3 Grand Rapids Residents Killed In Ottawa Crash

Car Runs Stop Sign And Rams Another East of Coopersville

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — Three Grand Rapids persons were fatally injured in a two-car crash at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the intersection of US-16 and 48th Ave. a mile east of Coopersville. This site is known as Townline road separating Polkton and Wright townships.

The dead are Mrs. Rosa T. Collier, 38, of 923 Ionia Ave., S.W.; her aunt, Mattie DuChart, 57, of 137 Grant St. S.W.; and Matthew Solomon, 67, of 3000 Monroe, N.W. The two women were killed outright and Solomon was dead on arrival at St. Mary's Hospital.

Another passenger in the car driven by Mrs. Collier was Phillip Ward, Jr., of 7707 Ryan Rd., Detroit who was treated for chest injuries at St. Mary's Hospital. Both Ward and Solomon were living at Veterans Facility.

Driver of the other car was Harold F. Webster, 48, of 1451 Wealthy, S.E., Grand Rapids. He also was taken to St. Mary's Hospital for treatment of chest injuries. Both cars were demolished. State police said Mrs. Collier who was driving north on 48th Ave. failed to stop for a stop sign and plowed into the east-bound Webster car. Mrs. Collier was employed as a house maid for Mrs. Wallace Graham at Marne.

Bodies of the two women were taken first to Throop Funeral Home in Coopersville and later transferred to Brown Funeral Home in Grand Rapids. Solomon's body was taken to Barbier Funeral Home in Spring Lake.

When informed of the fatal crash, state police at the Grand Haven post almost simultaneously received another call on the drowning of a Grand Rapids man at Bruce's Bayou about three miles east of Spring Lake. Victim was James Wizerik, 54, of 519 Liberty St., S.W.

YOUNG DRIVER — Three-year-old Vicky Lynn Newell demonstrates how she held the wheel of her mother's car when she took it for an unscheduled ride Wednesday. While visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Pieper at 28 West 12th St., Vicky found the keys to the car, turned the ignition on, and backed out of the driveway. The car went across 12th St., hopped the curb, and ended up several hundred feet in Centennial Park. Vicky said she wanted to see the fish in a pond. She promised her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Newell of 134 West Ninth St., that she will wait for someone to take her next time. (Sentinel photo)

Girl, 3, Takes Car for Drive

The youngest driver in Holland police history was safely plucked from the driver's seat of a car. Wednesday. She was a three-year-old girl who "drove" a car nearly 300 feet alone.

Vicky Lynn's unauthorized drive came about when her mother, Mrs. Earl Newell of 134 West Ninth St., took her daughter along on a trip to her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Pieper at 28 West 12th St. Mrs. Newell parked in her parents' driveway, took the keys out of the ignition and dropped them in the ash tray for safe keeping. Vicky Lynn remained outside in the sun on the lawn.

As soon as her mother stepped into the house, Vicky Lynn decided to go see the fish in a pond in Centennial Park. She decided to drive over.

The blonde-haired youngster put the keys in the ignition and stepped on the starter. The car rolled back out of the driveway, across the street, and into the park.

A neighbor saw the car moving and yelled to nearby youngsters to stop the slow moving vehicle which they did a few feet short of a large tree.

At the same time Detective Dennis Ende saw the car moving without any apparent driver visible. He opened the door and there was Vicky Lynn, stretched out, with her foot barely touching the starter.

Pieper said he had promised to take Vicky to see the fish in the pond and apparently the youngster had decided to see them for herself.

Coincidentally Ricky's parents met nearly four years ago when Ende stopped two cars racing down River Ave. One was driven by Earl Newell and the other by the then Ruth Pieper.

Both paid their speeding fines and became acquainted. Wedding bells rang a short time later. Ende said the two had not known each other, before and they are now two of his best friends.

$55,000 Proposal Okayed by Close Five-to-Four Vote

Technicality Delays Approval of Budget; Meet Again Friday

A new $55,000 outdoor swimming pool for Holland squeaked through City Council Wednesday night by a 5-4 vote, and the $35,000 figure remained in the 1955-56 budget. The occasion was a public hearing for the budget, and some 40 persons were present for the event, but only a few voiced opinions on the swimming pool.

Casting dissenting votes were Councilmen Lavern Rudolph, John K. Vander Broek, Robert J. Kouw and Mayor Robert Visscher. There was a general feeling that the dissenters were not opposed to a pool as such, but that they felt concern about the wisdom of such action as the present time in view of considerable opposition and a general lack of understanding of the program.

Technically, the motion was stated negatively . . . to delete the $55,000 item from the budget which brought five no votes and four yes votes. The motion was made by Councilman Rudolph, seconded by Councilman Vander Broek.

Council passed the budget calling for a net tax levy of $473,862.14, subject to possible revision at a recessed meeting Friday night on a legal technicality. This involves a $50,000 item which Council voted to transfer into a special Board of Public Works improvement fund for future light plant expansion. The charter provides that the city may have up to 50 percent of the operating profits of the BPW, the amount remaining with the BPW to go into the BPW reserve.

Profits to the city for the coming year are estimated at $150,000, which amount the city entered in budget revenue for 1955-56. But the BPW requested that the city limit this figure to $100,000 to allow the board to build a larger reserve in anticipation of needed light plant expansion expected sooner than originally planned. The BPW points out that an addition should be ready and in operation by 1959 to meet the constantly increasing demand. Should funds not be available, the city would have to build itself for such expansion and this is what the BPW would like to avoid, particularly in view of the fact that there already are $215 million in bonds on the water system.

As Mayor Visscher pointed out, if council can afford luxuries like a swimming pool, it certainly must provide for necessities such as its light plant, but Council sought to effect a compromise on procedure. Councilman Rudolph proposed that Council continue to have the full 50 percent of BPW profits, but use only $100,000 for operating expenses in the city fund, and set up its own BPW improvement fund for light plant expansion. Should these funds not be necessary for that purpose in the future, they could be diverted to other civic improvements by vote of the people.

A regular "snafu" ensued, and City Attorney James E. Townsend drafted a four-point resolution designed to cover all the technicalities. These points were voted separately, the various votes ranging from unanimous vote to a 5-4 margin. Councilman Raymond Holwerda questioned whether this procedure were contrary to the spirit of the charter which provides that if less than 50 percent of BPW profits is taken by the city, such action requires a 7-2 majority.

On this question, City Attorney Townsend requested time for study and Council will meet again at 7:30 p.m. Friday to hear Townsend's ruling. If Townsend rules the action is illegal, it would reopen the city budget. If the budget is reopened, it conceivably opens the doors on all other issues, including the swimming pool.

Should the budget total remain at $473,862.14, Holland city will have a tax levy of $15,721.4 per $1,000 valuation. Last year the levy was $16.15, but assessments have been raised approximately one-third some months ago. Under the old figures, the new tax rate would be just under $20.

The new budget is more than $90,000 over the 1954-55 budgeted figure of $383,792.44. Changes made Wednesday night at the public hearing include two entries of $350 and $1,000 in the recreational account, $1,000 in Civic Center revenues, $2,500 for community promotion through Chamber of Commerce, $200 for the dog pound, the $50,000 transfer for the BPW, and a seventh point on a BPW salary schedule in which any revisions must have consent of Council.

Public Discussion On Swimming Pool Is Quite Limited

Little Real Opposition Expressed at Council's Public Budget Hearing

Discussion on a swimming pool for Holland brought only limited discussion, at the public hearing for Holland's 1955-56 budget Wednesday night at a meeting of City Council. The main question was whether the $55,000 item should remain in the budget, and all discussion was over in about 15 minutes.

