MAN AND WIFE KILLED NEAR ZEELAND

Young Korean Vet Is Rounding Out 30 Days' Furlough

Donald Ten Brink,
Hamilton Soldier,
Was Wounded Twice

Sgt. Donald Ten Brink, 21-year-old veteran of the Korean campaign, is rounding out the last two weeks of a 30-day furlough at his Hamilton home reporting back to duty on May 6.

Ten Brink is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ten Brink, route 1, Hamilton.

He has been through almost all of the important fighting in Korea from last Sept. 1 when he was sent there from Japan, until he was evacuated in March.

Ten Brink joined the Army in March, 1948, and the following June was sent to Japan as a military policeman. He remained there until Sept. 1, 1950, when he was attached to the Seventh division and sent to Korea.

The young sergeant first was wounded on Sept. 22, receiving a facial injury, but was back in the lines in a few days. Later, he was with the First Marine division at the Hamhung death trap.

Ten Brink was wounded again on Feb. 11, while running a roadblock at Wonju. He was injured below the knee, and was a prisoner of the Reds for five hours on Feb. 15 before being released by two Dutch soldiers.

Then he was taken to a hospital in Japan and flown back to a California hospital on March 17, where he was a patient until his furlough orders came through on April 9. He must report back to Camp Gordon, Ga., on May 6 to serve as an MP instructor.

Medals that Ten Brink has won include the Purple Heart, Bronze Star, Combat Infantryman's badge, Korean service ribbon and others.

After attending Holland high school, Ten Brink enlisted in the Air Force at 17, but received a medical discharge three months later. Then he joined the Army, signing up three years ago for a five-year stretch.

He plans to make the military life his career, and doesn't care to talk about his adventures in Korea. Information in this article was obtained from his mother.

Holland high school band, under the direction of Arthur C. Hills, was one of four class A bands to receive a first division rating at the annual Michigan School Instrumental Music festival Saturday in Ann Arbor. A total of 102 bands and orchestras from Michigan participated.

Hudsonville high school band of which Bert Brandt of Holland is director also won a first division rating for class C bands, the fourth consecutive year the Hudsonville organization received top ratings.

The Holland high orchestra, also directed by Hills, received a second division rating.

A first division rating is defined as "the best conceivable performance for the event and the class of participants being judged and worthy of distinction of being recognized as a first-place winner." A second division rating is "an unusual performance in many respects, but not worthy of the highest rating due to minor defects in performance of ineffective interpretation. A performance of distinctive quality." Ratings rank from first to fifth.

Holland high band played "Emblem of Unity," Richards, and "First Swedish Rhapsody," Leiden. The orchestra played "First Movement Eine Klein Nacht Music," Mozart, and "Roumanian Rhapsody," Enesco.

Hudsonville band played "Night Flight," King and "Cabins," Gillette.

The Junior high orchestra of Holland was eligible to attend the festival but did not accompany the Holland high band and orchestra.

The band and orchestra of Holland high and the Junior high band played to a large audience Thursday night at a spring concert in Holland high school. Proceeds helped defray expenses of taking three buses to Ann Arbor Saturday.

Phone Company Will File Request For Rate Increases

Public Telephones
Would Cost 10 Cents
Under Proposed Hike

Michigan Bell Telephone company today announced that it will file application for a $22 million rate increase with the Public Service commission May 14. This amounts to a 17 per cent boost and would include hiking rates for pay telephones from five to 10 cents, according to Andrew G. Sall, manager for the company in Holland.

Sall emphasizes that the rate increase "is urgently needed to help the company meet mounting costs of doing business, including higher taxes, wages and cost of materials, and to aid in providing service the state will need in the national emergency."

The company estimates the hike in pay phone rates will yield $2 million annually. The five-cent public telephone rate has weathered the inflation tide since the company was organized in 1904, Sall said. New York, Minnesota, Illinois, certain cities in South Dakota and Iowa have 10-cent rates on pay phones. Bids for such increases have been made in New Jersey, Idaho and on the Pacific coast.

Under the application, monthly increases for types of service in Holland would be as follows:

Residence service — individual line, $1; two-party line, 75 cents; four-party, 75 cents; rural, 75 cents; extension telephones, 15 cents.

Business service — individual line, $2; two-party, $1.50; rural, $1; extension, telephones, 25 cents.

Long distance rates would remain unchanged.

Sall pointed out that wage increases have cost the company $40 million since 1940, with the $5 million wage boost of last November. At the time, he said rate increases during that same time have yielded only $21 million.

The company again is going ahead with plans for major military and war-production installations. In addition, 19,000 families are on the waiting list for service and 133,000 customers are waiting for higher grades of service.

"While material shortages will substantially curtail our ability to clear unfilled orders," Sall said, "every effort will continue to be made to satisfy civilian needs to the extent that national policy will permit."

"To provide for these military, war-production, and civilian needs, the company will require millions of dollars of new capital. The company already has spent more than a quarter of a billion dollars on construction since V-J day."

"That does not mean our customers are being asked to finance the company's expansion program. The money must come from investors."

"In postwar years, Michigan Bell's rate of return for investors has averaged five per cent compared with 12 per cent for 1,700 manufacturing companies in the country and nearly 17 per cent for the 36 largest Michigan manufacturers," Sall said.

"As a natural monopoly, we do not expect, nor do we need, as high a return as competitive business, but Michigan Bell's postwar earnings have been too far out of line to permit it to do the telephone job that the people of this state want and should have done."

Sall said that, "while revenues have increased 21 per cent through rate increases in 10 years, the value of the telephone package has grown much more. For one thing, the number of telephones has more than doubled. For another, the 'no-toll-charges' calling area of most customers has been increased through the introduction of extended-area service. In the last two years, 13 million calls changed from toll to local—the no-charge category due to the inauguration of extended-area service."

The overall cost of living has gone up 85 per cent in the last 10 years with 21 per cent rise in this company's revenue through rate increases.

Park Airs Four Zoning Appeals

Four zoning problems in Park township were discussed in an open meeting Wednesday night in Park township hall. A large crowd was present.

