who lived in Grass Valley, Calif., who passed away in December.

received large collection of books

Library gains extensive collection

This spring Van Wylen Library received large collection of books donated by Peter W. van der Pas, who passed away in December.

In November 1998, van der Pas, who lived in Grass Valley, Calif., contacted the library with an inquiry as to whether there was any interest in his collection of literature.

“I would like the books to go to a library where they are used, I am not willing to donate them to an institution which will put them on the ‘bargain table,’” van der Pas wrote in his letter.

“I sent James (Kennedy, professor of history) out there to look at the collection. He was really thrilled about what he saw,” said David Jensen, director of Hope’s library.

In October 2000, van der Pas and his wife, Priscilla, visited the library, the Joint Archives of Holland and the Van Raalte Institute. Priscilla van der Pas said the visit left her husband “very impressed with the college and he feels very good about leaving his Dutch books to (the) library.”

According to Jensen, van der Pas also visited a different institution, which Jensen declined to name, and was “very unhappy with the reception he got.”

The part of the collection donated to Van Wylen Library encompasses roughly 4,900 volumes and focuses mainly on the history of the Netherlands, but also includes literature of the Far East, history of the Netherlands, but also hope in his letter.

“Applying Lessons Learned from Hope College and Van Wylen Library” and “Biological Exploration with a Camera” are two projects the users of the new science center will be able to work on. The science center will be open for classes and research.

New science facilities encourage research

Evelyn Daniel

The new science center has been two and a half years in the making. Friday, Oct. 8 marks the official completion and dedication of the building and renovation project, part of the project “Legacies: A Vision of Hope.”

The week’s festivities will include seminars, panel discussions and a dedication ceremony and open house on Friday afternoon.

The science center project began in March of 2002, with the addition completed during the summer of 2003. Since then, renovation has been done on the existing Peake Science Center, which reopened for classes this fall.

The theme of this dedication week, “Learning Through Research,” is one that is fundamental to the building itself.

Home to the departments of biology, chemistry, geological and environmental sciences, nursing and psychology, the facility provides numerous laboratory and classroom facilities that are now more useful for research.

Hope has long been recognized as a leader in the field of undergraduate research, ranked as fourth in the nation by U.S. News and World Report. Only the University of Michigan, Stanford University, and MIT rank higher.

“I learn so much more when I’m actually in the lab learning through research rather than just reading a book,” said Jennifer Yamaoka ’05, a biology major.

The new building “helps Hope stay in the running with other research institutions like Michigan and Stanford,” Yamaoka said. “It provides the opportunity for students at Hope to have access to top-of-the-line equipment.”

Yamaoka will participate in the dedication ceremony along with Hope President James Bultman, Rev. Paul Boersma, U.S. Representative Pete Hoekstra, architect William Gustafson, and representatives from Hope’s natural science faculty.

The ceremony will be held at 12:30 p.m. in Van Andel Plaza, near the main entrance to the science center.

Representatives from the National Science Foundation and from many of the nation’s leading colleges and universities will present seminars during the day on many of their own research experiences.

Topics to be covered include “Chemiluminescence: From Fireflies to Medical Diagnostics,” “From Rain Forest to Coral Reef: Biological Exploration with a Camera” and “Applying Lessons Learned from Hope College to Cancer Research.”

More SCIENCE on 2
Students tune-in to debates

The Hope Democrats gathered in Cook Hall lounge Tuesday to watch the vice-presidential candidates square off in a debate. About 15 students attended this second debate party.

The previous Thursday, the Dems and the Hope Republicans hosted parties for the first debate between George W. Bush and John Kerry. Over 150 students attended those events, indicating a high level of interest in the presidential race on Hope’s campus.

Two future presidential debates are scheduled. On Friday, the candidates will meet for a townhall style discussion in Missouri, and Oct. 13 they will meet in Arizona. Both will begin at 9 p.m.

The Anchor Wants You!

Come to our meetings: Wednesday @ 8:30
Sunday @ 6:30

(our office is behind the SUD)

Homecoming Hoedown

at Tuesink’s Farm, sponsored by SAC

Take the shuttle from DeWitt Flagpole

8 p.m. to Midnight  Shuttle begins at 7:45
Symposium closes with voices of Princely Players

A capella music group presents a view of history through song

Shannon Mee

In the past week on Hope’s campus, many performances have been enjoyed and well known speakers have lectured. The Hope community has explored a variety of viewpoints on the ever-living and ongoing problem of racial inequality through its annual Critical Issues Symposium. Bringing that series of lectures, seminars and performances a close will be the Princely Players, performing at 7:30 on October 8th, in Dimint Chapel.