Mayor Robert Visscher requested that each person advancing comments give their names and addresses.

Les Deridder, of 118 West 20th St., questioned whether the people were as fully informed on swimming pool matters as they could be, and felt that a ballot vote would have been much more decisive. Councilman John Van Eerden, chairman of the swimming pool committee, later pointed to a series of eight clippings on swimming pool matters he had obtained from the Sentinel.

Tom Vander Kuy, of 364 Van Raalte Ave., was afraid an outdoor swimming pool would not meet the needs of the city, and said an indoor pool in the new high school would be far more desirable.

A brief communication, signed by Dr. I.J. Lubbers, Walter V. Scott and Dr. Bert P. Bos, was read, stating that regardless of any indoor swimming pools to be built in the future, an outdoor swimming pool is a community recreation asset which justifies itself.

Councilman Raymond Holwerda said the three men signing that communication represent virtually 95 percent of the children and young people of the city, a point which should bear some weight. He also believed an indoor pool would be highly desirable, but said a $55,000 item on a city budget is not an insurmountable figure.

Councilman John Beltraman quoted statistics on the use of seven outdoor pools in Grand Rapids, pointing to 254,336 persons using the pools last year whereas 316,244 visited the 28 playgrounds.

Councilman Robert Kouw said Grand Rapids figures would not necessarily follow in Holland which is close to Lake Michigan and asked if the committee had any statistics on outdoor swimming pools for cities on the lake. He also said the committee has failed to come up with any ideas on maintenance.

Chester Belt, 181 West 25th St., said he would be happy to have a swimming pool in Holland. Then his 12-year-old son wouldn't have to pedal his bike to Ottawa Beach.

Councilman Lavern Rudolph pointed to previous petitions bearing 500 signatures opposing an outdoor pool for Holland, and to the many persons who had expressed opposition to him. He felt items of this type should be presented to the taxpayers, and moved to delete the $55,000 item from the budget. His motion lost, 5 to 4.

Others appearing before Council on other items in the budget were Henry S. Maentz and Randall C. Bosch for the Board of Public Works; Gabe Kuite, seeking use of Civic Center for the Kwanan Athletic Club; Norman Japenga for revision of funds for the softball league.

GRAND HAVEN (Special)—A laundry bill containing the customer's name was the bit of evidence Constable Leslie Vander Wall of Spring Lake needed to take into custody Charles Patterson, 26, 111 S. The alleged offense occurred on Saturday, only a short time before the arrest. Patterson told the officer the rubbish had been thrown out of his car, but by another person riding with him. Arraigned before Justice Frederick J. Workman afternoon, Patterson paid $15 fine and $6.35 costs.

Deputies Capture Escapée at US-31, M-21 Road Block

Three escapees who saved their way out of the Muskegon County jail Wednesday had a brief hours of freedom before they were recaptured at road blocks east of Holland and near South Haven.

Guy Rose, 38, of Muskegon, was recaptured at a road block set up at the intersection of US-31 and M-21 by Ottawa County Deputies. Two others, Robert Stone, 24, and Harry Hill, 25, both of Muskegon, were arrested by a roving State Police blockade near South Haven.

Four deputies immediately set up the highway block at 2:45 a.m. and began stopping all vehicles traveling south on US-31.

The officers searched an estimated 50 to 100 cars and trucks before Rose drove up in a stolen 1951 model car at 4:40 a.m. Rose stopped and said he had left all his identification at home when asked for a driver's license. Deputies became suspicious and ordered him out of the car at gunpoint.

As he stepped from out deputies noticed a screwdriver had been bent across the terminals of the ignition to start the car. Rose then admitted he was the man being sought.

A short time later, at 5:30 a.m., Muskegon Sheriff Axel M. Pederson and Deputy John Privosky arrived to return Rose to jail.

He was awaiting commitment to Jackson Prison to start a three to 14-year term after being found guilty on a forgery charge.

Under questioning by Pederson Wednesday, Rose admitted he saved two bars out of the cell leaving a hole about 16 inches square to slip through.

The charge against Rose resulted from a forged check which the ex-convict had passed by posing as a priest buying coal. He had signed the name of Circuit Court Judge Noel Fox to the check, Pederson said.

Rose told Pederson that a former inmate of the jail slipped a dingie hacksaw blade to him earlier this week.

Before leaving Wednesday Pederson paid tribute to the deputies who had arrested Rose and thanked them for their excellent cooperation.

Teenagers' Book by Gringhuis Published

McGraw-Hill Book Company, Inc., of New York, has announced publication of another book by Dirk Gringhuis, author - artist who formerly lived in Holland and was an art instructor at Hope College.

The new book, released April 20, is "The Young Voyager," story of a young boy from Fort Detroit who runs away to join the famed voyageurs during the French and Indian wars and lives through captivity by the Indians.

Gringhuis, native of Grand Rapids now living in East Lansing, has illustrated over 40 books for young people, including two he wrote based on Holland. "The Young Voyager" is his first book for teenagers.

The book is based on historical fact and Gringhuis took a 3,400 mile trip last summer following the route of the voyageurs to get material for the book. He traveled from Detroit to Quebec, the Gaspe, back to Fort Niagara and Michigan. He also spent a week near the Indian village below Fort Mackinac.

City Property Sold to Scott's For Expansion

Firm Plans to Build Modern Factory and Add More Space Later

At a special meeting late Monday afternoon, City Council approved the sale of an industrial site on Ottawa Ave., between 25th and 26th Sts. to Scott's Inc., for $5,000 to allow necessary expansion of local operations.

Pending clearance of certain technicalities on titles, the company plans to build a modern building of some 18,000 square feet of space to expand their metal processing operations. By 1957, the firm hopes to build another addition of some 18,000 square feet plus office space and move the entire operation to the Ottawa Ave. site.

For the past five years, the firm has been in operation in its modern plant at 136 East Sixth St. All output is for Crampton Manufacturing Co., which also operates Grand Rapids Brass Co. Scott's, Inc., is operated by three brothers, John H. Will J., and Fred K. The firm also operates a plant in Douglas and if expansion were not possible in Holland, the management planned to move the new operation to Douglas.

Mayor Robert Visscher explained that the property had originally been deeded by the Chamber of Commerce bonus committee back in December, 1941, for the purpose of holding the property for water uses of the Board of Public Works. Since the BPW has no need of the property for such purposes in the foreseeable future, that body has passed a resolution to that effect.

City Attorney James E. Townsend explained that according to state law, any funds realized from such a sale should go for the sale of property for the same purpose, or to be put into a sinking fund to be used in paying off BPW bonds.

The purchase price was recommended by two local realtors who estimated the value at $5,000 upwards, depending on how the property is developed.

The action required passage of two resolutions which were passed unanimously with exception of one resolution in which Councilman Raymond Holwerda dissented, mainly on the grounds of haste in action and market values of the property.

All Councilmen were present with the exception of Bernice Bishop. The meeting lasted about a half hour.

Holland area streets and highways took on a Tulip Time atmosphere Sunday as hundreds of motorists took advantage of sunny skies and soaring temperatures to visit the city.

Many of the tulips along city lanes and in scattered beds through out the community are in bloom and camera laden tourists were posing their families in front of the flowers ala Tulip Time.

Police said traffic was bumper-to-bumper along many of the tulip lanes most of Sunday. The same was true on roads leading to the Tulip Farms on Lakewood Blvd.