One request, heard before the appeal board, concerned an application to build three dwellings for transient workers in the Boohoot farm on Butternut drive, owned by H. D. Hootman. The dwellings would be smaller than ones allowed in the zoning ordinance and would have sanitary facilities and running water. The application was allowed, subject to inspection by the Park township zoning inspector.

The other three problems were heard before the permanent zoning board. The first concerned rezoning of No. 205 in Chippewa resort, requested by the Harrington Coal Co. for use in its boat business. A petition protesting the change bore many signatures. The problem was tabled pending a survey on the actual dividing line between residential and commercial property.

An application from Jesiek Bros. boat livery to have its property rezoned industrially was postponed, pending possible agreement between the Jesieks, Macatawa resort owners and other interested parties.

An application of Peter Dykman asking for commercial zoning at the corner of Division and Lakewood was delayed pending a consultation with Holland township zoning board on the advisability of establishing a commercial district at that corner which is on the border of the two townships.

Auto and Truck Involved in Crash South of Zeeland

Fatal Accident Occurs
At Same Intersection
Of Earlier Fatality

An elderly Graafschap coupe was killed in a car-truck crash at 10:05 a.m. today at the intersection of 96th Ave. and Adams St., located two miles south of Zeeland and three miles east of Holland. The roads are extensions of the State St. road in Zeeland and 16th St. in Holland.

Victims were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wolbert of Graafschap, aged 72 and 70 years, respectively. Both were thrown from their light '36 model coupe and death was believed instantaneous.

It was the second time in less than two months that a fatal accident occurred at this corner. John Nienhuis, 19, route 5, was fatally injured in a two-car crash there Feb. 28 and died four days later in Zeeland hospital without regaining consciousness. His death was the fifth in Holland area so far in 1951. The deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Wolbert bring the total to seven.

Today's crash occurred when a Heidema Brothers semi of Zeeland, driven by John J. Hulst, 27, of 87 1/2 East 17th St., Holland, collided with the light coupe driven by Wolbert. The semi was headed south on 96th Ave. and the coupe was traveling west on Adams. Hulst escaped with a minor arm injury.

The impact sent the tractor and trailer 110 feet beyond the intersection, coming to rest separately and overturned in the front yard of the one house at that crossing. The car was sent even farther in the same direction, coming to rest 170 feet from the point of impact. Damage to the truck was estimated at $5,000 to $6,000. The car was demolished.

The trailer was partly loaded with a shipment of feed. The rear end of the overturned trailer was virtually flattened. The cab of the tractor nearby was badly damaged but the driver escaped with little or no injuries.

Deep tracks were ground up in the soft yard of the farm house. Water remained in drainage ditches alongside the road from Wednesday's rainfall.

A bushel of seed potatoes was scattered on the shoulder not far from the point of impact. With it was a receipt, indicating the Wolberts had just purchased it. The crash attracted a large crowd of people.

Deputies Jim Flint and Arthur Lampen investigated the accident, along with Coroner Gilbert Vande Water.

The bodies were taken to Huizinga Memorial hospital in Zeeland and later were removed by Clarence Mulder, Graafschap mortician.

Only immediate survivor of Mr. and Mrs. Wolbert is a daughter, Mrs. Henry Pieper, route 6, Holland.

Chick Industry Is Rated Tops In Zeeland Area

Neighboring City Has Many Other Industries, Principally Furniture

Zeeland — The city of Zeeland, four miles east of Holland, can in some ways be considered a twin of the Tulip Time center.

The two cities were founded in the same year, 1847. Both have a predominant population of Dutch descent. Whereas Holland is famous for tulips, Zeeland is famous for chickens.

Zeeland is justly proud of its more than 330 industries, but most of them take a back seat for size and volume to the baby chick business.

This vast hatchery business began about 40 years ago when the late, Dauwe M. Wyngarden sent for a lamp incubator capable of hatching 300 chicks. There was considerable delay, so he cancelled the order and ordered another from another source. In time, both arrived.

Soon he began hatching chicks for his neighbors, and because of the demand, he ordered more incubators. Then he began to sell incubators to others and have them hatch chicks for him.

In about 1917, Wyngarden purchased a new type incubator with an increased chick capacity. His business grew by leaps and bounds, and so did that of other hatcheries which mushroomed in the area. Today, these hatcheries produce 11 million chicks annually from an incubator capacity of three million eggs.

Zeeland hatchery operators have a building and equipment investment approaching $800,000, and do about $2 million business yearly.

But there are many other industries in Zeeland. The city lists furniture retailers, professions and hatcheries. There are about 100 retail establishments serving a trading area with a 12-15 mile radius.

A good share of Zeeland industry is the manufacture of furniture. This is easily understood because the first industries in the area were saw mills and wagon shops. Early lumbering operations proved that Zeelanders were adept at woodworking. Many furniture factories now operate in Zeeland, and their furniture has gained a wide reputation.

Zeeland is the center of a rich and varied agricultural area. Considerable dairy and diversified farming is carried on, and many truck farmers deal in celery, onions and sugar beets. In recent years, flower growing has assumed large proportions.

Coach Wiegman said the match does not figure in Southwestern conference scoring, the second match being the conference meet. The Dutch meet Muskegon again May 7.

River Cleanup Affects Allegan

Allegan (Special) — Allegan, which has had a sewage disposal plant since 1940 and which stands to gain much as a recreation center, should get behind the state water resources commission's move to clean up the Kalamazoo river.

That's the opinion of Guy Teed, until recently president of the Allegan Conservation league, city supervisor, former sheriff, and for many years an enthusiastic promoter for nearby fishing and hunting facilities.

Prompted by the current dispute between Kalamazoo and the state commission over the dead-line for cleaning up the upper end of the river, Teed expressed satisfaction with the 1953 and 1954 dates set for Kalamazoo, Plainwell and Otsego.

"They've dumped sewage on us long enough," he remarked. "Lake Allegan has gone undeveloped as a resort area because of the dirty water."

Allegan has a dam-created lake that covers thousands of acres in a scenic forest district. Many local sportsmen believe the lake and Kalamazoo river could become a fishing mecca again, as it was 25 years ago when all species of game fish were available.

