Rural Teacher Given Probation In Morals Case

Several Others Appear
For Sentence Today
Before Judge Smith

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — Mrs. Rosella S. Gifford, 29-year-old mother of four children and teacher in a rural school who pleaded guilty April 5 to a charge of gross indecency, was placed on probation for two years Tuesday when she appeared before Circuit Judge Raymond L. Smith for disposition.

Conditions of her probation are that she pay $100 costs, $5 a month oversight fees obey all laws and refrain from the use of intoxicating liquor. She may not leave the state unless she receives permission of the court.

Mrs. Gifford was arrested by sheriff's officers March 19 on a charge of allowing an unlicensed person to drive her car. Further investigation led to the gross indecency charge involving a 15-year-old boy in her classes. She has since been replaced as teacher of the West Olive school.

Mrs. Gifford was accompanied by her husband, Cecil, but he was not in the court room when her case was disposed of. She wore casual clothes including anklets, saddle shoes and dangling earrings.

Judge Smith said, "We believe there has been sufficient punishment in this case because of the wide publicity you have had. This is something you will have to live down, Mrs. Gifford, and because we believe you can do this, we can conclude that no such offense is likely to occur in the future. Therefore, we are giving you the chance of being placed on probation."

In other cases, George Van Til, 34, of 35 South River Ave., Holland, was sentenced to serve 18 months to 15 years at Southern Michigan prison on a rape charge. Judge Smith recommended the minimum. Van Til was found guilty by a Circuit Court Jury. The alleged offense involved a 13-year-old girl.

Earl Cranmer, 20, of 140 Coolidge Ave., Holland, pleaded guilty to a charge of nighttime breaking and entering and was released on his recognizance to return June 13 at 10 a.m. for disposition. Cranmer, who allegedly broke into Timmer and Karsten Block Co., is currently on probation for a similar offense.

Nathan M. Matheny, 22, Grand Rapids, who pleaded guilty April 13 to a charge of fraud, was placed on probation two years and must make restitution of $1,253 at the rate of $100 a month, pay costs of $100 at the rate of $25 a month, and pay $5 a month oversight fees. The alleged offense was committed last July 24 and involved a motor vehicle transaction with Steven Zimonich.

Carl Silvernail, who pleaded guilty April 13 to a non-support charge, was placed on probation three years, must pay $30 a week support for his family which includes $25 a week alimony he was ordered to pay previously. He is in arrears of $400 which he must make up at the rate of $5 a week, plus $5 a month oversight fees.

Lewis Vice, 41, of 863 West 25th St., Holland, who was found guilty of a non-support charge involving his 10-year-old daughter, was placed on probation two years and ordered to pay $20 a week for the support of his family, plus $19.17 a month on his house until it's paid. He also must pay $120 costs at the rate of $5 a month. He must leave intoxicants alone and must stay out of taverns.

Japanese Educator Has Pleasant Two-Day Visit

Dr. Bunshichi Ohata, president of Shiga University in Japan, concluded a pleasant two-day visit to Hope College and Holland Wednesday as part of a three-month tour of educational institutions in the United States.

From Holland he will go to Boston by way of Niagara Falls and will visit Harvard University and other institutions before leaving to spend a month in Europe.

The Japanese educator's visit in Holland was kept on an informal basis, partly because although he understands English well he speaks with some hesitation. Consequently, he spent most of the time visiting the various departments on the campus and met several foreign students. In meeting students from the Orient, there was a tendency to lapse into foreign languages.

Dr. Ohata also toured the city and saw some of the early tulips in bloom. Yes, he had heard of Tulip Time before coming to Holland.

In the evening, he met with a small group of representative citizens and college faculty for an informal visit. Although he is a top economist in Japan as well as a leading educator, it was clear that Dr. Ohata preferred to talk about American methods in education, not to make profound statements on the political front.

One of the things that interested (and puzzled) him most was how do private colleges such as Hope College manage its finance program without aid from taxation. Since this question always puzzles foreign visitors and is often asked, Dr. Ohata received a variety of answers, all of them somewhat seasoned by the sad truth that it's tough going for small colleges.

There was some explanation on the Michigan Colleges Foundation, special gifts, tuition, etc., but this American concept is hard for a foreigner to understand fully. In Japan, all colleges and universities are government supported. What tuition is charged is low.

Dr. Ohata also was given an insight into operations of a small city. At a dinner meeting, he was briefed on operations of City Council, the planning commission, courts, hospital, Chamber of Commerce, and other functions.

Dr. Ohata's main purpose in visiting America is to observe all aspects of college and university administration, and to learn more about all levels of education, as well as American political and economic life.

One reason Dr. Ohata was anxious to visit Hope College was because one of his professors in Japan is a close friend of Dr. Paul Fried, a native of Leipzig, Germany, who is now teaching at Hope.

"Yes, I know a lot about Hope College, and I feel I know you too," was Dr. Ohata's greeting to Dr. Fried.

Police Dog Keeps Officers at Bay For Brief Period

Parts of Wreckage
Scattered; Semi Driver Tells Story

A Shelby man died in Holland Hospital Friday night from injuries received when his car and a semi truck-trailer collided on US-31 one mile south of West Olive.

William George Wolf, 31, Shelby, died shortly after 10:30 p.m. from a crushed chest and internal injuries. The truck driver, William Kok, 33, Grand Rapids, was not injured.

As Ottawa County deputies attempted to remove the still conscious Wolf from his car they were temporarily held off by a German shepherd police dog, owned by Wolf.

Deputies managed to collar the dog and carry Wolf to a stretcher. He was immediately placed in an ambulance and rushed to Holland Hospital.

The terrific impact of the crash sent the hood and left fender of the car sailing 100 feet down the highway. Other pieces of the demolished 1955 model car were scattered for hundreds of feet around the scene.

Kok told deputies he swerved his fully loaded truck to the shoulder of the road when he saw the car angle toward him. The car struck the tractor cab near the gasoline tanks.

Kok was hauling 27,000 pounds of frozen eggs to Fremont. The tractor received minor damage but the refrigeration unit was not damaged. Another tractor was called to pick up the trailer.

Before the wreckage could be cleared off the highway deputies were forced to divert north and southbound traffic down US-31 Ave., which runs parallel to US-36 at that point.

The dog, which was slightly injured, was treated and taken to the Holland dog pound.

Crampton Co. Acquires Firm On North Side

Conrad, Inc., Will Be Operated as Subsidiary;
Expansion Is Planned

The Crampton Manufacturing Co., which operates the Crampton Manufacturing Co. in Holland and the Grand Rapids Brass Co. in Grand Rapids, today announced the acquisition of the entire outstanding capital stock of Conrad, Inc., of Holland, manufacturers of low temperature testing equipment.

Conrad, Inc., was incorporated in July, 1953, as an outgrowth of a business established several years ago. It occupied a plant on the north side at 141 Jefferson which was built in 1953. The Crampton Co. plans to expand operations there, increasing the floor space some 60 percent.

Testing equipment made by Conrad, Inc., includes both standard and custom built units ranging in size from chests of about two cubic feet capacity to large walk-in rooms. The units embody controls for temperature, atmospheric pressure and humidity, with a temperature range from plus 500 degrees Fahrenheit to -150 degrees Fahrenheit.