Tulips weren't the only attractions as hundreds of residents either went for a drive, worked on their boats, played golf, or just relaxed in the backyard and got an early start on a sun tan.

The weatherman did a drastic about face today and rain began falling early this morning and it is expected to last at least through Wednesday.

Saturday the mercury hit 74 with a low of 41. Sunday the temperature soared to 76, dropping to 45 during the night.

Although scattered thundershowers are predicted for the next two days the mercury will stay right up there hitting in the high 70's Tuesday and not dropping much below 56 tonight.

New Changes Explained For Hospital Addition

Thirteen additional private rooms, a special department for children, new operating suite, and 2 emergency rooms on the ground floor are among the improvements to be included in the new addition to Holland City Hospital, according to final plans reviewed by the building committee at the hospital Friday night.

The committee heard Fred Burd, hospital director describe virtually every piece of equipment and building material to be incorporated in the $1,200,000 structure, and signified their general approval of the plans.

The addition will increase the bed capacity from 72 to 125.

The next step is a meeting this week with the architects to clear up minor construction details and to make sure the final plans included all recommendations of the building committee, hospital board, and professional consultants.

H. E. Beyster and Associates, Detroit, are the architects. Building consultants are James A. Hamilton Associates, Minneapolis.

Following approval by the Office of Hospital Survey in Lansing later this month, bids will be sought so construction can get under way early in July.

As approved Friday night, the new addition will be nearly 200 feet long and four stories high. It will be joined across the north end of the present building.

The present main entrance will be closed off. The new entrance will be located at the junction of the old and new buildings on the Michigan Ave. side.

The number of private rooms will be increased from eight to 21. There will be 10 semi-private rooms compared with 11 at present. Where there are now only 11 wards, some with as many as seven patients, there will be 24 when the addition is completed. No ward will have more than four patients.

The obstetrics department, where there are now only 13 beds and 20 bassinets, there will be 25 beds and 36 bassinets. This department also will be segregated and will include three nurseries with 12 bassinets each, the maximum permitted by state regulations.

Currently the hospital has only one nursery for 20 bassinets. The overcrowding is permitted by state supervisory officials only because it is a temporary situation that is being rectified, Burd said.

The emergency treatment rooms will be located at the emergency entrance and will be completely equipped to handle any type of case. Under the existing set-up, emergency patients must be taken to the third floor surgery.

New operating suite, new delivery suite, new administrative offices, x-ray department, laboratory, and dining room are among the other facilities to be included so Holland and surrounding area will have at least the minimum requirements in hospital service.

However, other improvements also should be incorporated in the building to provide greater efficiency, according to building committee members. These are being proposed as alternate plans and will be realized only if funds are available.

Committee members emphasize that contributions still are needed and may be made to the building fund at the hospital, through either of the Holland banks, or the city treasurer's office in city hall.

The pediatric department will be located on the third floor. Instead of consisting of a few rooms at one end of a hall as the situation now exists, the new department will be a completely segregated and integrated unit with its own washing and toilet facilities. It will have 15 beds, compared with seven at present.

In the obstetrics department, where there are now only 13 beds and 20 bassinets, there will be 25 beds and 36 bassinets. This department also will be segregated and will include three nurseries with 12 bassinets each, the maximum permitted by state regulations.

Currently the hospital has only one nursery for 20 bassinets. The overcrowding is permitted by state supervisory officials only because it is a temporary situation that is being rectified, Burd said.

Library Adventures

By Arnold Mulder

The publication of a sort of novelized life of the famous Confederate General T.J. Jackson, "They Called Him Stonewall," by Burke Davis, underscores the point that even after 90 years, the Civil War is still very much alive in American writing. It is in fact much more alive than any other war we fought, with the possible exception of World War II. And even that is doubtful.

An American publishing season — they come twice a year — is unthinkable without several books about the Civil War. When it is remembered that the conflict between North and South ended just 90 years ago, this fact is nothing less than astonishing.

So great is the continuing interest of the American people, and to some extent of people in many other lands, in the Civil War that many of the great American publishing houses are said to maintain on their staffs permanent Civil War specialists, men or women who can competently pass judgment on the floods of manuscripts that flow into the editorial offices right along.

The flood of books that actually see print is so great that no one could possibly keep up with them all. But it seems certain that the number of manuscripts that are being written in any given year, nine decades after Appomattox, is many times greater than the books actually published.

There also were quite a few books about the Revolutionary War, especially during the early years of the Republic. And such organizations as the Sons of the Revolution and the D.A.R. keep on stimulating interest in the war that gave America its freedom. But the literature about the Revolution is dwarfed by the volume of books about the war between the states.

As for the other wars, most of them have more or less disappeared from the American publishing lists. A book today about the War of 1812 or about the Mexican War is rare. The Spanish-American War has almost faded from memory. Even the First World War, as far as new publications go, gives the impression of "old unhappy far-off things and battles long ago."

Only the Second World War and the Korea "police action" continue to give the Civil War any sort of competition in publishing appeal. Those two conflicts are so recent that they are almost contemporary news.

The Civil War has not been contemporary for nearly a century and it ceased to be current news before the fathers and mothers of most of today's Americans were born. But in spite of that it occupies a position of priority in the interest of the American people. For, of course, it is not the publishers who make this flood of literature necessary; the publishers merely listen to reader demand and try to satisfy it.

The reason? Who can tell? One guess is suggested by the fact that when brothers and sisters battle to the death it is usually a much bigger "story" in the journalistic sense of that word, than when members of different families do the same thing.

A half century ago Winston Churchill—the American writer, not the British statesman—wrote a novel that he called "The Crisis." In it he attempted, not too successfully, to capture the emotions of the Civil War in novel form. The best part of his book was its title. For that's what the Civil War was—the greatest crisis in our history. It established once or all that we are a nation, not a mere association of states. In Lincoln's phrase, it made certain that what we really are "shall not perish from the earth."

That fact may be one reason why the American people continue to give so much attention to a war that ended 90 years ago.

Human Friends Mourn Roxie's Sad Demise

Roxie is dead.

The gentle five-ton elephant, who had stirred the hearts of hundreds of Holland residents during her brief illness, died at 5:30 p.m. Thursday, with giant tears streaming down her big, kind face.

Her human friends tried in vain to get the 35-year-old Roxie to her feet, but the attack of colic which hit Wednesday won the desperate fight against veterinarians who tried desperately to save her.

Hundreds of people in the area visited Roxie as she lay on her side along US-31 near the Drive-In theater. Her owner, Mrs. Roy Bible, and her newly-won friends coaxed in vain to get the big animal to her feet, but the sadly ill Roxie never got up.

Sympathy for Roxie ran high as stories and pictures of her appeared in Michigan newspapers. Friday morning, a Cadillac drey up to Roxie's empty trailer. A four-year-old girl jumped out of the back seat, a bottle of pills in her hand. "These are from the last time I was sick—for oxie."

Mrs. Bible, grief stricken over Roxie's death Thursday night, said she couldn't afford to hire a bulldozer to dig a huge grave for the 35-year-old elephant and a derrick to lift it into the grave.

Roxie, who was gentle enough to play with children, was to be the first animal installed at the Circus-Farm. A gray-haired woman arrived at the scene early Friday afternoon and said she drove from the other side of Grand Rapids to "see the elephant and find out how she was."

Cars were parked for 500 yards north and south of Roxie's trailer Thursday afternoon. Crowds watched as the animal was dosed with a barrel of water and a pair of dextrose, plus glucose and 16,000 units of penicillin. Dr. Laurence Schmidt of Holland was with her all day.