Missiles Expert Tells of Work In Electronics

A simple children's toy, the spinning top, serves as the heart of some of the deadliest and most effective military weapons now in use throughout the world.

So said Dr. William F. Carr of Lear, Inc., Grand Rapids, in an address before the Holland Lions club Tuesday noon. Dr. Carr is a member of the research staff of the Grand Rapids electronics corporation, makers of automatic pilots and of special electronic "brains" for use in guided missiles by the Army Air Force.

Guests of the Lions at the meeting staff and faculty members of the science departments of Hope, Holland high, Western Theological seminary and of Holland Christian high, together with visiting Lions from surrounding cities.

Dr. Carr said the spinning top, because of its resistance to a change of direction, is the basis on which automatic pilots rely, since the auto-pilot also demands an unchanging direction.

The spinning top is changed, however, to become a gyroscope and the slight resistance of the tiny gyroscope is parlayed upward into sufficient force to operate the airplane thereby relieving the actual pilot of this work.

These auto-pilots now are being used to some extent by American fighting aircraft in Korea, Dr. Carr said.

But these tiny directional brains, coupled with radar, also are used by the air corps in guiding experimental rockets while in flight. Dr. Carr said it is his understanding the Army now has rockets that can fly to any point in the world, at a speed of 4,000 to 3,000 miles per hour and at a height of about 100 miles.

He said he also has seen an experimental rocket plane that will carry a man at speeds of 2,700 to 3,000 miles per hour, the wings of this rocket folding back while in flight.

But much attention, he said, is being paid to the missiles that require no pilot and can be guided from land bases. A defense network of these missiles, Dr. Carr said would be nearly impenetrable by enemy aircraft.

Ministers Leave Haiti Civilization On Rough Crusade

Rev. George B. Hilson
In Group Preaching
To Mountain Natives

The Rev. George B. Hilson of Holland and five other ministers of the Wesleyan Methodist denomination have completed almost half of a rugged six-week evangelistic crusade in Haiti. The six men, sent by the youth department of their church, have left the civilization of Haiti far behind and have been roughing it in the mountains among the "devil-worshipping" natives.

In word received from the local minister, he said that when his party started up the mountain they had to leave behind such luxury items as typewriters for making reports and for correspondence. He mentioned in the letter, postmarked about a week ago, that two of the party were going into town on mule back the next day and that it would be the only opportunity to get mail in or out of the mountains. He writes:

"Civilization has been left behind by the crusade and here I sit in a native mud hut so far back in the mountains of Haiti that no person is ever seen except when Christian missionaries come this way. No mail is ever sent out or brought into these quarters except by a missionary."

"The nearest town is at least six hours away by horseback. There are only two means of travel, horseback or foot, and that over some of the steepest, narrowest mountain paths I have seen. I have seen no mountains in our country that could compare favorably in ruggedness with these. There is nothing resembling a road back in the mountains. . . . Despite falls or being thrown by a horse, no one has been seriously hurt."

"The Haitian natives are very friendly and always greet us with 'Bonjou pastere' (Good day, pastor). Even though they may be devil worshippers they know that the only white people coming through their country are ministers. The very best they have is offered to us. Some things we can accept, but others—no. We have been unable to sleep in the houses or eat some of the food."

"This country should be a Holland's paradise, for the woods are almost a solid cluster of coffee bushes. Green coffee is selling for 32 cents per pound. The second most plentiful crop is bananas. The price of bananas ranges from 14 cents to 3 cents per pound and their peltiness is a life saver to Americans while getting adjusted to native diet."

"These mountains are literally alive with natives and their constant struggle is to gain an existence out of this soil. It is a fact that they cultivate hillside so steep that they tie a rope around the waist of one person and he goes down the hillside to plant the seed while a second person holds the other end of the rope at the top of the hill. A person looks at the crops growing and wonders how the plants will stay there until harvest time."

"These natives are very religious. Devil worship is very prevalent. Often as we travel over the mountain paths we see a dead chicken hanging from the limb of a tree. It has been offered as a sacrifice to the devil. Many of the people have small shrines with crosses on them where they offer regular sacrifices to the devil. But there are many turning to the Christian religion. We are preaching to great crowds and seeing even witch doctors and devil worshippers turn to Christ. This is a great opportunity for service and each crusader is enjoying it."

This is Rev. Hilson's first missionary trip, although before beginning his ministry, he did train for missionary work in Africa. He will be back at the local Wesleyan Methodist church for services on May 13.

Hope Takes First Game, But Loses In Rainy Second

Coach Jack Schouten's Hope college nine split a doubleheader with Alma Saturday afternoon, winning the first game, 4-3, and losing the rain-swept second, 8-5.

Schouten called that the second game be asked when rain began to fall in the third inning of the second game, but officials decided to continue. Score at that time was tied at 1-all.

Schouten said in the fifth inning, when Alma scored six runs, the rain was coming down so hard that his pitcher, Hardy Ensing, couldn't keep his foot on the rubber. In that inning, Ensing walked in two runs, gave up three hits, and his teammates committed two errors.

The game didn't go beyond the fifth, but that final inning was too much for the Dutch as they lost, 8-5.

In the first game, Bob Dennison allowed Alma eight hits, but scattered them well, the Scots getting one safety in each of the first, third, the fifth, three in the sixth, and one each in the seventh and ninth.

The Scots didn't score until the sixth, when they got two men home on two hits, and an error. They scored again the ninth, but by then it was too late, as Hope took the victory.

Hope didn't hit in the first inning of the first game, but bunched two hits, a walk, and a Scot error to get three runs home in the second.

They scored again in the fourth, when Fuzz Bauman got on after being hit by the pitcher. He then proceeded around the bases as the Scot pitcher chucked a pair of wild pitches.

But after the fourth, Bob Saxton, pitching for the Scots, settled down and gave the Dutch a meager four hits in the final four frames, pitching himself out of difficulty in the sixth and eighth innings. Final score, 4-3, for Hope.

Second Game

The second game saw both teams score once in the first inning, Gene Schrotenboer, Dutch first baseman, slapping a double to drive home Jim Willyard, who had walked, while the Scots put together two Dutch errors for their score.