This is just part of the ongoing conversation of CIS throughout the year,” said Derek Emerson, Arts Coordinator.

The cast of the Princely Players, performing on Friday October 8th, at 7:30 p.m. in Dimint Memorial Chapel

The Princely Players are the concluding event to this year’s Critical Issues Symposium, “Race and Opportunity: Echoes of Brown vs. Board of Education.” They are an African American a cappella group that is also very theatrical. All eight members met through a high school gospel choir in the 1960’s in Nashville, Tennessee. Each also has gone on to pursue their own career and as well as continue to perform with the troupe.

What makes the Princely Players unique is that they are more than a traditional a cappella group. They sing not only gospel music but spirituals, work songs, traditional hymns, and additional variations. Their music varies as widely as old favorites like Swing Low, Sweet Chariot, to early jazz hits, like those of Duke Ellington. In addition to this variety of musical expression comes a renowned acknowledgement for onstage abilities.

“Three things: First they are an outstanding vocal group, that said, (second) they are performing and singing music that we as a community do not get a lot of, and third, the way they present it we really get a history of their culture,” Emerson said, regarding the reasons why students should attend the performance.

Tickets are $5 for students and senior citizens and $10 for adults. Tickets can be purchased at the DeWitt Center Box Office during the hours of 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Leftover tickets will be sold at the entrance.

This is just part of the ongoing conversation of CIS throughout the year,” said Emerson, Arts Coordinator.

‘Two Eyes’ exhibit at DePree focuses on Mexican culture

Exhibit features the works of Mariana Yampolsky and Josephine Sacabo

Andrea Vendernburgh

Anyone who appreciates art or is interested in the culture of Mexico might like to stop by the DePree Art Gallery and check out the fantastic exhibit “Two Eyes on Mexico.” The exhibit, which continues through Friday, October 22, features the work of photographers Josephine Sacabo and Mariana Yampolsky.

The work of these two artists is exhibited side by side, and the whole is greater than the sum of the parts. Their photographic styles are different, yet they complement each other. Yampolsky’s crisp documentaries help the mind grasp the tangible realities of Sacabo’s dream-like images.

Sacabo’s artwork shows more emotion whereas Yampolsky’s shows more landmarks, iconic scenes, reflections of everyday life, and Mexican traditions.

Josephine Sacabo is a native of Laredo, Texas, which is fairly close to Mexico. She now lives and works mainly in New Orleans.

The series of Sacabo’s work presented in Hope, “The Unreachable World of Susana San Juan” is in a very subjective, introspective style, drawing its inspiration from Juan Rulfo’s novel Pedro Paramo, a haunting tale of the lingering memories and ghosts of an abandoned rural town in Mexico. The paintings are done as a through a misty, romantic lens that helps reveal deep spirituality.

The late Mariana Yampolsky was born near Chicago in 1925. She first went to Chicago in 1944, and then moved there a few years later, working as a printer and engraver. She lived and worked there the majority of her life.

Yampolsky’s series being displayed at Hope, “On the Edge of Time,” hovers between the documentary and the lyrical as it celebrates the lives of the gente—the common people of Mexico.

College Association New Writers Award. The novel describes the embattled landscape of Beirut through the eyes of a young girl and shows the devastating effects of war.

“This is a truly incredible novel about the scars of war that are left on the hearts of a family living in exile. . . . A stunning, insightful book that examines the tragedy of Lebanon—a window on the even greater catastrophe of war itself,” said The Sanford Herald.

The painting of numerous awards, including the Julia Peterkin Award for Poetry in 2002 and the Hill-Kohn Award in 1996.

The Jazz Ensemble will play at 6:30 p.m. before the reading. The public is invited and admission is free.

ARTS

The Anchor

October 6-9 & 13-16, 2004

8 p.m.
Homecoming weekend incorporates tradition, athletics, and alumni throughout festivities

SAC sponsored Homecoming traditions

Homecoming Hoedown will be held from 8-12 a.m. on Friday at Teusink’s Pony Farm. Shuttle buses will depart from the DeWitt flagpole at 7:45 p.m.

Featured events: hayrides, a bonfire, a petting zoo, line dancing, as well as a hay maze, and a petting zoo. Admission is $5 for students.

Homecoming Ball begins at 8:30 p.m. and concludes at 1 a.m. on Saturday night at the Haworth Inn and Conference Center. For a ticket costing $7 at the SUD or $10 at the door, dance the night away to the swing band and DJ.

Homecoming Parade will begin on Saturday at 1 p.m. along 13th Street and Columbia, concluding near the Municipal Stadium, starting floats constructed by student organizations and featuring the Homecoming Court members.