Toward the end, Roxie was given stimulants. An attempt was made to get her on her feet, using a winch truck and sling, but she died quietly just as she was being lifted from the ground. Her body was taken across the highway Thursday night.

Dr. Schmidt said that death was due to a combination of factors—the long, 3,000 mile trip from Texas, Roxie's home, and changes in feed, water and climate.

WHAT THE MOVIES NEED

In an interview in a national magazine Sam Goldwyn, the "grand old man" of the movies, was asked the question: "What is the biggest problem facing the movie industry today?" And his answer, surprising to some perhaps but based on the wisdom of a wise man, was: "The biggest problem? To get good stories."

That has always been the biggest problem of the movies and it will always be the biggest problem of the industry. Also, it is the biggest problem of the publishers of novels, and will always be their biggest problem. The same for television, for the theatre, for every type of public entertainment.

But all these mediums of entertainment are constantly forgetting this vital point. Alleged "specialists" are always coming up with "stunts" such as the three-dimensional techniques and other things of that nature. All those things may serve as temporary shots in the arm, but they soon lose their novelty.

The one thing that does not lose the interest of the people is the "good stories." Sam Goldwyn speaks of. Year after year, century after century, even millennium after millennium, good stories hold the public.

The methods of telling good stories change. Homer told good stories 3,000 years ago; no one in his senses would tell them today the way he told them. Shakespeare told good stories three and a half centuries ago. Again, no one in his senses would tell them that way today. A century ago Dickens told good stories and the people were glad to listen to him, but his way would not pass today.

But all the supreme entertainers of all time had that one thing in common, that they actually told good stories. Today there are a good many writers, in the movies, in the theatre, in fiction, who are scornful toward the stories that the people demand. They insist on giving all sorts of things, from philosophy to sociology to economics, and forget to tell good stories. Then they blame people for refusing to patronize them, calling them ignorant.

But the people have usually not been ignorant in demanding good stories. The demand for good stories has usually been legitimate; ignorance has usually been the part of those who refused to tell good stories when the very art they practiced promised them.

Sam Goldwyn put his finger on the vital spot in the movies, and in all fiction. Give the people good stories and the movie industry will take on new life.

Joash Repairs the Temple
2 Chronicles 24:1-14
By Henry Geerlings

A church building is evidence that there are people of faith in the community who are willing to give. As one drives through the country he sees churches in every town and in the open country. Wherever they lift their spires to heaven and open their doors they speak silently of the people who want to pray and worship together. In faith, they desired and dreamed. In faith they gave themselves and their money. And so, church buildings become monuments to Christian faith and stewardship.

Sometimes a new church building which expressed the devotion of one generation speaks of the indifference and selfishness of another by its bad repair and decline. Thus, church buildings become tokens of Christian character and life.

The interior of churches often tell the same story. Some poorly kept untidy, dilapidated buildings reflect the second rate Christianity of a Christian community. Or a small, inadequate building may become a silent testimony to a small minded, visionless people.

So it was with the temple in the days of the reign of king Joash. The renovated building and the restored vessels of the Lord's house spoke eloquently of the devotion and unselfish interest of a good king, a devout priest, and a generous, joyous giving people whom they inspired.

The repairing of the temple by king Joash and the high priest Jehoiada was made necessary by the neglect and abuse of the sacred buildings by preceding administrations. Since the death of Jehoiashaphat over a dozen years before, the aggressively pagan influence of Queen Athaliah had operated against pure Hebrew worship and morality. The dilapidated temple, the rubbish and trash which had accumulated, the emptiness and silence of the place of worship testified sadly to the ungodly paganism of queen and people.

In order, therefore, to understand and appreciate the constructive work of the king and the priest, one must see the destructive activities of Athaliah, who was successively wife, mother, and grandmother of kings of Judah.

The king took a direct hand in repairing the temple. He enlisted the cooperation of the people. He worked through leaders who represented the priestly party and the princes, and civil leaders. Instead of sending out Levites to collect money, he called upon the people to bring their money to the temple where a chest was provided for their gifts. It was placed with the temple court at the gate.

The response was prompt and joyous and it came from all the people and all the princes. They brought in their gifts and dropped them in the chest until it was filled. As often as it was filled, it was carried by the king's scribe and the high priest's officer to the king's house where the money was jointly counted before the temple chest was returned to the temple. Thus they did day after day and gathered money in abundance.

This incident represents Joash's finest hour for he is leading his nation in a worthy undertaking by furnishing an inspired leadership. King and priests, princes and people gave of themselves with joy and of their money with generosity.

Once again, the king acting jointly with Jehoiada, took the matter directly in hand. The money was given to such as did the work. Men, especially skilled, were employed to repair and restore the temple. Those included masons, carpenters, and metal workers. Their work amounted to an almost complete renovation of the building. They used timber, hewn stone, iron, and brass. They did not stop until they had completed their task.

When the repair work was finished, it was discovered that some of the money was still unused. Much had been given. None had been wasted. This usually means a surplus. The unused balance was brought to the king and high priest. At their discretion, it was used to provide the holy vessels needed in the temple services. These were gold and silver pieces. There was an immediate use of the newly remodeled temple to hold services of worship and sacrifice as well as the beginning of many years of public worship to Jehovah.

DAR Luncheon Closes Activities for Year

Allegan Studying Five School Sites

ALLEGAN (Special) — Five possible sites for expansion of Allegan junior and senior high school facilities were listed Tuesday night at a meeting of school board members and the Citizens Advisory Committee.

Sites which have been investigated by a committee headed by Mrs. Charles Robson include areas east and west of the athletic field, another west of the new West Ward grade school, another in the Russell addition between Delano and Western Aves., and the present junior-senior high school campus.

The group indicated no preference but did recommend that the site be at least 10 acres. Those attending also agreed that the school system should be divided into six elementary grades, three junior and senior high school classes. Present high school has four grades.

A report on future enrollment by Jack Williams indicated the district could expect to reach its peak in the 1960s with a combined junior-senior enrollment of just over 1,000, which would remain steady for about 13 years. They also heard a report from Donald P. Summerlin, Battle Creek architectural consultant, who emphasized the advantages of one-story schools. A three-year high school with approximately 24 rooms and facilities for 600 students was recommended by the committee.

Allegan Sweeps 11 Firsts to Cop Dual Track Meet

ALLEGAN (Special) — Allegan High's track squad capped 11 firsts out of 13 events, Monday night under the lights at Allegan to stop Holland Christian's thirldads, 84 one sixth to 24 five sixth. The meet under the arcs was held in conjunction with the Hope Kalamazoo match.

The winning Tigers swept five events, including the two relays. Coach Bud Elve's squad suffered a misfortune in the hurdles, both high and low, with the two aces, Bill Huizenga and Chuck Smith both out with injuries. Whether they will be able to compete anymore this season is still a question mark. Elve reports.

Christian's star performer again was Rich Hertel in the dashes. The local junior picked up the Maroons' only two firsts in the meet in the 100 and 220 yard sprints. Gehl was the high point man for the evening for the Tigers with three firsts and a leg on the relay good for 161 points.

Tulips Get Early Start Here With Pleasant April

Holland enjoyed one of the warmest and most pleasant Aprils in several years, with temperatures well above the average and rainfall well below the average.

While residents basked in sunny weather with many getting their summer coats of tan early in the season, Holland's tulips also got an early start. Lack of cool weather and rain is leaving the tulips smaller and the stems shorter than in other years, but most people have been glad to accept the warm weather as a welcome substitute.