In the second frame, neither team could connect, though each managed one safety. In the third, the rains came, and with them a second Scot run, Ensing giving up a single, a double and a walk to send Bob Garrett, Alma's shortstop home.

The Dutch bounced back in the fourth to get another run, after Ensing had put down the Scots in order in the upper half of that frame.

The big fifth came up and the Scots drove six runs home through the rain on three hits, two Dutch errors and two walks. The locals managed three runs in their half of the fifth, Schrotenboer pounding a triple to drive in two Dutch runs.

After the fifth, it was raining too hard, and the game was called, the final score being 8-5 for Alma.

DIVIDED WE FALL

In the confused state of public opinion precipitated by the MacArthur episode there is only one basic point of agreement—disunity at a moment of national danger is tragically bad for America. Truman has been insisting on this basic truth, and the Republicans have been saying the same thing for a long time. "In unity there is strength," the traditional Dutch motto, applies to all free-loving people today.

But unity as a patriotic principle is easier to advise than to attain. There can be no doubt that the MacArthur advocates in the nation are as strongly convinced of the necessity of a united front as the Truman followers. It may be taken for granted that both are patriotic in their intentions and want the course followed that will be best for America. But Truman charges his opponents with "political hokum," and the Republicans in and out of congress apply the same charge to Truman.

In both cases the charge is justified, in part. The best we average Americans can hope for is that both sides will learn to believe that that is only part of the story—that there is also on both sides an earnest desire to do what is best for the country both sides love.

In other words, in this critical moment in our history, both factions should learn to place the emphasis on "United we stand" and should make an earnest attempt to enlarge the area of agreement instead of trying to place all the stress on the area of disagreement. The MacArthurites will have to learn to reconcile themselves to the basic American principle that in this country the military is subservient to the civil authority, as it should be in a free nation. But the Washington civil authority will have to rethink its position and remind itself that, under the American system, it is in power only temporarily.

Th administration has been acting as if its basic policies must be right for the very simple reason that at the moment it has the power. The American people would probably be far less divided on the MacArthur question if the administration had genuinely sold its foreign policy to the nation. The fact is that the American people have not given their wholehearted support to the policy that has been adopted because that policy was entered upon without the advice of the people's direct representatives.

All-important unity calls for compromise on both sides. The administration's weakness in the present controversy lies in the fact that its war policy has not been genuinely bipartisan. Basically it has been unilateral.

The Settlement in Canaan
Joshua 14:6-13; Judges 2:7-10; Judges 2:21-25

By Henry Geerlings

Among the heroic figures of the Old Testament, Caleb was by no means the least. He was a Kenezite, occupying a prominent place in the tribe of Judah, being its representative on important occasions. As one of the twelve spies sent into Canaan, he distinguished himself by being the spokesman for the minority, advocating the advisability of going at once into the Promised Land. Moses knew his sterling worth and made him one of the commission to make distribution of the country, when it should be conquered. At the age of eighty-five he witnessed the completion of the conquest of Canaan and represented the tribe of Judah in the division and assignment of territory. Caleb was a noble character.

Old age was telling on Joshua when the land of Canaan had been conquered. God advised him to look after the division of the land. This was done according to plans previously made, each tribe sending a representative to receive the outline of the territory it was to possess. Judah was represented by Caleb, and the boundaries of the territory were given to him. Judah was to have a large section, bounded on the north by Dan and Benjamin, on the east by the Dead Sea, on the north by Simeon and on the west by the land of the Philistines. But Caleb had a special request for himself, and prefaced his request by reviewing his own past.

Forty five years before Moses had promised him a certain territory. This was a reward for his faithfulness as a spy and for his loyal support of the cause of Jehovah, advocating before Israel that dependence on Jehovah would give them victory over the inhabitants of Canaan. His pleas were at aside, but his principles were sound and were recognized by Moses. God had spared his life for forty five years more and at the age of eighty five he felt as able to lead a campaign against an enemy as at any time in his life. His years had not taken anything from his faith and his zeal.

Something about difficult tasks appealed to Caleb. He recalled what, as a spy, he had seen in one part of the land. It was a place of mountains, with fortified cities occupied by men of such gigantic stature that ordinary men felt like grasshoppers in their presence. These giants were still there, and their strongholds had not been overthrown.

While Canaan was so nearly conquered that it was safe for Joshua to claim possession of the whole territory, there was this difficult task to be undertaken by some one. These menacing giants must be routed from their cities. They lived in the division of the land assigned to Judah and it would certainly fall to that tribe to deal with them. If they proved a danger to any of Israel it would to Judah. Who in Judah understood the difficulties in the way of their capture as well as did Caleb? He understood all the hardships in the way and knew that it might cost years of struggle to rid the land of these enemies, yet he asked for the hard place. He felt equal to it because he had faith that God would give him the victory.

How we admire this aged man for his stalwart trust in God and for his readiness to undertake the most dangerous work yet to be done. But it is men of Caleb's kind who have made the life of others easier and safer. Somebody always has to take the hardest work. Somebody must brave the worst dangers. It is the hero who puts aside selfish interests and throws himself into threatening places.

The hill country for which Caleb made request was Hebron. It was a natural stronghold in the mountains and had been counted on as impregnable. But since Caleb made his request on the promise Moses gave him so many years before, Joshua assigned Hebron to Caleb. He was successful in his campaigns and overpowered the men of Hebron and made their country his possession. God helped him as Caleb expected he would.

His success was due first of all to his willingness to undertake the hard task in God's name, and next to the fact that he deserved to be helped by God. These two things always go together in God's work. We must be ready for work, and we must be fit to have God's help in the work. There are calls enough right now to challenge the most heroic young men and women of any land. God is in need of consecrated and trustworthy people to go forth in His name to fight valiantly, at times in the hardest places.

It is not often that one asks to be permitted to do a hard thing. But sometimes it happens. Every day we hear of men making requests for easy berths. They want jobs that call for linen collars and gloved hands. Caleb was one of the founders of the school of hard work. He asked to be permitted to conquer that section of the country which had the largest and most warlike men and the greatest and most strongly fortified cities in it. No one rose up to oppose him. He went forth and in the name of God took the land.