Habitat for Humanity

“Sleep in the Pinegrove 2004”

Bring a cardboard box to the Pinegrove at 10 p.m. tonight!

Pizza and hot chocolate will be provided

Tailgate Picnic

DeWitt Tennis Center

12:30-3 p.m. Saturday

Featured entertainment, local musicians “Potato Moon”

Admission is $10 on-site

---

SPOTLIGHT

Jenny Cencer

Student Writer

The 27th annual Run-Bike-Swim-Walk event and health fair will be hosted by the Hope College department of Kinesiology as well as by Shoreline Orthopedic and Sports Medicine Clinic, and South Washington Family Medicine.

Holden since the year 1978 when Hope first opened the Dow Health and Physical Education Center, the College and various sponsors continue to uphold the traditional events in addition to providing information regarding health to participants and spectators.

Competitive runners from the Hope College Track and Cross Country teams as well as community members will participate in a 5,000 meter or 3.1 mile run, which will begin at 10 a.m. Biking events are classified according to age and experience. Non-licensed cycling participants who are 17 years old and younger, and swimmers 15 years old and above will leave the lanes at 9:15 a.m. racing 800 meters (.5 mile). A 400 meter (.25 mile) event will be held in the Kreege Natatorium of the Dow Center. 400 meter (.25 mile) event will begin at 8:30 a.m. for participants 14 years and younger, and swimmers 15 years old and above will leave the lanes at 9:15 a.m. racing 800 meters (.5 mile).

Participants of the athletic events who registered before October 1 will be provided with a complimentary tee-shirt, however entries will continue to be accepted on Saturday at 8 a.m. All competitors are welcome to utilize the Dow Center’s showers and dressing room facilities.

The registration fee is $7 for each competition and forms are available at the Dow Center main office.

The annual health fair will also be held in the Dow Center from 8:30 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. Members of the Hope College Department of Kinesiology as well as contributing physicians in the community will provide information and demonstrations on exercise, diet, nutrition, and stress management techniques. Visitors will have the opportunity to evaluate their personal body fat percentage, blood pressure, muscle strength, and flexibility.

Additional information regarding the annual Run-Bike-Swim-Walk event can be obtained by calling the Dow Center main office at (616) 395-7690.

---

Homecoming Weekend Schedule of Events

Friday, October 8

9-3 p.m. Science Center Dedication and guest lecturer presentations.

10-5 p.m. Art Exhibition: “Two Eyes On Mexico,” at the DePree Art Center.

10-30 a.m. Chapel Service, Dimnent Memorial Chapel.

12:30-1:15 p.m. Science Center Dedication Ceremony. VanAndel Plaza.

7 p.m. Alumni Networking Reception, Alpenrose Restaurant. Reunion participants and students invited. $10/person.

7:30 p.m. The Priscely Players performance, Dimnent Chapel. Tickets are $5 for students.

8 p.m. Golden Ladder Performance, Studio Theatre.

8-midnight SAC’s 8th Annual Hoedown, Teusink’s Pony Farm. Admission free.

Saturday, October 9

10-5 p.m. Art Exhibitions, DePree Center.

8-10:30 a.m. 27th Annual Run-Bike-Swim and Health Fair, Dow Center.

9-11:30 a.m. Science Clubs, children’s grades 1-6.

11-1 p.m. H-Club Luncheon and Reception, Haworth Inn.

12-1 p.m. Psychology Department Open House, Science Center.

12 p.m. Women’s Soccer vs. Albion, Buys Athletic Field.

12:30-3:30 p.m. 1st Annual Alumni Tailgate Picnic, DeWitt Tennis Center Lawn, featuring “Potato Moon.” Students welcome.

1 p.m. Homecoming Parade Route.

2 p.m. Men’s Soccer vs. Kalamazoo, Buys Athletic Field.

2 p.m. Homecoming Football Game, Dutchmen vs. Olivet, Holland Municipal Stadium, halftime features homecoming court and Alumni Chapel Choir.

2 p.m. Mortar Board Children’s Book Drive, Holland Municipal Stadium, 8:30-1 a.m. SAC Homecoming Ball, Haworth Inn and Conference Center. Tickets $7 at the Student Union Desk or $10 at the door.

Sunday, October 10

10-5 p.m. Art Exhibition, DePree Center.

11 a.m. Homecoming Worship Service, Dimnent Chapel.
Odd year Pulls to Victory

Lindsey Manthei
Staff Reporter

"Three weeks of grueling training and a year of agonizing over their past defeat resulted in a victory for the 2004 Pull team in Saturday's 107th Pull.