April's average temperature was 54.2 degrees or 7.2 degrees above average. The rainfall amounted to only 1.76 inches or 1.25 inches below normal.

For the first time in several years, there was no snow in April. Previously, there was 1.2 inches in 1954, 2.6 inches in 1953, 5.4 inches in 1952 and 1 inch in 1951.

Maximum temperature was 76, compared with 81 in 1954, 68 in 1953, 81 in 1952 and 78 in 1951. Minimum was 31, compared with 16 in 1954, 25 in 1953, 23 in 1952 and 27 in 1951. Average temperature was 54.2 degrees, compared with 50.5 in 1954, 44.1 in 1953, 49.4 in 1952 and 45.6 in 1951.

Average maximum was 66.1, compared with 60.5 in 1954, 52.2 in 1953, 60.6 in 1952 and 54.1 in 1951. Average minimum was 42.2, compared with 40.5 in 1954, 36 in 1953, 38.2 in 1952 and 37.1 in 1951.

Departure of temperature from normal was plus 7.2 degrees, compared with plus 3.5 in 1954, -2.0 in 1953, plus 2.4 in 1952 and -1.4 in 1951.

Man Drowned In Jump From Tug to Scow

Attempts to Revive Father of Four Fail; Post Mortem Slated

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — William E. Coppens, 34, route 2, Rosebush, Mich., father of four children, was drowned early Friday in Grand River when he jumped from a tug and missed a nearby scow.

The accident occurred at 8:30 a.m. and the body was recovered by Coast Guardsmen at 9:10. Grand Haven city police and firemen worked on the body with a resuscitator for about a half-hour to no avail.

The victim had been employed by the Luedtke Engineering Co. of Frankfort, which is rebuilding the piers at Grand Haven.

Coppens was going to leap from the stern of the tug "Karl E. Luedtke" to the scow which was tied to a dock. He missed and fell into about 25 feet of water. A 14-foot Coast Guard boat under direction of Chief Boatswains Mate A. H. Cushing, manned by Lawrence Bowen, BM-4, and Paul Vekas, FN, recovered the body. Conservation Officer Harold Bowditch also stood by with his equipment.

A tragic note was that the man's father, Emil employed by the same company for the past year, was in another boat out closer to Lake Michigan at the time. He was brought back to the dock at about the time efforts to revive his son were abandoned.

Another brother, has been employed by the company for the last 10 years and is presently working in Sturgeon Bay, Wis.

The victim was born May 16, 1920. The body was taken to Van Zantwick Funeral Home.

Pedals 45 Miles On Crime Spree

A 12-year-old runaway boy from Muskegon had a brief crime spree Thursday night which covered 45 miles and the theft of two bikes and the attempted theft of a rowboat in Saugatuck.

He was finally picked up in Saugatuck as he was leaving through the window of a dime store he had entered in search of candy and pop.

Police said the boy stole a bike near his Muskegon home which he rode to Holland and abandoned. He stole a bike here and rode to Saugatuck.

When picked up the boy first denied taking the bikes. The theft of the local bike was traced back to Holland through the license plate.

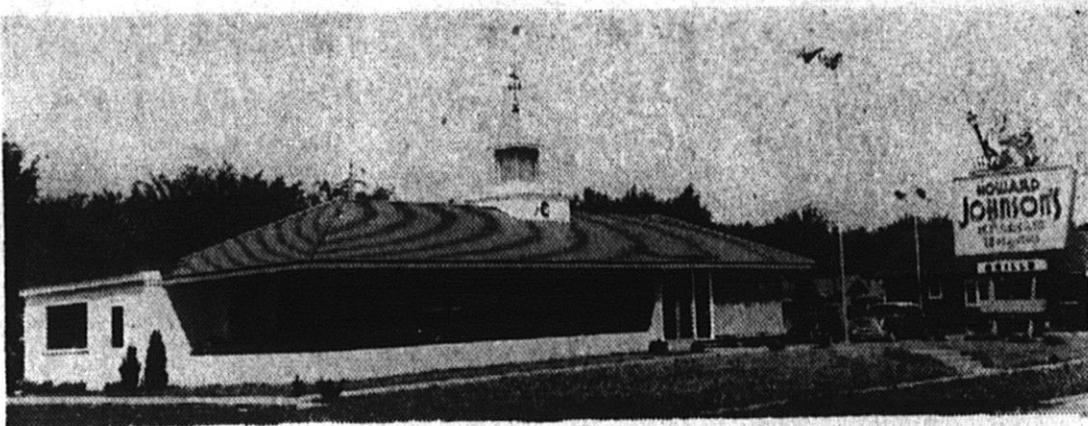

Officers said he also tried to take a rowboat in Saugatuck. When that failed he chopped a hole in the bottom of the boat, partially sinking it.

The boy was brought back to Holland where he was picked up by his parents.

HILLSDALE (Special) Hope College won its first MIAA baseball game of the season, here Friday and made it decisive in doing so. The Dutch, helped by seven pitchers' wildness, trounced Hillsdale College, 15-2.

A total of 17 walks were issued by a parade of Hillsdale hurlers. Hope managed to intersperse eight hits to drive the baserunners home.

Willie Rink, again pitched for Hope, and fanned 14 batters, tying his high for the season. Rink had no trouble with the Dales and pitched a perfect game the first four innings.

Dick Ortuist highlighted the first inning five run rally for Hope. The second baseman moved to eighth in the batting order, got his first hit of the season, driving in two runs. John Adams opened the game with a single and Ron Boeve's sacrifice fly scored Adams after walks pushed him to third. A walk and an error helped bring the other two runs in.

Hope added a single run in the fifth on two walks and a single by Rink. Another lone run was made in the sixth combining a walk with a double by Don York.

The Dutch broke loose for another seven runs in the seventh. Three walks aided by three timely singles by York, Dick De Vree and Rink, plus two errors and a wild pitch gave Hope seven markers.

SIXTH GRADERS AT LINCOLN school taught by Mrs. Elizabeth Protsman have adopted a project to grow their own petunia plants to be planted in tulip lane after the tulips have bloomed in front of the school. Shown caring for the flats are Janice Brower, Bonnie Vande Water, Gene De Jong and George Piers with Mrs. Protsman in the rear.

Petunias in Tulip Lane Is Lincoln School Project

Tulip lanes in full bloom are one of the most beautiful sights in this city, but after the tulips full petunias, marigolds and other the 12-inch strip at the curb adds nothing unless somebody does something about it.

Last year, the people living on tulip lane started doing something about it, encouraged by the Holland Council for Civic Beauty which is headed by Lida Rogers, founder of Tulip Time. They planted colorful petunias, marigolds and other recommended blooms, providing color through much of the season. This year, the council hopes to have even more people participate in this project.

On tulip lane is Lincoln school, but school is not in session during the summer and in order to participate in the lane planting the students got an early start this year.

Rather than collecting a few cents per head to buy flats of stock from the nurseryman, Mrs. Elizabeth Protsman's sixth graders adopted a real project—growing stock from seed in flats in their own school room.

Interest in this project resulted from a trip through Park Supt. Dick Smallegange's city greenhouses where the children saw plant development on all levels, followed by classroom study on the care and feeding of different plants.

To that end, they chose the bright red (Comanche) dwarf hybrid petunia for their project and planted the seed in flats. After the tulips bloom on the block-long lane in front of the school on Columbia Ave., the children will plant the petunia stock.

It's a foregone conclusion that the youngsters will show more concern over that one block of petunias throughout the summer than in any beautiful plantings the park department will do on Holland's boulevards.