The equipment has a broad application in industry, including size control of parts and gages, longer life for tools and dies, quality control and testing of wire, rubber processing and testing, biological testing, pharmaceutical production and testing, precision assembly of metals parts, Army, Navy and Air Force tests, and testing of aircraft controls and guided missile components at all temperatures.

Conrad, Inc., acquired through an exchange of stock, will be operated as a wholly-owned subsidiary of Crampton. The Conrad firm is supplementing its management with additional personnel and increasing its plant facilities. As a Crampton subsidiary, Conrad's sales volume is expected to increase during the next few years and will provide a new and diversified source of earnings for the parent company.

Officers of Conrad, Inc., are Charles F. Conrad, president; Lester Wilson, vice president and general manager; Arthur Mitchell, secretary-treasurer. H.E. Pleasant and B.A. Britton are also on the board of directors.

Herman E. Pleasant, president of Grand Rapids Brass, also announced that as operations begin in the Grand Rapids Brass Division new plant in Grand Rapids, the company's current civilian output is at an all-time high.

Work is progressing on construction of two other plant buildings and an office building to be located on the Grand Rapids site and is scheduled for completion in July.

New York Jury Awards $122,000 In Fatal Crash

Six-Day Trial Held In Case in Which Two Hope Students Killed

A New York Supreme Court jury has awarded judgments of $122,000 in the case of a car-truck crash near Canandaigua, N.Y., Sept. 12, 1952, in which two Hope College students were killed and three others injured. The judgments were announced Tuesday night in Schenectady, N.Y., after a six-day trial.

Six men and six women found a Buffalo trucking company and its driver negligent in the case. They deliberated four hours and two minutes.

The jury awarded:

1—$48,500 to Miss Ethel Smith of Schenectady, injured in the crash.

2—$42,000 to Miss Lucille A. Tyse of Walkill, N.Y., also injured.

3—$10,000 to the estate of David Hall de Forest, then 19, Duaneburg, N.Y., driver of the students' car, who was killed.

4—$10,000 to the estate of Karol Ann Fairchild, then 20, of Schenectady, also killed in the collision.

5—$7,500 to Ronald G. Powles, Schenectady, also injured.

6—$4,000 for medical expenses for the Rev. John Tyse, father of Miss Tyse.

No cause was found for a seventh suit brought by Ralph L. Roberts, driver of the truck, against George Powles of Schenectady, owner of the car in which the students were riding.

The de Forest estate had sought $50,000 for wrongful death and $25,000 for pain and suffering. The Fairchild estate sought $50,000 for wrongful death. Miss Smith sought $200,000, Miss Tyse $100,000; Ronald Powles $50,000; Rev. Tyse $4,000 for medical expenses; and Roberts, the truck driver, sought $20,000 from George Powles for injuries, for a total of $498,000.

Jurors agreed with attorneys for the plaintiffs that the 35-ton, steel-laden truck crossed the centerline on US-20 on a knoll east of Canandaigua and rammed the students into a field.

The awards to the de Forest and Fairchild estates also carry 6 percent interest from the date of their instant death in the collision.

Plaintiffs' attorneys brought out that a rip in the surface of the truck's side of the road, the only clear evidence to indicate the crash on that side, was caused by the dragging tie-rod of the truck steering mechanism. The attorney argued that the truck went off the road, snapped the tie-rod, then roared out of control across the highway into the sedan. He insisted the car could not have broken the rod, pointing out it was guarded by the truck axle and bumper.

Both Miss Smith and Miss Tyse were critically injured. Miss Smith was out of school a full year and Miss Tyse returned in February, 1953. Both have permanent injuries. Powles returned to school several weeks after the crash.

The accident occurred about 4:45 a.m. on a Friday morning just as Hope College was preparing to open the following week. The tragedy cast a pall of gloom on the campus, and a faculty party that night was cancelled.

Martinie-Vander Tuuk Rites Read

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Martinie

Miss Betty Jean Vander Tuuk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Vander Tuuk of 12 East 17th St., became the bride of Theodore Martinie last Thursday evening, April 21, in Central Avenue Christian Reformed Church. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Peter Martinie of route 2, Zeeland.

Bouquets of lilies against a background of palms and three seven-branch candelabra provided a lovely setting for the double ring rites, performed by Dr. Jacob Boonstra of Cascade, a cousin of the bride. The ceremony was decorated with tapestries in greens, with white satin bows. Music was provided by Miss Joan Bruizman, organist, and Raymond Ter Beek, who sang "O Promise Me," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length gown of nylon tulle and lace. Style features were the fitted lace bodice with long tapered sleeves and scooped neckline framing the sheer yoke.

The full skirt and train of tulle was accented by a wide lace inset giving a redingote effect. Her fingertip veil was secured by a small hat of lace and satin. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations tied with lace and streamers with tiny roses.

Mrs. Martinie attended the bride as matron of honor and Mrs. Jack Lamar and Miss Ruth Dykema were bridesmaids. Their gowns were styled after the bride's, with scalloped yokes and waistlines and bouffant skirts. They wore matching mitts and headpieces and carried cascade bouquets of carnations. The matron of honor wore a yellow ensemble and the bridesmaids, lavender and mint green, respectively.

Melvin Martinie assisted his brother as best man. Ushers were Leonard Lynema and Edward Slenk. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Martinie, brother and sister-in-law of the groom, served as master and mistress of ceremonies.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Vander Tuuk wore a navy dress with navy and white accessories and corsage of pink and white carnations. Mrs. Martinie wore a navy dress with navy and white accessories and had a white carnation corsage.

At the reception for 170 guests in the church parlors, Miss Verna Vanden Burg and Miss Carol Lambers served at the punch bowl and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Van Slooten arranged the gifts. Assisting about the rooms were Misses Janet Molter, Joyce De Young, Nonie Van Tatenhove, Thelma Beelen, Ruth Bareman, Joan Kragt and Suzanne Haverkamp.

The bride's table featured a five-tiered wedding cake surrounded by violets and greens. Yellow flowers, lavender stock and yellow tapers decorated the other tables. A program was given during the reception.

For their wedding trip to northern Michigan and Wisconsin, the bride changed to a mint green suit with cocoa brown accessories and carnation corsage. She wore a matching necklace and earrings, gift from the groom. They will be at home after May 1 at Paw Paw Dr.

Discussion of 'Finance' Highlights AAUW Meet

Frolics Delight First Nighters

Fraters frolicked through their 11th annual Frater Frolics Thursday night at the Woman's Literary Club Club to an enthusiastic mostly college audience.

Nine of the 10 acts on the program were in humorous vein and the 10th was in a serious mood. The acts were written by members of the Fraternal Society and featured an all-feminine cast with various musical groups adding to the flavor. The jazz combo and Glee Club spiced the acts.

Especially amusing was the "Roaring Twenties Caper" using the Charleston background and featuring Dave Kempers as the "Blind Date" showed a "typical" situation on campus. Dave Span as master of ceremonies deserves a bouquet for keeping the acts running smoothly. The writers let themselves go in "The Secret Life of Hubert Hepple or Let's Deplore Your Mind" and "The Shriek Rides Again."

Zeeland

The Rev. and Mrs. Harry Brower of Morrison, Ill., were recent visitors of their mother, Mrs. Alice Brower, Lincoln Avenue and their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. John Domene.