Farm Bureau Discusses National Mobilization

A discussion on agriculture's role in national mobilization highlighted a regular meeting of the North Holland Farm Bureau Thursday night in Bosch's restaurant in Zeeland.

Discussion ranged from the lack of national spirit, inflation, manpower, and farm boys on the farm. The group felt it was fully as important to keep farm youth on the farm to maintain production as it is to keep college youths in college.

It was pointed out that the steel shortage is affecting farm equipment and that in the first quarter of 1951 the machine industry received only 10 per cent of the promised allotment of the year. The American Farm Bureau is holding a hearing before the House Agricultural committee in Washington and is urging local groups and others interested in keeping farms in production to write their congressmen.

The following resolution was adopted: "We the North Holland Farm Bureau believe that basically the trouble is that we do not reckon with God and that any attempt to solve our problems without considering God is doomed to failure. We do hereby consider our Christian duty to witness to the fact."

New members in the group are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Sluiter and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Schut.

Library Adventures

By Arnold Mubler

To be popular it is not necessary for a book to be new. In fact a book that is too original often has a hard time. Masses of readers like what is already familiar to them.

A book that is just now getting quite a play in the reviews is "Florence Nightingale," by Cecil Woodham-Smith. It is the June selection of the Literary Guild, and it has been getting a great deal of space in the book columns.

What astonished me most is that nearly all those reviewers discussed "Florence Nightingale" as if it presented a new portrait of the famous "Lady with a Lamp." The book is good enough, and it is well enough written. Moreover, the subject matter is interesting and important enough so that the reading public will not be wasting time reading it. But as for originality, that is quite another matter.

So long ago as 1918, the late Lytton Strachey, the British writer who is usually regarded as the father of what has long been called the New Biography, following the same pattern, as the first of his group of four biographies collected together in a volume called "Eminent Victorians." That Strachey book attracted considerable attention, but it was not until Strachey's next biography, "Queen Victoria," that he really became famous. Cecil Woodham-Smith has merely accepted the Strachey pattern and has written the life of Florence Nightingale for this generation that Strachey wrote for the generation of the first World War.

Before Strachey, Florence Nightingale was a legend, and the legend was so far removed from the facts that it was almost grotesque. The title "Lady with a Lamp" widely applied to her throughout the world, wraps the legend up in a phrase. She was held to have been the incarnation of feminine compassion for the sick and suffering soldiers of the Crimean war, a woman who spent herself day and night passing among the endless rows of the wounded and the dying, comforting them, administering medicines with her own hand, speaking pious words of cheer.

Lytton Strachey was the first biographer of the great English woman to paint a quite different picture. He was as great an admirer as any of the woman who is universally regarded as the founder of modern nursing, but he admired her because she possessed the qualities that were absolutely necessary for such an enterprise—as an iron will, a tough-minded determination, an executive ability that was more than a match for the British military hierarchy that was trying to oppose her at every turn. In short, instead of being the "Lady with a Lamp" of popular imagination, she was a female Napoleon of public health who rode roughshod over her enemies, and those enemies included some of the highest placed generals and admirals of Queen Victoria's military establishment.

According to Strachey, Florence Nightingale was a woman who could and did outwit the toughest and the most powerful, and she did it by methods that were more hard-boiled than those that her foes would have dared to use. In one part of his biography Strachey calls her, half-admiringly, a "female hell-cat," but he adds that nothing short of a hell-cat could have done the highly necessary job that Florence Nightingale had to do.

The new biography of this strangely misrepresented woman follows the Strachey line—for one reason because it is based on primary sources and couldn't very well follow any other line. But millions of people still believe in the "Lady with a Lamp." The legend is so much more beautifully sentimental than the facts.

Ken Mast Hurls Two-Hit Game To Stifle Foe

Holland Christian's baseball squad got its season off to a good start Monday afternoon at Zeeland by blanking the Chix in a well played ball game. The game had originally been scheduled for last week but rain forced a postponement.

Some effective pitching by fast-baller Ken Mast, and timely hitting by his teammates paved the way for the Maroon victory. Mast was seldom in trouble as he permitted two singles and struck out 12 batters while walking five. Glen Schrotenboer also turned in a creditable pitching performance for the Zeelanders, allowing seven hits while fanning six and not walking a batter. He hit two batters with pitched balls.

Coach John Ham's aggregation lost little time in getting started as Ralph Bouwman, Maroon shortstop, hit the first pitch for a long triple into right center. Then after the next two batters were retired, Tony Diekema, doubled Bouwman home. Two more singles by Ed Van Timmeren and Ron Nykamp accounted for the second Holland tally.

The Hollanders threatened again in the third inning, loading the sacks with no outs. However, a neat bit of pitching and fine fielding support prevented any runners from hitting pay dirt.

Two errors, and a single by Bouwman sent Ken Mast home with the final tally in the fourth frame. From this point on, Schrotenboer kept the locals well shackled.

Meanwhile, Mast was avoiding serious difficulty. Although the Zeelanders managed to get two runners on in several innings, the Maroon hurler always managed to pitch his way out of trouble. Ray Wager and rightfielder Van Omen got the only two Zeeland safeties.

Christian played without the services of Wilbert Venema, hitting outfielder, who suffered a ruptured finger in practice Friday. He will also miss the Grand Rapids Christian game at Riverview Park Wednesday, Ham said.

'Ambassador' Plan Started in City

An informal luncheon meeting of Holland citizens Monday kicked off plans for sending a "community ambassador" from Holland to Europe this summer.

The plan calls for sending some member of the community, between the ages of 18 and 30 to spend the summer in qualified European homes and upon return to the city at the end of the summer, to report to the community. This would be done through films and lectures, part of the experiment's plan.

Planning at present calls for Holland civic groups to underwrite the expense of the trip, estimated at about $750. Dr. Ella Hawkinson of the Hope college faculty said.

Dr. Hawkinson said the plan is an extension of the non-profit Experiment in International Living, Inc., which for several years has sent Americans abroad in an attempt to draw the two hemispheres closer together through education.

The Experiment, Dr. Hawkinson said, sets up the summer program for whomever the Holland civic group decides to send.