Crowd of Kids Enjoys Skating

The crowd roller skated to recorded music on the giant parking area, with several police officers on hand to supervise and assist in many ways. Officers on the scene included Chief Jack Van Hoff, Sgt. Ike De Kraker, Jerald Lubbers, Peter Van Langevelde and Don Oosterbaan.

Officers deemed the first weekly skating session a big success and plan to continue the project weekly. All skaters are invited, each Thursday from 6 to 8 p.m., with the exception of Tulip Time week.

Officers discovered one problem, however. Several children were forced to stop skating when they lost a wheel or nut from their skates, a minor problem if extra parts are handy. So anyone who has spare skate parts is asked to drop them off at the police station.

Teachers Hear GE Executive In BIE Day Talk

Groups Tour Plants In Chamber Sponsored Project for Holland

Chester H. Lang, vice president of General Electric in charge of public relations, turned to the Bible for the theme of a talk before 275 teachers, industrialists and educators who gathered in Durfee Hall Thursday afternoon for Business, Industry and Education day.

Using chapter 12 of the Book of Romans as the basis of his talk, Lang likened the various values related in that chapter to human relations today. He said people today need more spiritual and moral values, and that nothing is so important to the life of the country as free economic values. Freedom of choice, he said, is everything within the limits of moral and spiritual values.

"Important needs today are reduction of federal spending, proper federal tax reduction, other federal changes in the economic vein, especially government holdings relative to industry," he said.

"Industry proposes better education for all," he said. "We must pay our debt to freedom in order to have a classless society, but this cannot be done by edict or force of arms."

Lang was introduced by Charles R. Sligh, past president of the National Association Manufacturers also a past president of Holland Chamber of Commerce. George Heeringa, BIE day chairman, explained the purpose of BIE day. The Durfee hall gathering was in the form of a coffee kletz. The film, "It's Everybody's Business," was shown.

Earlier in the afternoon, the teachers divided into groups and visited some 33 industrial and retail firms. The event was sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, Supt. Walter W. Scott, chairman, and Jack Plewes of the Retail Merchants' committee.

Magnet Added to Hope's Cyclotron

The cyclotron which has been under construction in the basement of Hope College's Science Building for the last year has had its magnet added, Clarence Kleis, chairman of the college Physics Department made known today.

The cyclotron, a project initiated by physics major Jim Van Putten, received backing from one of Hope alumni, Fritz Yonkman, M. D., director of research at CIBA, who added to physics funds already available that the cyclotron might become a reality.

Object of the project is to provide Hope physics majors with experience in using vacuum and electrical equipment of a nature they will be using in graduate school. Upon completion of the machine, which will also give research experience, it is planned to start using it to induce radioactivity in the lighter elements. The cyclotron makes a proton beam of high energy which is directed to hit the element compound target. The proton bombardment induces radioactivity because the target element becomes unstable.

Basic data gathered by such experiments provide information as to nuclear energy levels; this knowledge enables scientists to formulate a picture of what a nucleus is like.

The Hope College cyclotron is a small, pilot model in comparison to many others, Kleis said, but it still provides a means for fundamental nuclear experiments.

14-Hit Offensive Gives Christian Victory Over Kent

Holland Christian's baseball club continued its winning ways, Monday afternoon at Riverview Park by mauling Grand Rapids South Kent Christian, 12-3. It was the third win in five starts for Coach Hero Bratt's Maroons.

The Hollanders continued their hitting ways by pounding out 14 hits, including two triples and two doubles to coast to the easy victory. Bratt used three new boys in the lineup in an effort to give more boys game experience.

Wayne Alofs, senior right hander, went all the way for the locals and turned in a fine performance. He limited the invaders to just six hits and didn't give up an earned run. He walked just three while fanning five batters. Grand Rapids used Kookker, a fast baller, until the sixth when the Maroons shelled him from the mound, and Van Laar came in to relieve.

Three Maroon hitters, Gord Plagemars, Dave Klaver and Bill Vryhof each had three hits. The longest ball hit however, was smacked by Holland's Gary Vander Ark who narrowly missed a home run into the east end of the grandstand, but had to settle for a ground rule double when the ball landed in the bushes in deep center.

Holland didn't waste any time getting started as they pushed two runs across in the first inning on a single by Vryhof, a hit batsman and a double by Jason Alofs. The South Kent club notched a lone marker in their second on a walk, a single and an error.

The Dutchmen continued to pour it on in the second when they combined five hits, good for four runs. After two out, Ed Hoeeze singled as did Vryhof. Both rode home on Vander Ark's double. Plagemars singled and then Klaver smacked a triple to left center good for two more runs.

The Hollanders pushed two more runners across in the fourth on a single, a walk and hits by Plagemars and Klaver. Two Maroon errors, a walk and one base knock accounted for two more South Kent runs in the fifth, making the score 8-3 at this stage.

Four more hits produced another four tallies for the Dutch in their sixth. After Plagemars had singled, Klaver doubled and Alofs walked. Dale Crossen sent one runner home with a blow to center and two other runners scored on an error in left field. The final run came home on a single by Substitute Gene Vander Sluis.

Christian faces a stern test on Thursday when they travel to Hudsonville to meet Unity Christian. Unity already holds a win over Grand Rapids Christian of the City League.

Dog Notes

By Peter Boggs
When You Bathe Dog
Here are a few hints regarding the bathing of dogs:

Don't bathe a puppy that is not at least three months old. Don't bathe a dog which has just come into your possession until he has had time to make himself thoroughly familiar with you and his new home. Don't bathe a female dog during the two months before her puppies are born. Never bathe dogs which are getting well from illness or which have any skin diseases, rheumatism, or colds.

"Dry cleaning" is often as good as any bath. If rightly administered, such "dry cleaning" is harmless. Simply take some corn meal and rub it thoroughly into the dog's coat and then brush it out with a good stiff brush. Do this either out of doors or make the animal stand on newspapers inside. This "dry cleaning" will usually take away any odor from the dog's coat and if one properly will clean him as thoroughly as a soap and water bath.

Healthy Dog May Have Warm Nose

You may have been told, for instance, that a cold and moist nose indicates good health and that a dry and warm nose is sign of illness. One of the healthiest dogs I ever owned had a dry and warm nose throughout his 16 years of vigorous life.

On the other hand, I have felt cold and moist noses on dogs that were dying.

Friends Gather At Junior High To Honor Doctor

Entire Family Adds To Gala Occasion; Receives Many Tributes

More than 500 persons crowded into Junior High School gymnasium Monday night to honor Dr. E. E. Fell, superintendent-emeritus of Holland public schools, on the occasion of renaming the school the E. E. Fell Junior High School.

The occasion marked the last payment on bonds issued back in 1923-24 for erecting the building, at that time one of the most progressive programs on the junior high level in the state.

Dr. Fell, now 80 years old, was surrounded by hundreds of long-time friends for the occasion. Teachers who had taught in Holland schools at some time during his 35 years as superintendent came from miles around. Perhaps coming the farthest were Mr. and Mrs. Leon N. Moody who made the trip from Kansas specifically for the occasion.

Besides that, Dr. and Mrs. Fell were surrounded by their three doctor sons and their wives and grandchildren, including one great grandchild. All the grandchildren were present for the event with the exception of three grandsons in service.

Ceremonies included the unveiling of a portrait and a plaque which will be hung at the entrance of the school. Ceremonies also included the burning of the "bonds" which marked the last payment. Perhaps the most moving tribute was given by Principal Bernice Bishop of Junior High whose talk had overtones of humor but more important the warm regard which hundreds of teachers feel for the veteran educator who retired 10 years ago. Miss Bishop particularly paid tribute to Dr. Fell's uncanny aptitude for choosing good teachers, and the example he led in life as a leader in church and civic groups.