An opportunity will be given local area school children to receive sodium fluoride treatment of the teeth this summer, according to the Ottawa county health department. The treatment has proven beneficial in the prevention of cavities. This summer's program will be the second project for this area. A similar project was offered three years ago. According to the program, second, fifth and eighth grade children will have the opportunity of receiving the treatment once every three years so that all children in all the grades will be given the opportunity. The program will be operated here in June, July and August. Cost of the four required applications will be $3. Eligible pupils in the three grades have been issued letters of application and parents can sign these. The clinic will most likely be held in Lincoln elementary school as in the past.

Last week Saturday was a busy day for members of the Future Nurses' Club of Zeeland High School. They are planning a trip to Chicago to visit several schools of nursing and nurses residences. To help finance this trip they spent Saturday washing cars and trucks at different places and were successful in raising a tidy sum to help them in their plans.

Money was scarce in the early days of North Dakota and the territorial government offered a three-cent bounty on gophers.

Members of Holland Branch,

American Association of University Women, heard an informative panel discussion on "Finance" Thursday evening at Durfee Hall.

Mrs. Robert Wolbrink arranged the program which featured as speakers Don Thomas, who discussed banking, Lawrence Wade discussing real estate and investment and Robert Wolbrink discussing insurance.

Each gave only a capsule review of his subject, then discussed details with smaller groups during the social hour which followed.

Thomas pointed out drastic changes in banking since 1934, especially in the field of "consumer credit" or loans to individuals. He explained the differences between FHA, GI and conventional bank loans for new houses, and told of other types of loans available.

He observed that the U. S. government makes a strong effort to control the country's economy through banks, specifically through raising or lowering bank reserve requirements, or by setting up definite requirements for borrower's down payments.

Wolbrink, in his insurance discussion reviewed the three types of insurance—life, possession and liability. Liability insurance, he said, is the most important and the least expensive. It is important to be best insured for your "big risks," he said. Other advice included knowing your agent or agency, and becoming familiar with the amount and extent of coverage.

The differences between investments and speculation was clearly shown by Wade, who discussed advantages and disadvantages of various ways of investing money. He gave specific information on cost, interest and dividends on real estate, common and preferred stocks and bonds. His closing advice was "investigate before you invest and don't speculate unless you can afford to lose your money."

Highlighting the business meeting was election of officers including Mrs. Donald Brown, president, Miss Janina Holleman, secretary and Miss Adelaide Dykhuizen, scholarship committee.

Mrs. Orlie Bishop, president, conducted their eating and Mrs. Stanley Boven, membership chairman introduced several guests. Mr. Bryan Atkey was named to the scholarship committee to fulfill the unexpired term of a resigned member.

Mrs. Bishop and Mrs. Brown will be delegates to the state AAUW convention in Detroit next month. Mrs. Ted Boeve, legislative chairman, read an amendment to be voted on at the convention.

Mrs. Ed Damson and Mrs. Bob Van Ry were chairman of the social committee.

The branch will conclude its current season May 19 with its annual dinner meeting at Durfee Hall.

A SAUGATUCK BIRTHDAY

As a next-door neighbor, Holland will be interested in the celebration staged for the coming summer of Saugatuck's 125th anniversary. Holland will wish Saugatuck well in its proposed season-long festivities and will join in the hope that the future of that pleasant summer community will be as significant as the past.

As community age goes in America, 125 years is a very respectable life span. When the first settlers arrived at the mouth of the Kalamazoo river and took the first steps toward the building of what is now Saugatuck, Michigan was still largely virgin forest and swamp and prairie. So much has happened since then that it is hard for the average citizen to make that history seem real.

For one thing, beginning right here at home, the settlement of this area at the mouth of Black river and Macatawa Bay was still 17 years in the future; the first Van Raalte settlers did not come here until 1847; they were still children, at least many of them, playing behind the dykes of the North Sea.

When the first Saugatuck settlers arrived, there was only a thin strip of southern Michigan that contained any white men at all. The total white population in 1830 of the whole area between Lake Michigan and Lake Huron was only 31,639. Since most of those citizens were concentrated in areas like Detroit village and a few other points, the sparseness of the population in most of the area can be imagined.

Grand Haven and Grand Rapids were frontier hamlets, and they were almost the most northern semi-settled areas in the lower peninsula. Kalamazoo, in 1830, was composed of a single log cabin in an oak opening occupied by a hardy pioneer named Titus Bronson. Most of the other place-names on the two southern tiers of counties on the present map were hardly more than names.

Saugatuck's small beginnings were like the beginnings all along the line. Some of those pioneer efforts have developed into big cities. Saugatuck may not have grown big in industrial potential, but it has other things to celebrate. It has remained one of the more pleasant places in the state to live in, and it has made a reputation in other lines—as an art center, for instance—that has carried its name farther than the names of some community hives of industry.

Saugatuck has the right to look back over 125 years of living that is in keeping with the best that America can offer.

COME BACK, LITTLE WIFE

At just about the time when automation seems to have taken the place of the housewife, it gets so fancy the only solution seems to be to haul the weary little woman back into the kitchen.

The trouble is that all the mechanical wizardry of today's modern homes is not quite human enough for the task. A man, substituting for a few days on the distaff side, usually begins to think that washing machines hurl clothes into tangles, dryers dry them in wrinkles, dish washers won't scrub pots and garbage disposals sniff, gurgle and balk at corn-on-the-cob. The housewife's magic touch is required to make them behave.

Now the initial expense of each one of these items is a good deal more than the cost of a durable wife. Furthermore it takes much longer to decide which make of mechanical miracles is the best than it takes to decide which woman will do. And then installation of equipment is a lot of specialized fuss while installing a woman is a job for any handy man.

Whether a woman's place is in the kitchen or not makes no difference, it's just a heck of a lot less complicated. If the little lady complains she's got to have modern gadgets, buy her a can opener.

MINIATURE GIBRALTAR

How many can tell now where Pantelleria is? Yet in 1943, when the Allied advance was just getting under way, this Mediterranean island was much in the news, as President Eisenhower now recalls. Lying on the invasion route of Sicily and defended by a rocky coast, it was seized upon by the Axis as an ideal site for a miniature Gibraltar. So heavily fortified was it that its holders boasted that it was impregnable. They had reason. Too rocky for airborne troops, it was accessible only by one tiny harbor.

For a while, as the President said in his book, "Crusade in Europe," the Allied High Command debated whether to run the risk that failure to capture it would entail. Finally they made the attempt, and bombarded it for six days and nights. Ships and troops were then about to complete the capture when the garrison surrendered.

Forgotten today, 12 years ago the capture of Pantelleria ranked as a major triumph.

AFTER PLEASURE THE RECKONING

Senator Byrd is opposed to raising the debt limit above its permanent ceiling of $275 billion even though the treasury has testified that the ceiling will prevent the government from meeting its bills after July. Byrd's argument is that we must keep the lid on the spending spree. He makes no note of the fact that it is congress, not the president, that runs up the bills and, at the moment, is running them up all on its own.

Senator Byrd's prescription for enforcing thrift is very appealing; he fixes the responsibility for national extravagance on the bank which honors the checks. The only trouble with the prescriptions is that it doesn't work. It won't work again this year and congress, like the rest of us, will find after the pleasures of spending, the anguish of the reckoning.