The sophomores won the Pull by a margin of seven feet, six inches over the freshmen's three feet. "Finally winning was the best feeling of my life," said puller Andrew Hancock ('07).

The Pull, which is the oldest tradition at Hope College, is an event that draws people from all over the country each year. "I came all the way from New Jersey to watch my son in The Pull," said Mary Anne Grecezek, mother of puller Alex Grecezek ('07). "Alex loves Pull. This is his second year doing it with the same team. We did it last year too," said Mary Anne Grecezek, mother of puller Alex Grecezek ('07). ""It's weird because everyone on our side says we're winning, but when I came over here they think they're winning," said David Lee ('08).

Statistically, the sophomores, who have had 58 victories, had a better shot at winning this year's Pull than the freshmen, who have had only 29 victories. "We're doing a lot better this year, but I think it's because we have a lot more experience than the freshmen," said Reeverts.

The '07 team had 12 returning Pullers and eight returning moralers. The experienced team had an obvious advantage over the novice freshmen. "I looked in '08's eyes and I saw fear and pain," said a fan from the sidelines. "I feel bad for the freshmen. They have such high hopes and they usually don't win," said spectator Nicole Puch ('05). And win they did not. "The sophomore's strength and experience prevailed and it was sweet, sweet vengeance after their defeat by the class of 2006 last year. After losing last year, the desire to win burns inside of you all year. Finally winning was such a relief and joy," said Hancock.

"This is great because we're getting vengeance after last year," said Anna Marshal ('07), spectator. "The '07 Pullers all had mohawks and were clad in white pants painted with slogans such as "This is war" and "No mercy". The Pullers painted their eyes black and the Moralers wore dark lipstick to add to their intimidating appearance.

"The Pull is an amazing experience. One of the worst days of my life was when we lost my freshman year. But one of the best days was when we won," said Fred Bergman, member of the '03 Pull team.

Practice for the Pull began on Sept. 9, and for three long weeks the pullers and moralers trained for three hours a day during the week, and all day on Saturdays. "There was a tremendous amount of work for three weeks and then it's over in three short hours. But you give it everything you've got in those three hours," Bergman said.

Watching the Pullers struggle for rope for three hours seemed like an eternity, but most Pullers would claim the contrary. "Those three hours flew by. I don't even remember most of it because there was so much adrenaline. It was an out of body experience. I don't remember the pain," said Hancock, who was in pit 14.

Many pullers and moralers have said that they could not sleep the night before the Pull and the hours on Saturday before Pull were almost unbearable. "I had so much adrenaline coursing through my veins for the whole three hours that it felt like I was only pulling for an hour. Compared to the three long weeks of practices, those three hours on the rope were like no time at all, but I'll remember them forever," said Sam Flick ('07), puller from pit number three.

While pullers are in the spotlight for most of the Pull, they would be nowhere without their moralers. Each puller has his own moraler who acts as his eyes and ears while he is in the pit, since he cannot see anything. The moraler watches the coach and gives the puller commands about when to heave and when to hold. The moraler also keeps the Puller hydrated and provides encouragement throughout the three-hour event.

"My daughter Amy (Evenhouse ('07)) is a moraler and she loves it. She has screamed so much in the last few weeks she can barely even talk. She's definitely dedicated," said Tom Evenhouse of Holland.

A trademark of good moraler is her deep yell. "Your yell comes from your mouth, it's the sweetest feeling in the world. We'd all put incredible amounts of work, prayer, and time into beating '08. Pull is easily the most rewarding thing I've done at Hope so far," Flick said.
Above: Emily Weingarter ('08) watches the even-year coach for signals over anchor Jackson Knoll's ('08) shoulder. Left: The odd-year line heaves together in order to bring in the rope.

In pit 10, "Wild Fire" Sarah Mignin ('07) and Alex Greczek ('07) work together for the team.

Above: Anchor Dave Bellet aged by his moraler, Amy he strains for more rope.

Below: Stephanie Schaub McCabe ('06), "Surrounded..."
Right: Jennifer Pyle ('07) and Trevor Donaldson ('07) begin to feel the heat as the Pull wears on.
Left: Ryan Specht ('07) and Elly Blacquiere ('07) wait for the next call.

Odd year pullers and moralers wait for the final outcome of the 107th pull.
Freshman team comes up short

Amanda Zoratti
Staff Photographer

Three weeks of brutal training for the 2008 Pull team came to a close on the rope this Saturday. Though the team did not win the competition, the pullers can walk away knowing they have the respect of their peers for their relentless effort.