Acclaim from state educators came from Dr. Wynand Wichers, vice president of Western Michigan College at Kalamazoo and former president of Hope College, who in the earlier years was a neighbor of Supt. Fell. Dr. Wichers said Dr. Fell stepped into the breach when Hope Preparatory school was disbanded and offered the public schools for practice teaching for education majors at the college.

In 1935, Hope College was proud to confer an honorary doctor's degree on Holland's superintendent, Dr. Wichers said.

Dr. Lester J. Kuyper, president of the current Board of Education, shared with Dr. Fell the thrill of burning the last vestiges of a debt which Holland has been paying more than 30 years. "Let this flame be the light of knowledge and the warmth of our affection as it reaches from the past and guides us into the future," Dr. Kuyper said.

Bruce Van Leuven, president of Junior High, and James Boyd, chief of police, assisted in unveiling the portrait and plaque. Supt. Walter W. Scott presided and paid tribute to the board of 1923-24 represented on the platform by Fred T. Miles, Henry Geertling, Henry Winter and Gerrit Vander Hill. Two selections were sung by Mrs. Marjorie Brouwer Lumsden, granddaughter of the late James A. Brouwer who served as vice president of the 1923-24 board. Selections were played by the Junior High Orchestra under the direction of Carleton Kelch. The gymnasium was beautifully decorated for the occasion.

Police Handle Unique Problem—Live Grenade

Holland police and Ottawa County deputies Monday night hastily formed a "bomb disposal squad" when they were handed a live hand grenade.

Officers quickly drove to Lake Macatawa, gingerly cradling the Australian fragmentation type grenade, and dumped it in the water. Today they were trying to figure out where the grenade came from. They were called to the Holland Armory early in the evening after someone had driven up and left the grenade with a National Guard officer.

Authorities believe the grenade had been a war souvenir and the owner decided to get rid of it when he discovered it was "live."

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — The body of James Wozorik, 54, of 519 Liberty St., S. W., Grand Rapids, was recovered about 10:30 p.m. Monday after about three hours of dragging in Bruce's Bayou three miles east of Spring Lake.

Wozorik and a companion, James Brakefield, 36, of 561 1/2 Jefferson, S. E., Grand Rapids, had left home about 4 p.m. with a rowboat atop the car to fish for bullheads in the bayou. Brakefield had lowered the motor and was about to start it when Wozorik stood up to put on his jacket. Wozorik apparently lost his balance and both men were thrown into the water.

Brakefield swam about 20 feet to some cattails and then called for help. His yell was heard a block away. Wozorik was in the water about 20 minutes before state police received the call.

The body was recovered by a crew in a sheriff's department boat consisting of Undersheriff Harris Nieuwenhuis, Deputy Robert Vincent and Fireman Robert L. Anderson of the Coast Guard. Wozorik's fishing pole and jacket were found first. The body was recovered close to the edge of the bayou where the water is about six feet deep. The bayou is about a half mile long and 500 feet wide. In some places it is 18 feet deep.

Eight boats assisted in rescue operations. Among those aiding were Sgt. Milton Swingle, Troopers D. L. Finkbeiner, Richard Shepard, Thomas Kruznick and Leland Jones, Conservation Officer Harold Bowditch, the sheriff's department and the Coast Guard.

Dr. W. H. Beernink served as medical examiner. Wozorik is survived by the wife, Alinda E.; a daughter, Barbara; four sisters, Mrs. Agnes Brabant and Mrs. Cecilia Martin of Detroit, Mrs. Ann Wellman of Ferndale and Mrs. Margaret Noland of Mt. Pleasant; three brothers, Joseph of Grand Rapids, Frederick of Mt. Pleasant and Frank of Ionia.

Big Fine, 30 Days For Picking Tulips

Two Indiana young men will have plenty of time to reflect on the beauties of Tulip Time when they spend the next 30 days in county jail on charges of wanton destruction of Holland's most prized flower.

Charles Douglas Bedinger, 20, Hammond, Ind., and Dean Clyde Soyring, 20, Gary, Ind., who were stopped early Monday morning by state police near New Buffalo on a speeding charge, were returned to Holland later in the day to face charges of picking, pulling up and destroying some 625 tulips from local plantings. State police said the back seat of the car was full of tulips, many of them wantonly pulled up with bulbs trailing.

Both young men were meek as they appeared before Municipal Judge Cornelius Vander Meulen Tuesday afternoon. Each was sentenced to pay $104.70 and serve 30 days in the county jail, or an additional 30 days if fine and costs are not paid.

The pair was returned to Holland by Officers Dennis Ende and Burton Borr who waited quite some time in New Buffalo. Officers there would not release the pair until the speeding fines were paid.

Funds Sought for Certain Facilities In New Hospital

Deep Therapy Room, Conveyors and Terrace Are Highly Desirable

Holland Hospital building committee members are looking for funds to insure installation of facilities that will provide top efficiency in the new $1,200,000 addition.

This equipment includes a deep therapy room and equipment, roof terrace for patients, vertical tray conveyor, dumb waiters, pneumatic tube system, and a mail chute. "The hospital should have these things to provide the proper service for people of this area," said Fred Burd, hospital director. "We have gone over our budget with a fine-toothed comb and trimmed it by more than $45,000, but it isn't enough. Unless we get a break on our building costs we may have to do without these things."

The only other alternative is to depend on individual contributions to supply the money.

The deep therapy room would provide X-ray treatment in addition to the X-ray diagnostic service now available. At present, many local patients must travel to Grand Rapids and other centers for X-ray treatment.

The cost of deep therapy facilities, including the equipment and lead-lined room for its operation, is $30,000.

A pneumatic tube system would provide fast exchange of records, drugs, and other supplies, eliminating work and delays. Proposed plans call for 17 stations in the system, linking all major points in the hospital. Estimated cost is $20,000.

Installation of a vertical tray conveyor to move food trays from the kitchen to floors above in a continuous operation would do away with the confusion of hand trucks on elevators and in corridors, Burd said. Because of the faster handling, meals would still be warm when served to patients. This installation will cost $10,000.

One dumb-waiter will be installed to operate between the ground level and floors above, Burd said, but actually two additional installations are needed. These would permit prompt exchange of a variety of supplies, including drug and medicine containers, linens, and special food trays not handled by the vertical conveyor during regular meal hours. One of the two additional dumb-waiters would be reserved for clean materials only. The cost of adding the two is $10,000.

A sun and recreation area on the roof of the new building will be provided if money is available for surfacing and other necessary work. The mail chute is needed from upper floors to a central collection box in the lobby, as is found in practically every modern, efficiently designed office building and hospital.

Desirable as these features are, Burd emphasized, they can be included in the building plans only after all essentials are provided for. Contributions are welcomed, he said, and may be made to the building fund at the hospital, First National or People's State banks, or the city treasurer.

Voters Approve School Addition

Voters in Montello Park school district voted overwhelmingly Monday in favor of a $65,000 bond issue to finance construction of a three-room addition.

The count on proposal No. 1—to increase the millage—was 110 "yes" and 7 "no." The vote on proposal No. 2—to sell the bonds—was 107 "yes" and 10 "no."

The $65,000 bond issue is for 18 years and can be paid by special assessment of 3.36 mills on the state equalized valuation.