Lesson

May 1, 1955
Jehoshaphat's Righteous Leadership
2 Chronicles 17:1-9; 19:4-6
By Henry Geerlings

Does it pay to obey? Answers gathered at random suggest a divided opinion. Reports in the papers indicate that not a few regard obedience to law less profitable than breaking the law. Gangsters are illustrations of expecting more gain from disobedience than obedience could give. But life is not thus measured by most people. The gain is not alone easy money. There is more to accumulate than coin. After all the richest life may be poor in real estate while the poorest life may roll in wealth. Obedience to God comes in as a wise course for a life that would truly profit, for when the rewards of God are received they pile up incalculable profits.

Do we want profit? Certainly we do. Everybody does. Then the law of gaining is kept by living up to the rules. This is the appointed road to profit, and detours are not allowed.

What happened to Aza? Was he profited by obeying God? The record is plain, that when he obeyed God all went well, but as soon as he neglected God's rules then conditions became bad, in fact very bad. His son, Jehoshaphat, took over the throne, bent on carrying out the best deeds of his father. He aimed at obeying all laws. To him the law of God must be the highest rule of his life and of the life of the people.

Though he started his reign under trying conditions, he so conducted himself that he was a good king. Probably he did not care for military affairs, yet to meet the needs that might arise he put Judah under arms. The bitter enemy of Israel against Judah had to be dealt with, and the defense methods had to be provided. At heart the king was a man of peace. He tried to walk in the ways of God.

We note several things to his credit—Caring for material, physical defense, so that Judah would be able to keep its place; reverting to David's way of ruling for this ideal; avoiding idolatry, no evidences of paganism tolerated; finding his stimulus in the best traits of his father; shunning in every way the godless example of Israel.

He was personally appreciated by his people. They knew him as a good king. Riches were accumulated by him as a normal result of gifts from his admiring people. Above all, his life was an exaltation of God. God had a chance in Judah under his reign.

The king had one supreme practical aim. That was the general welfare of the people. It may seem strange that a busy king should decide that religious education was the important thing for the people. To the king this was a means of national strength. It would be intelligent conforming to the laws of God if the people were educated in the word of God. So he planned a course to be followed. In it he prescribed what was to be taught, and who was to teach.

This was an orderly arrangement. It suggested some careful planning on the part of the king. No better service can a ruler render his people than to provide for their religious education. This school in Judea was under government supervision and expense. However, the government was largely a religious matter. The king was a servant of God. The call for such service is too insistent to be ignored. It must be heeded and answered.

There must be a well trained people in the word of God if the rules of God are to be lived by and His laws obeyed. The king's teachers found the people willing to be taught. We are finding the same true of our people today. There is an eagerness to know what the will of God is. We help serve people when we encourage the church and church schools in making religious education available and effective.

Judah's rise to power under Jehoshaphat was noted by neighboring nations. Wars were suppressed out of fear that the God of Judah would be too strong for any of the kingdoms of the land to hope to conquer Judah. It was thought prudent to solicit the favor of the king of Judah, to buy his good will. Munificent gifts were brought by different peoples. The king became a man of wealth and influence. He had the means at hand to carry on an extensive building operation. His success was notable. He diligently sought to uphold God in the kingdom of Judah. The result was that both king and people were richly blessed.

Ceremonies Set For Renaming JHS Honoring E.E. Fell

Public Invited to Brief Program in JHS Gym; Coffee Hour Follows

Superintendent—Emeritus E. E. Fell, who headed Holland's Public Schools for 35 years until his retirement in 1945, will be honored Monday, May 2, when Junior High School will be renamed the E. E. Fell Junior High School. The occasion marks the last payment in debt service on a building that was erected in the 1920's while Fell was superintendent of schools.

The public is invited to attend brief ceremonies in the Junior High gymnasium at 8 p.m. Invitations have been sent to educators throughout Michigan, but Holland people, particularly those who have worked with Fell during his years as superintendent, are invited to share in the ceremonies.

The ceremonies will last about a half hour. Walter W. Scott, present superintendent of schools, will pay tribute to the board of 1932-24 which served at the time the school was built. Bernice Bishop, principal of Junior High, will present the teachers in a brief tribute, and Dr. Wynand Wichers, who was a member of the state board of education for 10 years, will speak for state educators. Dr. Wichers, former president of Hope College, is currently vice president of Western Michigan College in Kalamazoo.

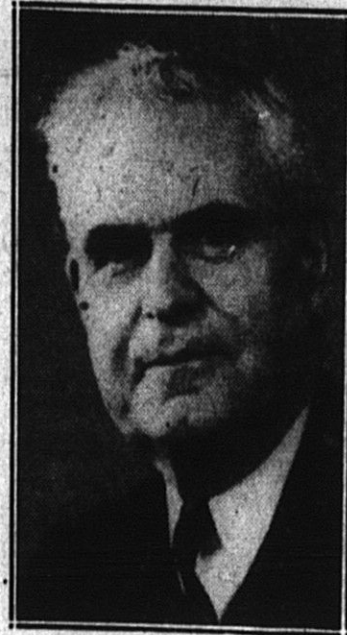

Dr. Lester J. Kuyper, president of the Board of Education, will speak for the current board. A vocal solo will be given by Mrs. George Lumsden and music will be provided by the Junior High orchestra. Dr. Marion de Velder will give the invocation. A coffee hour will follow, giving long-time friends an opportunity to meet Fell.

Dr. Fell's three sons, all of them doctors, will be present for the ceremonies. Coming here will be Dr. and Mrs. George Fell and twins, Paul and Betty, from Warrenton, Va., Dr. and Mrs. Egbert Fell and Jane and Tom of Evanson, Ill., and Dr. and Mrs. Randall Fell of Galesburg, Ill. Also attending will be Mr. and Mrs. John Gilmore of Grand Rapids. Mrs. Gilmore is the former Barbara Fell, daughter of Randall. The Gilmores have an infant son, the first great grandchild in the Fell family.

Dr. Egbert Fell is a medical doctor; his two brothers are dentists.

Invitations have been sent to many educators in the state. Already, A. J. Phillips, executive secretary of the MEA, and S. S. Nibbet of the State Board of Education have indicated they will be present.

Fell, now 80 years old, is known as the dean of Michigan educators. He was born near Ithaca and received his first schooling in a one-room rural school. Then he attended Alma Preparatory school, Alma College and Columbia University. After 10 years' experience as a teacher and administrator, he came to Holland where for 35 years he devoted himself unsparringly to the development of the Holland school system, retiring in 1945.

He promoted PTA's, started a program of adult education, introduced many new courses and provided special classes for crippled children and those handicapped either by low vitality or by defects in vision, hearing or speech. During his superintendency, the senior high school, junior high school and Washington school were built.

Realizing that buildings and equipment are of little use unless they are translated into educational and spiritual values, he exercised great care in the selection of teaching personnel and inspired them to do and be their best. He carried his idealism into his home life, the life of the community, and the life of the church. In 1935, Hope College conferred upon him an honorary L. L. D. degree.

A portrait of Fell will be unveiled at the ceremonies and later will be placed near the entrance of the school.

Monday's ceremonies will be broadcast over WHTC with George Lumsden serving as master of ceremonies.

It has been said of the American Supreme Court that its members read the election returns—with the implication that they make their decisions in line with those returns.

Whether that charge is justified or not may be left open to some doubt. In the field of literature, there is no doubt that the writers "read the election returns"; they write books with which, they feel in their bones, the people will agree. Those writers who are most intuitive and clairvoyant in "reading the returns" become popular. Others fail of circulation — and dollars.