A meeting of representatives of the civic groups has been planned for May 1, at which time further information concerning the plan will be presented.

Man Convicted of Hitting Uncle With Pitchfork

Grand Haven (Special) — After an hour's deliberation, a circuit court jury found Martin Egan, Jr., 23, route 1 Cooper'sville, guilty of a charge of felonious assault. The case went to the jury about 5 p.m. Friday.

Egan, Jr., is alleged to have struck his uncle, Dr. Joseph Egan, Grand Rapids chiropractor, over the head with a pitchfork when the doctor and his housekeeper, Mrs. Clare Spykerman, came to the Egan, Sr., home to bring some groceries. The younger Egan resented his uncle's presence and a scuffle ensued. Egan, Jr., and his wife had been living with his father, Martin Egan, Sr.

The respondent will return April 26 for disposition of his case.

Muskegon Thinclads Edge Holland; Shot Record Set

Van Dyke Posts School Record In Shot Put

Frank Van Dyke set a new shot put record for Holland high school in the opening conference track meet against Muskegon Tuesday afternoon, but a thorn in the side of the Holland team named Harold Scarff captured the meet for the Big Reds. Score was 58-51 for Muskegon.

Scarff decided the meet with his final broad jump—the final event of the afternoon, incidentally—jumping 18 feet 2 1/2 inches to win the event and the meet for Muskegon. Earlier, Scarff had won the 180 foot hurdles and placed third in the high hurdles to take individual honors for Muskegon.

But Van Dyke's record-setting shot put of 45' 7" was the individual best of the afternoon. He cracked by 5 inches the old record, set by Rudy Bilek in 1946, Coach Austin Buchanan said.

Holland went into the match without the aid of two of its top point-getters, Tom Carey, who was not at the meet, and Chuck Carpenter, who injured his knee in the Zeeland meet two weeks ago and has since aggravated the injury.

Other honors went to Bob Armstrong, who captured the high hurdles in 16.9 seconds and later helped Holland to a win in the high jump. Three Holland jumpers tied for top honors in the high jump, the bar going only to 5' 4". Tying Armstrong were Van Dyke and Paul Hulst.

Ron Den Uyl also did a nice 880 for Holland, winning in 2:14 to beat out two Muskegon runners. Other firsts for the Dutch went to Rob Kamphuis in the 220 and to Bob Walker and Orrin Hall, who tied in taking the 440.

Summaries:
High hurdles — Armstrong, H.; Murdough and Scarff, M. 16.9 seconds.
Medley relay — Muskegon 2:53 minutes.

100-yard dash—Spurgot, M.; Kamphuis, H.; Dumas, M. 11.3 seconds.
100-yard dash—Bathrick, M.; Schefer, M.; Smith, M. 5:04.5 minutes.

440-yard dash—Walker, H.; and Hall, H.; tied for first; Segelstrom, M. 57.9 seconds.
Low hurdles—Scarff, M.; Wiegand, H.; Murdough, M. 23.6 seconds.

220-yard dash—Kamphuis, H.; Dumas, M.; Spurgot, M. 24.7 seconds.
880-yard run—Den Uyl, H.; Hein, M.; Lurden, M. 2:14 minutes.
880 relay — Muskegon 1:45.5 minutes.

Pole vault — Kruger, M.; Van Dyke, H.; Eckert, M. 9' 6".
Shot put—Van Dyke, H.; Manchester, M.; Armstrong, H. 45' 7".
High jump — Armstrong, H.; Van Dyke, H.; and Hulst, H. three-way tie 5' 4".

Broad jump—Scarff, M.; Doolittle, H.; Armstrong, H. 18' 2 1/2".

Hope Thinclads Figure In Triangular Meet

The Hope college track team travels to Holland today for a triangular meet against Albion college and Jackson Junior college.

The Dutch defeated Grand Rapids Junior college in the opening meet of the year Saturday, 82-49, but Hope Coach Russ DeVette was expecting more trouble in the meet today than JC afforded Saturday.

Albion has several individual stars and is rated high in the MIAA, and although the meet is a non-conference affair, indications will be seen today of how the MIAA meets later in the season will go.

Four Persons Injured In Mishap at Crockery

Grand Haven (Special)—Four persons were injured and taken to Municipal hospital following an accident at 1:10 a.m. Sunday on US-16 near Crockery flats in Crockery township.

Benjamin R. Chrzan was charged with failure to yield the right of way after the car he was driving left the road and then shot across the highway into the path of a car driven by George Ripka, 27, route 2, Nunica. The Ripka car was struck on the side and front and the Chrzan car continued on into the ditch, where it rolled over and was submerged in three feet of water. The driver's wife, 33 years old, was thrown through the windshield and into the water.

Both drivers and their wives were taken to the hospital. Ripka sustained a concussion and bruises; his wife, Alice, 21, face, chin lacerations and left knee injury. Mrs. Chrzan body and pelvic injuries and Chrzan face, leg and body bruises.

The accident was investigated by officers of the sheriff's department assisted by state police.

Insurance Coverage Usually Found Low

Warren Vincent, Michigan State college agricultural economist, has found "under-insured" building a common condition in Michigan. He warns that unless insurance policies are adjusted in line with rising replacement costs, the farmer stands to lose as his actual protection becomes less and less.

Fire insurance is only one type of protection needed by the farmer who wants to make the best use of his operating capital. The increased investments in real estate, livestock, and machinery required in modern farming makes fire, lightning and wind insurance practically essential on all farms.

Vincent says that an attempt to insure against every risk is usually prohibitive and probably unnecessary. Farmers should, however, become acquainted with the provisions and costs of fire, lightning, wind, health, accident, liability, life and vehicle insurance. A little study now may avoid learning the hard way.

Smallmouth bass fishing at Beaver Island in July is about the best to be found anywhere in midwestern United States.

The human body contains enough phosphorus to make about 2,200 matches.

Forecasts Good Prices for Most Field Crops

C. E. Prentice, Michigan State college agricultural economist, says that with good management, maximum production of all crops except potatoes will be the goal this season. Prices will bump the parity ceiling for all storable commodities grown in Michigan. The seasonal price decrease at harvest time is expected to be less than normal.

