sprinklers from the river or lake instead of from hydrants, might be found. Taking the water from the river or lake would require more time and perhaps increase the cost of street sprinkling, but it would save a great deal of our water for lawn and domestic use.

8th. The purchase of a street roller will be practically a necessity if we are to do any street improving during the coming summer, and such roller can be used to advantage keeping other streets in proper condition. I am aware of the fact that no provision has been made for the purchasing of a street roller, but if in your judgment a roller out to be purchased, arrangements for payment in December or January next can be made.

9th. The several official boards of the city have been very active and successful in their departments and I have in the main nothing but praise for them. The members of those boards serve without compensation; devote their best judgment to public affairs without remuneration. The board of public works and the board of police and fire commissioners are very important and their valuable services should be fittingly recognized. The book keeping of the Water, Light and public departments are in good shape, but I would recommend that the Fire department, Library and Park departments keep fuller accounts of their expenditures for the purpose of obtaining more complete municipal statistics.

In addition to the foregoing matters other important subjects will no doubt present themselves for consideration from time to time as the year advances. In the handling of different problems, if our experience counts a great deal of preliminary consideration and conference will avoid friction and much misunderstanding. Nothing is so conducive to harmony in government, as ripe consideration before action is taken, and I trust that whatever problem presses, we shall confer and once more confer, before final action is taken.

I thank the Common Council for courteous consideration shown me in the chair and assure you that I am ready to co-operate with you in all reasonable matters that can pertain to the good of our city during the coming year. Let us endeavor to make this the best municipal year the city has ever had.

I thank you for your kind attention,
HENRY BRUSSE,
Mayor.

Hadn't Noticed It

"By thunder, but meat has gone up again!" said the fat little man to the tall lean one, on the street.

"Ah!" was the reply.

"How dare they do it, sir—how dare they?"

"Um!"

"And after dropping the price of butter two or three cents, they have gone and boosted it six. I say, how dare they?"

"So?"

"And look at the price of potatoes, will you? Haven't been so high in thirty years!"

"No?"

"And milk. Why hang em, why are not some dealers sent to prison?"

"Ah!"

"And all canned goods are on the bob. Where sir—where is this thing going to stop?"

"Um!"

"Will it continue until the overburdened people break out into revolution? I ask you, sir, if it will."

"Ah!"

"You seem to be a family man, sir, but you do not appear interested in this matter."

"No?"

"And why not, sir, why not? Haven't you taken notice of the trend of things?"

"Well no" was the reply. "You see, I'm a dyspeptic and for the last sixty days I've lived on nothing but lime water. So prices have gone up, eh? Too bad—too bad. Give the public my sympathies!"

Slang Tabooed

Slang is tabooed in the home of a Muskegon family, principally because there is a bright little girl who displays a persistent aptitude in retaining expressive but uncultured phrases.

The other evening at dinner the mother, father and daughter drifted into the vernacular and a fresh start was necessary. The little girl started it. "I'm not stuck on this bread," she remarked.

"Margie," said her mother, "you want to cut that slang out."

"That's a peach of a way of correcting the child," commented the father.

"I know," replied the mother, "but I just wanted to put her wise."

The April tea meeting of the Ladies Aid society of the M. E. church will be held in the church parlors this afternoon at 2:30. A large attendance is desired as business of importance will come before the meeting.

May 19 is the date set for the Wagner Male chorus concert at Carnegie Hall, Director Helder has arranged for a fine program. The chorus has been working faithfully for the past three months and it will be the best concert the club has ever given. A public reader of wide reputation will also give several readings of a popular vim.

Jones and Ebelink, Florists and Nurserymen at Central Park have mutually dissolved partnership. Henry Ebelink taking the Central Park greenhouses will conduct the florist's business while Ralston Jones takes charge of a general nursery business on the Glenwood fruit farm a few rods south of Central Park station which will be known as the Glenwood Nursery.

Former Senator Suel A. Sheldon is a mighty good sleeper. Thursday night while he was wrapped in deep slumber, a burglar broke into his house, cut off his telephone connections and made his escape with a pair of the senator's trousers, about $25 in cash and divers other articles of useful significance in the Sheldon household. When the robbery was discovered the victim communicated with Sheriff Hurley of Grand Rapids at once. A. E. Bonner's bloodhounds of Coopersville were also put on the trail.