Sometimes the very greatest are excellent readers of the "election returns" in literature. Shakespeare was such a reader; so was Dickens; so was Tennyson; so was Hawthorne; so is today Ernest Hemingway. They all knew intuitively what the people wanted, and they furnished it.

Sometimes even the very greatest writers are very poor at interpreting the reader "election returns." Occasionally they are unfortunate enough to be ahead of the readers, so that the latter do not catch up until the writers are dead. Henry James is an example. He has recently enjoyed a popular revival; but unfortunately for him he died in 1915. The same thing was still more true of Herman Melville. He wrote his great book in 1851, but the American readers did not catch up with him until 1920, when the author had been dead 30 years.

Even more often the very poorest writers are good readers of literary "election returns." Any given publishing list is full of writers who sell in millions but who have nothing to say; they merely have the happy knack of knowing what the millions want at a given moment and furnishing it. It often is so trivial and superficial that it does not outlast a given year, because public interest is very volatile. A large percentage of all so-called "literature" of any given year is made up of that type of writing.

Since the novel is literature's most democratic art form, novelists are more given to reading the literary "election returns" than some other kinds of writers.

For instance, with a very few exceptions, in an age when democracy was unpopular, the novelists chose for their subject matter life in the upper social circles. They knew well enough that the common people couldn't read, and so they did not write for them but for their potential customers, the people who had knowledge and — money. Walter Scott, in much of his work, illustrates this fact. Roughly speaking, he wrote for the well born and about the well born. A half a century, later when millions had learned to read and when democracy had become popular Dickens also read the "election returns," but he interpreted them differently from the way Scott had done. He was slanting his books at an entirely new crop of readers, and he reaped a rich harvest because those readers had become very numerous.

That is the way it looks out today, as has always been true. Sometimes very great writers are lucky enough to have an intuitive reader sense. Sometimes the very greatest lack this sense, and as a result they fail of popularity and circulation. More often perhaps, the very poorest writers have this ability, and they win a fame that is out of all proportion to their ability as writers.

Whether displayed by great writers or trivial ones, the ability to read "election returns" is not literary ability; it is at one with the knack of the successful politician.

Allegan Board Okays Building Hospital in City

Committees Seek Approval of Report To Proceed With Plans

ALLEGAN (Special) — A joint session of Social Welfare, finance and county buildings committees Friday attempted to draw up a report satisfactory to the rest of the Board of Supervisors, which would allow them to implement the board's action Thursday in authorizing construction of a new 125-bed county hospital at a municipal site.

By a vote of 19-15, the board approved the joint committee's recommendation that an all-new county hospital be built at a site where municipal water and sewer service is available. No specific site was recommended.

The report was in line with conclusions reached in a comparison of costs between new hospitals at the present rural site six miles north of Allegan and a city site.

A second resolution from the committee seeking authorization to contract with the Grand Rapids engineering firm of J and G Davenport for estimates of cost and preliminary plans was referred back to committee by the board.

So the joint committee is trying today to draft a recommendation allowing them to proceed in obtaining estimated roughly at $625,000. This and considerable other unfinished business is expected to send the current session of the board into its third week.

Committee action is a result of a drastic order last week in which all state and federal funds were withdrawn from the Allegan County Social Welfare department aimed at eliminating crowded conditions at the county hospital. As a result 29 non-ambulatory patients were removed from the hospital's second floor and crowded into any available space.

Earl Cranmer 20, of 140 Coollidge Ave., waived examination on a nighttime breaking and entering charge, and will appear in Circuit Court April 25. He was taken to county jail in default of $1,000 bond. Cranmer is alleged to have broken into Timmer and Karsten Block Co. Wednesday night.

Paying fines were Kenneth Lamb, of 3530 Beeline Rd., no operator's license, $5; Phil Rathke, of 60 East 30th St., speeding, $10; Albert A. ## Cerebral Palsy Campaign Begins

Holland is joining the rest of the nation in a "Motorcade of Hope" to raise funds to help attack cerebral palsy.

He explained that the bulk of the funds raised for UCP-75 percent—remains in the community and state for local services. The remainder helps finance the national program.

Zeeland Lambasts Comstock Park

COMSTOCK PARK (Special) — Zeeland unleashed a 13-hit attack here Thursday and aided by four errors trounced Comstock Park, 17-2. The win moved the Chix into first place in the Ken-New-Wa league standings.

Jim Kaat, junior lefthander, went the distance for Zeeland. He scattered five hits, struck out seven and walked two.

Zeeland teed off a starter Larry Humphrey in the first inning and continued to pound the ball off reliever Muller. The Chix tallied two runs in the first, eight in the second, two in the third, two in the sixth and three in the seventh inning.

Ron Komejan, Chix outfielder, had the longest hit of the day, a triple with the bases loaded in the second inning. Art Klamt and Eugene De Jonge each had three for five for Zeeland and Ron Damstra drove in five runs. Every Zeeland player made at least one hit. The Chix made three errors. The two Parker pitchers walked 12 and struck out nine.

Garden Club Committee Inspects Plantings

Actual Landscaped Home To Highlight Tulip Show

This year, as Holland residents and visitors enter the Armory for the garden club's Tulip Town Tour, they will be amazed to see an actual home highlighted. The house of contemporary design will be red wood and feature a long stone planter.

The Horticultural Bulletin Committee offered to completely landscape this home with its cedar fence, lawn, flagstone terrace and patio for the barbecue tables.

Mrs. Gertrude Steketee and her committee, Mrs. Fred W. Stanton, Mrs. J. J. Brower, Mrs. Jerena Rooks, Mrs. Carl Cook, and Mrs. Stuart Padnos find this an excellent opportunity to create some beautiful plant pictures. Their plantings will illustrate some of the suggestions compiled in their 40 page handbook, "Planting for Permanence."

The committee, pictured with Dick Smallenburg, is inspecting the espaliered apple trees at the city green house. This photograph represents just one of many trips to various cities, nurseries and gardens, where the horticultural committee has collected information about newer varieties of plants and shrubs suited to this area for the handbook. At the same time, plant material to be used in "Tulip Town Tour" was selected. Left to right are Miss Steketee, Mrs. Stanton and Mrs. Padnos.

Included in their over-all landscape plan are such shrubs as Marie's Viburnum, Viburnum Carcephelum, and the Warty Barberry which are especially adapted to withstand Michigan's severe winters. These shrubs serve as an excellent backdrop for clumps of brilliant tulips and primroses. The two espaliered apple trees will illustrate an unusual treatment of an ordinary fence. These trees should be at their peak for Tulip Time since they will be kept in cold storage to restrain their bloom. A picturesque Paper Birch and a Flowering Crab will complete the picture.

Parish Doubles Goal for Funds

A grand total of $70,821 was reported at the final report meeting Wednesday in St. Peter's New Church Building Fund Campaign, according to General Chairman Louis E. Symons.

The amount was more than double the $30,000 goal.

The campaign for funds began with organizational work March 13 under leadership of the Rev. William J. Hoogterp, honorary chairman and treasurer; Symons; Anthony Delke, vice chairman; Edward Burns, memorial gifts chairman, and Bernard Marfia, general gifts chairman. Solicitation got underway April 3.

The parish has acquired a site on US-31 in Douglas. Plans are to build a new church first and continue to use the present school and rectory until later.