"It's the most insane thing I've ever seen," said Heidi Snyder ('08). "They're intense, and they're ever seen," said Heidi Snyder ('08). "It's a real cool thing, and it's definitely more important because it's such an outstanding tradition," said Adam Schwabauer ('08). "It's fun because everyone gets so excited and takes it so seriously."

As the Pull is such a long-outstanding tradition, there were also many alumni present at the event. "It's great," said Greg Bekius ('81). "I'm watching my daughter down there in the pits just like my wife was."

"I give a lot of props to these guys," said Robert Drexler ('08). "I never thought it would be this intense."

The coaches also took some interest in the even-year Pull team. Odd-year supporters frequently visited the 2008 side of the river to see how the competition was faring. "I'm just checking out how the competition was faring."

Unfortunately for the team, their efforts fell just short of the odd-year team's strength.

"You have laid it on the rope. You truly have," Haack told his team after three grueling hours. "As a coaching staff and as alumni, we couldn't be prouder to see a freshman team come together the way that you have in the last three weeks. Unfortunately, odd year has pulled more rope than you today. That does not diminish what you have done."

"They worked really hard, and I'm really proud of them, even though they lost," said Natalie Trolour ('08). "Next year is our year."

People dragged out their lawn chairs and ladders to ensure a good view and the fans decked themselves out in red and black. "It's a real cool thing, and it's definitely more important because it's such an outstanding tradition," said Adam Schwabauer ('08). "It's fun because everyone gets so excited and takes it so seriously."

"I'm just checking out how the competition was faring."

Odd-year supporters frequently visited the 2008 side of the river to see how the competition was faring. "I'm just checking out how the competition was faring."

As the Pull is such a long-outstanding tradition, there were also many alumni present at the event. "It's great," said Greg Bekius ('81). "I'm watching my daughter down there in the pits just like my wife was."

"I give a lot of props to these guys," said Robert Drexler ('08). "I never thought it would be this intense."

The coaches also took some interest in the even-year Pull team. Odd-year supporters frequently visited the 2008 side of the river to see how the competition was faring. "I'm just checking out how the competition was faring."

Unfortunately for the team, their efforts fell just short of the odd-year team's strength.

"You have laid it on the rope. You truly have," Haack told his team after three grueling hours. "As a coaching staff and as alumni, we couldn't be prouder to see a freshman team come together the way that you have in the last three weeks. Unfortunately, odd year has pulled more rope than you today. That does not diminish what you have done."

"They worked really hard, and I'm really proud of them, even though they lost," said Natalie Trolour ('08). "Next year is our year."

'08 PULL TEAM

Moralers
Holly Bekius
Katie Van Eeuwen
Jenny Rice
Patricia Cross
Jenna Mulder
Adrea Allen
Rachael Ferrara
Ashley DeWitt
Theresa Thaler
Tiffiny Trainer
Racheal Ferrara
Haleigh Heneveld
Haleigh Heneveld
Shelby Ellsworth
Autumn Divers
Christiana Bosscher
Sara Herington
Stephanie Schapa
Courtney Smith
Katie Ryan
Emily Weinert

Pullers
Dan Tobert
Dane Doctor
Michael Winslow
Aaron Kn ighton
Travis Ransom
Adam Castel
Kiley Alderink
Zachary Snyder
Drew VerLee
Mark Yapp
Daniel Kalleward
Matthew Baker
Aaron Hennessey
Thomas Gordon
Brian Wyns
John Bruisma
Matt McCabe
Addison Haynes
Vincent Gianapini
Jackson Knoll (anchor)

Above: Anchor Jackson Knoll ('08) strains on the rope as Katie Ryan ('08) supports him and David Sedjo ('08) looks on. Left: Tiffany Thaler ('08) and Drew VerLee ('08) teamed up in Pit 8.

Mark Yapp ('08) strains.

Unfortunately odd year has pulled more rope than you today. That does not diminish what you have done.

—Steve Haack ('06)
This week in the Pine Grove...

INFOCUS

Take Back the Night sponsors a rally against sexual violence
Erin L'Hotta
InFocus Editor

The Pine Grove will be filled with burning flames this Thursday at 9:30 p.m. Students will stand in silence and mourn as their candles will burn to Take Back the Night.

Take Back the Night is a movement in recognition of sexual harassment and violence that happens to any girl anywhere. Ribbons will be worn by students who want to recognize the mission of the event and introduce the next speaker. This will proceed with a series of nine speeches at nine different sites around campus where sexual violence has occurred.