It's the second bond issue in recent years for the school. A bond issue five years ago, originally scheduled to run for 18 years, will be paid in two years.

The new addition will include three classrooms, an office, toilet rooms and a store room. The school presently has 229 enrolled and employs eight teachers.

Members of the board are Jom Alderink, moderator, Raymon Sprick, director, and Harold DePree, treasurer. Ties J. Pruis is principal.

Guard Open House Draws Big Crowd

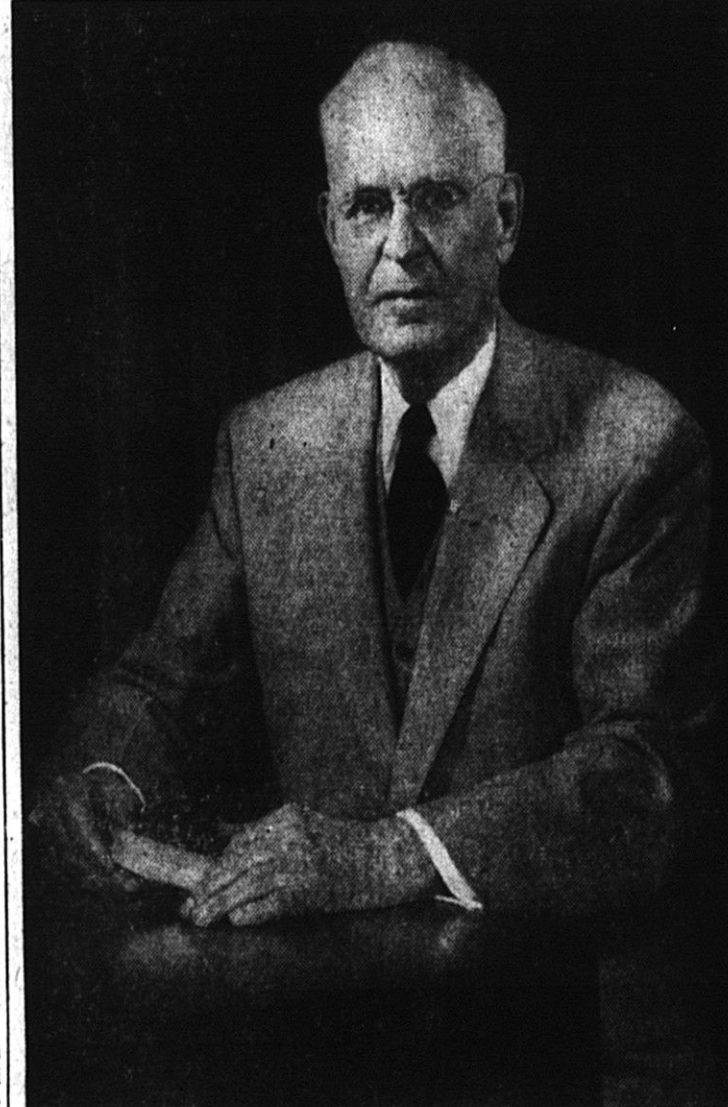

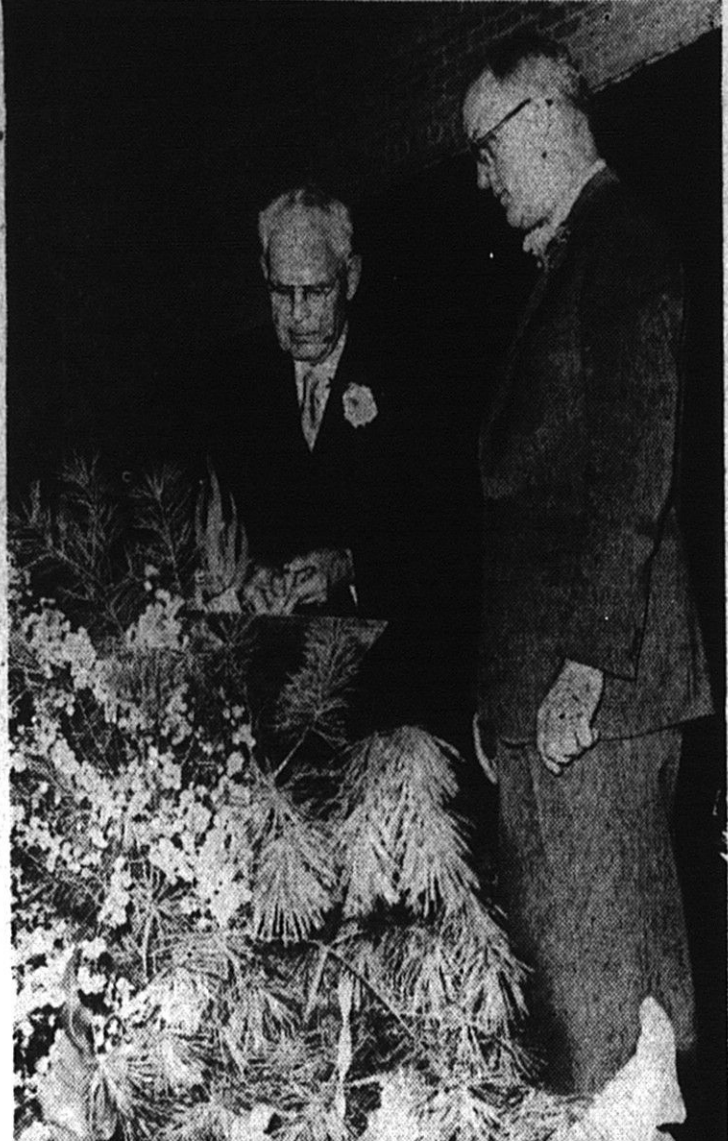

The Holland Armory Monday night echoed to the rattle of machine guns and the roar of the 75 mm recoilless rifle as an estimated 400 persons looked on.

The occasion was an open house sponsored by Company D, Michigan National Guards, to show parents and friends the type of drills the guards go through.

Each gun crew went through an actual demonstration of setting up their weapons and then firing them. Blank ammunition was used in the machine guns, sub-caliber shells in the 75 mm rifle and the mortars fired miniature shells.

The company choir entertained the group with several songs while a crack drill team went through intricate maneuvers.

The evening wound up with coffee and doughnuts served to the guests.

Fish, Game Club Dinner Success

Resumption of the annual Holland Fish and Game club banquet after a layoff of four years was termed a good success today and already talk about next year's dinner has been heard. The event was held Thursday night at the Armory and attracted a capacity 350 Holland area sportsmen.

The dinner, held for the several years, was discontinued four years ago in favor of a summer picnic. The picnic is expected to be held this year on the club's property located between Holland and Zeeland on M-21.

Richard Morenus, popular after-dinner speaker and author of the book "Crazy White Man," entertained the group with stories of his experiences in Canada. The book also deals with the Canadian experiences.

Morenus spent six years in the Ontario "bush" country where he planned to hunt, fish and write books. He purchased an island sight unseen.

While in the "bush" country, Morenus spent 85 percent of his time staying alive, hunting and fishing for food, repairing his log cabin, stocking his woodpile, struggling through blizzards and 67 below zero temperatures in winter.

Morenus returned from the Canadian area in 1946, has married and is living in Fennville.

Hine Vander Huevel, banquet chairman, presided at the meeting. Neal Bergen, club president, reviewed the year's activities and plans for the summer program in a brief talk.

A trumpet trio composed of Jim Vande Vusse, Hessel Wise and Andries Stiekete, accompanied by Paul Lucas provided special music. A total of 28 prizes were awarded club members.