A tentative architect's sketch made for the campaign brochure shows a church in contemporary style prominently located on a bluff overlooking US-31 and Kalamazoo Lake, with an approach from a street leading from the highway.

Because of the many resorts in the area, plans provide for a larger attendance in summer by means of folding doors. The unusual plan of the church, as well as its site and landscaping, is expected to make it one of the tourist attractions in the area.

Bowen to Retire As Road Engineer

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — Carl T. Bowen, only engineer-manager the Ottawa County Road Commission has ever had, will resign Jan. 1 and will be succeeded in the office by Hendrik E. Stafseth who now holds a similar position in Lenawee county.

Bowen, 64, has been a practicing engineer for 45 years. He has held the county position since October, 1921. On April 1, 1954, he resigned as county surveyor after holding that position for more than 32 years.

When Bowen first took over the duties, the department consisted of an office in the court house, 12 part-time employees who did not work in the winter months, two tractors and three trucks. Total equipment was valued at $5,000.

Today the department has three offices valued at $220,000 and equipment valued at $567,900. There are 133 employees.

In 1949, the new $219,186 bridge over Petty's bayou in Spring Lake was named the Carl T. Bowen bridge.

Bowen has no particular plans for his retirement, but has indicated he may do some part-time work in the private engineering field.

Stafseth, 36, served four years with the Seabees from 1942 to 1946, spent four years with the Michigan State Highway department as bridge project engineer, and served 1 1/2 years as city engineer for St. Joseph before assuming his present position as engineer-manager of Lenawee county in 1952.

ANGLERS AWAIT SUCKER RUN AT HAMILTON

Dutch Bats Sound In 7-4 Win Over Muskegon Catholic

MUSKEGON (Special)—Holland High's baseball team made it win No. 3 here Tuesday downing Muskegon Catholic 7-4. The Dutch combined a five-run rally in the second and four-hit pitching by Ron Tornovish to notch the victory.

Tornovish also paced the Dutch hitters, getting three hits in four trips. His single aided in the big Holland outburst in the second inning. The Dutch made six hits and scored five runs on a double by Norm Hoeve, and singles by Norm Vitteveen, John Stryker, Bob Van Wieren, Gerry Boeve and Tornovish.

That's all Holland needed as Tornovish continued to set the Crusaders down. Dempsey spanked a single in the fourth for Catholic's first hit but he was retired on a fielder's choice.

Holland added two more runs in the fourth inning on three more hits. Ron Van Dyke led off with a triple and scored on Stryker's single. Two walks and a single by Hoeve brought in the other run. The Dutch got two more hits in the seventh but failed to score.

Three Holland errors in the seventh, the only Dutch bobbles in the game, gave Muskegon its first run. The tiring Tornovish gave up a single and two doubles in the seventh for three more runs.

Tornovish went the distance for Holland, striking out five and walking four. Murray, Catholic pitcher, gave up 11 hits, struck out seven and walked six. Muskegon Catholic had three errors.

Hoeve had two-for-three among the Dutch hitters and Van Wieren had two-for-four and Stryker two-for-five.

Holland will play Muskegon here Thursday. The Dutch now have a 3-1 record.

Line score:

Holland 050 200 0 7 11 3

Muskegon 000 001 3 4 4 3

We have had many calls regarding dead areas appearing in lawns. Usually these can be caused by white grubs feeding on the roots causing the grass to turn brown and die. Generally however these may be one of two diseases called either brown patch or dollar spot. Dollar spot usually shows up in somewhat circular spots rather uniform in size. An application of a mercury compound such as corrosive sublimate, Furatuf 177, Puratized, Calocure Crag 531 will give control. If it is grubs, an application of chlordane will take care of them.

Questions come such as what are the advantages of having a pen type barn. Here's some: 1. Labor less by 1-3 with pipeline milking and bulk cooler 2. Injuries were less, less stiffness, injured knees and hocks. 3. Mastitis; 35 cases in loose over 44 in stanchion in last five years. 4. Cows gained more weight. 5. Manure pack averaged 81.5 degrees, removed once each year. 6. Floor temperature in stanchion barn 62 degrees. Here are some disadvantages: 1. Took twice as much bedding in pen barn. 2. Cows ate slightly more in pen barn. 3. Temperature was low in loose housing much like the outside. Here's why they are equal: 1. Production the same. 2. Calves did well in both. 3. Quality of milk the same. The above statements are from a study made at the University of Wisconsin.

If you are interested in seeing the winter oat plots, signs are up on the Tony Wolf farm located on M-50 just west of the Yellow Jacket on the north side of the road. There are also three varieties of winter barley in the same plot.

We have just received a letter from D. J. Thomas, president of Ottawa County Bankers Association saying that the association will sponsor four short course scholarships to Michigan State College during this calendar year.

Ottawa County young men and women who are interested in taking this course should notify me immediately. We would like to have as many applications as possible so that a selection can be made. The qualifications are that any young man or woman who plans to live in a rural community or be engaged in farming and has a farm background is eligible.

These scholarships are worth $100 each. The total cost of the course is about $125. This will take care of all course expenses including tuition, room and board and books. Courses for 1955 are scheduled to start the following dates: Fall term from Oct. 24 to Dec. 16 and the winter term beginning on Jan. 9, 1956 to March 2.

IT'S SPRING—State Highway Department paint crews were in Holland Tuesday putting new yellow and white lines on US-31. Today Holland crews are painting crosswalks, turning lines, stop

MOBILE EMERGENCY CENTER — This new emergency field office and communications trailer of the Michigan State Police will be in Holland during the four-day Tulip Time Festival, May 11 through 14. Equipment includes four radio transmitters, a telephone switchboard and desks in office quarters. The 45-foot antenna tower mounted at the left end telescopes into a 20-foot length and tips so that it is transported flat on the roof. That unit will be parked near the Warm Friend Tavern during the festival and be in actual operation.

State Police Will Show New Mobile Emergency Center During Tulip Time

A new field office and emergency communications center belonging to the Michigan State Police will be on display in Holland during the Tulip Time Festival, May 11 through 14.

Capt. Le Roy Hunt, district commander at Rockford, said the unit will be in actual operation and manned by state police troopers. The center will be parked near the Warm Friend Tavern.

The 34-foot trailer contains four radio transmitters and a telephone switchboard with a capacity of five trunk lines and 12 extensions. Telephone extensions can be rigged to other emergency headquarters, such as National Guard and Civil Defense.

The transmitters will provide communications with the regular networks of the state police and conservation departments, and local police and sheriff's departments.

A public address system with four speakers is mounted on the roof top. If regular power is not available, auxiliary power for both radio and lights can be supplied by a 5,000 watt generator carried in the truck tractor that pulls the trailer.

All the work of building desks and installing equipment, with the exception of the telephones, was done by State Police employees with little new equipment being used.

Joseph A. Childs, State Police commissioner, said he foresees a broad use for the trailer in providing headquarters not only at disasters, but whenever a large number of police are mobilized for any purpose.

The trailer is said to be the most complete unit of its kind in the country.

Burglars Strip Allegan Homes

ALLEGAN (Special) — Two completely furnished homes in the western section of Allegan county were stripped bare by as thorough a burglary crew as has operated in this area in the memory of local officers.

Deputy Sheriff Robert Whitcomb said Monday that homes owned by Roy Pitts, of Chicago, located near Bravo, and William Satterberg, of Benton Harbor, located south of the Hettinger school in Valley township, were victimized sometime during the past week.