Kristen Gray, assistant dean of health and counseling, will speak on increasing self-awareness towards sexual violence on campus. She also will highlight different ways to seek help if this occurs. Julie Kipp, director of women's studies, will read selections of poetry related to the subject. Joel Toppen, assistant professor of political science, will talk about sexual violence on a global scale. March said that this year's event will be different than last years, as students are encouraged to wear bracelets, viewing that they personally know a sexual assault victim on campus.

Take Back the Night is an event that occurs in the Pine Grove, as well as on campuses and communities throughout the world in hopes of uniting women, men and children in an awareness of violence. We hope that Take Back the Night will provide the campus with greater awareness of sexual violence that occurs on Hope's campus, as also on campuses and communities throughout the world in hopes of uniting women, men and children in an awareness of violence.

People nationwide rally at universities to “Take Back the Night,” a thirty year annual event in recognition of sexual violence towards women.

Habitat for Humanity sponsors a night of sleeping under the stars
Amanda Zorotti

Have a cardboard box? Grab it. Bring it. Sleep in it in the Pine Grove. Habitat for Humanity is sponsoring a camp-out complete with pizza and hot chocolate tonight at 10 p.m. Hope students are invited to sleep in the Pine Grove in cardboard boxes to develop a feel for what it is like to be homeless. The event is also designed to send a message to others about how important homelessness is. It's a 'hand up, not a handout,' according to the association's slogan.

While students spend the night, they also have the opportunity to sign up for upcoming fundraisers such as raking leaves and maintaining the lawns of Holland. "We are raising awareness of substandard housing," said Robert Boile (’05), fundraising coordinator of Habitat for Humanity.

Habitat for Humanity is an international nonprofit organization that works to provide adequate, affordable homes. The organization encourages everyone to work together to build houses and raise money for them. So far, the organization has built more than 70,000 homes and provided more than 300,000 people with a place to live.

Hope's Habitat for Humanity Chapter started in 1993. Since then, the group has been involved in the Holland community, raising funds to sponsor homes and sending out teams to help with other Habitat for Humanity programs across the United States. Holland's Habitat for Humanity Chapter works with Holland Lakeshore Habitat Affiliate. Together they hope to educate the campus and Holland community on affordable housing.

The institutions hope to do this by sending volunteers to work sites on Saturday mornings and supplying the camps. And if sexual violence happens, I hope that this will encourage the victims to seek help," said March. Take Back the Night is an event that occurs in the Pine Grove, as well as on campuses and communities throughout the world in hopes of uniting women, men and children in an awareness of violence.

I hope that Take Back the Night will provide the campus with greater awareness of sexual violence.
—Lauren March (’06), co-president of Take Back the Night

Behind the Mask
A benefit for Holland's Center for Women in Transition

Performance by Hope Dancers called "Cloud Burst"
Performance of "Showtime" by Holland Chorale

When: October 9 at 7:30
Where: Zeeland Performing Arts Center 333 96th Ave, Zeeland
Tickets obtained through the Holland Area Arts Council

People nationwide rally at universities to "Take Back the Night," a thirty year annual event in recognition of sexual violence towards women.
Gender roles still an issue

This past Saturday I went to the Pull for the very first time in four years. I must say it was an interesting experience and would recommend that all students see it at least once during their time here.

But I also must say that you can't go to something like the Pull or Nykerk without at least some thoughts of the role that gender plays in the back of your mind, not only in reference to these specific events, but also during everyday life on campus.

Several incidents around campus during the past couple days have brought this issue from the back to the front of my mind. Last night, while walking through DeWitt, I noticed a poster that posed the question: Why is it that the worst thing a guy can be called is a girl? And just this afternoon, I overheard a discussion I have heard many times during my years at Hope concerning the question, what is so wrong about a guy who wants to sing or perform in a Nykerk play, or a girl who wants to build a set? But recent events involving these issues do not simply end with questions. After class today, I went to back to my room and checked my mailbox. One of the contents was a plastic bag with a cylindrical object inside. The outside of the package made it clear that this was an advertisement for the Homecoming ball. Upon opening it, I realized that the object was a certain type of men's cologne called Axe. The back of the bottle read, "Beware of the Axe Effect: The Axe Effect may result in, but is not limited to, unrelenting female attention and/or late nights." First of all, why a men's cologne would be dispersed to a college campus of which the majority of its students are female is beyond me. Secondly, what kind of message is this sending? Is it something that a Christian college in the 21st Century would, or should, want to promote?

I am not saying we haven't come a long way on these issues since the time of our parents. I am the second female editor-in-chief just within the past year. I am both an English and a science major and have had both male and female classmates in each of these subjects. Progress has been made but we still have a lot of work to do. A great way to start is to participate in Take Back the Night (read page 9 of this issue for more information on this event). Events like these are proof that things can change. It will take some time, but if we don't start now, who knows how long it will take?