Even with large carryovers of feed grains, grain prices will rise as corn advances to the parity level. Increased livestock numbers and higher livestock prices are adding to the demand for grain and concentrates, Prentice points out.

The price of soybean oil, boosted by military demands, has already reached the current legal maximum even though the 1950 crop was the largest in history.

Large government holdings of dry edible beans have tended to hold prices down. But excessive stock of Michigan beans of marketable quality are expected to disappear by 1951 crop harvest time. The crop support price will be 75 per cent of parity, but a price nearer 90 per cent of parity is expected in Michigan.

No support for potatoes is indicated, and acreage should be reduced. A 15 per cent cut has been requested in the U. S., 13 per cent for Michigan. Higher prices can be expected for the 1951 crop if these recommendations are followed, Prentice said.

Zeeland Appoints New Policeman

Zeeland (Special)—Jim Flint, present deputy sheriff for Ottawa county, has been given the position of full-time police officer on the Zeeland police force.

Flint's appointment by the city council brings to three the number of officers in the department and ends the first phase of the reorganization plan set up by the council some time ago.

Three policemen now split the day into three shifts so that one patrolman is on duty at all times. Another phase of the police work is the proposed installation of two-way radio in the Zeeland police car. The radio is expected to be installed sometime early next month.

Flint will assume his duties April 28.

Traffic Control Group Ready for Tulip Time

When it's Tulip Time, it's time to try to keep that traffic moving. And that's the main job of the Holland police department during the coming festival May 16 through 19.

But Holland police receive plenty of help from the state police and Ottawa county sheriff's department. For the fourth consecutive year, about 28 state troopers will come to Holland during the festival to assist in directing traffic. Sheriff's officers take charge of traffic outside the city and at the tulip farms north of Holland where thousands converge to walk among the colorful beds.

Sgt. Ernest Bear of the Holland police department is traffic chairman for the third consecutive year. He is assisted by Sgt. Isaac De Kraker, Sgt. Ralph Woldring and Gilbert Tors who have such specific assignments as parades, escorts and directing chartered buses to parking areas.

Lt. Verne C. Dagen of the Rockford post will brief state troopers in their Tulip Time duties. These troopers are usually new to the Michigan State police, and state leaders consider Tulip Time a fine proving ground for giving new troopers a taste of real traffic. Every officer becomes an information bureau for Tulip Time too.

Officers are justly proud of their Tulip Time safety records which list few accidents of a serious nature.

A week after the festival last year, the traffic committee met to discuss certain aspects of the 1950 festival and make recommendations for the coming festival.

No one doubts the influx of a half million visitors into a small city presents quite a problem. But pleasant memories are always mixed with the headaches, and soon the nightmarish memories of never-ending lines of cars and traffic snarls grow dim.

Headache or not, officers take a philosophical view of Tulip Time and remember that true Dutch hospitality is the aim of the work.

Non-Fat, Dry Milk Boosts Protein Content of Meals

Method Inexpensive Makes One Pound Because Five Quarts

Use of non-fat dry milk solids is an inexpensive way to increase the protein content of your family's meals, says Mrs. Grace Vander Kolk, county home demonstration agent.

Such solids are equal in food value to fresh skim milk, since they are made by removing the fat and the water from the milk, she points out. One pound of milk solids will make between four and five quarts of fluid skim milk when mixed with water in correct proportions. One-fourth cup of milk solids added to one cup of water makes one cup of skim milk.

Word that the agent has received from Pauline Paul of the Michigan State college school of home economics states that milk solids are very easy to use in the dry form. When making cookies, cakes, muffin and other such products, simply sift the milk solids with the other dry ingredients and use water for the liquid.

Non-fat dry milk solids are not difficult to keep at home. However, they should be protected from moisture or they will become lumpy. If the solids are purchased in small units so that you use up the contents in a month or so, the package can be kept on the cupboard shelf. Larger quantities should be kept in a tightly-closed container—a tin canister with a tight lid or glass jar with lid screwed down tightly.

In hot, humid weather, it is advisable to keep any opened package of milk solids in a cool place, preferably in the refrigerator.

Sunday Hunting Proposal Killed

The controversial Sunday hunting ban proposition has been killed in the house conservation committee, it was reported today at Lansing.

The proposed legislation if okayed by a public vote would have made it illegal to hunt on Sunday in Ottawa county and four other Michigan counties.

Rep. Emil R. Peltz, Rogers City Republican and committee chairman said that the majority of people were against the Sunday hunting bans, according to hearings held on the bills.

The propositions sought public referendums on Sunday hunting in Ottawa, Jackson, Ingham, Eaton and Clinton counties.

On Jan. 10, the county Board of Supervisors adopted a resolution to submit a bill banning Sunday hunting in the county to the legislature. The resolution followed requests from the Ottawa County Farm union, the Tri-Cities Ministerial association, and the Ottawa County Christian league.

A similar proposal was introduced to the board 10 years earlier—in 1941—but was tabled at that time.

Allegan City Council Has Budget Trouble

Allegan (Special) — Allegan's city council, as are most of these days, is having budget trouble.

Because they do not want to raise the local tax bill above last year's figure, councilmen are trying to pare $29,248 from the tentative $98,256 budget.

Safecracker Sent To Circuit Court For Fennville Job

Allegan (Special) — Millard Perry, 35-year-old confessed safecracker from Holland, was bound over to Circuit Court when arraigned in Allegan Tuesday for his part in the December robbery of the Var Hartsvelde supermarket in Fennville.

Meanwhile, Detective Warren Cannon of the Niles State police, who is in charge of the Michigan section of the three-man crime ring that operated in three states, returned to Michigan City, Ind., Wednesday to question the other two men involved—Joseph Newell, 32, of La Porte, Ind., and Ellsworth Ferguson, 31, of Libertyville, Ill.

Perry, who said he was anxious "to get it over with," waived examination at his arraignment late Tuesday. He was charged specifically with breaking and entering the Fennville store in the nighttime, although he admitted taking part in more than 20 robberies during the past year.

Investigating officers could not determine the total amount of money gained by the trio from the 22 robberies, but they indicated it probably would exceed $15,000.