The robberies were reported by owners who had visited them over the weekend. Whitcomb said preliminary investigation indicated both jobs were the work of the same, methodical crew.

He spent most of Monday obtaining inventories of the loot in the two burglaries. The lists included furniture, clothing, household appliances, sporting goods, "they even took the pictures off the walls," he said.

Vandals Roll Stones Toward Sleeping Scouts

ALLEGAN (Special) — Members of an Allegan Boy Scout troop on a weekend camp-out on Bear Creek, near Millgrove, had one sleepless night, but it wasn't due to wild animals or other forest marauders.

Vernon Olcott, Jr., Scoutmaster of the Methodist troop, reported to Sheriff's officers that a gang of boys in a car had rolled heavy stones down onto the sleeping Scouts shortly after they turned in for the night.

Some of the stones had struck the tents in which the boys were sleeping, but luckily none of the boys were injured.

Dutch Edge Bucs In Ninth; Maroons Stop South Kent

Holland High baseballers pulled one out of the fire in the last of the ninth Friday afternoon to stop Grand Haven, 8-7, at Riverview Park. The win gave the Dutch a 2-1 record and left the Bucs with their fifth straight setback.

Ron Van Dyke, Holland, catcher and captain, took advantage of a momentary mental lapse after a dropped ball by H. Radski, Grand Haven first baseman, to tally the winning run. Van Dyke was on second and Norm Witteveen, on third with one out; Bob Van Wier-er drilled a hard liner to the pitcher, Don Prelesnik, who threw home forcing Witteveen. Swiftly, Bue catcher, threw to first and Radski dropped the ball. While the sub first sacker was "brooding" Van Dyke came around to score.

A repeat of Thursday's humiliation at Kalamazoo, appeared to be in the offing for Holland in the top half of the first inning. The Bucs slammed five hits in the frame to score six runs. The first two Grand Haven batters, Buey and Schoolcraft singled, and both scored on Gerry Boeve's error of a ground ball.

Coach Ned Stuits at this point chose to pull starter Paul Northuis. Leroy Fogerty, a lefty, took over and before he got the side retired four more runs had crossed the plate.

Grand Haven added a single run in the second inning on a single and a second Holland error. But that was it.

Fogerty settled down and gave up two hits the rest of the game and the game and the Dutch defense didn't commit another error.

Holland scored one run in the first inning. Van Dyke walked, stole second and came home on the catcher's error. The Dutch kept pecking away at the lead and notched two more runs in the third inning on three singles and a walk.

John Stryker, Van Wieren and W. Dykens all got safeties in the frame.

The Dutch tied the score with a four-run outburst in the fourth inning. Van Dyke tripled to center field to highlight the inning. With two out, Fogerty was safe on an error and Van Dyke sent him home with one run. Stryker, Van Wieren, Boeve and Dykens were left stranded when Tom Ragains struck out to end the inning.

Prelesnik, who relieved started Joel Wildrom after the four run rally, and Fogerty locked up in a pitcher's duel until Van Dyke scampared home. Fogerty won his second game of the season.

Holland made two errors in the game, a far cry from the 3 made Thursday in losing 12-0 to Kalamazoo. The Bucs made six bobbles. Both teams made eight hits.

Stryker led Holland at the plate with two for three, while Boeve had one for two and Dykens, two for four. Buey got three hits in five trips for the Bucs.

Holland 102 400 1-3 8 2
Grand Haven 610 000 0-7 8 6

GRAND RAPIDS (Special) — Holland Christian's baseball club had just too much power here Friday afternoon as they whipped South Kent Christian, 9-3. The win evened the Dutch mark at 1-1 so far this season.

Coach Hero Bratt's Maroons pounded three Grand Rapids hurlers for 10 hits as they took a early lead and were never threatened. Lefty Harve Westenbroek turned in a fine six hit performance for the Dutch, keeping the host club scoreless until the final inning. In going the route, Westenbroek gave up six walks and fanned eight batters. For the second straight game, the Hollanders gave their pitchers fine fielding support, committing only three fielding errors Friday afternoon. Meanwhile the losers were committing seven fielding misplays behind their trio of hurlers, Ed Dykema, Cal Kooler and Bob Van Laar.

The Hollanders started the scoring early with two runs in the first inning on singles by Gord Plaggemars and Gary Vander Ark, two errors and a walk. They added two more in the second on another single by Vander Ark, two more walks and another pair of errors by the South Kent club.

A single by Westenbroek and a booming double by Wayne Alois produced another local tally in the third inning to run the count to 5-0. Grand Rapids touched Westenbroek for their first two hits of the game in the third, but couldn't score.

The locals pushed three more markers across the plate in the fourth frame, thanks to some power hitting. After Bill Vryhof had walked, Vander Ark unloaded his third straight hit; a double. Plaggemars followed with another double and then Dave Klaver punched out a single to account for the three tallies.

Holland's last run came in the seventh on a single by Substitute Dan Bos and a double by Vryhof. South Kent scored all of their runs in the final inning. With one runner on, and one run in, Third baseman Toger got hold of a fast one and connected for a home run, scoring the final two runs of the rally.

Vander Ark led Maroons with three hits in five trips, while Plaggemars followed with two out of four. Van Laar led Kent with two out of four.

Basketball Plans Made for Summer

A summer basketball program for all boys in the seventh, eighth and ninth grades in the Holland area will be inaugurated here this year, according to Joe Moran, City Recreation director. The Recreation department will sponsor the non-profit basketball school the first four weeks of summer vacation.

The program will run from June 20 to July 15 from 9 a.m. to 12 noon Monday through Friday at Holland High and Junior High gyms. Participants will receive intensive coaching on the level of the boys involved.

Division for coaching purposes will be made on the basis of ability rather than grade level. All participants will have an opportunity for both individual instruction and for play on an established team.

Bob Connell, Holland High School assistant basketball coach, will head the program. He will be assisted by Dale Shearer, head football coach, and other personnel as enrollment demands.

Since the program is primarily of an individual nature, Moran has set preliminary limit of registration at 40 or 20 boys per instructor.

Deadline for registration is May 27. Registrations may be sent to Moran's office at 340 Pine Ave. A fee of $10 will be charged for the course. This fee must accompany the registration card.

Draper was arrested at 6 a.m. today by Zeeland officers as he left a garage belonging to Leonard Van Hoven, 234 East Washington St., Zeeland, where he had been sleeping in Van Hoven's car. Draper's car, with keys still in it, had been found earlier by police, parked on M-21 near Church St.

MEMBERS OF THE ARCADIAN fraternity at Hope College have put a new twist into hazing for new pledges by assigning them to clean up and paint the home of an elderly woman in Holland. Here they all scrape old paint in preparation for painting the home of Mrs. Lottie Culy at 74 West Ninth St. The boys were busy at work Friday and hoped to complete the job Saturday.

Fraternity Puts New Twist Into Initiations

A Hope College fraternity has put a new twist into traditional hazing for new pledges, and has diverted such energy into better channels.

Instead of sending its 26 pledges through the old paces, the Arcadian Society assigned the pledges to painting the house of a 69-year-old woman whose only source of income is from old age assistance.

Actually, the assignment was made last fall and the pledges scurried around seeking paint, brushes, ladders, and other supplies from local merchants. Before they could get around to painting the house, cold weather had set in and the project was postponed until spring.