Progress has been made but we still have a lot of work to do.

Associate Provost expresses gratitude to those involved in CIS

To the Editor:

This year's CIS Committee has received many expressions of appreciation for housing an exciting CIS program, "Race and Opportunity: Echoes of Brown v. Board of Education." Indeed, race is— and will remain for the considerable future—one of the critical issues of our time. On behalf of the CIS Committee, I invite the entire Hope community—faculty, students, staff, alumni and friends of Hope College—to continue the conversation in the days ahead. I invite all of us to engage in lively, respectful and informed conversation of one of the most contentious issues of our time: Men and women of good will can overcome fear and create a welcoming community for all.

If there is praise, then I would like to single out the strong student participation and the leadership of the faculty in this year's CIS program. I know that the CIS committee joins me in expressing heartfelt appreciation for the many ways in which students and faculty contributed to the success of the Critical Issues Symposium.

Grateful,
Alfredo M. Gonzales, Associate Provost

On Behalf of the CIS Committee:
Ken Brown (faculty)
David Cunningham (faculty)
Derick Emerson (staff)
Chuck Green (faculty)
Paul Hayes (student)
Mary Inman (Faculty)
Fred Johnson (faculty)
Don Keuleneer (faculty)
Richard Mereza (faculty)
Greg Olgers (staff)
Patricia Roberts (student)
Deb Swanson (faculty)
Vicki Teufel-Harker (faculty)
John Yelding (faculty)
Sandra Wesselsky (student)
Cristina Williams (staff)
Kara Wolters (faculty)

Send your letters to the editor to anchor@hope.edu

Letters to the Editor Guidelines
Open to anyone within the college and related communities
The Anchor reserves the right to edit due to space constraints
No personal attacks, poor taste or anything potentially libelous
Letters chosen on a first come first serve basis, or a representative sample is taken
No anonymous letters, unless discussed with Editor-in-Chief
Editor-in-Chief may verify identity of writer

The Anchor reserves the right to refuse publication of any letter submitted
Letters over 500 words in length will not be considered for publication
Mail letters to the Anchor c/o Hope College, drop them off at the Anchor office (located in the center of Dewitt, behind WTHS), or e-mail Anchor@hope.edu

The Anchor is a product of student effort and is funded through the student fee budget which comes through the Hope College Student Congress Appropriations Committee. Letters to the editor are encouraged, though due to space limitations the Anchor reserves the right to refuse publication of any letter that is libelous, profane, racist, or contains material deemed unsuitable for the college community. The Anchor also reserves the right to refuse publication of any letter that is not submitted by a Hope College student. Stories from the Hope College News Service are a product of the Public Relations Office. Other submissions are reviewed by the staff. The Anchor is not responsible for errors or omissions.

THE VOICE OF HOPE COLLEGE

October 6, 2004

October 6, 2004

October 6, 2004

October 6, 2004
“Never Again:” Consequences of a broken promise

Let me take you back to 1948. World leaders gather in Geneva, fresh from the atrocities of World War II and the Holocaust, feeling shocked and gawky about the horrors that occurred under their watch. But the war is over and past, and all they can do is plan for a better future.

The Geneva Convention is signed, laying out rules for better futures.

and all they can do is plan for a break future.

War leaders gather in Geneva, fresh from the atrocities of World War II and the Holocaust, feeling shocked and gawky about the horrors that occurred under their watch. But the war is over and past, and all they can do is plan for a better future.

The Geneva Convention is signed, laying out rules for better futures.

and all they can do is plan for a break future.

War leaders gather in Geneva, fresh from the atrocities of World War II and the Holocaust, feeling shocked and gawky about the horrors that occurred under their watch. But the war is over and past, and all they can do is plan for a better future.

The Geneva Convention is signed, laying out rules for better futures.

and all they can do is plan for a break future.

War leaders gather in Geneva, fresh from the atrocities of World War II and the Holocaust, feeling shocked and gawky about the horrors that occurred under their watch. But the war is over and past, and all they can do is plan for a better future.

The Geneva Convention is signed, laying out rules for better futures.

and all they can do is plan for a break future.

War leaders gather in Geneva, fresh from the atrocities of World War II and the Holocaust, feeling shocked and gawky about the horrors that occurred under their watch. But the war is over and past, and all they can do is plan for a better future.