Miss Hazel Browning Wing of this city has been pronounced one of the five most proficient pianists at the New England conservatory of music. Miss Wing participated in a contest for a $1200 piano offered as a prize by a piano company to the most proficient pianist of the Senior class. Although not winning the prize, Miss Wing was awarded signal honors by the judges. She is in her second year at the conservatory and besides being an accomplished pianist, is also a vocalist of much promise. She is 22 years of age and a graduate of Holland high school.

After a day and a night of anxiety, the monster barge of the Standard Oil company No. 26 anchored a mile from Macatawa Monday. The barge in tow of the tug Zenith got into trouble when the Zenith's engine broke down, leaving both helpless in a tremendous sea in mid lake. The Zenith broke loose and was presumed to have gone down with Capt. A. A. Stannard of Cleveland, and a crew of 13 men, but she was picked up by a freighter and towed into Chicago. The tug Mary with Capt. Harrington went to the rescue of the barge and succeeded after many perils in bringing her within a mile of the harbor where she cast anchor. Capt. Van Weelan of the life saving station, ordered out his men and they took off Captain Knox, who came ashore and notified his company of the safety of the barge. It is laden with 17,000 barrels of gasoline valued at $100,000.

One of the most terrific gales of the year raged on Lake Michigan Saturday and the 50 mile south-west wind forced almost all the big lake steamers into shelter at various points. The Puritan left Chicago on time, but after less than an hour was forced to come about and run back for safety. The wind brought about an abnormally high water condition at Macatawa, which amounted almost to a tidal wave, the water rising about midnight until it swept the docks at Tanner's and other points on the lake. Several boats broke loose and were recovered this morning by the life-savers, the fishing boats used by Andrew Fisher being found high and dry in the swamp back of the club house.

A South Haven paper reports that the affairs of the Saugatuck Amusement company, owners of the big pavilion, have been put in better condition as a result of a meeting of stockholders held recently in Chicago. The pavilion has been cleared and the creditors satisfied. Moreover, more money has been secured and preparations are being made to make the coming season a profitable one. At the recent meeting new officers were elected as follows: H. H. Engle of South Haven president, Robert M. Moore of Chicago and Saugatuck vice president, E. E. Weed of Grand Rapids and Douglas secretary, and Frederick Lamouze manager. The pavilion will open July 2 and the event will be celebrated by excursions from Chicago, Grand Rapids and South Haven. The Crawford boat company are probably the ones behind the movement. The pavilion drew a lot of people to Saugatuck last summer and will continue to do so; and the Crawford people are anxious to do all they can to make Saugatuck popular during the summer.

Rev. J. VanderMeulen of Grand Haven will conduct the services in Hope church Sunday morning and evening.

John Neil died at his home in Chicago from an injury caused by a fall. He was one of the oldest residents of Grand Haven but had been living in Chicago for the last eight years. The remains will be brought to Grand Haven for burial.

The terrible gale of last Friday night compelled the Puritan to remain in her berth at Chicago until Saturday, arriving here on Sunday morning. With the City of Benton Harbor, the largest boat of the G. & M. fleet, the regular daily service has now commenced.

The operating force at the P. M. depot has been increased, owing to the addition of two or three trains to the schedule. Agent W. Barnaby will be assisted by B. R. Harris, formerly baggage agent and R. S. Jones. The men will now work on a 9 hour schedule.

While attempting to board a fast southbound freight, James Welch of Deckersville, a twelve year old lad, missed his footing as he tried to grab a hand rail and was thrown to the ground. With Archie Heldreth of McGregor, a youth slightly older, he was beating his way westward to secure employment. Welch was rushed to St. Mary's hospital in Grand Rapids by Dr. Mersen, having sustained a crushed hip and serious bruises, but is thought to have a fair chance for recovery.

John Elfers of New Holland died at his residence Tuesday night at the age of 79 years. He has lived in New Holland for about 50 years. He leaves a widow one son, William Elfers. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the church, Rev. Wessellink officiating.

For the first time in the history of the Holland schools, the board of education has tendered a renewal of contract to every member of the present teaching force an increased salary for another year. It is expected, however that at least a dozen vacancies will occur as several have been offered more lucrative positions and a quintet have signed life contracts through Cupid's interference.