Newell and Ferguson are being held in Michigan City in connection with an $8,500 safe burglary there. During the questioning, they implicated Perry who was picked up in Holland Monday morning and outlined activities of the three-man crime ring to officers Monday.

Detective Cannon could not be reached here for information on how the Indiana questioning was progressing. He spent all day Tuesday at Michigan City and returned there Wednesday.

Officers indicated that Newell and Ferguson might be returned to face charges in Allegan county. Perry told police that stops on the crime itinerary included a Hopkins tavern, the Hamilton Produce company, two Moline establishments and the Fennville supermarket—all in Allegan county.

Allegan Alarmed Over Fatalities Of Past Month

Sheriff Suggests Rural Patrolling of Highways To Prevent Violations

Allegan (Special)—Alarmed at six traffic fatalities in Allegan county in the last month, two county officers made moves Wednesday toward preventing more auto mishaps.

Rural highway patrolling was the suggestion of Sheriff Louis Johnson to the county Board of Supervisors.

Prosecutor Dwight M. Cheever promised immediate investigation and prosecution of all fatal accidents in which there is evidence of negligence.

"If drivers knew the county's rural roads were being patrolled by uniformed officers, the tendency would be toward fewer traffic violations and fewer deaths," the sheriff said. He added that five of the six deaths were caused by law-breaking driving.

He asked an appropriation for mileage to keep officers on the road "at least from April 1 to Oct. 1" in an effort to prevent future tragedies. He said the work could be handled by officers now employed by the department.

Cheever pointed out that two drivers are now awaiting trial on negligent homicide in connection with the county's latest fatal accident.

"We hope fear of the law if common sense fails, will make some of these drivers think twice before committing traffic violations," he said.

Ottawa Beach To Close Early

Holland State park at Ottawa Beach will be closed each night at 7 p. m. because of persons throwing beer bottles on the pavement, park Manager Clarence Broad reported today.

The closing hour will be effective until the official opening of the park on Memorial Day, Broad added.

"I was holding off on the closing idea in hope that people would stop breaking beer bottles on the pavement," Broad said.

A chain barrier will be placed at the park entrance each night. On the brighter side, Broad said that all roads are clear now. A total of 5,000 persons visited the park on Sunday, he said.

Holland Youth Adopts Six Baby Squirrels

It's just like having sextuplets these days in the Fuller home at 234 East Ninth St. The Fullers are caring for six baby squirrels.

The blessed event took place about six weeks ago in a hollow tree near the Fuller home. However, soon after the births, the mother squirrel was killed by a car while darting across Ninth St.

So little Larry Dean Fuller adopted the babies. Since then it's been feeding the younguns by eye-dropper at 6 and 10 a. m., 1, 3:30, 6 and 10 p. m.

They're just like taking care of children, Mrs. Fuller says. The squirrels seem to enjoy their domesticated life too. They sit on Larry's head and shoulders and in general—just play around most of the time.

And the Fuller's pet dog doesn't seem to mind the intrusion—but enjoys it. He good-naturedly washes the young squirrels' faces at various times with a few licks and lets them ride piggy-back around the house.

The babies eat regular baby food plus apples, rusks and hard bread.

Conservation officers have given permission to keep the squirrels until they are old enough to feed themselves, Mrs. Fuller says.

Chun Has Family With Him in Pusan

Young Chang Chun, the Korean theologian who returned home two months ago after completing his training at Western Theological seminary here, now has his family with him in Pusan, according to word received by friends here. They are living in two rooms there.

In a letter dated April 12, he wrote he had just heard that General MacArthur "was obliged to resign as the commander of the Far East."

"Personally, I am very sorry about his leaving as the supreme commander of Far East. The reason was not fully given in the Korean paper and I am trying to get 'Stars and Stripes' to find full information concerning it. I hope this will not mean reverse in the Korean war because of this unhappy thing."

"We are having fairly good weather enjoying our lovely spring. The flower of pitch and the cherry blossoms are in full bloom. The boys and girls are in the fields to get grass which they will cook instead of rice."

He added the seminary and Bible institute will open May 1. He expects enrollment will be heavier because the war is causing many young men and women to enter the ministry in the belief that nothing but the gospel of salvation is enduring.

2. Entries must carry only the name of the sponsoring firms in letters not to exceed 10 inches in height. The sponsoring firms may not display their products unless the product conforms with rule No. 1.

Dr. Ella Hawkinson Gives Current Events Program

At a regular meeting of Holland branch, American Association of University Women, Thursday evening in Durfee hall, Dr. Ella Hawkinson addressed the group and later led an informal discussion on current events of the week. Dr. Hawkinson is head of the Hope college history department.

During her address and discussion, Dr. Hawkinson presented on a non-partisan basis many interesting and enlightening remarks on the MacArthur situation and the tragic loss of Sen. Vandenberg.

Both of these men having had such an important part in the conduct of American policy, she made much of how the change now created will involve military and diplomatic plans throughout the world. She brought out that it seems too bad that the high light of bitterness should reach a peak at the time of the death of Sen. Vandenberg, who personified the bi-partisan policy. His death leaves the country greatly in need of a man of his caliber to carry on this important work.

She closed her discussion with three questions and asked her audience to watch each of the three things: Is war inevitable? What will happen to the Japanese peace treaty? What will happen to Formosa?

Miss Laura Boyd, AAUW president, conducted a business meeting. Three officers were unanimously elected for two-year terms. Mrs. Henry Steffens was named president, Mrs. Preston Luidens, secretary and Miss Lavina Cappon, scholarship board member.

It was announced that the AAUW again will carry out a Tulip Time luncheon project, the proceeds to be used for the scholarship fund.

Mrs. Dwight Yntema and her committee served refreshments from an attractive table decorated in the spring motif.

The dune-buried historic village on Allegan county's shore of Lake Michigan, appears to be slowly emerging, according to recent visitors to the scene.

Allegan high school seniors, engaged in their annual spring camp, found old saw dust piles, tan bark, and other evidence of the town's thriving days.

"The saw dust piles from the old saw mills that made the town prosperous have been so compressed by the dune, the residue looks like peat moss now," he said.