It was the weekend for action, and the modest frame home of Mrs. Lottie Culy at 74 West Ninth St. has been buzzing with activity. About 25 Arcadians reported Thursday afternoon to scrape off the old paint and nail down loose siding. Friday they returned with paint pans and brushes of paint in 12 pairs.

The Arcadians selected the Culy home through the Bureau of Social fas not informed of it until Wednesday. She was overwhelmed and became so excited she almost became ill.

"Why, I was so thrilled I didn't even cry," she said. "That's what I usually do when I get a pleasant surprise."

When the project was adopted last fall, the pledges considered donating the paint themselves, but costs involved were a little more than they could handle. The entire fraternity which numbers 74 members took a hand and consulted local merchants who gave not only supplies but technical assistance.

Among the donors were Montgomery Ward, Nies Hardware, Plaggemars Hardware, Sears-Roebuck, Vogelzang's, Teerman's, Gambles, Selles Paint, Smith-Alsop paint, Rezelman Paint.

When news of the Arcadian project hit state and national news this morning, a Grand Rapids woman called the fraternity house at 10:30 a.m. to offer sandwiches and pop for refreshments this afternoon.

The activity at the Culy home is in keeping with clean-up week now in progress in Holland to clean Aid, and although it was determined months ago that this was the home to be painted, Mrs. Culy up the city for Tulip Time May 11 through 14.

Bob Van Eerden, fraternity president who hails from Clymer, N.Y., said fraternity members decided last fall they would do something constructive for initiation.

"We couldn't see much future in having our pledges running around town doing crazy things and getting into people's hair. Someone suggested we paint some poor person's home and it was adopted immediately," he said.

Harvey Doornbos of Morrison, Ill., is general chairman of the house painting project.

Dean of Men Milton L. Hinga hailed the move a great improvement and hoped it would spread to other fraternities and to colleges and universities all over the country.

resident L.J. Lubbers also approved the trend, saying he was sure the entire faculty welcomed such a change.

Last fall, the new pledges also cleaned the basement of the fraternity house, knocked out one wall, whitewashed the whole basement, placed rugs on the floor and scouted up some furniture and made another lounge. Now they are rewiring the house under proper supervision.

Dog Notes

by Peter Boggs

Mike and the Word "Rabies"

Little Bobby had always wanted a dog and he was the happiest youngster in town when on his 7th birthday, his father presented him with Mike. Bobby and Mike became inseparable companions. Each night after a hard day of playing, little Bobby would go to bed and Mike would crawl up in a ball on the floor dropping off to sleep with one eye open, watching over his young master.

And now Mike is dead. He was killed when someone mentioned the word "rabies" in front of a person carrying a gun. Mike is just one of hundreds of dogs that will be needlessly killed this coming Summer because of a false rabies scare. Why was Bobby's rabid shot? Well, Mike had had a fit caused by worms. Many dogs infested with worms are likely to suffer from fits unless properly wormed, and in this case someone mentioned the word "rabies" and so Mike was shot.

Because a dog is frothing at the mouth it does not necessarily follow that he is mad or suffering from rabies. Even if this frothing is accompanied by a fit, nine times out of ten it isn't rabies. Such action might be due to a severe case of indigestion or—as in Mike's case—worms.

How do they get rabies and how do they act when coming down with this disease? To get rabies a dog must be bitten by a rabid animal. The symptoms vary. A docile and quiet-mannered dog may suddenly become ferocious and bold or one normally cross may timidly seek attention and petting. A dog doesn't become rabid overnight. It will be many days after he is subjected to the disease before he will become dangerous.

If there is a genuine case of rabies—so labeled by the proper authorities—in your neighborhood, by all means keep your pet tied up at home. If your dog acts suspiciously don't have him shot. Place him in the care of a veterinarian for confinement and diagnosis.

What Is a Watchdog? A watchdog is a dog that watches over his master's home and gives the alarm promptly and vigorously when an unauthorized stranger approaches it, especially at night. He is not necessarily a dog big enough and savage enough to tear such a stranger's throat—though a watchdog which will, as a last resort, follow up his warning bark with a bite has much value of his own.

In ordinary circumstances a watchdog which weighs 15 pounds (or even 3 pounds) may sound an alarm loud enough to rouse the household.

There is an old maxim which is 100 per cent true. It is this: "One good watchdog inside the house is worth more than two watchdogs outside." Poisoned meat or a smashing head blow from a club may make the outdoor watchdog useless, but the dog waiting alertly indoors is far harder for a thief to deal with.

Think twice before punishing your dog for barking at day-light visitors. Otherwise, he may not bark when midnight visitors break in.

Mrs. Dick Volkert was installed as new president.

Brief talks were given by Elks Exalted Ruler Ken Dykstra and past Exalted Ruler Stephan Wiersma.

Gifts were presented to Mrs. Dykstra, to Mrs. Weybright and her installing marshal, Mrs. Marge Lase.

335 Pounds of Bingaman Made Into Dutchman Here

BingAMAN became a Dutch-

MAN Thursday night. The 6'3" 335-pound (if not more) Detroit Lions middle guard was in Holland for a smoker at the VFW clubhouse and was presented wooden shoes along with a complete Dutch costume—reputed to be the largest ever made in Holland.

Big Les, and everyone who saw him agree he's BIG, captivated his audience with a few inside facts about the great Lions teams of the past few years and showed movie highlights of all the 1954 regular season games.

Especially interesting was the question and answer period and informal discussions with groups after the movies.

No. 1 question was "Are you going to stay next season?"

"No, I've decided to quit pro ball. I've played seven seasons now and have got a couple of bad knees. I can hardly get out of bed on a Monday after a game and you have to go all week long."

Despite his claims, many in the audience were still skeptical of his intentions and suspect he'll be back in his familiar position next fall.

And Les thinks the 1955 Lions will "be a great ball club." He said the team has many promising rookies coming up such as Salisbury of UCLA, Malloy of Florida and Brooks of Arkansas, to mention a few.

Les classes "Hustling" Hugh McElhenay of the San Francisco 49ers as the hardest present day runner to bring down and Marion Motley, formerly of the Cleveland Browns was the most difficult runner he's ever had to bring down.

Bingaman rates Los Angeles' Norm Van Brocklin as the best of the current crop of pro football passers, but in the next breath said he classes Sammy Baugh as the greatest quarterback of all time. When quizzed about the "blooper" passes Baugh used to throw, Les said, "But those throws were beyond the men and Sammy used to make them run to get them."

Looking ahead to the '55 season, Bingaman predicts a five team race involving the Chicago Bears, Green Bay Packers, Los Angeles Rams, San Francisco and the Lions.

"I'll depend on who gets the breaks," he said.

Bingaman said the pro teams have three, four or five scouts assigned to each football conference and they huddle with head coaches of the pro teams before the annual player drafts to come up with the top prospects.

Usually it takes a college player three years to reach his peak in pro ball.

"It's a lot rougher because you have only 12 teams and the men are tougher, bigger and faster."

He was asked why so many small college players make the grade in pro ball? "Many of them never had a team behind them in small colleges and when they get to pro football they do."

Les remained overnight in Holland and planned to leave today for Detroit.

"I'll be here with my wife for Tulip Time, though," he said.

He came to Holland under auspices of Goebel Brewing Co. He travels extensively throughout Michigan making appearances for the company.