The Geneva Convention is signed, laying out rules for better futures.

and all they can do is plan for a break future.
Hope retains control of the wooden shoes with win

Dutchmen pick off four Kalamazoo passes, win 29-16.

Chris Kirby
Sports Editor

The rivalry of the wooden shoes began again last Saturday as Hope traveled to Kalamazoo College for their MIAA opener. As the Dutchmen intercepted four passes on the way to a 29-16 win, to even their record at 2-2 on the year and 1-0 in the MIAA.

Joe Diekrogers ('06) intercepted three passes and Andy Snyder ('05) intercepted another to help propel the Dutchmen to the win.

Hope jumped on the board first as Joe Schrrock ('05) tossed a 41-yard bomb to Jake Schrock ('05) and Nate Barnett ('06) tucked on the extra point for a 7-0 lead with 2:27 remaining in the first quarter.

Both defenses held tight until 14:34 in the second period when Schrock connected with Joe Verschueren ('05) from 28 yards out for a 14-0 lead. Five minutes later Barnett kicked in a 24-yard field goal as Hope went into the locker room at halftime with a 17-0 lead.

The shootout would calm down in the second half when Schwander connected for 3 yards out with 4:02 remaining in the third quarter. Nick Toboy bolted 90-yards for the touchdown to make the score 20-7.

The Dutchmen forced six Kalamazoo turnovers, two recovered fumbles and four interceptions, to help lead them to victory.

Joe Schwander ('06) was 17-of-34 passing for 262 yards and three touchdowns in Saturday's 29-16 win over Kalamazoo. Schwander threw a pass to Jake Schrock ('05) for a touchdown for the 8th time this season.

Key Stat
The Dutchmen forced six Kalamazoo turnovers, two recovered fumbles and four interceptions, to help lead them to victory.

Dutch avoid being swept, but fall short in four games to Calvin

Chris Kirby
Sports Editor

The Dutch were looking to avenge an early season sweep that was dealt out by the Calvin Knights, but were denied once again.

The Flying Dutch pushed Calvin to four games Friday night before bowing to their rival for the second time this season, 26-30, 30-15, 30-25, 30-26.

Coach Becky Schmidt's Dutch slipped to 3-6 in conference games and are at 500 overall with an 8-8 mark.

The Flying Dutch had 114 defensive digs in the game led by Shawna Bucche ('06) with 27 and Natalie Hoogeveen ('06) with 25. Deena VanAssen ('07) had 13 digs, while Lindsay Schaefer ('06) added 6, and Kim Brands ('07) and Amber Hoezee added 5 digs apiece for Hope.

Julie VanSickle ('06) had double-digit assists with 18 kills and 19 digs.

Setter Kelley Hutchins ('05) had 25 assists while Stephanie Poll ('07) was credited with 24 in the loss. Calvin tallied 71 defensive digs, led by Kristen DeGroot with 21 and Kristin Kalb with 15.

The Knights also cracked out 60 assists, with Katie Zondervan pacing 57 on the night.

Can you dig it?
The Dutch had a game high 114 digs led by Shawna Bucche ('06) with a team-high of 27.

Ind. at 6:30 p.m. to begin a five-game road trip that includes a trip to the Elmhurst, Ill. Invitational on Friday, Oct. 15.

Next Tuesday the Dutch will travel to Alma, and then venture to the Elmhurst Invitational before heading to Olivet on Wednesday, October 20.

The team will finish its road trip at Saint Mary's at 6:30 p.m. on October 26.

Hope will return home on October 26 to face Adrian at 6:30 p.m.

Flying Dutch senior chases history in latest win

Dutch edge Kalamazoo by one goal in MIAA win.

From the Hope athletics homepage
Dawn Gillam ('05) scored her 37th career goal to lead Hope to a 1-0 MIAA victory over Kalamazoo on Tuesday.

Midway through the conference portion of the season, coach Leigh Sears' Dutch remain tied for first place in the MIAA standings with Calvin at 6-1-1.

Calvin kept pace with Hope on Tuesday by routing Adrian 8-0.

Gillam's goal came in the 24th minute of the game off an assist from Ashley McNeil ('07).

In a very physical game that resulted in 36 fouls, Kalamazoo held an 8-6 advantage in shots on goal.

Gillam's goal puts her within a point of 100 in her career. In addition to 37 goals, she has 25 assists for 99 points.

The career mark is 116 points by Tracy Phelps from 1993-96. The only other Hope female player to surpass 100 points was Gretchen Schoon with 111 from 1995-98.

Hope goal-keeper Holly Nesle ('07) recorded her 11th shutout of the season and 20th of her career.

The Flying Dutch enter the second half of the season with a 6-3-1 overall record.